Chamber of Commerce to Start Labor Survey Next Week

A special committee of the Chamber of Commerce will begin a labor survey next week.

After the Chamber had held its July meeting at The Bridle Bit, the committee remained and formulated its plans in short order.

The group, comprising Fulton J. Downing, Arnold B. Gilstand and Samuel A. Short Jr., decided to start the survey Fri., July 31, with assistants in the annex of The Harrington Journal at 14 Commerce St., adjacent to The Peoples Bank.

Survey forms will be available for persons seeking employment, with assistance provided in filling out the forms.

There will also be a house-to-house survey, at a time, to be determined, where assistance will also be provided in filling out the forms.

The forms were provided by the State Development Department, a representative of which told community figures an industry, employing 1200 persons, was interested in locating in Kent or Sussex counties.

The precise nature of the firm was not revealed.

Meanwhile, garment manufacturers have shown an interest in locating in the Clark Street building of the defunct New Era Shirt Company. The only one revealed publicly, Aetna Shirt Company, of Baltimore, interviewed former shirt factory employees recently. Tuesday, the chamber agreed to invite Aetna officials to meet as soon as practical with a special chamber committee.

August 1st Deadline For Labor Reports

The U.S. Department of Labor reminded Federal employee labor unions that August 1 is the deadline for filing initial reports concerning their constitutions, bylaws and finances.

W. J. R. Overath, regional administrator of the department's Labor Management Services Administration here, said that on August 1 "each union at any level, not subject to the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act, and which represents any Federal employee, must file form G-1, together with two copies of their constitutions and bylaws."

The filings are required under terms of Executive Order 11491 which establishes minimum standards for Federal employee unions governing officer elections, bylaws and finances.

The form G-1 is available from area ISMA offices located in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Washington, D. C. Union officials must send the completed form G-1, together with copies of the constitution and bylaws to the Labor Department's Office of Labor-Management and Welfare Pension Reports, American National Bank Bldg., Silver Spring, Md., 20910.

Overath also noted that each Federal employee union also is required to file an annual report 90 days after the end of its fiscal year. Reporting forms for the financial statements are also available from the area LMSA offices.

The Executive Order 11491 became effective on June 19 and it sets out standards of conduct regulations for Federal government employee labor unions. It is patterned after similar regulations affecting labor unions in the private sector.

This action was determined after a communication from the firm stated it had sufficient financing but was interested in "special considerations" which were not identified.

Martin Resigns State Posts

Hugh Martin, Secretary-designee of the new Department of Administrative Services, has resigned three positions.

In a letter to Governor Russell W. Peterson, Martin wrote that "since my appointment . . . it is clear that the interest of the State will best be served if I resign as your Army Aide-de-Camp and as a member of your Magistrate Screening Committee.

"Additionally, I enclose a copy of my letter of resignation as co-chairman of the Sussex duPont for Congress Committee.

"I look forward eagerly to the opportunity of being in your first Cabinet and to the challenge of bringing together the various agencies which will make the Department of Administrative Services in effective aid to the progress of our state."

In interviewing Martin prior to confirmation his appointment, some Senators suggested that he resign from some other positions to assure he will have enough time to devote to his responsibilities as Secretary. Martin

Hartnett Gets Kent Row Office Post

Maurice A. Hartnett III was appointed attorney for the Kent County row offices by the Democrat dominated Levy Court Tuesday, but not before the Republican members had some fun.

Hartnett, a Dover attorney and treasurer of the Kent County Democratic Committee, succeeds Joshua M. Twilley, who resigned June 23. Twilley resigned after he announced he is the Democratic Levy Court candidate in the 31st District.

Since the Democrats normally outnumber the Republicans on the court, 4 to 3, Hartnett's appointment was expected to be confirmed quickly.

One Democrat was absent Tuesday however.

After the motion to appoint Hartnett was on the floor, Isaac Thomas said he would like to nominate William S. Hudson, a Republican, for the post.

"You can't nominate him," William C. Torbert, the Levy Court president said. "We already have a motion on the floor."

"I think this is something we should give some consideration," Thomas said. "I think there are places for political appointments, but not when we're playing with the taxpayer's money. think he (Hudson) would serve the country well."

"So would Maurice Hartnett," said Torbert.

A vote called on the motion to appoint Hartnett was 3 to 3 along straight party lines with Democrat John T. McKenna absent.

"Well I guess we'll just have to wait until next week to act on this," Torbert said. Then, a chuckling James E. Turner said, "Mr. President, I'd like to change my vote." Hartnett finally was approved 6-0.

In other matters, Levy Court requested G. Dorsey Torbert, the county receiver of taxes, to turn over his records on the wildlife account to the county comptroller, A. Richard Barros.

Earlier in the meeting, Barros said he did not know there was a separate account for such funds and he didn't even know whether it was

The Delaware Congressional Delegation announced that eighteen young men have accepted appointments to the four service academies.

Sixteen of the men — those attending the Army, Navy, and Force Academies — have already begun training. The two remaining men were scheduled to begin studies at the Merchant Marine Academy on July 21.

Nominated to West Point are: Robert M. Methany 30 Old North Road, Camden; Donald V. Rahmes, 100 Shore Drive, Dover; and Peter H. Ziegler, 2409 Limestone Road, Wilmington; all nominated by Senator John J. Williams, Senator J. Caleb Boggs, and Congressman William V. Roth Jr.;

Theodore A. Hasson, 2515 Nicholby Drive, Wilmington; nominated by Senators Williams and Boggs;

Dale B. Mowry, 211 Hanover Place, Newark; nominated by Senator Boggs;

Daniel F. Hetherton, 320 Marsh Lane, Wilmington; John L. Lacey, III, 2022 Armory Drive, Wilmington; Dean E. Russell, 207 West Harrison Avenue, New Castle; Keith P. Saddler, 1410 Stoneleigh Road, Webster Farms, Wilmington; all nominated by Senator Boggs and Congressman Roth.

Nominated to Annapolis are: James N. Brooks of 324 Minquadae Boulevard, New Castle, nominated by Senator Williams;

William R. Mason, 312 North Bedford, Georgetown; Thomas A. Stevens, 2618 Deepwood Drive, Wilmington; nominated by Senator Williams and Congressman Roth;

Jerry K. Smith, 81 Jamere Drive, Seaford; nominated by Senator Williams and Congressman Roth;

Ross E. Anderson III, 3206 Faulkland Road, Wilmington; James C. Nolter, Broadkill Beach; both nominated by Senator Boggs.

Nominated to the Air Force Academy was: John A. Saryan, 403 Crest Road, Carrcroft Crest, Wilmington; nominated by Senator Boggs and Congressman Roth.

New Type Radar To Be Used On Del. Mem. Bridge

Speeders on the Delaware Memorial Twin Bridges will soon have another new electronic detector working against them.

A new type radar unit which records speeds from a moving police vehicle was authorized purchased for the Delaware Memorial Bridge Police by the commissioners at the July meeting.

Director William J. Miller, Jr. who recommended the purchase, said: "Since one-way traffic has been inaugurated permanently on the twin spans, we have noticed an increase in the speed of vehicles using the bridge. With the new radar unit, we detect speeders and prevent possible accidents."

According to Miller, the new unit will be able to measure the speed of a vehicle "whether the police car is moving or not." A small computer is part of the system. The commissioners approved the expenditure of $1395 to pay for the radar unit and installation.

The accident rate on the Delaware Memorial Bridge since the advent of one-way traffic on each span continued to show a marked drop compared with the year before, said Miller.

In other business the commissioners were told that the new TV monitoring system recently installed on the four towers of the Delaware Memorial Bridge is functioning and going through its final period of adjustment.

"Already the bridge police have found it invaluable," said Miller.

The next meeting of the Authority will be Tuesday August 11, in Cape May, N. J.

Beware Of Hitch Hiker

Do you have any idea who committed an estimated 35,000 assaults, murders and thefts during 1969? That friendly-looking fellow waiting along the highway with his thumb in the air, that's who. Hitchhikers are crowding our highways in unprecedented numbers, and they are beating, robbing, even killing motorists at a higher rate than ever before, a recent survey reveals. Of 100 hitchhikers questioned by officials, 83 had criminal records. The average hitch-hiker presents a forlorn appearance and one is moved to stop and give them a lift. In the interest of safety, just don't do it. —Wellington Enterprise, Wellington, Ohio.

Medicare Cost Controls

Health costs have been rising twice as fast as other consumer costs, and social security is doing what it can to meet the problem, according to W. J. Bulkeley, social security district manager in Dover.

He said the Social Security Administration is concentrating on ways to help keep Medicare costs down.

"I think everyone connected with the health care industry has concluded that it is time to do more than just talk about rising medical costs," said Bulkeley.

As an example of this mounting concern, he cited a recent statement by Robert H. Finch, former Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, in which Mr. Finch Challenged the health care community to help control spiraling medical costs.

The rising demands for medical care from the elderly and medically needy to financially compete for medical care, have placed great stress on inadequately and unevenly distributed manpower, facilities, and services," Mr. Finch said. "This has contributed to rapidly escalating medical care costs. Public and private action is needed to arrest the inflation in the health industry and to improve the health care system so that high quality medical care will be available at prices people can afford."

Among the actions the government is taking to help stem the tide of rising costs is encouragement of alternatives to hospital care. The health insurance industry traditionally has made inpatient hospital care as primary covered service and this has tended to encourage utilization of high-cost hospital care instead of lower-cost services, Bulkeley said.

Medicare has taken steps to shorten hospital stays and thus reduce costs. Since January 1, doctors have had to certify the need for hospitalization of a Medicare patient by the twelfth day of the hospital stay, instead of by the fourteenth day, as before. A second certification now comes on the eighteenth day instead of the twenty-first day. These changes may mean shorter hospital stays because experience as shown

AFS Student Arrives in August

On August 10, Shigeto Kurihara of Japan will land in San Francisco on the first leg of a journey which will take him to a years visit in Felton. Shigeto will be the Exchange Student for the Lake Forest Chapter of the American Field Service for 1970-71. Thomas peck, outgoing president of the chapter, announced the name of the student this week.

He will arrive about August 13th on the East Coast and will be met by members of his American family, Mr. and Mrs. James Pizzadilli of Felton. They have already been in letter communication with Shigeto and his family and are eagerly awaiting his arrival.

It is the hope of the new president of the AFS Chapter, Mrs. Harry John Dill, Jr., that enough donations from interested parties will be made to complete the final payment to the National American Field Service organization by September. Less than $200 remains to be raised. A number of gifts to the Chapter have been received by Mrs. Dill and Mr. Peck in the past month.

Because the students of Lake Forest High School will be most closely connected with the young visitor from Japan, this might be a challenge to the spirit of the Lake Forest Spartans to get together and raise this money. A little bit from each student would more than fill the bill. How about it Spartans? Get those nickels, dimes and dollars to Mr. Peck, Mrs. Dill or any member of the AFS Club from school.

riman. Upon the election of Nixon, Harriman resigned and was replaced by Henry Cabot Lodge. At that time the U.S. delegation numbered more than 40, and the presence of Lodge, a topnotch negotiator who also carried much diplomatic status, indicated a strong interest in negotiations.

When Lodge resigned, however, our government failed to replace him with a diplomat of more or less equal status. This was interpreted by the Communists as a downgrading of the negotiations. From that time they have refused to participate fully, arguing that the administration is not interested in serious talk.

The American delegation in Paris has now been reduced to 32 persons. It is headed by Philip C. Habib, the fourth-ranking member of the first plenary session. He is considered only the acting head of the delegation.

Habib is no doubt an excellent diplomat and negotiator. Excellence in this field, however, may not be enough. In the subtle world of international diplomacy, status plays a great role. In spite of his proven abilities, Habib lacks the stature of a Harriman or a Lodge.

If the administration is truly interested in achieving a negotiated peace in Paris, the appointment of an eminent diplomatic figure is a necessity. It is a necessary interest in achieving official belief that the talks are of first-rank importance.

Until this is done, assertions of interest seem to be contradicted by our actions in Paris. The Communists should no longer be given that excuse for maintaining that are not really interested in a negotiated peace.

HALBROOK CHOOSES 5 DIVISION HEADS

Robert L. Halbbrook Jr., secretary of the Department of Community, Affairs and Economic Development Tuesday announced the appointments of five division heads within his department.

Lorin P. Hunt, currently director of the Office of Economic Development in Wilmington, was named director of the office of economic opportunity.

James F. Sanders Jr. was appointed director of the office of human relations. He is presently executive director of the Human Relations Commission.

Richard L. Murchison was named director of the division of economic development. He is currently deputy director of the State Development Department.

Robert P. Moyer was appointed director of the division of housing. He is now secretary of the department of housing which becomes a division of the new department.

Halbrook has also named Moyer acting secretary of the department during any of his absences from the state. Jack M. Tyler was named director of the division of library in the new department. He is presently state librarian.

Gov. Russell W. Peterson approved all the appointments Tuesday, and they will become effective August 5 when the department goes into operation.

The salaries, Halbrook said, will be announced at a later date. All the directors for now will work at their present salaries.

The Important Vote

Will you be a political drop-out?

Throughout the nation men and women within the parties are laying the groundwork for November's election. Many candidates face primary opposition. This provides an opportunity to select those candidates representing your points-of-view to be the party nominees in November.

There is a lot of homework to be done. Local, state and national issues should be analyzed, discussed and decisions made.

There is more to politics than just "talk." Each one of us should back up our "talk" with a vote.

If you have any idea that you might be out-of-town on voting day—either the primary of the general election, then by all means take the time and make the effort to secure an absentee ballot. Then use it.

We could go back in history to the many elections decided by one vote. We don't think it necessary. The only way you can prevent becoming a political drop-out is to make sure you cast your vote.

—Frankenmuth (Mich) News

without directors, the office of local governmental services and the division of consumer affairs. Halbrook said they will be named in the near future.

Peace Talks

In announcing the American entrance into Cambodia in his television speech about a month ago, President Nixon asserted that despite these broadened operations in the United States remained primarily interested in a negotiated peace. He reiterated this in his news conference a week later.

This announced desire to resolve the war at the conference table rather than on the battlefield is sensible, for in the end a political settlement will be the only way out. Unfortunately our government's official actions tend to belie an overriding interest in achieving a settlement through peace talks.

When the negotiations began on May 10, 1968, the United States sent a large delegation to Paris, headed by the prestigious Averell Har-

IF YOU THINK IT IS HOT, READ ABOUT THE BLIZZARD OF '88

(Editorial Note: The article was written by C. Avery Bell, retired rural mail carrier, and was published in the News-Journal papers many years ago.)

"You ain't seen nothing yet!"

Mention any snowstorm of major proportions in late years, and any oldtimer worth his salt will promptly take the wind out of your sails with that remark.

He's referring, of course to the great Blizzard of '88— which began 70 years ago today.

There aren't many people around any more who weathered that storm, so we have to turn to scrapbooks kept by those who did to get a first-hand idea of what it was like. We're forced to agree that the Blizzard of '88 has hardly had an equal in the northeastern United States.

One such scrapbook was kept by Mrs. Stewart Ramsey, who lived for 93 years on Ramsey Road in Brandywine Hundred. Her daughter, Mrs. Henry Bartels of near Booth's Corner, Pa., let me look at some of her mother's two dozen scrapbooks, which form a real encyclopedia of all that happened in Wilmington Brandywine Hundred, and nearby Pennsylvania.

There are several stories of the storm, but we picked one by a local newspaperman because it gives a vivid account of the happenings and displays a fine sense of humor.

Awoke to Rain

It was Sunday, March 12, 1888 that Wilmington and all the Northeast awoke to a heavy March rain and wind storm. The temperature was around 50. The rain continued and the oldest inhabitants could only compare it to the winter of '54, but had to admit that the present storm's winds could be 1/2 mile greater per hour.

The temperature had dropped from 50 Sunday morning to 16 and was still falling. All streetcars and traffic was unable to move. Trains started but were soon blocked by drifts. All electric, telephone and telegraph wires were down and all highways blocked and walking was next to impossible, but this was only half of it, for snow and gale winds continued all day and well into the night.

Tuesday morning the snow had ceased falling but the wind had shifted to northwest and stronger than ever and temperature had fallen to 15 below zero.

The story was evidently written on Friday for the writer states that the wind had died down and Saturday, St. Patrick's Day "promises to be fair."

Market Street Drifts

The drifts were so high on Market Street that pedestrians walking in the narrow shoveled lanes on the sidewalks could not see the middle of the street for days after the storm. In the words of the reporter "the local coal barons had raised the price of coal 50 cents per ton and the employes had struck 25 cents per day increase in wages but their places were soon filled."

"The 4:42 train was one-half hour late leaving Broad Street Station in Philadelphia on Monday with 200 Wilmington passengers aboard. It was four hours late when they reached Chester.

At nightfall the thermometer took a sharp drop, the rain turned to snow, and the wind rose to a roaring blast.

Our local reporter, who got no byline, tells it this way:

"At 11 p.m., the storm swept down with an unheard of fury on guileless, unsuspecting, and unprotected people at about the time young men were about to say adieu to the maidens of their choice. They needed no second invitation to come in out of the storm and stay till morning by the side of the parlor stove and ever and anon clasp a reassuring arm around the waist of his beloved.

"The older folks, who had gone to bed, rocked and rolled in a semi-comatose state and regretted that they had not taken out tornado or hurricane insurance.

"Monday morning dawned with a gale blowing 1,000 miles per hour or more.

"The official report places the velocity at 66 per miles per hour but I am sure that it is an error, and to prove it a milkman started early down the Concord Pike before the snow was deep. His wagon was blown over three times and all the milk spilled.

"Anti-Freeze for Horse
"He continued on, however, for shelter in Wilmington was nearer than returning home. He was afraid his horse would freeze so he poured half a quart of whiskey down the animal's throat."

It must have upped his horse power, for the narrator relates that "He went to town in record time despite the drifts."

"That Monday morning," continues the reporter, "the snow was drifted 10 feet deep, and showed him where to begin work.

"He took one look at his shovel and at the giant drift, banged his shovel down on the front of the engine, and said:

"Bedad, O' not be able to get yez out of here much before Christmas." Soon other shovelers came but their efforts were in vain for the snow drifted back faster than they could shovel.

"Four big locomotives were sent down from Philadelphia and an attempt was made to push the train through the drifts that filled the deep cut here but without success. The train then was pulled back to Philadelphia and the passengers were released after being marooned for 23 hours."

There is no mention anywhere of deaths caused by the storm. Maybe people grew harder in those days.

The Center will be closed two weeks for vacation beginning on Monday, August 3 and will reopen on Monday, August 17, with a full program for the members' enjoyment.

Six of the Center's members are enjoying a week at Rehoboth. The trip is sponsored by the Geriatrics Association of Delaware. Those who are guests at the Geriatrics House on Baltimore Ave., are Katie Austin, Mildred Vincent, Catherine Masten, Helen Graisberg, Ida Vander Borgh, and Eleanor Nelson. In August another group from the Center will have an opportunity to spend a week at the shore.

At the annual meeting of the Board of Directors on Thursday, July 16, a check of $75 from the Jaycees was gratefully received. Also a check of $15 was donated by Mrs. Angela Johnston, who had received that amount for ceramic work she had done for the Bureau on Aging for Senior Citizen's Day held in Dover in May. This response was gratifying to the eighteen dedicated citizens serving as directors.

180 Persons Take Magistrate Test

Approximately 180 persons took written tests for Justice of the Peace applicants in two separate sessions, one in New Castle and the other in Kent County.

Next step will be the selection of top scorers and the start of the screening process, according to the Governor's Magistrate Screening Committee. Follow-up personal interviews will be held where necessary.

After the screening process is completed, the Committee will submit its recommendations to the Governor for his consideration.

FAIR FATHERS HAD PIONEERING SPIRIT

The founders of Delaware State Fair, now in its 51st year, were men with the pioneering spirit, something which seems to have disappeared in the welfare age.

Upon the suggestion of the late Elbert Saunders, prominent driver and trainer of harness horses, a handful of individuals were told in 1919, "What you fellows need is a fair."

And so a handful of local citizens met in Huck Palmer's railroad restaurant and decided to start the Kent & Sussex County Fair, the forerunner of today's event.

It is interesting to note the philosophy of these founders. All were men of some means but only one, C. D. Murphy, was a man of considerable wealth.

Capital was raised by selling stock at $25 per share, no assistance was asked from the state or federal governments.

These men could have been easily discouraged by the magnitude of the task but they were not defeatists: they didn't point out the reasons why the venture would fail but why it would succeed. This is in sharp contrast to the philosophy of some present-day citizens who look on the gloomy side when one points out the sore need of the community for housing and industry.

We have changed from a community of why we can to one of why we cannot.

The officials of the fair were continually faced with obstacles. The first fair was held only four days. Curtains on the merry-go-round were usually down until noon. Thursday was the best day. Saturday, the last day, was a poor one until auto racing came in.

Eventually, we had a six-day fair. The conservative natives flocked the fair grounds on Sunday night, previous to the opening of the fair, without charge. Then a charge was made. The present fair opens on a Friday night and extends to the second Saturday.

The original stock cost $25; now it cost $100 per share. The founders of the fair never intended to make money on the fair: dividends have never been declared on the stock, yet it is always in demand.

Some of the original founders of the fair, and other individuals, also were responsible for the establishment of a parimutuel harness racing track here in 1946. It was the second on the East Coast.

The pioneering spirit, as far as the fair and the race track is concerned, is still alive. We wish it would spread to the whole community.

HOW TO RIDE OUT THE STORM

Electrical storms can come up quickly, and you should know what to do if caught out in such a storm.

Here are some facts and safety tips from the Division of Physical Health:

The most threatening time for lightning is just before a storm breaks. If you are out in the open, go to the nearest building. If there are no buildings near you, lie down until the storm passes. The highest object in the area is the natural target for lightning.

If you are at home, do not stand in the doorway or near an open window. Avoid using the telephone, electrical appliances or taking a bath during the electrical storm.

If you are in a car, stay in it. A hard-topped automobile is one of the safest places to be in a storm.

Never run under a tree, because trees attract lightning. The lightning bolt runs down the moist interior of the tree, building up extreme heat and pressure which can cause the tree to split or explode. Small "streamers" of lightning may jump to nearby persons or animals.

If caught swimming or boating during an electrical storm, get to shore immediately. Water is an excellent carrier of electricity, and a swimmer need not be hit directly by lightning to be electrocuted. The electrical current can be carried several hundred feet through water.

Stay away from lone hilltops, poles, towers, overhead wires, fences and steel rails. Be especially wary of fences attached to trees. When lightning threatens, get off a horse, tractor, bicycle or motorcycle.

THE COUNTY SHOULD NOT PAY FOR A DOVER AIRPORT

We agree with Walt Rykiel, writing in The Evening Journal of Tuesday: he does not favor building an airport at Dover for pleasure planes at the expense of the taxpayer. He believes, however, an airport for commercial planes might have some merit.

It happens the current Levy Court, exempting our representative, William Paskey Jr., of Felton, agreed to put up $100,000, to match $100,000 appropriated by the General Assembly, for an airport.

However, we do not believe $200,000 would not begin to build an airport on the high-priced land of the Dover area. We believe the initial appropriations would be merely a foot in the door.

Now, suppose an airport is built. It would not be self-supporting and the taxpayers of all Kent County would have to pay for most of its maintenance.

As it is, there are three strips for light planes in the Dover area. There are also strips throughout the remainder of the county. Why, little ole Harrington has two in its vicinity, not to mention one at Milford.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

Somewhere back in Pennsylvania, Through the mountains I go roaming, And I listen to the songbirds, As they sang in days gone by.

I can hear the brook falls rumble, Sounds a lot like far off thunder, And the bob'o'links sweet whistle, As I'm going through the rye.

I can see the far off mountains, Where the sunlight gleams like fountains, As again I trip the towpath, Long the Conemaugh River shore.

I can see the wild flowers growing, And the same old river flowing, As it winds it's way so snake-like, Past the old lock-tender's door.

While its just in dreams I wander, And in childhood's days I ponder, Still it makes my days seem brighter, To go over pathways old.

So that's why I dream them over, Trip again in fields of clover, Back in old Conemaugh valley, Where the sunlight falls like gold.

actually requiring the states to appropriate more money for the poor, just raise the ceilings. Little, if anything, was said however, about the federal requirement forcing the states to redistribute available welfare funds if the legislature did not grant increased appropriations. This redistribution was designed to give more of the available funds to families which had little or no additional income at the expense of families who were making some outside income—the "working poor." Hiland said last night, however, that either he nor his staff knew the real implications of the federal fund redistribution requirement until they actually sat down to work it out after the General Assembly passed the ceiling raise bill late last month.

Peterson Signs Bill For Parks

A request for $238,500 of $500,000 in state aid for parkland development was presented by Newark Mayor Norma B. Handloff to Gov. Russell W. Peterson Monday. Newark's mayor and other city officials attended the ceremony at which the governor signed a bill for $500,000 in state aid for parkland development, and Peterson was presented with Newark's application for nearly half the fund almost before the ink of his signature had a chance to dry.

Welfare Funds Shuffled

Redistribution of Delaware's available family welfare funds — which will reduce or cut off grants in some cases — was a federal requirement all along, it was revealed Monday night. John E. Hiland Jr., director of the State Division of Social Services, reported on the requirement at the regular meeting of the advisory council on family services — formerly the State Board of Welfare — in Wilmington. The meeting was marked by bitter denunciation of the redistribution, made necessary because the legislature failed to provide more money for poor families this year. It was also revealed at the meeting that many of the Social Services' division social workers are unhappy at the prospect of losing some of the money for their clients, especially since it will affect the "working poor" more than any other group.

the fiscal year, he said. A more practical alternative, and one which his division is now working on, Hiland said, is an effort to persuade federal officials to allow Delaware to ignore the requirement to redistribute the funds until the General Assembly comes back into session — after the first of next year — and then can hopefully be persuaded to appropriate the needed additional money. As it stands now, however, the division is planning to comply with the federal requirements and redistribute the available funds in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children category — which contains 20,000 of the state 30,000 welfare recipients — by this Oct. 1. So far, Hiland pointed out, no actual changes have been made in the welfare grants. The redistribution is connected with a recent bill passed by the legislature which raises the ceilings on the amount of money the poor families can receive, but which does not actually appropriate any more funds to allow the poor to take advantage of it. The bill was introduced after social services officials announced that Delaware could lose $6 million in federal matching welfare money if the state did not raise its AFDC ceilings to reflect cost-of-living increases during the past decade. State officials pointed out to the legislators that the federal government was not it to Austin N. Heller, secretary of the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control. Newark wants $238,500 to acquire an 18-acre park site at Barksdale and Casho Mill Roads and to develop four existing parks. These include Rittenhouse Park, where two large pavilions and an outdoor amphitheater would be constructed, neighborhood playgrounds at McKees Lane and Kells Avenue and Fairfield Park. Mrs. Handloff, city Parks Director James Hall and Assistant City Manager Philip M. Sowa had lobbied actively for passage of the bill, H.S. 1 for H.B. 326. Rep. Jacob W. Zimmerman, D-Dover, sponsor of the bill, also attended the ceremony and commented: "Every time for the past several years when the bill needed some prodding, I'd call on Mayor Handloff." The bill apportions $350,000 of the state aid money to New Castle County, $80,000 to Kent and $70,000 to Sussex. The state will sell bonds to provide the money for the three-year program. With the state providing 50 per cent assistance, some communities eligible for federal aid would pay only 25 per cent of the cost. Peterson also signed H.B. 852, designed to attract insurance companies to Delaware by cutting to 2 per cent the present 5 3/4 per cent tax on fire and casualty insurance premiums. The governor said that if Delaware can entice insurance firms to move their headquarters to the state, the result will be "more and better jobs, the kind of job that does not contribute to pollution." State Insurance Commissioner Robert A. Short said after the signing ceremony that his office has received inquiries from many insurance companies, but he declined to name them. "We have definite changes in the domicile of at least one insurance company. I'm not going to divulge it," Short said. Officials of the Philadelphia Life Insurance Co. confirmed Monday that their stockholders in April authorized a transfer of the corporate charter from Pennsylvania to Delaware, but said the company may not actually make the move. A spokesman said the company is not affected by taxes on fire and casualty premiums but planned the Delaware move because Pennsylvania was imposing heavier taxes on domestic stock companies. The spokesman said the Pennsylvania legislature, which adjourned Monday until September is considering tax relief and the company has, in effect, agreed to stay in Pennsylvania if the relief is granted. Peterson credited Short, the state's volunteer fireman and Thomas B. Evans Jr., who resigned recently as state development director, for their part in preparation and passage of the bill.

ONLY 2 OF 11 TOOTH PASTES KEEP FDA OK

The Food and Drug Administration says only two of 11 toothpastes and powders are promoted for decay prevention are fully effective. The agency is withdrawing marketing approval for eight of the preparations.

The FDA, citing a study by the National Academy of Science, termed eight teeth preparations ineffective and one possibly effective in cavity protection.

The agency announced yesterday it will withdraw marketing approval for the eight dentrifices that lack proof for such claims as "stays active against tooth decay all day," "helps harden and strengthen the structure of tooth enamel on contact and help prevent decay," and destroys bad breath originating in the mouth.

The two brands termed effective in preventing cavities were Procter and Gamble's Crest and new Colgate Dental Creme-Gardol plus MFP.

A third brand, N.D.K. Dentrifice, was termed possibly effective. Its maker was allowed six months to submit additional proof of effectiveness.

The FDA endorsed the findings of the academy that these eight brands are ineffective for their advertised purpose of preventing tooth decay: Brisk Activated Tooth Paste, Colgate Chlorophyll Tooth Paste with Gardol, Colgate Dental Cream with Gardol, Antizyme Tooth Paste, Kolynos Fluoride Toothpaste, Super Amm-I-Dent, Amm-I-Toothpaste and Amm-I-Dent Toothpowder.

The toothbrush findings — except for the Colgate Gardol-MFP brands — are a portion of the government's investigation of drugs marketed between 1938 and 1962 before proof of effectiveness was required for approval.

The Colgate brand came on the market after 1963 and was found effective through an FDA evaluation of data submitted by the manufacturer.

College Student Beaten

A 20-year-old student from W. Va., was beaten severely about the head and body Thursday morning on Railroad Avenue, Harrington.

James Martin, a summer worker for the Green Giant Packing Co., told police that he and a 16-year-old companion from W. Va., were sweeping out a panel truck at 2:30 a.m. when they were attacked.

Police said two men opened the back of the truck and began beating Martin. The other youth fled without injury. Martin was dragged outside the truck and thrown to the ground.

He was taken to Milford Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released.

Donald Melvin, 23, of Vernon Road, Harrington, was arrested by police and charged in the beating. He was arraigned at Magistrate Court No. 6, Harrington, and was released on $500 bond for appearance in Court of Common Pleas.

Police have issued a warrant for the arrest of another man to be charged with assault.

DEL INSKO LEADS IN HARNESS HORSE EARNINGS

With Del Insko, Herve Filion and Carmine Abbatiello thus far enjoying their best harness racing seasons ever, new, all-time driver records in both race and money winnings could be established before 1970 runs its course.

In U.S. Trotting Association statistics complete through the start of racing on July 13, Insko-driven trotters and pacers have earned a smashing $738,562. This is remarkably ahead of Bill Haughton's 1968 clip when he set the current record of $1,654,172. At a similar time in July Haughton had won $554,028.

Both Abbatiello, at $685,616, and Filion, at $592,569, are also traveling well ahead of Haughton's pace of two years ago.

The same is true in the USTA's race winning category where it very well may take 400-plus victories to win the crown.

The present world record is 407, set by Filion in 1968, and closely approached by the little Canadian again in 1969 with 394. Currently Filion has notched 180 racing triumphs compared with only 167 at a similar time in 1968 and a mere 132 at a comparable time in 1969.

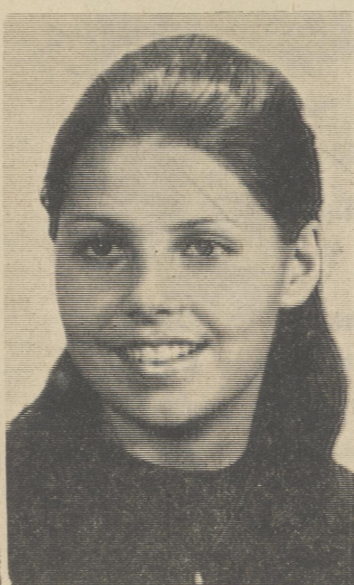

And defending champion Filion is not even leading in this division. Abbatiello still hangs onto the top spot with a blistering total of 185 which is far and away the highest number of race wins ever for this time of the season.

Brandywine R. Set Afire

Brandywine Raceway has been set afire these past two weekends by the flying hooves of the great young pacers — Most Happy Fella, Truluck and Columbia George, all of whom have a great opportunity to follow in the illustrious paths blazed by the legendary stars of the past, Bret Hanover and Overcall.

The Wilmington oval plays host this Saturday (July 25), to the older pacers, the nation's top free-for-allers who will gather to compete in the $30,000 Adios Harry Invitational Pace. The race is named in honor of the great world champion (1:55) and winner of the 1954 Little Brown Jug.

The 1969 installment of this annual classic was captured by the great Overcall in 1:59 1/5 on the way to his selection as aged Paces of the Year and an undefeated season of 21 trips, a fitting capstone to a championship career during which he earned $783,948, third overall to Bret Hanover — the first Adios Harry champion — and Cardigan Bay.

Among those hopeful of following in the hoofbeats of the big bay son of Capetown in this Saturday's contest are no less than two world's champions, Miss Conna Adios and Sunnie Tar, plus Rum Customer, Fulla Napoleon and other powerhouse of the current F-F-A ranks.

Miss Conna, after a long, slow start this season, returned to her championship form here on Independence Day, when she led wire-to-wire to win in a stunning 1:58, fastest time by an aged mare this year and temporary Brandywine track record (lowered to 1:56 4/5 just a week later by Most Happy Fella). The 1:57 4/5 she took at Liberty Bell (Philla) and equalled at Laurel (Md.) last year stands as world record for a 4-year-old mare on a five-eighths mile track.

Sunnie Tar, winner here in 1:58 4/5 earlier this year, holds the 1:59 world record for a 3-year-old filly on a half-mile track and subsequently equalled the 1:57 2/5 fastest mile by a mare which belongs to her own dam, Sunbeez.

Rum Customer, who has overtaken Romeo Hanover in the list of money winners and now stands fifth overall, along with Fulla Napoleon, winner of the $20,000 Adios Butler prep for Saturday's test in 1:58 3/5 earlier this season, are two more who are given an excellent chance of continuing the championship tradition established by Bret Hanover and Overcall.

Delaware Food Market Report

Like so many Americans the all-American hot dog has been put on a "diet". We can now be sure that the fat content of federally inspected hot dogs will be limited to 30 percent. That's one change in frankfurters and other cooked sausage made by the USDA to halt the annually increasing fat level in these products.

Another USDA decision permits limited amounts of poultry meat in hot dogs without a change in the product name.

Under the new regulation, plain "hot dogs" or "frankfurters" can contain up to 15 percent poultry if the word poultry is included in the ingredient statement on the label. A hot dog or frankfurter tabbed "all meat" can also contain up to 15 percent meat, but in this case poultry fat and skin is banned. The addition of more than 15 percent poultry would require a change in the product's name, such as "chicken-furter," or "hot dog with chicken added."

The USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service is the agency that will check on the inspection, composition, and proper labeling of these meats.

Do not expect too many changes in meat prices for the coming weekend, but there may be a few more "specials" in some stores. Among the meats to check are rib roast, chuck roast, (both bone and boneless), pork shoulder roast and even perhaps hamburger. Don't forget to include frankfurters on your market list. This meat remains one of America's all-time favorites for outdoor meals.

Broiler-fryers continue to be the number-one bargain in most stores. The quality in our markets is excellent and the versatility of this meat is fantastic. Egg supplies are still fairly good, but don't be surprised to see that prices have edged up just a bit.

This is the time of year to enjoy fresh vegetables, but to enjoy them to the fullest extent you must be able to select the best quality. Right now there are three vegetables that are in good supply and are coming from nearby growing areas: snap beans, squash, and cucumbers.

When you are selecting green beans or snap beans, look for fresh, clean, crisp, firm young beans that will snap easily when broken. All beans in a selected lot should be at approximately the same stage of maturity so that they will cook uniformly. One pound of fresh green beans makes four to five half-cup servings.

When buying summer squash look for squash that is fresh, fairly heavy in relation to size, free from cuts or noticeable bruises, crisp and tender. Summer squash which has developed to a hard rind stage usually has hard of semihard seeds — not good for eating. Store squash in the refrigerator until used.

Cucumbers should be firm, fresh, bright and well-shaped and good green in color. The flesh should be firm and the seeds immature.

Withered or shriveled cucumbers should be avoided, as they are apt to be tough and bitter.

that a significant number of Medicare patients are discharged from the hospital on certification days. W. J. Bulkley reported that the Social Security Administration is sponsoring experiments to find better ways of providing quality health care to Medicare beneficiaries at lower cost. They involve incentives to hospitals that hold down costs. Three such experiments are under way in Connecticut, Los Angeles and New York. "These experiments," said Bulkley, "are intended to discover ways to get more value for the dollar spent on health care. Controlling medical costs under Medicare will benefit the entire health care system, private as well as governmental."

Better planning of health care facilities is another important need, Bulkley said. In some areas, the duplication of hospital facilities, services, and equipment contributes to higher costs for hospital care. Congress is considering legislation to encourage hospitals and other health care institutions to participate in state wide health planning.

Experience in operating the Medicare program has emphasized the need and the

Harrington Gains 1st Place

With a 4-2 victory over Woodbridge, Harrington took first place away from Laurel. The Big League record is now 7-3 with three games remaining to be played.

Mike Fisher pitched the Sunday afternoon game, striking out 8 and giving up five hits. Larry Larimore swung the big bat with three singles and scored three runs. John McCloskey scored the fourth run with a home-run over the left field fence. Bobby Wyatt was 2-3 with two base hits. Center fielder Sam Bostick made the game's only double play when he caught a short fly and threw to first base to catch the runner off guard.

The games remaining are to be played Thursday at Seaford, 8:00 p.m., Sunday with 2nd place Georgetown at 2:00 p.m., and Tuesday at Camden-Wyoming, 6:30 p.m.

Big League Tie For Lead

Harrington beat division-leading Laurel 6-2 to tie them for the top spot in the American League. Dave Newnom earned the win by allowing just three hits, striking out 12, and walking none. Two of those hits were homeruns.

Laurel pitching also gave up two homeruns to Harrington. Third baseman Norman Short hit a solo homer to lead off the fifth inning. Hits by Newnom and Dennis Layton allowed John McCloskey to hit and bring in another run. Then, with two men on, Bobby Wyatt lofted a second homerun over the fence and led the win for Harrington.

Tracksters At Georgetown On Thursday

Local boys and girls competing in the summer track meets, have been in action on five Kent County tracks and at Wilmington's Baynard Stadium several times. Thursday July 23rd the Kent County group, which is dominated by Harrington and Dover Air performers will meet at Sussex County group at Georgetown.

The team bus will leave at Chipman School Harrington at 5:30 p.m., starting time of the meet is 6:30. Any boy or girl, man or woman, of any age, who wants to compete in this meet may do so.

The last two outings were held at Caesar Rodney Junior High School and Dover Middle School.

At C.R. Donald Bryant 15, and Darnell Burton, 12, were triple winners. Both are from here.

Bryant captured the 100 yard dash in 11.1, the 220 in 25.8 and the shot put with a throw of 36 feet, 6 inches.

Burton finished first in the 50, 100, and 220 yard dashes, in the 10-12 age groups.

Ken Thorpe, 9, lost a chance to be a rare quadruple winner, when he was too late arriving to compete in the 50. Yet, the muscular, little East Street speedster, won the 100 in 14.9, the 220 in 34.6, the six-pound shot with a toss of 18 feet, in inch and ran on the winning 440 relay quartet with Harringtonians, Leroy "Pie" Parker, Daryl Porter and Ken "Bullet" Cerklefskie. Thorpe annexed four, first place ribbons. L. Parker won the 50 in 7.6.

Other winners from this area were Bob Smith, 16-and-over 220; Lester "Buck-Buck" Fountain, 13-15 triple jump; Elwood Baynard, 13-15 880 and Howard Parker 10-12 half mile.

Howard Parker ran the opening 440 leg of the winning sprint medley unit. Kevin Pritchett and Darnell "Yump" Burton handled the 220 stints, with tiny Mike Smith running the anchor half mile.

Like the medley winners, the runnerups were an all-Harrington aggregation. These were: Ron "The Spider" Woods, Wade Brown, Terry Wheatley and Eric Hamsher.

New comers Don Parker and Manny Christopher made impressive debuts at Dover Parker, 15, clocked a lifetime best of 10.6 in the 16-and-over 100 yard dash. Christopher a huge, 12-year-old annexed the 8-pound shot with a throw of 21 feet.

State cross - country champ Dan Rincon took a three mile run in 16:37. Dover Air teammate, Ken Rodgers was next in 17:57. Tiny Donald "The Fly" Woods wore down several older runners, to finish next in 18:47 and get first place in the 13-15 section. Woods is thirteen and will be a cross-country runner at Lake Forest this fall.

Chris Rincon, a superbly-conditioned 12-year-old from Dover Air, edged Harrington's 11-year-old Howard Parker in a cross-country run of approximately eight-tenths of a mile. Rincon, who runs up to twelve miles in some workouts was clocked in 4:57.3 to Parker's 4:58.3. Tony Morris, 10, was third with Ron Woods in fourth. Frank Sutton, 11, of Dover was next, closely followed by Ken "Bullet" Cerklefskie, an eight-year-old with strength, courage and a bright future in track. Ken won the 9-and-under section of the run.

Seapower Van To Be At Del. State Fair

The Navy/Marine Corps Exhibit Center will present the Seapower Van for display to the general public, at the Delaware State Fair, July 25 thru 31.

Featuring an exciting motion picture entitled "Ready on Arrival," which presents the drama of aircraft carrier action, this exhibit illustrates the importance of seapower. Included are an 8 ft. cutaway model of a Lafayette-class nuclear submarine, a depiction of a Marine Corps helicopter assault team in action, an animated model of the Navy's new "Flip Ship" and a communications satellite model. In essence, all aspects of the U.S. Navy are illustrated quite vividly in presenting a total feeling of seapower.

This mobile van is one part of a fleet of exhibits presented annually throughout the United States by the U.S. Navy to keep the general public informed of its mission, accomplishments and technological advances.

License Lost For Sandtown Kennel

The kennel license of Mrs. Mary E. Melvin of Sandtown was suspended by the division of fish and wildlife of the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control.

The license was suspended following Mrs. Melvin's conviction in Magistrate Court 6, Harrington, on a cruelty to animals charge.

The charge resulted from an inspection of the kennel by agents of the Delaware SPCA on complaints that animals were being uncared for at the kennel.

The license will be suspended for one year or until another inspection shows that the conditions at the kennel have been improved.

The individual kennel owner has a right to correct the situation and the license will be re-issued.

Norwood Anderson of the Delaware SPCA said he inspected the kennel, Tues. July 14, and "there has been a big change for the good."

He planned to return to the Sandtown kennel last Thursday to inspect the inside of the buildings.

"The way it looks now I'll recommend the license be returned," he said.

Mrs. Melvin's kennel was first inspected May 20 by agents of the SPCA who found six dogs kept outside suffering from mange.

She was given a month to improve the conditions at the kennel before another inspection was made June 23, yet no improvement was found. A cruelty warrant was then issued and Mrs. Melvin was fined $10 and costs in magistrate court.

Based on the court ruling, the division of fish and wildlife suspended her license June 30.

Under S.B. 409 signed into law Feb. 13, the division has the jurisdiction to revoke the license until the conditions are improved to meet the provisions of the law.

Veteran's Administration News

Q - I was released from active duty for hypertension after serving only two months. This condition was supposed to have existed prior to service. Since I am still within my 120-day period since release, may I convert my Servicemen's Group Life Insurance (SGLI) to a private policy to avoid paying a higher premium?

A - Yes. If you served more than 30 days on active duty and are still within 120 days of separation, you have the privilege of converting your SGLI.

Q - My father was killed while in military service. I am now in the Armed Forces. I am eligible for benefits under the Dependents' Educational Assistance program. May I attend school under this program while in service?

A - No. A person eligible under the Dependents' Educational Assistance program may not enroll while in service. However, he may be entitled to benefits in his own right as a serviceman.

Q - My husband, who was a World War II veteran, died in 1960. My application for a widow's pension was denied at that time because we had been married less than five years. May I now reapply for a pension on the basis of my inability to work because of a disability?

A - Yes, you may reapply for pension, but your disability would not in itself be a consideration. However, a 1967 law liberalized the five-year marriage requirement which was in effect at the time of your husband's death. Now, a widow must have been married to a veteran only one year before his death to qualify for pension.

You may obtain further information and assistance in reapplying for a pension from the nearest VA office.

Did you know the Army even teaches shoe repairing? With all the marching and walking soldiers do every day, there is a lot of worn shoe leather. The Army Quartermaster School at Ft. Lee, Va., conducts a six week course which provides a working knowledge of the duties and skills needed to inspect and repair leather and rubber footwear.

Students in this course learn to operate shoe repair shops, to use and maintain shoe repair machines and equipment, to repair shoes and special footwear, and to apply authorized prescribed orthopedic devices.

Sfc. James L. Gallagher, Army recruiter located at the Blue Hen Mall in Dover, points out that shoe repairing would be a useful civilian trade following completion of military service. For additional information on the more than 300 training skills offered by the Army, visit Sergeant Gallagher at the Army recruiting station or call him at 736-6937.

Most Plants Need Frequent Watering

Water flowers, vegetables and ornamental plants frequently during dry summer weather, says Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

Most plants need about one inch of water a week to maintain satisfactory growth, he explains. And newly planted trees and shrubs may require as much as two inches a week.

During a normal summer, rainfall may provide up to half of the plant water requirements. But during extended dry spells, irrigation may be necessary to supply needed water.

Many lawn and garden sprinklers deliver water faster than it can be absorbed by heavier soils, says Stevens. In these cases, it's best to run the sprinkler until puddles form or until run-off begins. Then shut off the sprinkler and resume watering after the puddles have been absorbed into the soil.

In watering trees and shrubs, let the hose run slowly into a saucer shaped depression around the plant for several hours.

Most lawn sprinklers deliver water at rates ranging from one inch every two hours to one inch every ten hours, he adds. Rate of delivery information is usually provided with the sprinkler.

When watering, remember that it is best to give plants a good soaking every week or ten days and eliminate continued light sprinklings.

Allstate To Appear Before Ins. Com.

The Allstate Insurance Company has been ordered by Robert A. Short, Insurance Commissioner, to appear before him on July 22 and 23 at the Supreme Court Meeting Room, The Green, Dover, to show cause why its certificate of authority to transact insurance in Delaware should not be suspended or revoked.

This hearing was originally set for June 22, but continued at the request of certain parties to the hearing. This show cause order was issued because of complaints received by the Insurance Department.

Emmet Conte, a Wilmington attorney, and Claude Tease, a Georgetown attorney, have both submitted written complaints to the commissioner, alleging Allstate has handled its claims in such a manner as to grossly violate certain sections of the Delaware Insurance Code. Both attorneys have represented clients whose claims against Allstate were treated in such a manner to cause this serious charge.

Commissioner Short states that this is the first time a public hearing of this type has been conducted in Delaware under the new insurance code. Considerable reaction from the public has already been experienced in the form of inquiries and requests to voice their complaints at this open hearing. To accommodate the public participation, an additional day, July 23 has been added to the hearing schedule.

Address To American Legion Annual State Convention

Comrade Commander, members of your staff, delegates and fellow legionnaires in convention assembled.

As your department chairman for law and order and counter subversion I am making, due to the close relationship a joint report for these committees.

It would, indeed, be a pleasure for me to make a glowing report, but due to chaotic conditions in our country, this is out of the question. With lawless turmoil of various groups on our college campuses, and through out our land, masquerading as lawful dissent, we are in dire straits. I publicly state, and dare to be denied, that communistic dogma has infiltrated our churches, our duly elected public officials, some judges in our courts (recall some decisions handed down) and, most important our news media. You may not like what I have to say in this regard but I have the guts to say it. Our Vice President of these United States has been perfectly correct for chiding a one-

National Commanders Patrick and Gallagher. It consists of Senators Fullbright (whom I label Halfbright), McGovern, McCarthy, Hatfield Aikens and Church. When did this group last say a good word for American policy? If they have your memory is better than mine. I would not call these "surrender Men" communists, rather, I classify them as communists dupes for in this category they are more dangerous for their cloak of respectability gives them a greater entree. If I recall correctly Senator Church was an American Legion investment that returned poor dividends for he started on his career when he won our national oratorical contest. I cannot recall his speaking in behalf and for American policy since that time.

The Supreme Court by its unconstitutional making of laws by opinion, which must be differentiated from rulings, has caused, in my opinion, a great measure for communist growth and lack of respect for law and order because their opinions give license for disrespect of law and order and condones its circumvention.

We have law enforcement agencies. What support are we giving them? Our city, county, state police and national guard are asked to quell disorder but with minimum force. How stupid. I blame our duly elected officials from the governor on down for such a situation. Frankly, if I were on duty, bombarded with rocks, bottles and human excretion, I would shoot and take damn good aim.

The time has come when we must realize that force which is being used against us must be met with force. Our Chamberlin policy of the past ten to fifteen years has only resulted in the present debacle in which we find ourselves. We, The American Legion must become actively involved. We, in combating subversion and helping to maintain law and order, can no longer rely on resolutions. We must take an active part on the side of our law enforcement officers and let the world know we are so doing.

In support of this report I would like to quote an extract from our National Security Commission report of May 6, also a quote from our National Commander in the Stars & Stripes on May 28.

"Many citizens do not recognize the full extent of the threat posed against our way of life by lawless forces in our land. Attacks against ROTC, recruitment and government - industrial financed projects on our university campuses are outward manifestations of the far left's revolutionary drive. Our police and our Armed Forces are vilified and degraded. The free enterprise system, which has brought our people a standard of living unmatched throughout the world, is maligned, its stockholder's meetings disrupted and its offices bombed and ransacked.

The time is long overdue when we should begin treating revolutionary and anarchies of the new left and their followers as criminals regardless of whether their crimes are committed on the campus or in the streets. The American Legion must do more to support law enforcement officials and agencies at all levels of government."

"Quoting Past National Commander Paul Griffith in regard to the recent Kent State demonstration in Ohio resulting in four student deaths Commander Patrick cautioned when you play with fire you are going to get burned. And that is what is happening to so many innocent youth in these colleges.

Continuing Commander Patrick said I am so disturbed and so distressed for I want all of you to know I have a son over there fighting. He received the Air Award on Easter Sunday morning. I am not only your National Commander; I am a father. And I am a concerning father of this country of ours. I am concerned over what is happening to us. And I say this great organization of ours has not been speaking out loud and clearly enough. If the President of the United States says, lets start bombing North Vietnam, let us be there to support him or whatever else he says we must do.

Let us show this nation that we are proud, proud Legionnaires, proud as individuals who have fought for our way of life and let us fight for this Commander-in-Chief.

Comrade Commander I move for the adoption of this report.

Respectfully submitted,
George F. Foster,
Past Department Commander.

New Grants For Treatment Of Alcoholics

Federal grants to help provide comprehensive alcoholism treatment and rehabilitation services in local communities became available for the first time on July 1, Dr. Roger O. Egeberg, assistant secretary for Health and Scientific Affairs announced. The National Center for Prevention and Control of Alcoholism of HEW's National Institute of Mental Health will administer the new grant program.

"The new grant funds appropriated by the Congress represent a landmark step toward developing a desperately needed national network of community - based treatment and rehabilitation programs for alcoholics," Dr. Egeberg said. "Such community programs will help not only the estimated 6 1/2 million persons afflicted with alcoholism in the United States today, but also over 20 million family members and others who must suffer because of an alcoholic's illness."

Grants to assist communities in providing alcoholism services were authorized in the Community Mental Health Center. Amendments of 1968 (Public Law 90-574), but no funds have been available for such grants until the present. More than $3 million will become available July 1. An additional $6 million for this purpose is included in the President's budget request to the Congress for fiscal year 1971.

The grants are to help cover the salary costs of professional and technical staff of new comprehensive alcoholism treatment services provided by either a community mental health center or another qualified public or private nonprofit organization in the community. Grants may be awarded to these agencies for a period of eight years on a matching-funds basis.

Agencies receiving grants must suffer a comprehensive alcoholism treatment program, including the following five essential services: (1) inpatient hospital care; (2) outpatient services; (3) intermediate services, such as a halfway house, partial (day or night) hospitalization, or other sheltered care; (4) emergency service, available on a 24-hour, 7-day-a-week basis for medical, psychiatric, and social emergencies; and (5) consultation and education services related to prevention and treatment of alcoholism.

The Federal matching fund may also be used to help provide additional services, such as vocational, education, or social services related to rehabilitation of alcoholism; for inservice staff training programs; or for research and evaluation of alcoholism services provided. Limited funds are also available for construction of alcoholism treatment facilities.

Zimmerman Makes Speech On Prison Reforms

Democratic United States Senatorial candidate Jacob W. Zimmerman, told the Brandywiners Rotary Club in Wilmington today that "unless extensive prison reform is enacted in the United States our penal institutions will continue to be breeding grounds for more crime."

Speaking at the Tally Ho Restaurant, Zimmerman said legislation is needed to "create more job training, job placement, and educational programs in prisons, so inmates have the greatest possible opportunity to get, and hold, a decent job after they are released."

The Dover Democrat said, "As it is now, over half of the states in our nation have no job training in their prisons. Congress should act to give every one of them the programs which they need."

He continued, "There must be more expert, psychological counselling facilities available in our prisons so rehabilitation of prisoners is a true possibility."

Zimmerman also said, "The present crowded conditions in prisons only creates a more explosive situation. We must provide better facilities with adequate room for the population of prisoners."

He concluded by stating, "Most crimes are committed by individuals who have already served prison terms. Prison reform must be geared to providing prisoners with new attitudes and hope for a better life. If we do that, we will reduce the crime rate."

A college degree is a passport to the future. The decision now is where to go. A direct commission in the Women's Army Corps opens the door to wide vistas of opportunity for profitable use of that passport.

An officer in the Women's Army Corps starts her career as an executive in a position of responsibility and trust. She supervises others and makes important decisions in such fields as administration, personnel, finance and public information. She receives the same pay as a male officer of equal rank and her salary increases with each promotion.

A passport means travel, and there will be plenty of that, not only in connection with duty assignments, but also during the 30 days paid vacation she receives each year.

As a member of the Officer's Club, a WAC officer has access to the best of recreational facilities. She can play golf, tennis or enjoy a swim.

She may live in a suite of rooms on the post where she is assigned, or possibly, in an apartment off post. Whichever it may be, she is free to add her own decorating touches as she pleases.

Off-duty is hers to use as she likes. The Army encourages its officers to further their education, and many WAC officers choose to accumulate credits toward a masters degree by attending evening classes at nearby colleges and universities.

Initial enlistment is for two years, which will pass with whirlwind swiftness. It will be two years of learning new things, meeting new people and seeing new places. St. James L. Gallagher invites young ladies who have just graduated from college to drop by The Blue Hen Mall in Dover and talk with him about a direct commission in the Women's Army Corps. If they wish, they may call him at 736-6937.

Bids For Modernization of Milford Memorial To Be Let Soon

Bids for the modernization of the third floor of its original building and the interior completion of the fourth floor in its new wing of Milford Memorial Hospital will be let in the very near future, Joseph B. Ahlschier, the hospital's administrator announced today.

Milford Memorial recently completed successfully a half-million dollar fund drive to finance the final stages of its $3,600,000 expansion and modernization program.

The third floor will be modernized into a pediatric section containing facilities accommodating 22 patients; an examination and conference room; a playroom; an infants special care section; and a nurses station.

"Despite all the birth control information presently being disseminated and birth control methods being developed, it is interesting to note births at Milford Memorial have only had a slight decrease. In our 1965-66 year to date we recorded 628, our present 1969-1970 year to date shows 547 as of the end of June," Mr. Ahlschier disclosed.

One of the reasons Milford Memorial Hospital is embarking upon its expansion program is that the population in its service area is expected to increase from its present 50,000 persons to 58,000 in 1975 and to 70,000 in 1980.

When completed, the fourth floor will contain a three-unit operating suite; a four-unit coronary care suite and a general intensive care section with seven units. It will also have a waiting room, a conference room, a recovery room, a holding and preparation room; an anesthesiology section and cystoscopic unit. Furthermore, the completed floor will have a surgical cleanup room and a sterile pack room.

"Even without the projected population increase, Milford Memorial Hospital simply had to expand and modernize," Mr. Ahlschier pointed out, and added:

"A review of our statistics showing almost a doubling of medical needs in our service area in the past five years alone is a strong indicator of what lies ahead.

"For instance, in 1964-65, we had 805 major operations and 1,709 minor ones. That increased to 3,155 surgical operations in 1969-70."

The hospital also has had astonishing increases in laboratory tests, X-rays taken and X-ray treatments and emergency room patients.

Lab tests increased from 43,245 in the year ending June 30, 1965 to 74,059 to the year ending June 30, 1970. During the same periods, X-ray activity increased from 17,799 to 31,804 and emergency room cases from 5,771 to 7,315.

Not only are about 400 more patients being admitted annually than were admitted five years ago, but the patient stay is longer, also. In 1964-65 the average stay was 6.9 days while the present figure is 8.6 days.

In citing these statistics, Mr. Ahlschier declared that the tremendous increase in tests, X-rays and other treatments are major reasons why patients' costs are increasing. At the same time, the hospital administrator credited these factors with the increasing number of victories health

BROILERS BEING RAISED IN PLASTIC CAGES will be on display at the University of Delaware's annual Farm and Home Field Day, Aug. 12. George Chaloupka, poultry researcher at the Georgetown Substation, says the cages will increase the capacity and income of broiler houses.

Caged Broiler Display Feature At Field Day

An exhibit of broilers being raised in plastic cages will be one of the features of the University of Delaware's annual Farm and Home Field Day, August 12, at the Georgetown Agricultural Substation. Visitors will be able to discuss the results of recent broiler studies with University researchers as well as examine a working model of caged broilers, explains George Chaloupka, poultry researcher.

According to Chaloupka, plastic cages offer broiler growers certain advantages over raising the birds on litter. He notes that cages increase the capacity of the broiler house, less labor is required, and income per house is increased — thus, the amount of time needed to pay off the investment costs in equipment is shortened. Also, birds raised in plastic cages have less bruises; no coccidiosis or litter is required; and equipment and space are used more efficiently.

The Farm and Home Field Day program will also feature new developments in agricultural research, a Diagnostic Plant Clinic and a day-long homemaker's programs.

Bus tours will guide visitors through the university's 310 acre farm for on-the-spot inspection of over 80 research projects. Tours of the experimental plots will begin at the substation grove at 10 a.m.

Farmers, home gardeners and house plant enthusiasts searching for causes and cures for ailing plants will have an opportunity to seek expert advice from specialists in entomology, horticulture, agronomy and plant pathology. Purpose of the diagnostic clinic is to aid farmers and homeowners in recognizing and solving problems caused by insects, disease, weeds, soil fertility levels, poor variety choices and other factors affecting quality and yields.

Field Day visitors should bring whole plants for diagnosis when possible. In many instances, examination of roots and other plant parts are necessary to determine the cause and cure for a specific problem. In the case of trees and shrubs, a branch will be sufficient.

For the ladies, extension home economists will present a program on summer and fall storms with emphasis on the steps you can take to protect family and property from injury and damage.

Visitors will also have a chance to sample soybean bread prepared by Dr. Geoffrey Houghland of Seaford. An alumnus of the university and retired Department of Agriculture researcher, Houghland says his Delaware Blue Hen Bread "tastes like bread grandma wishes she could bake."

A chicken dinner prepared by the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association will be served in the grove at noon, and watermelon will be available around 3:30 p.m.

FENCE TALK

It's Delaware State Fair time as of Friday, July 24, and will continue through Saturday, August 1. We hope you all plan to go and take part. For it's our annual showcase of Delaware agriculture.

Most of the stage shows at night have a country music flavor. Check the many ads for your choices and make your reservations soon. This will be the second year for the portable covered stage in front of the grandstand, so there is no chance for a show to be rained out.

My own interests lean to the contests and displays. All sorts of field and garden crops will compete together. It's the same thing if your taste runs to livestock — horses, ponies, beef cattle, dairy cattle, hogs, sheep, poultry or rabbits.

Tuesday is Children's Day. Governor Peterson holds forth on Thursday as do the old timers and the politicians.

Come to our University Extension Service activities every day. Our young 4-H'ers will welcome you.

Food for us all is the title of the 1969 USDA Yearbook of Agriculture published by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., 20402 for a price of $3.50 per copy. Our United States Senators, John J. Williams and J. Caleb Boggs or William V. Roth, United States Representative in the Congress may be able to send you one at no charge. Each has an allotment for his constituents. Tell him I told you about it.

This yearbook differs from earlier years because there is much less emphasis on food production and more on the actual uses of our foods.

Dr. Clifford Hardin, Secretary of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, notes that the moment is at hand to put an end to hunger in America for all time.

You ladies will find this book crammed with food hints. Why not write for one today? You will find quite a story on food imports.

You Kent countians should know that there is a County Resource Development Committee now in action. You ask, "What is this committee for?" This group is being directed by the University of Delaware Extension Service and is made up of a representative from each of the county USDA services, representatives from the county level government, and is a member from each of the state departments located here in Kent County.

This group has been organized to work together so as each can become better acquainted with the services that the others offer, working together to give each technical assistance that they need to carry out their duties most effectively. This inturn will benefit you as the public in the best way possible and ultimately will lead to better county development and growth.

This group meets on the third Wednesday of each month at the Blue Hen Mall. If any town, community organization, or service group would like to obtain technical advice and assistance on any subject that you are concerned with, please contact me at 736-1448, and we can have this arranged. This committee will be available for such services and I might add that this group is resource and community minded and we have sufficient representation from each phase of local leaders, law makers, and USDA services to help get your goals accomplished. Please give me a call if you think that we can be of assistance to you.

We have been receiving numerous calls in the last week on white or grayish spots forming in the lawns. In most cases, this is a fungus growth commonly called slime mold.

The main contributing factor to this fungus is wet weather. This fungus is not parasitic on lawn grass, but it can kill grass by smothering it out of there is a heavy infestation. The best way to control this pest is by treating your lawn with any lawn fungicide such as, Dyrene, actidione, maneb, or others. Once the lawn has been treated the areas that are showing the fungus should be raked to break up the spore bodies.

It Seems To Me

How times change! This is the year when the fake fur coat or the fake alligator handbag is more of a status symbol than the real thing. And all because of our concern over the possible extinction of certain wildlife species and the natural balance in our environment. Producers of fake fur fabrics are promoting their advantage for all it is worth and this will be the year for a fake fur coat.

Already, fake fur coats of all kinds are appearing in the stores. Before you get carried away with desire for a particular coat, check the care labels carefully. Some of them must be cleaned by furrier methods which will add somewhat to the original cost.

Fiber content of the fabric varies. Some fibers used in fake furs will melt at low heat and labels caution you to avoid pressing or steaming. I also know of one coat that was ruined when the wearer leaned too long against a warm radiator.

With the increased popularity of these coats, you'll find them in all price ranges and in varying quality. As you do for any new fabric, look for care directions and follow them exactly. Then if the fabric does not perform satisfactorily, return it to the store where you bought it.

If you're tempted to make your own fake fur coat, try on ready-to-wear styles to get an idea of becoming styles and fabrics. Some of the fur types may not be as flattering as others for your figure and coloring. The bulkiness of some fabrics makes them a bit tricky to sew, but if you are skilled in sewing and choose a simple pattern, you shouldn't have any trouble.

Adult Practical Nursing Course Test at KCVTC

A pre-admission test for the Adult Nursing Course at the Kent County Vocational Technical Center will be given on Thursday, Aug. 6, at 8:30 a.m. There is no fee for the test which is required of all applicants. Those interested may report to the Center near Woodside then.

Delaware Blue Hen Bread

Dr. Geoffrey Houghland is a persistent man. More than 50 years ago, he introduced soybeans to Delaware farmers; now he's trying to introduce soybean flour to Delaware homemakers.

The former agronomist at the University of Delaware has developed a recipe for home-made bread that combines soybeans and wheat flours. The firm-textured loaf has a delicious old-fashioned flavor, Houghland says. "It tastes like bread grandma wishes she could bake," he chuckles.

"If you'd like a sample, I'm going to have a booth at Farm and Home Field Day on August 12." Field Day is sponsored annually by the University of Delaware Cooperative Extension Service at the Georgetown Substation.

A native of New York state, Houghland calls his recipe "Delaware Blue Hen Bread," because he considers the University of Delaware his alma mater. "They gave me a chance to get off the ground and let me in the University even though I had only two years of high school."

He came to Delaware in 1918 as assistant agronomist from New York. "That's when Prof. Grantham and I introduced soybeans to Delaware. We had 10 or 15 acres planted right where the football stadium stands now."

"We sent our little bags of seed to interested farmers around the state." Those "little bags of seed" have grown into the $10 million Delaware soybean industry in 1969.

The university has changed since the days Houghland remembers. "There used to be a race track — a training track for trotters — where Agricultural Hall is now sitting. The old ag building was in Wolf Hall in Newark, and I had a motorcycle to ride between the school and the experiment plots outside town."

That motorcycle came in handy when Houghland was working for his degree. "I made a deal with the Experiment Station to work on a half-time basis for $900 a year. During the fall, I'd come out of an English class, jump on my cycle and go down to the farm and husk corn or thresh soybeans."

Houghland left Delaware in 1924 and earned his master's degree at Iowa State University and his doctorate at the University of Maryland. Until he retired, he worked in potato research for the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C. and Beltsville, Md.

A widower, Houghland came back to Delaware in 1968 after he retired and now lives at the Methodist Manor House in Seaford. He became interested in soybean bread when he was searching for high protein foods to add to his diet.

"I was talking to Jake Moore, Seaford miller, and he showed me this soybean meal. I suggested he grind some of it into flour. I used the flour and some middlings (wheat germ) to develop my own recipe for the bread. I kept making changes in the original recipe — the latest was adding raisins."

An energetic 72-year-old, Houghland bakes his bread himself regularly for his own use, and shares it with those who eat at his table in the Manor dining hall. "It goes right fast; we wouldn't eat any other kind now."

Next year, who knows what he'll try to do with soybeans? Dr. Geoffrey Houghland believes in persistence — and good cooking.

Helicopter To The Rescue

Last Saturday and Sunday one of the biggest, commercially-operated helicopters in the United States assisted in a difficult repair job for Delmarva Power & Light Company in the swampy area of the Mispillion River in Delaware.

The large craft, called a skycrane, was flown here from Durham, N. C., and engaged to replace 3 complete structures of a 230,000 volt transmission line which was demolished in a violent windstorm on the Fourth of July when a twister hit the area.

The structures, comprised of 90-foot poles and supporting cross pieces were felled, and the power lines tumbled into the Mispillion River and onto the marsh. The disaster was the more pronounced because the new multi-million dollar transmission line had been placed in service only two and one half weeks prior to the storm. Its function was to move bulk power between generating stations in northern and southern Delaware. The line is urgently needed in view of the potential power shortages this summer; it is the link carrying to distribution centers the output of the new power unit at Indian River Power Plant.

E. S. Mortimer, vice president of Delmarva Power & Light Company, said that here is a sad example of what happens when a utility does not have the 'right' of eminent domain granted by the state. Delaware is the only state where this right is not granted. The company was forced to build this high-voltage transmission line in difficult marshy terrain because rights of way over a direct route on high land could not be secured, and the company had no leverage for obtaining such rights. The route over the marshy waste land was more costly because of unavoidable added dog-legs and difficult ground conditions.

The job to reconstruct a break in the line was unnecessarily difficult and expensive because it wasn't possible for men and heavy equipment necessary for transmission work to get to the site. It was a soupy marsh, too soupy for walking, not wet enough for an amphibious vehicle. (The line was originally built in winter when the ground was frozen.)

If it had been built where good engineering indicated, on high ground, a break could have been re-built within two or three days, at nominal cost. The difficult terrain made the helicopter necessary but helicopters of such size and capability are not available on demand. Delmarva Power & Light Company was fortunate to be able to secure this one, with a 20,000 pound lifting capacity, so soon after the disaster; and then it had a rental tag of $4,000 a day, plus $1300 an hour flying time, attached to its services. The 'copter is one of two of that size in the entire United States.

The skycrane takes the place of derricks on the ground. By means of its underbody sling, it maneuvers to pick up an H-frame structure, weighing over 14,000 pounds, moves it to the site, hovers overhead and carefully lowers the load to the ground where men are waiting to guide it.

Even the helicopter had its difficulties. Slung along its underbody when it arrives at a location for a job, is a vehicle about the size of a bus loaded with spare parts. Everything possible is planned to make service reliable. But, after a short time working on preliminaries Saturday morning, it returned to Milford for fuel and the pilot sent back word by radio that he could not fly any more that day because the craft needed a "banjo" valve. That particular valve was not in his module and was available only in Connecticut. Late Saturday night the valve was flown to Milford and installed during the wee hours of Sunday so that the skycrane was ready for work at 9 a.m. Sunday.

The first H-frame, weighing 7 tons, was picked up and set in position in the marsh in 13 minutes. The second one was picked up, moved and placed in 9 minutes and the third one in 11 minutes.

On Monday the transmission line was ready to be put back into service. Without the helicopter the job might have dragged on for months while a road was built. The importance of this transmission line multiplied many times with the bad news on Saturday that a steam boiler at Keystone Power Plant, near Indiana, Pa., exploded, depriving the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland power pool of 820,000 kilowatts capacity for the next 3 to 6 months. 31,000 of these kilowatts are Delmarva Power & Light Company's share.

During the week between the accident to the power lines and the re-construction a smaller helicopter was employed to raise the power lines from the Mispillion River and marsh. The power lines, called conductors, are steel re-enforced aluminum and very heavy. A 650-foot length of conductor weighs 1165 pounds; 650 feet is the distance between two H-frame structures. The structures carry 3 conductors, plus 2 lighting shield wires across the tops of the poles.

Of course, during the rebuild, there were no open ends to the conductors by which they could be hauled and tugged as they were during original construction. They were in continuous sections and raised to position that way.

Needless to say, this use of the helicopter is a first with Delmarva Power & Light Company; but management did not hesitate to call it into action to hasten getting the new transmission line back into service. The line is urgently needed to help avoid, or to cut down on the intensity, of a critical power situation.

The company, although small as utilities go, is progressive in its efforts to maintain dependable service for customers.

Marine College Dean Makes Appointment

Dean William S. Gaither, of the University of Delaware's new College of Marine Studies, announced the appointment of Lloyd E. Stiffler as director of marine services.

Stiffler had been serving as director of the Division of Technical Services and associate professor of civil engineering. In his new assignment with the College of Marine Studies he will be responsible for coordinating business activities, the use of physical facilities, the activities of nonprofessional personnel, and construction at the Lewes field station.

In new assignments, Dean Gaither also announced that Dr. Franklin C. Daiber will play a key role in the formulation and guidance of the graduate program. "This will be one of the most important tasks confronting us in the first year of the operation of the college," according to Dean Gaither.

Dr. Kent S. Price, Jr., will continue as director of the field station at Lewes, which has been intergraded into college, and assume additional responsibility for the coordination and scheduling of courses offered in the College of Marine Studies.

A graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology, Stiffler received his M.S. in engineering at Princeton University, where he majored in waterfront engineering. During 20 years with the Civil Engineer Corps of the U.S. Navy, Stiffler handled such major assignments as engineering consultant to the Chilean Navy on major reconstruction after the 1960 earthquake there and planning for the Navy's "Deep-freeze" project in Antarctica.

Before coming to Delaware in 1967, he was an assistant professor of civil engineering at Drexel University, where he was in charge of the construction management program.

Dr. Daiber is a graduate of Alfred University and received his M.S. in zoology with specialization in marine biology, and his Ph.D. in hydrobiology from Michigan State University.

For three years Dr. Daiber taught at Alfred and did research in fish ecology. He joined the biological sciences department at Delaware in 1952 and was responsible for developing the ichthyology and fisheries program. He was made director of the marine laboratories in 1968 and served as chairman of the university's Marine Science Coordinating Committee. He was promoted to full professor in 1968.

Dr. Price joined the University faculty in 1960 as a research fellow in marine biology, earning a master's degree in 1961 and a Ph.D. degree in 1964. He graduated in 1959 from the University of Maryland.

After spending two years at Old Dominion College in Norfolk, Va., Dr. Price returned to Delaware in 1968 as assistant professor of biological sciences and director of the field station at Lewes.

Dean Gaither noted that the offices for the new college will be located in Robinson Hall on the Newark campus.

Increase Awards To Small Businesses

In a continuing effort to increase awards to small business and labor surplus area concerns, the Department of the Navy has revised its listing of items for which it needs additional suppliers.

The Delaware State Development Department has received a copy of the latest revision, announced Thomas B. Evans, Jr., director of the department. Evans went on to say that the Development Department will assist the Navy in trying to locate suppliers in Delaware.

The items on the list are not necessarily under current procurement but are examples of items for which there has been limited competition in the past. Items listed for which Delaware companies are to compete: wire reinforced rubber hose assemblies; parachute pack assemblies; primary remotely-activated (silver zinc) 28-volt batteries; and flexible printed cable assemblies.

Interested firms may contact the Delaware State Development Department, 45 The Green, Dover, 19901 for further information regarding the items and their purchasing activities.

Veterans' News

Q - Is a veteran 65 years of age or older required to furnish evidence of disability to be eligible for VA pension?

A - No, unless he is also claiming he is housebound or requires aid and attendance.

Q - I was just discharged from the Army, and have two teeth that need filling. Will the VA do this for me?

A - In most cases, yes, but you should apply at once - preferably, within six months of separation. In no event should you delay applying for this dental treatment for more than one year from the date of your discharge.

Q - My husband, a veteran, died recently, and the VA paid his life insurance to his former wife even though they had been divorced 15 years ago. Why was this done?

A - The VA is required by law to pay the insurance to the last person designated as beneficiary by the insured veteran.

Q - I am a single veteran attending college while drawing education assistance from the VA. I plan to marry a widow with two children. Will I have to adopt the children in order to receive increased educational assistance?
