Should School Districts Experiment With 12-Month School Year?

Delaware should enact legislation allowing school districts to experiment with the 12-month school year, according to the governor's conference on long-range planning for education.

That is one of the recommendations contained in a 38-page report prepared by the conference following a day-long session held August 29 at Buena Vista. The conference was called by Governor Russell W. Peterson and involved top state and professional leaders in state education circles. The conference made recommendations in the area of elementary and secondary education, and in the area of higher education.

The 12-month school year experiment was in the area of elementary and secondary education. Others were:

—The State funding pattern for elementary and secondary education should be modified, allowing some demonstration schools to innovate on an experimental basis to improve staff utilization and productivity.

—Experimental schools should be equipped with a wide variety of educational equipment plus audio visual and programmed instructional materials to show how instruction can be individualized.

—Top priority should be given to improved occupational and vocational education in comprehensive high schools.

—Long-range planning is needed for pre-kindergarten instruction and could start with experimental programs for disadvantaged children and evening courses for adults.

—There is need for a massive increase in college and inservice education opportunities for teachers, particularly in the vocational-technical-occupational field.

—The State, at all educational levels, must start to expand its continuing educational programs for adults.

In higher education, the conference recommended better coordination among institutions of higher education in Delaware.

It discussed the areas of planning, facilities, educational programs, administration and financial support. The conference suggested ways to improve coordination would be through a council of presidents, plans for semi-annual meetings of student affairs officers and extension education directors, and annual meetings of college fiscal planning officers and librarians.

Governor Peterson said he hopes that "the ideas" developed by the leading figures in Delaware education will be a first step in improving our long-range planning and innovation for the future."

Lake Forest High School Nears Date For Final Inspection

The new Lake Forest High School building, near Killen's Pond will soon be ready for final inspection, it was revealed Monday night at a meeting of the Board of Education of the Lake Forest School District in the band-room of the W. T. Chipman Junior School here. The high school project cost roughly, $2 1/2 million.

After hearing Virgil Jarrell, chairman of the building commission, the board decided the inspection should begin at 10 a. m., Tuesday, with the following day as an alternative. Inspection would be made by representatives of the State Department of Public Instruction; the architect, Dollar, Bonner & Funk; the contractor, J. Roland Dashiell & Sons, and members of the school board and administrative personnel.

In other business, the board acted as follows: After witnessing a demonstration of a burglary alarm by Ben Markowitz, agreed to solicit bids for a system for Lake Forest High School and W. T. Chipman Junior School, and Lake Forest South B Elementary School. Supt. Albert W. Adams said vandals had been in the local schools recently.

Agreed to put Donald Wamsley on same local salary schedule as other custodians, giving him an increase about $400 per year. It was explained "many times his hours are long and varied." He is maintenance man for the district.

Considered automatic switch for the outside lighting system at Lake Forest High School after it was said some lights had been left on in daytime.

Rejected thought of acquiring building of Leon Porter, on U.S. 13, as headquarters for administration of Lake Forest School District. Supt. Adams believed alterations would cost too much. Meanwhile, the district continues interested in new quarters.

Considered low bid of B. Carroll & Son, Dover, on tractor, snow blade, broom and mower. The board agreed to accept the Carroll bid if the firm provides safety chains for mower at no extra cost. Carroll had recommended also a torque amplifier for the tractor at a cost of $265. Board approved it. Cost of everything would be $6631.

Agreed to hold graduation exercises of Lake Forest High School seniors at 5 p. m., Sun. June 7, on the school grounds.

Tabled motion to have junior prom held elsewhere until class members are consulted. Supt. Adams said most schools are holding their proms off the school grounds and he believed the students would like it better.

In regards to the sartorial and grooming habits of the pupils, Adams explained all court decisions have favored the school administrators.

Robert Holloway, the board chairman, thought "we should look in on the bus problem here." There had been complaints the pupils were on the buses too long.

The Heart Is A Workhorse

—Quite a work horse, your heart.

It beats an average of 70 times a minute. That adds up to 36 million beats a year and about two billion in 50 years. Each time the heart makes a muscle it pushes out about half a cup of blood. So in a half-century of relentless labor, the heart muscle pumps 300,000 tons — with a total expenditure of energy large enough to hoist a battleship out of the water.

Research studies here are seeking to uncover the unknown factors in the chemical drive chain that makes all this work possible.

The "fuel" to drive the great heart engine is called ATP — shorthand for adenosine triphosphate. Scientists have come a long way in recent years toward deciphering the chemical pathways by which the energy contained in crude foodstuffs (fats, proteins, sugars) are transformed by the cells into this useable power-packed chemical.

"We pretty much know what the components of the ATP-making machinery are,"

Preschool Clothing Preferences

In clothes, the generation gap starts early. Even preschool children often like different clothes than their mothers, according to studies made by psychologists.

Mothers indicate they first look for durability, price, comfort and ease of laundering. Obviously, except for comfort, these are not important to the child. Many factors which are important to the child may be overlooked by the mother, points out Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing and textiles specialist at the University of Delaware.

What does a child value in clothing? The preschool child wants to be the center of attention. Since he has learned that adults will remark about new clothing, he likes any new garment.

Even though your preschooler likes new garments, he also likes the security of old ones, especially when he's put into a new situation where he feels insecure. Clothes which the child associates with pleasant experiences may tend to become favorites. On the other hand, he may dislike an article of clothing because it has unpleasant associations.

He wants comfortable clothing which does not restrict his active life. He is sensitive to irritating fabrics and to clothing that is too hot or not warm enough. He prefers bright colors, especially red, and he likes soft textures.

Decorations are important, especially tiny ones, says Miss Reed. He like to find a small animal or object in a printed fabric. Children are alert in observing tiny details not only in their own clothing but in that of others. Often a tiny decorative detail will make a child choose one garment over another.

The preschool child likes something which, for him at least, appears to be like his mother's or father's clothing, or the hero of the moment. Remember Davy Crockett's hat?

The preschool child is not interested in becomingness or appropriateness, a large variety of clothes or dressing like other children. And he is not the least concerned with cleanliness or neatness. In fact, if a child is overly concerned with cleanliness, this is not a normal reaction and this child may have difficulty adjusting to the group.

The preschool child is learning to dress himself. Studies show that learning independence in one area fosters independence in other areas. Clothing that is easy to put on and take off helps develop this independence.

Del. 4-H's In Horse Judging Contest

A team of four Delaware 4-H's will take part in the 2nd regional 4-H horse judging contest. The contest is part of the Pennsylvania Livestock Expositions in Harrisburg, November 8.

Team members include Laurie Duncan, Wilmington; Dana Gooden, Wyoming; Terri Hamilton, Wilmington, and Ann Wilson, Wilmington. This is the first year Delaware 4-H's have entered the competition; last year teams from 11 states took part.

Dr. C. Melvin Reintour, extension equine specialist at the University of Delaware, will act as team coach. The contest, the only official event of its kind in the United States, was developed by the Northeast Regional Extension Horse Committee of the American Society of Animal Science. It will be held in Harrisburg's 13-acre Farm Show Building.

Judging will include six halter classes of four horses each and two performance classes. Members will be required to give oral reasons on three halterclasses and one performance class, according to Reintour.

The halter class will be limited to Arabian, Morgan, Quarter Horse, Thoroughbred and Welsh Pony breeds. Performance classes will be western pleasure and hunter type.

Special awards will be presented by state breed associations and major saddlery companies.

Do You Like Rock Rythms?

Do you like rock rhythms? Is country music, folk songs or Swing your passion? Perhaps opera or that completely American concept, musical comedy delights you most. Then come to hear about ballet.

The Milford Adult Education Association with the cooperation of the Milford School Board has scheduled a demonstration-lecture on the evolution and techniques of ballet. On Saturday, October 25 at 8 p.m. at the Milford Junior High School, Mrs. Marion Tracy, life-long dancer, world traveler, and owner of the Marion Tracy Dance Studio in Dover, will lecture on "Ballet Through the Ages — to the Contemporary Dance." Admission is free and open to the public.

Mrs. Tracy's performance will include a guide through the life of ballet, a dance form that originated in the 14th century at the court of Louis X of France, and is still in its youth. The evening's guest artist will also discuss the future of ballet, opportunities in this field today and tomorrow, ballet in the contemporary theater, and its effect on the recording industry.

"People's concept of ballet is becoming more modern," Miss Tracy believes, and to demonstrate this, she has included in her program a performance by a select group of her students.

This informative and entertaining event should appeal to those who appreciate the grace and beauty of any variety of dance, those who may wonder what it means to become a dancer and how to approach dance instruction, the historiophile, and the inveterate theater goer.

Mrs. Tracy is an authority in the field of the dance. She received her first lesson at the age of four-and-a-half in New York City, and has been dancing and teaching ever since. Traveling with her serviceman husband, she has worked in Europe, Hawaii and Calcutta, India where she studied dances native to those countries. Wherever she has lived, she has been active in community theater productions. The terpsichorean's husband has now retired to civilian life and they are permanently settled in Dover.

Mrs. Tracy feels that there should be no generation gap in music, and that ballet has successfully bridged that chasm for centuries. This most universal of all dance forms has transcended the boundaries of age groups, national borders, and the barriers of more than half a millennium of time.

This event is another offering of the Continuing Arts Festival sponsored by the Milford Adult Education Association. The series is provided for the cultural enrichment of the community and in gratitude for public support of the adult evening school program.

Store Pesticides For Winter Season

As insect, weed and disease problems drop of this fall, many farm and home owners will be left with a variety of unused pesticides, says John S. McDaniel, extension agricultural chemicals specialist at the University of Delaware. How many pesticides did you use this year? And more important, where are they now? Are they "stored" in aerosols, bags, cans, bottles, plastic containers or drums just sitting in unlocked garage or shed.

Some may not have been used for several years. Many may be old, unlabelled or improperly stored.

Careless pesticide storage is an invitation to disaster, reminds McDaniel — disaster to plants and to people. Of the hundreds of people killed by pesticides each year, over half are curious children.

To prevent pesticide accidents, burn or bury all pesticide containers. If you burn them, be careful to avoid toxic smoke; if you bury containers, make sure they're 18 inches deep and away from all water sources.

Many accidents result from re-using so-called "empty" pesticide containers. So, dispose of all cans or bottles as soon as they are empty.

For storage, make sure that all labels are securely fastened with glue or tape. Store pesticides only in their original containers and check to see that all container caps are tight. Fumes can be deadly and spilled pesticides are as bad.

Store in a cool, dry area; locked cabinets, storage rooms or sheds are ideal. Keep all pesticides off the ground to keep containers from corroding or deteriorating. In most instances, store herbicides and growth regulators in separate areas says McDaniel. This will help prevent contamination of other stored chemicals. Place "Pesticide Storage" signs on doors to warn others of the contents.

Finally, never store pesticides near food, feed or other chemicals, he adds. And make sure that your storage area is locked and strictly off limits to children.

These suggestions are for your own good. Following them may save dollars, inconvenience — possibly a life.

Poems from Paradise Pastures By W. Cliff Miller

WILD OATS

I remembered him in his boyhood days, That never a law he'd keep; And many another's mother thought, How his poor old dad must weep.

As wayward a lad as was ever born So the neighbors could only name; But trouble and crime along his path, To end in disgrace and same.

His dad would smile in a kindly way, And thought of his future, too; For he felt that under his waywardness, His heart was good and true.

"He can't go very far wrong," he'd say, Though his actions seem all agog; For I saw him feeding some birds today, And he shared his bread with his dog."

Time proved his dad had spoken true, To manhood he has grown; It seemed that only good had come, From the boyhood mischief sown.

So whenever I see a wayward boy, Who treats his hound dog well; And shares his bread with little birds, In the end will turn out well.

Days Of Our Years

Ten Years Ago Twenty Years Ago

FRI., OCT. 23, 1959

Thosa E. Clendening, Rexall druggist in Harrington, was today awarded a citation from Vice President Richard M. Nixon on behalf of the U.S. Department of Commerce. The award was partly because the Rexall Company participated in the 1959 International Trade Fair in Poznan, Poland.

Harry Anderson Porter, 82, died Tuesday at his home at Burrsville. He owned and operated a grocery store 36 years before retiring 155 years ago.

The Harrington Special School District and the Kent County Levy Court have joined hands to collect school and county taxes, with suits scheduled to begin next week. Taxpayers to be affected are those who are in arrears a year or more. Mrs. Julia Elizabeth Pitlick, 80, wife of John A. Pitlick, Felton, died Saturday in Jarvis Nursing Home, Felton. She is also survived by a son, John J. Pitlick, Harrington.

The 30-day fall harness meet of the Kent & Sussex Racing Association is scheduled to end this week.

Sunday marks the celebration of the 180th anniversary of St. Johnstown Methodist Church near Greenwood. The church came into being from meetings held at the home of William Laws under the inspired preaching of Francis Asbury in 1779.

With the approach of Halloween, thoughts of the children turn to trick or treat. Once again Asbury and Trinity Methodist Churches and all the other churches in the community will be sponsoring the UNICEF program, a trick or treat for all the children of the world who are unable to do it for themselves.

Arthur Mintz has returned from Wilmington General Hospital.

FELTON DELAWARE'S LEWIS KILLEN is presented with cash drawing of $50.00 by popular WBOC (Salisbury, Md.) disc jockey, Johnny Williams at Harrington Raceway on the first night of cash prizes at the Kent County Harness track. The drawings are held nightly an "early bird" following the first contest and a second following the last race-Harrington Raceway enters its last three weeks of harness thrills with post time-rain or shine-at 7:30 P. M.

Cash Drawings At Harrington Raceway

An early bird cash drawing and late cash drawing, along with the chance to win a 1970 Volkswagen plus several other innovations are adding thrills to harness racing action at Harrington Raceway.

As if the thunder of pacers and trotters making that big stretch drive were not enough, Harrington Raceway management has caught the harness-buff's fancy with a drawing each night for $50 following the first race and a second drawing after the last race.

On Nov. 5 anyone who has dropped a ticket into the huge "autobarrel" will be eligible to win a sparkling new 1970 Volkswagen, courtesy of J. C. Smith Motors of Dover.

Ladies Night—Every Thursday is ladies night at the Kent County oval. The gals are admitted without charge to either grandstand or clubhouse. In the dining room, catered by the Harry M. Stevens Company, a smorgasbord is served each Thursday and a fashion show by Emanuel's of Dover, is presented. For the women there will be several gift drawings in the clubhouse that night.

Every Wednesday night is open house at Harrington. All gates are open wide and there is no charge to clubhouse or grandstand.

Harness racing, rain or shine, now through November 8th. Post time is 7:30 p.m.

THE HEART

says Dr. Frank M. Huennekens research grantee of the American Heart Association, who heads the department of biochemistry at the Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation. "What's missing is the blueprint telling us just how these components mesh and interact with each other to spin out ATP."

For the last few years, Dr. Huennekens has been putting together some of the pieces of this incredibly complex chemical jig-saw puzzle.

Fuller understanding of this basic apparatus may lead to new measures against heart failure, a condition in which the heart's pumping ability is impaired. Some medical experts think that an irregularity in the energy-producing machinery of the heart muscles cells may be involved in heart failure.

Dr. Huennekens works with beef hearts to extract — via a series of painstaking chemical manipulations — heart cell components call mitochondria. About 50 to 200 of these tiny rod-like structures are found in every heart cell, and act as its power plants. In and around the mitochondria the raw materials derived from food are broken down chemically into intermediate products. These, in turn, move to the membrane (or encasing envelope) of the mitochondria where the final stage of energy production takes place and, in higher animals such as man, 95 percent of all ATP is formed.

The final stage is called the "respiratory chain." "Respiratory" refers to the fact that it requires oxygen. Most of the oxygen we breathe, in fact, enters the body cells from the bloodstream and moves to the mitochondria to take part in ATP production. Without oxygen very little fuel would be generated. The event is known as a "chain" because a number of substances must work in sequence to carry out ATP formation. As many as ten components may take part in the assembly line.

Dr. Huennekens says that the biggest obstacle to spelling out the precise chemical linkage in the chain is isolating in a pure state the individual components of the ATP-making machine. One reason for the difficulty is that the mitochondria are rich in fats — from which it is ultra-tough to pull out the active members of the bucket brigade. The danger, says Dr. Huennekens, is that once the chain is broken to get at single components there is no certainty these isolated fragments still retain their original structure and function.

Nonetheless, the quest goes on — and just recently hit more pay dirt when the Scripps researcher and his colleagues were able to build a chemical model of an iron complex they think is one of the key links in the chain.

Francis J. Webb, Asst.
Kent County beef tour has been set for November 11. Starting at 10:30 a.m. we will tour Wye Plantation which is a large purebred black angus enterprise. The plantation has prize bulls and cows from which they raise their purebred bulls which are sold.
The second stop will be at Isaac and John Thomas' farm located near Marydel. Their interest is feeding out Holstein steers and heifers for beef that are offsprings from their dairy herd. These steers and heifers are not desirable for herd additions or replacements.
Our third stop will be at Lyndon Caulk's farm which is a Hereford cow and calf operation. He has about 100 cows that are kept on pasture and raises the calf crop to weaning age, they are sold.
The tour group will then return to Dover for dinner and a short meeting on raising beef. There will be a group assembly at the Kent County Extension Office (old post office building), Dover at 9 a.m. which will proceed to the first stop, so grab your hat and come along.

Hybrid wheat can now be produced on a field scale basis.

There has been much discussion on what would be the best method of distributing and selling hybrid wheat seed, and more important what method of marketing would provide the farmer with the optimum profit potential. It is fact that wheat is sowed at a higher rate and produces a lower per acre yield than either corn or sorghum. Knowing this, selling F1 hybrid seed is out of the question.

The seed companies say the farmer can buy parent seed from the breeder and produce his own hybrids, just as he now grows his own varietal seed. This cannot be done for corn and sorghum because of certain difficulties, but it can work for wheat because of its growing habits. With this system it appears that a farmer could expect a return on his investment in wheat hybrids to be similar to his return on corn and sorghum.

It appears that the farmer's return would be infinitely greater if he produced his own hybrid seed. This system seems to be acceptable to the breeder, so it appears to be the route it will take.

Peonies should be divided now. These plants grow from underground stems called tubers which store food that is produced by the leaves. These tubers produce buds from which new growth forms annually. After several years of growth, peonies become crowded and the size of the blooms are reduced.
Carefully dig round and under crowded peony plants, being especially cautious not to break the taproot. After washing these clumps of peonies, strip off the leaves. The tubers should be cut apart in sections that contain from 3 to 6 buds. Use a sterilized knife and be sure to leave plenty of roots on each section. The cuts should be dusted with a fungicide such as Maneb to prevent the spread and entrance of diseases.
Replant the freshly cut tubers immediately into new areas where they will be about 3 feet apart. Be sure not to plant the tubers more than about 2 inches beneath the soil surface. The new site should be well drained and contain mixed inorganic matter to a depth of 18 inches.

If you would like a free copy of the USDA bulletin Growing Peonies please call or write the extension office. (736-1448, P.O. Box 340, Dover, Del. 19901)

It Seams To Me

By Janet Reed

Does your winter coat need a new lining? If the coat's still in good condition, it will pay you to reline it. It's much easier than you may think.

You can use the old lining for a pattern, but before you remove it, use tailors chalk to mark points where they are joined on coat facing and on lining. You're marking notches or joining points to be used when you insert the new lining. Do this across seams of lining also.

You can take the lining out in a hurry by cutting it out very close to the line of stitching. Start at the front facing and cut on the wrong side of the fabric, holding the lining in the left hand and pulling the fabric taut.

Cut close enough to the seam so that the old seam allowance can be pulled off easily. Leave the old stitching in the coat as a guide for the new seam.

If the coat has an interlining which you're going to use again, rip the stitching instead of cutting the lining.

Cut all the remaining lining seams on the stitching instead of ripping them apart. If you're accurate, you'll have a pattern for the new lining. Press all the old lining pieces carefully.

Use only half of the lining for a pattern—whichever half seems more accurate. When you place these lining pieces on your new fabric, remember you've cut off all seam allowances so you'll have to add them as you cut.

It's a good idea to allow one inch seam allowance rather than the usual 5/8 of an inch, since you may have lost a bit of the fabric as you cut out the lining. Allow for the hems, also. Notice the grain direction of the old lining pieces and follow this in cutting new parts.

Assemble the lining parts using the chalk marks as guides for joining. Insert the lining in the coat using the machine method. If the facings were tacked to the coat, you may find it easier to put the lining in by hand.

You can estimate yardage for the new lining by finding a similar style pattern in the pattern books and buying the amount suggested. For a straight style coat you can usually estimate you will need twice the lining length measured at the longest length of lining and allowing for hem, then adding the sleeve length of lining and allowing for hem, then adding the sleeve length plus hem.

The satisfaction of putting a good garment back in service is well worth the effort involved.

U. of D. Gets Poultry Research Grant

The Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Delaware has been awarded a two-year, $12,000 contract by the U.S.D.A. to study the control of Marek's disease in chickens.

Dr. William C. Krauss, associate professor of animal science at the University, will be in charge of the research project, according to Dr. William J. Benton, chairman of the department of animal science and agricultural biochemistry.

Marek's disease is a highly contagious ailment that is responsible for condemnation losses to the poultry industry estimated at $200 million each year. The disease, caused by a virus, kills or cripples young growing broilers. Broilers with lesions cannot be used for human consumption even though the disease is not transmitted to man.

Certain drugs and hormones affecting the immune mechanism may alter the course of the disease so that broilers will reach the processing age with less mortality and a lower rate of condemnation, Krauss says.

His research will involve, first of all, finding out the sequence of events in Marek's disease from the time the virus enters the chicken until it causes crippling or death. "Once this is known, the effect of drugs and hormones on the cycle can be readily determined and the weak link in the chain recognized," Krauss explains.

Veterans' News

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Q - A veteran's former wife received his G.I. life insurance payment after he died while his widow and children received nothing. How can this happen?
A - The veteran evidently named his first wife as the beneficiary, perhaps neglecting to change the designation when he remarried. The law requires VA to pay insurance benefits to the beneficiary named by the insured.

Responsibility for naming the correct beneficiary rests with the policyholder.

Q - What can I do to hurry along my educational subsistence checks?
A - Lose no time in submitting the certificate of eligibility you received from the VA to the proper schoolofficial for completion. Make certain he returns it to VA as soon as possible. Upon receipt of this certificate, the VA starts your allowance checks.

Q - My husband has become permanently and totally disabled as the result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident. He was in the service from 1959 to 1961. Is he eligible for a nonservice connected pension from the Veterans Administration?
A - No. To be eligible for a nonservice connected disability, a veteran must have service during a period of "war." Service after Jan. 31, 1955, and prior to Aug. 5, 1964, is called peacetime - not "war" - service.

Q - I plan an extensive vacation which will involve considerable commercial flying. If I should accidentally be killed during one of these flights, would my G.I. insurance be affected?
A - If you mean will your G.I. insurance be paid to your beneficiary, the answer is yes. There is no "flight" restriction clause in G.I. insurance policies.

Chris Sets Record; LFHS Streak Is 25

Chris Wetherhold, Lake Forest's cross-country captain, won his 35th straight dual meet victory, at Milford on Thursday afternoon Oct. 16. The junior hasn't lost a regular-season test since 1966.

The Spartan traversed Milford's 2 1/2 mile layout in a record 12:45. He owns course records at Milford, Seaford, Lake Forest, Dover and Cape Henlopen, set this year, and at Milton, Millsboro, Chestertown etc., recorded in previous campaigns.

Coach Harold McDonald's Spartan's now have a 9-0 log for 1969 after beating Milford by 15-40 without No. 6 runner, Billy Stubbs. Low score wins in cross-country and 15 points is the lowest possible score. How it was achieved illustrates once more the tremendous contributions being made to this team by former Felton High athletes, Sam Bostick and Jerry Scott.

After veterans, Wetherhold, Brad Morris and Danny Hitchens "did their thing," the victory was assured. But Bostick led Morris much of the way and trailed the hard-working No. 2 Spartan by only five seconds at the tape. Sam was only 42 seconds behind Wetherhold, his closest approach to the top yet.

Big Jerry Scott wore spiked shoes and was slowed considerably at times, by stretches of blacktop roads. He trailed Milford's top performer, Jim Bailey, by a big margin when the last half mile, all dirt, was reached. He gained steadily but Bailey appeared to have an unsurmountable lead with 200 yards to go. Scott was warned by the screams of other Spartan runners and fans that Buccaneers C. Parker, Elliott and Lewes were trying to catch him. Scott put on an incredible sprint, that left Bailey five yards from the tape. This thrilling, courageous feat gave his team their first 15 point score of 1969.

Brad Morris and Danny Hitchens only other Spartans to contend with, yet turned in top notch efforts.

Jim Blades' W. T. Chipman harriers ran against a stop watch and recorded fine times for seventh and eighth graders. Adamo had 16:19 and Ron Harmon 17:26. This trio ran last year, also. Robin Hevalow's second start saw him move into the No. 4 spot with 18:25. Robin should be a fine varsity runner, when he becomes a freshman in 1971.

Other youngsters to do well were: Terry Jarrell, Kevin Wooters, Tommy Lyons, Kevin Lyons, Jack Shulties and Elwood Killen.

Killen and Hevalow attended Felton school in 1968, as did varsity performers, Sam Bostick, Jerry Scott, Rick Hamm and Gary Anthony. Their success should encourage other Felton area boys to try cross-country in 1970.

Ron Woods and Howard Parker rode over to Milford with this writer and tried the 2.5 miles, as we held the watch. Woods did a fine 18:30.

Spartans Extend Henlopen-Leading Smyrna

Smyrna High's football Eagles invaded Harrington last Friday night, possibly expecting an easy one-sided victory. After all hadn't Smyrna won all three league tilts and lost only to mighty Middletown? And wasn't Lake Forest winless in four games?

The script was not followed as Smyrna eked out a hard-fought, come-from-behind, 12-6 victory. The Eagles were probably glad to get out of town with their league intact. Spartan quarterback, Mike Davis, threw a short, scoring pass to Dan Demora to take a 6-0, first period lead. Smyrna's Bubby Taylor made a brilliant, broken-field run of 60 yards to tie the score. Bob Powell tallied on a 2-yard burst for Smyrna in the second period, which ended the scoring.

Lake Forest Hockey News

The Spartan Hockey team ventured to Delmar Thursday, Oct. 16 and came home with a 1-0 and 5-0 scores. The varsity goal was scored by center, Diane Smith. The J.V. followed to win with goals scored by Debbie Steele and Peggy Tibbett with two apiece and Joan Mason with one.

Tuesday, Oct. 21, the hockey teams traveled to Laurel. This being the last away game for the seniors, and the last away game for the rest of the teams, was another win game for both. The varsity went away with a 4-1 victory and the J.V. with a 5-0 victory. Tallies in the varsity game were 3 goals for Beth Graham and 1 goal for Bea White. The J.V. beat Laurel with goals being scored by Joan Mason with 3 and Debbie Steel and Peggy Tibbett each with 1.

This Thursday is the last game for the '69-'70 Spartan school season. You're support for this game will be greatly appreciated.

Chipman Gridders Are Having Tough Luck

W. T. Chipman school's young football team has played two games and lost both.

After a 40-0 opening loss at Selbyville, they dropped a 14-0 verdict to Caesar Rodney.

Although unable to dent the scoreboard as yet, the Spartans looked much better in the second outing and showed an occasional spark on offense.

These youngsters are coached by Jim Hawpe and Gary Rogers. As might be expected, they have a lot to learn, but some of these kids will be future varsity stars. In any sport, the earlier the start, the better the chances for stardom in the future. This is especially true in the case of football, a complicated game that requires a few years to learn.

for more than a quarter of a century. The team that wins each Thanksgiving keeps the trophy a year.

Laurel leads the South Division with a record of three victories and one defeat. Milford is 3-2. It appears Lake Forest's best chances to enter the win column will be against Dover Air and Delmar.

From here it looks like the Spartans could win the final four contests or lose them all depending on how that crazy-shaped pigskin bounces.

Jayvee Gridders Beat Smyrna, 12-0

Lake Forest's junior varsity football team is the only one of three teams in the school district, to win in football this autumn.

The young Spartans are coached by Jim Hogsten and Elliott Workman. After defeating Georgetown in the season's opener, the locals beat Smyrna 12-0, at Smyrna.

Quarterback Lawrence "Don't call me Larry" Sorden ran over one touchdown and passed to left end Jim Dill for the other.

Lake Forest has a fine offensive line featuring tackles Frank "Skipper" O'Neal and Robin Callahan, Tommy May at center, Pete Fisher, and Darius Burton at the guards. In the backfield, it's Sorden at quarterback, track star George Turner at wingback, freshman Bobby Smith at fullback and Neal Travis, halfback.

The defensive unit had Russell Kessler at one end with Bob Smith and Bruce Burton splitting the other. O'Neal and Callahan were at the tackles, with May and D. Burton at the guards. Linebackers Turner and Don Parker and deep-backer Sorden, Travis and Dill complete the roster.

Rick Hoffman Makes Dover's Cross Country Varsity

Rick Hoffman, a Dover high freshman, grew up in Harrington and moved to Dover in September. Rick ran track and cross-country here. We notified Grover Johnson, the Dover harrier coach, about Rick. Hoffman reported just two weeks ago and is now running at the No. 5 spot on the Dover High Senator varsity team. This means he will earn his varsity D this autumn.

Rick finished only half second behind the Senator's No. 4 man, Paul Collins, in his last outing and may get the No. 4 rating soon.

Dover was beaten by Lake Forest twice this year before Rick joined the squad. Hoffman will get the chance to run against his former teammates in the Lake Forest invitational and the Henlopen Conference championship.

Both will be contested at Killen's Pond State Park, near the Lake Forest High School. Hoffman's 14:39.5 clocking for 2.5 miles on Dover's course indicates he is improving rapidly.

Local Beagles In The Money

Last week, Vera Line Circle, beagle owned by Ben Hughes and Bob Holloway, won first place in a class of 69 at the Maryland Beagle Club. Leon Porter's beagle, Porter's Chipper, was fourth.

Another Hughes and Holloway beagle, Ben-Bob's Mushy, was first at Salem County, New Jersey last week.

Harrington Bowling League Leah S. Wheeler

Cloyd Bushey set the pace for People's Restaurant Tuesday night as they swamped Wally's Garage for a four game win, to remain two games up on top of the heap. Bushey rolled a fine 202 game and amassed a great 580 series, with Alan Young contributing a fine 531 series, and Norman Clough added a fine above average performance to put the crimp in the garage boys efforts to upset the leaders. Norman Woodall tried to balance the defensive effort for Wally's by rolling a nice above average performance. With just three more weeks to go before the first third is over, it appears that People's is well on their way to becoming the champs.

Taylor and Messick poured on the coal as they continue to apply pressure to the top team as they easily won a four game verdict from Penn Central. Heading the attack for the farm boys was Bobby Collins, who rolled a grand 583 series, including a great 225 game, and George Collins, who rolled a grand 581 series, including a grand 210 game. The Collins' boys fine efforts was the spark to lead the rest of the team to an above average performance for the night which, when combined found them on top of the league in the team series category with a grand 2666 series. Penn Central, on their fourth game loss, dropped into eighth place in the standings.

Gerardi Bros. and Jerrell Fuel bowled a two-two stalemate in Tuesday night's clash. The fuel boys got a real fine assist from Dallas Hayman as he rolled a nice 204 game, amassing a real fine 570 series. Martin Jarrell also aided in the defensive effort for the fuelers with a real fine 531 series, and Alvin Jarrell rolled a grand 224 game and a fine total series to keep things on even terms. Ken Layton rolled a superb 600 series with games of 215 and 212 included to provide a big boost in the scoring effort for Gerardi Bros. Hank Wheeler also contributed a fine night's effort by rolling a great 205 game and a very grand 578 series; with the furniture boys also getting a fine night's effort from the other team members, including a good 208 game from Steve Johnson. Gerardi Bros., once again, are in position to move up on top, but must not drop any games in the final weeks to accomplish this fact. Gerardi Bros. also rolled a good team series of 2652 for the night, but more important was the 1009 single team game rolled that enabled them to take over the top spot in that category.

The Spoilers are right up in the thick of things, holding down the fourth spot, with the same won and loss record as Gerardi Bros. Butler's Fuel was their latest victim, losing three of four games although Wright tried to even the score with good night's performances. Leonard Outten was the big gun for the Spoilers with a good 524 series and a great 209 game, with Billy Morris, Richard Wilson and Carl Wright bowling above their averages to help keep the Spoilers on their winning streak. Butler's Fuel, who once was in a good position to advance has now fallen into seventh place and only a miracle could enable them to move to the top spot with only three short weeks remaining in this third.
