

House OK's Insurance Tax Cut Bill

A bill which the state insurance commissioner has said may make Delaware the insurance capital of the nation breezed past the House of Representatives Monday.

H. B. 852, sponsored by Rep. Robert M. Dodge R-Rehoboth Beach received 37 votes.

The bill cuts the state insurance premium tax for fire and casualty companies from 5.5 percent to 2 percent. It also makes the tax 2 percent across-the-board for all other companies, a slight increase.

Earlier this month, Insurance Commissioner Robert A. Short, said that if the bill becomes law, the state will become "the insurance capital in place of Hartford, Conn."

He expressed concern for the measure than, saying that volunteer fire companies which derive support from the premium tax, misunderstood the bill.

Short met with representatives of the fire companies last week, however, and the firemen voted to support the change.

Monday, Dodge submitted an amendment to insure the firemen that they would receive comparable funding. The amendment passed by a voice vote.

Gov. Russell W. Peterson said he was pleased that H. B. 852 passed the House. The governor said he was involved in a conference recently in which he talked to insurance company officials who said their firms might move to Delaware if the bill becomes law.

The governor would not comment on which firms he talked to, but the Delaware State Chamber of Commerce says at least three large companies are interested in locating here.

"This really makes Delaware attractive for insurance companies to maintain home offices," Dodge said, "not just because of the reduced tax, but because of our attractive corporation laws and court approach in dealing with corporate practice."

Dodge said that, initially, the state will lose revenue from the bill, but will make it up through increased corporate taxes. "Financially, we should be away ahead," he said.

"In a nutshell," Dodge said, "we may attract the type of industry that offers no pollution and good paying jobs."

GOVERNOR GETS WRITE-IN VOTING BILL

With a less-than-spontaneous change of votes, the State House of Representatives passed on the governor Monday a bill to allow write-in voting.

It was the same bill, S.B. 416, that last week received only 13 votes before its manager in the House, Rep. Thomas L. Little, R-Deerhurst, tabled the roll call.

After that, the House received severe public criticism.

The bill allows for write-in voting in general elections. Little has said that the state's present voting machines can be easily adapted to write-in balloting a removing a strip of metal from each and inserting in each a roll of paper.

When the bill originally was put to a house vote, several representatives complained that it is not fair to those who have to work through the party system to get their names on the ballot.

Monday, after nine representatives switched their votes to favor the bill, Little walked over to the press table, flipped down an editorial favoring the bill, and said, "That just shows the power of the press."

Those switching to affirmative votes were Democrats, Sidney Balick, Oliver S. Eorville and Clifford B. Hearn VI, of Wilmington and Minority Leader Jacob W. Zimmerman of Dover and Republicans David S. Benson of Graylyn Crest, Clarice U. Heckert of Highland Woods, George Jarvis of Harmony Hills, Marion I. Seibel of Newark, and House Speaker George C. Hering III of Wilmington.

Kent County Property Tax Cut 6 Cents

Kent County Levy Court cut county property taxes by 6 cents per $100 assessed value Tuesday and left the capitation tax rate at $1.25.

The vote to set the rate at 44 cents crossed party lines as Republican Commissioner Isaac Thomas provided one of the five affirmative votes. Republicans Samuel G. Forester and James E. Turner Sr. opposed the rate.

Both wanted that rate left at 50 cents. The pair also lost a motion to increase capitation taxes to $5, and voted against the $1.25 tax.

William C. Torbert, the outgoing Levy Court president said that 44 cents were selected because "that's the rate that will let us break even." Harold C. Remley, the county accountant, suggested that the rate stay at 50 cents.

The property tax discussion sparked a short, heated exchange between Forester and Torbert. Forester argued that the current rate would allow the governing body to provide additional services to county residents.

"So far," he said "this Levy Court had done one thing—gone ahead with the sewer project — that's all." An evidently angry Torbert replied, "What have previous Levy Courts done?"

"I don't care about them," Forester countered. "I'm only interested in what the seven members here have done."

Forester and Turner said they wanted to raise the capitation tax to $4 a year to make collection procedures on delinquents worthwhile. It is estimated that it costs the county $1.08 to collect the $1.25 from delinquents. (Continued on Page 8)

C. of C. At Work on Plans For Labor Survey

The Chamber of Commerce is continuing its plan for a labor survey, it was revealed this week by a committee appointed by the local group.

After the State Development Department had requested the survey at the behest of an industry seeking a location in lower Kent County and Sussex County, the chamber started the ball rolling at its June meeting last week.

A committee, appointed last week by W. T. Parsons, president of the chamber, comprised Fulton J. Downing, chairman, Arnold Gilstad and Samuel A. Short Jr.

A committee spokesman said Tuesday a general canvass of the Harrington area would be made in response to an employment questionnaire from the State Development Department.

The informant added an office, to aid persons in filling out the questionnaire, would be established at a place and date to be announced.

In conclusion, the source said the office work would be followed by personal contact.

As an outcome of the news of the labor survey, the Harrington Planning Commission, meeting Friday night, tabled its consideration of an ordinance which, if passed, would allow the establishment of a mobile-home park in the community. The decision was made, for one reason, because the Trane Foundation, land, considered for the park, was also being considered for industry.

DRY-OUT CENTER BILL CLEARS HOUSE

The House of Representatives, in a close vote, appropriated more than $500,000 for the Department of Health and Social Services to establish an alcoholic services program.

House members, by voice vote, defeated an amendment to H. B. 814, that would have halved the $270,000 to run the detoxification center at the Emily P. Bissell Hospital.

The other $275,000 contained in the supplementary appropriation bill will be used for detoxification centers in Kent and Sussex Counties. The measure now awaits action in the Senate.

Sponsor of the bill is Rep. William L. Frederick, R-Cedarcrest. The amendment to slash funds for the New Castle County unit was submitted by Rep. Warren B. Burt, R-Anglesey and backed by House Speaker George C. Hering III, R-Wilmington.

Both said the center should be financed by a combination of state and federal money. Hering argued that the program, still in its pilot stages,

Efforts To Keep Beaches Clean A Success

Governor Russell W. Peterson said Wednesday, July 1, that efforts to keep the beaches clean are proving successful and thanked Delawareans and out-of-state visitors for their cooperation.

The governor referred specifically to Wiskey Beach, a popular gathering place for young people, including many from Baltimore and Washington areas.

Concerned earlier this season over the litter left by weekend visitors, the governor took to walking the beach and personally asking people to join in the effort to keep the beach free of litter.

"I thought I saw some improvement afterwards," the governor said. "But this last Sunday night, there was no doubt about it. The beach was clean as a whistle."

"This proves that young people are willing to practice what they preach about concern for the environment. It also shows that the people who enjoy our beaches, including vacationers from other states, care enough to clean up before they leave. I thank them for their consideration."

The governor said that the state will do its part this coming July Fourth weekend by putting out extra trash barrels to accommodate the expected heavy influx of vacationers.

"We're making progress, but we must keep working if we want to have a lasting impact," Governor Peterson said. "Delaware can have the cleanest beaches in the nation if we'll keep at it."

Third Bay Liner Joins Cape May - Lewes Ferry

Anticipated heavier traffic beginning with the July 4th long weekend will be accommodated with a third bay liner to join the Cape May-Lewes Ferry service. The third liner will be put into service each weekend until Labor Day, according to ferry manager Theodore C. Bright.

Weekend departures for the third liner from Cape May will be at noon and 4 p.m., and from Lewes, at 2 and 6 p.m., Bright said.

When mid-week volume crossings will be added to the two-vessel summer schedule. The normal summer schedule calls for seven round trips daily starting from Cape May at 6:30 a.m. and the last departure from Lewes at 12:30 a.m.

The Cape May-Lewes Ferry, operated by the Delaware River and Bay Authority, crosses the 17 miles of Delaware Bay between Cape May, N. J., and Lewes and is the Seaward Route of the famed Ocean Hiway.

Stamp Club Being Formed

A stamp club is being formed in Harrington. Anyone wanting to have a hobby, one that can be profitable, join it when it is organized.

You can see Sam Short. If you ever collected stamps or old coins, and are 15 years old and older, you are invited to join.

The club will meet the second Tuesday at 7:30 at the new Senior Citizens Home on Fleming Street.

Everyone should have a hobby, so come out or see Sam. He will tell you all about it.

Coming Events

Annual picnic of Harrington Lions Club will be held Sunday, July 12 at 5 p.m., at John Curtis' cottage, South Bowers Beach.

St. Stephen's Episcopal Church

Wednesday 7:30 p.m. - healing service
 Sunday 9:00 a.m. - holy communion and sermon
 8:30 p.m. - Alcoholics Anonymous in parish house
 Tuesday 6:30 p.m. - Boy Scouts
 Saturday, July 11 8:30 a.m. - clean-up day at fair booth.

It will be noticed that from the calendar of the week that a clean-up day is called for Saturday, July 11. Everyone who can should go out and help as this project is most important.

It is difficult to believe, but in three weeks our food booth at the fair will be open for business. As has been announced several times during the summer "slump" the income of the church suffers greatly. As a result, the State Fair Booth Committee is making a special appeal to the people of St. Stephen's to volunteer to help with the project. It is the people of St. Stephen's do not volunteer, outsiders will have to be paid. Therefore, please do volunteer.

The committee asks, however, that only those who mean serious business volunteer. So often in the past someone who has volunteered has failed to put in an appearance at the scheduled time. Sometimes it has not been possible to find replacements on such short notice. Volunteers are asked to call Mrs. George Johnson at 398-8338.

Quite a few people of St. Stephen's who cannot be on hand to work at the booth are paying others to work for them. Those who would like to do this are urged to call Mrs. Johnson. Soup containers are on hand and can be gotten from Granville Hill. It has been found that vegetable beef soup and bean soup are favorites. However, anyone who prefers to make other kinds of soup are invited to do so. Homemade soup is a favorite at the food stand so these who can contribute soup are urged to do so.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Holberton

Summer blooms forth in July with a list of foods in plentiful supply. Fresh juicy peaches, plums, watermelon and fresh and processed lemons and limes are all in good supply and will be throughout the month.

When you buy watermelon, be sure to check for maturity. Many markets display cut melons in halves or quarters so that the consumer can view the color of the flesh, which should be a good red. The color of the seeds is usually dark brown or black in fully matured melons, and the flesh texture of the melon should be firm and succulent. If you see light colored flesh and white seeds it indicates immaturity and lack of flavor and sweetness. Dry, mealy flesh or watery, stringy flesh indicates overmaturity. A hard white streak located lengthwise through the flesh indicates a "white heart" which makes the edible quality very undesirable.

If you don't have the opportunity to see the inside, look at the outside. When a melon is ripe, the underside will be a yellow white - not light green, and the green is a velvet green instead of a bright green.

Fresh summer vegetables—especially carrots, cucumbers, lettuce, cabbage, and celery—are also to be in top supply all during the month.

Broiler - fryer marketings continue to be large and will probably be eight percent greater this month than they were a year ago. Prices should be below the average for July in the last five years.

To go with these young tender chickens, what could be better than rice. It has no waste, is always ready to use and every bit can be eaten. It's easy to cook - you can boil, steam, oven-cook or even fry rice.

To finish off the list of foods in plentiful supply is honey. It will continue to be in abundant supply.

Supplies of pork have started to increase seasonally and marketings during the summer will be up by three to five percent over a year earlier. Supplies of beef will also be above last summer. However, prices are expected to remain as they have been with sales being the best place to save.

Veal and lamb marketings continue below a year ago with prices relatively high.

Ice Cream - Summertime Treat

Ice cream, the over, in and under dessert, has as many uses as there are delicious dreams. It also has more food value than most popular desserts, according to Miss Marguerite Krackhardt, extension foods specialist at the University of Delaware.

Ice cream, the most common of the frozen desserts, is highest in milk fat and milk solids. Fruits, nuts, and flavoring are often added to make this an even more tantalizing dessert. In fact, any flavors you can imagine and a few you probably never thought of — are available. However, vanilla is still an overwhelming favorite and then you can add your own topping.

Add egg yolks to frozen custard for French ice cream; the taste is different and the price is higher. Don't confuse French ice cream with the frozen custard that's sold at roadside snack stands. Most of these soft-serve frozen foods are ice milks. Ice milks are made the same way as ice cream but contain total milk solids and more sugar. By the way, ice milks are not a dieter's delight. They contain nearly as many calories as ice cream.

Sherbet is another frozen dessert high in sugar. It has a tart flavor characteristic of whatever fruit and fruit acid is added. Sherbet is a low fat, low milk frozen food, but again calorie-content is much the same.

Versatile ice cream is delicious over baked apples or pears, or fruit crisps and fruit pies. It's also a tasty topping for hot gingerbread, spice cake and strawberry shortcake. For a bit of novelty, make a real breakfast treat with ice cream over waffles or on ready-to-eat cereal.

Or, use ice cream in an ice cream pie with alternate layers of fruit, whipped cream and ice cream. The crust can be plain or, for a fancy party pie, try crushed graham crackers or cookies. Ice cream cake rolls are another tasty "in" dessert, not to mention ice cream eclairs.

For make-your-own ice cream sandwiches, spread softened ice cream between two large oatmeal, molasses, or sugar cookies. Freeze until firm. Serve as refreshments for happy children. Another easy child-pleaser is ice cream clowns; put a cone upside-down over a scoop of ice cream. Use fruit pieces, raisins or small candies to make the clown's face.

Of course, ice cream can be served under any number of fruit toppings, fresh or frozen. Choose fresh ripe strawberries, or bananas and crush. Spoon over a scoop of your favorite ice cream for o sundae. For an elegant parfait, arrange alternating layers of crushed, whipped cream and ice cream in tall slim glasses.

Tempting sauces also add an extra spark to ice cream. Try rolling a scoop of ice cream in salted peanuts and topping with chocolate sauce.

Miss Krackhardt says for tasty frozen dairy desserts, store them properly. If you plan to serve ice cream within one to four hours after you buy it, put the unopened carton directly in the ice cube area of the refrigerator and set for coldest temperature.

For storage up to three weeks, the freezer of your refrigerator will be sufficient. However, always cover ice cream with plastic wrap or foil after you open the box. This protects the ice cream from absorbing refrigerator odors and also prevents a tough, leathery, discolored film caused by evaporation.

Don't allow ice cream to partially melt and reharder. Ice crystals will increase in size which results in a coarse, ice product.

Ice cream can contribute worthwhile amounts of protein, calcium and riboflavin to help balance summer meals, according to Miss Krackhardt. If you believe in making every food count, then ice cream is a natural for dessert. And, ice cream will delight every member of your family; serve it often.

Del. National Guard Receives Two Helicopters

The Delaware National Guard has received two "Choctaw" Light Cargo helicopters from the Army to be used to train Delaware Airmen and perform various missions within the state.

The "Choctaw", officially known as the CH-34c, weighs over 13,000 pounds when filled to capacity and is almost 75 feet in length. It has a maximum speed of 170 miles per hour and can hold up to 18 passengers.

Delaware National Guard Lieutenant Colonel James R. Sulpizi and a crew of pilots flew to the Atlanta Army Depot Thursday to examine the aircraft and fly them back to the Greater Wilmington Airport.

Although the flight team ran into weather problems in Georgia, they landed at the Greater Wilmington Airport Friday afternoon to be greeted by officials of the Delaware National Guard.

The helicopter is manufactured by Sikorski Aircraft Division of United Aircraft Corporation, and was first built in less sophisticated form in 1954, to be used by the Air Force, Navy and Coast Guard, in addition to the U.S. Army. Production was completed in 1959.

Both helicopters will be on public display for "Operation Firecracker" on July Fourth at the Greater Wilmington Airport.

Veteran's Administration News

June marks the fourth anniversary of the current GI Bill education and training program, and the Veterans Administration has examined its tally sheet.

According to Leon Fields, director of the Veterans Administration Regional Office 1,652,537 veterans and 132,695 servicemen trained under this program between its starting date of June 1, 1966 and April 30, 1970.

In Delaware, more than 3515 veterans and 393 servicemen have trained under the GI Bill.

Some 2013 of these veterans and 64 of these servicemen received college-level training, the VA Regional Office director observed.

In addition, 1106 veterans and 329 servicemen in Delaware entered schools below college level. Mr. Fields said 396 veterans have received on-the-job training since this benefit went into effect October 1, 1967. Servicemen are not eligible for this type of training.

This spring, enrollment reached the highest level in the history of the four-year old GI Bill, Mr. Fields said, with more than 1808 Delaware veterans and 197 servicemen enrolled.

The VA further revealed that more than 1046 of these veterans and 24 servicemen were studying in colleges in Delaware, while 482 veterans and 173 servicemen pursued college-level training.

In addition, a total of 231 veterans took on-the-job training in Delaware this spring.

To be eligible for education and training assistance under the current GI Bill, a veteran must have at least 181 days of service, with some part after January 31, 1955, Mr. Fields said.

For each month of military service, an eligible veteran receives one and one-half months of educational assistance.

However, Mr. Fields pointed out, there is a maximum of 36 months entitlement, except for veterans eligible for VA educational assistance under two or more VA programs. These veterans are entitled to a maximum of 48 months of training.

Mr. Fields explained that monthly payments under the present GI Bill range from $175 or more (depending upon the number of dependents) for full-time institutional training, to payment of only the actual cost of approved correspondence courses.

He also reminded Post-Korean and Vietnam era veterans in Delaware that they must complete their training by May 31, 1974, or eight years after separation from service, whichever is later.

Food Stamp Violations Draw First Jail Term

The first jail sentence given a Food Stamp Program retailer as a result of program violations in the 12-state Northeast Region was announced June 17, by Assistant U.S. Attorney Charles F. Scarlota.

Emil Williams, owner of Emil's Market, 1700 Centre Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa., was sentenced after pleading guilty to seven counts of a Federal indictment involving violations of Food Stamp Program regulations in a trial held on Wednesday, June 17, before Senior Judge W. S. Gourley of the U.S. District Court of Western Pennsylvania.

According to Scarlota, Williams had been charged with the unlawful exchange of cash for food coupons.

Judge Gourley sentenced Williams to a 90-day jail term on the first count of the indictment. This count alleged that Williams had exchanged $110 in cash for $240 in food coupons. On the six other counts, Williams received a suspended sentence. He also was placed on probation for one year, and additionally, was banned from retailer participation in the Food Stamp Program for a three year period.

An official of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service explained that food coupons, by law, can be used only to buy food, excluding certain imported foods. Stores participating in the program agree in advance to abide by the laws and regulations. Any store that violates them — and anyone who pressures a store to do so — weakens and endangers the whole program, established to combat hunger and malnutrition, pointed out W. F. Warren, Northeast Regional Director of the program.

Poems from Paradise Pastures
 By W. Cliff Miller

Saturday is Independence Day with a three-day weekend to celebrate the occasion—a time to relax and a time of highway accidents, but:

When we greet the shining sunlight
 On the Fourth of this July
 Let us not forget the Bellman
 Who between the earth and the sky
 Rang out loudly; Independence
 Which pleased God and shall never die.

Try to relax from the many hazards this time usually seems to afford. Don't be like the man who had a fifth on the Fourth of July and failed to come forth on the Fifth.

The House, which adopted the original H.B. 711 three weeks ago with four amendments, took the package of 15 amendments added by the Senate and struck four of them and modified another. The five new House amendments all were adopted by voice votes. Four eliminated Senate provisions that would have: Taken away from the Governor's Redistricting Commission the power to make rulings with the force of law in drawing up new legislative boundaries. Placed the president program of the Senate before the speaker of the House in the line of succession to the governor. Narrowed the right of impeachment of a state official to crimes directly affecting an official position. Granted all municipalities the right to grant exemptions from property taxes to classes of landowners. The fifth amendment changed another Senate amendment that would allow a majority of either the House or Senate to petition for and cause a special session of the legislature. The House amendment adds that the petitioning and session must be for a specific purpose and last not longer than 30 days.

Legislators Give Constitution OK The first step toward modernization of the Delaware constitution, despite last ditch objections from several senators on the final night of the session, was passed by the 125th General Assembly Tuesday night. After the House had knocked off four Senate amendments, Sen. J. Donald Isaacs, R-Townsend, tried repeatedly to reinstate them. However, the majority of Senators blocked his efforts. The constitution still must pass the next General Assembly.

The document barely passed the Senate with the required two-thirds — or 13 — favorable votes. Meanwhile, apparently assured of consideration for their own bills, Senate Democrats loosened their grip on the state's pursestrings as the 1970 Delaware General Assembly session drew to a close Tuesday night. A $63.4 million capital improvement bond bill, held up Monday by Senate wrangling, passed last night without a dissenting vote but ran into immediate trouble in the House of Representatives. S.S. 1 for S.B. 445, was tabled after 26 representatives, many of them majority republicans, abstained from voting on the first roll call. The bill authorizes bonds to finance design, planning, land acquisition, construction and remodeling in a wide variety of state projects. House dissenters were understood to be angry because the Senate added about $900,000 in school equalization funds to H.B. 789, an omnibus education appropriation bill. The intent of the Senate was that school districts which now have educational television facilities, could

FENCE TALK

Delaware trees are again sprouting those funny, bright orange, long, narrow leaves; or is it those Gypsy Moth men and their plastic tape again? Yes it is those moth-survey men who are asking us to find and destroy this tret pest. It kills the leaves, and in a short time, the whole tree.

Some 3000 traps are being set in Delaware and another 3300 in nearby Maryland, says John Franklin, USDA supervisor for plant pest control. W. Robert Hickman, tree pest. It kills the leaves, the state Department of Agriculture is also helping with the survey.

The tapes help to spot the traps, which are tubes three and a half inches long and two inches in diameter. The inside of each trap is coated with a female sex attractant and glue to which the male moth sticks when lured in the trap.

The gypsy moth trappers try to see each landowner prior to placing the traps. Yet they are bound to miss some and will be glad to move them on request. Phone our Extension Service office, 736-1448, and we will relay your wishes.

Six male gypsy moths were collected in Delaware last year. Some of us suspect the insect hitchhikes a ride on camper's cars or trucks which have been in vacation areas of the northeast states where the pest is most severe. The closest heavy infestation is in northern New Jersey where whole wooded areas have been stripped.

Your county agent will grasp at the bit to say that we can give you a practical feeding guide on Horse Nutrition written by John Ewing, national leader on the subject. Leave your name and address at our office by phoning: 736-1448.

Dr. Melvin Reitnour, our equine specialist at the University of Delaware, tipped me off about this fine booklet. Why say more on this offer?

Farmers earned an average of 41 cents out of each $1 spent for U.S. farm produced food in 1969. The balance of 59 cents was for market services.

The farmer's share depends both on the prices he receives for his products and what it costs to sell them.

The farmer's share of the user's food dollar varies widely among products. It is smaller for a highly serviced product such as bread, perhaps 14 cents, compared to large grade A eggs at 67 cents.

It is no secret that food prices have moved up with other goods and services, but at a slower rate. In the last 10 years, income was up to 67 percent, while food costs came up to 35%.

Discussion by Francis Webb
Give your house plants a vacation outdoors this summer. Most house plants will grow very well when placed outside during June, July, August, and part of September. You should take to set these plants in a desired location, as to amount of shade, permeability of the soil, and other factors that will influence the growth of the plants. Some flowers like full sun, others partial shade, and others full shade, but most plants have one thing in common - they desire a rich well drained soil.

If your flower is in a porous clay pot it can be plunged to the rim in a conspicuous location in a flower border. Be sure to water these plants during dry periods. Plants in glazed or plastic pots should be repotted in clay pots for the summer, or planted directly in the soil. The plants will have difficulty securing adequate moisture if they are confined in a non-porous pot.

If you would like to have more information on house plants and their culture, for indoor and outdoor growing, call 736-1448, or write P. O. Box 340, Dover, 19901.

If you have trouble with moles in your lawn and garden, the problem can be solved indirectly. The moles are feeding on grubs and other insects in the soil, so if you cut off their food supply they will leave. Actually, what you do is drive them into your neighbors lawn.

The best way to cut off the food supply is to treat the lawn and garden area with chlordane. This will kill the insects and will continue to do so for 2 to 3 years before another application is needed. (Use all rates for 1000 square feet) 4 ounces of 75% liquid concentrate or 10 ounces of the 40% wettable powder, or 5 pounds of the 5% granular for best results. Be sure to follow label directions precisely.

It Seems To Me

By Janet C. Reed

Clothes seem to be stain-prone in the summer time. Fruit juices, soft drinks, grass, picnic foods — all present problems.

Stain removal can be a rather complex in spite of all the ads. The same stain requires different methods of removal depending on the fabric.

The wonderful crease resistant fabrics are easily soiled by grease. If you don't get rid of the stain promptly, it may remain forever. So as soon as possible, remove it with a grease solvent. If you subject the garment to that whether it's hot water, in the dryer or with a hot iron, the stain may be permanently set. Heavy duty liquid detergents work well on washable fabrics if the greasy stain is treated if the greasy stain is treated Stains from citrus fruits or soft drinks may be invisible when fresh but tend to yellow on ageing. These stains may be difficult to remove, but if you're persistent you can remove them with bleach. Chlorine bleach will damage fabrics that contain wool, silk, spandex or polyurethane foam. Also, it shouldn't be used on fabrics with a special finish, such as permanent press, or on colored fabric unless the label says they are safe with chlorine bleach.

Powered peroxigen bleaches are milder in action and repeated treatments may remove the stain. If the stain is a stubborn one, and the garment is washable, dampen the stain and sprinkle peroxigen bleach on the stain. Work it into the fabric, and with a spoon or medicine dropper, pour a small amount of hot water on the stain. Rinse well and repeat if necessary.

Washing products which contain enzymes work well on protein type stains such as blood, and food stains such as chocolate, milk, eggs and gravy. However, they will not remove all stains.

Before trying to remove the stain, test the effect of the stain removers on all unexposed parts of the garment.

If the garment is a good one and you are in doubt about using home methods, take it to a professional dry cleaner. If the dry cleaner knows the type of stain and the kind of fabric, he usually can remove the stain successfully.

Tax Changes For Teenagers

That first paycheck this summer can be very exciting for a teenager. With the new federal tax change, that check may be bigger than expected, according to W. T. McAllister, extension farm management specialist at the University of Delaware.

The new Tax Reform Act of 1969 is now in effect; it's designed to free the low income wage earner from a heavy tax burden. It also has some convenience benefits that allow low income individuals to receive tax-free paychecks.

The old tax-free $900 income regulation has now been greatly changed so that the teen can earn as much as $1725 in one year and still pay no tax.

For the first time, teenagers don't have to wait until January to receive withheld income tax since the tax is not deducted if the employee expects to earn under $1725. At the time he's hired, the teenager must certify to the employer that he expects to have no federal income tax liability for the current year and has no liability for the preceding year. He then must file a W-4E form that certifies that there will be no tax deduction.

If any time after this form is filed, the employee does earn the maximum amount, then a regular tax form may be filed and standard deductions will begin, Mc-Allister says. Of course, a teenager may have the standard tax deduction made at the time he's hired if he wishes. This money will be returned after he files for a tax refund after January 1.

Although he won't have the federal tax taken from his pay, other deductions such as social security and state tax, will remain the same.

The role of parents has remained the same in spite of some of these changes in tax rules. The child may be claimed as a dependent as long as he is under 19 or a full time student. For the student, the double dependency factor is a benefit since it allows both the student and the parent to claim a deduction.

For parents that act as employers, McAllister suggests that all payments for work be made by check and not in the form of gasoline or a car. This allows the teenager to learn how to manage money and makes record-keeping easier for the parents.

Weed Control In Soybeans And Corn

A weed control program now could mean extra bushels of soybeans and corn this fall. If you missed out on the spring preemergence herbicide program, take care of problem weeds, suggests Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware.

Delaware corn growers should get rid of grassy weeds that are invading fields. Early season weather particularly encouraged watergrass and foxtail growth.

Lorox is a good spray to use in combination with a surfactant, Mitchell says. Aim the spray at the base of the plant because any direct contact of the herbicide and upper corn leaves will cause serious burns.

Soybeans are hit the hardest by the broad leaf weeds such as pigweed and cocklebur. A good spray in this case is chloroxuron (Tenoran). Apply the herbicide when the plants are four inches tall and the weeds less than two inches. A surfactant must be used at the rate of 0.5 percent by volume.

For larger soybean plants, from 8 to 12 inches, a direct spray on weeds may be used only if the weeds are small enough to be covered by the herbicide. A spray of 2,4-DB ("Butoxone SB" and "Butyrac 175") will do an effective job. No damage is done to the soybean plant if the lower three to four inches only are touched.

Mitchell warns the .125 pounds of 2,4-DB per acre currently recommended will not effectively control pigweeds, morning glory and other broadleaf weeds.

If small weeds are still a problem when soybeans are 15 inches tall, Mitchell recommends linuron (Lorox). However, don't spray any higher than three inches on the soybean plants or they will be injured.

Grow Grass In Shaded Areas

Thousands of Delaware homeowners have difficulty in growing grass in shaded areas of their property, observes University of Delaware agronomist Bill Mitchell. This, of course, is because grass, like other green plants, must have light to grow.

Perhaps the most celebrated instance of shade damage grass occurred in the famous Houston Astrodome, he says. In this case, shade damage was the primary reason for installing the synthetic grass Astroturf in the domed stadium.

Fortunately, Delaware lawn enthusiasts have a less expensive alternative than installing synthetic turf.

Many grasses are somewhat tolerant shade, explains Mitchell. In fact, light intermittent shade is actually desirable for some varieties. Problems begin to develop, however, when shade is continuous and exceeds 75 percent.

Shade tolerant grasses range from Cheating's fescue, the most tolerant, to Penn-lawn red fescue, Kentucky 31 tall fescue, Poa trivialis, Kentucky bluegrass, Zoysia and finally, to the intolerant Bermuda grasses.

In caring for shaded areas, cut grass higher than you would under full sun conditions, says Mitchell. High shade means low intensity, and of course, low food production rates by grass. The more top growth, the more grass can utilize small amounts of light. Never over-fertilize shaded grass with nitrogen, he adds. This may further reduce food storage capabilities.

Clip low tree limbs as high as possible to allow light to reach grass from the side and also to provide good air movement which is important checking disease problems.

Remember to provide plenty of water in shaded areas since grass must compete with extensive tree roots for moisture.

Since shade and high moisture are excellent conditions for many fungus diseases, Mitchell recommends that you consider using a broad spectrum fungicide during the June through August growing season.

If the shade level is continuous and over 75 percent, you may wish to use one of several ground covers in place of grass, he adds. Among the easily established ground covers requiring minimum care are Bugle, Pachysandra, Ivy and Myrtle.

Protect Vegetables From Diseases

If you're looking forward to a plentiful harvest of vegetables from your backyard garden, control plant disease now. Vegetable plants are large enough to need a protective spray program, according to Dr. John Heuberger, extension plant pathologist at the University of Delaware.

Tomatoes, potatoes, cucurbits such as cucumbers and melons, lima and snap beans and peppers are subject to several diseases you can best control by spraying every ten days. If the weather is rainy, spray every seven days, Heuberger advises.

Fortunately, several fungicides are available that will give adequate control. You can buy either zineb or maneb under various trade names in almost all garden supply centers or hardware stores.

Use either fungicide as a spray at the rate of one ounce to three gallons of water, Heuberger says. For lesser amounts of water, use two tablespoonfuls to one gallon of water.

Although these chemicals are relatively non-toxic, nonetheless be sure you follow safety rules. Read and understand the label information before using the chemical. Use according to directions for the specific crops, and be sure you observe the recommended number of days between the last spray and harvest.

Always store all chemicals under lock and key where children cannot reach them. Appropriately dispose of empty containers and waste chemicals.

Urban Planning

Successful urban planning often hinges on whether or not the planning organization can get the final plans implemented. In many cases, plans for urban development never get off the drawing boards.

This is not the case in most European countries, explains Dr. Gerald L. Cole, agricultural economist at the University of Delaware. In these countries, urban planning receives considerable attention and once land-use plans are completed, they are put to use immediately.

Cole has just returned from an 18-day tour of northern Europe where he had the opportunity to examine planning of new communities in France, Finland, Russia, Sweden and Great Britain. The trip was sponsored by the National Urban Coalition, a group interested in efforts to improve land-use planning in the United States.

"In comparing the planning programs of the various countries," Cole points out, "For example, in Russia all the plans are determined by the central government and, since there is no private industry to seek changes in these plans, there are no changes once the plans are drawn up."

"In Sweden, there is room private investors, but the overall plan is developed by the government and each parcel of land must be used for the purpose stated. For an example, if a person had a piece of land intended for private investors, but the for residential use, he could build either apartments or homes. He couldn't use the land for something else."

Although there aren't as many traffic problems in these countries, highway and traffic management receive considerable attention in plans for new communities, notes Cole. "In the new towns, shopping centers with underground parking areas are very popular. This eliminates traffic congestion around the shopping area and separates pedestrian traffic from vehicular traffic."

Rapid transit systems are also being included in many plans, he adds. "In Sweden they have a special lane for buses and taxis next to the major highways leading from the larger cities. This has made public transportation more attractive and reduced some of the traffic problems created by large number of cars."

Cole explains that in all of these countries there is a conscious efforts to maintain open green space near the cities. The areas may consist of a corridor along a highway, a belt of open space circling the city, wooded lots spaced throughout the sur-burbs or some combination of the above. The planners also try to provide some form of agriculture in the open area.

"Of course, in most of these countries the average farm is much smaller than in the United States," says Cole. "Therefore, the scale of agriculture taking place around the cities is very small by our standards. The governments, however, may subsidize farmers to keep the land in agriculture."

Cole returned from his tour impressed with the results of land-use planning maintained in the European countries. He feels that by following some of the plans developed for many of our communities, American cities could be developed in a much more orderly fashion than has been the case in the past.

"This is not to say we should take away all of the freedom of private investors," he cautions, "but a mix of public land-use control and private development would insure a more orderly arrangement of our communities."

Farmers Receive Early Program Payments

Kent County farmers who have contributed to stabilize markets and to the conservation of soil and water resources by taking part in the 1970 Wheat and Feed Grain Programs are receiving their program payments earlier this year than ever before, according to J. Heyman Roosa, chairman of the Kent County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

The first batch of payments were made beginning July 1. Additional payments will continue to be made as rapidly as farmers certify full compliance with program requirements and as fast as individual farm records can be processed and checks returned to ASCS County offices for distribution to farmers.

"Because of the excellent cooperation between Kent County farmers and the ASCS office, 70 percent of the participating producers in the county will receive their payments by July 20," J. Heyman Roosa said.

Mrs. Harry B. Swain

Mrs. Emma A. Swain, 84, of Greenwood, died Wednesday, June 24, at her home following a short illness.

Mrs. Swain moved to Greenwood in 1923 from Philadelphia. She was a member of Greenwood United Methodist Church and the Home Demonstration Club at Greenwood.

She is survived by her husband, Harry B. Swain; a daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Whittle of Bridgeville; a foster son, Richard Revel, of San Antonio, Tex.; and a brother, Harry Leager of Wyoming. Services were held Saturday afternoon at Fleischauer Funeral Home, Greenwood. Interment was in St. Johnstown Cemetery, near Greenwood.

Rank has its privilege... and the most children, it seems. A recent study by the Defense Department came up with some interesting statistics. There are 94,815 men in the service who have six or more dependents. And, E-6's (staff sergeants and specialists 6) lead the way. There are 26,607 E-6's who have six or more dependents. Collectively, the E-6's have the largest total of children, 587,518. On the average, lieutenant colonels have the biggest families, with a 3.54 dependents per family. In second place are colonels, with 3.51 dependents per family. But watch out for those E-6's. Those staff sergeants are coming up mighty fast.

Become a Gunga Din
The "Gunga Dins" of Vietnam, known by their official title as water purification specialists, are making quite a name for themselves in Southeast Asia. About 500 of those specialists are using modern methods for providing clean and safe water for our troops. The water purification units range in size from plant types capable of handling 10,000 gallons per hour, to small hand portable types. A typical purification plant normally produces 3,000 gallons per hour. The specialists who operate the units perform many on-site tests, including half-hourly chlorine level checks.

Slang Dictionary
A few weeks ago, we wrote about the glossary of menu items prepared for foreign students at Ft. Eustis, Va. Today, we have news about a "slang dictionary" provided by Redstone Arsenal, Ala., to help bridge the "language gap" for foreign students at the Army's Missile and Munitions Center and School. The 73-page, pocket-size booklet defines such Americanisms as "to Buffalo," "chew out," and "end run," "gimmick," "miss the boat," "nitpick," "snafu," "no sweat," and "hang in there."

Most of the definitions have been couched in a military context. For example, the expression, "ace-in-the-hole," is explained to non-poker players as "adequate reserve forces give a general just that."

Question
Is it true that soldiers can have long sideburns and moustaches?

Well, you're fifty percent right. Soldiers are permitted to wear neatly trimmed moustaches. As for long sideburns, the answer is no.

Track Meet Here Wed., July 1st

The Delaware Track and Field Club Track meet scheduled at W. T. Chipman School, Harrington on Thursday, has been moved up to Wednesday, July 1st at 6 p.m. There will be competition for all ages and for male and female. Age groups are 9-and-under, 10-12, 13-15, and 16-and-under. You fit in there somewhere. Ribbons are to be given for the first three finishers in each event, although the DTFC may have to owe these awards until a shipment comes in.

Harringtonians have dominated all four meets thus far, including the last two held at Caesar Rodney and Dover.

Howard Parker, already a veteran age 11, just missed the world record for his age in the half mile, at C.R., when he sped two laps in 2:30.1. The world record is 2:29.7 held by a youngster from the state of Washington. Chris Rincon of Dover Air, one of four running brothers, was nipped at the tapes by Parker, Chris, 12, led most of the way and greatly helped Howard's effort.

Darryl Porter, 9, logged an impressive 1:23.2 quarter mile victory. He cut his time from 1:23.7.

Mike Smith, Howard Parker, Dave Hitchens and Darnell Burton ran a swift 60.9 to win the 10-12 440 relay.

The baton exchange between Parker and Hitchens was perfect and is not often seen in this young age group. Hitchens won the long jump with Eric Hamsher second. The local pair reversed positions in the triple jump.

Lester Fountain annexed both jumps in 13-15. Norma "Norny" Woods did the same in girls' 10-12.

Darnell Burton eked out narrow victories over tiny Mike Smith in the 10-12, 50 and 220. Barbara Miller won the girls' 50 and 220.

at Dover
At Dover, Monday evening, Ernest Smith, age 8, ran 220 yards in 35.9 seconds to finish second to Ken Thorpe, age 9. The U.S. record for age 8, 220 is 36.3. The world mark is 34.4. Thorpe's close victory over Tim Christopher in the 50 left him undefeated in 10 or so starts.

A courageous performance by Don Woods, 13, gave him a victory in the 3-15 half mile. Woods is better at long runs (2 miles and up) and should be a Lake Forest High cross-country runner this fall.

Mike Fisher finally notched a victory over Darnell Burton, winning the 10-12 220 yard dash.

Bob Smith, victory in the 16-and-over 220 was a tasty one since it came at the expense of his previous conqueror, Caesar Rodney ace, Les Williams.

Tim Christopher won the Bantam softball throw with 123 feet. Matt Burgess took the 10-12 toss with a distance of 139 feet.

Georgetown Raceway Comes To A Close

Georgetown Racing, Inc.'s first experiment with a spring - summer meeting, a 21 night session, came to a close Saturday evening when a crowd of 2,200 bet a total of $75,818 to run the total handle for the meeting to $1,187,340, and the total attendance up to 36,838. Breaking those figures down into the averages for the meeting they show an average nightly handle of $56,540, and a nightly average attendance of 1,754.

They contrast sharply, however, with the figures for the 17 night winter session which ended with a $90,761 nightly mutual average, and an attendance average of 2,090. While the average attendance figures were only 336 off the attendance figures for the winter meeting, the average nightly mutual play showed a sag of $34,421, which was either a commentary on the area's economy, or the competition encountered, for the meeting, or both.

Total purse distribution for the 21 night session was $174,870.25, including the Delaware Development Fund stakes events raced here for the first time, which breaks down to nightly average distribution of $8,320.72 the highest in the history of the track.

Hubert Jackson of Queen Anne, Md., who led the recent Harrington meeting, led the drivers at Georgetown with 15 wins, 15 seconds, and 10 thirds in 80 assignments. Tied for runner-up honors were Jim (Sonny) Wilson of Harrington, and William (Yogi) Bernard of Milford. Wilson had ten winners, 11 seconds, and three thirds in 41 assignments, while Bernard had ten winners, 8 seconds, and nine thirds in 52 outings. There was also a tie for third between Al Sheats of Bear, Don Robertson of Georgetown, and Pat Hubbard of Harrington. Sheats, who drove only 25 races, won 8, won second in three races, and third, in three races.

Sheats, it may be of interest, won honors under the USTA's Universal Rating System, with a 427 percentage and a point total of 96.

Don Robertson, Georgetown school teacher, scored his tie for third money on the last night of the meeting when he clicked with Albion Nottingham and And's Boy in the daily double. That double ran his total victories for the meeting to 8 winners in 38 assignments, and included five seconds and five thirds. Pat Hubbard's record showed 8 firsts, nine seconds, and 8 thirds in 58 assignments.

Leading owner at the meeting in terms of the number of races won by an individual owner - driver - trainer - was Charles Laws of Middletown, who collected six victories. The horse with the most wins at the meeting was His Majesty's Lady, owned by Nelson Warren, who entered the winners' circle four times.

Fastest times at the meeting were turned in by Miss June on the trot when she went a mile in 2:07 2/5ths for Vito Amoroso of Newark, with Al Sheats at the reins. Fastest pacer at the meeting turned out to be the 10-year-old gelding, Mr. Chief Diamond, owned by the Peppers Brothers of Selbyville, who on June 13, turned in a mile in 2:04 1/5ths with Hubert Jackson as his pilot.

Winner of the Eastern Shore Challenge Championship Series was L. J. McGee's June's Lady, who scored three victories in this series, including the finale on closing night.

Highest win payoff at the meeting rewarded the backers of Ed Warren's Carry Crain, driven by Jim Porter, with a payoff of $62.60 on June 12. The highest exacta payoff involved Mamie Burns and Pa Keyman on June 25, which was good for $669.80 return. Highest double involved Andra's Boy and Embassy Girl on June 8, returning $338.40.

Homeruns Give Laurel 4-2 Win Over Harrington

by Kay Raughley

Sunday's Big League game featured two consecutive homeruns by Laurel's pitcher, Gary Holloway. His first homer came in the second inning with no teammates aboard. Again in the fourth, round, he sent the ball over the fence, but with one on. This performance at the plate padded his nine strike out pitching effort for the win.

Harrington was not without hitting power as they tagged the Laurel hurler for nine hits. Four of those were doubles, registered by Larry Larimore, John McCloskey, Norman Short, and Mike Fisher. McCloskey's sacrifice fly to left field brought Larimore for the first Harrington run in the third period. The other run came in the final inning when McCloskey reached with a single and stole second. He scored on Fisher's ground rule double. Dave Newnom went the routs for the loss.

Taylor-Messick In Softball Romp

Taylor and Messick's softball team, which had dominated the Milford Softball loop for the last few years, romped 18-8 over a Seaford team in an exhibition game played at the Moose Home, on Saturday night. Although T and M had at least four starters missing, they played up a quick 14-0 lead before relaxing a bit and coasting to the easy triumph. Buddy Powell started for the locals and blanked Seaford on one solitary single, during his stay on the mound.

Powell led Taylor and Messick's 16-hit attack with three hits in four trips to the plate.

Bob Messick, one of the winners' Bunyanesque sluggers, smashed a mighty blast over the left fielder's head in the first inning, which was good for three bases. Denny "Big Bertha" Cannon, the other big gun (ouch) was on base with a baseknock, when Messick unloaded.

Messick and Cannon are big enough to make an opposing hurler wish he was somewhere else.

K. P. Outten, Jackie Sapp, Messick, Ken "Snooky" Collins and that genial courier of the mails, Frank Collins, all had two safeties each.

Seaford's second hurler had plenty of smoke, but T and M's batters soon were timing his offerings and handing him some lumps.

Fast-pitch softball is an exciting, fast-moving spectacle. Take a trip to Milford some night and watch this team in action.

PROPERTY TAX

Commissioner John T. McKenna estimated the present taxes, coupled with expected miscellaneous fees, will produce $321,361 budget surplus. Last week, the county adopted a budget of $1,216,994 for fiscal 1970-71. Levy Court was expected at that time to drop the capitation tax completely, but later learned that Delaware law prohibits the move.

In other business, Levy Court passed a resolution that will allow a construction firm to ignore the county's interim zoning law. McKenna was the sole opponent of the resolution, which passed 5-1-1 with Torbert absent.

The county building inspector, L. Paige Turney, had issued a stop work order to James Julian Construction Co., subcontractor for paving a one-mile stretch of Kent 10 between U.S. 113A and U.S. 13.

Edwin A. Nelson, Julian's superintendent, told the Levy Court he was ignorant of the law, which prohibits a commercial operation on non-conforming land. The firm has constructed a temporary structure from which it can pave the roadway.

N. Maxson Terry Jr., the Levy Court attorney, said the county government could not officially sanction the activity but could choose to ignore it.

The resolution directed Turney to withdraw his order because strict enforcement "would cause unreasonable hardship to the people affected by the road construction," Robert W. O'Brien, the county planner, said his office has been one complaint from a resident in the area about the operation.

McKenna later attempted to have the construction company fined under interim zoning provisions. "I think we'd be better off to leave well enough alone," Turner said.
