

Marshy Hope Ditch Completed; Horsepen Arm Ditch Next

Construction has been completed on one tax ditch, work will begin on another in May, and on a third later in the year, according to an official of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

Fred Mott, district conservationist of the federal agency, said construction has been completed, after more than two years, on Marshy Hope Tax Ditch encompassing about 56,000 acres west and southwest of Harrington.

The affected area starts just south of Route 404, in Sussex County, and extends 13 miles to County Road 111 a mile north of Vernon, Mott explained.

The ditch company has been inspected and turned over to the managers, namely: Chairman, William Vanderveerde, Greenwood, secretary-treasurer, Robert Mason, Harrington, and manager, Merritt Camper, also of Harrington.

Marshy Hope Ditch, or Creek, runs to a 9000-foot channel at Federalsburg and thence to the Nanticoke River. The tax ditch company which also drains the southwestern portion of Harrington, is part of the Marshy Hope Watershed draining 100,000 acres, Mott told The Journal last Thursday.

Also in the watershed are Horsepen Arm tax ditch, construction of which should start in May, explained the soil conservationist. This, the western prong of Marshy Hope Creek, starts near Vernon and extends to Hollandsville. The prong and its tributaries constitute a 17-mile network.

It will be under construction more than a year and will drain 4300 acres.

Officers of this tax ditch company are as follows: Chairman, Frank Hrupsa, Elwood Jester and Leonard Blades.

The Black Arm Ditch starts with the eastern prong of Marshy Hope Creek starts near Vernon and heads towards Masten's Corner. Construction will start this year, concluded Mott.

BROWN FILES AGAIN FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Marvin E. Brown, the Frederica representative to the Lake Forest School Board has filed for election to a special four-year term to be filled at the May 9 Kent County School Board elections.

Brown, 40, was appointed to a one-year term on the board after the portion of the Frederica district in which Charles H. West, the winner for the Frederica seat, was transferred to the Milford School District.

The special term is provided in legislation now awaiting the signature of Gov. Russell W. Peterson. The measure, H.B. 620, would bridge a gap in the Educational Advancement Act which states that each former district in a consolidated school district shall have representation on the school board for at least five years.

However, since Brown was appointed to the seat vacated by West when his property was transferred to the Milford district, the term ran only one year.

The Brown-West election created considerable controversy last year and was taken to the Court of Chancery before it became a moot question with the transfer of the portion of the district in which West lived.

After the school board elections last year, Brown and West were tied at 188 votes. The tie was broken by a vote of 2 to 1 in favor of West by the election judges.

Brown filed suit in the belief that both the original election and the decision of the election officials were illegal.

Brown is a graduate of Harrington High School and is employed by the Diamond State Telephone Co. as a cable splicer.

He is vice president of the Felton Little League and a past president of the Diamond State Beagle Club.

He and his wife, Jeanne, have three children, all in the district's schools.

Leon C. Donovan, 32, filed Wed., April 15, for the Democratic nomination for representative from the 33rd Representative District.

Owner of Felton Hardware, he is married to the former Mabel Jean Outten. They have two children and reside near Harrington.

Donovan was president of the Kent County Board of Elections 10 years and was active in the Sixth District Democrat Club.

Repairs are now more than half completed on the fenders protecting the west towers of the Delaware Memorial Bridge, director William J. Miller reported to the Delaware River and Bay Authority today.

The fenders were damaged last July when a Texaco oil tanker going upriver lost control and rammed the protective bumpers. The towers were not touched but the fenders near the water line was severely damaged.

Mr. Miller said that the total reconstruction project on the fender system was 57 percent complete as of April 1. "Placement of the concrete in the platform between the two tower piers was completed this month," he added.

The remaining structural steel and timber sheathing is scheduled to be installed before the end of May. The final painting will be completed by mid-July.

A meeting was held last Thursday with the insurance adjusters and agreement on the first payment for damages to the fender system is expected at that time.

In other authority action, director Miller reported that the engineer for the bi-state agency was consulting with contractors about the failure of lights on the roadway of the original bridge.

First Special Mental Health Volunteer

Mrs. Charles Mills, of 57 Fields End, Henlopen Acres, Rehoboth Beach, has been honored by the state as the first special mental health volunteer.

Recognition of her work for the Hospital for the Mentally Retarded at Stockley was given by Mrs. Russell W. Peterson, wife of the Governor, at the first Workshop for Mental Health Volunteers held at the University of Delaware on April 6.

The citation to Mrs. Mills, read by Mrs. Albert L. Ingram, Jr., workshop chairman and wife of the secretary of the new Department of Health and Social Services, recalled her services to the Hospital for the Mentally Retarded several years ago.

Mrs. Mills began by supervising home gardening and, using a small crescent plot, arranged for each interested patient to have a section. This year, Mrs. Mills and two assistant volunteers are working with 100 Stockley patients who are tending their individual plots.

But Mrs. Mills has not confined her aid to gardening. She sends birthday and Christmas cards to patients and has entertained as many as 275 at Rehoboth Beach outings.

Recently, as the result of a resolution adopted by the Board of Trustees of the former Department of Mental Health, Mrs. Mills was singled out by Dr. Ingram for praise and thanks. In a letter to her, he said that the trustees had made "special note of your generosity and efforts in sponsoring and supporting an annual outing in Rehoboth for residents of the Hospital for the Mentally Retarded."

"The fact that this year's outing marked the twelfth consecutive event emphasizes

Review Power Mower Safety

With the lawn growing rapidly and the weekend gardeners out in force, now is a fine time to review power mower safety, says Thomas H. Williams, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware.

Know your mower before you try to use it, he advises. Take time to read the manual, to learn the safety devices and potential hazards of your machine.

Before you mow, clear the lawn of children and pets and inspect the area for sticks, stones and other debris. Thousands of people are injured yearly by debris shot from the mower's rotary blade. And never allow young and inexperienced to operate power lawn equipment.

Keep hands and feet clear of the discharge chute, he adds. Many amputation injuries have been suffered when careless operators caught hands or feet in the whirling blade of a mower. Wear heavy leather shoes for added protection, says Williams. Steel-toed safety shoes are best. Never mow barefoot or in sandals.

Maintain your mower regularly to prevent accidents. When making repairs or adjustments, stop the mower and disconnect the sparkplug wire. Never refuel a hot or running engine.

Always push your mower—never pull it. And mow steep slopes sideways so that mower doesn't get away from you.

Riding mowers and garden tractors are especially hazardous. Never carry riders on these machines and be extra careful when backing up. When working on steep slopes, use extra caution to prevent the mower from tipping.

Power equipment is a real time saver and, when properly used, can make short work of a tedious job. Improperly used, it can be the source of tragedy, injury and death.

Peach Blossom 4-H Club News

By Brenda Lee Hopkins On April 15 the Peach Blossoms 4-H Club held its meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Messick. Devotions were by Jay Cahall and Christine Marsh. Pledges were by Leslie Smith. Ronnie Bramble reported on the A.I.C. tour and contest in which Robin Cahall and Steven Mesibov were two of the seven from Delaware who will be going to the A.I.C. Conference in Ohio. David Belcher reported on 'Bike Safety'. A report was also given on the Junior Broiler Program. The club wished Becky Messick, Delaware's delegate to the National 4-H Conference in Washington, a good time. The conference will last a week.

Ronnie Bramble and Mark Belcher then led us in some songs. Afterwards poems were recited by David and Steven Mesibov and Kevin Baker. Refreshments were by Karen and Jonne Jerrad and Kathy and Donald Hopkins. After the meeting adjourned, project leaders, Mrs. Mesibov and Mr. Baker led horticulture and field crop judging training.

ALERT!!! Sob Story Racket

For years businessmen have been plagued by telephone pitchman who attempt to sell stationery supplies through a variety of sob stories and misrepresentations.

Although the names change, the approach has remained essentially the same: a pitchman offers office supplies at bargain prices because he is liquidating the business of a friend or relative who has died or who has been inducted into the Army and sent to Vietnam or some other phony sob story.

The salesman depends on a sympathy appeal to induce otherwise prudent businessmen to place substantial orders. When only small orders are given, greatly enlarged quantities are shipped with appropriate accompanying bills and subsequent dunning. Invariably the supplies are of inferior quality.

Currently, in our community, schools are being solicited by phone from New York City. The caller represents himself as a doctor and that he is liquidating his deceased brother's business, a company known as Eastern Supply Co., of New York.

The Better Business Bureau of Delaware advises everyone who is subjected to such a carefully rehearsed, tear-jerking sob story not to let misguided sympathy override their sound judgment.

"Hang up! Call the BBB," says John E. Babiarz, president of the Delaware Bureau.

Care For Appliances

Guard the health of your often-used laundry appliances.

The old adage, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away," goes for appliances too. With daily care, you can keep the appliance serviceman away, according to Miss Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware.

True, some breakdowns do result from normal wear and eventual machine fatigue, but many are caused by home-maker error. Clothes washers are one of the most often used and taken for granted machines; so they need some special attention.

Don't overload the machine. Clothes too tightly packed can't circulate, so they cause a strain on the agitator. Try to balance loads to prevent strain on the washer. Large heavy items such as quilted bed spreads should be washed in heavy-duty commercial machines.

Read the manufacturers' instructions; it will solve many needless problems. Check detergent amounts before adding to avoid harmful oversudsing.

With today's complicated automatics, you'll have to read operating directions to ensure proper button pushing. After use, always remember to shut off intake water valve to relieve pressure on the machine.

Put small items such as baby socks, handkerchiefs and gloves in a mesh bag during laundering to prevent them from being rinsed into the pump.

Your clothes dryer also requires some special attention so you'll have years of satisfaction. Proper installation and care are the key to a dryer's long life, says Miss Morris.

If possible, the dryer should be vented to the outdoors. A vent in the laundry area results in a steamy room; the same moist air will be pulled back into the dryer. Of course, this damp air means additional time for drying.

The lint filter is also a very important device on the dryer - don't neglect emptying it after each load. It catches the fiber fuzz and prevents damage to the dryer motor.

Turn metal buckles and buttons to the inside to prevent any chipping of the porcelain dryer drum. Be extra cautious with rubber garments; excessive heat can melt these garments and damage the dryer.

Repair bills are always unpleasant, but if you caused the damage, its even more depressing. Appliances aren't toys and should be respected and used with care to ensure a long efficient life.

Poems from Paradise Pastures by W. Cliff Miller SEED THOUGHTS

What a wonderful thing it would be if psychiatrists gave their major attention to producing happiness instead of just curing unhappiness.

April's the inconsistent one, She lets us think that Spring's begun. Strews the fields with flowers bright, And sets the morning sky alight.

And I am such a simpleton, I hang my clothes out in the sun And then as if in sudden spite, An April rain comes into sight.

The flowers droop, the gutters run And all spring's beauty is undone. Then suddenly that maddening sprite, As if in mischievous delight, Delivers from oblivion The April sun.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Holberton Though spring is here, prices on most all produce are high. Why? Most of our fresh fruits and vegetables are being shipped in from distant growing areas. This makes them more expensive than locally grown ones. Then add to this the effects of recent heavy rains and other adverse weather conditions which have damaged crops and slowed down shipments. These things will hold wholesale and retail prices firm.

We did enjoy a short period of low prices on asparagus, but now much of the crop in California is being purchased by processors. Supplies are also past their peak in the West, so we must wait until local asparagus begins to come to market for low prices. Celery, cucumbers, yellow onions, radishes and rutabagas are other vegetables that went up in price this week. However, to help offset these increases in price you will find an excellent supply of cooking greens on the market. Not every market will have them all; in fact, you may have to go to open air markets to find some, but they are available. This group I'm speaking of includes collards, mustard, rape, kale, and field cress. These greens are an excellent source of Vitamin A and they add welcome variety to your meals.

The best fruit buys are pineapples and bananas. This is the season for fresh pineapples to reach their peak, so prices should be quite reasonable. Hot house rhubarb and fresh strawberries are also coming to market in fair to good supply. Though Florida grapefruit and oranges have gone up in price they remain good buys.

Beef prices have increased and this week you will see higher prices on steaks (porterhouse, round and sirloin). To get your best value check the forequarter cuts such as chuck and shoulder roasts and short ribs.

Lower wholesale prices on pork are holding retail prices at attractive levels. Loin roasts and chops are more reasonable and you may find special prices on some boneless hams, fresh picnics, bacon, and wieners.

Broiler-fryers continue to be outstanding buys and many stores feature them at prices so low you cannot turn them down. The turkey market is generally steady though a few specials may be found on the 16 lb. and up birds.

Egg production is up and prices are much lower than they were a month ago. Buy eggs that are refrigerated and handle them with care. This versatile food can do much to help cut the food budget.

Faith in the poultry industry is strong by those who keep layers or broilers. Ray Lloyd, our extension poultryman at the Georgetown substation, and I visited Frank Sydel and Louis Bloom, both of the Hartly area last week.

Of course, egg prices have been good in recent months. Louis says we must come up with a better way of handling eggs. One just cannot justify picking them up in an egg basket anymore. He is considering a cage operation to reduce hand labor. Frank has converted one of his houses to cages. This permits housing 14,000 birds where 6,000 were kept before on the floor.

Frank had been concerned about having enough ventilation, but Ray figures that he has just exactly the right number of fans for the birds. However, he and Frank agreed on some changes needed to redirect the flow of air to eliminate drafts in the house.

A word of caution about looking in on your neighbors with chickens. Poultrymen have every right to be cautious about visitors. Don't try to walk in the house with the birds. You might pick up and carry disease with you to infect the birds.

Ray and I also visited a young man who wants to get started with broilers. Ray's advice was to find an inter-grator looking for new flocks, ask what he expects as far as a broiler house is concerned, and go to work to build it once you are assured of a growing contract. Sound advice!

The Amish are known as the plain people, an apt description of how they choose to live. It seems an austere life to those of us who do not happen to be Amish, because they shun modern conveniences, such as cars, fancy clothes, even buttons.

Very little seems to have been written about the Amish living in Delaware. Frank Thomas of Seaford, and a student at the University of Delaware, hopes to write a term paper which may be published.

Frank, his father, and your county agent visited the Rose Valley and Pearson's Corner communities on a recent Saturday to look for data. Dr. and Mrs. Robert Raugley live in the area and were quite helpful. She had taught once in the Amish school.

We dropped in at a couple of farms, but were told to talk with some of the elders. Frank happened to ask why most of the Amish seem to wear full beards but without a mustache. The young married Yoder smiled and said it is simply a matter of choice he guessed.

I've always been amazed at how few different family names we can find in the Dover area. Beechey, Miller, Yoder, so that one must further identify a person by his given name. Of course, there are some other family names, but these seem to be the most unusual that some of us seek out for one reason or another.

Frank and I will be glad to learn of interesting traits of this sect. So we will be happy to reduce the facts hopefully for history. Phone our Moore's Lake Branch of the Kent County Extension Service, 734-3626.

Liquid fertilizers, should I use it or not? This is a question that many farmers have asked us and have asked themselves each year.

To answer this question is really up to you, but let me shed a little light on some of the advantages and disadvantages that will help you in your decision.

Liquid fertilizers have some advantages over dry fertilizers in that less labor is required to apply this material, assuming the farmer has the proper equipment. Also in many cases pesticides can be applied with a liquid fertilizer. But some of the disadvantages are that liquid application equipment is usually more expensive, liquids cause more corrosion to your equipment and liquids require expensive storage.

As far as liquid fertilizers being more available to the plant than solid fertilizers, this is not necessarily true. In case of low PH soils the phosphorous in liquid fertilizers can be less available because of higher fixation by the soil. Most research work which has been conducted on this subject indicates that the response to liquid and solid fertilizers are similar when placement is the same and both fertilizers contain equivalent amounts of N,P, and K.

The question of foliar application advantages with a liquid fertilizer always comes up. The leaves of a plant are not designed for efficient fertilizer uptake of large amounts of any nutrients. However, foliar sprays are used quite economically for application of minor elements, only because of small amounts by the plants. It is not economical to supply sufficient N,P, and K as a foliar spray on crops because many applications would be required. Too much plant food in a single application will burn the leaves.

From this discussion I hope that I have answered some of your questions on liquid fertilizers. The University of Delaware Researchers think that foliar applications of small amounts of nutrients at various plant growing stages may economically boost yields, and they are continuing research for further evaluation. But to supply all of your plant nutrients on a liquid fertilizer program, we feel that it is not practical and very expensive, until they can produce liquid fertilizers with higher nutrient analysis. To get to the dollars and cents of this decision, price per pound of plant food is still the best criterion. However, you must keep in mind handling characteristics, storage, freight, and other services a fertilizer company might perform for you.

Vaccinate Horses Against Encephalitis

Delaware horse owners should have their animals vaccinated against eastern encephalitis before June 1, according to Dr. C. Melvin Reitnour, equine specialist at the University of Delaware.

Eastern encephalitis, which is usually fatal to animals infected, is often transmitted by mosquitoes, so it is important to have animals vaccinated before the mosquito season starts.

Commonly called sleeping sickness, encephalitis is a virus-caused infection that affects the animal's brain and central nervous system, explains Reitnour. Early stages are characterized by fever, nervousness or depression, walking into objects and reduced reflexes.

As the disease progresses, an animal becomes greatly depressed and stands in a sleeping position with its head down and, frequently, with its front legs crossed. Grinding of the teeth, inability to swallow, paralysis of the lips and throat and blindness may also develop.

Owners should make arrangements with their local veterinarians to have their horses and ponies vaccinated as soon as possible, stresses the equine specialist. Two injections are necessary for protection, and they have to be administered 7 to 10 days apart. Treatments must be repeated yearly, since the vaccine provides only one year of immunity against the disease.

Reitnour says a bivalent type of vaccine should be used, giving protection against both the eastern and western strains of encephalitis. Both strains are found in Delaware, although the eastern form has mortality rate than the western.

It Seams To Me

Adjusting the tensions of your sewing machine is enough to give you a tension headache!

All sewing machines are equipped with devices to control the tension or tightness of both upper and bobbin threads. If both tensions are adjusted properly, you will have a balanced stitch that locks in the center of the fabric. Any need adjustments are usually made in the upper tension rather than in the tension which controls the bobbin thread.

You quickly recognize a good stitch by its appearance. When the stitches appear the same on both sides of the fabric, the tensions are in proper adjustment. If the upper thread seems to lie along the top of the fabric, the upper tension is too tight. If the bobbin thread lies along the fabric, the upper tension is looser than the lower.

An easy way to test the tension is to stitch on a double thickness of fabric diagonally across the fabric bias. Remove the swatch from the machine, grasp the fabric at each end of the stitching and pull.

The bias fabric will stretch and make the threads break. If one of the threads breaks is tighter. Both threads should break about the same time. If neither thread breaks, both before the other, that tension are too loose.

Certain sewing threads, such as silk or nylon, have more elasticity than others. When they are held under too much tension, they stretch, but will relax to the original length after stitching. This makes the seam pucker. This is why a loosened tension is necessary when using these threads.

Refer to your sewing machine manual for directions if you need to adjust the lower tension. A simple rule to remember is "right is tight" (they rhyme) and "left is loose" (they both begin with the letter l).

Pressure of the pressure foot is also important in stitching. Your direction manual tells you how to reduce or tighten the pressure. Or you can find a screw at the top of the pressure bar which does the trick.

You only need enough pressure to allow the material to feed through the machine. If the pressure is too heavy, it makes the machine run hard and can leave marks on the material. On heavy materials, it can push the top layer of fabric ahead of the lower so that you end up with an uneven seam.

For a guide, remember that light weight fabrics require a light pressure, and heavier fabrics require more pressure. This is not always the case, however, so test stitch your fabric and adjust the pressure so that the fabric feeds

Don't Rely On Questionable Seed

If you're a home gardener, you probably have some leftover seed lying around. Should you use it this year? It depends on the vegetable, says Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

Before planting questionable seed, he offers these suggestions: Sweet Corn and onion seeds should not be kept over two years. Bean, pea and carrot seeds can be stored for three years. Pepper, pumpkin, beet and tomato seeds will not remain good more than four years.

The horticulturist also points out that kale, lettuce, cantaloupe, spinach, squash, turnip and watermelon seeds will be good for as long as five years, if they are stored under cool, dry conditions. If there is any doubt as to how long the seeds have been laying around or under what conditions they have been stored, buy new seed from a reputable source, says Stevens. All seed sold in Delaware is tested for germination and has the date of the test on the label.

The ideal planting period for most vegetables is short. It's very disappointing to spend the time preparing the garden and planting the crops only to discover that the seed won't germinate.

Control Crabgrass

Now that grass has begun growing again, Delaware lawn enthusiasts will soon be faced with a perennial headache — crabgrass, says Dr. William M. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware.

But don't despair. Crabgrass can be controlled and is an ideal time to tackle the problem. Most home and garden centers carry several herbicides that will control this weed problem, says Mitchell. Pre-emergence herbicides — those applied before crabgrass appears — are usually more effective than post-emergence chemicals, but all approved chemicals are safe for lawn use. In using these herbicides, be sure to read and follow the directions on the container, however.

To apply a crabgrass treatment, mow the grass, then rake and clean the lawn thoroughly. Apply the herbicide evenly and don't disturb the lawn without raking. Water and mow the lawn as usual. For best results, apply the material sometime after the first of April but before the soil temperature reaches 60 degrees.

If your lawn — or your neighbor's — was plagued with crabgrass last year, you will probably need to use a herbicide, says Mitchell. Millions of seeds fell to the ground and, given a chance, will sprout this year. As soon as the soil warms up, they will germinate and grow wherever there's a tiny patch of bare soil.

Another way to control crabgrass is to keep it from showing up at all, points out Mitchell. A thick stand of turf will choke out crabgrass before it can become established. Crabgrass seed needs light to germinate.

Plenty of water, proper fertilization and frequent mowing at a two-inch height will encourage vigorous turf and provide the shade and competition needed to keep crabgrass under control.

Write Out Farm Leases

If you are renting land to farm, better make sure all the terms of your lease are covered in writing, recommends W. T. McAllister, extension agricultural economist at the University of Delaware.

Getting a lease down in writing is good business because it makes the landlord and tenant examine the responsibilities of each party. An understanding now before the crop is planted can prevent a serious argument or a substantial loss later, he explains.

It is also a good idea to bring lease agreements up to date, adds McAllister. Many of the terms used in share-type leases are out of date today.

Weevils Can Be Costly

The alfalfa weevil, which has been a troublesome pest in Delaware in the past, will soon be making his appearance around the state, observes Frank Boys, extension entomologist at the University of Delaware. Tell-tale signs of the weevil are already apparent in some fields.

Boys points out that the alfalfa weevil has been a costly pest to many dairymen and livestock producers. Although the first cutting of alfalfa is usually the one most seriously damaged, a severe weevil infestation can cause an almost total crop loss.

Fortunately, the weevil can be controlled with proper applications of recommended insecticides. But timing is important, adds Boys. Insecticide effectiveness is greatly reduced if the chemical is applied before larvae appear.

The best results are obtained when the material is applied after 50 to 75 percent of the plants show some injury but before severe damage occurs. This means that thorough and frequent examination of each field is necessary to time the spray effectively.

Insecticide recommendations are based on the safety and effectiveness of the materials when used properly, says Boys. But don't depend on written recommendations or label instructions on outdated pesticide containers. Changes may have occurred since the labels were printed.

It is also important for farmers to observe the minimum interval between treatment and harvest, stresses Boys. It is the grower's responsibility to avoid illegal residues on the harvested crop.

For further information on methods of controlling the alfalfa weevil, ask for a copy of "Delaware's Recommendations for Alfalfa Weevil Control" from the extension offices in Newark, Dover or Georgetown, or write to the Mailing Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark 19711.

Chicken Cooking Winners Named
Persons from Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia who will be competing in the finals of the 1970 National Chicken Cooking Contest hail from the far corners of the tri-state area.
From Delaware, the honors for the junior division go to James Leone of Dover. James a 12 year old junior high school student, says he has been making a hobby of cooking for your years. His recipe is called "Citrus Chicken" and features garlic and oregano as well as lemons in an oven procedure for cooking broiler-fryer chicken.
The adult winner for Delaware is Mrs. Marian G. Clopp of Limestone Road, Wilmington. Mrs. Clopp tells us she developed her recipe in the interest of finding something wholesome, nutritious and appetizing yet fitting in with her diet. She is a homemaker who does some free lance designing. Her recipe, "Chicken Mock Stroganoff" combines tea with sour cream and mushrooms in her preparation.
Maryland's junior division entry is a 12 year old Salisbury boy named Elwood Dise. He knew about the contest because other members of his family have competed in previous years and he developed his recipe by trial and error. He is a seventh grader at James M. Bennett Junior High School who makes eggshell mosaic pictures as a hobby. His recipe idea is called "Freckled Drumsticks" and incorporates peanuts and soy sauce with his very favorite cut of chicken.
Maryland will be represented in the adult division by a student who lives in Waverly. She is an ambitious 21 year old who spent two weeks behind the Iron Curtain in East Germany last summer and who hopes to teach handicapped children when she is graduated from college. She calls her recipe "Easy Does It Company Chicken" and it is just that. She uses pumpkin pie spice and orange juice to lend variation.
From Virginia, the junior Division contestant is Miss Kim Bowen of Vienna. Kim started cooking two years ago when she was 11. She has presented for competition an oven method which she titled "Cheese Delight In Every Bite Chicken." It is a combination of several kinds of cheese that provides the unique treatment in this instance.
Mrs. Sue Conrad a 25 year old science and art teacher in Pulaski, Va., is the standard bearer for adults from her native state. She makes a hobby of reading cookbooks but didn't really start cooking until she became mistress of her own kitchen when she got married two years ago. She learned about the national chicken cooking contest from an article in her local newspaper and adapted her entry from a longer, more complicated one she had seen in a cookbook. She says that in addition to making the procedure simpler, she left out the things she did not like. Her recipe makes use of boned and rolled chicken breasts with a highly seasoned chicken liver and Swiss cheese stuffing.
These recipes have been selected from hundreds of entries from residents for the three states. These people will prepare their recipes for a final judging by nationally renowned food editors and home economists. Final cook-off will be held as part of the Delmarva Chicken Festival on the Maryland State College campus in Princess Anne. Junior Division cooking will take place at 9 a.m., on Friday, June 12, with prizes awarded at 1:00 p.m. the same day. Adult division contestants will cook at 9 p.m. on Saturday, June 13, with awards at 1 p.m. that day. The public is invited to both cooks-offs and awards ceremonies. There is no admission charge.
Steiner Home to Be Exhibited
The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Steiner Jr., at 704 Lakeview Avenue, Milford will be open to the public, Thursday, April 23 from 2:00 to 4:30 p.m. under the sponsorship of the Milford Memorial Hospital Women's Auxiliary. All donations at the "Green Tea" will go towards the auxiliary's $50,000 pledge to the hospital.

Chicken Cooking Winners Named
Persons from Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia who will be competing in the finals of the 1970 National Chicken Cooking Contest hail from the far corners of the tri-state area.
From Delaware, the honors for the junior division go to James Leone of Dover. James a 12 year old junior high school student, says he has been making a hobby of cooking for your years. His recipe is called "Citrus Chicken" and features garlic and oregano as well as lemons in an oven procedure for cooking broiler-fryer chicken.
The adult winner for Delaware is Mrs. Marian G. Clopp of Limestone Road, Wilmington. Mrs. Clopp tells us she developed her recipe in the interest of finding something wholesome, nutritious and appetizing yet fitting in with her diet. She is a homemaker who does some free lance designing. Her recipe, "Chicken Mock Stroganoff" combines tea with sour cream and mushrooms in her preparation.
Maryland's junior division entry is a 12 year old Salisbury boy named Elwood Dise. He knew about the contest because other members of his family have competed in previous years and he developed his recipe by trial and error. He is a seventh grader at James M. Bennett Junior High School who makes eggshell mosaic pictures as a hobby. His recipe idea is called "Freckled Drumsticks" and incorporates peanuts and soy sauce with his very favorite cut of chicken.
Maryland will be represented in the adult division by a student who lives in Waverly. She is an ambitious 21 year old who spent two weeks behind the Iron Curtain in East Germany last summer and who hopes to teach handicapped children when she is graduated from college. She calls her recipe "Easy Does It Company Chicken" and it is just that. She uses pumpkin pie spice and orange juice to lend variation.
From Virginia, the junior Division contestant is Miss Kim Bowen of Vienna. Kim started cooking two years ago when she was 11. She has presented for competition an oven method which she titled "Cheese Delight In Every Bite Chicken." It is a combination of several kinds of cheese that provides the unique treatment in this instance.
Mrs. Sue Conrad a 25 year old science and art teacher in Pulaski, Va., is the standard bearer for adults from her native state. She makes a hobby of reading cookbooks but didn't really start cooking until she became mistress of her own kitchen when she got married two years ago. She learned about the national chicken cooking contest from an article in her local newspaper and adapted her entry from a longer, more complicated one she had seen in a cookbook. She says that in addition to making the procedure simpler, she left out the things she did not like. Her recipe makes use of boned and rolled chicken

Spartan Trackmen Lose To Cape Henlopen

Lake Forest's track team was beaten 79-57, at Cape Henlopen on Friday afternoon after recording a season-opening victory at Laurel.

Coach McDonald has only three seniors on this year's squad. One of these, Ken Tribbett, had a perfect afternoon, as he won the 100 and 220 yard dashes and anchored the 2-lay relay to victory, with a come-from-behind effort.

The Spartans' essentially a young team, did not equal their individual performances at Laurel, in most events. This contributed to their downfall. Another key factor was the sub-par facilities at Lewes. For the first time in many years of viewing track meets, this writer saw a track that was not a regulation 440 yards in length. This layout was only 357 yards around and therefore had unusually sharp turns. In addition, most of the races started and finished in the most unusual of places. Lake Forest runners, used to a quarter mile track, had much trouble adjusting to the proper pace of each event. Cape Henlopen might have won the meet, on any track, but the margin of victory would not have been anything like 22 points.

The takeoff board for the long and triple jumps was much narrower, than regulation width and was located in a depression, making it almost invisible. Thus, a Cape Henlopen jumper, won the long jump with a distance three Spartans bettered at Laurel. Sophomore George Turner had second places in both horizontal jumps, setting a new school record of 37 feet, 8 inches, in the triple jump. With a regulation board, Turner might have won both events.

The short straightaway caused Spartan ace, Fred White, to be shunted back to last place, as his race started. White had to pass every other starter to win but he did the job, in a good 56.5, with a gallant effort.

The mile and 880 yard runs were a repeat of 1969's Henlopen Conference title meet. Lake Forest's Chris Wetherhold ran a track record 4:42.6 in annexing the mile over Emory Howell, a stand-out at Milton High, in previous years. Howell, a 52.5 quarter miler, then nosed out Wetherhold in a 2:07 half mile.

Mickey Chaffinch hurled the discus 119 feet, 4 inches to win that event. Robin Callahan was a close second with a career-high throw of 117 plus.

Lenny Donovan and Dale Motter were second and third in the shot put. Norman Baynard was runnerup in the high jump, as was Roger Jarrell in the pole vault. Jarrell did well despite a sore heel. Brad Morris ran 2 miles in good time (10:50) for second place behind tough Aron Price.

The Spartans are going to have to introduce the sport of track and field, to the many boys in the district, who have not previously been exposed to it. This is a necessity, if the locals are going to compete, with any degree of success, against the larger schools on the schedule.

Three newcomers to running, former Felton High students, Sam Bostick, Jerry Scott, and Ricky Hamm, did well in cross-country and are showing good potential, on the track. Bostick owns a 2:11.8 half mile, second on the squad, to Wetherhold. Scott ran a good 5:22 mile, at Laurel, where Hamm had 5:27. At Lewes, the Spartan duo were dueling with Sun-kett of Cape Henlopen. They finally sunk Sunkett with Scott dropping 11 seconds to 5:11 and the 15-year-old Hamm cutting off 14 seconds to 5:13. This is mighty good work by two novices, competing in their second mile races, ever.

John Gray, Dave DeMora, Rick Collison, John Jackson, Craig Moore, Dave Gustafson, Victor Scarborough ranged from 2:30 to 2:42 in the half mile run. Dave Butler, Bruce Patten, Joe Hall and Ed Kukulka were close behind.

The two lap and four lap relays were substituted for the 880 and mile relays because of the short track.

Fisher, Moore Yield One Hit In Two Spartan Wins

Bob Young's Lake Forest High School baseball Spartans are undefeated, as of April 18th, with three victories. Near-perfect pitching by righthander, Chris Moore and southpaw, Mike Fisher has seen the opposition get only one hit in the last two games and only one run in the three contests.

Fisher lost a no-hitter in the seventh and last inning, at Georgetown, against Sussex Central. Mike had singled home the winning run in the previous inning and the Spartans had put the tilt out of reach in the top of the frame.

Bob Wyatt and Larry Larrimore each had three hits, to lead Lake Forest's ten-hit attack off the offerings of Pete Townsend, a pitcher who won acclaim last summer pitching for Georgetown's Senior Little League state champions. Georgetown later did well in the regional tournament.

Fisher had two safeties. John McCloskey drove in two runs, as Lake Forest notched a 5-1 victory.

Seaford came to Felton, on Thursday and fell victim to Moore's no-hit hurling by a score of 8-0. Lake Forest wrapped up the verdict by scoring four times in the opening inning.

Chester Scott had a perfect day at the plate with three hits in three trips. Larry Larimore hit safely twice and tallied three runs.

Gerardi Bros. Keglers Roll Way To Local League Bowling Crown

Last Saturday evening saw Taylor & Messick and Gerardi Bros. Pair off at the Milford Bowling Lanes in the first set of the three roll-offs of the Harrington Business League championship matches. The stage was set early as it became apparent that neither team could gain a great advantage over each other.

At the onset, things did not look too encouraging to the Gerardi Bros. quintet as they games to the fired up Taylor & Messick. But, in the third game the tide began to turn as Gerardi's caught fire, sweeping the final game with enough margin to take the series total by a mere 10 pins. Aiding the Taylor & Messick team in keeping things even were fine efforts by Snooky Collins, who rolled a great 556 series with a fine game of 207 included, and Bobby Collins, dropped two fairly close who rolled a great 551 series, combined with an average effort by Tom Brown. Kenny Layton shined for the furniture boys with a good 203 game, amassing a grand 564 series, along with fine efforts by Stan Johnson (536), Don Jester (508) and Hank Wheeler (536).

With two games in their win column, Taylor & Messick met head-on in a clash with McKnatt Funeral Home Monday evening. Bobby Collins led the way for Taylor's with a great 559 series, followed by fine efforts from George Collins (549), Kenny P. Outten (512) and Tom Brown, who chipped in an above average performance, and George Sapp, who rolled a grand 222 game and a real fine 529 series. With great efforts like these one would have thought Taylor & Messick would have won the championship easily. But, lo and behold, McKnatt's hit a hot streak and easily walked away from any competition by firing a superb 2815 team series. Robert Garey paced the way in McKnatt's four game conquest over Taylor & Messick by shattering the pins with games of 232 and 212 included in a grand 626 series. This feat was added to by great efforts from the rest of the team as Harold Broder rolled a fine 207 game, amassing a 570 series; Donald McKnatt hit a great 209 game, with a fine 559 series; Donald Garey chipped in with a great 545 series, and last, but not at all least, was a great 213 game effort by Harry Jack, who contributed a good 515 series. With the pressure shifted back to the Gerardi Bros. team, which knew they had to win all four games the following night to get the championship crown, confronted McKnatt Funeral Home for the battle of champions. Gerardi Bros. rose to the chal-

enge and easily took the first two games from McKnatt's. In the final and most decisive game, the tide began to turn as McKnatt's started hitting pretty steady and took a commanding lead going into the ninth frame. McKnatt's led by a slight margin as the tenth frame rolled around and the pressure really began to mount. Gerardi Bros. capitalized on a few good breaks and just narrowly squeezed by game by a mere 14 pins to McKnatt's, winning the last take all four games and the championship. Kenny Layton paced Gerardi's with a grand 222 game and a fine 546 series and Hank Wheeler rolled a fine 201 game and a very good 558 series; with a very
