Walton H. Simpson, Kent County Republican Committee chairman, Monday said he will seek re-election in April.

Simpson was elected county party leader in January 1970 to fill the unexpired term of G. Wallace (Pat) Caulk, who had resigned. Many Republicans thought he would not seek re-election.

"Well it's like the old race-horse that gets in a race and it gets interesting. He wants to run again," Simpson said.

Apparently he will have no trouble keeping his post. Allen Hedgecock, who opposed Simpson last year and lost, said, "I will now support him. At this point, I am not interested in the job."

Legion & Aux. To Sponsor March of Dimes

Birth defects are the nations 2nd greatest destroyer of lives. The toll in medical bills to families in cost to society for support of institutional care is incalculable. More than 30 Harrington men and women of the American Legion and Auxiliary will be taking part in the March of Dimes campaign and householders are asked to welcome these volunteers by turning on outside lights.

March of Dimes campaign, now in its 33rd year, is the main source of support of research, treatment, educational programs aimed at combating birth defects. It provides victims with braces, physical therapy, prostheses, special medications, wheel chairs and respirators.

Senior Center News

On Tuesday, Jan. 26, members of the Center enjoyed their favorite pastime - eating. Those present each brought a covered dish and then partook of a delicious luncheon.

Despite the weather and illness of some members, over fifteen were present. The remainder of the afternoon was devoted to pleasantries and a business meeting. One matter which was settled concerned the monthly birthday party for those born during the month of February. It was decided to celebrate on Monday, Feb. 1. This very nicely coincides with Mrs. Angela Johnston's birthday as she was born the first day of the month.

Also starting another year will be Essie Redden whose day is Feb. 10; then closely following is Rev. Alfred Clark's day of Feb. 11; the next week, on Feb. 22, Lillie Sullivan will have her day; and then Viola Jacobs lays claim to Feb. 23. This is a small group but one that is very deserving of our best wishes for a healthy and happy year ahead. Come, bring a friend, and help these members celebrate. You will benefit as much as they.

One of our members, Ida Vander Borcht, is now residing at the Courtland Manor Nursing Home, Salsbury Road, Dover. She would be quite pleased to hear from her friends at the Center.

Another member, Lelia Hopkins is still a patient in the Milford Hospital. She is improving slowly and is now undergoing therapy.

Catherine, Errigo, is now at her home at 363 Mockingbird Avenue, Dover. Best wishes go to her for a speedy recovery from injuries suffered in an accident the first of January.

It was good to hear that our director, Angela Johnston, has been given a more encouraging health report even though she is under the doctor's care. All members are wishing her well.

Ira Tatman Death Revealed In Letter

5707 Cameford Ave.
Hollywood, Calif. 90038
Jan. 20, 1971

Dear Carrington:

I am sorry to have to report the death of Ira Tatman a former Harringtonian who has been living his retiring years at 1478 North Coolidge Ave., Pasadena, Calif. He was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Pasadena in a coma and never came out of it. He passed away this morning. Had he lived until tomorrow he would have been 76 years old. He leaves his wife, Zillah, 2 sons James C. who lives in Georgia, John Land and daughter, Mrs. Winifred Riggs both of whom reside in Pasadena. He also had 8 grandchildren. He was a mailman in Wilmington Delaware until his retirement. Services will be held Friday, Jan. 22 at Mountain View Mortuary Chapel, Pasadena. Ira probably has relatives still living in Delaware of whom I have lost track. I expect to attend his services.

A side note: about 7 or 8 years ago I received a phone call from Ira whom I hadn't heard of in 50 years. His first words were "My name is Ira Tatman, John. I am sure you don't remember me." I told him I once knew a tall red headed young man who lived near Harrington, Delaware. He said, "That's me! We have kept in touch with each other ever since."

I am sorry Carrington, I haven't had the time to drop you a few lines as I "desert" do but it is now "useless time" out here and that means Eileen and I spend most of our time at our winter retreat in Palm Springs where our affable vice president, Mr. Agnew, and an affected singer, Mr. Sina'ra, dedicated a hospital wing last weekend. However, I think your printings of my last letter to you may have started some good for your fair city. Remember, I mentioned the wooden fire trap buildings that should be torn down - Right after

State Policeman Preston Beauchamp presented a worthwhile talk and display on drugs at the annual Harrington Sunshine 4-H Club Parent's Banquet held at St. 11, with over 80 persons attending. Mr. Beauchamp's interesting display included samples of drugs which were actually taken from arrests made in Delaware.

Trp. I. C. Beauchamp pointed out that, although many think marijuana is not habit forming, "85% to 90% of all heroin addicts started on marijuana. Is there a connection? We'll leave this answer to you." He also stressed that "the misuse of drugs can sometimes cause you to become a vegetable, unable to attend 4-H meetings and normal activities."

Warning Device Turns on at Bank

The First National Bank was in the spotlight Friday evening when a detection device accidentally went off.

The device, a sensitive one, makes no sound but is connected with the state police.

The appearance of state and local police at the bank attracted a number of the usual Friday night shoppers.

The warning device is connected to state police headquarters which, if contacted, get in touch with local police, said Chief of Police Franklin Rogers. The appearance of state police Friday night was attributed by the chief to the presence nearby of a patrol car.

No reason has been advanced for the triggering of the warning system.

Laundry Care Cuts Sniffles

Disinfecting your laundry can help keep winter colds and infections from spreading through your family.

Reducing the number of bacteria in fabrics to a safe level can be done inexpensively, safely and easily, according to Miss Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware.

Four basic types of disinfectants meet all requirements for effectiveness, safety, low cost and availability. If you can use liquid chlorine bleach on the fabric, it will do a good job of sanitizing. However, chlorine bleach is not recommended for wool, silk, spandex, most permanent fabrics and certain colors.

For recommended fabrics, add the same amount of bleach for disinfecting that is listed on the label for bleaching. Add it to the wash water, before you put in the clothes, if possible, or dilute with a quart of water first.

Quaternary disinfectants are odorless and colorless; they can be used with hot, warm or cold water rinses. Add at the beginning of the rinse cycle, says Miss Morris. Available at janitor's supply houses, these products have "benzalkonium chloride" on the label.

Use as the label directs. Or, add a half-cup to rinse water in a top-loading machine; six tablespoons will be enough for a front-loading machine.

Pine oil disinfectants should be used only with hot or warm water laundering. Check the label to be sure the bottle contains at least 80 percent pine oil. Again, add to the wash water before putting in the clothes.

Phenolic sanitizers are available at most supermarkets; they should contain at least three percent active ingredients. Add to either the wash or rinse water; use one cup for a top-loading machine or 10 tablespoons for a front-loading machine.

No matter which disinfectant you use, read the label carefully and follow all directions, cautions Miss Morris. Measure accurately; too much sanitizer could discolor clothes or leave a harmful residue.

Sanitize the washing machine occasionally, too, she recommends. This will kill bacteria living on the inside. Pour a disinfectant into the empty machine; then complete a 15-minute cycle with hot water.

Also, sort dirty clothes and clean clothes at different times and at different places. Don't shake dirty clothes near clean laundry; shaking releases bacteria which settle on anything nearby.

Cover canvas-bottomed carts with clean paper or plastic before loading them with clean laundry. Such precautions are especially important if you have wash-day facilities either in an apartment complex or at a coin-op laundry.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Holberton

February is a kind of Johnny-come-lately as months go, for it was the last month added to the old Roman calendar. Named after Februus, the Roman feast of purification which was celebrated at this time, February is the month that gets the extra day in Leap Year. As the last month of the Roman year, one day was added to it every fourth year to compensate for the one-fourth extra day in each year. Years whose dates are divisible by four are Leap Years, with the exception of the century years.

Although it is still a month of wintery cold, you can bring a breath of spring to February. As soon as forsythia, magnolia or flowering quince buds begin to swell, bring the cut branches inside for forcing. Stand them in a deep vase with plenty of water at room temperature, perhaps near the radiator. It will take about ten days for the stalks to blossom out.

The first spring flowers may soften the effects that the recent cold weather has had on our food supplies. Marketing of hogs has been slowed down, and these reduced receipts have resulted in slightly higher wholesale prices. This means that the number of pre-planned features which are available this week are exceptionally good values. Pork loins, butts, bacon and sausage are all selling at fairly low prices. Canned ham prices remain unchanged while smoked hams are a bit lower in price.

Cold weather in Iowa and Nebraska has sent wholesale beef prices up, but as yet prices remain unchanged at most local markets. Be sure to check rib roast chuck cuts and ground beef for the best buys.

A few stores will feature lamb and veal prices remain unchanged to slightly higher. Broiler-fryers remain good buys right now but a change could occur overnight due to strikes. Egg prices remain steady to slightly higher. Right now there is less difference in price between large and medium size eggs of the same grade.

Winter vegetables in good supply are white and sweet potatoes, dry onions, winter cabbage and carrots. This may be the time to turn to canned and frozen vegetables to add variety to your menu.

The deep freeze in Florida has made the growers curtail shipments of oranges for a week until they determine the exact damage that has been done. It will be when supplies get short that prices will go up; in fact in some stores they are edging up now. Other fruits to check are grapefruit, bananas and apples.

On the plentiful foods list for February are oranges and orange juice, grapefruit, and grapefruit juice, apples, onions, pork, broiler-fryers and peanuts and peanut products.

Veteran's Administration News

Leon Fields, director of the Wilmington, Veterans Administration Regional Office, since July 1968, has been reassigned as director of the Providence, R.I., VA Regional Office.

Mr. Fields entered federal service in 1922 with the Department of Agriculture, transferred to the Department of Commerce in 1925 and returned to the VA in 1946. He was VA administrative officer in Seattle, Boise and Newark before being transferred to Wilmington in 1958.

He served in the Army from 1935 and 1937 and again from 1940 to 1946, attaining the rank of colonel. He is married and has three children.

The effective date of reassignment of Mr. Fields is January 24.

The Veterans Administration announced Jan. 21, that 12,000 Delaware veterans holding World War I and World War II insurance policies will receive $828,300 in dividends this year.

Leon Fields, director of the Wilmington VA regional office said these dividends are part of a record $275 million in annual dividends. Administrator of Veterans Affairs, Donald E. Johnson approved for distribution in 1971.

The VA official stressed that since payment of dividends will be automatic, veterans need not write to the VA to receive payment. Veterans who have instructed VA to retain their dividends will receive appropriate statements, he advised.

Mr. Fields explained that the amount of dividend a veteran receives depends on such factors as the plan of insurance, age of the insured, age of the policy and its face value.

Outstanding Communicator To Be Named At Farm Press Session

An outstanding agricultural communicator will be named in ceremonies at the 4th Delaware Farm Press Institute to be held March 17 in Dover. A special award will go to the person who, in the eyes of a judging panel, has done the most to "tell agriculture's story to the citizens of Delaware."

Nominations for the honor are not limited to professional communicators or people working within the state. It was the feeling of the awards committee that anyone who is involved in communicating with the non-farm public about agriculture is eligible as long as Delaware is included in the person's efforts.

Anyone wishing to nominate a candidate should submit the name and supporting information to the Agricultural Editor's Office, University of Delaware, Newark 19711.

Overall theme of the Farm Press Institute will be "Media Looks At Agriculture." The day-long program includes the report of a survey of media attitudes, a roundtable discussion on agriculture - press relations and information on successful farm related media programs in other areas.

Keynote speaker will be Glen Hofer, executive vice president of the National Federation of Grain Cooperatives. He is also a member of the advisory board of the National Educational Institute for Agriculture, a newly formed association dedicated to improving agriculture's image. The annual meeting is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Delaware, and is aimed at farm organization leaders and professional agriculturalists working in Delaware.

WILBUR JUMP REMINISCES

Wilbur Jump, 83, of Houston, wonders what has happened to Harrington's main street. We told him the businesses were still here, for the most part, but they had moved elsewhere in and near the community.

The octogenarian then wanted to know who had done the most for the community over the years. We had several candidates, which he denied, but we agreed on the late Horace Quillen.

Head of a firm which sold pilings, Quillen was a dedicated person who built the shopping center. Generally unknown, for he was a modest man, was that he lent money for scholarships and he began this practice in the 20's.

Jump was principal of Harrington School from 1910 to 1915, he said. He commented things "were rough" when he took over but he soon straightened them out.

His strict discipline soon made him unpopular. "Dr. B. L. Lewis, a school board member, was heard to comment at Buzzards Corner (at the intersection of Commerce and Clark Streets) I wouldn't last six months," Jump pointed out. Roger LeCompte, the school's janitor overheard him and told the principal. "Cut me a bunch of hickory switches," Jump told him.

"The boys formerly ran from the principal when he called them. One ran from me and I caught him nearly uptown and carried him back to school on my shoulder," Jump grinned.

He had no more trouble and stayed five years then he went to Caesar Rodney.

Those were the days when the principal had to be able to punish the pupils if he wanted their respect. A chastisement in school meant one at home, according to the late Lewis Clymer.

We once read where a teacher in Milford Neck, we will call him Hynson, told of his first day at a country school. "I picked out the biggest boy in the class, took off my coat and we went at it," he said. No trouble in that school. But this Hynson was energetic. He would walk to Camden to see his lady friend.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

We want to express deep sympathy to the families of the five Dover men lost in the tragic plane accident.

MAY THEY REST IN PEACE

Like all disasters, unexpected,
 They were called without a warning
 Just a crash and all was over
 And the rest of us were mourning.

They were called and answered roll call,
 Yet not one need be ashamed
 To present to Him their Maker,
 Souls from bodies that were maimed.

Their lives were all examples
 Of the lives we all should lead,
 So our end, though unexpected,
 Finds us following His Creed.

IRA TATMAN

you printed my letter I noticed in one or two of your Sept. issues that several of the century old eye sores were being leveled including cousin Booker's old hardware store thanks to the late, great, Ful'on Downing. His passing will be felt by an awful lot of Delawareans, I am sure. I wasn't very proud of your City Council the way they disgraced their Chief of Police last October. After firing him they had the gall to offer him a "fuzz's" job. If he wasn't "efficient" enough to fill the chief's position they must have had a damn guilty "conscience" in throwing Mr. Rogers a "bone". Congratulations to your Fifth Ward Councilman for voting against the demotion. He sounds like good mayoralty timber. But maybe it wouldn't be good business for one Satterfield to run against another Satterfield. Think I better stop castigating your politicians or they may run me out of town the next time I pay a visit to your fair city.

kindest Regards
 John Harrington

P. S. Do you remember when our baseball team was run out of town by the Smyrna team and fans?

Women of Moose Have Many Activities

The women of the Moose Harrington Chapter 1229 have been very active in their activities.

They had a childrens Christmas party for about 150 children with gifts to entertainment and refreshments.

On January 17th they had their 20th anniversary dinner. The attendance was slightly lower because of the snow and freezing rain. There were guests from other lodges. The members and guests totaled 100.

The Harrington Chapter has been chosen as top chapter in our district. This honor is based on most new members and activities. We are in the planning process of making arrangements for a bus trip to Washington to take part in the convention on Feb. 27. We would like all officers, chairmen to go and members to go if they so desire.

Senior Regent Helen Dean is asking her officers and chairmen to make this trip. Jr. Regent Madeline Carter will take part in the convention on Friday.

Date of the Moose meeting will be Thursday, Jan. 28.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield By-Laws Changed

The by-laws of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Delaware has been changed to put the public members in the majority on the board of trustees.

For the first time there will be 11 representatives of the public side of the Medical Society of Delaware and four of the Delaware hospitals on the 21-member board which governs policy for the non-profit community organization providing payment for health care expenses.

The present board has two vacancies left by the recent death, in an airplane accident, of James G. Smith Jr., and Dr. James M. Chase both of Dover. Smith was a public member and Dr. Chase was a representative of the Medical Society.

Six new members of the board of trustees were welcomed by J. Sellars Bancroft, president. They are Robert P. Barnett, a vice president of Atlas Chemical Industries; John P. Durkin, assistant treasurer of Hercules Incorporated; Dr. David Platt of Wilmington; Dr. John H. Bengel of near Wilmington; Dr. C. E. Graybeal of Milford; and Harry W. Lynch Jr., of Rehoboth Beach.

Durkin represents the public; the three physicians are among the Medical Society representatives; Barnett is a representative of the Wilmington Medical Center and Lynch represents the hospitals of Kent and Sussex Counties.

Bancroft was re-elected president at the board meeting. A retired officer of the Wilmington Trust Company, he is a public representative of the board. He served for eight years on the board before being elected president in 1962.

Gene Derrickson, International Representative of the Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, and a public member of the board was re-elected as vice president. Henry M. Canby, a Wilmington attorney, who is a hospital representative on the board was re-elected as secretary. Durkin, a third public member among the officers, was elected treasurer.

In addition to the four officers, the following additional appointments to the executive committee were announced: William F. McGowan, assistant director of the Dupont Company's employee relations department, who is a public member, Henry D. Sipple, of Rehoboth Beach, a public member; and Dr. Alfred Lazarus of Wilmington, a Medical Society representative.

Bancroft praised the service of Dr. H. Thomas McGuire who retired from the board after twenty years.

C. H. Taber, managing director, reported to the board that the average bill paid by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Delaware for in-patient hospital care went up 21.7 per cent in 1970. The average bill was $567 last year, as compared with $466 the year before.

He said about two-thirds of the increase was due to boosts in hospital charges. The rest was attributed to improvements of benefits and changes in the Blue Cross contract with participating hospitals.

There was also an impressive increase in the number of claims processed in 1970, Taber said, giving the trustees year-end figures on several subjects. Claims processed last year amounted to 532,388 and this was a leap of 26.8 per cent, he reported.

The big boost in claims processed was mainly due to broader coverage provided in contracts many members have. Coverage was increased with new benefits applying to more out-patient services, in the "comprehensive" contracts introduced last year.

While claims rose greatly, membership increased moderately in 1970, Taber reported. Blue Cross membership gained 15,637 in the year, to reach 398,043 for a gain of 4.1 per cent. Gains of 4.4 per cent were recorded in the Blue Cross surgical-medical plan, and 5.8 per cent in extended benefits coverage.

Under the current contract with the participating hospitals, Blue Cross pays its share of the charity expenses of the hospitals. Taber told the trustees that about 10 per cent of payments to member hospitals by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Delaware represent payments for charity.

Because of higher hospital charges that went into effect in October, the Blue Cross Plan ended the year with a loss, Taber reported. He said that in case of groups whose membership rates are not based on their own experience, the loss will continue until March 1, when new community rates go into effect.

Utilization of hospital care by members increased in 1970 and so did the average length of stay and the average Blue Cross payment per in-hospital patient. The length of stay in acute hospitals alone decreased slightly.

Taber also reported that the trend toward more out-patient cases continued last year. "In 1970 for every in-patient case, we covered two out-patient cases," he said. It is due primarily to increased coverage for out-patient services.

FENCE TALK

Lightning is a mysterious and frightening thing to many people. However, if certain precautions are taken this natural phenomenon can be relatively harmless. The one fact that most people do not realize is that without lightning plant life would probably not exist on earth.

To further explain, out atmosphere is 80% nitrogen, and nitrogen is an essential plant food. However this element is not available to most plants in its atmospheric state. With occurrence of thunderstorms, nitrogen undergoes a series of reactions caused by the heat from lightning.

The air is made white hot and this stimulates nitrogen to combine with oxygen to form nitrogen oxides, which are soluble in water. This is carried by the rain down to the earth where it reacts with the soil minerals and forms nitrates. This form of nitrogen then can be absorbed by plant roots and help the plant to sustain life. This is not the only way natural occurring nitrogen is made available to plants, but this process is essential.

Now, let us talk a little about protection form this useful creature. Most homes, buildings, and silos are susceptible to lightning damage. This can be solved, very easily, by a properly designed lightning rod system. This is not old fashioned either, as many people may think; even the rocket launching gantries at Cape Kennedy have them. Weather specialists tell us that a large barn is due to be struck once every five to eight years.

We must caution you about the GYP artists. You can depend on lightning rod systems approved by Underwriters Laboratories.

Here are a few hints to keep in mind during a thunderstorm. Stay indoors if possible; do not seek shelter under a tree unless surrounded by them; and if you are operating a tractor pulling equipment that is grounded, stop and get off as soon as possible. Stay out of water and small boats; do not use electrical appliances or the telephone during storms; and stay in your car or pickup if traveling.

If you would like to have more information on lightning and lightning rod systems, call 736-1448 or write P.O. Box 340, Dover.

Is college worth it if you plan to farm? Many young men today in FFA and 4-H do not feel they need the benefit of a college education if they are going to farm. Agri-business is today's word for modern farming. The ability to work "smarter, not harder" is necessary in order to keep up with the increasing tempo of modern agricultural technology.

Large Capital investments in excess of $100,000 are needed to make a worthwhile return and it requires a high degree of money management. With the slim margin of profits in agriculture today, one mistake can be disastrous.

Why study ag engineering? You'll get acquainted with mathematics and engineering principles to help you to make decisions.

Why study animal husbandry? Besides learning nutrient balance, you will understand future trading, genetics and heritability selection. These things alone can mean at least a 20% increase in efficiency.

Why study agronomy? To be successful in growing crops, you must understand plant's, hybrids, seed production, fertilizers, pesticides, and herbicides. These things are constantly changing and it takes a lot of up-to-date scientific knowledge to keep up.

Why study economics? You will get acquainted with things like diminishing returns, profitable enterprise selection, record keeping, marketing, leasing and credit.

Why study sociology? Leadership potential in agricultural people can be developed through an understanding of group structures and processes.

A college education will enable you to get the big picture of things that are happening in the world. It will be an investment that will pay you dividends the rest of your life.

It Seams To Me

Janet Reed

Pucker power? Some fabrics really have it. Why do seams on some fabrics seem to pucker more than others?

Puckering is most likely to happen on firm, closely woven fabrics, on soft woven sheers and on woven fabrics with special finishes such as permanent press. In other words, on fabrics which have a relatively small amount of "give," says Miss Janet Reed, extension clothing and textiles specialist at the University of Delaware. It also is likely to happen when you stitch on lengthwise grain rather than crosswise or bias grain.

If one or both of the thread tensions of the sewing machine are too tight, you'll have puckering on any fabric. The choice of thread and how you handle fabric as it is sewn will also make a difference.

How do you overcome pucker power? We have a lot in our fabric these days. The popular knit fabrics are less likely to pucker; we have threads with greater elasticity and more resistance to shrinkage; and fashion is showing more bias cut skirts along with straight lines. But if you are still bothered with this annoying problem, these suggestions may help.

Use a polyester or polyester core thread to help overcome the shrinkage problem, Miss Reed suggests. This thread is best used on fabrics which require no ironing or low ironing temperatures. Always test stitch on a piece of the fabric you expect to use.

Stitch and put the swatch aside for a while, if possible, to see if the thread relaxes and puckers.

If you have been conditioned to avoid touching the machine tensions, you may have to take yourself firmly in hand and learn to loosen that tension. Most of the newer machines make it easy for you. You may be able to control the puckering by loosening only the upper tension, but if loosening both tensions is necessary, follow the advice in the instruction book of your machine.

If you have to make a choice of an unbalanced stitch or seam pucker, choose whatever gives the best appearance. If the machine's stitch doesn't look good, you wouldn't want to use it for top stitching, but top stitching would be a poor choice anyway for a fabric likely to pucker.

Stitch with long machine stitches—8 to 10 per inch, and use as small a needle as the thread allows. Modern fabric dull machine needles quickly, and needles may need frequent replacement.

Try to sew at a moderate and even speed. Change of speed and rapid stitching are more apt to cause puckering. As you sew, place one hand in front of the presser foot and one behind and exert slight pressure or tension on the fabric as it feeds through sewing machine.

The needle hole should be small. Use the straight stitch throat plate instead of the all purpose or zig-zag plate if your machine has both. Even a small piece of gummed tape over the needle hole will be a help.

As a last resort you may have to sew over tissue paper, but I hope you can avoid that nuisance.

If someone says "pucker up" to you, I hope they aren't talking about your sewing.

1971 All America Selections

Home gardeners are reminded to watch for All America Selections when ordering this year's flower seeds. These flowers are easy to grow and will provide a mass of color all season long, says Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

All America Selections are determined on the basis of trials at various locations in the United States and Canada. Only the top varieties are selected for special recognition.

Five new flowers have been introduced as 1971 All America winners. But order your seed early to assure getting the ones you want, says Stevens.

A pair of zinnias, Peter Pan Plum with lavender-rose color, and Peter Pan Pink with salmon-pink blooms, have been named gold medal winners. These zinnias produce three to four inch double flowers on 12 to 14 inch plants.

The Peter Pan zinnias may be planted directly in the garden or started indoors for earlier blooms. Stevens points out that these new zinnias make an excellent border planting.

Try the new Southern Belle hibiscus if you want large flowers 8 to 10 inches in diameter on a five to six foot plant. Although it's a perennial, you can have Southern Belle bloom this year by planting indoors and transplanting later in the spring.

Stevens also recommends Little Darling snapdragons. This variety grows to a height of 12 inches and produces open throat or cup-shaped flowers. Little Darling will withstand a windy location and is good for border plantings or flower arrangements.

An unusual selection for 1971 is the Silver Puffs hollyhock. The first dwarf hollyhock, it grows to a height of about two feet and produces silver pink double flowers. Silver Puffs should also be started inside for first year blooms, says Steven.

For youngsters 9 to 14, a Welsh pony may serve the purpose. The Welsh are taller and a little more spirited than the Shetland. A registered Welsh pony can cost more than $300, points out Krauss.

Young riders also like to be completely outfitted. The saddle and bridle for a pony may cost as much as $75 and pony carts cost around $100.

But for the youngster who does have a horse, Krauss points out that the 4-H program offers some of the best training available. This year, more than 5,000 boys and girls throughout the United States will participate in the program. These club members will have an opportunity to learn the proper care, management and training of their animal in addition to developing better riding skills.

Encourage Birds By Winter Feeding

The presence of birds can bring life and interest to your garden during dreary days. And one of the best ways to invite "feathered guests" to the garden is to offer them feed, says David V. Tatnall, extension garden specialist at the University of Delaware.

A wide selection of bird feeders is available, but the most common feeder is a tray with a hopper from which the seed is dispensed automatically, he explains. All feeders, however, should look natural and have a simple design. Rough, untreated surfaces are best. And the feeders should be protected from marauding cats and squirrels.

A plentiful and well-balanced supply of food is important for birds. Tatnall says beef suet and peanut butter are favorite feeds of chickadees, woodpeckers and other insect eating birds. Like sparrows, bluejays, and cardinals, enjoy various seeds including sunflower, hemp and millet. Seed may be obtained in commercially prepared feed or gathered from garden or roadside plants. Drinking water and grit should also be available. Trees and shrubs can also provide extra bird feed during the winter, says Tatnall. Cotoneasters, crab-apples, viburnums, hollies and hawthorns are only a few of the plants that supply fruits for wildlife. And large conifers, such as spruce and hemlock, offer both food and shelter.
