

City Closes Jail Temporarily

The City Council, at a special meeting Monday night closed its jail, on a recommendation of the State Board of Health. The closure became effective the following evening.

Mayor Burton E. Satterfield said Tuesday night the City's prisoners would be lodged in the Kent County Correctional Institution in Dover until space could be provided there.

Monday's night decision came as the outcome of a letter of Jan. 30, from Dr. Maynard H. Mires of the Kent County Health Department, stating that the jail's toilets were out of date, space was

May Lose Cape May-Lewes Ferry

If better management practices do not govern the Cape May-Lewes Ferry very soon, its services could be lost, State Senator Thomas E. Hickman, Jr., of Ocean View said today.

"And losing the ferry service is something we don't want to see in Sussex County. Too many people worked too long to achieve it. But I do think we better see just what is wrong with the operation," Hickman said.

The Sussex County senator was a member of the Joint Investigating Committee which recently probed Delaware River and Bay Authority hiring practices and other phases of its operation. He said several practices brought to light caused him some amazement.

"It just doesn't make sense to me when one of the top officials of the Authority reports that during the month in which the Cape May-Lewes Ferry had its best business—its highest revenue—it also sustained its greatest financial loss," Hickman commented.

"This certainly makes it our responsibility to see whether there is mismanagement somewhere along the line, and I for one feel there is."

"I believe this mismanagement comes from the New Jersey side, where decisions are made regarding the ferry operation. It appears that no one on the Delaware side gets a word in edgewise on these decisions."

Hickman also believes that the current ferry schedule, placed in effect in January, has confused the general public and will lead to a loss of business if something is not done to rectify the four-hour interval service with only six round trips daily.

"I have also learned that since our investigation the traffic solicitor and Delaware public relations people all have been dismissed. I am particularly worried about the traffic solicitor. I understand he did an outstanding job in making people - to - people contacts which resulted in bringing business to the ferry."

"It seems to me that with the growing tourism business which means so much to Sussex County and the entire state, that we can only afford to give the best possible ferry service in order to entice more people to Delaware. We must up-grade rather than down-grade the ferry."

"It is evident to me that for too long there has been no watchdog actions of the Delaware River and Bay Authority. I believe such action is necessary."

"I am more positive than ever when I learn of the directive which went into effect this week. Ferry ticket sellers will no longer operate from their booths. They will be stationed aboard ship and must have an ordinary seaman's license. They will be given shipboard duties to perform—but will carry home ticket seller pay checks."

"This is just another phase of Authority that puzzles me and I intend to take a good look at the entire picture," Hickman said.

inadequate and there were no janitorial facilities provided by a janitor, who lived in the building as has been the custom.

Mayor Satterfield said he believed it would cost several thousand dollars to improve the jail.

Meanwhile, William H. Outten and Melvin Wyatt, of the fire company, who attended Monday night's meeting, Beware, Ladies!

State Fire Marshal, William R. Favinger, urges the citizens of Delaware, especially the ladies to be extremely cautious in the purchase of certain sheer rayon and silk scarfs. Certain ones are dangerously flammable as reported by the Federal Trade Commission. He asks that the following information be carefully studied prior to any purchases of this item. Should anyone already have such an item, notification would be appreciated.

The Federal Trade Commission announced that it has found certain sheer rayon and silk scarfs imported from Japan by Glensder Textile Corporation, 417 Fifth Avenue New York, N. Y. to be dangerously flammable. These scarfs are composed either of 73% rayon, 27% silk or 72% rayon, 28% silk and are sold to the public at retail prices ranging from $1.25 to $2.50. They come in various designs, sizes and colors. There is affixed to them a small cloth label sewn into the hem on which appears the word

Straight Talk

No businessman in his right mind would think of sending an employee to an advanced training course, paying him while he is here, and then losing him to another city or state.

If we can compare our city, or community, to a business, then we can say that this very same situation is happening in regard to young people who graduate from high school.

As we have pointed out before, local-level education amounts to almost 75 percent of the tax bill that each and every resident pays annually.

Schools are the most costly aspect of our society, and rightly so, if we want the upcoming generations to someday hold this nation and world together.

And so we spend a big

TEEN-AGERS FINED FOR BOMB HOAX

Two teenagers who admitted causing a bomb-threat hoax at Greenwood School last spring as part of a $1 bet have been fined $100 and placed on probation.

Judge Robert D. Thompson Jr. of Kent and Sussex Counties Family Court said Thursday the youths, one 15 year old and the other 16, appeared before him for sentencing the previous Tuesday day night at Georgetown.

They were arrested by state police last May after an investigation of the bomb-threat call which emptied the school. There were about 15 such calls in Kent and Sussex last spring. All but two involved schools, and no bombs were found.

In the Greenwood School incident, police said the anonymous caller said a bomb was going to go off in the school at 2 p.m. School officials dismissed classes for the rest of the day, sending about 825 students home early.

Thompson reported the call was made by the 16-year-old because the younger boy, who said he wanted to get out of classes, had given him a dollar and dared him to make it.

The judge said investigation established that the two Greenwood youths had not been involved in any of the other bomb scares. He said it was simply one boy taking a bet.

In addition to fining each youth $100, the judge placed the 15-year-old on probation for a year and the 16-year-old on probation for six months. He said the younger boy, who had a previous Family Court record, has because of other disciplinary problems, been expelled from school.

The older youth, who never was in court, before, according to the judge, was severely punished by his parents for participating in the bomb scare hoax.

Thompson said he directed both youths to work during their terms of probation to earn the money to pay their fines. He said the fines must be paid by them without any help from their parents.

Senior Center Seeks Piano

At a recent board of directors meeting, several necessities of the Senior Center were discussed. One of the subjects in discussion was the need of a piano. At least one of the center members is able to play the piano. Very often at regular meetings or at special social gatherings, the members feel that more pleasure could be derived if they could sing with the accompaniment of a piano.

It is hoped that someone may have a piano for which they no longer have any need. The senior citizens would very much appreciate the donation of one to help furnish the needs of the center.

Harrington Raceway Adds Fall Dates

Harness racing will become a ten months operation in the First State under a date schedule approved by the Delaware Harness Racing Commission at Georgetown Wednesday, Feb. 11.

Harrington Raceway, which had been granted a 20-night spring session last week, was also awarded a 32-night fall run. The Kent County track will open on Sept. 4 and continue through Oct. 31 operating six nights a week in September but just four nights a week in October.

Dover Downs, which has already held three harness programs, was granted a 25-night meet from Nov. 2 through Nov. 30. Delaware's newest racing plant will operate six nights per week.

The commission meeting could have produced some fireworks because Harrington, Dover Downs and Georgetown Raceway in Sussex County had applied for 21 days too many according to state law.

Delaware law limits the number of harness racing days in the entire state to 240-100 for Brandywine Raceway in New Castle County and 140 combined in Kent and Sussex counties. Together, Harrington, Dover Downs and Georgetown wanted to race 161 days.

However, Dover Downs, through Gen. Robert D. Forman, track vice president and general manager, last night reduced its request from a total of 49 dates in 1970 to just 28. As a result, Harrington can run a split meet of 62 nights and Georgetown a split meet of 50.

We settled our request before we came to the commission meeting tonight," Forman explained. "We discussed the matter with Harrington officials, and everything was worked out agreeably. We're still hopeful we can pick up some extra dates that Harrington and Georgetown might not want to run."

Harrington General Manager George Simpson said his track, oldest in the Delaware Valley, wanted to operate 70 nights this year, but backed down from that number, before last week's meeting.

With the awarding of all the dates completed, Delaware will have harness racing during every week of the year from April 17-Nov. 30.

The state's remaining 1970 harness schedule: Harrington spring meet: April 17-May 9 (20 nights), Brandywine summer meet: May 11-Sept. 3 (100 nights), Georgetown summer meet: Harrington fall meet: Sept. 4-Oct. 31 (42 nights), and Dover Downs winter meet: Nov. 2-Nov. 30 (25 nights).

H.S.C. Allocated $1000 From U.F.

The Harrington Senior Center, Inc., has received a $250 check from the Bi-County Community Fund, Inc. This being the first quarter of the $1,000 allocated to H.S.C. Inc., as a result of the U.F. Drive conducted in the Harrington area in September, 1969.

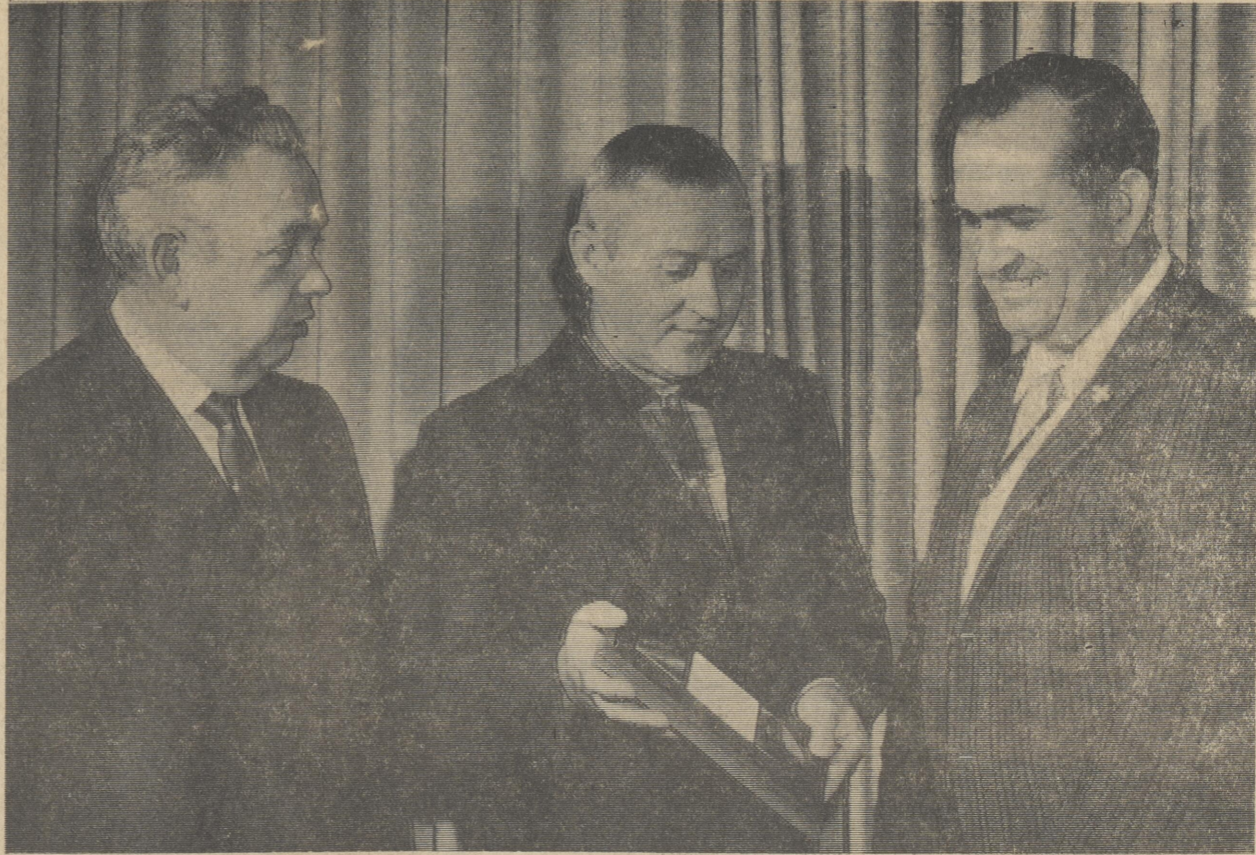

The area chairman, Howard Wagner was very pleased with the results of his committee of volunteer solicitors.

The Harrington Senior Center is very grateful to the chairman and his committee who gave their time and efforts and to the citizens who pledged their tax deductible dollars.

Since moving to their building on Fleming Street, across from City Hall, the Senior Citizens have a more diversified program, increased their membership and will continue to do both as long as the support of the community progresses as rapidly and generously in the future as it did in 1969, a wonderful year for the Center.

Rug Choices

Buying a rug? Today, you have a wider selection than ever—your choice of fibers, size, patterns, color and even a choice between different construction methods.

The four entirely different ways to make rugs are weaving, tufting, knitting and a non-woven process, according to Miss Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware.

"Which you choose depends on the quality carpet you need, how much wear the rug will get, and the price you can pay."

The four standard carpet weaves — Wilson, Axminster, velvet and chenille — are made on a loom. Due to cost and production limitations, only a small percentage of carpets are actually woven.

The less expensive tufting process produces broader widths of carpet — up to 15 widths are available. Pile yarns are put into a jute or cotton canvas backing which is then coated with latex. The face yarns or tufts in the pile may be looped, cut or a combination of both.

Good quality tufted rugs have a thick, dense pile that feels luxurious and wears well; in fact, it compares favorably in quality to the woven carpet which is usually more expensive. Of course, woven or tufted, good construction is important — but sometimes hard to determine. If in doubt, rely on a dependable dealer and an established carpet brand, suggests Miss Morris. A rug is only as good as its density—the amount of "goods" in each square inch. The greater the cushion, the longer the wear and the more extra benefits.

You can test density by fell, or bending a piece of carpet over your finger. If the backing shows through the pile, the carpet is not dense and the price should be lower. Heavy traffic areas in your home will need a good quality, dense carpet, says Miss Morris.

Non-woven carpets are a recent addition to the market, she points out. These are made by a felting process using synthetic fibers. Both the fibers and the way the rug is produced are less expensive than more traditional methods and fibers, so non-woven rugs give you long wearing, easy-care floor coverings that is also easy on the budget. They are widely advertised for use both outdoors and indoors—even in the kitchen, bathroom or around the pool.

Color ranges and styling in non-woven carpets have been limited, admits Miss Morris. However, many improvements have already been made; a wider choice should be available soon.

Only a very small percentage of the carpets on the market are knitted. However, another similar process results in rugs with pile on both sides. They can be reversed as well as turned around, which means you'll get longer wear. Also, these rugs are quite inexpensive because they are made from already used materials such as old clothes or worn rugs.

"Daisy, Daisy, give me your answer, do". This and several other favorites of the "young - at - heart" group rang out last Thursday, Feb. 12, at the Fletcher Nursing Home in Felton. The occasion was a Valentine Party sponsored by the Senior Center. There were about 10 guests of the home present. Gladys Hill, president of the Center's membership, acted as chairman for the group. A lacy valentine and a card was given each guest. A heart-shaped cake was cut and served with punch. This second visit was made to the home upon a request from those who had been present at the birthday party given for one of their members in December.

Those present from Harrington were Gladys Hill, Ruth Vincent, Pearl Derrickson, Cora Stevens, Catherine Errigo, assistant director and Jennie Morris.

On Tuesday, Feb. 24, at 12:30 there will be a covered dish luncheon with W. Preston Lee, the new executive director of the Delaware Commission for the Aging, and his wife as guests of the Center. Members are urged to attend to meet the visitors and to be present for the regular monthly business meeting which will follow.

It was good to welcome Christine Clymer back on Monday. Essie Redden has returned from a trip to Florida in the company of her granddaughter, Lois, and her husband. She was bubbling over with news of the sunshine state on Monday and had a Florida orange for all who were present at the Center.

Two of our members have suffered falls recently. Lelia Hopkins is improving slowly from the fall and a cold. Arta Masten is also on the mend. Fortunately no bones were broken but both could make a psychedelic picture in black, blue, green and yellow. Two members have a birthday this coming week — Lillie Sullivan on the 22nd and Viola Jacobs on the 26th. Alice Laugrell saw another year start on this past Tuesday the 17th.

The membership was saddened by the news of the death of one of its members, Mrs. Orella Wilson of Felton, and wishes to extend its sympathy to the members of her family. There is no place like home unless it is the Senior Center. For many it means the companionship of friends with whom they could not visit otherwise. Know someone would enjoy getting away from home for a couple of hours? Give a call to 398-3908 and transportation will be arranged. The Center is open on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday from 10 to 4.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

Plight of a Senior Citizen
 "I'm Fine"

There is nothing whatever the matter with me,
 I'm just as healthy as I can be.
 I have arthritis in both of my knees,
 And when I talk, I talk with a wheeze.
 My pulse is weak and my blood is thin—
 But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in.

I think my liver is out of whack,
 And a terrible pain is in my back.
 The way I figure is sure a crime,
 I'm liable to drop at any time.
 I jump like mad at the drop of a pin—
 But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in.

My teeth will eventually have to come out,
 And my diet, I have to think about.
 I'm overweight and can't get thin,
 My appetite is a terrible sin—
 But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in.

Th moral is this, as this tale is unfolded,
 We Senior Citizens are growing old,
 And it's better to say, "I'm fine," with a grin,
 Than to let them know the shape we are in.

Delaware Food Market Report
 by Anne Halberton

It's no news to most of us that this has been a long cold winter, more so than many in recent years. And it's no news that each time we visit the grocery stores we see evidence of new price increases. All of this goes hand in hand, when temperatures drop way down, farmers can't send their stock to market thus, lower supplies of beef, pork, chicken, etc. When ice forms in Florida, Texas and other southern growing areas, tender vegetables freeze as they did in these areas in January; so prices edge up due to limited quantities available for shipping and quality is often lower too. These are a couple of the reasons for price increases and from the way it looks we can expect things to remain much as they have been.

Beef prices are expected to inch up as the demand for this meat is over and beyond the slight increase in stock. Cattle now coming in market are heavier, so look for stores to feature roasts; chuck, blade, arm and rib. Steaks, also, will be a bit cheaper during the weekend sales due to the smaller demand for these quick-cooking cuts during the winter season.

Broilers - fryers remain excellent buys and they will remain so through March. Suppliers are increasing but demand is also increasing, so expect prices from three to six cents a pound higher. However, there will continue to be specials on this meat, which will put it as such a price you can't help but buy two or three extra chickens.

Egg prices are due to decline from now into June, however, they have just hit their highest prices in a decade. True, prices are high, but what other animal protein food can you buy for 52 cents a pound? Egg dishes are an excellent choice for meatless days during the Lenten season.

A smaller fresh vegetable crop is anticipated during the next six to eight weeks. When you shop, do look and select carefully because quality needs to be watched. If you cannot find what you want turn to canned or frozen vegetables. Indicated production is lower for most of the hardier vegetables including cabbage, carrots, celery escarole and spinach. In addition, freezing temperatures in Florida and Texas during January, damaged tender crops such as; snap beans, green peppers, cucumbers, sweet corn and tomatoes.

Higher price tags are appearing on Florida oranges, but the supply of California grapefruit is large so prices are fairly reasonable on this fruit. Other fruits this week remain in price much as they were last week.

HOW TO SAVE 50,000 LIVES YEARLY!

CORONARY CARE UNITS, MONITORING HEART ATTACK PATIENTS' VITAL FUNCTIONS AND PERMITTING EMERGENCY TREATMENT WITHIN SECONDS CAN DECREASE CORONARY MORTALITY TOLL 30%

HEART ASSOCIATIONS HELP TO TRAIN MEDICAL AND NURSING STAFF FOR THESE LIFE-SAVING UNITS...

CORONARY CARE UNITS, with an ultimate potential of saving 50,000 lives yearly in this country, are only one of many heart-saving developments speeded by your Heart Fund dollars. The advances since 1950, when massive research programs were inaugurated by the Government and your Heart Association, have yielded a dramatic dividend—a decline of 20.1 per cent in the cardiovascular mortality rate for persons under 65 years of age. Despite this impressive gain, heart and circulatory diseases continue to kill more Americans under 65 than the next three causes combined—cancer, accidents and pneumonia-influenza.

by the agency to do whatever he did. But because the private individual is made a scapegoat for the actions of elected officials, the letters become unprintable.

It comes natural to most newspapers that using unsigned letters or withholding sibilantures is taboo. It follows that if one has the strength of his convictions, he should affix a signature. But just about anybody can write a letter he wouldn't dare sign. And newspapers will sometimes let themselves get raked over the coals in the letters column when it would legally be prohibited from allowing the same charges to be levied at a private citizen.

The press has the duty to report all the functions of the public agencies. It requires itself to dig out all the pertinent information and to insist that the officials of the electorate lay it on the line for the public readership. That is part of the duty.

It must remain flexible enough to alter policies and practices, but never irresponsible enough to side up with public issues so that it turns its back on important facts the opposition may want to voice. And it must garner from the adult-type complaints, as well as from the other sort, every suggestion that can help it improve its service to community.

Freedom of press can be a waiting game-a waiting for developments an acceptance of everything at face value. So without the implied duty, press freedom can die a-borning.

percentage of every tax dollar to educate our children in primary and secondary schools. Add to the cost of a college or technical education and the sum becomes a staggering pull on the pocket-book.

Money spent on education is never lost, especially if a city or community has some way to retain its young people and make it possible for them to add to the local economy by becoming wage-earners.

But when less than five percent of the annual crop of high school graduates return to the community, the loss in money - when multiplied by the number of students - is fantastic!

Not only do we lose the money we have already spent on their educations but we also lose the potential earning power and community contributions that each and every graduate has.

As they are forced to look elsewhere for jobs, positions, and homes, other cities and states benefit at our expense. And our loss, annually, runs into thousands and thousands of dollars. In addition, we lose those valuable youngsters and their potential toward community progress.

Unless a city can make available new jobs and positions each year—and not just those which open due to retirement of older workers—the financial drain on the local economy is reflected by taxes which must necessarily increase as the assessed valuation fails to keep pace with public needs.

This is the sort of thing which keeps a small town small. And it is happening to us. —Cassville (Mo.) Democrat

The Right to Know

The men who sat down to compose the Bill of Rights never intended to open all the stops when they voted to guarantee freedom of the press. They didn't mean to hand newspapers the right to publish rumor as fact or to deal in criminal and civil fracas like an adjunct of the nation's courts. They meant freedom to keep the public informed, to fortify the knowledge and thus the responsible action of the citizenry. So they meant, also, duty.

Through United States Law the individual is granted recourse in the courts for slander and libel by a newspaper. The publisher is directly responsible, which puts aside the old wives' tale that as long as one signs a letter to the editor, it's going to get into print. Sometimes a perfectly legitimate objection is aimed not at the public agency involved, but at a private citizen who was asked

FENCE TALK

Francis J. Webb, Asst.

Dairy farmers, who are members of the Kent County Dairy Herd Improvement Association, have scheduled their annual banquet meeting for Wednesday, March 4, at the Felton Fire Hall starting at 7 p.m., says C. Allen Davis, president.

Home style oysters will appear on the menu. About 100 people are expected to attend. Clarence Parsons, retired extension dairyman at the University of Massachusetts, will offer a slide talk on his recent trip to Africa.

Slide travel programs have been a highlight of these meetings in recent years, because they appeal to the whole family.

Non-dairy farmers who may be interested in the dinner or program, are invited to attend by making a reservation as soon as possible. You can call 736-1448, adds Davis.

Two books are being read by your county agent as I recover from the effects of a stroke. You may want to read at least one of them. It is "The Emerging South" by Thomas D. Clark published as a second edition by Oxford University Press in 1968. You will find how the southern part of the United States is moving from a rural economy to one which is more industrial and more urban. Farms, of course, are getting fewer, larger and more mechanized.

The other book has been mentioned in this column before: De Re Rustica of "On Agriculture" by Janius Lucius Columella, a Latin soldier-scholar who lived in the first century A.D. At least ninety-five percent of what he wrote years ago still is true today. His work is a classic of farming information. Of course, I'm wading through an English translation.

It took this enforced recovery period to provide time for the readings. For contrary to what you may have thought, the winter season is one of the busiest for a county agent, what with meetings and other events when farmers find time to attend.

Francis Webb with you again to suggest a few farm and home garden tips. You farmers should make sure that your crop seed is treated with a fungicide and insecticide combination before you plant. As most of you will agree, seed treatment costs a few cents an acre, but it is worth it.

Treatment costs between 5 and 25 cents an acre and this low investment insures you as much as 50 percent of a potential crop yield against losses due to seed disease and or soil insects. Treatment also helps to prevent bird damage to crop stands. Generally, seed treatment can control these types of problems particularly disease and insect problems.

However, I must stress that seed treatment should not be used as a substitute for good judgment at planting time. Seeds should be planted at the proper depth (depends on the crop being planted) and utilizing good quality seed. Treating poor quality seed and or planting treated seed to deep will not be very beneficial, because these seedlings will be more susceptible to attack.

This brings up the point that some corn hybrid seed companies will not be applying an insecticide to their seed this year. Other companies will apply an insecticide on request and others will be treating the same as always. The point is, if you buying your seed from a company that is not treating, plan on using a planter box treatment of insecticide. Be sure to ask your dealer if his seed will be treated. It will be well worth your investment if the seed is not.

If you would like to have information on approved chemicals for use as seed treatment for corn, small grains, beans and other crops, contact your local county extension office. Kent County; telephone 736-1448, or write P.O. Box 340, Dover, 19909.

If any of you home gardeners are planning on growing popcorn in the garden along with sweet corn this year, stop and reconsider. The popcorn pollen will cross with your sweet corn varieties and will reduce the eating quality of the corn. Also, the sweet corn pollen on the popcorn is not a good cross. These two crops should not be grown in the same garden. You should choose the one you want to grow and plan to buy the other. The popcorn may be the one to buy, but that is up to you.

When considering tomatoes and sweet pepper varieties for your garden keep in mind that most garden soils are infected with Fusarium or Verticillium wilt. We recommend that resistant varieties be grown. They are as follows:

Tomato: spring giant, del-sheer, superonic, ramapo, heinz 1409, roma - plum type. Peppers: yolo L, Delaware belle.

These seeds are available from a number of commercial seed companies. You may have trouble buying these varieties as plants this spring. However, tomatoes and peppers are simple to start from seed to grow your own plants. For further information contact your local county extension office.

Appointed To Plant Science Staff

A new crops specialist has been appointed to the department of plant science in the College of Agricultural Sciences at the University of Delaware. Dr. William C. Liebhardt will be responsible for coordinating research dealing with irrigation and fertilization of vegetable and field crops, according to Dr. Merle R. Teel, chairman of the department.

A former crops physiologist with Standard Fruit Company and Allied Chemical Company, Liebhardt will examine problems related to plant nutrition under irrigated conditions. He will also conduct courses in plant nutrition and soil biochemistry at the University.

Liebhardt was raised on a livestock farm in Wisconsin and received his B.S., M.S., and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Wisconsin. Liebhardt, his wife, Kathleen, and four sons are residing in Newark.

Mothers' March Volunteers on the Go All Year to Prevent Birth Defects

Jane Wyatt, National Chairman of the Mothers' March to prevent birth defects, has a timely message for everyone—particularly women: "Don't get hooked on 'harmless' drugs."

Since 1963 the popular actress has been leading millions of dedicated volunteers in a crusade directed by The National Foundation-March of Dimes. Their goal is to end a severe national health problem that annually strikes some quarter of a million newborns. To hasten this day, women marchers in all 50 states join with Miss Wyatt each January to raise funds for this vital cause.

Contributions help support 111 March of Dimes Birth Defects Centers around the country, many of which are located at major medical centers and teaching hospitals. Throughout this network, programs of research, professional and public health education, patient care and community services are carried out in the care and prevention of birth defects.

This year, under Miss Wyatt's leadership, women who ring doorbells and extend the familiar envelopes will leave behind excellent advice about careless use of medications. Volunteers, many of whom belong to leading clubs and organizations, are distributing "Don't Get Hooked on 'Harmless' Drugs!," a pamphlet that warns against the devastating impact that misuse of drugs may have upon an unborn child.

Prenatal Care Emphasis It is certainly possible that heroin, speed, LSD, and the like can cause lifelong heart-ache if a pregnant woman indulges in them. But what about the so-called 'harmless' drugs— aspirin, tranquilizers, nose drops, vitamins, "diet and cold" pills?

Scientists are studying many drugs to determine whether they affect the fetus. For greater peace of mind during pregnancy, women are urged to observe a simple rule: Take no medication of any kind from the time you suspect you are going to have a baby. The exception, of course, is medicine recommended by a doctor who knows you are or may be ex-

It Seems To Me

By Janet C. Reed

Here we go again. Isn't it strange that we women seem to worry so much about skirt lengths?

But, there may be some reason for concern this time. Longer skirts may mean a spurt to the economy if we all have to buy new wardrobes, but it won't do much for the family budget.

Recent Paris fashion collections showed lengths which varied from above the knee to ankle length. Day-time lengths seemed to vary from knee to mid-calf. The one thing designers all seemed to agree on — the mini is dead.

However, keep the Paris fashion news in perspective. These designers create the ideas that are the forerunners of fashion. Most of us have to get accustomed to a drastic change before we're willing to accept it.

Fashion authorities seem to think that the hemline descent will be gradual unless you're trying to set the fashion pace. It appears you still will be able to salvage some wardrobe favorites by letting down the hems.

Many stores buyers think the longer length won't really take hold before fall. Who wants to wear longer skirts in hot weather?

But longer skirts are here. So think twice before you're tempted by late winter sale dresses you plan to wear next winter — or before you invest too heavily in new clothes you expect to wear for a year or two. Maybe this is the time to get some extra wear from your present wardrobe.

Choose Power Equipment Carefully

Yard work always seems easier before the season starts when you can just sit back and dream of a well-kept lawn and garden.

But, that work can be easier if you choose power equipment wisely, according to Tom Williams, agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware. Make sure you have enough horsepower to do the job, he suggests. "Buy the smallest machine with the largest engine possible."

A four-stroke gas engine is more efficient and will last longer than a two-stroke. In fact, a two-stroke engine is only practical if you're concerned about weight as you would be with an outboard boat motor or a motorized saw.

For continued efficiency, use regular gas and a good grade of detergent oil such as an oil rated MS for cars. Change the oil regularly and be sure you change at the end of the season.

Larger types of equipment such as mowers, rotary tillers and garden tractors should be well-powered also, Williams says. For example, a rotary tiller should have 3 1/2 horsepower per foot of width; a moldboard plow needs 2 horsepower per 10-inch bottom.

A power mower should have two horsepower per foot of cut if it's the push type; that's the power needed just to do the cutting. Double the power requirement if it's self-propelled; triple the horsepower if you're getting a riding mower.

A chain or gear drive is more efficient than a belt drive which also wears out more quickly, Williams notes. The new hydrostatic drive with an infinite speed range—or infinite ratio between the ground speed and motor speed—can be more efficient for rotary tillers. However, this feature is only available now in garden tractors with more than eight horsepower, Williams says.

Of course, safety is a major feature to keep in mind; 80,000 people are injured every year with mowers alone. For safety, buy a riding mower with large wheels to provide traction and stability. Be sure the tractor is designed so discharge chutes are not in the way when you get on or off. Look for the seal of the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute for designed-in safety features, Williams urges.

Safety features will help prevent accidents, but a careful operator is still the best insurance.

Good Money Management Can Improve Farm Income

Debt is no longer the stigma it once was to farmers, according to Harold Walker, agricultural economist at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Used wisely, debt can be a major factor in the growth of a farm enterprise and increased profits, misused, debt can become a deadly burden.

Walker told those attending the fourth annual Delmarva Soybean Meeting in Salisbury that farmers can improve their financial management by: (1) Investing available capital and credit where it will produce the highest return. (2) Using realistic time schedules for repaying loans. (3) Leasing or hiring land or equipment when it is more profitable than buying. (4) And staying within their managerial capabilities.

Improved mechanization has been a life saver to American farming but a downfall to many farmers, pointed out Wilson. Over-mechanization is one of the most serious problems in farming today.

"The excuses range from being forced to buy large units because of high priced, scarce labor to speeding up the work due to weather risks," he said. "Both reasons are valid for mechanizing, but not for over-mechanizing!"

A farmer should use equipment that is designed for the job. Machinery that is too small will not get the job done on time or handle the workload required. On the other hand, when a farmer uses equipment that is larger than necessary, the time saved may not be worth the higher cost.

Ownership is not the only way to gain the use of equipment, said Wilson. "When capital is short, leasing or hiring custom work may offer solution to the investment problems as well as providing a tax advantage."

MOTHERS' MARCH volunteers are active in March of Dimes community service projects throughout the year. They march in January to raise funds which help support needed programs in the fight to prevent birth defects.

Information material, such as the pamphlet, "Don't Get Hooked on 'Harmless' Drugs!" is an example of the importance which the March of Dimes places on the need for prenatal care. This theme is stressed in year-round public health education programs sponsored by the voluntary health organization.

Miss Wyatt reports that the organization has launched prenatal care programs in more than 50 metropolitan areas and hundreds of smaller communities. These projects are done in cooperation with public health departments and major women's service organizations. In addition, civic and social clubs, religious and fraternal associations, youth groups and churches participate in special educational projects.

Along with prenatal care programs, volunteers also are working closely with local public health departments and medical societies in many areas to encourage widespread use of new vaccines against rubella (German measles) and Rh blood incompatibility disease. Both are major causes of birth defects.

Progress in Prevention Other preventive methods used in the struggle against birth defects include genetic counseling and new techniques for diagnosing some defects in the unborn child. Surgery on newborn babies is becoming more and more successful in correcting life-threatening malformations.

The task of preventing birth defects is still an awesome one, but concerned women throughout the country are making it possible for the March of Dimes to help children born handicapped lead happy, useful lives. "More important," says Jane Wyatt, "they are leading the fight to prevent birth defects from striking children yet unborn. They march to bring hope to future generations and help to those who need it now."

The delegates showed their commitment and leadership by giving $5,000 to the budget in the communion service that ended the convention.

Spartans Crush Raiders; Moore 14 Points From Blaney's Mark

Art Refosco's Lake Forest Spartans won their 14th game in 15 starts, by crushing Woodbridge's Blue Raiders, at Lake Forest on Tuesday night.

Woodbridge may have lost all chance to stay in contention with the Spartans, by paying too much attention to Chris Moore, the Spartan's scoring leader, who is bidding to become the most prolific scorer, in Delaware scholastic history.

In addition to Woodbridge's sagging defense, the young Spartan had other troubles. He missed four, easy shots and had several jump shots go in the bucket and spin back out. Moore's effort to score 34 points and set a new, Delaware career-mark of 1416 tallies failed. But, he led all scorers with 19 points, neared his seasonal average of 21.5 and now has a career total of 1401. His total of 320 for this campaign easily leads the state. Come to Delmar Thursday night. He should reach his four year goal.

While Woodbridge was unduly preoccupied with Moore, that whirling dervish of a Ken Copper, lead a charge that turned the game, into a rout. Copper steals led to baskets. Mike Fisher was hot and the first period ended 21-9, Spartans.

Scrappy Dan DeMora was in foul trouble in period two. Seldom-used, Curt Powell, a burly football player, came in and did yeomen work under the basket, getting several rebounds and helping to neutralize, Woodbridge's big men. Powell exited to much applause.

The Spartans relaxed somewhat in the second half and Woodbridge fell only five points further back. Tony Burton played well for LF in the second half.

Copper, who has missed only two free throws in his last eight games had 17 points. The fiery Mike Fisher had 13, with clever John McCloskey adding 12. Lake Forest's top four scorers are averaging in double figures and are all listed in state rankings.

aire. Copper was the subject of a long article in a daily paper, which calls him the best all-around player in Delaware.

If he and Moore make a fairly good showing in the state tournament, both should make the first-team all-state team. However, it is our guess that upstate voters will try to hold Lake Forest to one all-stater. It just wouldn't do for a small school to have more than one all-star, no matter how much both boys deserve the honor. Both should make the grade, easily, if the all-state team should be picked at the end of the regular season.

Chipman Cagers Lose To Larger Foes

W.T. Chipman Junior School's cagers continue to play a good brand of ball, although losing to strong opponents.

The locals gave Easton a stiff battle before bowing 24-16. Easton hasn't been beaten for two years. Kevin Pruitt, Chipman's best player did not play.

At Milford, Chipman stayed within 10 points of the Bucs for three quarters. Milford padded the edge by 9 more points against substitutes in the final minute. Lee Dunbar, one of Chipman's top player didn't make this one.

A tall, Woodbridge five pulled away in the final minutes to grab a hard-fought 27-13 victory.

Chipman's reserves eked out a 13-12 verdict in a preliminary tilt.

Harrington Bowling League

By Leah S. Wheeler

Stan Johnson set the pace for Gerardi Bros. with a real fine 525 series as they waltzed over Wally's Garage to move into sole possession of first place. Jim Francisco also contributed a fine above average performance to give Gerardi's a little extra boost to the top. Wally's Garage fell several rungs in the standings on their four-game loss, the Larry Breeding bowled very well in defeat with a fine 205 game and a real good above average effort.

The Spoilers stayed close to the leaders on a real fine three-game victory over Hamilton Funds in Tuesday night's setto. Leonard Outten paved the way in the Spoilers' victory, rolling a great 525 series. Clarence Jarrell and Wayne Creadick rolled well for the Spoilers, enabling them to capture one game to their credit.

Donald Garey scorched the boards for a superb 597 set, with games of 209 and 210 included, to lead McKnatt Funeral Home as they trounced Butler's Fuel in four games. Harold Brode, Robert Garey, and Harry Jack also bowled very well in McKnatt's impressive win over the fuelers. Robert Wright rolled his best game and series for the season as he blasted the ten-pins for a superb 587 set, with a very grand 230 single game, for a grand performance, for the losing fuelers.

Jarrell Fuel won a closely contested match with Quillen's Market, enabling them to remain high in the standings again this week. Both teams were hampered by each having to go into the fray with four men. Dallas Hayman continues to bowl well for Jarrell's as he paved the way to victory with a grand 551 series, including a fine

Spartan Wrestlers Lose 25-21 At Seaford

Roger Klapp, Lake Forest's last unbeaten wrestler was unable to compute at Seaford due to injury. To some observers, it appeared that his loss might be all the help Seaford would need to pull out a close victory. Such was not the case.

Ray Scott, a well-built lad new to wrestling, took Kapp's place and pinned Dowd of Seaford in 3:17. Klapp could not have scored any more points for Lake Forest, than did Scott, but Seaford went on to beat the Spartans 25-21.

Lake Forest, under the tutelage of Tom Muehleisen and Elliott Workman, is having a good year. The loss was only the third in nine starts.

In addition to Scott, Chuck Hurd and Louis Kemp recorded pins for the Spartans. Hurd flattened his man in 1:10 of the first round, at 126 pounds Kemp pinned Rogers in 46 seconds of the second round, in the 168-pound class.

Other Spartan victories were chalked up by Spike Adams, a 11-4 decision over Ramey at 118 pounds and Norman Baynard, a 6-5 winner over Riggleman, at 133 pounds.

Lake Forest hosts Indian River on Feb. 19 and winds up the regular season at Caesar Rodney on Feb. 25.

Spartans Square Account With I. R., 73-57

Revenge is sweet. But the 73-57 victory scored by Lake Forest, at home on Friday night, could not come close to replacing what was lost when the Indians beat the Spartans 71-69, at Dagsboro-Frankford, on Tuesday night.

For the earlier defeat cost the locals an unbeaten season. Only Wilmington Concord High is perfect in Delaware, this campaign.

Hungry to square accounts, Art Refosco's Spartans opened up a 21-14 first period edge, saw that melt to three points at halftime, then went ahead by six after three periods. The final stanza was like the first as the victors moved steadily away, outpointing the Indians 18-8.

Indian River now owns a 6-6 mark in the Southern Division of the Henlopen Conference, behind the division - winning (12-1) Spartans (13-1 overall).

Chris Moore's seasonal high of 28 points puts him just 23 points behind the 1415 points scored by Bernard (Bunny) Blaney, some 17 years ago. Blaney's mark, the best career-output in Delaware scholastic history, should be broken by Moore this week. Chris could put this record out of anyone's reach for a long time, since he has least six more games to play before his high school career ends.

Mike Fisher, one of the best small players in Delaware, tallied 17 points against the Indians. John McClosky had 13. Ken Copper spent the bulk of the contest on the bench but scored 11 points. Copper hit seven of eight free throws. The miss was his first from the charity stripe in seven years. Meanwhile Wilt the Still cannot make foul shots and he's a million-
