

Honey Bee 4-H Club

The Honey Bee 4-H Club had their third meeting of the year last Thursday, March 5. Four adults and thirteen members attended the meeting.

Under our old business was the following: the Reddie Foods Contest will be March 7, at the Caesar Rodney Jr. High School.

Hints on the Public Speaking Contest were given by our leader, Eunice Collison, getting us ready for next years contest.

Representing junior broiler from our club is Donald Bullock.

Four of our members planted strawberries. The members are Alan Welch, George Rust, Ginny Teed, and Aileen Torbert.

We also had another decision on where we wanted to hold our meetings. A vote was taken and we are now going to hold them on the first Thursday of every month in the Burrsville Community House.

The Dress Revue will be held May 2, at the Caesar Rodney High School. Attending the dress revue from our club will be Ginny Teed, Beth Teed, Aileen Torbert, Maureen Gerardi, and Sandy Holloway.

Under our new business was the following: There will be a 4-H skating party, March 30, at the Capitol Arena. Our club plans to attend.

Representing Feeder Pig from our club is Kenny Hanson.

Also all clubs may donate one dollar per person, to the National 4-H Club Center Building Fund.

The meeting was adjourned. Refreshments were served by Maureen Gerardi.

Extra: The usage of drugs was one of our new business topics. We discussed this from every angle. Our club came up with a verdict, if you know someone who is now taking or pushing drugs, go to their parents immediately and tell them about their child or children, also report their name to the police. Maybe this is one way that you can help. Also you may be helping someone whom you love and care about, this is the only way.

To Host Farm Press Institute

"Agriculture Speaks Up" is the theme of the University of Delaware's third annual Farm Press Institute Wednesday, March 18, at the Holiday Inn, Dover.

The conference, sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service and the agricultural editor's office, will examine the opinions of Delmarva farmers and agricultural observers concerning the problems facing agricultural today and what farm organizations and farm leaders can do to solve them.

Featured speaker at the day long meeting will be Robert C. Liebenow, president of the Corn Refiners Association, Inc. and former president of the Chicago Board of Trade.

Also featured at this year's Farm Press Institute will be a discussion of a recent survey of Delmarva farmers on key agricultural issues; a look at mass media or public relations as a solution to farm problems; and a panel discussion of issues affecting Delmarva farmers.

The Farm Press Institute Communication Awards for the best press service by a farm organization and the best farm coverage by a weekly newspaper will also be presented during the program.

Delaware farm organizations and Delaware weekly newspapers are eligible for the awards.

Veterans' News

Q - I am attending school under the G.I. Bill, and my wife has given birth to a son. How do I notify the VA of this additional dependent?

A - Forward immediately to your VA regional office a copy of the child's birth record. Be careful to write your VA file number on the document. It is advisable to attach a note advising the VA that you are training under the G.I. Bill.

Q - My husband was killed in service, and I am thinking of taking advantage of the educational benefits available from the Veterans Administration. Will the VA assist me in working out a program.

A - Yes. You may apply to the VA for vocational counseling. Professional counselors may be able to help you decide on a productive and rewarding program.

Q - When must veterans and dependents receiving pensions return the income questionnaires received with their October checks?

A - Jan. 15 was the deadline. Anyone who has not returned his questionnaire should do so immediately as required by law. Assistance in completing questionnaires may be obtained from the nearest VA office.

Q - I am thinking of selling my home which I purchased with a G.I. loan that is not yet paid in full. If the buyer defaults, will I be liable to the Veterans Administration? Can I be released from such liability?

A - Yes, to both questions.

However, the VA may release you only if the buyer assumes full liability for repayment. If such a release is approved, you will not be liable for default by the buyer. Before signing the sales contract, ask the VA office which guaranteed your loan for forms and instruction for release from personal liability.

Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen Will Speak At Gov's. Prayer Breakfast

Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen will speak at the 10th annual Governor's Prayer Breakfast in April, Governor Russell W. Peterson announced today.

"The archbishop is among the most dynamic and outstanding personalities in religion today," the Governor said. "We are very pleased that he was able to accept our invitation to come to Delaware."

The breakfast will be held at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, April 29, at the University of Delaware's new Field House on Route 896, said Robert L. Hagenbach, chairman of the prayer breakfast.

He said the Field House was chosen for the affair because of the anticipated large attendance to hear the prominent clergyman.

Invitations from the Governor will be in the mail this week, and the deadline for returning reservations will be April 15, Hagenbach said.

He has been working closely with W. G. Davis, Dover, who has been chairman of the breakfast ever since its inception nine years ago.

Archbishop Sheen has distinguished himself as a preacher, author, educator, editor, columnist and television personality. He was the first regular speaker on the Catholic Hour radio program starting in 1930 and reached an average weekly listening audience estimated at 4 million people of all faiths.

In the fall of 1951, he began a television series entitled "Life is Worth Living" and by 1956 was appearing on 123 ABC television stations in the United States alone and 300 radio stations.

For 16 years, he was national director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith. Under his direction, the United States was responsible for two-thirds of the funds the society collected in world-wide solicitation.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mildred Norris Jarrell, two sons, J. Boone Jr. of Denton, and W. Norris Jarrell of Harrington, a brother, Linwood O. of Denton, Md., and two grandchildren.

Services were held Saturday afternoon at the Rawlings-Boulais Funeral Home, Greensboro. Interment was in the Greensboro Cemetery.

He served on the Conciliar Commission on the Lay Apostolate for Vatican II and was the only American member of the Commission on the Missions.

On Labor Day, 1955, he became the first Latin Rite Bishop in history to offer a solemn Byzantine Rite Mass in English.

A native of El Paso, Ill., Archbishop Sheen was ordained a priest 50 years ago, in 1919. He received degrees from St. Viator College in Illinois, Catholic University of America, and the University of Louvain, Belgium.

In 1926, he joined the Catholic University faculty and ultimately became a full professor of philosophy. For many years, he was the annual Lenten preacher at St. Patrick's Cathedral.

He was appointed a papal chamberlain and monsignor in 1934 and domestic prelate the following year, and was consecrated a bishop in 1951.

He became bishop of Rochester, N. Y., in 1966 and in 1969 was appointed Titular Archbishop of Newport, (Wales).

Reporters, Politicians And Statesmen

The difference between the politician and the statesman is the politician only thinks of the next election, whereas the statesman thinks of the next generation.

Once in a great while we come across a politician who is also a statesman.

Have you ever noticed also another interesting phenomena, the official minutes of a meeting as opposed to what actually took place?

It is my understanding that according to Roberts Rules of Order, official minutes only have to record actual motions passed or official business transacted.

Now this leaves an awful lot of room for interpretation of what was said at a given meeting. It is not uncommon for a meeting that might include four or five hours of heated and acrimonious debate to have only a couple of short sentences in the official minutes, or not be mentioned at all.

One reason for the inevitable conflict between press and politicians is that without the spotlight of the press there is almost nothing to hinder the imposition of one man rule.

Sometimes a politician is so fair by nature, so intelligent by endowment that there is no need for close examination of his actions. This, indeed, is a rarity.

Therefore, I personally feel that the sooner a politician realizes that in a democracy at least, he lives in a goldfish bowl, the better off he will be. A man of honor and integrity can stand close scrutiny, a charlatan can not.

School District Reorganization Under Ed. Advancement Act.

The narrative selection of the Department of Public Instruction's Annual Report for the 1968-69 school year is currently being distributed.

Under a new format, this year's publication describes major accomplishments, problems, and goals of the state's education agency. An estimate of the department's financial needs through 1975 and a survey of expenditures for the past three years are also included in the report.

In previewing the first year of school district reorganization under the Educational Advancement Act the report marks the end of a 50-year era of centralized state control of many small school districts.

The new style of state educational leadership being displayed by the Department of Public Instruction is outlined in the report's description of several innovative programs. The department has moved from a role of controlling supervision to one of innovative leadership.

The department's immediate goals which require major legislative action are listed. In addition, long-range goals are included.

Among the major accomplishments of the department cited in the publication are the beginning of the state-supported kindergarten program; the interstate certification compact, which will facilitate the movement of teachers from state to state; an archaeology project featuring the discoveries at the South Bowers Beach dig; the schools for handicapped children with emphasis on the new Sterck School for the Hearing Impaired; and the rescheduled school year study.

The Educational Television Network and sex education are cited as major problems during the year. The department's plans to help alleviate these problems are also outlined.

The Annual Report's narrative section, prepared by the public information and publication section, completes the department's two-part report. A statistical section was published in December.

Control Of Termites Discussed

Termites are a complex as well as costly pest control problem. Not only will termites react differently to various environmental conditions, but the same colony may change its activities for no apparent reason, according to Dr. Harry Moore, entomologist at North Carolina State University.

Speaking at the University of Delaware's annual Pest Control Short Course, Moore explained that a colony of termites in its earliest stage of development spreads out in many directions in search of food. As the colony expands, however, sub-colonies are formed and new nesting areas are established.

Once the colony has formed secondary units, control measures are more difficult to maintain, said Moore. The sub-colonies are not dependent upon the original ones if food and moisture are still available.

Termites are most active and usually cause the most damage in warm climates, pointed out Moore. But in colder regions, heat from homes can keep colonies active throughout the winter. Adequate moisture is also important for the termites' survival. During dry spells, or in an area where the soil has excellent drainage, these pests usually cause few problems.

To protect a building being attacked by termites, Moore told pest control operators that they should inspect the facility carefully and regularly. If termites are a problem, a barrier should be constructed in the path of the colony and the soil around the foundation, as well as the foundation itself, treated with a recommended pesticide.

Calamities

"Death," some wag once said, "is nature's way of telling you to slow down."

To be sure, nature deals in cataclysmic finalities. But neither a heart attack nor an earthquake occurs out of the blue, uncaused. Both are the end results of a long string of causes and effects, though we, in our limited knowledge, may see only the final effect.

We know that the body does not wear out all of a sudden. We know the earth will not, either, despite our fondness for the kind of sudden flare-ups of the sun or runaway asteroids and the like. Nature is patient and works slowly. It has many ways of telling us to slow down, if we but have the wisdom to read the signs.

Postles To Speak At Massachusetts FFA Meeting

Charles S. Postles, Jr., of Milford, North Atlantic Region vice president of the Future Farmers of America, will be a featured speaker at the Massachusetts State FFA Convention to be held March 23-25 at Amherst.

Postles has recently completed a six-week nationwide tour of FFA associations with five other national FFA officers. This summer, he toured Panama advising schools on their agricultural programs and organizing FFA groups.

The 20-year-old FFA leader has interrupted his agricultural business studies at the University of Delaware because of his heavy FFA travel schedule. He is former president of the state FFA association and is Delaware's American Agribusinessman for 1969-70.

Postles is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Postles Sr., Route 3, Milford. He plans to join his father and uncle in their farming and trucking business after graduation.

10 resounding reasons why you should buy a new Chevrolet instead of a new something else:

- 1 Higher resale value. Year after year, no other car in Chevrolet's field gives you as much back on your initial investment.
- 2 Deep down value. Exclusives like flush-and-dry rocker panels and an extra set of fenders keep Chevrolet looking good longer.
- 3 Smooth, smooth ride. Because of Chevrolet's computer selected springs, Full Coil suspension and advanced body mounting system.
- 4 Impressive styling. The impression is that it's an expensive car, if you want to make an impression.
- 5 Massive interiors. Result? Room to stretch out or to sit tall. Chevrolet has more front leg room than any other car in its field.
- 6 Side-guard beams. Chevrolet puts more between you and the outside. Steel beams built into every door.
- 7 A finish that lasts. It's unfortunate other cars in Chevy's field don't have a Magic-Mirror finish because it sure keeps its shine.
- 8 Exceptional engines. Chevrolet's standard 350-cubic-inch V8 runs on regular fuel. Plus there are five more engines available.
- 9 Tremendous selection. Of colors. Of accessories. Of engines. Of transmissions. Of fabrics. And of models. There are nine big Chevrolets alone.
- 10 America's favorite. Something a new "something else" can't claim. If actions speak louder than words, doesn't this say something to you?

Poems from Paradise Pastures
 By W. Cliff Miller

— POETRY —

A poet sees rhymes in woodlands,
 Rhymes in the falling rain,
 Beautiful verse in flowers that grow,
 Verse in the waving grain.

Songs in the books and landscape,
 Verses from out of the sea,
 A passing cloud has a stanza,
 A dip of his pen sets free.

The homeliest weed has music,
 Creeping things in the fen,
 Hold verses that only the poet,
 Can put into words again.

It seems that our Maker, as a poet,
 Made verses that we might see,
 But the poet puts them on paper,
 To be read by you and me.

Letter to Editor

Dear Sir:
 In recent years we have heard much about our present day society. When L.B.J. became president, he appointed a commission to study conditions and to determine the cause that brought such conditions about. After one and one-half years of study, a report was made without any mention of the cause of the breakdown in our society.

Time passed, and Mr. Nixon became president. He was faced with the same problem that had troubled Mr. Johnson. Both these men were anxious to learn the cause that brought about these conditions, but no one came up with an answer.

However, there is an answer, and it can be found in the Bible where it is written, "The love of money is the root of all evil." Wherever the love of money is found in a person's life, selfishness is always present. Usually we think of politicians as being in this class, but love of money and selfishness are not restricted to politicians. Despite all the ills of our society, we still have many honest, upright, and helpful people who are not lovers of money and self only.

In our daily papers we read of the terrible deeds of crime and violence that happen every day. These conditions have been developing over a period of many years. Now the U.S.A. holds first place in the crime rate when compared with all other nations of the world. All we agree that this is not a desirable position to hold and that it presents problems with which we must deal. If we are to halt the downward trend of our society, there is much to be done, and all can help. One of the most common evils of our society today is the taking of God's name in vain, and today is includes many of the fair sex and certainly shows no degree of intelligence and is never justifiable.

A book could be written about present day conditions. But I'm not a writer; so I will conclude this letter by saying — this is our society. We can help improve it and best do that if we are willing to do a few things such as: practice the Golden Rule; love our neighbors more and our money less; do something good for others today, then all will be happier tomorrow. We can brighten our little corner with unselfish love.

Letter to Editor

Dear Carrington:
 Harrington is well represented on this cruise. Along with Anna and myself, are Arnold and Ruth Gilstad, Eddie and Lela Taylor and Walter and Marie Messick.

The "Queen Anna Maria," we all think, is a very beautiful ship, old enough to have elaborate decorations, and new enough to have all of the modern appointments.

Before the cruise, I met and became acquainted with the first officer, Miltos Zagorianos, who has treated us royally. He gave us all a personally conducted tour of the bridge, explaining the operation of the ship including the chart room and how they plot their course.

We were late in leaving New York because of the tug boat strike. This caused us to be late in arriving in San Juan (at 9:00 p.m.). Francisco Miguez (who lived in Harrington a few weeks in 1963) met us at the dock and gave us a tour of the city, stopping at his home. We sailed for St. Thomas at 2:00 a.m. We were in San Juan only 5 hours.

At St. Thomas we toured the island. We had an interview with the acting governor, David Mass, of the Virgin Islands. He extended greetings to the people of Harrington and to Gov. Peterson. This we have on a tape recording. He had a photographer take our picture with him.

The Virgin Islands were purchased by the U.S. from Denmark for 25 million dollars in 1917. The Governor has been appointed by the President of the U.S. This year they are having an election to elect a governor in November for the first time. The political campaign is now well underway.

The shops in St. Thomas although small are said to be some of the finest in the world. Lela, Anna, Ruth and Marie had a ball shopping. At one time there were six cruise ships in the harbour. (CONTINUE NEXT WEEK)

Senior Center News

On this cruise we have the executive vice-president, Ami L. Vasilades, also the head of public relations, Zanis John Marmarinos, of Greek Line. Monday evening there was a private reception for the vice president; we received an invitation and attended. It was a very formal affair; only about 10% of the passengers were invited.

Arnold has renamed the "Queen Anna Marie" to "Queen Ruth, Lela, Anna, and Marie." We have not seen any change of name by the Greek Line however. We don't think Walter will need to eat for a week the way Georgio, our waiter, is feeding him. Eddie is also doing his part. But Eddie says to tell you that he don't think he or Walter can keep up with me.

During our one day stay in St. Martin while in the center square, I ran into Harry Draper of Milton, who has a home about 10 miles from the dock. He had us out to his home where his wife, Audry, greeted us very warmly.

St. Martin is a very old and quaint town with very narrow streets and small shops. In many places the streets are so narrow there is no room for side walks and also one way traffic.

We have just returned from a private party "aperitif", given by the captain in his quarters, about 30 of us. There are a few less than 600 passengers aboard. This aperitif was a pre-lunch affair with hors d'oeuvres and, of course, drinks of all kinds, very informal with dress casual. We have a private appointment with the captain tomorrow a 10:30 a.m.

DELAWARE VISITORS Commissioner and Mrs. Fulton J. Downing, of Rehoboth Beach, were aboard the Queen Anna Maria when she overnighted in Sct. Thomas harbor this week. The Commissioner, who is a former mayor of Harrington, is president of the Harrington Rotary Club, and a special travel correspondent for The Harrington Journal. Commissioner and Mrs. Downing visited Government House, St. Thomas to convey greetings to Acting Governor David E. Maas, left, from Governor Peterson of Delaware, and to extend a special invitation to attend the Delaware State Fair next July. The Acting Governor recorded a taped message of greetings to the people of Delaware on behalf of Governor Melvin H. Evans and the people of the Virgin Islands.

We have all enjoyed watching the flying fish. When the ship goes through a school or a few of them, they jump out of the water and fly along just above the surface for sometimes as long as perhaps a hundred yards. They appear to be about 6 to 12 inches long.

One cannot appreciate the beautiful clear blue and green water of the Caribbean unless they have been here to see for themselves. At St. Thomas we went swimming at "Morning Star Beach." This is on the Caribbean side of the island. There were no large breakers which we could see on the ocean side. While swimming the water was so clear when waist deep as Ruth said, you could see spots on your toe nails.

Today is Saturday. We have just returned from our interview with the captain in his office and bridge. We have a recording and pictures which we want you to hear see after we arrive home.

After telling him about Harrington, the people and the Delaware State Fair, he asked us to say "Hello" to you and the people of Harrington and extend his greetings.

After our visit with the captain, his office arranged a special visit thru the kitchen which we thought was very large and elaborate. While going thru the bakery department, one of the cooks gave Marie, Ruth and Lela each a hot roll just from the oven. Being just before lunch, we all sampled them. They have the largest garbage can in the world, just throw scraps and left overs out the port holes. We were impressed with the large number of help in the kitchen.
