

Most Railroad Station Personnel to Remain

Most of the personnel of the venerable Penn-Central Station will remain, but the freight agent appears on his way out, the Chamber of Commerce learned Tuesday at its meeting at The Bridle Bit.

Sterling Tate, trainmaster, of Delmar, pinch-hitting for George Dowdy, assistant superintendent of the Chesapeake Division, explained the Penn-Central was closing most stations, not because of the railroad's bankruptcy, but because it was more practical.

He said the station building would remain here as would the numerous personnel, other than the freight agent, which the building housed. This work crew included a draftsman, maintenance and way employees, signal gang, track supervisor. A carpenter crew, which used a frame building to the north of the station, would also be added in the station.

Tate added the railroad was desirous of selling the frame building and adjoining land.

"Our study is not complete, as of now. We are still out in the field," he explained.

Continuing, he commented Delmar freight station would take care of its own business and that of Laurel, Bridgeville and Harrington. Milford would handle most of the branchline.

He added freight patrons could get in touch with the agencies by a special telephone free of charge.

The Chamber of Commerce had held a special committee meeting about the railroad station after it had been revealed at a meeting of railroad officials and the State Public Service Commission downstate freight agencies were to be reduced from seven to two. Local residents were concerned when it was advised, at the PSC meeting, that unused stations be razed.

Tate, in answer to a question if the signal tower would close, said he had nothing on it now, but we might have remote control in the future. Meanwhile, he explained closing the tower would be expensive.

In other business, the Chamber tabled a motion on improving a triangle of land at Commerce and Dorman Streets after it was learned the New Century Club, the Boy Scouts, the Rotary Club and the Junior Chamber of Commerce were also interested. It was believed representatives of the groups could meet. The Jacces were interested in erecting a permanent Christmas tree on the land owned by Thurmond Brown Jr., Dr. Charles Townsend and Fulton J. Downing.

The C. of C. also agreed to hold a meeting in the clubhouse at the racetrack at a date to be determined, but during the present harness meet.

Greenwood Man Held For Rape

Police said Ernest R. Murphy, 35, of E. Market Street, Greenwood, was arrested at his home after the 9 p.m. incident. He was taken to Magistrate Court 6 where he was committed to Sussex Correctional Institution in lieu of $25,000 secured bond for a trial in Superior Court.

Peterson Had Phony Balance For Fiscal Year, Says Moore

Gov. Russell Peterson had a phony balance in state funds at the end of the state's fiscal year at the end of June, the candidate for attorney general said here Tuesday night.

Speaking at a covered-dish supper of the Lower 33rd Democratic Club at the New Century Club, the candidate, Andrew G. T. Moore II, of Wilmington, said payment of state bills was held up to allow for a phony balance at the end of June.

He also recalled a riot at the New Castle County Correctional Institution which revealed insurance on guards had been canceled because of nonpayment of the premium.

H added this was rapidly corrected with a handwritten check by the state.

The New Castle County candidate, who will be opposed by Republican W. Laird Stabler Jr., commented on the governor's "handpicked cabinet, all in the hands of one party. You need a watchdog," he cautioned. The attorney general is the only elected member of the cabinet, he said, and he intended to be that watchdog.

Other candidates, some of whom made brief talks, were the following: William Pasky Jr., for levy court commissioner from the 33rd Representative District; Thomas P. Cullen, for clerk of the peace of Kent County; Joe L. Rawlins, for recorder of deeds; Robert H. Reed, for levy court commissioner at large; Leon C. Donovan, for representative from the 33rd Representative District; G. Dorsey Torbert, for receiver of taxes and county treasurer, and John H. Shaffer, for sheriff.

Also present was Jimmy Smith, county Democratic chairman, who delivered a pep talk on getting out the registrants and voters.

Lake Forest To Consider Capital Improvements

The 1971 Capital Improvements Act (Senate Substitute No. 1 for Senate Bill No. 445 as amended by Senate Amendments No. 2 and 3) authorizes the state to borrow money and issue bonds for capital improvements. The Bill authorizes the State to borrow $63,399,00. Of this amount $21,526,000 was appropriated to the State Board of Education with the provision that the Lake Forest District should be allocated $1,143,000, the State share to be $686,000 (60%) and the District share $457,000 (40%). This appropriation was made in response to a request submitted earlier by the Lake Forest District for such funds to build ten additional rooms at the South "B" Elementary School (West Street), a multipurpose room (physical educational, assemblies, etc.) at South Elementary School (Dorman Street), eight additional rooms at East Elementary (Frederica) and an administration building (site still to be determined). A request for $25,000 to improve athletic facilities at Lake Forest High School was denied.

This money must be encumbered prior to June 30, 1973, or it will revert and may be appropriated for some other project, not necessarily a Lake Forest project.

Before the money can be encumbered, the building(s) must be designed, specifications written, bids received, contract awarded, and the purchase order issued to the contractor. This involves much work many people.

Very little of this can be accomplished until the Board has decided to run a referendum and has selected an architect.

A referendum cannot be run until a Certificate of Necessity has been requested from and issued by the State Board of Education. A date for the referendum should be selected at the time the decision is made to run the referendum.

In summary, in order to move the program further it is necessary for the Board to decide whether to go to all or part of the program and to name an architect to design the buildings. The attached data sheet should be helpful in making this decision.

Student Volunteers At W. T. Chipman

Many youngsters in the W. T. Chipman Junior School volunteer their time and services to help other segments of the educational program. Their willing and unselfish contributions are commendable. Some of their activities are noted here.

Several eighth grade pupils tutor primary elementary children under the directions and suggestions of the teacher. Some pupils with poor motivation or negative attitudes toward learning and school in general respond to a student who tries to relate to him in a different manner. The older pupil often makes the regular classroom material more meaningful by helping the child understand the value of the basic skills of reading, writing, and arithmetic.

Some junior high students assist in libraries. They replace books on the shelves, check out materials, and trace lost books. The offices will have volunteer messengers and errand boys and girls willing to serve during their study hall time.

The Physical Education department has student leaders to check equipment and record exercise statistics and team scores. One might also see an older youngster escorting and comforting the younger child after minor first aid.

Still other pupils stack trays and straighten up the cafeteria during some study hall periods which are scheduled concurrently with lunch.

We are proud of the achievements of these boys and girls. Likewise they profit from their contributions by learning to accept the responsibility associated with such activities.

Re-calculation on D. P. & L. Electric Bills

Following a meeting with members and staff of the Public Service Commission of Delaware, Delmarva Power & Light Company is making arrangements to pro-rate all electric bills where part of the usage was in August, so that kilowatt hours used in August are billed on the new rates which became effective under bond September 1.

Bills of residential customers and some commercial and industrial customers have already been mailed. These customers will have the adjustment reflected on their October bills. This adjustment will represent a re-calculation of the August usage at the old rate in effect prior to September 1.

Most commercial and industrial meters are read near the end of the month and these customers have not been billed for September. These bills will also be pro-rated so that kilowatt hours used in August are billed at the old rates.

All bills will have an insert explaining this procedure as it applies to each bill.

Sunshine 4H News

The Harrington Sunshine 4-H Club monthly meeting was held on Monday, Sept. 14, in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church social hall.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Terry Gallo, followed with the flag salute and 4-H pledge.

Eighteen members were present with the following visitors: Dale Jarrell, Bonnie Brown, Eugene Butler, David Hrupsa, Karen Butler, Debbie Hammond, and Glen Wilson.

We discussed the 4-H parade, and banquet which will be October 10th and the window display. The club picked a committee for the window display. The committee consists of Terry Gallo, chairman Debbie Ryan, Becky Gruwell, Roddy Donovan, Donna Chalmers, and Donna Shultie.

Roddy Donovan gave a report on the nominating committee. The following officers were elected for the coming year: president, Billy Winkler; vice president, Gene Gallo; secretary, Kathy Hrupsa; treasurer, Donna Chalmers; reporter, Cindy Jarrell; safety chairman, Becky Gruwell; health chairman, Debbie Ryan and recreational leader, Barbara Miller.

We voted to sell 1971 cloth calendars for $1 each.

Refreshments were served by Terry and Gene Gello. During refreshments our leaders helped us select projects for the new year.

Evergreen Needle Fall Normal

Each fall home gardeners worry about their evergreens starting to turn yellow and dropping leaves of needles.

Don't worry, says Dr. J. W. Heuberger, extension plant pathologist at the University of Delaware. "It's usually perfectly normal."

Individual evergreen needles or leaves only live one to six years, depending on the species. Evergreens stay green all year because they don't lose all their foliage at the same time.

Laurel, holly, white pine and arborvitae drop one-year-old needles or leaves. Spruce, fir, hemlock, yew (Taxus) and the two and three-needle pines keep their needles for three to five years.

Old or inside needles on pine and most other needle-bearing evergreens drop off in the fall of the year. Leaf fall is particularly conspicuous on white pine in October. However, holly leaves drop off in the spring or early summer — about the time new growth covers the ends of the branches.

It seldom indicates trouble if the inside or older foliage yellows and drops, Heuberger says. However, if the new needles become yellow, you should have the evergreen examined for disease or insect problems.

Needle drop caused by diseases or insects is rare compared to normal loss of old foliage.

by Your U.S. Army Recruiter

As some of our readers may know it is customary for a newly commissioned officer to pay one dollar to the first enlisted person to salute him or her.

Specialist 4 Bob C. Kerr, now a photographer at Fort Benning, Ga., was stationed in Vietnam, when his wife, Kay Lynn, was commissioned a second lieutenant in Army Nurse Corps.

Specialist Kerr wanted to be the first enlisted man to salute his wife and so devised a plan. He sent her sealed envelope with strict instructions that it remain closed until ten seconds after she had pinned on her lieutenant's bars.

Though the suspense was unbearable, his wife complied and didn't open the envelope until she received her bars.

When she did open it, she found herself staring at a photograph of her husband dressed in full Army uniform, saluting. On the back of the picture, her husband had penned this note: "One dollar payable in Hawaii, please."

A month later the Kerrs had their reunion in Hawaii, and Specialist Bob collected his dollar from Lieutenant Kay Lynn.

Campaign Streamers

I have often been asked about those streamers that hang from Army flags people see at parades or in newspaper pictures. Well, they are known as campaign streamers, and each commemorates a major battle or campaign in which the unit has participated. Each streamer is approximately four feet long and is embroidered with the name and date of the campaign.

The practice dates back to the Civil War when units embroidered the names of their battles right on the unit flag.

In 1890, this tradition was replaced by engraved silver bands which were placed around the staff of the flag. This was discontinued during World War I when there was a shortage of silver. That's when the present day streamer made its debut.

Since the Civil War there have been 156 campaign streamers authorized by the Army.

Facts about the army

Did you know:

—That a member of the U.S. Army, Lieutenant George Washington Whistler, was the person who selected the site and then supervised the construction of the Baltimore Railroad, one of the nation's first large railroads?

—That it is possible to earn as much as $10,000 in reenlistment bonuses when you reenlist in the Army for the first time?

Fuel Specialist

That old saying "An Army travels on its stomach", isn't quite as true today as it was back when. Our modern Army needs one other ingredient — fuel.

That's why one of the more important men on today's Army team is the petroleum storage specialist. He's the soldier who keeps a watchful eye on the fuel reserves, and operates the modern equipment that moves the bulk fuel through the Army's vast pipe-line system.

Right now, we have openings for men to train to become petroleum storage specialists. It's a good opportunity to become an important member of Uncle Sam's team.

If you'd like to hear more about this key job opening, or other Army opportunities, visit us at the recruiting station. We are at the Blue Hen Mall in Dover.

Noble N. Dill

Noble N. Dill, 81, of Harrington, died Wed., Sept. 23, at the Betty Fletcher Nursing Home in Felton after a long illness.

He is survived by two sons, Raymond Dill and Marion T. Dill, both of Felton; two daughters, Mrs. Madalyn Weeks of Wyoming and Mrs. Marie Pearson of Felton; 13 grandchildren and 26 great-grandchildren.

Services were held Saturday afternoon at the Berry Funeral Home in Felton. Interment was in Greensboro Cemetery, Greensboro, Md.

Sandwich Magic

Tasty, attractive and satisfying sandwiches are no longer just lunch box fillers. You can use sandwiches as enticing entrees or as scrumptious snacks.

Meet your family's daily nutritional requirements by using a variety of ingredients, suggests Miss Marguerite Krackhardt, University of Delaware extension food specialist. Protein-rich foods such as meat, fish, poultry, eggs, cheese or peanut butter make excellent sandwich fillings. Include tomatoes, cucumbers, green peppers and other vegetables to provide minerals and vitamins.

Then, select whole grain or enriched breads to supply sources of the B vitamins. You can perk up your sandwiches by using a variety of breads, enriched white, whole cracked wheat, rye, pumpernickle, raisin and English muffins or crackers. Another variation — thin pancakes rolled up with your favorite filling inside.

For the calorie-conscious, Miss Krackhardt suggests serving open-face sandwiches with low-calorie salad dressings. Use hard rolls of French bread; scoop out the center and fill it with tuna, chicken or shrimp salad. Or put an open-face meat and cheese sandwich under the broiler for quick heating. Serve fruit and vegetable relishes to round out the meal.

Add interesting variety to the way you serve sandwiches. Try covering a generous slice of corned beef on rye bread with colorful cole slaw. Mound egg salad over crisp cucumber slices and top with sliced olives for a colorful open-face sandwich. Please the men in your family by arranging a layer of potato salad between slices of ham on pumpernickle bread. Garnish with slices of fresh tomato.

If you're in a hurry, speed up preparations by letting each person make his own favorite sandwich. Arrange a variety of luncheats, cheese and salads on a tray and serve cookies and beverage to complete the meal.

U. of D. Officials Welcome Book Sales Competition

"I Can Get It For You Wholesale" was the name of a Broadway hit a few years back, and University of Delaware officials won't be disturbed if very soon it plays a revival on the Newark campus.

The situation has no bearing on the theatre, however, unless one cares to stretch a point to apply the title to the mini-drama being enacted in the university bookstore, where members of the Student Government Association are urging students to restrict their patronage because of what they feel is a case of high prices and poor service.

"Not so," says bookmanager Lou Dickson, disputing the charge. During last Thursday's crush of textbook buying, Dickson said there were 10 cash registers taking care of customers over a 12-hour period. As far as prices are concerned, Dickson pointed out that as a result of discussions with SGA officers last year, the bookstore has reduced its prices as low as is feasible in light of current wholesale prices. This year, he said, more than 11,000 of some 15,000 general and textbook titles are discounted.

The bookstore, Dickson says is operated for no other reason than to give service to the campus community. "Our aim," Dickson said, "is to serve the students and faculty and break even. But we must carry everything required by course offerings in a given year, have to bear the additional expense of going to extension locations to sell textbooks, pay our rent and overhead charges and still figure as closely as possible to reach our break even point. And, in spite of it all, across the broad spect-

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

AUTUMN

No early songsters greet the ear,
The days of Autumn now are here;
No more the early morning sun,
Shall start the busy bees to hum.

The mocking birds have ceased their song,
Blue birds from the nests have gone;
Harvest fields look bleak and bare,
How different when the wheat was there.

No canopy of lovely green,
Along the wooded lane is seen;
The leaves are turning green to brown,
The hollyhocks are drooping down.

No longer soft, warm breezes blow,
Through pastures where wildflowers grow;
Steeped in dew or gentle rain,
I wish that June was here again.

Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson and son, Billy, of Wilmington, spent Sunday with Mrs. Dave Harrington.

TREE'S DEMISE RECALLS LATE EDITOR'S SONG

A sequel to the editorial of Sept. 10, 1970: "The Journal Apple Tree". Among the numerous writings, publications, poetry, speeches, lectures, radio broadcasts, compositions et al of the editor's father, J. Harvey Burgess, are included the lyrics for sheet music including "In The Land of Apple Blossoms Arkansas"; words by J. Harvey Burgess; music by Paul Pratt; published by J. Harvey Burgess, Salem, Ark.

Bom. 1st page: "Copyright MCMMLIV by Paul Pratt and J. Harvey Burgess; printed in the, — and that torn corner has fallen away. This writer presumes the bit missing to be "U.S.A." (and I'm for that!).

The pages are quite yellowed with age, and also are the tape-over-tape repair. None the less it is handled gently and revered and played on the piano in the music room of the editor's home.

Here are the words:

V. Dear old home, I'll always love you, Love the skies that bend above you. Smiling down on happy heartstones, Where the lights of welcome glow; Love the crystal that dailies, From the Ozark hills and valleys, In the land of Apple Blossoms Arkansas.

V2: Though thy children long may wander, Though they oft-time stop to ponder, Hear the robins in the blossoms, As they sang long years ago. Where the northern lighte are gleaming, Neath the southern stars they're dreaming, Of the land of Apple Blossoms Arkansas. V3: Time our love can Ne'er dissever, May your homelight gleam forever O'er the bravest, truest, fairest, That this world shall ever know; And when all of life is over, Let me rest beneath the clover, In the land of Apple Blossoms Arkansas.

REFFRAIN
You may sing of twilight shadows, And of silv-ry Colorados, And the Swanee River twining in the gloam of long ago.

When the silv-ry moon is beaming, Then my truant heart is dreaming, In the land of Apple Blossoms, Arkansas.

It is good to g-i-v-e our brains and our heart. Beautiful transplants, we believe. Whether you are a surgeon, a teacher, preserver-defender of life, if it is a Bok Tower (Lake Wales, Fla.), or a quilt you made, or a doll or a sled or wagon you made for yours or God's children (persons used to hand-make objects for themselves and for others, some still do so), it is truly an invaluable treasure.

Both the Apple Blossoms lyrics and the Journal Apple Tree have interwoven warmly into countless minds and hearts. For this, we can be graciously thankful.

FENCE TALK

Here is George Vapaa

The recent conference on agricultural wastes points up a problem unknown on the old family farm. For today the family farm is larger and highly specialized. Dairy herds of 100 or more cows are becoming the rule. Broiler flocks may easily run to 100,000 birds.

All of these animals create manure problems which must be dealt with. That's simple you say. Just spread it on the cropland. Ah, but there are pitfalls.

I have seen poultry manure spread at the rate of one and a half tons per acre kill off a young wheat crop. A little may help fertilize a crop, but too much can knock it off.

Then too, today there is a cost factor. Labor costs may make commercial fertilizers cheaper to use as well as reduce weed seed problems carried in manures. One just cannot afford to haul manure too far today, perhaps within a mile or so. There are limits as to how much can be used as I've said.

Poultry manure has an average analysis of 1.5, 1, 1 as compared to bagged or bulk fertilizer which may carry a 10,10,10 unit guarantee of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash.

This is a way of saying you can have too much of a good thing, and cannot afford to handle it. The labor cost picture changed in the last few years. I've often said that broiler manure and corn made Sussex County.

So you see farmers looking for new ways to cut pollution from animal wastes. This will be easier perhaps than disposing of pesticide residues. Our ag engineers have some good ideas on all of it. Call us at 736-1448 if you feel you have a problem that needs correction.

Discussion by Francis J. Webb
If you are a home gardener and feel you would like to learn more about trees, shrubs, lawn grass, landscaping, etc., then be sure to enroll in the Kent & Sussex Home Gardener's Short Course. This course will cover most all phases of home gardening, also special topics that you want to learn about.

It is being held on the third Wednesday night of October, November, January, February, March and April starting at 7:30 p.m., and continuing until 9:30 p.m. Adults from both Kent and Sussex Counties are encouraged to enroll and come out to the Milford Junior High School for these sessions.

Your enrollment application must be in by October 7. If you would like to have more information and an enrollment form, call either 736-1448 or 856-2553. Please do not wait if you are interested because we can only handle 40 people and it is first come, first serve.

Here are a couple of important dates for you to keep in mind.

On October 6, starting at 9:00 a.m., at the University of Delaware substation near Georgetown, we will hold our Soybean Open House. This will cover many aspects of soybean production, such as: varieties, facility, disease resistance, irrigation and many more.

November 11, is another important meeting for your corn producers, processors and others. Starting at 8:00 p.m., at the Substation, we are having a corn leaf blight meeting. We will have speakers that can bring you up-to-date on the corn blight situation. Information such as seed availability for next year, possible ways to reduce crop injury from this disease, the way resistance is bred into corn hybrids, and other important topics. If you have interest in field corn, do not miss this meeting.

It Seems To Me

By Janet C. Reed

Top stitching is an important fashion detail that also serves a useful purpose. Crease resistant fabrics which do not press easily may need this stitching to keep seams and edges in place. The stitching also adds a bit of firmness to the fabric.

But that stitching must be straight, especially if you use a contrasting color for trim.

Newer sewing machines make straight stitching easy because of the guide built in to the throat plate. But it's still easier with the gauge foot, an attachment you can buy at your sewing machine shop.

The gauge foot is a small foot attached in place of the presser foot with a set of gauges that guide the edge of the fabric an even distance from the needle. The gauges differ in the height of their side walls so that you can stitch different thicknesses of fabric. You can stitch close to the edge or as far away as an inch.

A shallow wall guide enables you to top stitch using the seam line as a guide. Complete directions come with this useful attachment.

You may need to lessen the pressure on the pressure foot so the top layer of fabric is not pushed out of place as you stitch. Use only enough pressure for the fabric to feed under the presser foot as you sew.

To emphasize the stitching detail, use a heavy thread such as buttonhole twist, and lengthen the stitch to about 8 to 10 stitches per inch.

It's possible to use the buttonhole twist on the bobbin and stitch with the wrong side of the fabric up, but you'll get better results by using the buttonhole twist on the bobbin and stitch with the wrong side of the fabric up, but you'll get better results by using the buttonhole twist on both upper and lower threads.

You may need a larger machine needle for this heavier thread. Try to use a long enough piece of thread so you won't have to stop and rethread in the middle of the stitching. Two or more rows of stitching side by side will further emphasize the lines of the garment.

Test stitch on a sample of your fabric before applying the stitching to the garment.

Professional results are easier if you take advantage of the tools available for the job.

Protect Horses With Tetanus Shots

Don't ignore wire cuts or small puncture wound on horses. Tetanus or lockjaw may result from the infection of the smallest cuts, warns Dr. C. Melvin Reintour, extension equine specialist at the University of Delaware.

A small wound may not seem serious and even look healed in one or two weeks. After a few weeks however, the horse sometimes becomes stiff and has difficulty moving and eating. On examination lockjaw is diagnosed, and the animal may be lost.

The disease is caused by the tetanus bacillus, a spore-forming, toxin-producing organism that can enter the body through cuts and abrasions, explains Reintour. Open wounds or contaminated and bruised areas are especially susceptible.

Horses showing symptoms of lockjaw can be treated with antibiotics, he adds. But even with the best of care, fewer than half the infected horses recover.

If your horse receives a cut or abrasion, have your veterinarian immunize the animal against tetanus, says Reintour. An injection of antitoxin will protect an exposed animal immediately but for only a short period.

On the other hand, an injection of tetanus toxoid will permit a horse to build up his own immunity. This is more satisfactory and lasts longer. A second dose two weeks later increases the immunity, but the horse should receive a yearly booster shot thereafter.

But, don't wait until your horse is injured; protect him now, stresses Reintour.

University Hog Testing Program

Consumers want lean pork. So pork producers must produce lean meat-type hogs to remain competitive.

Fortunately, results from swine testing stations in the U.S. have shown that meat-type hogs grow faster than lard-type hogs and convert feed to pork more efficiently, says Dr. Richard E. Fowler, extension livestock specialist at the University of Delaware.

A swine testing program at the university can help Delaware producers select efficient, fast-growing, meaty boars and gilts for use in their herds. The on-farm tests will help determine the efficiency of feed conversion, growth rate and carcass merit.

Carcass merit — percent lean cut, loin eye area, back fat thickness and length — can be measured from slaughter data or by testing live animals with an ultra-sonic testing machine.

For testing, producers should choose pairs of littermates when they are five weeks old. Selected 60-day-old pigs will be penned separately from the other pigs in the herd.

Tests begin when the 63-day-old pigs are weighed; they will be weighed three times during the test period. Standard pelleted rations with 15 and 12 percent protein will be fed. Tests will end when pigs reach a market weight of approximately 210 pounds.

For further information, pork producers can contact county extension agents or Dr. Fowler, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark.

Keeping Financial Records

Inflation getting you down? If you know where your money is going, you can help control the effects of inflation on your family.

Start by keeping a record of cash receipts and payments, suggests Miss Coral K. Morris, University of Delaware extension home management specialist. A convenient record of cash flow will prove helpful in future planning. You may also use your family account book as supporting information for tax purposes.

You can buy many types of record books or get them free from many banks and insurance companies. Of course, you can make your own record book from an ordinary notebook or loose-leaf binder. You'll more likely use the account book if you keep the record form simple.

Miss Morris recommends keeping the account book in a convenient place so you'll get the habit of jotting down current expenditures. You may want to keep a note pad and pencil handy for recording what you spend and the reasons right after you buy something. Keep track of receipts and spending records in a drawer set aside for just that purpose. And enter records regularly — often enough so that you don't forget details.

Don't worry if you can't account for every cent. For instance, you may not want to list the details of small personal allowances for family members.

You can't plan your spending unless you take time to evaluate your records frequently. Family accounting does take time, but which would you rather spend — time or money?

Corn Prices Rise

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Crop Reporting Service has indicated that the 1970 corn crop will be six percent below earlier expectations due to losses from the southern corn leaf blight. A six percent reduction would mean a loss of about 290 million bushels but still a crop of 4.4 billion bushels—third largest on record.

Although additional losses may be reported as the corn is harvested, there's no question about an adequate supply of feed grains for heavy livestock feeding and export sales in 1971, according to W. T. McAllister, extension agricultural economist at the University of Delaware.

But what affect has this reduced forecast had on corn prices?

The price of corn has increased substantially above the normal level for this time of year, points out McAllister.

"Corn has what economists call a price elasticity of two to one," he explains. "This means a two percent change in price can be expected with each one percent change in supply in the opposite direction. Thus, a six percent decline in supply, as predicted in the September report, would mean a 12 percent improvement in price."

If the normal price for corn at this time of the year is around $1.30 per bushel, a reduction of six percent in supply would mean a price of about $1.45 per bushel. Demand for corn is greater than a year ago, so the cash price on the Chicago market is between $1.50 and $1.55 per bushel.

The current corn situation demonstrates to farmers how important it is to keep supply in balance with demand if they want maximum prices, says McAllister. The price elasticity formula also works the other way. "A six percent increase in the supply of corn could have resulted in a substantially lower price for the entire crop, if there were no increase in demand."

Prepare Heating System For Winter

To prepare your home for a warm, comfortable winter, examine and service your heating system before cold weather sets in, suggests Ernest W. Walpole, assistant professor of agricultural engineering at the University of Delaware.

Have oil burners examined by an experienced service man, advises Walpole. Fuel filters may need new elements and the burner may require adjustment for maximum efficiency. The fuel to air ratio must also be correct for proper heating at minimum cost. And flame passages should be free of soot deposits.

Gas heaters and furnaces may also need attention, he adds. Be sure that the main gas supply is controlled by the safety pilot device and check all safety devices for proper operation.

The chimney flue must be clear to vent gas appliances outside the building, says Walpole. If unusual water condensation appears on walls or ceiling, check the flue for proper operation. If the gas flame is yellow, check the burner air adjustment.

If your home is equipped with a forced hot air furnace, replace air filters for a full flow of heated air and for reduced dust circulation. In some instances, adding a humidifier may provide more healthful air conditions during the winter months.

On hot water systems, bleed air from the lines if gurgling noises are apparent when the circulator pump is running. To increase efficiency, clean radiators of cobwebs and dust. For baseboard radiators, use a vacuum cleaner and crevice tool for cleaning.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Halberton

October is harvest month and this year is brings a bounty of good things to eat. The feature food for the month is the apple. A bumper crop is in prospect—152.6 million boxes, a bit smaller than last year but the largest crop in the preceding 30 years.

To get the most from the apples you buy, be sure to select those that are best suited for the purpose you intend to use them for. For example, Delicious, McIntosh, Stayman, Jonathan, Winesap and Golden Delicious are varieties that are excellent for eating fresh and for salads. Tart or slightly acid varieties such as Yellow Transparent, Gravenstein, Lodi, Newton (Albermarle Pippin) are favored for pies. Rome Beauty, Rhode Island, Greening, Northern Spices are all excellent for baking. For all purpose apple Stayman Winesaps can do an exceptional job.

Convenience minded? Take advantage of ready-to-eat and delicious canned applesauce. Production last season was record high and another large pack is again forecast this year. So look for ample supplies at reasonable to low prices. Eat applesauce as is, or heat and serve embellished with a subtle accent of cinnamon or nutmeg. Or include applesauce as an ingredient in cakes, casserole dishes or other tempting creations.

Stock up on apple juice for fruit drinks and punches.

The supply is big and the juice is delicious.

Three good high protein main dish foods will be readily available throughout the month. Pork production should run about 10 percent higher than during October 1969. Broiler - fryer marketings in the coming month will be up from last year and prices will be well below those of a year ago. And the Alaskan salmon pack recently totaled 3.2 million cases, compared with 1.8 million at the same time in 1969.

In addition, October egg production is likely to top last year's level. Prices are up now but if all goes as predicted they will go down during October as production increases.

Two important vegetables—onions and potatoes, both good keepers, will also be in generous supply, the result of favorable growing conditions.

The availability of canned peaches continues to be excellent with stocks of canned Freestones being in large supply.

A larger than average prune crop is forecast—180,000 tons, bring ample quantities of dried prunes.

pitted prunes and prune juice to market.

To end the list are dry beans, another hearty food that is nutritious and economical.

HARRINGTON'S BEN HUGHES, of Hi-Grade Dairy, in the winner's circle following trophy presentation by the local dairy to leading driver Tom Lewis after he won feature race last week with Stephen York, owned and trained by Ralph and Eunice Holloway of Frankford Delaware. Wednesday night is Mid-Meet Appreciation night with all fans admitted free; ten races and a drawing for the 1970 Hornet automobile.

Second Increase In Purses Announced

by Jack Renault

After 20 nights of harness racing the Harrington Raceway mutual handle is up 4 1/2 percent of the 1969 average, track management announced. The handle is now averaging $100,916 compared to $96,518 last year.

Attendance is only five percent off after twenty nights as compared with a dip of 12 percent after opening week. Per capita wagering is 42.58 this year compared with 36.23 in 1969.

Tom Lewis, of Frankford, continues to set a blistering pace in the driver standings. He has 11 wins, two seconds and four thirds in 24 trips for a high .560 average. Johnny Childress second leading teamster, of Harrington, has 10 wins, five seconds and three thirds in 31 turns. Jim Wilson, also of Harrington is third with nine victory drives.

Honorable mentions go to Hubert Jackson of Queene Anne, Md. with 9 wins and Guy Banks of Salisbury with five victory trips.

Track management announced this week that horsemen's purses at Harrington Raceway would be increased overall by an additional 4 percent.

In other action at the local harness oval this week, Cold Well Senator, under the guidance of Middletown's Charles Laws paced the fastest mile in pari-mutuel competition in nine years here. The five year old son of Adios Senator, following a blistering paced set by Quaker Gal, finished the James R. Skinner Breeding Farm Trophy event going away in 2:02 3/5, the fastest pace since Milford Hanover, owned by Russell Kirby of Milford turned the oval in 2:01 2/5 back in 1961. Cold Well Senator is owned by D. and D. Enterprises of Newark.

In other feature race competition Chester Gene, with Harrington's Danny Murphy on the bike won the New Yarmouth Inn Purse. Mike Law, piloted by Father Francis Tierney, the clergyman-horstrman from Wilmington captured by the Young Republicans Trophy and Jim Case of Dover, up behind his own Bachelor's Debbie won the Monday night feature.

The owner, driver, training team of James McVey Senior and Junior scored and driving double and put new lifetime marks on both Bonny Josie and Fricheif. Jas. Sr., at 73, owns and trains and son, Jim does the driving. Both live in Newark.

Coming up at Harrington is "Delaware Night", October 7th, when Gov. Russell Peterson and the state's Senators and Representatives will be honored.

Also on the schedule is "Diamond Night" something new this year. On October 8th, Thursday, a ladies night,

Spartans Outrun Cavaliers, Chris' Streak is 40

Senior cross-country star, Chris Wetherhold, recorded his 40th straight dual meet victory, as Harold McDonald's Lake Forest High cross-country team, opened its season with an 18-44 decision over Dick Green's Middletown High Cavaliers. Low score wins in cross-country.

Wetherhold's 12:38 clocking is a good effort for September and was practically a solo performance since he had no competition. Chris last lost in the regular season, as an eighth grader in 1966.

Coach McDonald's superlative coaching record is one hundred twenty one victories and eight defeats, as he starts his thirteenth year of coaching cross-country.

Brad Morris ran a fine 13:20 envelopes will be given to the first 1,000 ladies. Each envelope will contain a sparkling stone; four of these stones will be genuine 12 point diamonds.

Tonight (Wednesday, Sept. 30th) is mid-meeting appreciation night; all fans admitted without charge. An extra tenth race has been carded, after which, some patron will win a 1970 Hornet automobile.

Special Pheasant Season Receives Garden

The 1970 special season for artificially reared pheasants will be October 10 through October 17. A total of one thousand male pheasants will be liberated on Reddy Point, Blackiston, Little Creek, Petersburg, Milford Neck, Prime Hook and Nanticoke Wildlife areas.

This year new special regulations will be in effect during the season. Daily permits will be required to hunt. Permit issuance will be on a first-come, first-served basis at 8:00 a.m. daily on each area. A predetermined number of permits will be issued for each area (Reedy Point - 100; Blackiston - 50; Little Creek - 100; Petersburg - 75; Milford Neck - 100; Prime Hook - 75; Nanticoke - 50.) As hunters check out, permits will be reissued.

Shooting hours will be from 9:00 a.m. to 5 p.m. E. D. T. Each special pheasant hunting will be designated by special signs. A Division of Fish and Wildlife vehicle stationed at each area will serve as a checking station. A daily limit of one bird will be in effect during the special season only. Hunters will be required to check out immediately after bagging a bird so that their permit may be reissued.

A summary of the 1970-71 hunting seasons is now available from most license agents or from the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control, Division of Fish and Wildlife.

to finish unpushed in second place. Kevin Douglas of Middletown, a talented, veteran runner, barely held off the Spartans' improving Billy Stubbs for third place. Stubbs No. 6 Spartan last fall started a hard, sustained sprint some 300 yards out and picked up many yards to get a great 13:37 clocking. This put Billy eight seconds under his personal record of 13:45, set last year. Only Stubbs and Ricky Hamm have beaten their best 1969 times, on the Spartan squad.

Sam Bostick in fourth recorded his best time of the season. Allan Parker was two seconds back in sixth followed by Jackie D. Parker, who turned in his fastest trip of the campaign.

Jim Dill, the Viola carrot-top, opened his cross-country career with a terrific effort. He had missed he practice meet with Milford because of illness but recovered enough to lower his time from 15:45 to 15:12, good for 14th place.

Bob Smith and Chris Adamo had new seasonal bests while newcomer Dennis Wright cut his time by exactly thirty seconds.

Jerry Scott had his finest 1970 outing. Ed Kukulka sliced a whopping 49 seconds off his previous low. Bill Erne subtracted 22 seconds.

Allan Parker, Harrier Of The Week

Allan Parker, a star varsity harrier at 13, but out of action since, rejoined the Lake Forest squad, this fall at 17. Parker has been third and fifth in two meets and was clocked in a fine 13:51 both times.

Parker is taking up a lot of the slack caused by the absence from the top seven, of two of last year's regulars.

Bowers, Parker Lead Chipman Harriers

Jim Blades' Chipman School runners have impressed three varsity cross-country coaches already this fall. Some of Blades' seventh and eighth graders are fast enough to be varsity performers on those three squads.

Vernon Bowers, a strong, thirteen-year-old, prospect nosed the eleven-year-old veteran, Howard Parker, by a stride on Monday night. Bowers lowered his time by sixteen seconds to 15:30, to approach Parker's 1970 squad-leading 15:28, done early this month. Parker was timed in 14:50 or better last fall, for the 2.4 miles distance. It's likely that both will run faster than 14:50, before this season is over, since they run as a team in practice and in competition. Therefore each will help the other become a better runner. It's doubtful that any school in Delaware has a pair of prospects, as good as these, at the same ages.

Russell Dill and Rudy Bordley, have both broken 16:30. These are fine efforts by this pair of newcomers.

Dave Williamson has a 16:49. Ed Thompson improved 37 seconds to 16:58. Dave Moore (17:10) Charles Scott (17:11) and Ron Woods (17:19) will all be under 17 minutes soon to give Chipman at least nine terrific prospects.

Kim O'Toole and Lester Blades got their first tastes of running in cool weather and against other schools. Both lads improved greatly, O'Toole by two minutes and Blades by four.

Others to do especially well this week were: Kevin Wooters, down one minute, Wayne Voshell, Mark Krouse, Bob Abbott, George Luff, Bob Mullane and Ron Jarrell.

Three elementary pupils working out over the course with an eye to the future are of the stuff from which champions are made. John Moffett and Eric Hamsher, both 11, have fine 17:55 clockings. Ken "Bullet" Cerkleskie is only eight years old and has done eighteen minutes flat. We plan to take this trio to Pennsville, N.J., this weekend to run against boys their ages in a meet co-sponsored by the Delaware Track and Field Club and the South Jersey Track Field.

Dover Embarrasses Lake Forest 32-12

Lake Forest's football Spartans looked more like Athenians at Dover on Friday night. The outclassed locals had little going for them except conditions, hustle and desire, while the Senators had all those assets plus a plethora of talented gridlers.

Former Harringtonians, Chris "Neilson" Stokes was the architect of the 32-12 disaster. Chris passed for two touchdowns and left the game with a 26-0 lead.

Lake Forest finally got on the scoreboard with two touchdowns against Dover reserves in the final few minutes. Dale Motter scored from four yards out and newcomer Herman McBride tallied on a 22-yard pass from quarterback Lawrence Sorden. McBride is a sprinter from Chester, Pa., and may help the Spartans greatly after he gets more familiar with the system.

Lake Forest is now 1-2 after opening with an 8-6 verdict over Cape Henlopen. The Spartans dropped a hard-nosed 6-0 duke to Indian River at Dagsboro-Frankford last week.

Mike Dennis, who gave the Spartans offense a big shot in the arm, in the opener, suffered a leg injury at Indian River and is now wearing a hip-to-ankle cast. Thus the versatile athlete's 1970 grid season was practically a one-night stand since he played less than six periods. Ironically, a few days before the Indian Rover contest, this reporter talked with that ultra-successful basketball coach, Art Refosco. We remarked that coaches of winter and spring sports can often be spotted in the stands at football games, wincing as their stars go through the meat-grinder, wrestling, basketball, baseball, track and other sports' coaches keep their fingers crossed hoping their key men come through the grid season unscathed.

We sincerely hope that Dennis will be 100 percent come November 15th.

COLD WELL SENATOR paces fastest mile for any horse in nine years at Harrington Raceway. Under the professional guidance of Middletown's Charles Laws, Cold Well Senator, five year old son of Adios Senator blistered the Harrington Raceway mile in 2:02 3/5, the fastest mile since 1961 when Milford Hanover, owned by Russell Kirby of Milford set the track pari-mutuel pacing record of 2:01 2/5. Cold Well is owned by D and D Enterprises of Newark, and was presented the James R. Skinner Breeding Farm Trophy by Mr. and Mrs. Skinner of Queen Anne.

On October 2, Lake Forest gets a golden opportunity to even their record at 2-2 as Woodbridge comes to town. The Mustangs are more in the Spartans' class are currently winless.

Harrington Bowling League Leah S. Wheeler

In the first four weeks of bowling the lead in the Harrington Bowling League has been hotly contested and this week was no exception. Gerardi Bros. caught Taylor & Messick off guard Tuesday night and crushed them in all four games to move one game out in front of the pack. Taylor & Messick was hampered by going into the fray with only four men, and Bobby Collins made a gallant effort to futilely keep his team from total defeat, with a fine 207 game and a great 544 series. George Langford also bowled well for the farm boys. Ken

Local Driver, Jim Lyons, Makes Good At Delmar

On Friday, Sept. 25, Jimmy Lyons took first place in the 6 cyl heat while J. R. Robinson of Millville took first place in the 2nd 6 cyl heat. Following Lyons and Robinson were Bill Adkins of Pittsville and Alan Carey of Laurel.

Stan Busby of Bridgeville and Jim Clark of Millsboro were the 8 cyl heat winners. In the 6 cyl 25 lap feature,

Layton proved to be the big gun in Gerardi's decisive win over the Taylor & Messick squad as he rolled a real great 525 game, amassing a only four men, and Bobby Collins made a gallant effort to futilely keep his team from total defeat, with a fine 207 game and a great 544 series. George Langford also bowled well for the farm boys. Ken

J. Lyons of Harrington led until the 12 lap when Abby Mitchell snuck by to finish the checkered flag. Following Lyons running 2nd were J. R. Robinson, Millville; Alan Carey, Laurel and Randolph Collins, Pittsville.

Stan Busby walked away with the 8 cyl feature race leading it all the way. Following Busby were Calvin Hammond, Frankford, Ken Jefferson, Milton, Don Twilley, Dover and Nelson James, Laurel.

Again there will be racing at Delmar Friday night with purses of $200 and $100 going to the 8 cyl class and $145 & $75 going to the 6's. Up to seven positions will be paid in the features.

On Saturday, the DARA Speedway, just outside Whitelysburg, will officially open at 2:00 p.m., for open competition. This is a new track and locally owned, so if its fast racing you want, come out and see your local boys in action.
