Public Service Commission Supports Bill

The Delaware Public Service Commission today announced they are supporting a bill introduced in Congress by the U.S. Department of Transportation. The bill, if passed, would give that Department broad regulatory authority over all major areas of railroad safety which it does not have at present and current safety laws were enacted from 50 to 75 years ago.

William D. Guthrie, Chairman of the Delaware Public Service Commission, stated the bill encourages cooperation between the Federal and State Governments and in addition it provides for the Secretary to obtain inspection services from the states and would authorize Federal funds to perform such functions.

Chairman Guthrie said the PSC has limited jurisdiction and the current unsafe track condition at Fairwinds could have been avoided if this legislation had been in effect. He stated that "since 1963, the accident rate has increased 66 percent to a monthly average of 700 train accidents in the United States. During this same period 45 communities had to be evacuated because of the possibility of explosions or fire resulting from train derailments. We intend to take every precaution that this does not happen in Delaware."

Commander Carlton Smith, of Smyrna, said a monument will be erected in Dover for the deceased veterans of Kent County and a committee had been formed for the project.

He added he would like to see all posts promote oratorical contests in the high schools. Local contests should be held by the end of February or early March. The districts contests should be held by the first week in March, he continued, with state contests at the end of March. Date for the national contest is tentative, Smith concluded.

Swine Producers Will Hold Fall Meeting

One of Indiana's leading livestock producers will address the annual meeting of the Delaware Swine Producers Association, according to Richard Fowler, extension livestock specialist at the University of Delaware. The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. November 18 at the Georgetown Substation.

Featured speaker for the event is Orville R. Chamberlain of Urbana who will discuss managing hog and beef operations.

Chamberlain runs a 920-acre grain and livestock farm producing 1,300 head of fat cattle and nearly 4,500 market hogs annually. The farm has continually been above the state average in crop yields and livestock efficiency. And it is the only farm in Indiana that has been host to three state farm management tours and two state swine management tours.

Charles E. Garrad, extension agent at Wabash County, Indiana, will also speak at the fall meeting, says Fowler. Garrad will present a color slide talk on the various swine operations he has toured.

City Lines Up on Pumps For Sewer System

The City of Harrington is making some progress on pumps for its sanitary-sewer system, it was revealed Monday night at a special meeting of the City Council.

The gathering had been formulated the previous Monday night, at a regular meeting of the Council, when it moved representatives of the construction company, the City's engineering firm, and the pump supply company attend this week's session.

tioned two sludge pumps had been installed at the new sewage-disposal plant. Furthermore, William Kuhn, of Kuhn Construction Company, Hockessin, told the council he had ordered four sewerage pumps from the pump supply company, Seahorse Equipment Company, of Paoli, Pa. When he asked the Council if it wanted a copy of the purchase order, the answer was in the affirmative.

Two pumps would go on North Street and two in an alley between Harrington Avenue and Second Avenue not far from the city limits.

The representative of the pump company did not appear but Dudley Willis, of Edward H. Richardson Associates, the City's engineers, was on hand.

In other business relating to the sewage-disposal plant, the Council agreed to install 2-inch plastic water main from Callis-Thompson, Inc., on the east side of U.S. 13, north to Porter Street and then to the disposal plant. Mayor Burton E. Satterfield said it was planned to use City help to install the main.

It was added the main could be easily replaced with a larger one when conditions warranted it and the City had more money.

Continuing, the Council agreed to have letters written to Baynard Smith and Chauncey Messick as to conditions by which the City would clean a ditch, abutted by their properties, between the lanes of U.S. 13 south of Delaware 14.

Heard City Manager Kathryn Derrickson says City had to submit plans to the state for fluoridation in six months.

Heard Willis said the State Planning Department was asking for a survey of boundaries in municipalities. This was deemed necessary, for one reason, for use in the granting of municipal aid funds based on miles of city-maintained streets and alleys.

Requested city manager to talk with owner of service-station lot, at Delaware Avenue and Clark Street, which had become a loitering place at night. A complaint from Kline Moore, operating a nearby dairy store, stated objectionable language was used. The city manager was also instructed to inform police of the matter.

Lake Forest Principal Likes School's Prospects

James Schoch, a native Pennsylvanian, has been appointed a principal at Lake Forest High School.

He attended Sykesville High School, received a bachelor's degree from Indiana State (in Pennsylvania), and a master's degree from the University of Delaware. He has taken courses also at three other universities.

Before becoming a principal, Schoch taught English and history. He has also been a guidance counselor in junior and senior high schools.

He has taught in Delaware and Maryland. Before coming to Lake Forest, he was the assistant principal at Newark High School. He also had two years in the Army, which included serving in the Korean War.

Schoch had a few observations to offer comparing the new school with a larger one. The first thing he said was the students here were friendlier. In a smaller school, it is easier to get to know the students personally than in a larger school where one knows only a limited number.

He also thinks the school is a nice size and should become first rate one. "Good teachers and excellent facilities should make Lake Forest High School one of the best in the state," he said.

He is married and has four children. He and his wife make their home just south of Dover. His children attend the Caesar Rodney Schools.

Car - Truck Crash Kills Boy, 5

The collision of a car and a pickup truck at an intersection at Greenwood Tuesday, killed a 5-year-old boy and injured his mother.

State police say George Wilcox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Wilcox, of near Greenwood, died from massive head injuries and was pronounced dead on arrival at the Nanticoke Memorial Hospital, Seaford, at 12:25 p.m.

He was riding in the car operated by his mother, Mrs. Ruth Wilcox, 35, who had multiple cuts and bruises. She was admitted to the Nanticoke hospital and was reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday.

Police said the operator of the pickup truck, H. Elwood Hancock, 54, of Dagsboro, was treated at the hospital for minor injuries and released.

Mrs. Wilcox was driving east on Delaware 16 and Hancock was northbound on U.S. 13 when the vehicles collided at the intersection. The truck was owned by Animal Health Sales of Selbyville.

Police said Hancock's truck pushed the car into the curb. This caused the truck to rise

A.F.S. to Hold Meeting Monday, Nov. 17

The library of the new Lake Forest High School will be the meeting place of the Harrington American Field Service Chapter meeting on Monday evening, Nov. 17. Tom Peck, President of the chapter announced the meeting this week. The time will be 7:30.

Present for the meeting will be Gunnar Dale, the AFS exchange student and his American family, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brown.

Each meeting of the chapter is open to the public, both to interested citizens of the area in becoming affiliated with the chapter, and to spread the word of the program of AFS. There are no dues or obligations in becoming associated with the chapter. Each year there is a fund raising project to assure the continuation of the exchange student for the next year.

Mr. Peck especially extends the invitation to parents and friends in the Felton area who are associated with the Lake Forest School which Gunnar is attending as a senior this year. With the approach of Thanksgiving he will begin to receive invitations to speak to various organizations in the area. It is hoped that clubs and societies in Felton will feel free to have him be their guest also.

Plan to attend the meeting—Monday evening, 7:30, Lake Forest High School Library.

Toys Are More Than Fun

Toys are fun—any three-year-old can tell you that. What he can't tell you is that toys play an important part in helping him grow up.

Good toys help him get exercise, be imaginative, create, compete, cooperate—and yes, have fun.

Sound complicated and expensive? Picking good toys doesn't have to be annually unbalance your budget, according to Miss Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware.

Simple toys, suited to your individual child, are still the best. "The latest over-advertised and probably over-priced fad on the toy market usually has little to recommend it."

Don't forget your child's age and interests when you shop. A toy that's too old for him is usually ignored or misused. A five-year-old is not ready for a complicated electric train or hot rod track—no matter how bad Dad wants it. On the other hand, a toy designed for someone younger won't keep his attention long either.

Of course, all play materials must be safe. And that ties in with age, too, says Miss

Handle and Attendance Off at Harness Meet

Harrington Raceway concluded its 56-night harness racing meeting Saturday night with both average attendance and handle down from its 62-night meeting last year.

Despite a banner closing session, during which 3,341 fans bet $148,734, Harrington fell off by 4.5 per cent in attendance and by 8.1 per cent in mutuel handle.

The total Harrington attendance was 122,163, for an average of 2,181. Last season the attendance was 141,670 for 62 nights, an average of 2,283.

The mutuel handle amounted to $4,842,072 this season for an average of $86,465. Last fall, the handle was $5,835,045 for an average of $94,113.

"We anticipated a good season before the meet began, but unfortunately we didn't have one," Harrington Director of Racing Pete Shaw commented. "I attribute our slump to too much racing in the area and the tight money situation."

The state reaped $295,062.15 from Harrington's mutuel handle. It also got $24,385.18 in breakage and $8,698.00 in admission tax. The state's take from admissions was almost triple what it was in 1968.

Harrington the first harness racing track in the Delaware Valley, re-distributed $277,467.50 back in purses for 531 races. Including stake money offered by the Delaware Standardbred Development Fund, Harrington purses amounted to $362,687.50.

Louis Floyd won the driver's average title. He drove at a .437 clip and collected $100 from the track. John Childress was the runner-up at .378 and collected $50. Driver Jim Wilson won the most dashes—27—and collected $100.

New Century Club News

Members of the Harrington Century Club met at the club house on Nov. 11th and journeyed to Georgetown for a visit to the Del. Technical and Community College. It seemed very fitting on Veteran's Day to visit our institution of learning and see our youth at study.

The day was arranged by James D. Moore, chairman and committee, Mrs. Harry Adkins, Mrs. Clarence Billings, Mrs. Frank Quillen and Mrs. William T. Smith.

After lunching at the Sussex Country Club, we arrived at the college. Found ample parking space, lovely landscaping and a lovely building. The interior was equally impressive. Mr. McTeel of the counseling department met us and took us on a tour of the college. We noted excellent lighting and fine equipment and facilities for study and learning. Everything seemed to be for the comfort and the benefit of the students.

The college was opened in Sept., 1967 and has made rapid strides in growth and development. The college is open to all Delaware residents over 18 years of age. It provides a comprehensive program beyond high school level. Its purpose is to help students develop their potential in semi-professional and occupational areas. It operates for 12 months with both day and evening classes on a two year basis. One may transfer to another college for a baccalaureate degree. Employment is found for students on graduation. Expenses are small. It is very worthwhile to investigate it if one is interested in higher education. The college seems planned to suit the students and meet their needs. We feel very proud of it.

Our next meeting on Nov. 25 will be on law and order and crime prevention. It is an open meeting and all are invited to attend. We think it will be a very valuable meeting so please come. Mrs. Harry John Dill is chairman for the program.

Recutting Corn Silage Does not Pay

Recutting corn silage to make it more digestible for livestock does not pay, according to Dr. W. R. Hessel-tine, extension dairy specialist at the University of Delaware.

Increased use of corn silage in dairy and beef cattle operations has resulted in substantial reductions in production costs, he says. But if cattle are to achieve maximum production from the crop, it has to be mature when harvested.

Hessel-tine points out, however, that when mature corn is cut for silage, more kernels pass through the animals undigested. "Some dairymen cut silage earlier to help prevent this loss. Others have purchased equipment to recut the silage after it has been harvested."

Recent field tests in Virginia and New York show that corn silage should be harvested at maturity but recutting to minimize kernel loss is not practical.

In Virginia, researchers found that recutting corn silage lowered both consumption of the silage and the fat test of the milk. "Recutting did decrease the amount of dry matter excreted as whole kernels, but this did not affect the total dry matter digestibility of the silage," says Hessel-tine.

At Cornell University, workers cut silage at four different stages of maturity, recutting the two more mature harvestings with an attachment on the silage blower. The silage were then fed to steers and Holstein cows as the only source of roughage.

The Cornell researchers note that animals consume more actual dry matter from later cut silages. Recutting takes a lot of power and does not increase the amount of dry matter consumed. It does lower the number of whole kernels passing through the animals, but recutting does not improve the total energy value of the silage.

Veterans' News

A national study of the veterans who entered college during the first three years of the current GI Bill indicates that while almost half enrolled as freshmen, about one in five enrolled for a master's or PH.D. degree.

Leon Fields, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Wilmington, said that more than half of the GI college students indicated their fields of study to VA.

Of this group 31 percent chose business and commerce, 14.5 percent education, and 11 percent engineering.

Next in order are the life sciences (agriculture, biological, medical, and health), under nine percent; technical courses, less than eight percent; and social sciences, under eight percent.

Business is also popular among veterans who trained in schools below the college level. Electrical and electronic training is another popular subject among this group.

In apprentice and other-on-the-job training under the GI Bill, structural courses are the most popular.

These additional statistics on veteran trainees were revealed in the report:

26.5 was the median age at the time of entering training. 70 percent were in their 20's.

8.5 percent were over 35. 28 percent had completed at least one year of college. 39 percent had one or more dependents.

The report was based on the three-year period ending June 30, 1969.

Mr. Fields said that there are 25 educational units approved for VA training in Delaware. Of these 13 are below college level and 12 are institutions of higher learning.

There are 56 approved job training establishments in the state. Mr. Fields invited veterans in or out of school to contact the VA Regional Office if they have any questions about veterans benefits.

Veteran students were urged to inform the VA promptly if they have changes in their courses of study, addresses or numbers of dependents.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

— ATTITUDE —

Work Off Your Anger

If you find yourself using anger as a general pattern of behavior, remember that anger will usually leave you feeling foolish and sorry in the end. If you feel like lashing out at someone, try holding off until tomorrow. Meanwhile, pitch into some physical activity or go for a long walk.

Working anger out of your system will leave you much better prepared to handle your problems intelligently.

Try to remember the plight of the honey bee on the clover blossom when a cow ate the clover. The bee became angry and was about to sting the cow's tongue, but decided it could cause more damage if it waited until it got down into the stomach; but it found the stomach so nice and warm it fell asleep, and when it woke up the cow was gone.

Even a fish wouldn't get into trouble if he kept his mouth shut.

TOYS

Morris. "Actually a toy that probably be safe if it comes from a reputable toy manufacturer."

For toddlers or infants, be sure toys have round, smooth edges. Toys should be unbreakable with normal use—which demands a great deal of a toy, considering what's 'normal use' for an active youngster this age.

Check electric toys for an older child before you buy. They should be Underwriters Laboratory approved, with all the safeguards and good construction you expect in an adult's appliance. Try them out before you buy; make sure they actually work; don't take a chance on disappointment Christmas morning.

In general, babies like sturdy, colorful rattles, squeeze toys and small, washable stuffed animals. As he learns to sit up and handle things, your baby will enjoy toys to bang on, toys he can handle and stack.

Toddlers prefer action toys—toys they can ride, good sized blocks for building or just piling, and puzzles with large pieces. This age child has a vivid imagination and usually has fun with playthings that imitate grownup activities.

For preschoolers, stay away from complicated toys with numerous small, hard-to-handle parts, cautions Miss Morris. Even an adult might have trouble buttoning clothes for some of the soldier or teenage dolls. Building sets with thousands of small parts are best for older children; they're frustrating for young ones to play with and just as frustrating for Mom to pick up.

Schoolage boys and girls usually begin to have different play-time interests. Boys like outdoor team sports, indoor games that take skill, model building, and—as they get older—toys that help them with hobbies and science equipment.

Girls usually continue their interest in housekeeping—pretend housekeeping, at least—and enjoy dolls that are large and sturdy enough to actually play with. Of course, girls, too, have hobbies and are interested in science.

This may be the age of automation, but completely automated toys are seldom popular for long with children, reports Miss Morris. Who wants to push a button or wind a key for very long? Toys that leave little for a child to do himself are soon discarded; the next thing you know, he's playing with the box. And, that's an expensive way to get an empty box to play with.

It takes a little extra time and trouble to choose toys wisely. Isn't it worth it on Christmas morning? And all the next year?

February 2, 1941. The office is engineered with all sorts of alternate circuit paths. If during a call one path through the office is busy, an alternate route is automatically selected. The possibility that a call would go through the office over the same path to the same phone is in the thousands.

But to do this, each relay contact must be perfectly clean. A speck of dust, a hair, moisture, or the slightest corrosion on the silver-plated electrical contact can cause trouble.

"Each day our men are busy looking for trouble before it starts. They use high-powered vacuum cleaners to remove the dust and other foreign matter and special abrasive tools to remove corrosion on the relay contacts," he explained.

Automatic alarm systems are always keeping their watchful electro-mechanical eye on the circuits to warn the workmen of potential circuit problems.

If a call runs into trouble, a "gong" sounds alerting central office repairmen of trouble. In many cases the office's "fail-safe" equipment automatically selects an alternate path to complete the call while the repairman clears the trouble.

He explained that the dial tone and ringing signals come from machines that manufacture the sounds to tell the caller if the dial equipment is ready to take the call and the ringing sound tells the customer the called telephone is ringing.

Should any of these machines experience trouble or need repairs a "twin" is always ready to automatically supply dial tone, busy signals or ringing sounds. And emergency diesel engines are also available to provide the power to run the telephones.

"That's the reason your phone works even if there's a power outage," he said.

Ron, who lives at 1115 Oak Drive in Dover and has three children, started with the telephone company as a cable splicer's helper in 1956. He became a central office framer in 1961 a switchman in 1962 and became Harrington's wire chief earlier this year.

A native of Wilmington, Ron attended Caesar Rodney High School, and served in the Air Force in Alaska from 1957-61. He is a member and treasurer of the Camden-Wyoming Lions Club.

After the impact, the car swung around several times and hit a parked car before coming to rest against a pole. The boy was thrown from the car and dragged by it until it hit the pole, which caused him to be thrown free of the vehicle.

FENCE TALK

By Francis J. Webb, Asst.

NOW IS THE TIME to plant your Spring flowering bulbs. I will be referring to these plants as all growing from bulbs although some are actually corms or tubers.

Bulb gardening is a lazy gardening because nature does most of the work. These bulbs, that must be planted in the fall, will blossom into a panorama of color in your garden the next spring.

Landscaping with bulbs will offer the gardener exceptional opportunities in creating an interesting and colorful garden. The wide range of varieties, shapes and colors of Dutch bulbs make them adaptable to many planting arrangements. Some are suited to grow as naturalized flowers among trees and shrubs, or in natural woodland settings. Many can be planted in clumps or in solid masses of one color. Others are very attractive when set in formal beds of rows or geometric patterns. Through careful selection of bulbs, their classes and varieties, it is possible to have ten weeks of continuous bloom in a spring flowering garden.

Whether bulbs bloom in early or late spring, they must be planted in the fall. Bulbs need time to develop good root growth before the ground freezes, but the bulbs can be planted any time before frost makes the ground too hard to dig. Tulips, daffodils, and Hyacinths should be planted six inches deep and six inches apart.

Little Bulbs, such as crocus, scilla, and chionodoxa, should be planted as soon as possible after they are purchased. These small bulbs should be planted three inches apart and three inches deep.

Bulbs can be planted individually, by digging separate holes with a trowel for each bulb or a whole area may be spaded out and all the bulbs set in and then covered with soil. Whether or not bulbs are planted in separate holes or all at once, they should be placed firmly so no air pockets form under them. After covering the bulbs with soil, soak the ground thoroughly to help stimulate good root growth.

YOUR SUMMER FLOWERING bulbs, corms, and tubers should be removed from the soil at this time and stored inside to prevent freezing injury. Most summer flowers which grow from a structure beneath the soil such as bulbs or corms will not over winter in this area. The inside storing of these roots, corms or tubers may be difficult unless you have a cool, somewhat damp location in your home. The drying out of these bulbs is the main problem in most storage places and this will cause poor growth from the next year. A temperature of 40 to 50 degrees Fahrenheit is preferred for best results.

Peat moss, sawdust, or vermiculite are very good mediums to store roots of dahlia, the rhizomes of canna, and the tubers of tuberous rooted begonia. Water loss and shriveling may be reduced by spraying the underground structures with an anti-desiccant spray. But before spraying, be sure the surface is completely dry. You can be sure of this by exposing the tubers and such at least one week in a well ventilated place. Plastic bags or plastic lined boxes can also be used to store plant structures, but you must be sure there are a few ventilation holes in the plastic to allow some air movement.

You can store gladiolus corms quite easily as long as the temperature does not become so warm as to cause growth to start. Corms may also be stored in plastic bags with small ventilation holes to prevent excessive drying out. For free bulletins on Spring & Summer flowering bulbs, call or write - County Extension office, P.O. Box 340, Dover, Dela. 19901, or telephone - 736-1448.

PREPARE YOUR TREES AND SHRUBS for Winter. Most evergreens and flowering bushes, such as azaleas, camellias, and rhododendrons should have a 2 or 3 inch layer of mulch under them to hold moisture and reduce ground freezing. Any type of leaf mold, peat moss, or pine bark mulch will be satisfactory for this. Also keep in mind that evergreens may need periodic watering throughout the winter. If the temperature gets above 40 degrees Fahrenheit these plants may start growth and will need water, so apply water to these plants when you have not had sufficient rainfall and when the ground is not frozen.

Some shrubs and trees may require protection from cold winds during the winter, especially plants on the north side of your home. This can be accomplished by placing stakes in the ground around the plant and placing burlap, plastic, or some other material around the plant. This will keep the cold wind from desecrating your plants and also prevent excessive blowing and whipping of the branches.

This brings up the point of newly planted trees around the home. Be sure that you have these young trees staked and wired to prevent the wind from whipping the branches. You will have better results in getting the plants to root and start growth in the spring.

It Seems To Me

Have you noticed the beautiful ribbons in fabric stores? This year the supply is more varied and beautiful than ever—handsome enough to design a dress around them.

Wider ribbons make an elegant belt on the right dress; back them with grosgrain ribbon for extra stiffness and fasten with a handsome buckle. Or, if you don't want a buckle to break the design line, use hooks and eyes or velcro instead.

Several vari-colored narrow ribbons can be knotted together or braided for a tie belt. Or use two widths of ribbon the wider one of grosgrain, and the narrower one of embroidered or fancy woven ribbon. Stitch the narrow one to the wider ribbon and back both with belting. Loop the ends into a tailored bow which will cover a velcro fastener.

If you don't have the figure for an eye-catching belt, apply the trim to the dress on vertical lines—for instance, down a center front opening.

If the pattern calls for applying ribbon to curved areas, do a little pre-planing. Grosgrain ribbon with a sawtooth edge can be curved and shaped with your steam iron. Ribbons with a straight woven edge must be applied to a straight edge. However, they can be mitered at corners such as collar points. If you miter corners, try to match the design. It's not always possible, but it will give a more pleasing effect if you can.

Use your imagination and design other uses for handsome trims. A blouse to be worn with an open bolero jacket might have bands of ribbon applied at center front. This gives the appearance of a blouse of elegant ribbon at much less cost.

Bits or ribbon fastened with a jeweled pin add an interesting accent to a plain dress. Small pieces of handsome ribbon often can be bought as remnants at reduced prices.

Scarves with ribbon trim are being shown in spring fashions. The scarf is made of the dress fabric and bands of ribbon are sewn to it. You can even make your ribbon fabric for vests or sleeveless bolero jackets, or bands of trimming. Use several harmonizing colors of the same width and weave them together.

Back the "ribbon fabric" with an underlining material, stitching both together at all edges. Line the inside of the jacket to cover all seams. Finish the jacket edges with ribbon, applying as a facing to the front of the jacket, or bind the edges with ribbon.

Impala's hidden persuaders:

① 350-cu.-in. engine
A new more powerful standard 250-hp V8 makes the 1970 Impala move with all the more assurance. On good ol' regular gas.

② Anti-theft column lock
A locking system is built right into the steering column. When you take your key with you, you lock not only your ignition but your steering wheel as well.

③ Aluminized exhaust system
It simply means that your original muffler, tailpipe and exhaust are going to last longer than you'd probably expect them to. Fair enough?

④ Side guard beams
They look like highway guard rails, and they're built into both sides of the car for extra protection in case of impact. Not too many cars have them.

⑤ Full Coil suspension
Huge coil springs at all four wheels are four big reasons why a Chevrolet Impala rides smoother and quieter than a low-priced car has any right to.

⑥ Flush and dry
We build the car so that rain and wash water can run down through the inside of the rocker panels, then out. Air follows to do the drying.

⑦ Inner fenders
Up inside every fender is another fender to protect against slush and mud and help keep your Impala looking young.

Important To Farm Success

The ability to manage is more important in determining a farmer's success than the size of his farm, the quality of his land or his particular enterprise. That's the opinion of W.T. McAllister, extension farm management specialist at the University of Delaware.

He feels the real difference between the successful and marginal businessman-farmer or storekeeper—is his ability to manage all available resources.

One of the farmer's big problems, as McAllister sees it, is that he is constantly under so much pressure to get the job done that he doesn't take time to organize his work and follow through on details. An area that is often overlooked until it is too late is tax management.

Typically a farmer rushes through the plow-plant-cultivate and harvest period with little thought of taxes. Receipts are stuffed in a drawer for a cold January day when the filing date is just around the corner and there is little chance to make any farm management decisions.

But there are decisions that can be made now that can affect a farmer's '69 tax return.

McAllister lists the following items that decrease taxable income and require management decisions before December 31:

Pay up operating accounts and unpaid bills;

Buy and pay for some of next year's supplies; (be sure tax saving is greater than cost of advance purchased);

Buy things that last longer than one year but are not capital items—paint, small tools, building and machine repairs;

Delay selling cash items until after January 1st, but compare the tax saving with possible price declines. These include crops, livestock, timber and capital items with large capital gains.

Farmers can save tax dollars, according to the specialist, by paying their children reasonable wages for the farm work they do. This has to be an "arms length" transfer of payment in cash or in kind between parents and children.

The investment credit farmers are allowed when they buy machinery can also be a tax saver. McAllister says each dollar of tax credit is a dollar of tax farmer's don't have to pay.

Investment credit is applicable to equipment having a useful life of at least four years. It amounts to seven percent of the investment if the life of the investment is eight years or more; 2/3 of this amount if life is six years, 1/3 if four years and is deducted from the total income tax due on the return.

Investment credit can be a source of trouble. This happens, according to McAllister, when equipment on which the farmer claimed investment credit in a prior year is not kept for the length of time used in computing the credit.

An example would be a tractor purchased in 1965 for $50,000. The farmer expected to keep the tractor for six years and claimed two-thirds of the investment credit allowed. This would be 2/3 of (5,000 x .07) or $235. However, the tractor was not large enough, so in 1969, the farmer traded it for a larger one investing an additional $4,500. The problem is doubly complicated having owned the tractor for four years, the farmer qualifies for only one-third of the investment credit, not the two-thirds claimed. Therefore, one-half of the investment credit, or $117.50, must be paid back as tax on the 1969 report.

The second problem is to determine the basis for figuring investment credit on the new tractor. This is done by adding the undepreciated value of the machine traded to the amount of additional money invested. Assume the remaining value of the original tractor was $1,667. The basis for determining investment credit on the new tractor would be $4,500 plus $1,667 or $6,167.

If the farmer determined that the life of this new tractor would be six years, he could take two-thirds of the full seven percent investment credit allowance. He reports this investment credit of $287 on form 3468 and transfers the credit to line 13 of form 1040.

1969 was a pretty good year for most farmers. But some may have had small incomes and it may be to their advantage to boost '69 incomes. Here are ways:

Sell livestock and crops. Postpone bill payment past January 1st;

Boost miscellaneous income by selling wood, working off the farm or doing custom work.

McAllister gives these cautions to farmers who do attempt end-of-the-year tax management:

It is never good business to report anything but the truth on an income tax return.

An adjustment to minimize taxes can result in an unprofitable decision for the business.

Attempts to minimize taxes in the current year may mean larger taxes in future years.

Personal deductions and exemptions not claimed each year are automatically lost.

Do-It Yourself Repair

Appliances are a can't-do-without convenience until they break down. Then the long hunt for a repairman begins. And, you realize the inexpensive neighborhood handyman who could fix everything while you wait is as extinct as the passenger pigeon.

Most repairs would rather not come to your house to do small or simple repair jobs, states Miss Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware. "They're just too busy, so the going rate for 'housecalls' is expensive."

Manufacturers are trying to solve some of the common repair problems by developing easily removable units that can be replaced with another complete unit. In this kind of repair job, you don't need much skill; you can do the job with just a screwdriver.

But, if you don't have an appliance that's quite this to fix, don't despair, says Miss Morris. You can learn to make many simple repairs even if you're not a mechanical genius. Instructions are given on the box or display card of many replacement parts.

Start with easy, simple jobs such as fixing a leaky faucet or replacing a defective electric wall switch, suggests Miss Morris. "Don't try to fix complicated electric equipment such as color TV set; you may just make the problem worse."

Use the proper tools for the job, she adds. Try to keep a basic set of tools—screwdrivers, pliers, small crescent wrench and hammer—in the kitchen, separate from your husband's set.

Of course, be sure you turn off the electricity or disconnect the appliance before you work on it; or turn off the water if you're fixing a faucet. It's an elementary precaution but an easy one to forget.

Read the instructions carefully—and follow them, cautions Miss Morris. "Handyman" instruction books are available; but they're written for the nonexpert. Until you are an expert, never use a shortcut. Remember, what you're fixing usually affects something else, too.

If you decide the job needs an expert repairman because the appliance won't work at all, be sure you first check the plug. Repairmen are still being called simply because the appliance is unplugged. You'll be embarrassed if this is the only trouble. But, you'll feel even worse when his bill comes.

Learn to do a few simple repair jobs, advises Miss Morris. "You'll stretch your patience and the family budget."

Protect Your Home Against Silverfish

Homeowners should make sure their houses aren't infested with silverfish, warns Frank Boys, extension entomologist at the University of Delaware.

A common household insect, silverfish can cause damage by feeding on foods and other materials high in protein, sugar or starch. Included in their diets are cereals, books, wallpaper, rayon, linen, starch in clothing and cellulose materials. But they will not damage woolens, points out Boys.

Since silverfish are often found around bathroom fixtures, people believe these insects have a preference for the bathroom. Actually, they may be found throughout the house. Silverfish live and develop in damp, cool places, especially basements but can also be found in bookcases, around closet shelves, behind baseboards and behind window or door frames.

The silvery colored pest develops slowly under usual house conditions and have few young. They are hardy insects and can survive without food for several months.

To control silverfish, homeowners should use a commercial spray, aerosol or dust containing chlordane, malathion, diazinon or lindane. The sprays or dusts should be applied around baseboards, closets, cracks in doors and other openings where the pests may travel, says Boys.

If silverfish are still present two or three weeks following treatment, another thorough application is suggested.

Blue Jays Nip Spartans, 28-29, End Streak at 28

From the heights to the depths in one week. From the state champions on Nov. 4 to losers to an inferior team on Nov. 11. This is the story of the Lake Forest cross-country team, which saw its bid for an unbeaten campaign, go down the drain in the last regular meet of the season. 12-1 in a great record but not when 13-0 should have been achieved, considering the opposition.

What happened? Did the Spartans ease up in their training since their was no school for the four days prior to the meet? Probably.

Were they somewhat complacent, since they've swept all opposition before them in 13 overall starts? Again, probably.

Finally, were the Spartans psychologically "down" after being "up" for two tough ones in a row, the Lake Forest invitational and the Delaware State championship meets? Most likely of all.

This is the toughest part of a coach's job. Keeping the boys raring to go simply cannot be done every time. Nor should the boys be criticized either. They are a dedicated bunch with hundreds of miles of running under their belts, but they are human beings, too, and prove to rise and fall like the rest of us mortals. Like the tally says "It's the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat"

Back in 1967, Joe Nielson and his Seaford Blue Jays came to test Harrington High's Lions, coached by Harold McDonald. The Lions had a winning streak of some 33 straight including a victory at Seaford earlier that year.

But Roy Morris, No. 2 Lion, was home sick. Bob Smith had a broken collarbone and Roger Jarrell had a sore ankle. These boys had run well at Seaford, Unbeaten freshman, Chris Wetherhold, won the race, but Seaford won the meet by a scant one or two points.

History repeated Monday afternoon. Lake Forest had beaten Seaford, at Seaford, with two Spartans ill. This time at full strength and sporting a 28 meet win streak the Spartans had no excuses as they were nipped 28-29 by Nielson's Blue Jays.

Normally, at the end of the season, practically every cross country runner is running faster than he has all season. New personal course marks are set by most.

But Monday afternoon the Spartans were flat as so many pancakes. Of eleven locals not one came within 23 seconds of his best. Each boy had an assignment to carry out. Of the top seven only Chris Wetherhold carried out his assignment, which was to win. He finished his third straight undefeated dual-meet season, by taking his 39th straight regular season victory.

Times turned in by the other six Spartans in October indicate that the tasks given them were well within their capabilities, but all six failed. If any one of the six had come through, victory would have been ours. Four lads had only to beat Seaford's freshman, Phil Shuler, as all four had done to the 14-year-old on his home course. It wasn't necessary for the entire quartet to beat the Blue Jays, just any one of the four.

One final thought. These are young boys. There is not a senior on the team. They should rise to new heights in 1970.

Perhaps we have been a little harsh on them, but regular readers of these pages know we give them top treatment when they deserve it, and after all, they are champions and as such have to take the bad with the good.

Taylor & Messick, First Third Bowling Champs

By Leah S. Wheeler
After coming through Tuesday night for a tie with People's Restaurant for the first third title in the Harrington Business Bowling League, Taylor & Messick met People's Wednesday night to see which team would be crowned the first third titlists.

People's Restaurant started out in fine shape, winning the first game of the contest, but slipped in the second game to stay even at one game each. The restaurant boys couldn't recover from their second game loss and saw the title slip from their grasp, losing the third game and series title.

George Collins was the big factor in Taylor & Messick's title victory by rolling a grand 578 series, with great 202 and 221 games included. Bobby Collins also contributed heavily in the farm boy's victory, rolling a real fine 201 game, amassing a good 506 series, with the other members contributing good efforts for a big team victory.

Congratulations goes to People's Restaurant on a job well done during the first third. It was the first time in this writer's recollection that a third had to be settled by a rolloff.

Frank Daniels' Field Goal Nips Delmar

A rare field goal, by Frank Daniels, from 22 yards out, gave Bill Muehleisen's Lake Forest High Spartans their second straight victory, after opening the season with five losses.

The victim, in the contest played at Harrington on Friday night, was Delmar's Wildcats, one of the have-nots in the Henlopen Conference. The Wildcats have one victory to show for six starts.

The 9-7 victory puts the Spartans in position to make their string three straight. They meet hapless Dover Air (1-6) at Dover Air on Saturday afternoon.

Ken Tribbett took the opening kickoff back to Delmar's 45 and was tackled by the last Wildcat. He and Chester Scott accounted for two first downs before Delmar held at the 16.

Jim Pizzadilli's recovery of a Delmar fumble at the 22, rates as one of the game's key plays for it led to the Spartans' only T.D.

Mike Davis hit Daniels over the middle for 12 yards. Tribbett cracked through for 7 and Davis kept the ball for an apparent score.

A penalty nullified the score. Another penalty. Dale Motter, starting from the 15, came around the left side, with blockers and reached the five. This play is known at Lake Forest, as the Albert Thurman Wood Special. Wood is one of the coaches. Motter burst off right tackle for 6 points. The extra point try failed.

Delmar's Simmons got behind Spartan defenders and dropped an on-the-money pass that had covered 37 yards in the air.

This bad break for the visitors was followed by another in the form of a short punt, that came down on the 50. Delmar was put in a hole, that eventually led to Daniels' winning boot.

Runs by Chester Scott and Tribbett, a pass from Davis to Demora and an unnecessary roughness penalty of the Wildcats reached the 10 yard line.

After the Sussex Countians held, a Wildcat was in the open but was overthrown by the passer. The next toss was good but clipping was detected. Roger Klapp nailed the quarterback at the goal line, narrowly missing a safety. A good kick from the end zone gave LFS good field position, 40 yards out.

The Davis - - Motter combo clicked for 25. Davis tried the left side and ended up one yard out.

Motter's charge into the end zone was brought back for a foul. Daniel's talented toe zoomed the winning field goal through the uprights.

Ken Tribbett intercepted at Delmar's 35 and Lake Forest just missed on an excellent opportunity to put the contest out of reach.

After the Wildcats temporarily held at the 29, Dan Demora expertly fielded a long pass from center and somehow managed to get off a good kick. Delmar was called for roughing the kicker.

After Scott and Tribbett gained 6 yards, Davis broke around the left side for 28 yards to Delmar's 10. Here the defense intercepted and marched 91 yards in six plays. Five plays were passes. One saw John Phillips leap high to make the catch. The one running play was a 13 yard pickup by Jones on a counter, running against the flow.

After Lynch took a 12 yard throw from Cannon for the score, Phillips kicked the point. At 9-7, it was a new contest.

Delmar blew the ball game early in the second half. Starting from their 25, they marched to the Lake Forest 9. Gains by Lynch and Phillips, two pass completions, one of which saw Phillips make a great diving catch and penalties on the Spartans, did the damage.

Good defensive work by Louis Kemp, Curt Powell and Dan Demora slowed the drive at times. Here, the Wildcats sealed their own fate.

A receiver was overthrown, another dropped a touchdown pass, that would have put Delmar ahead and finally, Phillips, the do-everything-back, was just wide to the right on a field goal attempt.

One Sid Gillman-type ulcer coming up for Delmar's coach.

Dan Demora had the Wildcats in deep trouble again when he boomed a 60-yard punt, that rolled dead on the one-yard line.

This great effort was followed by one even more spectacular. Phillips put his foot to the leather and it sailed 62 yards, in the air.

Sophomore, southpaw, signal caller Davis fielded the pigskin and made a fine return to Delmar's 38, then ran to the 30. Davis - - Daniels went to the 21.

Delmar intercepted and made a last gasp-effort. On second down, a Wildcat got free and was barely overthrown. The visitors had to gamble on fourth down, with time running out and just missed on a pass attempt. All game long, Delmar's receivers were getting open but with the exception of the T.D. drive, were dropping the ball or being overthrown, even when the passer had time to throw.

Good yardage on two runs by Dale Motter had Lake Forest inside Delmar's 5 at the gun.

Don Woods led the assembly of Delaware and Conrad players; and the 3rd game 13 minutes and 53 seconds for 2.3 miles.

Woods is an eighth grader. Other eighth graders to do well were Ron Harmon, Chris Adamo, Jim Long, Tommy Lyons and Jay Wyatt.

Seventh graders who ran well were Terry Jarrell, Kevin Wooters, Kevin Lyons and Alan Welch.

The first five Chipman runners to finish were Woods, Harmon, Jarrell, Wooters and Adamo.

Coach Blades is doing a great job with these youngsters. Several of these kids could move on to the Lake Forest High varsity in the next two years, if their interest can be sustained.

Lake Forest High School Hockey

Last Saturday, November 8, 24 members of the hockey team went to Sanford Prep near Hockessin. They played games there until noon and then came back.

Playing for the Varsity were D. Chaffinch, B. Dill, J. Garey, D. Harris, S. O'Neal, T. Quillen, G. Richardson, D. Schepp, D. Smith, W. Watomus was Vi Testerman. The varsity played three games: 1st game they had a scoreless tie with Dickinson; 2nd game they fought to another scoreless tie with the University of Delaware and Conrad players; and the 3rd game beating Towerhill by a 1-0 score. This goal was made by Juanita Garey.

The J. V. played only two games tying one and losing one. They played Dickinson to a 4-1 loss and A. I. Dupont to a scoreless tie. Players for the J.V. were K. Besselieu, C. Hampsher, B. Kukulka, J. Mason, R. Mertz, J. Price, R. Quillen, E. Straw, J. Thompson, P. Tibbett, J. White, C. Wilson, and D. Wyatt. Scoring their only goal was Karen Besselieu.

This was the last hockey game of the year.

Harrington Bowling League

Leah S. Wheeler

What should have been a night of victory for the league leading People's Restaurant team, turned into a night of anxiety as they saw themselves fall victim to Quillen's Market in the first two games.

In the meanwhile, Taylor & Messick, the team breathing down the neck of People's after last week's standings, was winning the first game of their contest to pull up even in the fight for the first third title. As a result of a two-third stalemate for the restaurant boys, and the three game victory of Taylor & Messick over Jarrell Fuel, the title for the first third was thrown into a tie. To determine the winner, Taylor & Messick and People's Restaurant must face each other in a best of three games to decide the winner of the first third.

John Winkler, who bowls for Quillen's Market, helped chop the legs from under People's, by rolling a grand 567 series, with a very fine 220 game included. Edmund Kemp also aided in the upset with a fine above average performance. To keep things even, Frank Collins countered with a very fine 552 series, with a grand 225 game included, with Cloyd Bushey contributing a very fine 202 game and a great 533 series for Peoples.

Jarrell Fuel threw a scare into Taylor & Messick by swamping the farm boys in the second game to make a bid for a split. The Taylor & Messick combine fought back in the third game and just barely managed to eke out the series total, winning that by a one pin margin. George Collins and Snooky Collins came through for the farmers with fine 534 and 524 series respectively. Alvon Jarrell and Preston Carmean provided the above average scoring punch needed to contain Taylor & Messick while helping throw the league title into a tie.

With McKnatt's well out of the running in the first third tilt, they started tuning up for the remaining two thirds by burying Penn Central under an avalanche of fine performances by Donald Garey, who rolled a superb 561 series, with a good 208 game included and a grand performance by Richard Garey with a nice 528 series, plus a good effort by Bob Taylor to easily win all four games from the rail-roaders. Kenneth Baker tried to pull Penn Central out of total defeat with a fine above average effort, but to no avail. Once McKnatt's starts their move, they are hard to contain and must be considered one of the top contenders as the season progresses.

Gerardi Bros put on a good show of strength in their contest with Hamilton Funds although they dropped the first game to their opponents. Gerardi Bros. has been putting on a mediocre performance as they could not seem to get several good weeks run together to move up on the leaders. Hank Wheeler set the pace for the furniture boys with a real fine 212 game, amassing a fine 559 series to enable them to win three games for a fourth spot finish for the first third. Jon Chapman rolled well for Hamilton Funds as did Clarence Jarrell and Wayne Creadick, but it was not enough to offset a good team effort by Gerardi.

Butler's Fuel blew a chance to end up in third place and had to settle for a good fifth place finish in the first third as they dragged three games to the cellar dwellers, Gallo
