

Fair's Attendance Can Set Record If Weather Continues Favorable

If the weather continues favorably, attendance at Delaware State Fair here can set a record for its 51-year history. The view was prompted by an attendance of approximately 38,000 Tuesday, Children's Day which, said Fred Mitchell, the fair's public relations representative, was the largest in the history of the fair. In view of the record attendance, Mitchell said quite a few children were lost but not as many as in 1968 when a record was set for attendance for the entire run of the fair. He added that this year attendance, as of Tuesday, was running from 10 to 15 percent over that of the same period in the record year. "We still need good weather tomorrow, and especially Saturday," he pointed out.

Today is Governor's Day when Gov. Russell Peterson will inaugurate the fair with a following of other state officials and political aspirants hanging on his coat-tails. A feature of the day will be an Armed Forces program, with bands and marching units, at 2 p.m.

There will be no special show tomorrow afternoon, but B. J. Thomas will give two shows in the evening. His rendition of "Raindrops Fallin' on My Head" has made him well-known in the pop field. Saturday, weather permitting, should be a hummer, with U.S.A.C. racing in the afternoon and the appearance of Charlie Pride, singer of western music, in the evening.

Questions And Answers On Medicare

Q - What can I do about the rise in costs for Medicare?
A - If you're over 65, you're more likely to get sick than when you were younger. Medicare helps pay the costs of an illness, but you can help keep those costs down. When you see your doctor, listen to what he tells you. If he prescribes a course of treatment, take his advice. It just might keep a minor problem from becoming a major one — physically and financially. Second, check your copy of the statement sent to Medicare by your doctor or hospital to make certain it contains no clerical errors or other mistakes. Third, remember that there's a limit to the benefits payable by Medicare. Like any valuable

SPRINT CARS TO APPEAR AT FAIR SATURDAY

On Saturday afternoon, the United Racing Club sprint cars return to the Delaware State Fairgrounds for their annual sprint car racing event. The speedfest takes on an even more competitive nature this year, since the 1968 winner Earl Halaquist and the 1969 winner Dick Toby Tobias will not be in the starting field for the 1970 event. As part of the fair, the United Racing Club, headquartered in Salreville, N.J. will present three qualifying heat races, one consolation event and top it off with the Harrington Fair Sweepstakes 25-lap feature event. Heading the list of entries is current point leader Gino Swarthout of Olean, N. Y. Swarthout has one feature win to his credit this season and in 1969 was named the URC Rookie of the Year. From the Delaware "First State" will come Wilmington's Tommy Price who finished in the runnerup position for the URC point championship in 1969 and has one feature victory this season. Price and Swarthout will both be driving Chevy powered sprint cars. Others expected to be in action are Dick Mealy, Trenton, N. J.; Joe Tetz, Middletown, N. Y.; Jack Crawford, San Jose Calif.; Billy Hughes, Jim Thorpe, Pa.; Bill Schroth, Elmira, N. Y. plus a host of others. releasing the fish, and went to Milford Memorial Hospital for tetanus shots. The Porter party, including Dale Phillippi, Clarence Beauchamp and Donald Dean, caught 90 trout.

DP&L WILL SEEK GENERAL RATE RISE

Delmarva Power & Light Co. will seek a general rate increase in the immediate future, Austin T. Gardner, company president, said Monday.

In a luncheon talk in the Hotel duPont before business and civic leaders and members of the press, Gardner said the company would seek rate relief because of the rising costs of labor, equipment and money. In the last 10 years, the cumulative effect of rate reductions by the company has been a $40 million savings to DP&L customers, Gardner said. In his talk, "Power and Perspective on the Delmarva Peninsula in the '70s," Gardner outlined the general power supply picture through 1978, pointing out that DP&L's increase in gas supply for 1970-71 from its supplier, Transcontinental Gas Co., would be only 20 percent of the amount requested by DP&L.

To meet future supply and environmental control needs in the first half of the 1970's, DP&L will spend an estimated $407 million for capital projects, Gardner said. In the period 1965 through 1969, the company spent $134 million. Gardner noted that while the nation's power supply needs have been doubling every 10 years, the needs of the area served by DP&L have been doubling every seven or eight years. Gardner detailed the history of DP&L's efforts in environmental control and outlined the company's future plans in this area, giving a plant-by-plant rundown.

Fugitive Caught After Escape Try

James Ray Dodson, 21, of Kennett Square, Pa., apprehended Friday night on the State Fair grounds, escaped Sunday from a Magistrate Court constable only to be caught again by police at Avondale, Pa. Dodson, wanted on burglary and other charges by authorities in Delaware, Maryland and Pennsylvania, was spotted by a State Police detective on the midway of the fair grounds shortly before midnight. Following a chase, he was arrested and taken to Troop 5, Bridgeville. He was detained there over night and questioned on Saturday. Officials said he was transferred to Troop 6, Kirkwood Highway and then moved to the Penny Hill Troop. Police at Troop 6 said they knew Dodson to be a fugitive on a parole violation. From Penny Hill, Dodson was arraigned at Magistrate Court No. 15, Concord Pike, and ordered to New Castle County Correctional Institution in default of bond. A constable from Court 15 was en route to NCCI with Dodson when he stopped for a traffic light at Concord Pike and New Murphy Rd. Handcuffed, Dodson fled from the car at 11:30 a.m. Sunday and into the Fairfax area. Officials said he found and stole the car of Anthony DiNarino, Boothwyn, Pa., which had the keys inside. State Police sent out a radio the stolen car. Police at Avondale apprehended Dodson who was handcuffed and running through a field. The car, a 1964 Cadillac, was recovered. Authorities said Dodson has been wanted by Newark police for several months and the state police for burglary. The National Information Center in Washington, D.C., reports Dodson wanted for numerous charges in Pennsylvania and Maryland.

2 Injured In Auto-Motorcycle Crash

Two persons were injured Monday evening in a crash involving a motorcycle and an auto near the intersection of Delaware 14 and the northbound lane of U.S. 13.

Robert Rash, 18, of Harrington, operator of the motorcycle, suffered a broken collar-bone, lacerations and abrasions, while Robert Gibson, 16, Can Jose, Calif., a passenger on the motorcycle, suffered lacerations.

Rash and Gibson were taken to Milford Memorial Hospital in the ambulance of the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company where both were treated and the latter released.

William V. Marshall, 17, of Lewes, operator of the auto, was unharmed.

The accident took place when Marshall, driving on Delaware 14, turned south into the northbound lane of U.S. 13, encountering the northbound motorcycle head-

State police of the Bridgeville station said Marshall would be tried in Family Court on a charge of driving the wrong way on a dual highway.

Dover Asks Levy Court For Funds For Park

Kent County Levy Court may use $20,000 of the state divestiture fund as a wedge to gain an agreement from the city of Dover to recognize the Kent County Regional Planning Commission as regional.

Francis P. Neylan city manager, queried county commissioners Tuesday on whether the county had any plans for the fund. Neylan said the city would like to apply for $20,000 to purchase park lands. "I believe the request will eventually be channeled through Levy Court," Neylan said "so, I thought I'd ask if you plan to use any of the money. I understand there is only $20,000 left."

Commissioner John T. McKenna answered with a question. "We're having a problem in that our planning commission is not considered by some as regional," he said. "Can we get together on this?"

"I can't speak for the city on that," Neylan said. "But there is a meeting set up on Aug. 31."

The divestiture fund consists of revenue the state received as a result of the sale of General Motors Corp. stock held by the DuPont Co. A federal court ruling in 1962 ordered the divestiture.

Under a mandate by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the county planning unit must be recognized by 75 percent of the County's urban population as regional in order to obtain federal funds for the second phase of the county comprehensive plan.

Dover holds the key to recognition because of the city's large population. Unless the county gains recognition, it faces a tab of $60,000 for the second phase.

If Dover formally agrees that the Kent unit is regional, HUD will pick up two-thirds of the tab. "I know what it's basically for," Neylan said of the HUD stipulation. "It's a federal plan to regionalize everything . . . to do away with the local planning commission. It's a hammer they hold over your head."

"It may be a good idea, but it irks you to have somebody say you have to do it." "The whole thing is if we don't get it, it's going to hurt the taxpayers of Kent

Penn Central Makes Changes In Personnel

KENT AIRPORT TALKS MAY PRODUCE RIFT

Another disagreement between the Dover City Council and the Kent County Levy Court may arise over the selection of the location of an airport within the county.

The suggestion that the city actively urge the Levy Court to develop an air facility adjacent to Dover Air Force Base was one made in a preview of the city's comprehensive plan which is scheduled for release tomorrow.

Richard S. McCann, city planner, told the council that it would be better "to get a foot in the door at the air base than for the county to develop a landing strip for private planes elsewhere in the county."

At a meeting two weeks ago, Levy Court commissioners voted against a county air facility in connection with the base because of the rigid restrictions which would limit use of such a facility to multi-engine craft and instrument-rated pilots.

The Levy Court directed its special committee on airports to "seek and find" a suitable location for a county airport which would serve the needs of all types of airplanes and pilots.

Through legislation enacted before the 125th General Assembly adjourned, the county received a $100,000 appropriation from the state for a county airport. The county matched the sum. However, state funds not spent before June 30, 1971, will revert to the state.

Last year, the city and county disagreed heatedly over the proposed Kent County sewer project before a series of meetings between the governing bodies ironed out the problems.

Also at Monday night's council meeting, a request for rezoning a tract of land on Kent County 8, adjacent to the old Dover Country Club, was withdrawn by Atty. Gen. David P. Buckson and Edward R. Richardson.

About 30 persons were in the council chambers to protest the rezoning at a continued public hearing into the matter, but the council granted the withdrawal of the application before the hearing began.

In place of the original request, Buckson and Richardson submitted a rezoning application for 83 acres on the same tract known as the Reed farm, for the development of a mobile home park. The council set Aug. 24, at 8:05 p.m. for a public hearing on the request.

Pete Approves Voting Rights For 18-Year-Olds

Gov. Russell W. Peterson has informed U.S. Attorney General, John N. Mitchell, of Delaware's compliance with Title III of the Voting Rights Act of 1968.

Mitchell had written the nation's 50 governors to inquire about implementation of provisions allowing 18-year-olds to vote and suspending literacy tests as a qualification for voting.

Governors were asked to receive assurance of compliance by August 3. Peterson's reply to Mitchell included the following: "We are currently register-

The Chamber of Commerce's labor survey will start, officially, tomorrow, it was revealed today by the Chamber's special committee of Fulton J. Downing, Arnold Gilstad and Samuel A. Short Jr.

The last-named, in charge of the solicitation, said a door-to-door canvass would begin here tomorrow. In addition, said Short, persons desiring assistance in securing or filling out forms can call at The Harrington Journal Annex, next to Peoples Bank, tomorrow evening from 7 o'clock to 9 o'clock.

Continuing, Short said assistance would also be provided Monday and Tuesday evenings at The Journal Annex.

Persons desiring to secure forms can obtain them also at the main office of The Harrington Journal or at Raughley Insurance Service.

The labor survey was prompted by a request from the State Development Department which said an industry, employing 1200 persons, was looking for a site in Kent County or Sussex County.

Another phase of industry was revealed this week when representatives of Aetna Shirt Company, Baltimore, visited here to confer with a Chamber of Commerce committee about starting operations in the Clark Street plant of the defunct New Era Shirt Company.

The plant was cleaned, at Chamber expense. The Baltimore men said, according to Arnold Gilstad, a committee member; they expected to confer with their father and report early next month.

Non-Returnable Bottles And Cans Banned

Congressman Joseph P. Vigorito (D-Pa.) today praised the action of the City Council of Bowie, Md., in banning the sale of all non-returnable soft drinks and beer containers, citing it as an example for the rest of the nation to follow.

Bowie, a suburban community of 40,000 in the Washington area, is believed to be the first city in the country to pass such an ordinance, which provides for a penalty of $100 per day against any store selling beverages in throw-away containers after the effective date of the ordinance April 1, 1971. Mayor Leo Green stated the effective date of the ordinance was delayed in order to give the Maryland legislature a chance to pass a state-wide ban early next year.

T. J. Hamilton, Director of the Crusade for a Cleaner Environment, lauded the Bowie City Council for "their foresight and leadership in helping the people of Bowie to protect their environment."

Rep. Vigorito, in his statement said, "For their action in outlawing non-returnable bottles in their city, the citizens of Bowie, Md., should be commended. The foresight of Bowie should serve as an example to cities and towns across the county — and also to the Congress of the United States. I am presently researching possibilities for introducing legislation of this type on the national level in order to bring to the attention of Congress this basic problem of environmental pollution."

Hamilton called on all Maryland Congressmen to join with Rep. Vigorito in his efforts and noted that the Maryland - National Capitol Park and Planning Commission has also banned the use of "no-deposit, no-return" bottles and cans in parks under his jurisdiction. The Washington City Council has scheduled hearings on an ordinance similar to the one Bowie adopted.

"By using returnable bottles and cans for such beverages as soft drinks and beer, Americans could have their cakes and eat it, too, Hamilton said. "This is one area in which the public could carry on a positive 'do-it-yourself' ecology campaign which would clear up one phase of pollution, leave landscape and cities more beautiful and

American Beef Records Ass'n. Appoints Executive Secretary

The Board of Directors of the American Beef Records Association, the newly formed performance testing organization for commercial cattlemen has announced the appointment of Dr. Jack Richey of Ames, Iowa, as executive secretary, and Miss Lynn Swanson, Belvidere, Ill., as recording secretary.

Richey completed work on his Doctor's degree in animal breeding this June at Iowa State University where he specialized in beef cattle performance with emphasis on animal genetics and the use of data processing in computing performance data. A native of Oklahoma, he combines many years of practical experience in the commercial cattle business with his specialized training, the board's announcement said.

Miss Swanson, who comes from a family of Illinois cattle raisers, holds a Master's degree in animal breeding from the University of Illinois, where she also emphasized performance in beef cattle in her studies. She will be in charge of the maintaining of the records and the in-office promotion for ABRA.

Dr. Richey will head a staff of specialists to provide consultation in the field of animal selection, herd management, breeding services, and domestic and foreign marketing for ABRA which was set up to be a central processing center for commercial cattlemen and new breed groups interested in the performance testing of their cow herds.

Commenting on the appointment, Richey said "No one who is seriously in the cattle business today can fail to realize the important role performance testing is going to play in the success or failure of cattle operations in the coming few years. We have to be able to recognize and propagate our good individual producers and we need to find and weed out the boarders in order to make a profit in this specialized, competitive time. At ABRA, we plan to make sure that our program remains the most practical in the industry. Its Performance Ancestral Certificate gives us the most complete identification of individuals in the least amount of time spent keeping data."

"A program like this has to make the rancher money or there is no point to it. We can not only get him on the program, but can show him how to use his records to his best advantage."

It Seams To Me

Janet Reed

It won't be long before the youngsters will be back in school, and that means new clothes. With prices rising, it's more important than ever to plan how you'll spend clothing money.

It's a well known fact that children and parents don't always agree on what to buy. Parents are looking for easy care and good wearing features. Children want color and style and clothes like their friends are wearing. Hopefully, you can find features to please everyone in the same garment.

Experienced shoppers suggest buying no more clothing than you absolutely need at one time. A growing child may need new clothing in larger sizes throughout the year more than he needs a lot of clothing that fits well only a few months.

What is bought is more important than how much is bought. A few basic garments worn in different ways will give variety. Separates can be teamed with wearable items from last year. And if you add a new item occasionally, the basic wardrobe can be kept interesting and changing.

Look for fabrics that will hold up well. Past experience will guide you, but learn to rely on information on labels and hang tags. Follow cleaning directions carefully and if the fabric does not perform as it should, return the merchandise. Many times if you can pay an additional few cents for an item of better fabric it will be money well spent.

Much of the cost of a garment is in the labor involved in making it. A girl's dress with a lot of trimming and detail will either be more expensive or of poorer quality than the dress with simple uncluttered lines.

And you can make the biggest saving of all if you sew the children's school clothes. Your decision to sew will be based on your time and your skill, but you can have better quality fabrics and better workmanship for less money. Let the children help select fabrics and styles. As girls learn to sew, they'll be making their own, and can have more clothes during those teen years when clothing is more important than at any other period in their life.

"The House Fly"

One of the most common — and most dangerous — insect pests is discussed in "The House Fly," a new 17-minute film available from the Division of Physical Film Library.

This movie portrays, in color, the annoying but seemingly harmless fly; and it shows how the fly carries germs which can cause dysentery, diarrhea, typhoid fever, tuberculosis and other diseases. The final sequence shows some of the sanitation procedures necessary to control the house fly menace.

Proper disposal of trash, garbage and sewage, use of insecticides and constant research are some of the tools for combating this pest.

Recommended for both children and adults, this film is ideal for use in grade and high school science, health and home economics classes. "The House Fly" (16mm, sound, color) is available on a free loan basis from the Film Library, Division of Physical Health, State Health Building, Dover; phone 678-4754.

Pen. Gen. Hospital Open Fund Raising Campaign This Week

After three months of planning and preparation, the Special Gifts and Improvement Committee of Peninsula General Hospital opened its campaign this week to raise funds for the new wing under construction at the hospital.

The amount to be raised locally was $917,205. However, during 1969, voluntary contributions to the project have totaled $137,000 leaving a present balance of 780,205 to be raised. Federal funds and hospital funds will provide $946,795, of the total cost of the new unit which will be

William E. Morgan, president of the hospital board of trustees, is general chairman of the campaign.

The support of many outstanding residents of the lower Eastern Shore has been enlisted.

The new wing, the first major expansion at the hospital since the educational center was added in 1965, is scheduled for completion about next June.

The committee, under the chairmanship of Henry S. Parker, has set up seven categories of prospective contributors.

The initial appeal was made this week to the groups closest to the hospital — the Board of Trustees and the medical staff. Three local men are directing this opening effort. The trustees are being contacted by Avery W. Hall and Russell E. Nichols, special gifts co-chairman, and the medical staff by Dr. Henry A. Briele, chairman of the medical division subcommittee.

At an early date the committee, which will be expanded considerably to include many business leaders in the community as well as additional members of the hospital board, will contact other groups.

These will include the following categories: large corporations, organized labor, small businesses and professional people, those employed in education and government activities, civic organizations and service clubs, and hospital employees.

The campaign will be conducted throughout the entire area served by the hospital which includes Wicomico, Worcester and Somerset Counties of Maryland and lower Delaware and northern Virginia.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

Since a recent account of my activities since retiring from the railroad appeared in The Penn Central Post, I have been receiving many letters from old acquaintances wanting to know to what do I mostly credit my good health at such advanced age.

The answer is well defined in the following lines which first appeared here shortly after my retirement in 1957 and still is good today:

— COUNTRY MEDICINE —

Had a spell and all run down,
 I went to see "Doc Curen";
 He told me that I needed rest,
 So pains, I could endure 'em.

He sent me to the countryside.
 Away from noise and bustle;
 And told me just to lie around,
 And don't dare sweat from hustle.

He gave me lots of pills to take,
 And warnings by the dozen,
 To not do this and not do that,
 Until my head was buzzin'.

I've been here 'bout a year or more,
 Feel fitter than a fiddle,
 Eatin' three square meals a day,
 That surely solved the riddle.

First day I got out on the farm,
 I start my tongue a-waggin'
 To "Farmer Brown" about my ills,
 You'd think that I was braggin.

But "Farmer" Brown just looked at me,
 And took me by the shoulder;
 "Come on with me, young man," he said,
 Before you're getting older.

That day we raked the melon patch,
 Beneath the baking sun,
 My clothes were wet, my hands were sore,
 Before the day was done.

That night I ate a hearty meal,
 And off to bed I went.
 Forgetful of the pills to take,
 So badly I was spent.

We hoed the patches far and wide,
 W rose each day at dawn,
 I lost my box of little pills,
 That guaranteed me brawn.

I'm never going back to town,
 I'm staying on the farm,
 Where honest toil and well-earned rest,
 Will keep a man from harm.

U. Of D.'s Ag. Editor's Office Wins National Recognition

A communication aids letter prepared by the Agricultural Editor's Office at the University of Delaware has been named one of the three best communication training services prepared by agricultural information staffs in the United States. The "Excellent" award was presented by the American Association of Agricultural College Editors in its annual communications contest at their national meeting (July 12-15) in Ithaca, N. Y.

A one-minute radio spot announcement also received an "Excellent" award.

Seven other Delaware entries were recognized. The daily, weekly and magazine press services received "Very Good" ratings as did the extension publication "Susan and Her Very Special Farm" and a set of color slides highlighting "A Day at Overbrook."

An extension circular, "Controlling Rats and Mice in the Home," and a video tape, "Agriculture Speaks Up" received "Good" ratings.

More than 500 communication entries from 42 land-grant colleges, Canada and the U.S. Department of Agriculture competed in the eighth consecutive year Delaware entries have been honored.

The communication aids letter is produced for Delaware extension workers to keep them informed of new techniques, new equipment and improved methods in the broad area of mass communications. It is prepared by Jerry Webb, agricultural editor.

The radio announcement was developed to promote attendance at the University's annual Farm and Home Week and was also produced by Webb.

The news service, "Delaware Farm and Home News," which won both weekly and daily category recognition is sent to area newspapers and radio and television stations. The magazine press service, "Farm News," is received by farm publications throughout the country. They are prepared by Ron Wills and Mrs. Lorraine Kingdon, assistant editors.

"Susan and Her Very Special Farm" is a coloring book with agricultural information given to youngsters touring the University farm in Newark. It was illustrated by Miss Diana Field, a former artist in the editor's office. And the award winning color slides illustrate Alpha Zeta's—honorary agriculture fraternity at the university—annual trip to Overbrook School for the Blind in Philadelphia. The pictures were taken by Eric Ziegler, former staff member.

The extension circular on controlling mice and rats in the home was written by John S. McDaniel, agricultural chemical specialist, and illustrated by Miss Linda Fuhrmeister, a university student.

"Agriculture Speaks Up," a 30-minute video tape, features the opinions of Delaware farmers on important problems facing agriculture. It was produced by Delaware's Instructional Resources Center and the Agricultural Editor's Office.

The American Association of Agricultural College Editors includes over 500 professional communicators who prepare agricultural and home economics information.

Highlights of the July 16, State Board of Education Meeting

Reorganization of the Board

Robert McBride was re-elected president and Mrs. Searles Grossman was elected vice-president.

The Board approved an addendum to the 1969 inspection services contract with Daniel Koffler Associates for the Indian River School for trainables.

The original 1969 Bond Act appropriated $800,000 to the Budget Commission and the Department of Mental Health for a new trainable school, with the intention of putting it as Stokely. A later decision, after enactment of the Bond Act, put the school in the Georgetown area with its administration to be by the Indian River District.

Because of the above, Mr. Koffler did not quote on providing inspection services for this project. Now that it is a school project, the Department has asked for and received a quotation of $12,000. This amount was approved for addition to the 1969 contract.

A proposed lease with Delaware Technical and Community College was approved contingent upon approval by the agency which will be the Lessee in the Educational Television Building.

2.31 Programs and Services

A purchase order encumbrance is the act necessary to charge the use of funds to a particular time period. Purchase orders encumbering Federal funds during a fiscal year must be liquidated during the following fiscal year unless authorized by the Commissioner of Education to carry over appropriations from one year to the succeeding year.

Approval of Delaware Secondary school athletic association rules and bylaws changes and additions

The Board gave approval to changes and additions in Delaware Secondary School Athletic Association Rules and Bylaws as follows:

In the DSSAA Constitution, Article X, Section 5, (Handbook, page 15) it is stated that "No future amendments shall become effective until approved by the State Board of Education."

At the 26th annual meeting of the DSSAA held on May 28, the member schools approved the following changes on additions:

Rule 2, Similar Team, A. and B. (Pages 19 and 31) - Replace with "It is the belief that a student owes his loyalty and allegiance to his school, coach, and team of which he is a member, therefore: A. Any member of a high school athletic team who participates in any tryouts, practice sessions, or scheduled games as a member of a similar team shall be ineligible to compete in that sport for the remainder of that season. B. Individuals shall be permitted to receive instruction by a coach, professional, friend or parent; C. Individual instruction shall be for the purpose of improving the individual's ability and not for the purpose of qualifying for a non-school team membership; D. Similar teams shall include organized intramurals and organizational teams as well as outside and independent teams in that sport for the remainder of that season."

Rule 21, Maximum game schedules for senior high school (page 25)

Boys - Cross country, 20 (2 per week); golf, 20 (2 per week); gymnastics, 12 (2 per week); swimming, 12 (2 per week); tennis, 20 (2 per week); track and field, 12 (2 per week); volleyball, 12 (2 per week).

Girls - golf, 12 (2 per week); softball, 12 (2 per week); tennis, 12 (2 per week); volleyball, 12 (2 per week).

Rule 21, maximum game schedules for junior high school

Boys - Gymnastics, 8 (1 per week)

Girls - softball, 10 (2 per week)

Rule 23, Track and Field Limitations. Add in the appropriate space - 440 yard run, 880 yard relay triple jump.

Rule 23, B. Classification of Events - Add 440 to the dashes.

Rule 18, B. - On third line add baseball after golf.

List of sanctioned meets Add state baseball tournament and Wilmington public schools junior high school track meet.

Rule 29, B. Weight classifications shall be as follows: 98, 107, 115, 123, 130, 136, 141, 148, 154, 167, 180 and unlimited.

ESEA, Title VI-B Program Approved

The Board approved an ESEA, Title VI-B, program request from the Department of Health & Social Services on behalf of the Delaware Council for the Blind. The project provides itinerant supportive teacher services to the visually impaired children in the public schools of Delaware.

Personnel Appointments

James Spartz as Evaluation Supervisor and Carston Wagner as supervisor, planning, both appointments to be effective August 1, Miss Rita Hegedus as a planning and evaluation intern. The effective dates of these appointments are subject to change depending upon final notification of the project approval from Washington. (All three positions will be funded from the U.S. Office of Education).

Dr. Edward Dillon as supervisor of learning disabilities, effective September 1.

Resignations

The following resignations were accepted from driver education teachers, Henry F. Cowell, Russell S. Fisher, Benjamin Silber, Thomas Distefano.

Policy RE: Termination of services for maternity

The following policy on termination of services for maternity was adopted by the Board; "The termination date for maternity shall be no later than the end of the fifth month of pregnancy for Department of Public Instruction employees. Re-employment will not be resumed until the first birthday of the child except through petition of the mother to the State Superintendent who may grant permission for the mother to be employed as an earlier date."

School construction formula approved

The Board approved a revised school building formula for senior, junior, middle, and elementary buildings. Reduction of area was accomplished by the reduction of the number of regular classrooms without eliminating other non-classroom instructional areas. In general, the number of regular classrooms has been established at 75% of the number in the formula now in effect. The result is a decrease of approximately 6 to 19% in total areas.

The middle school formula is new and is based on the educational program of such schools. It contains a total area between the elementary and junior high schools but is much closer to the junior high.

In the elementary schools, the major emphasis has been on a reduction of the area of the regular classroom from 900 square feet to 840 square feet. Increases have been made in the all-purpose area, in the administration area to accommodate auxiliary service personnel such as guid-ances and in art where a regular room is authorized. It is to be noted that flexibility in local planning is proposed to permit adaptability to an educational program. Close cooperation and coordination between the Department and the local district will guarantee that the necessary spaces are provided. The proposed formulas were adopted to be effective with the 1972 Capital Improvement Program.

Jerry McNesby's Fan Club

Jerry McNesby has this dream of playing in a football game. He's already played in more high school games than most boys even think about but the game McNesby's been waiting for is less than a month off.

Jerry McNesby plays his big game on Aug. 22 when the Blue and Gold teams meet in the 15th annual Delaware All-Star High School Football Game in Delaware Stadium. McNesby, who quarterbacked Conrad High to a 10-0 season and was a second-team All-Stater, will be playing for the Golds.

What makes the game extra special for McNesby is that the game is played to benefit the Delaware Foundation for Retarded Children. McNesby, more than any other player on the field that day, will know what the game is all about.

Jerry McNesby has a 10-year-old brother named Michael, who's a football nut like the rest of the McNesby family. Michael is a retarded child.

"Three years ago I took my little brother to the All-Star game and I've taken him ever since," said McNesby, who'll attend Lycoming College this fall. "It seems like a dream come true for me just to be playing in the game. I've really been waiting for this."

Michael goes to Meadowood School, a school for trainable mentally retarded children and lives with his family in Cleland Heights.

"Michael goes to day camp and he learns a lot there," said Jerry. "You can see it when he comes back home. It's really great what the foundation does for us. It makes you realize what good the game does for retarded children."

Michael won't be watching the game with his brother this year. He'll be watching his brother, Michael, in this year's All-Star boy which means he'll be the game's honored guest, sitting in a special box seat with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. McNesby and getting a chance to meet Gov. Russell W. Peterson on the field at halftime.

It won't be Michael's first chance to see his brother but probably the most important. "He went to a couple of games at Conrad," said Jerry, "but he didn't realize it was me playing. But he gets real excited when he sees me on the games films. Sometimes he puts on my helmet and runs through the signals and everything. He's the quarterback and I get demoted to center. And he watches all the pro games on television."

Michael is one of the reasons Jerry McNesby will try to play the game of his life for the power-laden Gold All-Stars on Aug. 22.

"The whole family centers around football," Jerry said. "I look at Michael and realize he'll never get the opportunity

I have so that will make me try harder."

McNesby had a formidable obstacle to conquer to win the quarterback job. Middletown's Scotty Rehm, a first-team All-Stater, will share the signal-calling duties for the Gold Team, which includes 10 All-Staters, four from Conrad. Though winning 44-0 in last year's game, the Gold still trails in the series 9-4-1.

"The coach wants us to go hard for a few plays and give it our best," McNesby said, "so I guess we'll both get a chance to play a lot. But it won't be an easy game. If we get big heads, anything can happen."

McNesby's early training for the All-Star game included a few pickup touch football games at Conrad and some impromptu running exercises which made him an early casualty.

"I pulled a muscle in my left leg while running," said the 5-foot-10 McNesby. "I started sprints right off and I had to rest for a week. It was really tough not being able to play in that touch game I watched."

McNesby's back in action now, lifting weights, running and playing touch football with a cast of All-Staters past and present that any high school coach would be glad to have. The hard work and conditioning are just the means to an eagerly awaited end for McNesby.

He's doing it for one of his fans. The one who'll be carried onto the field on his brother's shoulders and later meet the governor, the one who occasionally demotes quarterback Jerry McNesby to center, the one who represents what the All-Star game is all about. His brother Michael.

That's quite a fan club.

New Marketing Order For Delaware Dairy Farmers

Effective August 1, most Delaware dairy farmers will be marketing milk under a new market order. The Delaware Valley, Upper Chesapeake Bay and Washington, D. C., orders have been merged to form the Middle Atlantic Order.

As a result of the merger, all of Delaware will now be included in a milk marketing order. Previously, only New Castle county north of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal was a regulated area.

Dairy farmers in the unregulated area who shipped into a regulated market have been covered by a marketing order, while local dairyman who sold to local distributors have not. The new order will include all dairymen and all milk handlers in the state.

The new order will probably have very little effect on prices dairymen receive, says W. T. McAllister, extension agricultural economist at the University of Delaware. The minimum price for Class I milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat will average $7.11 per hundredweight. It may be slightly higher depending upon a formula that uses the Minnesota - Wisconsin manufacturing price as a base.

Class II prices will also be tied to the Minnesota - Wisconsin price, McAllister explains. Minor changes in location differentials will be made, but in general, these will only equalize differences between the three market orders that have been merged.

Consolidation of the three marketing orders is an effort to reduce the number of individual orders, keep administration costs at a minimum and facilitate the movement of milk to its best, most profitable outlet.

1971 Wheat Referendum Postponed

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin has announced postponement of the National Wheat Referendum previously scheduled for July 27-31, according to J. Heyman Roosa, chairman of the Kent County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee. The action was authorized by Congress.

The postponement permits the USDA to delay holding the referendum not later than October 15, or 30 days after Congress adjourns, whichever date is earlier.

Accordingly, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's ASCS which administers the wheat, feed grain, and similar programs, has instructed its county offices across the nation to withhold ballots and other referendum materials, Roosa said.

The chairman explained that basic farm legislation requires a referendum for wheat marketing quotas. However, the Agricultural Act of 1965 suspended this referendum requirement from 1965 through the 1970 crop year. Unless new farm legislation, now pending in effect, and the Congress, basic legislation will again go into effect, and a referendum will then be required in 1970 for the 1971 crop years.

Storm Protection To Be Featured At Field Day

"FLASH — the weather bureau has issued a severe thunderstorm and tornado watch for this area," announced the newsman.

If this alert leaves you worried and unprepared, the homemaker's program scheduled for the University of Delaware's Farm and Home Field Day, August 12, at Georgetown, is for you.

The program, "Hurricane-Tornado Preparedness for the Home," designed for the entire family. It will emphasize the real dangers of storms and the steps a family should take to prevent injury and property damage. Understanding how, why, when and where clouds form, and what shape they can take plays an important part in interpreting the danger signs. Guy Anderson of the U.S. Weather Bureau will narrate a movie on tornadoes which illustrates the destructive potential of the storms. He will also provide detailed information on how to detect tornadoes and hurricanes.

American Red Cross and Civil Defense presentations will cover protective measures and visitors will have an opportunity to tour a disaster truck and examine model defense shelters.

"Something for farm, city and suburban residents, the program will cover all types of storms and the steps families should take to protect themselves and property," says Mrs. Joseph Kerns, Delaware Civil Defense chairman.

About Current-Day Disrespect

There is much unrest in the country today. Very vocal groups and individuals are expressing dissatisfaction with a multitude of things in the nation, perhaps foremost with foreign policy.

Domestic issues also have generated criticisms. And there is much to criticize. Target for the dissatisfactions, the unrest is naturally the President of the United States and his administrative government in Washington. He is after all, the focal point in which objections are directed.

In his defense may we point out that much of what we are now experiencing in the way of political and social unrest stems from policies of permissiveness in past administrations. We're come along way from the days when patriotism was an admirable quality — and we didn't just get here overnight.

We cannot imagine college students instigating a riot some several years ago, disrupting the academic processes and burning buildings simply because they did not concur with presidential actions. College administrators of our day and age would have kicked us out of school in short order with report cards liberally sprinkled with "F" marks.

Students of today have no such qualms and with good reason. They should be fully convinced by now that freedom is a word that has been interpreted in Washington as synonymous with destruction and disruption. And again, this didn't just come about overnight.

We have a great deal of sympathy for President Nixon and the problems he faces. Unrest at home, an unpopular war that was not begun at his instigation but rather inherited by his administration and the current day attitude of disrespect for authority with which one disagrees.

We do not come to this point in American history unprepared. Wise and just men in the nation have been telling us for years we would eventually "pay the piper." And we are now doing so.

History also tells us that no nation can for long exist when anarchy is taught and promoted as it has in the immediate years past in the name of political expediency. We do not envy the problems that face those in Washington today. We trust that they will be handling them to the best of their ability. Our fear, however, is that our problems have grown insurmountable and that the current day "disrespect" for law and order and all the old fashioned values we "old-timers" grew up and prospered by have led us to a point of no return.

Planned Storage In The Kitchen

Shudder at the thought of going into the kitchen to fix a meal? Does it mean lots of stooping, reaching and walking just to collect the utensils and ingredients used in preparing the food?

A solution to this problem is planned storage. It takes only a little common sense and some time to reorganize an inefficient kitchen into a very efficient one, points out Miss Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware.

First step in reorganizing your storage area is to take stock of what you have. Start with one cabinet and work in short periods so the job doesn't get the best of you. As items are put in their proper place, the idea of re-shuffling the entire kitchen will seem more pleasant.

In organizing efficient storage, the thrifty homemaker must also decide what it really needed, explains Miss Morris. Broken dishes or burned-out appliances should be discarded.

Seasonal utensils, such as hot dog forks, and picnic plates, should be stored in an area that is often disturbed. And large items, such as soup tureens, waffle grills and roasters, should be stored at the back of a cabinet or top of a closet away from the daily traffic.

Miss Morris says the motto for efficient storage is "store utensils and ingredients at the place of their first use." Keep measuring spoons near the mixing area, dishes near the dining table and the tea kettle next to the sink.

In reorganizing your kitchen, keep in mind some of your more routine activities. Packing lunches in the morning requires paper and plastic wraps. Storing these lunch materials including plastic containers and thermos bottles together will speed up those hectic mornings.

Large bulky utensils such as sieves, ladles and eggbeaters fall into a class of their own, notes Miss Morris. Don't let them accumulate in a drawer where they can become tangled. Try hanging them on a peg board close to your working area where they will be easy to see and reach.

Spices should be stored within easy reach. Mounting a spice rack near the stove or keeping a small turntable close at hand is a real time saver.

Once your kitchen has been reorganized, the family may have a hard time locating certain utensils, Miss Morris points out. Make a chart to explain where those hard to find items have been placed.

Mexican Auto Insurance Needed By U. S. Motorists

Thousands of vacationing Americans will be driving their cars into Mexico this summer. Many of them will be falsely confident that they have proper liability protection in case of an accident in that country, the Insurance Information Institute warns.

When planning to drive South of the border, U. S. residents should check with their insurance agent or broker about obtaining an official Mexican automobile liability insurance policy.

Unless properly informed and insured, their pleasant vacations could turn into costly nightmares. Tourists should be warned: "Don't drive into Mexico without auto liability insurance from a Mexican company."

Most Americans are unaware that only insurance companies located in Mexico are recognized under Mexican law. And contacts of insurance written by non-Mexican companies are not in force in that country.

A tourist involved in an accident in Mexico could be faced with a large cash outlay, informal detainment, or even jail, under the strict provisions of the Mexican law — even if he has the "Mexican auto endorsement" attached to his U.S. policy.

The "Mexican endorsement" on some U. S. policies is designed for a limited purpose and its application to vacation use should be thoroughly discussed with an insurance agent or broker before a person drives across the border.

Without proper Mexican coverage, the motorist has four alternatives if he is involved in an auto accident which results in even minor personal injury or property damage. They are:

1. Post a cash bond with the local officials.
2. Post a commercial bond from a Mexican bonding company (a possibility if the tourist speaks Spanish, knows someone locally and has enough money).
3. Contact a U.S. insurance agent, via telephone or telegram (but, under Mexican law, it is illegal for the agent to settle the claim in Mexico. He may, however, advance the cash necessary to post bond).
4. Face legal detention and impounding of the automobile.

As visitors to Mexico, Americans are bound by Mexican law, just as Mexicans traveling in the U.S. are bound by its laws. Compliance with those laws can make for a happier vacation in Mexico.

Here are some additional pointers for traveling South of the border.

Obtain a tourist card from the office of the Mexican Bureau of Tourism, the Mexican Counsel or at the border.

If you have an auto accident in Mexico, look for help from one of the green Turismo jeeps that patrol the highways. The driver will assist insureds in contacting an adjuster for the Mexican company which issued you insurance.

If no patrol car arrives in a reasonable time, call the nearest police officer. The policy should be shown to the chief of police and no officer should be paid for his services. That is the responsibility of the Mexican insurance company.

Swine Quarantine Lifted From Area West Of Dover

State and Federal Animal Health officials announced Tuesday, July 21 the lifting of the swine quarantine in the west Dover area. This quarantine was imposed on June 22 after a diagnosis of hog cholera was made on a farm in Maryland. The swine on this farm were quickly destroyed and buried. All farms having pigs within a three mile radius of the infected farm have been visited at least twice and all pigs were found to be apparently healthy. At this time, Dr. H. W. Towers, state veterinarian and Dr. W. L. Rehkemper, federal veterinarian feel that there has been no spread of infection to other farms. The source of infection to the Maryland farm appeared to be the owner's brief contact with a herd of infected pigs from North Carolina, staying in Delaware only a short time,

Mr. Walpole discussed "Safety on the Farm" and presented facts and figures which pointed up the urgent need for greater care in handling farm equipment, cars and trucks.

Inter-club visitors from the Seaford Club were Gov.-Elect, William Foster, Lt. Gov. Elect Ed Elliott, George Higgins and Donald Vane. President Henry Peters thanked them for coming and asked them to come again.

An Inter-club group, headed by president Henry Peters, which included past Lt. Gov. Rain Dampens Big League Title Hopes

Georgetown beat Harrington 5-4 to take over the American League lead. Rain abbreviated the game Sunday in the sixth inning with the hometown boys up to bat. A single by Norman Short and a double from Bob Everline set the stage for the 3-run homer by Sammy Bostick. Larry Larimore started a second rally in the same sixth inning with a base hit. John McCloskey was walked intentionally and Bob Wyatt was up to bat when the game was called because of the downpour. Who knows what could have happened with the tying and go-ahead runs on second and first base.

Harrington has two more games to play. A tie with Georgetown is possible.

gallon of water).

Timely and thorough applications are important, stresses Boys. Plants should be treated as soon as the beetles appear, and regular applications continued at 7 to 10 day intervals.

When insecticides are used around fruits or vegetables, however, it is important to observe the required waiting period between the last application and harvest. This time period is specified on the insecticide label. Waiting periods are established to insure that excess residues do not remain on the plants at harvest.

Since roses unfold too fast and are particularly attractive to beetles, insecticides may not provide complete protection, says Boys. If rose bushes become heavily infested, clip the buds and spray the plants to protect the foliage. Once the beetles have been controlled, let the bushes bloom again.

Diseased and poorly nourished plants and trees are more susceptible to attack by beetles than healthy ones. Keep your plants in good condition by proper fertilization and other cultural practices.

Prematurely ripened or diseased fruit will also attract beetles. Remove such fruit from trees and ground before beetles become a problem.

County," said William C. Torbert, court president. "They are the ones who will have to pick up the tab."

Earlier in the meeting, Robert W. O'Brien, county planner, said that lack of recognition might, disqualify the county for future federal aid for sewers, water, transportation, an airport and open space programs.

He said the U.S. Department of Transportation has already vetoed a request for the study of mass transit in the Dover area because HUD would not recommend approval because the county does not have a comprehensive plan.

resource, they should be used wisely and without waste.

Q - If I decide to work for another year or two beyond my 65th birthday must I wait until I stop work to be eligible for Medicare coverage.

A - No. You become eligible for Medicare as soon as you become 65, whether you're retired or still working. But to make sure your full Medicare protection begins the month you reach 65, you should check with your social security office 2 or three months before your 65th birthday.

Q - I've heard that more than 20 million people have the protection of Medicare. How many of them are being helped by it?

A - More than 4 million people were admitted to hospitals last year and had most of their bills paid by Medicare. About 500,000 of them were admitted to "extended care facilities" for post-hospital skilled nursing care. About 290,000 received home health services after a hospital stay. In 1969, Medicare paid an estimated $4.7 billion in hospital insurance benefits and $1.9 billion in medical insurance benefits.

Q - Does Medicare's medical insurance help pay a doctor's bill only when I'm in a hospital?

A - No. Medical insurance will help pay for the services of doctors no matter where they are received — hospital, office, home or elsewhere. Other medical services for which medical insurance will help pay include certain diagnostic services; x-ray or other radiation treatments; surgical dressings, splints, casts, braces, and the use of a wheelchair, hospital bed or similar equipment in your home.

Delaware Food Market Report

The hot, sultry weather of August calls for special attention to menu planning, so why not get a head start?

How long has it been since you have preface a summertime salad or sandwich with a refreshing bowl of chilled soup? Old hot favorites seem to gain a second life when treated this way, especially with an unexpected garnish: cold pea soup with bits of cooked ham or bacon, cold tomato soup topped with salted sour cream or grated cheese, jellied consommé with thin slices of lime or lemon, consommé "on the rocks" (hot soup poured over ice), cold potato soup served with thin slices of cucumbers. These are but a very few suggestions.

Sandwiches, too, can be made more interesting than two slices of bread with a bit of filling. Over 200 million sandwiches are served every day in America. They are served regularly in 98 percent of all U.S. households and they are served during every hour of the day. Some sandwich is found to suit every need. For example, at breakfast try a combination of scrambled eggs, grated cheese, chopped olives, and bacon on rye bread. Complete the meal with fresh fruit juice. Or serve simple grilled cheese sandwiches to provide the pickup and staying power needed for morning nourishment. For lunch, what about buttered dark rye, corned beef, french fried onions, horseradish, mustard, lettuce, pickle garnish, or perhaps a sandwich made with buttered raisin bread, peanut butter, apricot marmalade, sliced banana, chopped lettuce, stuffed prune garnish. There are thousands of interesting combinations, so try different ideas during August, which has been designated by the industry as Sandwich Month.

Ever hear of a sandwich without bread? Not too often. Bread is a "must" in sandwich making. So what about bread? Bread has been a basic food for a very long time, and a very important food also. It is one of our least expensive sources of energy — about 63 calories per average slice. Besides energy, enriched or whole wheat bread contributes protein, calcium, iron and B vitamins to our diets. To find out what the bread you wish to buy contains, be sure to read the label.

When buying bread, buy

by weight, not size. A 1 lb. loaf will approximately yield 16 slices 5/8 inch thick. A 1 1/4 lb loaf will approximately yield 19 slices. A 1 1/2 lb. loaf will approximately yield 24 slices. A 2 lb. loaf will approximately yield 32 slices.

Many fresh vegetables are at their best and cheapest in August, so indulge yourself. The vegetables check are green beans, carrots, celery, cucumbers, corn, peppers, tomatoes, and squash.

Other foods listed on the plentiful list besides summer vegetables are fresh plums, watermelons, peanuts and peanut products, canned grapefruit sections, and wheat products.
