Representatives of a Baltimore firm interviewed employees of the defunct New Era Shirt Company here Monday morning in the Clark Street sewing room.

Sol Offit and his brother, Morton, who with their father, own Aetna Shirt Company, were impressed with the turnout of 60 of the 75 former employees, said Emil Gerardi, an official of the former New Era Company.

Nothing definite has been done, Gerardi told The Journal Tuesday night, because the sons are talking it over with their father. However, continued Gerardi, the Offit brothers told him they would let him know the outcome in 10 days.

The Clark Street building belongs to Adolph Edman, of New York City, son of Sol Edman.

Blue and Gold Football Game Saturday, Aug. 22

Ten members of the 1969 All-Star football team will boost the Gold team's bid for its second straight Delaware All-Star High School Football Game victory when the 15th renewal of the series is played Saturday, Aug. 22 at Delaware Stadium.

The Golds, who rolled to an easy 44-0 victory in last year's game, tail in the series 9-4-1 but will be favored again this year with the 10 All-Staters in the field.

The 11th All-Stater, end Alan Sheats of Middletown, also would have played for the Gold team. Sheats was killed in an automobile accident during the 1969 season and posthumously achieved All-Star status.

The All-Star game again will benefit the Delaware Foundation for Retarded Children and marks the first game to be played in Delaware's enlarged stadium, still under construction, but due for completion before the kickoff.

Conrad High leads all Gold schools south of the city's limits by placing the maximum of six players, including for All-Staters, on the 30-man team, to be coached by Conrad's Jim Pletcher, 1969 Scholastic Coach of the Year.

Halfback Jim Reilly, tackle Paul Sekscinski, guard Mike Dougherty and center Don Robison are the Redskin All-Staters from a 10-0 team and will join teammates Jerry McNesby and Jerry Downes, both second-team All-State picks at quarterback and end, respectively.

Middletown will provide three All-Staters in quarterback Scotty Reigm, halfback Herky Billings and tackle Danny Wiley. The three other All-State players are end Tom Stephen's of St. Andrew's Smyrna tackle Bruce Morrow, who was picked at guard and Milford halfback Bruce Watson, the state's leading scorer.

Former P. S. duPont Coach Bill Ruddy, was appointed Blue coach before taking a position at Williamsport (Pa.) High, will have six members of his 8-2 Dynamiter team on the Blue squad.

Three of the P. S. players are 5-foot-11 halfbacks—Cliff Dawson, winner of the Torn McAn Trophy as the city's outstanding player, track standout Dirty Ward and Steve McCollister. Other Dynamiters are end Dave Siegel and tackles Dan Whyte and Mel Jenkins.

Council Marks Improvements On Streets in Lengthy Session

The City Council determined streets to be improved Monday night in a session of more than three hours.

Streets to be affected were as follows: Weiner Avenue from Liberty Street to city limits; Harrington Avenue from Center Street to city limits; Second Avenue from Center Street to city limits; Liberty Street from Dorman Street to West Street; Missillion and Millby Streets from West Street to the city limits, and Simmons Street from Harrington to Second Avenue.

Estimated cost of the improvement, an application of hot-mix such as was applied in the downtown area last year, was $28,000, to come from a municipal-aid appropriation of approximately $36,000.

The width of the hot-mix on Liberty Street was not determined but the Council agreed it wanted it uniform throughout. This took place after it was found specifications called for a width of 28 feet, for 350 feet, and 18th feet, for 370 feet.

The streets, to be improved, were selected by a street committee. Councilman Jack Aptt said there were others needing improvement, but the ones selected were in the most need, he explained.

Warren Brothers, of Mt. Pleasant, furnished the cost estimate but Council did not know Monday night when work would begin.

In other business, the Council acted as follows: Agreed to place streetlight on the northbound lane of U.S. 13 at the plant of Callis-Thompson at the request of Chauncey Messick, and to put a light on Mill Street.

Learned Magistrate's Court No. 6 owed the city $1559.60 in fines.

Hired Donald Thomas Shaw, of Newark, as patrolman at $120 per week. He received the salary because he had had experience in Washington, D.C., and would not have to attend a state police school two months. He replaces Patrolman Tommy McPherson who went to Milford. There were four applicants interviewed by the Police Commission and the police chief Monday night.

Told City Manager Kathryn Derrickson to check with other municipalities to see how they charge for water in swimming pools.

Refused to extend sewer to Mt. Moriah Church, at end of Missillion Street. The church wants to put two restrooms. The structure is 200 feet from the sewer main. Also required would be a lift pump costing $25,000, according to Dudley Willis, the city's consulting engineer. However, installation of the sewer, and others, with lift pump, is included in a bond issue for $100,000, passed by the city but held up by a question of method of voting on bond issues, namely, is it one-man, one vote or a vote on the basis of property owned?

Lowering the premium tax on fire and casualty insurance sold in Delaware in order to attract major insurance companies in Delaware.

The 125th — like its predecessors — had to deal with a number of money bills, which it did with the usual amount of public agonizing and private ax-wielding.

In 1969, the so-called "general appropriations raised this figure to $229,477,556.

But a year is only a half-life to a Delaware General Assembly, so there is now a new set of figures, higher than the others, yet to be totaled for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1971.

The bare budget is somewhere around $244 million excluding the usual raft of special interest appropriation bills that scurry through to passage in the waning moments of the assembly.

The Sussex County reorganization bill's introduction in May climaxed more than two years of work by past and present Levy Courts, bipartisan study groups and a special county Republican Party Committee.

In addition to reorganizing the County Levy Court as a County Council, the bill gives Sussex home rule, so the new council will be able to act on its own on many matters in which before the Levy Court had to seek legislative approval before taking action.

The county officials will also have the authority to hire a county administrator to handle the everyday business of the county and to operate the courthouse in Georgetown.

A battle was one fought by Sen. Margaret R. Manning, R-Marshallton, to reform the state's Family Court unifying the court from two separate units in New Castle County and in Kent and Sussex Counties. The Senate greeted Mrs. Manning's S.B. 500, which was backed up by the governor, by passing 12 amendments; the House, after unsuccessful surgery, defeated it. # $500,000 Kent County Surplus Seen In Year

Levy Court Tuesday discovered that Kent County will have $500,000 in unallocated funds for the fiscal year that began July 1.

Commissioner John T. McKenna has plans for more than $300,000 of it. He hopes to persuade the commissioners to sink $100,000 into an airport, a joint venture between the county and Dover Air Force Base.

He also is pushing for $35,000 for a county executive, $60,000 for partial funding of the county's comprehensive plan, $50,000 for county pensions, $22,500 for a parks and recreation office and $20,000 to implement a pending law that will raise the salaries of commissioners and row officers from $4,800 to $6,600 a year.

The surplus began accumulating on July 1, 1969, when Levy Court raised property taxes by 10 cents per $100 assessed value and the estate assumed financial responsibility for courts of law, the indigent sick and welfare recipients.

The moves left Kent County with a budgetary surplus of $100,000 by June 30. Although Levy Court dropped property taxes from 50 to 44 cents, the rate is still going to produce an excess of $321,000, $200,000 of which has been earmarked as a contingency fund.

The rest of the $500,000 comes in the form of rental fees for court and court-affiliated functions, housed in the county courthouse. The state already is more than one year in arrears in its rent of $46,596.

The bill to pay the rent passed both houses of the General Assembly and is expected to be signed by Gov. Russell W. Peterson.

Marold E. Remley, county accountant, said Tuesday taxpayers should not be misled by the fiscal year figures. He said escalation should melt away part of the funds and expanding county operations take care of much of the rest.

Levy Court has already passed a motion to raise the salaries of seven deputy row officers from $5,015 to $5,615 a year.

The raise is contingent upon S.B. 396 becoming law. The bill provides for the $1,200 raises for Levy Court commissioners and row officers effective Jan. 1, 1971.

It has not reached the governor's desk yet but he is expected to sign the bill. If he does not sign it by Thursday, it automatically becomes law.

McKenna voted against the raise, explaining later that he wanted the deputies to receive $5,800.

Walter L. Fritz, county engineer, reported July 18 has been set as the tentative date for groundbreaking ceremonies for Phase I of the countywide sewage disposal project.

Storm Plays Havoc in Area; Barns, Trees, Damaged

Another rainstorm, accompanied by 80 to 85-miles-per-hour winds, played havoc in lower Kent and upper Sussex County Saturday afternoon.

The winds uprooted many trees, including the sturdy sycamores along Delaware 14 between Harrington and Milford.

A number of trees were broken off at Shawnee Country club, Milford, where the storm arrived about 5 p.m., flooding the dining room of the clubhouse, putting out the lights and canceling telephone communication.

A tree fell on the house of Frank Sposito, of Milford, the club's bartender. Another fell across Delaware 14 south of the club.

Trailers were damaged at the D & R trailer firm here and a horse trailer at K & H Transportation Company. Two trees were uprooted at the home of Clarence Collins, one falling on his garage. Another

CITY SEEKS ORDINANCE AGAINST OUTDOOR BURNING

The City Council, in a hot session Monday night, voted to get in touch with the city's attorney, Grover C. Brown, for an ordinance on the prohibition of outdoor burning.

Four councilmen voted for the move; Councilman Wilson G. Bradley opposed it, and Councilman George W. Vincent, Second Ward, had left the meeting when the measure came up in the latter part of the meeting.

It was suggested citizens could take their trash to the county landfill without charge.

Other business:
City Manager Kathryn Derricks told the Council the city had picked up six loads of trash, in a special collection Monday, because of weekend storms.

Council decided Dale Phillippi, superintendent of streets and public works, would have to review the activities of the trash collection crew. The decision came after Councilman William Minner, Fourth Ward, said "something has got to be done about trash collection but I don't know what can be done." Some trash cans were not emptied completely, added another councilman. "We have five men (on a crew); other towns have three," added Mayor Burton Satterfield.

Council authorize the city manager and his consulting engineer Dudley Willis, to look into establishing a grade on Ward Street. Councilman Wilson G. Bradley, First Ward, and Mrs. Horace Quillen wanted to rebuild sidewalks but needed a grade. Bradley said she had requested one more than two years ago.

Council told city manager to send letter to Penn Central, asking that weeds be cut around the loading platform at the Clark Street crossing. One councilman thought the weeds served a useful purpose in that they obscured the beer cans and bottles.

Veteran's Administration News

Q - I returned from Vietnam recently, and was separated from active duty after serving 21 months. As I plan to apply to the VA for educational assistance to attend college, could you tell me how many months of entitlement I will have?

A - You will have 36 calendar months of entitlement. Any veteran with an other than dishonorable discharge who has served at least 18 months on active duty is entitled to the maximum entitlement.

Q - I am a World War II veteran with service-connected 20 percent disability. The VA doctor who examined me recently said I must be hospitalized for this condition for about six weeks. I have no disability income insurance, and my employer does not have a sick plan. What can I do to provide for my family while I am hospitalized?

A - Any veteran who is hospitalized by VA for a service-connected condition for 21 days or more is automatically rated 100 percent disabled, and receives compensation at that rate from date of his admission. In your case, you should make sure that proof of your marriage and birth certificates for your children are in your VA records.

Q - I am a World War II veteran, and a widower. I am planning my insurance estate, and have heard that some type of death pension is payable by the VA to my children when I die. Does this pension depend on the child's income?

A - Yes. It does if at the time of your death you leave a minor child or one who has not yet attained age 23 and is attending school, the child quite possibly could be entitled to death pension benefits if income limitations are not exceeded. You should arrange for some responsible adult relative to contact the VA after your death.

Lassie has a fan club, so I guess it is natural that the scout dogs in Vietnam have such a club, too. The German shepherds of the 1st Infantry Division's 41st Scout Dog Platoon have been "adopted" by the German Shepherd Club of Northern Ohio. The club periodically sends packages of goodies to the men and the dogs, exchanges pictures with the soldiers and is always interested in receiving about the use of the dogs in Vietnam. This past Christmas, the club sent Christmas stockings to each dog, filled with such gifts as artificially flavored bones, dog yummys and rubber squeakers.

The Army's in the railroad business! Trainmen training is going on at full steam at Ft. Eustis, Va., where the Army is currently conducting two, six-week courses on running a railroad. It seems that Uncle Sam has a growing need for training railroad specialists. In time of war, these men are called upon to operate railroads in overseas locations. They even learn to operate steam locomotives since such trains are still running in foreign countries. One of the courses at Eustis includes instruction in bridge and train maintenance, running repairs to locomotives and cars, and training conductors, brakemen and engineers. Any Casey Jones' among our readers?

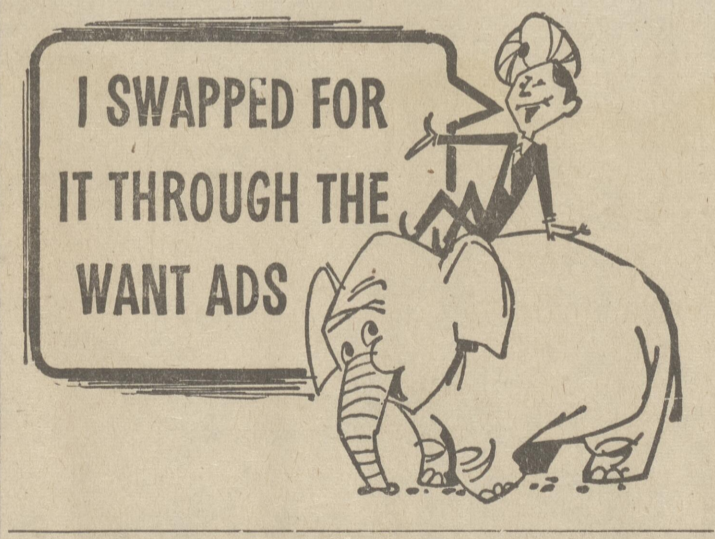

TV Training
Closed circuit television has become a highly successful means for training today's modern soldier. The Army is probably the biggest user of the television set for education purposes. At Ft. Dix, N. J., for example, 225 programs a week are televised to the troops and at Ft. Lee, Va., seven channels are used during 16 hours of telecasting each day. Among subjects currently being taught are: packing a parachute correctly, training military policemen and how to fry an egg. No, that latter program isn't conducted by Julia Childs.

Facts About The Army Did you know —That for the second consecutive year, the Army Reserve celebrated its birthday month of April as Community Month. During that Period, Army Reserve Units undertook projects aimed at making their communities better places in which to live.
—That almost one million men and women have enlisted in the Army during the past five years?

Skip The Adding Machine
Funny things happened at Ft. Carson, Colo., recently when Private First Class Nock K. Wong reported to duty in finance. Pfc. Wong politely turned down the offer of an adding machine, pulled out an abacus and proceeded to out-add every adding machine in sight. Pfc. Wong, who was born in China 25 years ago, learned to use the ancient Chinese adding device while working for an import-export house in Hong Kong. In a race against the clock, Pfc. Wong correctly added 10 three-digit numbers in 14 seconds and multiplied a seven-digit number by a two-digit number in nine seconds. Wong explains why he likes the abacus. "The adding machine is too complicated."

What can you do to ensure safe foods for your family? Strict cleanliness in the best way to prevent contamination. Proper storage is also important since temperature and time influence bacteria growth. A warm, moist environment is the perfect breeding ground — that's what makes summertime peak food poisoning season.

Food Borne Illness

Summertime, with its cook-outs, picnics, and beach parties, is the peak season for food poisoning, warns Miss Margaret Krackhardt, extension food specialist at the University of Delaware. The chicken salad left in the sun, the custard pie that doesn't reach the refrigerator and the picnic hamper full of meat salad sandwiches are all gamblers with spoilage.

Bacteria are the culprit in food-borne illness, the trouble starts with eating bacteria-contaminated foods caused by a lack of sanitation, insufficient cooking or improper handling. The bacteria may set up an infection in some vital part of the body, or produce toxins that can cause severe illness or even be fatal.

A staph infection is the most common illness resulting from insanitary food handling. It's unpleasant but rarely fatal.

Botulism, on the contrary, is the most deadly type of food poisoning. In the United States 65 percent of the cases are fatal. It's caused by a spore-forming organism that thrives in improperly canned foods. If you can foods at home, you can eliminate this danger if you preserve all foods in a pressure canner.

Salmonellosis, caused by the bacteria salmonellae, is difficult to control because it spreads simply and easily. Chickens are frequent carriers of this bacteria. Use care when you're handling mayonnaise salads and poultry stuffing, suggests Miss Krackhardt.

When preparing home canned vegetables, bring them to a rolling boil and then cover and boil at least 10 minutes. Boil spinach and corn 20 minutes. If food looks spoiled, foams or has an offensive odor, destroy it. Protect your family from needless illness by stressing the "4 p's" of good food handling: personal hygiene, proper preservation and preparation, precaution in storage, and proper sanitation of utensils.

Keeping foods cold slows down bacterial growth; therefore, foods should be refrigerated immediately after cooking. Organisms thrive at temperatures from 40-120 F., that's apt to be the temperature range in your kitchen or out on a picnic.

Some foods require more care in handling than others, says Miss Krackhardt. Meat, fish, poultry, eggs and cream products are all very perishable. "Keep Cool" should be your motto; always refrigerate any of these foods. Take special care with mayonnaise or salad dressing dishes.

Keep frozen meat in the freezer until preparation time and keep other fresh meats refrigerated. Stuffed poultry needs special care; don't stuff the bird and then refrigerate. Cook immediately.

Remove any stuffing from leftover cooked meat and refrigerate separately. Make sure stuffing reaches a temperature of 160 degrees F. during roasting. A meat thermometer can help you be certain.

Home-canned foods can be delicious — or dangerous. It's not safe to can vegetables, meat or poultry in a boiling water bath, an oven a steamer without pressure or an open kettle. Only tomatoes, fruit and pickled vegetables are safe to can without a pressure steamer. All other canning must be done in a pressure steamer, emphasizes Miss Krackhardt.

When preparing home canned vegetables, bring them to a rolling boil and then cover and boil at least 10 minutes. Boil spinach and corn 20 minutes. If food looks spoiled, foams or has an offensive odor, destroy it. Protect your family from needless illness by stressing the "4 p's" of good food handling: personal hygiene, proper preservation and preparation, precaution in storage, and proper sanitation of utensils.

Summer Music Classes

Summer music classes sponsored by the Lake Forest School District are being held each day in the band room of the Lake Forest High School and are presently in the fourth week of a six-week session.

These classes are held each summer in the district and are open free (except for a small registration fee) to all beginners as well as those more advanced students who are interested in learning to play or to continue playing the band instrument of their choice.

108 boys and girls from Frederica, Felton, and Harrington are attending these instrumental classes each week and are being taught by Melvin L. Brobst, music instructor at the W. T. Chipman Junior School.

The purpose of this summer instruction is to continue training that was done during the school year, to raise the calibre of the individual student's ability in the band at each school, and to start a beginner's program which is continued during the following school year.

It has been proven that such a program raises the musical ability of the student when school reconvenes in the fall.

TODAY!

To be alive in such an age!
 With every year a lightning page
 Turned in the world's great wonder book
 Whereon the leaning nations look!

When men speak strong for brotherhood,
 For peace and universal good,
 When miracles are everywhere,
 And every inch of common air.

Throbs a tremendous prophecy
 Of greater marvels yet to be.
 Oh! Thrilling age,
 Oh! Willing Age.

Back in my youth, electricity was also in its infancy and my most unforgettable character was the electrical wizard Charles P. Steinmetz, who shortly before his death in 1923 was asked what he thought might be the most startling development of science in the next 50 years. His reply, "Spiritual power is a force which history teaches has been the greatest force in the development of men. Yet we have been merely playing with it, and never really studied it as we have physical forces. Some day people will learn that material things do not bring happiness, and are of little use in making people creative and powerful. Then scientists will turn their laboratories over to study of these spiritual forces which have hardly been scratched."

How accurate that prediction has proven itself in our successful space activities.

FENCE TALK

Can the dairy cow meet the competition with her milk? "Yes," says Dr. D. V. Josephson, of Penn State University, writing in the Pennsylvania Farmer magazine.

He then describes the concern of farmers for the future of their dairy industry.

Milk substitutes have been no match with the real thing to date. Consumers seem to prefer fluid milk, cottage cheese, cream cheese, butter-milk, ice cream and a variety of soft and hard cheeses.

Fresh fluid milk is the original convenience food. Some of us have been condemned to low fat milk, perhaps for the rest of our lives. But I find the two percent fat product almost as tasty as the usual three and a half percent milk, if not as creamy.

Over the country, we now produce less evaporated than we did 40 years ago. The closest plant is at Greensboro, Md. Here is a prime example of a fine, cheap, food that because of its inconvenience features, and cooked caramelized flavors, is not well received by Americans.

What is the future for milk production? It should be good even if the normal cow feed supplies become scarce. Dr. Arturi Virtanen, a Nobel Prize winner of science, has held up milk production on tests in Finland by feeding cheap, carbohydrate feeds from processed straw, wood and sugar cane wastes and fast growing plants.

So with this type of study and work going here and in Europe, the long range future for the versatile dairy cow looks bright. Our cow conducts the same fermentation process in her rumen and assembles a complete human food—milk.

Her competitors have a long way to go if they hope to remove her from our food production system.

Classified ads are great if you have things to buy or sell.

Your county agent sees this each year when he offers Christmas tree for sale in season.

Right now we have been using a two line ad to seek a milk tester for our Kent County Dairy Improvement Association.

Who would dare dream that such ad provokes such a fine response? Yes, there seems to be an art to writing them. Short words, short phrases and active verbs tell the story best.

Your newspaper editor will jump at the chance to help you write one and save you money at the same time.

Discussion by Francis J. Webb Do you always find that your garden squash start to wilt and die during July and August, with the plants rotting off at ground level? In most cases this is caused by the squash vine borer. The adult insect lays its eggs at the base of the plants, and after they hatch the young borers enter the squash stems to feed.

These insects are not easy to control, so unless you really enjoy squash, it may not be worth your time. Usually by the time this damage occurs you are fed-up with squash anyway. But if you insist, you should start a preventive spray program by treating two times a week with Malathion, Rotenone, or Sevin. Direct the spray at the base of the vines since that is where the eggs are deposited. I must remind you, however, when using Sevin, spray during the evening and keep it off the blooms, because it is very toxic on honey bees. You should continue these sprays through the third week in July.

Do you have problems with flies during the summer? Well, if you do not, feel fortunate, but for those of you that do, here are a few tips for prevention and control.

To most people a fly is a fly, but actually there are several different species of these critters. The common house fly is very prevalent in this area and is a contaminator of foods, and a carrier of such diseases as summer colic, tuberculosis, typhoid fever and even polio. These flies breed and develop in a wide variety of materials such as animal manure, garbage, and any type of wet decaying plant material. The regeneration time for these flies are 10-14 days from egg to adult, so you can get a large population very quickly.

There are a few other species, such as the little house fly, Green and Blue bottle flies, and fruit flies that are bothersome, but I will not cover these, but get into the control measures which is about the same for all species.

Sanitation is the first line of defense against all these flies. Also, screens on windows and doors should be in good condition. Finally, for residual control outside the house, treat garages, breezeways, garbage cans, etc., with dimethoate (cygon or DeFend) or Diazinon insecticide. For inside the home spray with aerosol sprays containing pyrethrin and/or dichlorvos (DDVP). You can also buy resin strips treated with the latter materials for use in locations with minimum air circulation.

It Seems To Me

By Janet C. Reed

Prices going up? No question about it, if you've compared prices of ready-to-wear today with prices of a year ago.

Much of this price increase is a reflection of labor costs. This is why children's clothes seem so expensive in relation to the amount of fabric used. It takes about as much labor to make a child's garment as one for an adult.

When you sew for the family, your greatest saving will be on those garments which take the greatest amount of labor, since you usually don't count the cost of your own time. Children's clothes, play clothes and swim wear use a small amount of fabric in relation to labor and you can make substantial savings over similar ready-to-wear garments.

High fashion or individually styled garments such as found in formal wear, tailored ensembles, or wedding attire are high in labor cost as well as fabric cost. If you have the skill — and would normally buy garments of this nature — savings can be considerable. The amount you save will vary greatly depending on the quality of fabric, quality of workmanship and the style of the garment.

You will save least on garments that are standardized in style such as tailored blouses, shirts and pajamas. Mass production of a standardized style brings the price of each unit down to the point where it may be unprofitable to sew your own. The question of whether it pays to sew can only be answered by each individual. For many women it is not a question of economy but of creativity.

If you like to sew and feel you are contributing to the family income in this way, your contributions will be greater if you.

(1) Buy the best quality of fabric you can afford for the garment. It handles easier, wears better and keeps its good looks longer. For the same amount of effort you are making a more expensive garment and receiving a higher return for your labor.

(2) Concentrate your sewing skills on those garments that are apt to cost most if you bought them ready made. (3) Perfect your sewing and fitting skills.

4-H Club Talk

with Marion MacDonald

Charmayne Pierson of Clayton is Kent County's 1970 Dairy Princess. The 15 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Pierson received her crown at the Kent County 4-H Dairy Festival, held at Houston Fire Hall. Miss Pierson, a Chestnut Grove 4-H'er, is very active in the 4-H dairy project and dairy judging.

Miss Susan Comegs, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Comegs, Hartly and Miss Dana Gooden, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel M. Gooden, Wyoming, are members of the Dairy's Princess Honor Court. Miss Gooden and Miss Comegs are both members of the Fox Hall 4-H Club.

The annual Dairy Festival is sponsored by the Interstate Milk Producers Association, and the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Delaware. The Houston Cardinals 4-H club served as host for the festival.

As dairy princess, Miss Pierson will lead the 1970 Livestock Parade at the Delaware State Fair and participate in local dairy events.

The contestants competing for the title were judged on their poise and personality, their ability to speak extemporaneously and their ability to milk a cow.

Judges were Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Webb, County Extension Service, and F. Gary Simpson, agricultural graduate assistant, University of Delaware. Master of Ceremonies for the evening was Dr. Wilbur Hesselstine, dairyman specialist, University of Delaware.

Don't Overlook Small Grains For Hogs

Swine can be raised on a wide range of feed profitably, as long as the ration is balanced, stresses Dr. Richard E. Fowler, extension livestock specialist at the University of Delaware.

If the price is favorable, barley, grain sorghums and wheat can replace part or all the corn used in swine rations, he explains. And oats can replace up to 25 percent of the corn in market-hog rations and up to 50 percent of the corn in brood sow rations. All small grains, however, must be ground to obtain maximum feed value.

Wheat and barley are the most valuable small grains used in swine rations. And many farmers have just finished harvesting these crops providing a good supply of grain for feed.

Barley is 86 percent as valuable as corn, when used in swine rations, says Fowler. A higher fiber content accounts for the slightly lower feed value.

Barley is also a little higher in protein than corn — corn being about 9 percent protein while barley is 11 1/2 percent. But barley is deficient in salt, calcium and phosphorus, trace minerals and vitamins — particularly vitamins A and D.

"Although the fiber content is a little too high for small pigs, barley is a good feed for pigs weighing over 50 pounds," points out Fowler. "In addition, it's an excellent feed for brood sows, but it is deficient in amino acids and producers should supplement barley rations with extra protein."

The feed value of wheat in swine rations is nearly the same as corn. Higher in protein content than barley, wheat is only three percent fiber, notes Fowler.

One disadvantage of using wheat in swine feeds is that it tends to stick together and become "gummy" when finely ground. For best results, growers should use a corn wheat mixture," suggests Fowler. "A 1:1 or 1:2 (corn to wheat) ratio is recommended."

Wheat is also low in salt, calcium and phosphorus, and amino acid lysine, he adds. "Although wheat is 13 percent protein supplement should be added to swine rations, using this grain to increase the amino acid level."

Proper Lawn Watering Important

Proper watering is a major factor in keeping your lawn green and healthy during the hot summer, according to Dr. William H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware.

If water runs off your lawn over the sidewalk and into the road, chances are you are watering it too fast. Give the water time to wet and soak into the soil.

The average home lawn contains about 6,000 square feet of turf, says Mitchell. To apply one inch of water over that area requires about 4,000 gallons.

One inch of water per week will usually satisfy the needs of most grasses, he adds. This should keep turf green and attractive throughout the summer. When watering, apply a minimum of one inch of water to the lawn. Less than this causes shallow rooting and may damage turf.

Generally speaking, lawn watering costs average about $1.85 a week or $7.40 per month. This would amount to a little over $22 during June, July and August — the time of year when lawns need frequent watering.

Since natural rainfall will usually supply at least 50 percent of a lawn's water requirements, watering costs seldom exceed $10 to $12 for the summer.

Excessive watering can be just as harmful to grass as lack of water, cautions Mitchell. Too much water limits rooting and may weaken the turf sod.

Rid Home Of Ants

Several different ant species may become household pest in Delaware this summer, notes Frank E. Boys, extension entomologist at the University of Delaware.

Ants are social insects that live in colonies in the ground or in decaying wood, he explains. They often nest near buildings foundations, under sidewalks and in the home lawn or garden. Ants may also nest in household woodwork, under shingles or in posts.

Most ants are relatively harmless to the homeowner, adds Boys. But they can be annoying, especially in the kitchen and food storage areas.

All types of ants will be active from now until the beginning of cold weather. Extra sanitation is important in preventing worker ants from being attracted into the home.

Fortunately, most species of ants are not particularly difficult to control. Indoors, trace the ants' line of march from the food source to the approximate nest location and treat this area with a recommended insecticide, says Boys.

The nests may be outdoors, or in the house — within a wall, partition, under flooring or behind appliances.

If the ants are indoors, paint or spray surfaces over which they crawl in their line of march. But treat only limited areas and not entire walls or floors, points out Boys. These areas may include door sills, lower parts of window frames, around sinks and pipe fixtures, and kitchen cupboards.

Never contaminate food, water, dishes or utensils and let the spray dry before children or pets are allowed in the treated area, he adds. Ants can be controlled with liquid household insecticides such as two percent chlordane or two percent malathion (premium grade). Other insecticides such as diazinon, dichlorvos (Vapona) and lindane, when formulated in a ready-to-use aerosol space spray, can also be used indoors when stated on the label.

If ants are a problem outdoors, apply a 5 to 10 percent chlordane dust or 4 to 5 percent malathion dust to nest openings, around foundations and to any other areas frequented by ants, Boys adds.

Select Disease-Free Flowering Crab Apples

Flowering crab apples are one of Delaware's most beautiful small ornamentals. Unfortunately, many of these trees are subject to one or more serious diseases, points out Dr. John Heuberger, extension plant pathologist at the University of Delaware.

Some of the more common diseases affecting flowering crab apples include scab, cedar apple rust, powdery mildew and fire blight, he explains.

Scab appears as small, dark green spots on the leaves and fruit. Yellowish-red spots with black centers on the upper side of the leaves and small, sup-shaped brown fungus on the underside are signs of cedar apple rust. Powdery mildew can be recognized by white "mealy" growth on the leaves and terminal growth, while fire blight will cause the leaves to turn brown and die starting at the stems.

With the exception of fire blight, all of these diseases can be controlled by following a regular spray schedule recommended fungicides, says Heuberger. Fire blight is best controlled by pruning infected growth as soon as symptoms appear.

A number of new crab apple trees are resistant to these diseases, he adds. During a four-year study in Pennsylvania, the following varieties remained free of scab, cedar apple rust, powdery mildew and fire blight: Adams, Baskatona, Beauty, Blanche Ames, Evelyn, Ferris' Crimson, Golden Hornet, Goldfinch, Gwendolyn, Jack C., Lady Northcliffe, Ormiston Roy, Peachleaf C., Pixie, Professor Sprenger, Red Splendor, Seafoam and Winter Gold.

When replacing a diseased tree or adding a new one to your landscape, consider planting one of these varieties, suggests Heuberger. You may be able to eliminate spraying as well as disease problems.

CITY HOPES FOR NEW DITCH FOR BROWN'S BRANCH

By C.H.B.

The City Council Monday night learned of a new, and more efficient route, for a ditch in the Brown's Branch Ditch improvement project. But first some background material. Draining part of Harrington is a ditch from the west goes on the north side of W. T. Chipman Junior School to the former site of Vane's cannery whence it goes under the railroad. It continues east, goes under Delaware Avenue and connects with a ditch flowing north to connect with a prong of Brown's Branch.

The Soil Conservation Service has made the plans which will include the ditch thru Wheeler's Park which flows eastward to connect with Cemetery Ditch. Petitions of property owners have been signed and a public hearing will come eventually. In considering cost, the SCS believes construction of another ditch is more economical. This waterway would start at the cannery site, on the west side of the railroad and go north to connect with the prong of Brown's Branch going thru Wheeler's Park. The new ditch would pass mostly over lands of the Sapp Estate, representatives of which, it was said Monday night, showed no interest in selling. A reason advanced was the land along the railroad had a potential for industrial sites.

Mayor Burton Satterfield mentioned another possible route, more to the west than the railroad route, connecting with the Brown's Branch prong, but this also goes thru Sapp Estate land on the former Squire Ward land.

Meanwhile, City Manager Kathryn Derrickson is trying to arrange an appointment with Sapp Estate heirs for Mayor Burton E. Satterfield and the city's consulting engineer, Dudley Willis. It was mentioned that Fred Mott, of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service wanted to attend the meeting.

Mayor Satterfield added a solution to drainage of the west and southern portions of the community would be underway when construction of the Black Arm branch of Marshy Hope Creek gets under way. Mott told The Journal, in April, the work would begin later this year.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Helberton

Easy does it during the season of easy living in the kitchen and at the dinner table. You can't do it easier than with eggs, the cook's best friend. Nutritious, versatile and appealing, eggs are the indispensable ingredient for hundreds of dishes, yet they star when served alone. Now, when eggs are plentiful and economically priced, here's your chance to try some brand new dishes to add to your repertoire.

How good are you at omelets, for example. They look so easy and taste so good, yet many cooks refuse to make them, because of their reputation for being difficult. If you haven't made an omelet, try it this week.

Here's some good advice on omelet making that will insure you success the very first time you make one. Whether plain, flat, or fluffy, omelets basically have the same ingredients. Vary the preparation, cooking or serving and you will create a different dish.

To begin with, always add just one tablespoon of liquid for each egg, and at first work with no more than three eggs. Salt and pepper to taste, and add sugar if you desire a dessert omelet. Now you are on your way to making a perfect omelet.

Prepare plain omelets as you would scrambled eggs—but do not scramble. Combine all ingredients in a bowl beat until light yellow, then pour into a fry pan containing melted butter. Cook until compact in texture, moist and slightly browned on the bottom side. Serve as is, topped with cheese, a sauce, or filled. The secret is low heat. High temperatures always hurt egg cookery.

Use two bowls for fluffy omelets. Separate eggs (have near room temperature for greater volume of egg white.) Beat whites until fluffy but not dry in the first bowl. Whip the yolks and seasoning to a high yellow in the second bowl and then fold into egg whites. Pour mixture into fry pan or baking dish containing melted butter. Cook or bake until lightly browned and the top surface springs back when touched. Fluffy omelets make very attractive desserts.

For more interesting flavor, add a touch of spices, herbs, or finely chopped vegetables, such as parsley, pimento, green pepper, or mushrooms. For a dessert garnish, tempting additions might be chopped dried fruit, jellies, jams, preserves, grated lemon, lime or orange rind and powdered sugar. For a hearty main dish use chopped fish, shellfish, poultry or vegetables as a topping or filling.

First White Marlin Hooked By "Babs" Porter

Delaware's first white marlin of the season was hooked by Mrs. David C. ("Babs") Porter, co-owner of the South Shore Marina at Indian River. Using an eel which she rigged herself, Mrs. Porter, who resides in Wilmington during the winter, boated the marlin after a 70 minute struggle - standing all the time.

A guest on the charter boat "Rosie," captained by Gray Smith, Mrs. Porter caught the marlin in Baltimore Canyon about 65 miles off the coast of Indian River Inlet using 30 lb. test line on a 20 lb. Penn International reel. The billfish weighed in at 55 pounds and measured 80 inches.

The news of Delaware's first marlin im made public by Melvin C. Luff Jr., director of the Delaware Sportfishing Tournament, who further stated that this year's tournament is already well under way with a total of sixty citation-winning entries received to date. Of this total, 50 are in the salt-water division with Bluegill and Black Drum the most plentiful species. Thus far only four different species have been entered in the fresh-water division.

The Delaware Sportfishing Tournament runs May 1 - April 30 each year. You are reminded to try your angling skills, and enter your catch at one of the 28 official weighing stations throughout the state. If it equals or surpasses the minimum weight requirements you will be awarded a citation at the close of the tournament. Should you have the largest catch of any one of 25 different species, you will also receive a suitably engraved trophy. Any questions regarding the tournament should be directed to: Tournament Director, Delaware State Development Department, 45 The Green, Dover 19901.

Blue Cross More Efficient

New techniques of administering health protection programs are resulting in increased efficiency and better service for members, according to Courtney H. Taber, managing director of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Delaware. Administrative expenses accounted for only seven percent of Blue Cross and Blue Shield income last year. Ninety-three percent was used to pay health care bills of members.

Taber pointed out that with sharply soaring health expenses, it becomes increasingly important to stabilize administrative costs so that "members receive maximum benefits for their health care dollars."

He quoted figures from the organization's annual report, now being distributed which show that Blue Cross and Blue Shield paid out $30,533,540 for care of members and used $2,196,970 for administrative expenses. The report also shows that last year, before a rate increase became effective, the organization had to dip into its reserves to pay bills. A total of $1,980,123 was used.

Cases handled for members number 408,029. In addition, the Blue Cross and Blue Shield organization processed 356,436 cases for recipients of health care under government programs, including Medicare and Medicaid. Bills paid in those programs for the government totalled $17,809,446, bringing to $48,342,986 the total of bills paid during the year by Blue Cross and Blue Shield for health care.

In the annual report message to members, Taber stated: "The challenge of this new decade will be coping with constantly rising health care costs, effective Plan controls, responsibilities of new benefit programs and changes in rating methods. We will do everything in our power to offer the best possible health protection programs to the consumer through the experience, skill and innovative capabilities of our staff."

J. Sellers Bancroft, president of the board of trustees, reviewed highlights in the history of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Delaware in a message in the report. He said 1970 is the beginning of a new era for that organization with the retirement of Harold V. Maybee as managing director after 34 years of service to the non-profit organization. Bancroft said that in 1935 "throughout the nation most hospitals were operating with unfilled beds and unpaid bills." Maybee came to Wilmington and organized Group Hospital Service, Inc., at first exclusively a hospitalization plan with a simple list of benefits for groups of employed persons. Dependents were not included.

In 1943, the Blue Shield surgical coverage was added, Bancroft noted. Then, in 1955, the new concept of "extended benefits" was introduced to help cover long-term illnesses and catastrophes cases. In a short time it was adopted by more than half the subscribers.

Bancroft said that when the Medicare program went into effect in 1966, Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Delaware was named administrative intermediary for both Part A Hospital Insurance and Part B Medical Insurance. Late in 1969, he continued, the community organization offered new comprehensive programs with greatly increased coverage. New rates went into effect at the same time. "The simultaneous implementation of new rates with these new benefit programs was a monumental undertaking," he said.

Ken Cerklefskie, 8, Sets National Track Record

Ken Cerklefski, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Cerklefski, 210 Commerce St., Harrington, set a new American record for the 440 yard run, by boys eight-and-under, at Dover Air Force Base High School's track, on Monday night.

Ken had clocked 1.24.5, at Harrington, four days earlier, in his first track meet ever. At Dover Air, he was timed in 1.23.5 to break the American record of 1.24, held by Mark Zucker of Reseda, Calif. The young Harringtonian made a couple of errors in strategy, that cost him a little time, but these won't be repeated after he gets a little more experience.

Howard Parker, 11, missed the world record in the half mile by four-tenths of a second and has a chance to own both the half and mile marks, before he becomes 12 on October 25th.

Ernest Smith, another eight-year-old, set a new American mark in the 220 of 35.9 seconds, breaking the old standard of 36.3.

Some forty Harrington boys and girls have been competing with success in the track clinics and meets being held in Kent County, by the state of Delaware and the Delaware Track and Field Club. The clinics are held at W. T. Chipman School, Harrington from 9 to 12, each Monday morning. The next meets will be on Thursday, July 9, at Wm. Henry Middle School, Dover, on Monday, July 13, at Caesar Rodney Junior High School and Thursday, July 16, at Dover Middle School. Starting time is 6 p.m. Latecomers will be able to get in some of the events, however. There are age groups for everyone, male and female. The youngest group is 9 and under. The oldest is age 16 and over. At least one father-and-son combination has competed, thus far, in the oldest and youngest categories, respectively.

Smyrna's Clutch Hitting Powers 4-0 Win

by Kay Raughley
The Sunday game at Smyrna - Clayton proved to be a defeat for the Harrington team, but to look at the score does not tell the whole game. Righthander Bobby Wyatt was pitching a no-hitter until the sixth inning when Smyrna got all of its four hits. Mickey Chaffinch, catcher turned pitcher, came in relief and did a fine job of holding Smyrna to just those four runs.

Auto Races At Dover Downs

Gary Bettenhausen, Tinley Park, Ill., eldest son of the late Tony Bettenhausen, 2 time USAC National Champion, has entered the United States Autod Club Indianapolis Car Race, scheduled for Sun., July 19, at Dover Downs International Speedway. Starting time 3 p.m.

Gary, 28, scored the second Indy car victory of his career at Michigan International Raceway on July 4. His first championship win came in the 1968 Phoenix, Arizona - Phoenix "200".

In his first outing at Dover Downs, for the 1969 running of the 1st Annual Delaware "200" Classic, Bettenhausen started eighth, and finished fifth.

For the 2nd Annual Delaware "200" Classic at Dover Downs, Gary will drive a turbo-charged Offenhauser powered rear engine Gerhardt racer.

Gary started racing go-karts in 1961 - switched to USAC Late Model Stock Cars - then switched to USAC Sprints & Championship Cars. He was the 1969 United States Auto Sprint Champion.

In addition to the win at Michigan International, Gary has competed in six 1970 USAC Championship races. A fifth place finish at Langhorne being his best effort. Driving sprint cars, he has six victories so far this season.

Racing experts predict Gary Bettenhausen will become one of the most proficient drivers in USAC circles, when competing on high banked speedways, such as Dover Downs.

Practice and qualifying for the 2nd Annual Delaware "200" will take place Sat., July 18, and Sunday morning, July 19.

More successful was a group of bills to help prisons reform prisoners. Five bills passed by the General Assembly professionalized the boards involved in granting or recommending paroles and pardons. Other bills, including ones that would have allowed the boards rather than the judges to decide how long convicted persons should be jailed did not pass. Peterson said last week, however, that if the new boards work out, the "indeterminate - sentence" procedure may have a chance later.

To bring the state's judicial branch to a par with surrounding states, the legislature boosted the salaries of all judges in state courts. The raises included salaries or magistrates, boosting their pay from $8,000 to $10,000 a year despite an attack on their courts from Rep. George Jarvis, R-Harmony Hills. Jarvis wanted a total reorganization of the magistrate system.

Some will remember the 125th as the General Assembly that struck a lethal blow to Delaware's aging pioneer cable school television network.

But Peterson, an early advocate of the system, conceded last week that the ETA system may have been outmoded and that television sets fed by recorded tape cassettes may be the future of the medium in education.

The Senate and the House granted pay raises to all state employees: Teachers receive salary boosts of about 7.5 percent for the 1970-71 school year and 5 percent for 1971-72.

State employees were given the additional benefits of a hospitalization plan and a re-organized pension plan funded over a 40-year period and with increased pension maximums.

The legislature aimed a three-pronged attack at drug abuse when it authorized a $260,000 program to be administered by a state drug coordinator. It established a
