FIRST NATIONAL BANKS ADDS NEW TYPE OF SAVINGS

The First National Bank of Harrington has added the new Certificate of Deposit to its line of services available to the public. In purchasing the first certificate, Arnold Gilstad, president of the Bank, remarked: "The new rate now being paid by The First National on Certificates of Deposit is the highest in our history. By adding this new service, it's simply another step in keeping in tune with the times."

The Federal Reserve System recently changed its rules and allowed commercial banks to increase the rates payable on time and savings deposits. The First National Bank wasted no time in putting the new rule into effect.

Annual Venison Dinner

Last Wednesday evening (Jan. 28) marked the date of the seventeenth annual venison fellowship dinner sponsored by the Methodist Men's group of Asbury Church. Ninety-eight members of the church, their families and friends enjoyed an evening of fun, food and fellowship.

The origin of this affair dates back in 1953 while Rev. Van-Cleafe was the minister and John Abbott, president of the Men's Bible Class, was in celebration of completion of the new Sunday school building, the work having been done by the men of the church. There were 40 men at that dinner, many of whom never tasted venison and, several who had, but did not care for it, largely because the meat and preparation of it had been along some times as ordinary beef. Everybody ate and enjoyed it that evening and its popularity since has prompted many housewives to inquire about the difference.

Mrs. Cliff Miller of Paradise Alley Road did the cooking of the venison for the first eleven years using amplified amounts to the following of a 2 to 4 lb. roast.

After the meat has been defrosted and in a brine for 10 to 12 hours, remove and wash off with vinegar water, taking care to remove all fats and foreign matter, tough skins, etc., wash again in plain water, dry thoroughly then rub over with lemon juice, roll in flour, dab mustard into slits. Brown in butter. Roast uncovered at 325 degrees for three and a half hours. Salt when nearly done.

While cooking, baste with the following mixture: 1/2 cup water, 1 spoonful vinegar, 1 spoonful brown sugar, 1 spoonful sherry wine. Peen Central railroad conductor Edgar Graef a member of the Men's Club and a professional cook has handled the cooking for the past six years and still follows the above recipe with very good results.

The venison (100 lbs.) for this year was furnished by deer slayers Mike Wamsley and Calvin Bonniwell. While the men of the club sponsor these dinners they appreciate the united efforts of the women who provide all the covered dishes, and pitch in on the kitchen cleanup after the meal.

A quartet composed of Rev. Jones, Tom Clarke, Howard Wagner and Clarence Kemp did a fine job on two favorite old songs.

The Cherubs, a pre-school group tutored by Gloria Dill, then took the stage and the audience with their willingness to sing and be counted.

The dinner was honored with the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Downing of Dewey Beach and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hoffman of Dover, both formerly superintendents of our Sunday school and members of the Men's Club.

Rev. Jones presented Mr. Hoffman a book on Christian Education from members of the Asbury Sunday school. Downing showed projected scenes taken on his recent trip to Honolulu.

City Employees Rehired, With Some on Probation

The new City Council, at its first regular meeting Monday evening rehired its employees, with some on probation.

After an executive session of an hour, the Council, on the motion of William Minner, Fourth Ward, agreed the same help be employed as last year, with one provision, that street help be put on a month's probation. Reason for the provision was not mentioned.

Despite the executive session, the incoming Council managed to adjourn at a reasonable hour, around 10 p. m.

Most of its chores, and those of Mayor Burton E. Satterfield, were confined to getting ready for 1970.

The mayor, for example, made the following appointments: To get in touch with a replacement for Dale Phillippi, former superintendent of public works. This committee comprised George Vincent, Second Ward, John Satterfield, Fifth Ward and Jack Aptt, Sixth Ward. Phillippi is now in charge of the new sewage disposal plant.

Police commission — Vice Mayor James Carroll Jr., Third Ward, Minner and John E. Satterfield. The last-named was appointed after Councilman Wilson G. Bradley, First Ward, said "he wasn't interested."

The mayor said he was appointing the committees to get some of the work off his back.

The Council, after the mayor had suggested it, appointed Fire Chief Robert Wilson civil defense director.

The mayor thought the civil defense would make "a good connection with the fire company."

Wilson replaces Councilman Bradley who was appointed by Mayor Luther P. Hatfield some five years ago.

After the Wilson appointment, Bradley turned in his resignation and asked that it be placed in the minutes.

The mayor said he would appoint a Planning and Zone Commission at the next regular meeting.

In other matters, the Council:

Authorized installation of streetlights on Dickerson Street near the office of Dr. Zosimo Buendia.

Granted raise from $200 per year to $300 per year for Treasurer Howard Wagner.

Agreed to pay Phillippi $10 per week for the use of a pickup truck.

Requested City Manager Kathryn Derrickson to get prices on a tractor and mower for the sewage-disposal plant. The City would like to have a tractor which could be used for other work.

Motioned to have metal parts painted in sewer pumping station on Liberty Street. City is also considering application of Styrofoam and plaster, to reduce humidity, in the station's dry well.

U. of D. Survey Checks Delmarva Farmer Opinion

What needs changing in agriculture besides the weather? Delmarva farmers will have an opportunity to make their feelings on this known at farm meetings during the next few weeks.

A survey prepared by the agricultural editor's office at the University of Delaware is being distributed to provide farmers an opportunity to make their views known. The survey questions deal with the role of farm organizations, land assessment, farm programs, pesticide restrictions, zoning, legislation affecting farmers, and efforts to promote farm products.

One question asks farmers to choose their biggest problem from a list that includes inflation, labor, credit, pollution and urban pressures.

Results of the survey will be presented at the 3rd annual Farm Press Institute in Dover on March 18. Copies of the survey are available to farmers who want them. Write or call the agricultural editor's office, University of Delaware, Newark, 19711. The phone number is 738-2500.

ZIMMERMAN SAYS NIXON INSINCERE ABOUT INFLATION

Speaking before the Ninth District Democratic Club at the Harrington Century Club, Rep. Jacob W. Zimmerman, East Dover, and candidate for the United States Senate, said President Nixon was insincere in the fight against inflation.

Zimmerman said, "the dollar has shrunk faster under one year of Nixon, than it did any year during the previous eight years of Democratic Administration. Nixon is not sincere when he says he wants to end inflation!"

"Nixon wants to build more missiles, when Delawarans need more homes; Nixon wants to spend to build a super-sonic transport to whisk people across the Atlantic, when we really need better roads and public transportation to get people to and from work; Nixon wants to spend billions to explore the planets, when he really doesn't know what is going on within our own nation."

Zimmerman added, "Delaware needs a Democratic Senator to help in the fight to maintain a government with programs concerned about people. Delaware needs a Senator who is concerned about curbing inflation, and rearranging our nation's spending priorities so we can implement programs designed to help the people of our state and nation, while still reducing the citizens' tax burden."

The candidate for the United States Senate added, "I am disappointed that Congressman Roth chose to vote against the Health Education and Welfare appropriation bill that would have assisted the Lake Forest School District in the amount of $39,500. With Nixon's veto and Roth's negative vote, an additional burden will be placed upon the local taxpayer.

"Local taxpayers have had enough," Zimmerman said, "let's not put any more of a burden upon them."

About 50 persons attended Monday night's supper. The club will hold its meetings, open to the public, the first Monday of the month at the Century Club. A speaker will be invited for the next meeting.

Thursday 7:30 p.m. vestry meeting

Shrove Tuesday ushers in Lent which begins as always on Ash Wednesday. Lent is the outstanding penitential season of the church year and is a time to take self-inventory. In the Episcopal Church more emphasis is placed on renewal of one's spiritual life than is placed on fasting. To give up one's time to give of one's self in an effort to become more spiritually perfect seems to be a more fitting way than the old traditional custom of fasting. However, it is good to give up certain things which one has been accustomed to having and to give the money which would have been saved in this way to the church. In that way one is reminded daily of the sacrifices which His Lord made through the supreme sacrifice of His life.

For this reason there will be the traditional lenton coin folders for youths and adults which will be distributed by the ushers at the close of the 10:45 a.m. service this coming Sunday, as well as the Missionary Mite Boxes which will be distributed to the church school children at 9:30 a.m. this coming Sunday.

On Shrove Tuesday at 5 to 7:30 p.m. we shall have our traditional Shrove Tuesday pancake supper. Granville Hill has been placed in charge of this project. The men, women and youth of St. Stephen's make this a joint activity rather than it simply being a project of the men of St. Stephen's as in former years. Everyone should be selling tickets for this occasion. The friends of St. Stephen's are cordially invited to attend. Donations are $1.25 for adults and children under 12, 75c.

The vicar would like to take this opportunity to thank St. Stephen's lay reader, Clyde Perry for the conducting the service of morning prayer on Sunday, Feb. 1, at which time the vicar was away to the Diocesan Convention. From all reports it was a job very well done.

The vicar is happy to announce that he has a special treat for all youths and adults for each Wednesday evening this lenton season. He had tried to secure the services of Ronald Starnes, professor of religion at Wesley College, in past years but had been unable to do so. This year he has been able to arrange for Professor Starnes to come on five Wednesday nights during Lent beginning with Wednesday, Feb. 18, at 7:30 p.m.

The lenton discussions will center around the use of the Bible in enriching our own private devotional life. It will be noticed that this will come at the time of the usual healing service. Therefore, each evening session will begin with Prayers of Intercession for the sick, in this way the cycle of prayer for the sick will not be broken, but it is suited best for Professor Starnes to come on Wednesday evenings. Ronnie, an old friend of the vicar's is a young man in his early 30's, an ordained Methodist minister and is the father of three young boys. He and Mrs. Starnes live in one of the old historic houses in Odessa. All youths and adults of Harrington who are not occupied at their own churches on Wednesday evenings are cordially invited to participate in these lenton devotions.

The letter which we distributed concerning our opposition to Mrs. Madeline Murray O'Hare in her fight against Christianity was so popular that we have decided to ditto as many copies as possible of that letter. They will be on the table in the rear of the nave this Sunday, those who desire either one for themselves or many to distribute are invited to pick them up after the service of divine worship.

New Fiber Development

Clothes need more than just fashion to satisfy today's consumer, according to Fred Fortess, consumer relations manager for Celanese Fibers Marketing Co., New York.

He told women attending the textile session at the University of Delaware's Farm and Home Week that consumers expect their clothes to keep that "new look" through wearings and cleanings. Plus, they demand resistance to wrinkling, pilling and snagging, color fastness, and—most off all—easy care.

But, no natural or man-made fibers automatically have all these properties; it takes careful selection of the right fibers and the correct dyes and finishes. In other words, careful design.

Polyester fibers, for example, can be "designed" for many different end uses ranging from high-strength tire cord to permanent press cotton-polyester blends for delicate dresses. They can be treated with fluorescent dyes for whiter-than-white shirts. They can be dyed for two-tone effects for lower cost carpets.

Polyester fibers can be either a soft, bulky yarn for double-knits or a smooth, silk-like fabric. Again, it depends on the treatment, Fortess emphasized.

He believes that perhaps the single most important technical development in textiles in the past ten years was permanent press. It took 20 years to develop the first wash and wear fabrics, but they were too often unsatisfactory. But, by 1964, permanent press fabrics had been developed that perform well and are stronger than ever. Their growing popularity shows consumers agree.

A second important development was the wash and wear knits of man-made fibers such as nylon and polyester. Producing such knits also took years of research, Fortess stated. Initially, polyesters were relatively smooth fibers, distinctly different from natural knit-type fibers. But, a bulking process produced textured yarns that are unique, with easy-care properties that were lacking in natural knits. And, they too are increasing in popularity.

As Fortess pointed out, the new fiber developments are the result of research by fiber producers—and others. But, still the ultimate responsibility for performance rests with those who manufacture the final fabric from the fiber.

However, Fortess stated, some fiber producers have gone a step further to ensure a fabric that has the qualities you want; they are now licensing their trademark. A licensed trademark is granted to the fabric manufacturer only of the end product—shirt, sheet or yard good—passes quality tests.

And so, the struggle to give today's consumers just what they want in fabrics continues. And new fibers, plus new uses and qualities for old fibers, are the result.

Fabric Cleaning Problems

Ninety percent of today's fabrics perform satisfactorily when they're cleaned. But, it's the other ten percent people remember, according to Dr. Dorothy Siegert Lyle, director of consumer relations at the National Institute of Drycleaning.

Who's to blame when a garment doesn't clean satisfactorily—when a dress shrinks too much or a bonded fabric separates? Dr. Lyle told women at the textiles session of the University of Delaware's Farm and Home Week that the blame must be shared equally between manufacturers, cleaners and consumers.

She added, it's the consumers responsibility to be careful, both before and after she buys a fabric. Before you buy, check on the serviceability or cleanability as well as the style and fit.

Watch out for fabric combinations that result in a garment that can be neither cleaned nor washed. Dr. Lyle gave the example of a dress with a leather-look vinyl bodice that had to be washed, combined with a crepe skirt that had to be drycleaned. The dress couldn't be cleaned unless it was taken apart.

Check the fiber content for a clue to fabric care. For instance, a brocade cocktail dress these days could be rayon, silk, polyester, a blend that might include metallic fibers or even a polyvinyl. The way to care for that dress will depend on the fiber.

But knowing the fiber is not enough; with modern treatments, fibers often take on new properties. Before you can buy fabrics intelligently, you should also take a look at the way the fabric is constructed, Dr. Lyle stated. If it's a bonded fabric, what fabrics are bonded together and how are they bonded?

How was the fabric dyed? The popular screen prints often present a drycleaning problem, for instance. Many cannot be drycleaned at all; others require a special cleaning solvent.

reputable retailers and have your drycleaning done by reputable drycleaners, Dr. Lyle emphasized.

A consumer's responsibility doesn't end with intelligent buying, she added. "Good care is important, too." Remove stains promptly, if possible, and be sure to tell your drycleaner what they are.

"And, keep the hangtags."

Laws are in the making to require permanent labels whenever fabrics need special care. But, in the meantime, saving the hangtags and following the care instructions is the only way to be sure you're properly caring for a garment.

The textile industry and drycleaner associations spend billions of dollars on fabric research and development to give the consumer what she wants in a fabric, Dr. Lyle concluded. The consumer will do her part if she buys wisely and then takes good care of what she buys.

Poems from Paradise Pastures
 By W. Cliff Miller

In February we commemorate the birthdays of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln and we turn our thoughts to the truth and justice they sought to obtain.

It has been a lot of satisfaction to me to learn late in life that Abe was poetically inclined and was responsible for the following found in my book of memories:

— MEMORY —

My childhood's home I see again,
 And sadden with the view;
 And still, a memory clouds my brain,
 There's pleasure in it, too.

O Memory! thou midway world
 'twixt earth and paradise,
 Where things decayed and loved one's lost
 In dreamy shadows rise.

And freed from all that's earthly, vile,
 Seem hallowed, pure and bright,
 Like scenes in some enchanted isle
 All bathed in liquid light.

Near twenty years have passed away
 Since here I bid farewell
 To woods and fields and scenes of play,
 And playmates loved so well.

The friends I left that parting day,
 How changed as time has sped!
 Young childhood, grown, strong manhood gray,
 And half of all are dead.

Thoughts From Washington

by Bill Roth

We've already had one of the most important votes of this session of Congress. The bill in question, of course, was the HEW-Labor-OEO appropriation bill. The president thought it was inflationary, and he vetoed it. I think it's important to have some background to understand the full impact of the President's veto.

In 1959, the President pledged to try to adhere to a spending ceiling of $192.9 billion for fiscal 1970. Now, some people will tell you that since defense spending was cut by $6 billion, and foreign aid by more than a billion dollars, Congress stayed safely within the spending ceiling. Nothings is further from the truth, and I think this is a perfect illustration of the old saying that figures can be made to lie.

As the President pointed out in his veto message, there are two kinds of government spending: controllable, where Congress can vote to hold down spending; and uncontrollable, which are automatic, such as payment of interest on the public debt. The Congress did indeed cut the controllable, but the "uncontrollable" have risen much faster than anticipated — in large part because of the high rate of inflation. Interest on the public debt of this country rose by more than a billion dollars; health insurance payments — from the federal government — have gone up an additional $7 billion, because the cost of medical care has rocketed. Taking into account all these factors, the President noted, total 1970 outlays amount to almost $198 billion — and that is a long, long way from $192.9 billion. Congress did not stay within the spending ceiling.

I think the nub of the problem really boils down to this. Those who want to make this vote into a political issue are claiming that it's a question of re-ordering our priorities, of the refusal of the President to spend more money for education. In my judgement, this is simply not the case. Let me include here a brief statement from the January magazine, a statement I read issue of School Management to my colleagues on the floor of the House of Representatives last week. On the basis of a survey of 1,000 school districts, the magazine reported, "While many administrators complain bitterly, these days, about the adverse effect on education of the Nixon Administration's tough anti-inflation measures, the Cost of Education Index makes it abundantly clear that inflation itself is far more damaging than any of the attempts to bring it under control. . . . Let me restate the end of that quotation: 'It is abundantly clear that inflation itself is far more damaging than any of the attempts to bring it under control.'"

Now, I don't want to bore you with a long series of statistics, but let me offer a few examples of how inflation is hurting our schools. Last year, spending per elementary school pupil increased by $51 — and inflation bumped up $25 of that. Of the $65 increase anticipated for the current year, inflation is expected to consume at least $22. I said this on the House Floor and I'll say it again, until we stop inflation, we're simply spinning our wheels by spending more money.

One final thought. Some may ask, "What's another billion dollars when we're dealing with hundreds of billions?" I can answer only this — it was "another billion dollars" and "another billion dollars" and "another billion dollars" that eventually led to the federal government spending almost $60 billion more than it took in the last decade. And that's why prices are going up. That's why it costs $130 now for what $100 would buy in 1959. That's why a pound of chuck that cost 74c in 1967 costs 85c now. That's why a dozen eggs that cost 68c in 1967 cost 86c now. That's why a head of lettuce that cost 24c in 1967 now cost 43c. And because it's "just another billion dollars" — that's why I supported the President's veto.

Master Plan For Development of Marine Resources

A former Assistant Secretary of the Navy who is an authority on oceanography is being loaned to Delaware to help prepare a master plan for development of its marine resources.

He is Dr. James H. Wakelin, Jr., 58, of Washington, D. C., chairman of the board of the Oceanic Foundation in Hawaii and chairman of the President's Task Force on Oceanography. Dr. Wakelin from 1959-64 was Assistant Secretary of the Navy in charge of research and development.

His appointment was announced by Governor Russell W. Peterson at a news conference Monday, Jan. 26, at his Wilmington office. Dr. Wakelin, who was present, will serve as the Governor's assistant on bay and coastal affairs and will start immediately, the Governor said.

He said Dr. Wakelin will be paid a "dollar-a-year" by the State and will "have charge of developing a master plan for our coastal and bay areas. They are great assets for this state. While we must be sure to protect them, we must at the same time use them to full advantage."

Foundations and other private sources will provide funds for the project, Governor Peterson said.

"Oceanography is a new frontier that offers great opportunities for Delaware and has the potential for providing many new jobs," he added.

"A key component of this effort will be the University of Delaware's plan to become a center for marine sciences on the Atlantic Coast. One of Dr. Wakelin's assignments will be to serve as a consultant to the University in the development of its new college of marine science."

The Governor cited the University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography, which he visited recently, and the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution in Massachusetts as the type of facility sought for Delaware. "Dr. Wakelin will be working closely with the University, the new Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control, the Development Department and the Governor's Council on Science and Technology."

Dr. Wakelin's appointment comes less than two weeks after the Governor discussed the master plan proposal in his "Future of the State" message to the General Assembly.

He said then that "there is great potential in our estuaries and coastal zone for the raising of fin and shell fish and for furthering the activities of sportsmen and tourists."

"At the same time, the area is becoming an even stronger magnet for commercialization that could make the mouth of Delaware Bay a major shipping port and the shores of the Bay a home for heavy industry."

"The interests of conservation and commercialization may well conflict. Accordingly, we will develop a master plan for this whole area and then set up controls to see that the plan is followed."

Dr. Wakelin, a physicist, is chairman of the trustees of the Research Analysis Corporation in McLean, Va.; consultant and a member of the advisory board for Ryan Aeronautical Company in San Diego, Calif.; and a trustee of the National Geographic Society's Committee for Research and Exploration.

He headed the U.S. Delegation to the Intergovernmental Conference on Oceanography, held in Copenhagen in 1960, and the Intergovernmental Oceanographic Commission of UNESCO, held in Paris in 1961. From 1960-64, he was chairman of the federal government's Intergovernmental Committee on Oceanography.

 A native of Holyoke, Mass., Dr. Wakelin studied at Dartmouth College, Cambridge University and Yale University.

New Century Club Notes

On Jan. 27, the Harrington New Century Club met in the Conference Room of the Milford Memorial Hospital. The president, Mrs. Theodore H. Storus, presided at the business meeting.

Our public card party will be held at the Club House at 8 p.m., on Tuesday, Feb. 17. Tickets $1 each, refreshments served and prizes given.

Edward Bennett of the hospital staff met and conducted us through the new building. The hospital was established in 1907 and was the first hospital in lower Delaware. It has 185 beds and plans to increase to 350 beds. The hospital is in the center of an area with a 20 mile radius and a population of 50,000. Its needs are constantly growing.

We were especially interested in the expansion of the electrocardiography, laboratory, radiology, central supply, pharmacy and physical therapy departments. It is very well equipped with modern facilities.

The new building is fireproof, well planned, with a fourth floor to be completed. Money is needed for its completion. Therefore a funding campaign will begin in May for this very worthy purpose.

On our return, we were served a tea at the home of Mrs. Storus.

The chairman of the day was Mrs. Joseph Brinster, assisted by her committee Mrs. C. A. Bushnell, Mrs. Blanche Cahall, Mrs. Wallace Smith and Mrs. Samuel Williams.

Our next meeting will be at the Club House on Feb. 10. The program will be on "Youth" which is an important present day subject. Mrs. William T. Taylor, chairman and her committee are in charge of the preparations.

Removal of Traffic Checking Boats

It may be of minor significance when viewed against the backdrop of world events, but on March 16, another of history's small doors will be closed. On that date the last traffic checking boat will be taken off station at the Reedy Point entrance of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal by the Army Engineers' Philadelphia District. The door in this case will be swung shut by the invisible hand of radio.

A companion vessel was taken off station at the western entrance to the canal in November of 1968. A greatly improved radio system laid the groundwork for eventual removal of the traffic checking boats. Control of traffic through the canal is exercised by a dispatcher in the Army Engineers' Resident Office in Chesapeake City, Md. In November of 1968 all vessels over 375-feet in length were required to have radios aboard compatible with the Engineers' system.

The requirement to maintain radio contact applies only to vessels and tows longer than 375-feet. Those of lesser length are subject to traffic control lights located at Reedy Point, Del., and Toft Point, Md. The red, yellow and green lights - similar to ordinary street traffic lights - are under control of the dispatcher.

The use of the small, tug-boat-shaped craft began about 30 years ago when they were placed on station to help the dispatcher keep track of vessels entering and leaving the waterway. At that time the canal had very restrictive widths, dangerous bends, limited horizontal clearances through lift bridges, and reliable communications with and between vessels was not possible. The great advances in radio communication have altered the picture drastically and hastened the end of another chapter of canal history. The seven employees involved are being offered other positions.

The Philadelphia District currently has a $100,000,000 modernization program under way that calls for a channel 35-foot deep and 450-foot wide with straightening of the bends and replacement of bridges. The channel has been widened to 450-foot... with the exception of small sections near Chesapeake City and Reedy Point... the bends have been straightened and the restrictive bridges replaced. The deepening from 27 feet to 35 feet is expected to be completed in 1972.

Spartans Nip Bucs In Test Of Unbeatens

Twelve hundred ulcer candidates watched Art Refosco's Lake Forest basketball Spartans edge Milford's unbeaten Buccaneers 55-54, at Lake Forest on Friday night. Actually there were a few, worry-free viewers of the exciting tilt, but those were fans from areas outside the Milford - Lake Forest communities.

The Spartans trailed in the first few minutes as Milford threw in several buckets from outside the zone defense. When the law of averages took over and these long shots began to miss, Lake Forest caught up.

The see-saw contest saw both schools unable to draw away. Milford's biggest lead, after the first few minutes, was five points. Lake Forest's best surge was three points. This was the Spartan's margin when a last-second goal by Waples of Milford made the final count 55-54. LFHS now owns a perfect 10-0 mark with nine loop victories.

Ken Copper again appeared to be the coolest player on the court, in the pressured-packed game. Several times he left his feet to apparently try for baskets but after magnificent fakes, passed off to others, who then got the points. A couple of times, he faked supreme not only fooled the defenders but his teammates as well. Copper and Chris Moore each had 17 points for the Spartans with John McCloskey adding 15. Copper has not missed a free throw in at least the last three outings.

Lake Forest is a cinch to grab top honors in the Southern Division of the Henlopen Conference. If Milford wins the Northern Division, which seems likely, a rematch will be played with the loop title at stake.

Milford is having tough luck with Lake Forest this school year. The Spartans whipped the Bucs twice in a cross-county, took a thrilling one-point victory in football on Thanksgiving Day and scored a wrestling win at Milford, the next night after the basketball game. The Bucs will be looking for a measure of revenge if the championship cage tilt comes about and in track and baseball.

Many fans were turned away Friday night including four busloads from Milford. Lines were forming soon after 3 p.m. Tickets went on sale at 5:50 p.m. By that time a full house was already assured. It's too bad there is not a large playing arena in this area. This Milford-Lake Forest natural would have drawn several thousand paying customers.

Viking Stall Fails; Spartans Win, 58-42

Cape Henlopen's Viking basketball team, coached by veteran, Bob Edgerton, came to Lake Forest on Tuesday night with a plan. The visitors played "stall ball" for most of the first half, holding the ball and making few attempts at the basket. The quick-handed Spartans stole the ball several times but couldn't make enough shots to open up much of a lead.

The Vikings first field goal came with less than three minutes to play in the first half, which ended 18-10.

Lake Forest began to creep away in the second half, forcing the Vikings to abandon their freezing tactics.

Ken Copper, Chris Moore and Mike Fisher kept the Sussex Countians off balance with accurate outside shooting. Moore led the way with 24 points, Copper had 15 and Fisher tallied 11.

The 58-42 victory was the 11th without defeat for Art Refosco's Spartans, who are now ranked as the fourth best team in Delaware.

The locals meet Seaford here on Friday night. Back-to-back games with improving Indian River will be played at Dagsboro on Feb. 10 and at Lake Forest on Feb. 13. These should be the toughest opponents remaining. If Lake Forest is still unbeaten after the second Indian River contest, an unbeaten regular season is a definite possibility.

Chipman Cagers Split

Jim Blades' W.T. Chipman Junior School basketball team won and lost since the last report. The locals journeyed to Middletown to play St. Andrews. There, a smiling home team coach informed Blades that his team consisted of eighth and ninth graders. Chipman's team has only seventh and eighth grade pupils.

Therefore Chipman's 47-24 defeat was actually a good performance against a team that consisted mostly of freshmen.

Lake Forest, 63; Caesar Rodney, 49

Art Refosco's Lake Forest Spartans had little trouble with Caesar Rodney's Riders despite being outscored 22-21 in field goals.

The Spartans seem to have mastered the knack of throwing up a stout defense without fouling. Caesar Rodney had only 11 trips to the free throw line, while the visiting Spartans had 30 and converted 21 of these. Chris Moore and Ken Copper are deadly at the charity stripe. This time each had made 6-for-6 on the way to dividing 36 points evenly. Mike Fisher added a dozen more.

Lake Forest outscored the losers in every period, as 11 Spartans saw action.

Spartan Grapplers Beat Dover Air And Milford

The Dover Air and Milford wrestling teams fell to Lake Forest's Spartans, who own a 5-1 record at this writing and are practically assured of a winning season since they have only five matches left and two of these are against schools (Laurel and Indian River) that are wrestling for the first time.

Dover Air's trip to Lake Forest's new mat saw many of the Falcons take individual trips to the mat (on their backs, that is). Eight Spartans scored victories by pin. These were: Tommy Clarke, Charley Baynard, Spike Adams, Chuck Hurd, Norman Baynard, Roger Klapp, Lewes Kemp, Robin Callahan, and Lenny Donovan. Hurd's pin of Matt Rincon (not the runner) in 56 seconds was the quickest of the night.

At Milford
At Milford on Saturday night, the Spartans prevailed 37-11. Freshman, Tommy Clarke, newcomer to wrestling, has proven to be a real shot in the arm to Spartan coaches Tom Muehleisen and Elliott Workman. Left high and dry when a veteran 98 pounder decided to forego the sport this season, the grappling mentors went to work with Clarke and he's been a real discovery. Clarke pinned his Milford rival quickly (1:42) and now owns a 4-1-1 mark.

Milford got these five points back quickly when Corder flattened Charley Baynard in 2:20.

Spike Adams (117) turned in a masterful job and won easily 11-0 over Darlin. Rabid Spartans fans claimed Adams had his man pinned a time or two but the ref said no.

Chuck Hurd (123) drew a stocky, muscular weight-lifting type. Hurd performed a smooth operation on the Buc and finally put him away in 5:47, after McLaughlin muscled out two or three pin situations, earlier.

At 130, two fast, strong matmen had their own private war. Spartan Norman Baynard appeared to be a little faster and had an edge in knowledge of the moves. Shannon was a mite stronger but Baynard won 3-0.

Milford drew up to within five points (16-11) by winning at 137 and 145. A couple of veterans Spartans, Roger Klapp and Louis Kemp sealed Milford's fate by scoring first round pins in 1:42 and 1:25, respectively.

Two inexperienced Spartan cousins were rated as underdogs in the next two tests but both won narrow decisions. Frank O'Neal III, a freshman, won a wild 11-10 pier six brawl, that left many spectators limp as dishrags.

Roger Jarrell, a senior, is new to wrestling. In addition, he usually wrestles at 175 pounds but had to substitute at 185 this time against Buc football standout, Frank Ingram. Outweighed and trailing 2-0, Jarrell rallied to win 4-2.

Heavyweight Lenny Donovan won by forfeit.

Chipman Wrestlers Upset St. Andrews,

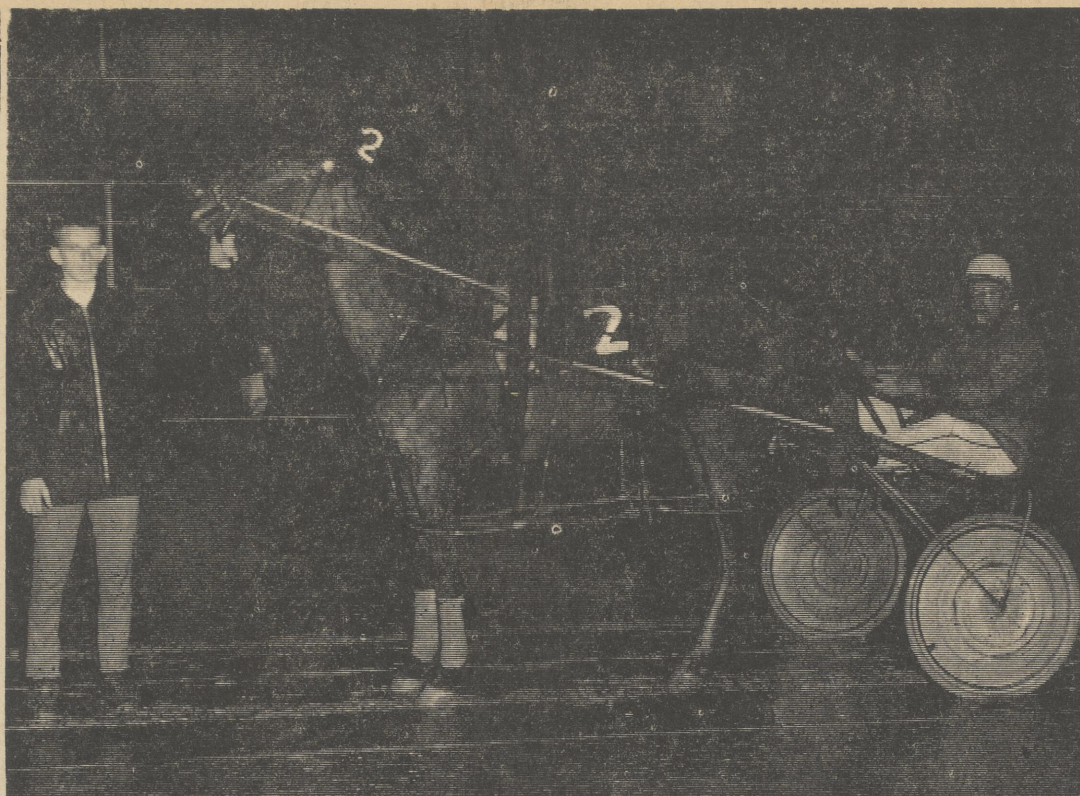

After dropping a 27-25 decision to Dover Air Force Base, the W.T. Chipman wrestling team bounced back to upset powerful St. Andrews School of Middletown 29-18 and turned back Sussex Central for the second time this season 29-13. The Chip-

Spartans Have Winning Habit

Lake Forest High School has quickly developed the winning habit. The Spartans must have the best won-lost percentage, at this point, of any high school in Delaware. Cross County had a 13-1

The overall record is 32 victories and only 7 defeats for a terrific .810 average.

We feel sports have had no small part in the smooth transition from Felton High and Harrington High to the consolidated Lake Forest High. By now most sports fans in Delaware know the location of the Lake Forest Spartans.

Harrington Bowling League

By Leah S. Wheeler

The final third in the Harrington Bowling League got off to a fine start with six teams holding a 3-1 record as they prepare for their now or never bid to gain the top spot and the last third title.

Taylor & Messick is becoming a familiar name, as they continue to set the pace. This week besting People's Restaurant in three games. Kenny Outten paved the way for the farm boys, rolling a grand 556 series, including a 218 single and George Collins assisted with a good 539 series with Tom Brown adding to the scoring punch with a good effort. Alan Young and Norman Clough bowled very well to enable People's to salvage a game with Young getting a fine 529 series for a good night's effort.

Gerard Bros. received a big boost from fine bowling by Don Jester who rolled a great 507 set, with Stan Johnson and John Forbes coming through with great 215 and 213 games respectively, to shatter Gallo & Stevenson's hopes of jumping out ahead of the pack. Ed Hobbs, Ernest Gallo, Jr., and George Hobbs bowled good efforts as they managed to grab one game to their credit. John Shaffer paced the Spoilers in their win over Penn Central, on a real fine 523 series effort, and Leonard Outten padded the win with a fine night's performance. Penn Central's Paul Baker, Ken Baker and Marion Brown bowled well, though they could only pick up one game in the win column.

Wally's Garage is right in the thick of things, getting good assists from Norman Woodall with a real fine 512 set and a 215 single and David Ryan, who rolled a great 511 series and Larry adding good efforts to set Breeding and Wally Ryan down a McKnatt Funeral Home game. Though McKnatt dropped three games, Harold Brode was the top klegler in the league for the night with a grand 557 series, including a 221 single. Bob Taylor also rolled well for McKnatt's with a good 514 series and Harry Jack came through in fine form with a great 535 series and a 204 single.

Butler's Fuel set down a four man Jarrell Fuel team with Ron Wright coming through for Butler's with a good average effort. Jarrell Fuel countered with Alvin Jarrell, Robert Jarrell and Martin Jarrell (207) to grab one game on their fine performance.

Wayne Creadick, Burton Case and Clarence Jarrell rolled very well for Hamilton Fund enabling them to swamp Quillen's Market in Tuesday's setto. Quillen's must be content to hold down the lower end of the standings this week, but they could very well prove to be a tough opponent.
