

State Harness Group Awards 282 Race Dates

The Delaware Harness Racing Commission Monday night put the finishing touches on its 1971 schedule to make it the fullest harness-racing year in the state's history.

In all, 282 racing dates were awarded. Coupled with 105 proposed racing dates for the two thoroughbred tracks in Delaware, that will make 387 racing days.

Except for a week in early May and Christmas week, there will be racing every week of the year.

Joseph Pittard, chairman of the DHRC said harness dates awarded during a meeting in Dover last night went to: —Brandywine Raceway — 100 nights, six per week from Monday, May 17, to Thursday, Sept. 9. It's the fourth straight year Brandywine will operate 100 nights.

—Harrington Raceway — 40 nights, six per week from Friday, Sept. 10, through Saturday, Oct. 2, and four per week from Monday, Oct. 4, through Oct. 4, through Saturday, Nov. 6. At a Dec. 27 meeting, the commission had approved a 20 night spring meeting for Harrington, from Wednesday, April 7, through Saturday, May 1, with two Mondays (April 12 and 19) dark.

—Dover Downs — 41 nights, six per week from Monday, Nov. 8, through Friday Dec. 31 except for Christmas Week. The Dover facility is currently operating a 38-night winter meet until Saturday, Feb. 13.

—Georgetown Raceway — 43 nights, six per week from Wednesday, May 12, through Wednesday, June 30.

A one-day conflict in requests from Brandywine and Harrington at last month's meeting was worked out by managements of the two tracks prior to Monday night's meeting, Pittard said, with Brandywine awarded racing for Sept. 9, the date in question.

Georgetown's requests to the commission had been for 47 dates, rather than the 43 awarded, but Pittard said the commission acted as it did to avoid a conflict in dates between Georgetown and Ocean Downs in Ocean City, Md. The Maryland track starts July 1, Pittard said.

The thoroughbred meet at Dover Downs will run from Feb. 20 through April 3. Delaware Park has submitted a proposal calling for a split

Accident Injures Five

Five persons were injured and a 25-year-old man arrested following a two-car accident Saturday on U.S. 13 at the Viola-Plymouth Road.

State Police said a car driven by James E. Harmon of Allen's Trailer Park, Felton, collided with an auto driven by Sharon M. Johnson, 20 of ear Felton after Harmon pulled onto U.S. 13 from the side road.

Harmon suffered a broken nose. He was treated at Kent General Hospital, released and arrested for failing to stop at a stop sign.

A passenger in the Harmon car, Marcus Brey, 10, of Felton, suffered a sprained back. Miss Johnson suffered cuts of the knee. Passengers injured in her car included her mother, Mrs. Martha Johnson, who suffered a fractured left wrist and her sister, June K. Johnson, 16, who suffered bruises of both knees.

Fire Termed Suspicious

Fire caused light damage to an unoccupied house on Kent 284 three miles southwest of Felton, Saturday.

Deputy State Fire Marshall J. Ben Roy said the fire was of a suspicious nature and indicated the investigation is continuing. The blaze was extinguished by the Felton Fire Company.

season — May 29 through July 5 and Aug. 21 through Sept. 26.

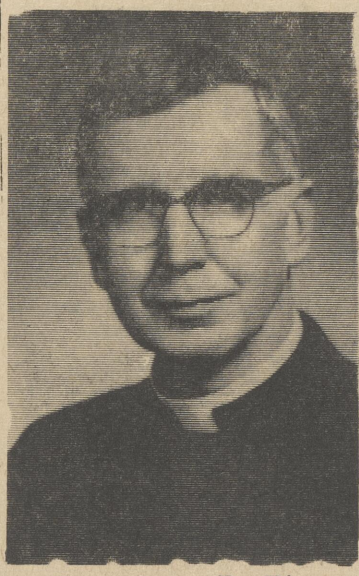

Harness racing in Delaware during 1970 occupied 241 nights, including an extra 21 days granted to Dover Downs last October. A new state law passed last summer increased the number of harness dates available to Kent and Sussex Counties from 140 to 200. The three downstate tracks will use 182 of those 200 lawful dates during 1971.

The 1971 harness-racing schedule:

- April 7 through May 1 — Harrington Raceway.
- May 12 through June 30 — Georgetown Raceway.
- May 17 through Sept. 9 — Brandywine Raceway.
- Sept. 10 through Nov. 6 — Harrington Raceway.
- Nov. 8 through Dec. 31 — Dover Downs.

The Rev. Quay D. Rice Will Transfer To South Carolina

Rev. Quay D. Rice

The Rev. Quay D. Rice, vicar of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church eight years, will assume a pastorate in his native state after Jan. 26.

The Rev. Rice, who came here from St. Martin's in the Fields, Selbyville, in 1962 will become vicar of St. Bartholomews in North Augusta, S.C.

His address will be 1012 Hammond Drive, North Augusta, S.C., 29841.

His final Sunday here will be Jan. 24.

A replacement will be sought for the local parish.

The Rev. Rice has been active in civic circles, particularly those oriented toward religious affairs.

He is chaplain of Callaway-Kemp - Raughley - Tee Post No. 7, American Legion, and is a past chaplain of the Department of Delaware.

At a meeting of the vestry last Thursday night, when the Rev. Rice announced his resignation, Clyde Perry was appointed senior warden of the vestry.

Senior Center News

The year 1971 should end well if, according to an old saying, "a bad beginning means a good ending." The Center has been beset with troubles since the year began. The accident which occurred during the fog last Monday afternoon resulted in the hospitalization of the assistant director, Mrs. Catherine Errigo, who is now slowly improving in Kent General. A sunshine box is being prepared for her and will be presented to her upon her return to her home. Mrs. Angela Johnston, the director, was released having suffered severe bruises. She assumed her duties last Thursday but will be entering the Johns Hopkins Hospital today, Thursday, for a series of tests. She will be returning to the Center on Monday, January 18. It is hoped she will receive a favorable report. All this, plus the fact that several of our members are confined to their homes, does not make for a very pleasant start on a new year.

Nevertheless, on Monday of this week, about twenty persons gathered at the Center for the monthly birthday party.

Pearl Derrickson was chairman of the affair and had prepared a program of soups, a reading, and bingo. A door prize was also given away. The refreshments were sandwiches, coffee, punch and cake. Mrs. Clyde Tucker and Mrs. Minnie Coates contributed the cakes. There were three celebrates present: Ida Macklin, Anna Tucker and Cornelia Gillette.

Each was given a small ceramic vase which had been made at the Center, and the best wishes of all present for a healthful and happy year ahead.

Remember a hot lunch at noon on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday, with delivery to shut-ins who desire the service. Call 398-3908 after 10 a.m.

On Monday, cards and bingo are planned; on Tuesday, sewing; and ceramics on Thursday. Looking ahead, the covered-dish luncheon will be held on Tuesday, January 26.

The regular monthly meeting of the board of directors has been postponed until later this month. Instead an executive committee meeting will be held on Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m., at the Center to consider any pressing business matters.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY—About 200 guests surprised Mr. and Mrs. Milton R. Hopkins with a party honoring them on their 50th wedding anniversary on Dec. 18, 1970, at the Capital Grange Hall in Dover.

CLOVERLEAF HONORS MRS. THOMAS

Mrs. Earl Thomas of Harrington, was honored with one of two special awards at Ocean City, Md., Sunday night at the combined banquet of the Cloverleaf Standardbred Owners Association and District 11 of the U.S. Trotting Association.

A charter member of Cloverleaf, Mrs. Thomas was honored for her outstanding contributions and service to the 12-year-old organization. She has served as Cloverleaf secretary for the last 10 years.

Cloverleaf President Howard Kelley of Ocean City, who presented Mrs. Thomas with her award, accepted a special plaque from toastmaster Dave Buckson for his service to the association he heads.

Five Cloverleaf officers were re-elected: Kelley, president; Dr. Max Fischer of Washington, first vice-president; Olin Davis of Harrington, second vice-president; William Baird of Wilmington, treasurer; and Mrs. Thomas as secretary.

Howard Miller, Norman Diamond and Buckson were re-elected District 11 directors to the USTA.

Downing Mourned By Employes

Fulton J. Downing, prominent civic leader, who died suddenly recently, was mourned by the employes of Downing Fuel Service and Harrington Lumber & Supply Company.

His demise, a spokesman, has caused persons to inquire if the businesses were to be continued. The informant explained: "We will continue to give you good or better service."

Local Beagles Make Good

Two local beagles were in the money Sunday at a field trial of the Diamond State Beagle Club at Petersburg.

Ben Bob's Mushy took first in the 15-inch class, in which there were about 45 entries, while Brown Ridge Dottie was third in the same class. Both are owned by Benjamin Hughes and Robert Holloway.

There were 65 dogs in all classes at the trial.

Terry Yoder Named To Dean's List

Terry Yoder, who is a junior at the University of Delaware is on the Dean's List for the first semester of this academic year. He had an index of 3.38.

Terry graduated from Harrington High School in the class of 1968. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Yoder of Harrington.

Coming Events

Kent Chapter No. 11 O.E.S. will meet at the New Century Club, Wed., 8 p.m., Jan. 20. A slated meeting.

The Lake Forest Board of Education will meet at 8 p.m. Mon. Jan. 18 in the library of the high school.

Lake Forest A.F.S. News

The Lake Forest Chapter of the American Field Service met on Monday evening in the high school with Mrs. Harry John Dill presiding. Several items of business were discussed in relation to the months ahead.

Mrs. William Smith, student AFS advisor and counselor of the AFS Club at the high school announced that April 23 and 24 would be the dates for the AFS weekend at Lake Forest. Further details of the weekend when foreign exchange students from other communities in the vicinity will meet at Lake Forest will be forthcoming. Interest in the AFS Club and the exchange program is at an all-time high with over 50 students participating. Several young people have expressed interest in the summer program of AFS at which time American students visit in other countries of the world during the summer vacation.

Mrs. Leon Kukulka, funds chairman for the chapter, has begun working on a May fair to be held at Lake Forest South Elementary. This has been such a successful project in the past, it will be held again this year.

News of two former AFS students was mentioned at the meeting. Louisa Quesada of Costa Rica was a member of the James Carroll family several years ago, will greet her sister, Terry Carroll, on her arrival in Costa Rica. At the end of January, Anita Sapanur of Bolivia will be in Harrington to spend several days with her American family, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Peck. Anita will be enroute to enter the University of Michigan.

It was with a great deal of regret that Mrs. Dill announced that the AFS student this year, Shigeto Kurihara had left the Lake Forest District. He had been a member of the James Pizzadilli family in Felton until last Friday. Although the early departure of a student had not occurred in the local chapter before, many exchange students, for one reason or another do not remain in an area for the entire year.

Shigeto, though deeply fond of his American family, felt that he wanted to be in a more urban community where he could participate in activities not available in a small town. He was very interested in taking more advanced courses than were given in the high school and therefore returned to the AFS headquarters in New York City for further assignment.

The officers and members of the chapter have thanked Mr. and Mrs. Pizzadilli and their children, Cheryl, Jim and John for their wonderful care of Shigeto during the past months. He was truly a son and brother to them. Their only concern was for his happiness and his wish to do those things in the United States which he desired.

Thanks have also been extended to all of those students, teachers and friends who made Shigeto welcome to Felton and Harrington. He will surely cherish the memories of his days in Delaware as he returns to Japan later this year.

PARENTS AND SCHOOL BOARD GO AROUND AND AROUND

A group of parents in the Lake Forest School district feel they are getting the run-around from the Board of Education in their questions about the treatment of the girls' athletic program in the district.

The parent group had attended the December board meeting and questioned board members on the handling of the girls' sports program, especially the resignation of girls' basketball coach Violet Testerman.

"We've gotten a complete run-around," Charles Besselieu, a member of the parent's committee, said Monday night.

"The answers say nothing," another parent agreed. Miss Testerman girls' basketball coach for eight years, resigned in November, because "it was not safe for the girls involved and I felt they weren't learning anything she said.

Her main reason for resigning was the junior varsity coach. "They hired a J.V. coach who knew nothing about basketball. She didn't even know what a foul line was," Miss Testerman said.

The board promised to investigate the questions raised by the parents. A reply was received from the board Jan. 5.

"No one has talked to the people involved. How can you investigate that way?" a member of the committee asked.

Besselieu pointed out that main issue involved was the treatment of girls' sports in the district. "We are concerned that the kids get an equal opportunity, that the girls have the same as the boys."

Another member of the committee, Daniel Coleman said, "There is an undercurrent in the school. The least little things kids do they are suspended."

The Lake Forest Education Association is involved in contract negotiations at the present time. "We are negotiating for grievance channels and this is a prime example," James Testerman, LFSEA representative said.

The group feels the answers received from the board were the same they were given when they attended the December board meeting, and that no further investigation into the issues had been made.

In the board's reply, E. B. Warrington Jr., president said, "We reject the idea that girls' sports are neglected or discriminated against."

As to Miss Testerman's resignation, the board replied that she "chose to resign her coaching position on her own initiative. She has a right to take this action."

The parents questioned the board as to why Principal James B. Schoch was not interested in the girl's athletic program. The board president replied, "Mr. Schoch is interested in the girl's athletic program as a part of the total school program."

The parent's group agreed the issue was not settled with the board's reply. The Lake Forest Board of Education will hold its next meeting Monday night.

Fire Damages D. Wood Home

Considerable damage was done Monday evening by fire at the residence of Darrel R. Wood a mile south of Felton on the Harrington back road.

Felton firemen arrived at the scene shortly after the alarm was turned in at 11:35 p.m., and saved the furniture. The blaze was confined to the ceiling and attic.

Cause of blaze is under investigation.

Dem. Renewal Commission Met Jan. 11

The Democratic Renewal Commission met last night (Jan. 11) in Talleyville, New-Castle County. The meeting was chaired by former Wilmington mayor, John Babbler in the absence of the chairman, former governor, Elbert N. Carvel who is recuperating in Peninsula General Hospital in Salisbury, Md.

The first order of business was to schedule a public hearing for Monday, Jan. 18, 7:30 p.m., to be held in the City Council chambers in Wilmington for residents to present their views to the commission.

An executive session, felt necessary at this time, to review data collected thus far, will be held Monday, Jan. 25 in Dover. Also Saturday, Feb. 6 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., was set aside for an all day open working session at Legislative Hall. The Commission and Task Forces at this time will host democratic candidates, both successful and unsuccessful, county and district chairman, committee people and all interested citizens. The meeting closed with the eight task force chairmen giving a brief summary of progress in their respective areas thus far.

Standby Electric Power Equipment

Electricity is essential to modern farm operations and comfortable family living. Milk coolers, water coolers, water pumps, household appliances and other vital equipment require continuous electric power service.

In the event of a power failure, standby power—power provided by your own generator can keep electrical equipment functioning and avert inconvenience and possible financial loss, points out Thomas H. Williams, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware.

Two types of standby power units are generally available, he says. Tractor-driven generators and self-contained power plants. Both require installation of a transfer switch between the electric meter and the service entrance.

The tractor-driven generator is usually permanently installed at a planned location near the farm service entrance and meter. It can, however, be mounted on a special trailer to facilitate moving it to isolated locations for occasional special use.

The tractor-driven generator costs much less than the self-contained unit and the tractor used for operation is usually available for emergency duty. However, the time lapse in moving the tractor into position, connecting the generator and starting the unit may be significant.

Self-contained power plants consist of a generator and engine connected to function as a single unit. These are available as fully automatic systems that start instantly when power fails or as manually operated systems.

Self-contained units cost two to three times as much as a tractor-driven generator, says Williams. And the unit is permanently installed. Automatic units require the services of a competent electrician in case of trouble and may fail to start because of moisture condensation from infrequent use. In selecting a standby power system for farm, home or business, determine the most economical and efficient unit for present and future needs.

Automatic units must have enough capacity to handle the maximum possible load on the wiring system; if the unit is manually controlled, it should serve only essential functions and must have the capacity to carry all simultaneously operating equipment.

Tractors for powering emergency generators must have a top rating of at least two horsepower for each kilowatt output of the generator.

Finally, the electrical characteristics of the generator must match those of the load to be served.

Installation of standby equipment and wiring should be in accordance with the National Electrical Code, local ordinances and by your power company's representative and a local electrical inspector may also be useful.

Each manufacturer provides complete instructions for installing, operating and maintaining his units, he adds. So read this material carefully and keep manuals where they can be found readily. Unless equipment is properly installed and maintained, it may be useless in an emergency.

For additional information on standby power, ask for USDA leaflet No. 480, "Standby Electric Power Equipment" at county extension offices in Newark, Dover and Georgetown or write to the Mailing Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark 19711.

Sunday, January 31, at 7:00 p.m. - family night service with the Rev. Alvin J. Wilkink of Union United Methodist Church, Bridgeville will be the guest speaker. The Deborah Circle with Mrs. Earle Nelson, leader will serve refreshments.

Hallelujah Players will be producing their second play of the year. It is entitled "Born Again" and is billed as a "life changing play." If it is as good as their first production, "Night of Decision," we are in for a real treat, Bible drama at its best!
Generally when someone talks about a Biblical drama, most people think either of Cecil B. DeMille or the Oberammergau Passion Plays. But there are countless other possibilities as illustrated by this weekend's program. "Born Again," written and directed by Sgt. Gene Brack, will put more than 20 Doves on the stage this Sunday evening at 7:00 p.m., in Asbury United Methodist Church in what Brack calls an "act of true worship."

The play, concerned with the birth, death and resurrection of Christ, is more than a piece of religious representation. It is a psychological study of the original characters with an emphasis on the powerful psychic currents circulating about the central figure of Jesus Christ, God in the flesh.
In a sense, Brack regards this play - as was true with "Night of Decision", as divinely inspired. Not in the sense that God is putting words in his mouth; rather that God is in the minds of cast and writer alike, guiding thoughts and emotions in a direction which best suits his objectives and desires. For this reason, the play becomes an act of divine worship.

Brack has always been interested in literature and was active as a writer at Central Florida Junior College in his native Ocala, Fla. He turned to Biblical drama as a result of a soul searching personal experience with Christ at a youth conference. He found that his intentions were brought into reality through several requests for his labors in this direction. These unsought requests for religious play writing proved to be God's direction in his life.

Selected for Chaplain Services School by a chaplains' board at Lackland, where he volunteered for it, he has found his Air Force labors to be highly satisfying and significant. While not harboring any plans for a career in the ministry, he seems to have developed a set of goals almost indistinguishable from it!

I. C. Isaacs & Co., To Expand Operations

I. C. Isaacs & Co., Inc., Baltimore, Md., will expand its operation at Milford, it was announced by Robert D. Halbrook, Jr., secretary, Department of Community Affairs and Economic Development. The expansion is being made possible by a $400,000 financing package provided by Secretary Halbrook's Department.

The I. C. Isaacs Company current operations in Milford consist of warehousing and shipping from a facility located at South East 4th Street. The company is a manufacturer of men's slacks which are shipped to the Milford operation for packing, pressing and final distribution.

The building which houses the company's operations has been acquired by the Greater Milford Area Development Corporation and will be leased to the company. The building will then be expanded to 67,000 sq. ft. from its existing 40,000 sq. ft. on the five-acre site.

The Isaacs Company, in anticipation of the expansion, recently increased employment at the facility from 70 to 120 employees by the creation of a second shift. Second shift employees will move to day shift when the expansion is complete and according to company officials additional hiring is anticipated.

Julian Adler, vice president of the company, stated that the expansion in Milford is being undertaken because the area provided a satisfactory labor market and cooperative employees. Another very important factor, according to Adler is the cooperation provided by the community and its favorable business climate.

John L. Stevens, Jr., manager of the Division of Economic Development's Bureau of Industrial Development, stated that "this expansion by I. C. Isaacs and Company, Inc. is another positive step to create more jobs in our state. This is the third application to be approved since state government reorganization took effect in August."
The Department of Community Affairs and Economic Development's Council on Industrial Financing recommended that the project be approved for financing. Negotiations for the department were handled by Peter J. Nolan Deputy Attorney General.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Halberton

Over the years, Americans have gotten used to the idea that food is cheap compared to the other necessities of life. And food prices have increased at a much slower pace than most other items in the Consumer Price Index, our national measurement of price changes.

However, consumers were startled when 1965 food prices, which had been increasing at a modest rate of 1 1/2 percent a year, moved up 2.2 percent. In 1966 we were stunned by a further jump to nearly 5 percent. Food was beginning to catch up with some of our other living costs.

In 1969 we find that the cost of food at home increased 4.8 percent. However, other costs of living also increased, many of them more than food. For instance housing was up 6.4 percent, medical care rose 6.9 percent, and shoes went up 6.1 percent (figures for 1970 are not yet completed, but it is expected to be similar to 1969). Yet in 1969 we only spent 16.7 percent of our disposable income on food as compared to 25 percent in 1940.

Since we buy food every week (many of us shop more often) we are all more aware of the retail food prices than of auto prices and the like. What about retail food prices? There is so much to be done before the food reaches the store and all of this must be taken care of in the price the store manager pays to his suppliers. First the farmer or producer is paid. His prices have to go up as farm labor's pay increases, his other costs increase, fertilizer, machinery upkeep, etc. Then the food is hauled to the processor, thus transportation cost and the cost of the "jobber" who sells to the processor must be added to the farm price. Then we go into the processing - the labor cost here, plant maintenance, research, insurance, etc., must be added. Finally the food is ready to be sold to the retailer and again we go through the job of selling and transportation. These costs must be added on to the already long list. How the food arrives at the retail market. What is to be done here?

The grocer has to build his price structure now. He starts with the costs of the merchandise; to this he adds the expenses of operating his store, including profit. He then has to all about 1 percent of that total dollar sales to cover light-gingered habits of the consumer and employees. Also to be included is the check-cashing service customers demand. Unfortunately, some of the checks bounce - about $240 million worth annually, coast to coast.

Then, too, customers will not purchase broken packages or pinched fruits; but the cost of these damaged goods must be recovered, so a percentage is added to the cost of each item.

For the store manager, balance is essential in building prices. The whole structure can come crashing about his ears if he fails to consider the competitors' prices and services. So he must develop a policy that takes into consideration such factors as loss leader pricing, multiple pricing and seasonal pricing.

Actually, when it is all over, this pricing of food, the retailers can be just as unhappy as their customers.

Switchcraft
It got dark about six last night, So I flicked a switch and it got light. Who made it work, and what was the price? Who thought about that? The light was so nice.
And it got cool towards half past nine So I turned a dial and it warmed up fine. Who made it work, and what was the price? Who thought about that? The warmth was so nice.
I hadn't had a laugh all day So I turned to TV and watched a play. Who made it work, and what was the price? Who thought about that? A laugh felt so nice.
When I started to fix my broken chair The power tools helped 'cause the power was there. Who made them work, and what was the price? Who thought about that? The job was so nice.
Who thought about that? The people who serve light and power. That's who.
They aim to deliver the power you need 'Cause power for all, at all times, is their creed.

COMPUTER PROGRAM TO SCARE SMOKERS

The Delaware Heart Association has been informed of a computer program designed to shock smokers into quitting.

Invented by Capital Innovations, Inc., of Oak Park, Ill., the computer comes up with staggering statistics for anyone who smokes. For example: John Doe, 26, started smoking at 17. He has developed the habit into 21 cigarettes per day, inhaling moderately.

According to the computer, he smokes 7,665 cigarettes a year at a cost of $153 which will increase to $287 per year in the future. According to medical statistics, he has already lost an estimated 6.5 years of life.

But, says the computer, there is hope for John. If he quits today, he will regain the lost years of life by the age of 36. If he invests his cigarette money in average stocks, he will accumulate $86,861 by the age of 65.

Looking at the long-range benefits of kicking the habit, (or the long-term risks of continuing) should make everyone stop and think . . . for their heart's sake.

IT IS LONG OVERDUE

The attorney general has ruled labor costs on state construction can be set on a county-by-county basis, rather than having a single rate statewide, as now exists.

The wage rate, coming from Washington thru the State Department of Labor, sets the rate for union workers in the Wilmington-Philadelphia area and applies such rates throughout Delaware.

But these union rates are not the average scale of rates in Kent and Sussex Counties.

The state labor code states the "prevailing" rate in the area will be paid on public projects, but the Wilmington formula has been the only one acceptable so far.

Thus, laborers must be paid $5.05 an hour; bricklayers, $7.20; painters, $6.04, on schools in Kent and Sussex, while the prevailing wage, here, according to contractors, is more likely $2.50 for the laborers, with other jobs scaled down from the Wilmington formula accordingly.

Therefore, taxpayers must pay much higher costs for buildings which, if built privately, would be considerably cheaper.

James M. Rosbro, secretary of labor, is readying a report expected to recommend the setting of wage rates on the county basis.

This is commendable. Already modular construction is making itself felt in construction of school buildings, at a figure lower than construction costs where "prevailing" wages are paid. However, Kent contractors feel they can successfully combat modular construction, and keep the money in the state if a new wage scale is adopted.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

AMERICA — (from Fountains of Faith)

There is nothing wrong with America that faith, love of freedom, intelligence and energy of her citizens cannot cure.

For any American who had the great and priceless privilege of being raised in a small town there always remains with him fond memories of those days, and the older he grows the more he senses what he owed to the simple honesty and neighborliness, the integrity he saw all around him in those days.

I know that Americans everywhere are the same in their longing for peace, a peace that is based on justice, by consideration for others, by decency and above all by its insistence on respect for the individual human being as a child of God.

That's why we are happy to be Americans quartered in a Paradise with another, not far beyond.

Letter to Editor

Jan. 11, 1971

Dear Sir:

As a parent interested in her son's welfare of the public, I feel compelled to answer the letter that was printed in your paper Thurs., Dec. 24, 1970 written by Bobby Holloway. It has caused great anxiety for us at home and his family in public.

I cannot understand why Steve was not given a chance to defend himself before being condemned by someone who did not even contact him first. I feel there are a lot of other things going on at the school that he should be more concerned about, such as the walking out of classrooms and the stealing that is going on.

Knowing my son's love of sports for his community and school, I know he would not have done all this that he is accused of knowingly. So when Steve did not know he was guilty of being an "illegal coach" why put the blame on him alone? He should have been informed by those who were aware of the circumstances. And God only knows, as much as he thinks of his brother who was on the team, he could not have done this to deprive them of their winning games.

Also the name calling incident was just heresy and he was unjustly accused. And maybe he was just a substitute teacher, but to think of the good reports I had from Mr. Cohee, James Pizzadilli and others, that this has caused him to give it all up. I hope that this satisfies all whom it may concern.

I also have great respect for Bill Muehleisen because I do not believe he would have let this go on to hurt the team or my sons if he had been aware of it at the time.

Sincerely Garnet Motter (Harrington)

Delaware's Revenue Director James Kennedy explains tax regulation changes which eliminate use of some state forms and duplicate records, coordinate filing dates and should be very helpful to businessmen in the state. National Federation of Independent Business members have consistently indicated the necessity for lessening of paperwork burden. Director Kennedy had requested NFIB President, Wilson Johnson, to poll the more than 1100 NFIB members in Delaware for suggestions and ideas for the revision of tax regulations. He said the response was most helpful. Pictured above are Calvin Jones, NFIB District Manager; Kennedy; Governor Russell Peterson; NFIB Eastern Field Director, Bob Haverty; and Cal Hollis of NFIB's Washington office.

Days Of Our Years

Ten Years Ago

Fri., Jan. 13, 1971

Loren B. Harrington was re-elected president of The First National Bank of Harrington Wednesday as an organization meeting. He will serve for 1961.

It appears highly probable the name of the Kent & Sussex County Fair, Inc., will be changed to the State Fair of Delaware, it was revealed Monday evening at the annual stockholders meeting at Harrington High School.

Harrington would like to be host for the annual Delmarva Chicken Festival, it was brought out Tuesday noon at a meeting of representatives of civic groups at The Wonder R.

Miss Bessie Scuenberger, 83, died Wednesday night in the Fletcher Nursing Home, Felton, after a long illness. She had lived with the Walter Moore family since 1923 and prior to that had resided with the John Heyd family. She was a native of Pennsylvania. There are no immediate survivors.

The deadline for filing for posts on the Kent County Democratic Committee passed quietly Saturday with only a relative handful of contests listed. All indications are that committee is one that will support Vernon B. Derrickson if he should choose to continue as county chairman. In the first of the Ninth, the Frontiers, an organization of Democrats attempting to unseat the regulars have entered a slate comprising William Minner and Mrs. Eva Raughley. They will buck Mrs. Kathryn Simpson and George S. Graham.

A nearly disastrous fire was averted at Harrington School when Steve Kliment and Frank Melvin, custodians, smelled smoke in the old building at approximately 9:30 p.m., Tuesday. Upon investigating, they found the fire, which presumably started in a wastebasket, had eaten thru it, severely charring the floor, and was beginning to creep up the wall. They put out the flames and called the fire company.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Pyle of New Jersey spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barlow.

Twenty Years Ago

Fri., Jan. 12, 1951

The City Council raised salaries of city employees 5 per cent Wednesday night at an organizational meeting when the group also appointed Magistrate Gooden Callaway as alderman.

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel Tuesday urged a holiday on state tax increases and asked members of the 116th General Assembly to avoid boosts of any kind during the present national emergency. The legislators were urged to authorize spending only where absolutely necessary, and to conduct affairs of state almost under an austerity program.

Funeral services for Lyman K. Hill were held from his late residence near Harrington Monday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. Harry Wright, pastor of Asbury Methodist Church. Interment was in Hollywood Cemetery.

Callaway - Kemp - Raughley - Tee Post No. 7, American Legion, will again sponsor the March of Dimes campaign for Harrington, Farmington and vicinity.

Mayor E. B. Rash was a successful candidate for reelection in the municipal voting Tuesday afternoon, tallying 300 votes. There were 337 eligible voters. Mayor Rash's opponent was Lindsey McVey, former councilman who, until the citizens meeting Friday night, had given no indication he was interested.

Elwood Coverdale, 79, died in the Milford Hospital Saturday from injuries suffered on U.S. Route 113 just south of Frederica Dec. 30.

Railroad News—W. Cliff Miller — Freight movement has been exceptionally heavy the past three weeks. This, coming at a time when trucking concerns report falling off of business, shows who carries the load when Uncle Sam starts to move.

Editorial — The proper place to study history is at an ash heap. It isn't a very attractive place, but it is an accurate chronicler of the hidden years. You will find cans on every ash heap bent, rusty cans, about the most prosaic looking objects in all the world. Once upon a time those cans were adorned by bright lithographs, stressing the excellence of the contents. They were shining and appealing to the eye — but that was long ago. Now they have come to their final resting place in an out-of-way ash heap.

Kent Chapter No. 11 O.E.S. News

Kent Chapter No. 11 O.E.S. met Wednesday, January 6, at the New Century Club, Dorman Street, Harrington. The highlight of the evening was the installation of the officers for the ensuing year.

Worthy matron - La Von Smith; worthy patron - Thomas Rodway P.G.P.; associate matron - Leona Dickrager, treasurer - Betty Lou Hoffman, P.M.; chaplain - Peggy Salmons; Adah - Maxine Crouch P.M.; Ruth - Pearl Prettyman P.M.; Electa - Rebecca Holzmueller; Martha - Vera Schrey.

The installing officers were Winifred H. Hulme, A.G.M.; of Wilmington and Robert Marshall A.G.P., of Georgetown assisted by Ellen Gregg, grand conductress, Beulah Rodway, Agnes Webb, Elizabeth Rogers and Howard Williams. Approximately 70 visitors and members were present. Eight chapters of Delaware were represented and they were honored with the presence of four past grand matrons, and one past grand patron and several other grand officers of the Grand Chapter of Delaware, also five worthy mat-trustee. He is on the advisory board, Hartly Branch of the Farmer's Bank of the State of Delaware.

Mrs. Rodway, the wife of the worthy patron, is a past matron of Kent Chapter of No. 11 and served as deputy grand lecturer. She is a past president of Hartly Home Economics Extension Club and at present is serving as president of Kent County Advisory Council and a member of the Century Club of Dover. They are members of Wesley United Methodist Church and he is now serving as building fund treasurer. They belong to Bethesda No. 64 Grange.

Changes In Food Stamp Rules

The U. S. Department of Agricultural announced two food stamp programs changes to speed retail transactions for food stamp users, grocers and other shoppers in stores which accept food stamps.

Revised program regulations will:

- Permit up to 49 cents change in food stamp transactions.
- Allow payments of deposits on bottles or other containers of eligible foods, to be made with food stamps.

Presently, program regulations require that change in food stamp transactions must be in form of unendorsed 50-cent coupons and credit slips not exceeding 59 cents in a single transaction. The 50-cent coupons can be spent for eligible foods at any authorized store, while the credit slips can be spent for eligible foods only at the store which issued them. Deposits on containers must be paid in cash by the food stamp customer.

Officials of USDA's Food and Nutrition Service said the revisions came as a result of recommendations from both food stamp recipients and the food retailing industry.

Revised regulations spelling out the new procedures became effective upon publication in the Federal Register Wednesday, Dec. 30.

FNS officials emphasized that the program regulations governing the use of $2 coupons also apply to $5 coupons. Two dollar and $5 coupons should be detached from the back of coupons by the customer only at the time of purchase. Loose $2 or $5 coupons cannot be accepted nor can loose $2 coupons be returned to the customer as change.

Jehovah's Witnesses To Meet in Georgetown

Vernon Metz, local presiding minister of the Dover Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, announced that the local group will meet with over 1000 delegates in Georgetown, this weekend Jan. 15-17, at the Delaware Technical and Community College.

The three-day seminar is being sponsored by the Watchtower Society of New York for the purpose of developing and adapting the home Bible study program on a local level. Louis R. Beda, district supervisor for the Mid-Atlantic Seaboard Region, will supervise the affair. He will be assisted by Grant S. Keen who is the circuit supervisor for the Delmarva Peninsula.

Mr. Beda will open the assembly on Friday at 7 p.m., with the keynote speech entitled "The Word of God is Alive." Mr. Beda has advised local representatives that there will be several presentations of practical applications of Bible principles to everyday life in the family unit.

The featured public address will be delivered Sunday at 3 p.m., by Mr. Beda. All sessions will be open to the public and all interested persons are invited. Local meetings at the Kingdom Hall on Rt. 13-A, Felton have been cancelled for the weekend.

FENCE TALK

We now have a new man working with livestock in Kent County. As most of you already know, George Vapaa, former Kent County agent, retired Dec. 31. Starting Jan. 1, Dave Woodard was hired as assistant county agent to primarily handle the livestock and poultry responsibilities in Kent County, as well as work with other phases of county duties.

Dave has a very good farm background and was employed by the Ralston Purina Company before accepting the Kent County position. We are very fortunate in having such a well qualified person, and I know that Dave will do an outstanding job in his new position.

Now that winter is with us again, most of you farmers have a little spare time in which to sit down and make a final evaluation of the previous year's production and management. I realize that most of this is accomplished through filing and bookkeeping, which most of us like to stay away from, but if any of you are going to improve your farming operation, good and accurate bookkeeping will have to be a part of your program.

Since you have finalized your end of the year management decisions, now is a good time to critically evaluate your overall management procedures for your farming operation. By doing this you can readily see where you can make changes or readjustments to make your operation more efficient. With today's farming, the profit is not going to the farmer with the most production or the most acreage, but to the man that can manage the optimum size farm in relation to his managing abilities.

As you all realize, farming today is one of the most technical and most advanced industries that is involved in our total nation's production. To help you in some of these bookkeeping and management decisions, we have available upon request field record forms and record books that we can supply you with that would certainly help you to keep more accurate records. We also have available the 1971 Farmer's Tax Guide that will help you in filing your 1970 tax return. Tax rules that are important to farmers are explained in this bulletin in everyday language, and examples throughout the bulletin show how these rules apply to actual farming situations.

Every year your county agent's office is trying to promote a better bookkeeping system for your farm enterprise. We feel that this is one of the most important aspects of your overall operation. If we can be of any assistance to you in helping you to set up a record keeping system or supply you with individual field record forms, please give us a call.

Now let us hear from Dave. Most farmers are constantly looking for new ways to improve their income. Today, I would like to discuss a relatively new enterprise which can add some supplemental income without a large investment. However, a high degree of management is necessary to make a veal growing enterprise a success.

Yes, growing veal calves has been developed into a profitable business by farmers in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and a few growers in Maryland. Any area of an existing barn or unused poultry house can be used for growing veal calves, provided it is dry, draft free, well ventilated and clean.

If you want to determine whether you want raising veal calves, you can keep calves loose or tied in unused stalls. The stalls should be kept dry and should be bedded with clean bright straw, shavings, or sawdust. This method is not recommended if you are going to raise calves on a permanent basis.

Ideally, veal calves should be kept in individual slat-floor pens with removable slat floors. This type of pen is efficient because it enables you to feed, clean, and observe calves individually.

For large veal operations, from 20 to 200 calves, the requirements are more specific. The temperature must be from 55-65°, humidity level at 60-80%, and adequate ventilation must be determined specifically for each barn. Not more than 65 calves should be housed in each building or barn wing. Individual slat-floor calf pens should be used, (plans are available) walls and ceilings should be insulated and supplemental heat is needed to maintain constant temperature. Concrete floors sloping toward gutters which empty into a pit or other drainage system are necessary, and a good source of water must be available. If you have an unused dairy barn and growing veal sounds interesting, I will be glad to tell you more about the veal business.

Tues. the Delaware Pork Producers Association will hold its annual meeting at the Asbury Church Hall in Harrington, at 7 p.m. The D.P.P.A. is an organization of producers and others interested in working together to promote the general welfare of the industry. Tickets are available at the Kent County extension office.

It Seems To Me

Janet Reed

Did you get a new sewing machine for Christmas? Lucky you.

Now it's up to you to learn all the things a new model will do. The new machines do wonders, but they are only as effective as the operator, says Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing and textile specialist at the University of Delaware.

Guard the instruction book with your life. Very few women do all the techniques often enough to remember them well. But re-reading the directions will recall the information when you need it.

The instruction book will also tell you how to care for your particular machine and how to correct any minor troubles. It's crammed full of new ideas you probably couldn't do on your old machine.

There is no point in having a machine that does all kinds of fancy things if you aren't going to use them. So try to find a few quiet hours when you can sit down with the machine, instruction book and some pieces of material; experiment on your own.

These directions are clearly written. If, for some reason, they don't work out as you expected, you'll be better able to ask questions when you go to the seller for instructions. It may take a bit of patience and perseverance, but you'll feel so proud of yourself when you've figured out the directions all by yourself. You'll remember them longer too.

If you really get stuck, maybe Santa can help you. Many men are fascinated by the workings of the sewing machine and seem to be able to figure out directions much easier than we women.

You've probably already made at least one garment on that new machine. While you're about it, don't forget Santa reminds Miss Reed. If you're up to it, maybe he would like a new jacket, or a sports shirt, or a fake fur hat or even a new wide tie made on his gift to you. What nicer way to show him how much you like it?

Richardson Elected President of Del. Apple Growers Assoc.

James S. Richardson was elected president of the Delaware Apple Growers Association at the group's annual meeting in Dover last week.

Along with his brother, Herbert, Richardson operates a 475-acre farm between Rising Sun and Magnolia, including a 155-acre apple orchard.

Richardson is chairman of the Governor's Council on Apple Promotion and a member of the Delaware Grange and Farm Bureau.

Robert Conaway of Bridgeville, was elected vice president and Robert Rider of Bridgeville was elected secretary-treasurer. Both are associated with O. A. Newton and Sons.

Dr. John W. Heuberger, longtime plant pathologist with the University of Delaware Extension Service, was honored by the association for his more than 25 years service to the state's apple industry.

Dr. Heuberger, who is scheduled to retire from the university this year, was presented with a portable typewriter in recognition of his contribution toward the improvement of Delaware's apple crop over the past quarter-century.

Income Tax Meetings Planned

It's that time of the year again when most of us start thinking about filing our annual tax returns.

If you have any questions concerning tax law changes or how to file an accurate tax return, mark January 25 or 26 on your calendar. These are the dates of Farm and Family Tax meetings to be held at the Houston Fire Hall the 25th and Crothers Store, Mount Pleasant, the following day.

Major tax law changes that affected 1970 income apply to both farm businesses and to individuals. For example, the amount deducted for personal exemptions was increased, the sur-tax was eliminated in July, and the amount a single person can earn without filing a tax return was increased. Changes affecting farm operations include the procedure used in determining capital gains on livestock and the recapture of soil and water conservation expenses.

Representatives of the Internal Revenue Service, the Delaware Tax Department and the Social Security Administration will help explain these changes and answer specific tax questions. A supply of tax forms, instruction booklets and record books for farm and family will also be available.

Sponsored by the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service, the meetings are open to the public and will start at 1:30 p.m., at Houston and 7:30 p.m. at Mount Pleasant.

Fifth Annual Soybean Meeting, January 28

Delaware soybean producers will want to mark Thursday, January 28, on their calendars. That's the date of the fifth annual Delmarva Soybean meeting at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center, Salisbury, Md.

Starting at 9 a.m., the day-long program will feature sessions on soybean plant behavior; growing soybeans on coastal plain soils; utilization and marketing of soybeans; insect and mite problems; weed control and a report on new development in soybean production.

Speakers include Dr. Harold Musen, Clemson University; Joe Newcomer, John Crothers and Dr. James Parochetti of the University of Maryland; and Robert Judd, National Soybean Crop Improvement Council.

A panel of Delmarva soybean growers and University of Delaware and Maryland specialists will also discuss today's soybean production systems. And Olin Gooden, president of the Mid-Atlantic Soybean Association will announce winners in the Mid-Atlantic Soybean Yield Contest for 1970.

The Delmarva Soybean Meeting is sponsored by soybean processors, allied agricultural industries and the cooperative extension services of Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

New Grain Sorghums Look Promising

Grain sorghum, a popular crop in many southern states, could be a profitable crop for Delaware farmers, according to Dr. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware. Sorghum does relatively better than corn in areas where soil moisture is limited.

In the past, Delaware farmers have been reluctant to grow sorghum due to its reputation of being easily damaged by birds. Unlike corn, sorghum is not protected on the plant by an outside covering and is very susceptible to feeding birds.

Recent breeding studies, however, have resulted in the development of sorghum varieties which produce short, compact grain relatively resistant to bird damage, says Mitchell. The department of plant science at the University has evaluated several of these varieties.

Sixteen varieties were planted during last year's tests. Yields ranged from a high of 62.5 pounds of grain per acre, which would be comparable to 116 bushels of corn, down to an equivalent yield of 23 bushels of corn for a variety that was heavily damaged by birds.

The sorghum was planted in 30 inch rows. But Mitchell notes that studies in other states have shown that reducing the row widths to 20 inches or less results in substantial increases in yields.

Another advantage of sorghum is its ability to withstand flooding. Mitchell says seed properly treated will germinate after being submerged in water 10 days or more. In comparison, corn usually will not germinate after three days in water.

The same tolerance to flooding is carried over to the sorghum plant. If flooding occurs after the plant has emerged, it will not be damaged as long as several leaves remain above the water.

The ability to tolerate drought conditions, resistance to bird damage, good response to thick planting, the elimination of cultivating and the ability to withstand flooding are factors that should encourage Delaware farmers to take a close look at grain sorghum for their crop programs, says Mitchell.

Consumer Day Set At University

That popular modern appliance, the home freezer, is a practical labor — and flavor-saver. But, many homemakers still wonder about which freezer to choose, and how to use one to best advantage.

The morning program of the University of Delaware's Consumer Day, January 26, will include information on current freezer models, the use of freezer wrapping materials and on the care of frozen foods. The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. in the Agricultural Hall auditorium, Rmuts 896, Newark.

The day long program is sponsored by the Home Economics Extension Service at the university; no pre-registration is required.

Washday gets more confusing all the time with the introduction of new fabrics and with today's highly sophisticated washing machines. To answer Homemakers' question about washday, decisions, the consumer day afternoon program will feature talks on textile care and the use of washers.

Mrs. Mary Jane Colbertson, home economist for Delmarva Power and Light Co., will discuss new freezer models at 10 a.m. Freezers will be on display from D.P. & L. and from Sears, Roebuck & Co., Prices Corner.

Using plastic film for freezer wrapping will be the topic of Fred Reiter, food packing specialist, DuPont Co. Nicholas Pinturo, extension food science specialist, Rutgers University, will conclude the morning program with a talk on frozen foods — which foods to freeze, how long they will keep and how to care for them. Information on keeping textiles looking new will be presented at 1 p.m. by Richard C. Davis, manager of technical forecasting for Whirlpool Corp. At 2 p.m., Miss Barb Kennon, home economist for Maytag Co., will hold a Maytag fashion show.

Veterans News

Q - For several years after the death of my husband, I received widow's pension from the Veteran's Administration. When I remarried, the pension stopped. My second husband, who was not a veteran died recently, and I was left without sufficient income to provide for my support. Is it possible to have my pension restored?

A - Yes, if you are otherwise qualified for benefits, you may reapply for death pension benefits. A change in the law effective Jan. 1, permits restoration of death pensions to widows who remarry and the marriage is terminated by death or divorce.

Q - I did not complete high school, but was accepted as a college student under the G.I. Bill on the basis of a General Equivalency Diploma test. I now find that I am having problems with some subjects and cannot keep up with my class. I have been advised to seek special help. Can VA help me?

A - Yes, if your school certifies that you need tutorial help to avoid failing a course, you may receive up to $50 a month for nine months to pay a qualified tutor. Application should be made to the VA on Form 21e-1990T.

Q - Several years ago I elected to receive Army retirement benefits rather than VA disability compensation. It is too late to change now?

A - No. There is no deadline for changing to compensation from VA in lieu of retired military pay. However, you must undergo a VA medical examination of determine the degree and nature of your disability and the amount of compensation to which you are entitled. You can make arrangements for this examination through the nearest VA office.

Q - I am currently training as an apprentice under the G.I. Bill. As a part of my training my employer has asked me to take a correspondence course. Will VA pay for the lessons completed through correspondence, in addition to providing the allowance under the apprenticeship program?

A - No. You cannot be paid for a correspondence course at the same time you are pursuing training under an apprenticeship program.

Q - I am a disabled veteran receiving additional compensation for my 17-year-old son who recently enlisted in the Navy. Must I report his enlistment to the VA, and will VA stop the additional compensation because of his enlistment?

A - The answer to both questions is "no." The additional compensation will continue until your son reaches 18, regardless of his military service.

Q - My son received 36 months of training under the Dependents Educational Assistance Program and has now been ordered to active duty. Will he still be eligible for educational assistance under the G.I. Bill?

A - Yes. If your son serves on active duty at least 181 days and receives an other than dishonorable discharge, he will be eligible for additional education assistance. A veteran may use up to 48 months when he is entitled under two or more programs, but all time used under laws administered by the VA will be deducted from this maximum entitlement.

Q - My father was a World War II veteran, and after his death I received $40 per month death pension. I am now a 22-year-old Vietnam veteran enrolled in college under the GI Bill. Am I still eligible for the pension benefits in addition to my veteran benefits?

A - Yes, if you have never married, and meet the income limitation of $1,800 maximum, you will be eligible for the $40 pension benefit until you reach age 23. Your GI Bill payments, in excess of the amounts expended for training, are considered income.

Q - My father has a service-connected gastritis condition which, for several years, VA rated him at 60 percent disabled. Since the condition prevents him from being employable, am I eligible for an educational allowance as a child of a disabled veteran?

A - No. The veteran must be rated by the VA as permanently and totally disabled. However, since you indicated that your father may be unemployable, he should submit proof of this fact and request his claim be reopened. If he should be rated 100 percent disabled based on individual unemployment because of his disability, you might then become eligible.

Mrs. Maurice Wright

Mrs. Lelia E. Wright, 57, of near Harrington, died Saturday at Milford Memorial Hospital after a long illness.

Born near Harrington, she was a lifelong resident of the Harrington area. She was a member of the Women's Society of Christian Service at Bethel United Methodist Church, near Harrington and attended Lincoln Tabernacle in Lincoln.

Surviving are her husband, Maurice; two sons, Ronald and Robert, both of Harrington; three daughters, Mrs. Doris Larimore of Harrington, Mrs. Janice Baker of Greenwood and Miss Sharon Wright at home; a brother, Major Brown, of Farmington; four sisters, Mrs. Blanche McKnatt and Mrs. Effie Raughley, both of Harrington, Mrs. Gertrude Hopkins of Burrsville, Md.; and Mrs. Elma Jackson, of Milford, and 11 grandchildren.

Services were held yesterday afternoon at the McKnatt Funeral Home, 50 Commerce St. Interment was in Hollywood Cemetery.

Ornamentals Important For Home Landscaping

Ornamental plants play an important role in landscaping your home. In addition to being decorative, ornamentals serve a variety of practical functions. They provide shade, screen unattractive views, help control erosion, improve the environment and separate specific areas of the property.

The first step in developing a landscape plan is to make a scale drawing of your property, says Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware. Include the exact size and location of all permanent objects — house, garage, walks and drives and divide your grounds into three areas — public, service and private.

The public area, which lies between the street and the house, should contain an open lawn area, a foundation planting to make the house blend with the rest of the landscape, and a few trees to frame the house and to provide shade. The lawn area should give an open view of the house, the center of interest in the overall plan.

Service areas include garage, driveway and any other outdoor storage or garden areas. It is well to separate this area from public areas with trees, shrubs and other plantings.

The private area may be an outdoor living room of sorts. It may contain a patio, children's play area and a large open lawn. It is usually a good idea to separate this area from public and service areas and from your neighbors. Plantings will serve as a screen and will provide shade, reduce road noise and lessen the dust and dust particles in the air.

Furniture First Aid

Besides wearing you out, holiday entertaining often leaves its mark on your furniture as wood pieces accumulate stains, even scratches.

Some blemishes are so bad only a complete refinishing job will help. Before you take that drastic step, try a few home remedies, recommends Miss Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware.

A gentle, light touch is important, too. Avoid the tendency to overdo—to rub hard, to apply a large amount of whatever you're using. Furniture first aid is one place where "elbow grease" can be a mistake. And, when you rub wood, always rub with the grain of the wood; rubbing across the grain can cause scratches.

White spots and rings are a common after-holiday problem generally caused by heat, moisture or alcohol. Success in removing them depends partly on the amount of damage and the cause.

The standard treatment for spots and rings is to rub with a thin paste of powdered pumice and oil of peppermint or clove, says Miss Morris. Apply the paste with a piece of felt or your fingertips. Clean the surface with dry cloths, and finally, wash with a cloth moistened in detergent suds.

The pumice treatment may leave a dull spot, but it can

Ornamentals Important For Home Landscaping

Perhaps one of the most difficult tasks in landscaping your home is to choose the right plant for each location, says Stevens. In general, evergreens may be used for background; screen plantings; accent plants; or, in a few cases, to frame a garden doorway. Deciduous or leafy trees are best for shading and framing the house.

Plants should be chosen for their aesthetic qualities such as form, texture and color in relation to their usefulness in the overall landscape plan. Form of a particular plant can be used to accent a certain point. Plants with upright or pyramidal forms can be used to accentuate height. Spreading forms emphasize space while weeping forms help to minimize height. Other forms, such as round or oval, hold attention in one place and keep the eye from wandering about the landscape.

Texture also plays an important role in space relationships. Coarse textured plants tend to minimize space while a fine textured plant creates an illusion of more space. Generally speaking, fine textured plants are best used in small areas; medium and coarse textured plants serve to accent design.

Approach home landscaping the same way you would approach other forms of home improvement, advises Stevens. Blend aesthetic qualities of plants into a pleasing picture — one which has unity, balance, accents and is in scale with surroundings.

be polished with a thin paste of rottenstone and oil. Both pumice and rottenstone are available at paint or hardware stores.

Cigarette or cigar ashes, table salt or rottenstone become spot removers when rubbed into the blemish with a cloth dipped in sewing machine oil, liquid shortening, olive or salad oil. After rubbing, wipe off immediately; if the spot is gone; re-wax the surface.

Holiday candles are beautiful until they drip on the furniture. To remove, harden the wax completely with an ice cube, but be careful not to let water spot the wood. Then scrape the wax carefully with a dull kitchen knife.

You can also remove wax by melting it. Cover the wax with an absorbent paper towel and touch gently and quickly with a warm (not hot!) iron. Most of the wax will be absorbed by the paper towel, and you can wipe away the rest.

Remove wax immediately because the dye from colored candles can sink into the wood finish, and it's almost impossible to remove the color.

Furniture scratches your problem? Sometimes a simple application of wax will hide the mark, Miss Morris says. First apply the wax with a clean cloth, if the scratch still shows, try waxing with 3/0 steel wool, rubbing gently with the grain; then polish. If the blemish is still evident, remove the wax by rubbing with a cloth saturated with naphtha; wipe dry with a clean cloth and try further treatment.

The oil in a piece of Brazil nut, black walnut or butternut may provide enough coloring to hide a minor scratch. Rubbing the mark with linseed oil may help, too, but don't use crude oil as this could soften the wood finish. Or try a wax stick made especially for furniture.

A paste shoe polish in a brown shade, iodine or rottenstone with oil are sometimes successful in covering scratches. Apply with a cotten-tipped swab, rubbing carefully along the scratch; then buff dry.

The success of any first aid method depends greatly on the extent of the damage, according to Miss Morris. "If the simple first aid methods don't work, call me for information on other treatments at (302) 738-2537."

Preventive measures are important for furniture health, too she adds. Wipe up spills immediately to minimize their effect on the furniture finish. Regular waxing is another protection against stain damage.

Falcons Trim Spartans 68-49

Lake Forest High's basketball quintet had a two-game winning streak snapped, by unbeaten Dover Air, at Lake Forest on Friday night. The locals had beaten Delmar and Laurel, in their last two outings.

The high-flying Falcons opened up a 10-point margin in the opening period, lost four points of that edge in the second stanza, then put the game on ice with a 24-13 bulge, in the third quarter.

Frank Sublett a transfer student poured 32 points through the nets for the winners. Driscoll tallied 11 and cross-country star, Ken Rodgers netted 10.

Ned Parsons scored a career-high 23 points to pace the Spartans, who are all even at two victories and two defeats.

Blades' Boys Belt Woodbridge

Woodbridge was unbeaten and had been averaging 50 points a game. That's a lot of points for a seventh and eighth grade team.

But the Blue Raiders were only blue when they went home. Jim Blades' Spartans overcame first half jitters (caused by playing before a full house, assembly program crowd) and blew the visitors off the court, to win 33-25.

The unbeaten locals were led by Leon Shockley, with ten points. Wayne Ernie and Russell Dill added eight markers each.

Grapplers Lose To Seaford And Dover

Inexperience at several positions is hurting Lake Forest's wrestling team. The locals were beaten by Seaford 31-23 and Dover 35-11, in their first two matches.

Frank "Skipper" O'Neal and Norman Baynard are unbeaten Spartans, at this writing. O'Neal, wrestling at 180 pounds, pinned Olson of Seaford in 3:32 and flattened Hanna of Dover in 2:35. Baynard pinned Walters of Seaford in 4:46 and outclassed Woolford of Dover 14-1.

Bruce Patten won his only start of the campaign with a 10-4 verdict over Stagg of Seaford. Mitchell Donovan pinned his Seaford opponent 3:45.

Chipman Cagers Best Caesar Rodney

W. T. Chipman's basketball team hung tough and eventually handed an excellent Caesar Rodney team a 36-30 defeat. The contest, played at Chipman last week, saw Jim Blades' boys continually battle back from deficits and take charge in the late going.

Vernon Bowers, a wiry, catlike performer, paced the locals with ten points and was all over the court like a whirling dervish. Bowers excelled in dribbling, rebounding, passing and was adept at stealing the leather from the Riders.

With their closest opponent idle in Tuesday night's action, Jarrell Fuel was handed a severe blow to their hopes of winning the second third for a wide margin as they were crushed in three games by Harrington Package.

Gerardi Bros., who was idle, could have knocked the fuelers out of the top spot if they could sweep all four games from the Spoilers Friday night. Harrington Package closed in on the leaders on their three game win as Herb Robbins came through in fine form to amass a great 539 series, and Frank Robbins chipped in with a fine effort. Had Jack the Ripper been around on Monday night he'd probably have won all the races. The fog was thick as oyster stew. After the fifth race the electronic timer was knocked out of operations; after the eighth race the tote board was barely visible and even the patrol judges, stationed along the track had a tough time finding the horses. Thrill of the night; Final Cross with Lewis Episcopo in the bike, set off at 30 to one in the soup, sliced to a $71.00 victory win. It was the Wilmington's teamster's second pari-mutuel win.

Bishopville, Md.'s Buck Gray and "2 Tar Heel" Vern Crank continue their see-saw battle for leading driver. They are tied now for dash driving honor's with 19 victori's apiece. Gray has a slight edge in the percentage standings, however.

Tug Boyd, of Edwardsville, Pa., John Childress of Harrington; Eddie Davis of Smyrna; Canada's Clement Poisson; Winston Lineweaver of Tom's Brook, Va.; Hubert Jackson of Queen Anne, Md.; and Elmer Looney of Dover make up the ten top drivers after 52 nights of harness action here.

The Downs is now averaging a mutual handle of $173,852 and attendance of 2,850 well ahead of the 42 night meeting averages for 1969.

On the track, Astrea, a five year old Star's Pride mare out of Demolou, won her third straight preferred trot with Ralph Morano up. She's owned by Mary Doolittle of Monsey, N. Y.

Veteran Frankford, teamster, Tom Lewis gave Jim Dillion his third pacing victory in a row for owners Don and Dale Milby of Cordova, Md. Pepper's Ace, a three year old Meadow Ace filly paced to her third straight under the able hands of John Childress. The little gal is owned by John Carter of Harrington.

With their closest opponent idle in Tuesday night's action, Jarrell Fuel was handed a severe blow to their hopes of winning the second third for a wide margin as they were crushed in three games by Harrington Package.

Gerardi Bros., who was idle, could have knocked the fuelers out of the top spot if they could sweep all four games from the Spoilers Friday night. Harrington Package closed in on the leaders on their three game win as Herb Robbins came through in fine form to amass a great 539 series, and Frank Robbins chipped in with a fine effort. Jarrell Fuel could not seem to get up to their capabilities

Spoilers and their opponents later this week.

Bob Taylor, with a great 553 set, including a fine 201 game, and Bob Garey, with a fine effort helped McKnatt's chances of moving up as they squeezed past Wally's Garage in three games. Larry Breeding and Wally Ryan bowled very well for the garage boys as they were able to capture one game to their credit. McKnatt's figures to be very strong in the final third as this third creeps toward its finale. The McKnatt quintet are known to be good pressure bowlers, although they are going to have to become more stable if they hope to be one of the winners this year.

People's Restaurant posted an impressive win over Quillen's Market with Frank Collins setting himself up as the man to catch in the individual series category, as he paced the restaurant boys to a three game victory. Collins scorched the boards for a superb 632 series, with great 213 and 221 games included on the way to being the top bowler of the night, leading the men in both scoring columns for Tuesday night. Shanley Smith also bowled well for Peoples. Earl Quillen and Bob Silbereisen bowled very well for the market boys as they took over one game from their competition, though they must be content to remain in the cellar spot.

Penn Central and Butler's Fuel will play catch up, as they too must yet bowl, having postponed their meeting until a later date.

in for the 1971-72 student. Members of the committee have been appointed to begin interviews leading to the selection of a family for next year. Mrs. Dill will be very happy to hear from anyone in the district of Lake Forest School who would be interested in having an exchange student next year. As the former parents have repeated many times in the past 5 years, it is an experience they would not have missed.

The next meeting of the chapter will be February 1, 8 p.m., at the high school. All citizens of the area are invited to attend.
