

Hearing Explains School's Referendum For Saturday

Some 50 voters will be better informed when they go to ballot Saturday to provide $410,000, the share of the Lake Forest School District in a $1,025,000 major capital improvement project, of which the state would provide $615,000.

Meeting in the gymnasium of the high school, a symposium lasted about two hours with the event adjourning in peace and harmony.

Roughly speaking, the tax rate and need for the program were explained. It was revealed the buildings proposed would be adequate until 1977 unless industry and housing developments came in.

If the referendum passes, it was revealed the tax on real estate would go from $1 per $100 to $1.13 with a capitation tax up $2 to $17.

A news release from the school board was distributed to those attending and proceeded, in part, as follows.

"This program consists of construction of ten classrooms at the South Elementary School on West Street, Harrington; a multi-purpose room at the Dorman Street Elementary School, Harrington, and eight elementary classrooms in Frederica.

"These rooms in Frederica will enable the district to do away with the present portable classrooms in use at that location. In addition, the board is asking approval for a central administrative office building to be constructed at the site of the Lake Forest High School. Questions arising in the public seem to be primarily concerned with this administrative building, and therefore the board submits the following facts for the public's consideration.

"Personnel in the Lake Forest Central administrative office consists of the superintendent, the administrative assistant for finance (deputy superintendent), the administrative assistant for major and minor capital improvements, the supervisor of instruction, the supervisor of buildings and grounds, the supervisor of cafeterias, the psychologist, the speech and hearing therapist, the reading specialist, the supervisor of transportation (part time), the visiting teacher (part time), and six secretaries.

"The supervisor of buildings and grounds is responsible for the maintenance and upkeep of seven buildings and supervises 27 custodians.

"The supervisor of cafeterias will be responsible for the co-ordination of five cafeterias and the work of 34 cafeteria employees.

"It might be of interest to note at the present time there are 299 persons employed by the Lake Forest District under the management of the central office. Total disbursements in the district during

New Century Club Notes

The Harrington New Century Club met at the Club House April 27 at 8 p.m. The president, Mrs. Winkler, opened the meeting. The treasurer reported we had 60 members this year.

Our routine business was then carried on, which included assessment and insurance. The school has asked if we will take care of the cake booth at the May mart. All of our club members are asked to give cake, cup cakes or pie. Please have these at the Chipman School by 10:30 Mrs. John Curtis and Mrs. George Mahony will help this morning.

We were all asked to make a collection of our rummage, as we will have a rummage sale in the fall. The convention will be Thurs. May 20. Mrs. Curtis and Mrs. Derrickson, delegates.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Roberts who installed five directors. Delicious refreshments were then served and we will be looking forward to meeting together next fall.

the 1969-70 school year which passed through the central office totaled $2,910,595.78.

"At the present time Albert W. Adams, Dr. Howard Henry, and Melvin Luff and five secretaries occupy the area of the old Harrington district superintendent's office. Other central office personnel occupy the work room of the library, a small conference room, a portion of the nurse's office, and the South Elementary principal's office. No suitable area has yet been found for the supervisor of cafeterias who will not report in September. As a result of the need of office space for the above mentioned personnel, the South Elementary School principal and the vice-principal of the Chipman School do not have adequate working space.

"The board feels it might also be of interest to know that the portion of the overall tax increase to provide the necessary administration offices at the Lake Forest High School site would amount to less than 2 1/2c or 25c per $1,000 of assessed valuation."

Voting will be from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. E.S.T. at the schools at Felton, Frederica and the elementary school on Dorman street, Harrington.

5 Will Battle For Lake Forest Board Posts

Five aspirants will tangle Saturday for a single post on the Lake Forest Board of Education. Term of office will be five years.

Each year two persons drop off the board with only one to be replaced. This, the result of the consolidation of the school districts of Harrington, Felton and Frederica, will cause the board to eventually have only five members, the same as heretofore. Outgoing members this year are Mrs. Edna Gruwell, Harrington and Medford Killen, Felton. The election will be a 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Eastern Standard Time. Voters will call at Lake Forest Elementary School South (Dorman Street) Harrington, Lake Forest West Elementary School, Felton, and Lake Forest Elementary School East, Frederica.

The candidates are Vincent P. Arkins, 36, of 8-10 David St., Frederica; Donald LeRoy Garey Sr., 29, of 210 Harrington Ave., Harrington; Oscar Bishop, Jr., 38, of Felton; Mrs. Sarah J. Shelman, of Felton, and William J. Walls, 51, Wheeler's Park Road, Harrington.

Born in Easton, Md., Walls has been a resident of this area 25 years. A graduate of Ridgely (Md.) High School, he is a veteran of World War II, a member of Asbury Methodist Church, and an employee at Dover Air Base.

He is the father of four children, two of whom are alumni of the University of Delaware, one at sophomore at Wesley College, and the last a student at Lake Forest High School.

He comments the school district needs pulling together as one.

Arkins is a salesman and the father of six children, three of whom go to school in the district.

He has attended the Bryant College of Business Administration in Providence, R.I., the Delaware Technical and Community College, southern branch; West Chester State College, West Chester, Pa.; and Temple University in Philadelphia.

Arkins is a member of St. Johns Church in Milford.

Garey is employed by the General Foods Corp. in Dover and is the father of two children. One of them goes to school in the district.

He is a graduate of Harrington High School and has one year of college at the Wesley College night school.

Garey is a member of the board of trustees of the Asbury United Methodist Church and a past president of Methodist men at the church. He has also held various offices in the Harrington Junior Chamber of Commerce and is an officer on the board of directors of the Delmarva Data Processing Association.

Bishop is the father of three children attending district schools. Bishop is employed as a mechanic at Taylor & Messick Inc. of Harrington.

He is a former board member of Dover Southern States Petroleum Cooperative, Inc., and is a member of Felton Volunteer Fire Company and Ambulance Squad, the Lake Forest Band Boosters Association, the Delaware Production Credit Association and the Felton United Methodist Church.

He is a graduate of the Greensboro, Md., High School. Mrs. Shelman has thrown her hat into the Lake Forest ring because she believes "there should be at least one female on the board."

Mrs. Shelman, mother of seven children, of whom two are still in the district schools, stresses that her decision to run for the board is in no way connected to the women's liberation movement or any desire to take over the male role.

If elected, Mrs. Shelman's membership will retain the same male-female ratio that presently exists on the board nine men and one woman.

Asked for her views on the upcoming referendum, the lone woman candidate, who is secretary to the probation officers of family court, replied, "To build classrooms, you've got to have money." As for the proposed administration building, she is still undecided.

AFS Fair To Be Held May 13

"I do declare, I will be there" — so states a poster heralding the AFS May Fair to be held on Thursday, May 13 beginning at 11 o'clock. It is hoped that many of the youngsters from the Lake Forest Elementary School and the W. T. Chipman Junior School will declare likewise.

The fair, which is a fund raising project of the Lake Forest American Field Service, will be a joint effort of several groups. Spearheaded by Mrs. Leon Kukulka, the officers and members of the local chapter have made the plans and served as various area chairmen. The high school students from Lake Forest AFS Club have also shared in the plans by soliciting cupcakes, candy and items for the white elephant booth.

Because the purpose of AFS is to support a foreign exchange student for the district, or to send a local student abroad, other civic groups have offered their help in manning some of the booths. The Harrington New Century Club, Moose, Senior Citizen's Center, American Legion Auxiliary and Lions Club will be assisting in several ways.

Fire Company News

The Harrington Volunteer firemen responded to only one fire this week, a pickup truck belonging to Daniel Smith caught fire in front of the pool hall because of a fuel leak. This alarm was at 8:50 p.m., Saturday.

With today's synthetics it is not safe for firemen to enter a burning house without an air mask. So with this in mind, April 1 an 8 cu. ft. per minute air compressor was put into service. This air compressor was purchased from Mayco Engineering of Miami, Fla., for $1,675.00.

In the past there has been a problem filling air bottles on weekends and it was quite expensive for air mask training.

We were close by the glass in closed reserved seats where the spectators pay $1600 per seat. This is where the presidents observe the races.

In the afternoon we went on to see where a hundred or more breeding horses are kept. Here is where Man O' War was born and died, but never raced there. We were close to the monument where the burial took place.

The youth group of the local Wesleyan Church shared with the guests of the Country Rest Home a portion of their recent talent program and dramatized for the always appreciative group "The Ten Virgins."

On Saturday, the entire group accompanied by a number of parents, went by bus to St. Michael's, Md., and visited the museum, the lighthouse and the famous lightship of former years.

They took an hour and a half boat ride on "The Patriot" to see the many interesting points along the Miles River.

The town of St. Michael's, Md., a famous shipbuilding center of revolutionary days became noted at that time when the British were trying to destroy all such marine centers. As the British vessels were coming up the river toward the little town, the residents were instructed by their leader to put out all lights in their homes and hang lanterns up in the trees to give the appearance of a hill. In the shelling that ensued not a house was demolished, but a cannonball which came through a window is still preserved as a prize relic.

Recycling Plant Being Built

One of the main resources of tomorrow may be solid waste. It is the only resource that continues to increase, according to William H. Gardner, manager of solid waste reclamation, Hercules, Inc.

During a recent presentation at the regional meeting of the American Association of Agricultural College Editors in Newark, Gardner outlined his company's plans for establishing a solid waste recycling plant.

Hercules, under contract with the state, intends to have a recycling plant in operation by January of 1973. The plant will be located at Pigeon's Plant near the Delaware Memorial Bridge.

When completed, the plant will recycle 500 tons of refuse per day along with 70 tons of sewage sludge. This will take care of half of the total waste generated in New Castle County. Eventually, the plant will be expanded to handle up to 1,000 tons of waste material per day.

In explaining Hercules' plans Gardner said, "Our interest is not necessarily to take paper and make more paper, but to take this paper and convert it into other usable materials. This is the type of research we have been doing, and this is where we think our future is."

Before solid waste yields useful products, the material must go through a complex recycling process. First, household and industrial waste will be dumped at the plant where tin cans will be separated electromagnetically. The rest of the garbage will be ground through a giant shredder and the remainder of the glass and metal removed.

Sewage sludge will be added to the ground garbage to increase the moisture content of the refuse and to add nitrogen to the humus—one of the main products of the recycling process.

The remaining inorganic materials such as rubber and plastic bags are separated and sent through pyrolysis—a destructive distillation step. Carbon, hydrocarbon, gases, oils and tars result.

Hercules hopes to upgrade many of the by-products of the recycling process for commercial use. Some possibilities include activated carbon for filters and industrial fuel to run the recycling plant.

The humus produced can be used as a soil conditioner and possibly as a feed for animals.

Lake Forest School Board Candidate

Oscar Bishop, Jr., age 38 years, a resident of the Felton area for the past 17 years. He is graduate of Greensboro, Maryland High School, married and the father of three children attending the district schools, grades 1, 9 & 11. He is employed as a mechanic at Taylor & Messick, Inc., of Harrington, Delaware. He is a former board member of Dover Southern States Petroleum Cooperative, Inc., and at present a member of the Fire Company & Ambulance Squad, Lake Forest Band Boosters Association, and Felton Methodist Church.

I would like to become a member of the Lake Forest School Board because I am a concerned parent, an interested property owner and taxpayer. I feel I could represent our combined communities with responsible judgement on current and future issues of the district. I am in favor of additional classrooms where proven necessary, more up-to-date textbooks, adequate instructional supplies, and well qualified (settled) teachers, to assure the children the best quality of education. I can not support an administrative building until the above mentioned can be first justified.

Your support would be appreciated and I will endeavor to represent YOU.

Mrs. Fears was attired in a light blue lace-effect knit dress coat, and hat and carried a white orchid atop a Bible covered in the same material; while Mrs. Bailey wore a blue and white ensemble styled similarly to the bride's, both of which were designed and fashioned by the bride. She carried a nosegay of blue and white mixed flowers.

A small reception immediately followed the ceremony at Mario's Restaurant in Ocean City. Following short wedding trip, the couple is now at home in Ocean City where Mr. Fears is a building contractor and his wife is in speciality advertising.

The only waste product from this entire recycling process will be sand and grit which Gardner says could be used for landfill.

With the exception of when the garbage is first dumped, the entire recycling process will be odor free and sanitary. Bacteria will be killed by high temperatures.

With regard to public reaction Gardner said "Most people are enthused about the recycling plant—maybe too enthused. It's not an answer to everything. For example, if you were to recycle everything in garbage, you would put a lot of industries out of business."

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

"YOU GO TO YOUR CHURCH AND I'LL GO TO MINE"

Men have persecuted their fellows for differences in belief. But no man ever mounted to heaven on objects he placed in the road of others—So!

If, kneeling at your mother's knee
 You learned a faith that keeps you strong,
 No effort shall be made by me
 To prove that your belief is wrong.

If your way leads to heaven, proceed,
 Nor any of your hopes resign.
 I have no doubt that there, indeed,
 Are many other ways than mine.

Jarrell Fuel Wins Local Bowling League Championship

Last Monday night saw Gerardi Bros. go against tough Spoilers in the start of the round-robin battle of champs. When the dust had settled, the Spoilers had a big four game win over their opponents. Ken Layton rolled a great 564 series, including a fine 201 game and LeRoy Wheeler hit a fine 200 game and a great 555 series, and Don Jester rolled a fine 206 game, with John Forbes adding a great series effort for the losing furniture boys. The Spoiler's Jack Sapp recorded a grand 570 series as he led the team to their convincing victory with above average efforts coming from the rest of the squad, for a full team effort.

Down by four games, Gerardi Bros., met Jarrell Fuel the very next night and fared no better as the fuelers squashed any hopes they had of eking out the championship title. Every member of the Jarrell Fuel squad hit a 500 plus series with Harold Melvin leading the way and with Dallas Hayman adding a great 203 game for a grand 2723 team series effort. Gerardi Bros. received a good effort from LeRoy Wheeler as the team had to settle for a dismal third place finish.

Thursday night pitted Jarrell Fuel and the Spoilers against each other for the title. Dallas Hayman scorched the boards for a superb 232 game, amassing a good 592 series and the rest of the team contributed great efforts to overwhelm the Spoilers in all four games to win the championship of the Harrington Bowling League. Carl Wright bowled very well for the Spoilers in defeat. The Spoilers, who made a very strong showing this year, wound up as runnerup to Jarrell Fuel for a great season's effort.

Congratulations to Jarrell Fuel on their fine finish, to Reign as this year's champ.

Lake Forest Nips Smyrna On Newnom and Chaffinch Homers

Bob Young's Lake Forest Spartans reached Smyrna's pitching for only five hits in ten innings. However, one of the bingles was a circuit clout by Mickey Chaffinch, which tied the score at 2-all in the sixth.

Dave Newnom belted another four-bagger in the tenth to give the Spartans the victory boosting the locals into first place in the Southern Division of the Henlopen Conference, with a 4-2 mark. Jim Dill scattered nine hits to get the decision and contributed a hit and a run to the attack.

Dover High halted the Spartans surge with a 10-0 victory, which saw the Senators Bob Nafzinger, pitch a no-hitter.

However, Lake Forest held on to its first place ranking in the south because Woodbridge's Robin Breeding set Indian River down 8-3.

Free vaccine against Rubella (German Measles) will be offered to children (ages 1 to 10) in New Castle, Kent and Sussex Counties during the month of May. In Kent County the community clinic locations will be at the following places:

Monday, May 17 - Smyrna Elementary School located on School Lane, Smyrna.

Wednesday, May 19 - Kent County health unit, located at Federal & Water Streets, Dover.

Friday, May 21 - Milford health center, 121 S. Walnut St., Milford.

Why be vaccinated against Rubella? It is a highly contagious disease which can cause major birth defects, miscarriages, and death in unborn children if the disease is acquired by any expectant mother early in pregnancy.

During this country's last major epidemic in 1964-65 over 247,000 expectant mothers caught Rubella resulting in about 30,000 miscarriages and 20,000 children born with congenital defects such as heart disease, deafness, cataracts, deformed arms and legs, and defects of the center nervous system including brain damage which can result in mental retardation and cerebral palsy.

It has been predicted that between now and 1973 a major epidemic of Rubella will occur in the United States. To prevent an epidemic in Delaware and to avoid the dangers of this disease, all preschool children over one year of age should be taken to the nearest clinic site and receive FREE Rubella vaccine. If, for some reason, a school child, fourth grade and below, did not receive the vaccine last fall, then he should be vaccinated also.

The clinic will be staffed by physicians and the vaccine will be administered by jet injectors. Make plans now to have your child vaccinated against Rubella, and end Rubella in Delaware.

If you have questions, contact the Department of Health and Social Services, Division of Physical Health, Dover, phone 678,4747.

As spring and summer days approach, give some thoughts to your pet's welfare. With nice weather and longer days now upon us, this means that our animals will be on the move more. Wildlife becomes more active in search of food and for many animals, it is the mating season.

Cats and dogs that have been confined to the house or kept penned up during the winter months will be eager to spend more time out of doors. We suggest the following check up for your pets.

Infectious diseases such as dog distemper and cat distemper can be transmitted from animal to animal. Rabies can be transmitted from animal to animal and sometimes from animal to humans. It can also be controlled by vaccination of the pet. Check with your local veterinarian about immunizing your pet against this disease.

Most cats and dogs shed their winter hair when outside temperatures rise. Usually normal grooming—brushing every three or four days—will remove the excess hair. When combing or brushing your pet's hair, check the animal for external parasites and abnormal skin conditions. If you discover any abnormalities have your pet examined by a veterinarian.

Originally, your pet's habitat was out of doors, so your cat or dog may prefer outside housing as the temperature increases. Provide the with a house of its own outdoors or a place in the garage. This will eliminate household cleaning as the animal sheds.

The area should be fenced and the pet should not be allowed to run loose. If your pet becomes lost, check with the local humane shelter. If you have questions about the health conditions of your pet, talk with a veterinarian before applying medications or treatment.

It Seems To Me

Janet Reed

The "easy-to-make" idea in patterns is one we all like when we're sewing, but when we come to wearing the garment, it may be a different matter.

The "casing" type of waistband with elastic inserted is a good example. It's being used often for skirts and pants of knit fabric. Nothing could be easier—no placket—no darts—no waistband. Simply fold over the fabric at top of garment the width of the elastic. Sew this "hem" by machine and insert the elastic.

But when you wear it—the fabric may not gather up evenly—or the fabric bunches at the wrong places, and the elastic is likely to roll or curl into unsightly ridges.

If you really want a smooth fit at waist and hipline, you'll be happier with a pattern which has darts and a separate waistband. But you can eliminate the placket (on knit or stretch fabrics only, and use elastic in the waistband as a stretchable interfacing. Finish the waistband as the ready-to-wear manufacturers do.

Cut the elastic the same size as your waistline measurement plus seam allowance. Seam the ends, then join the waistband to the top of the garment with right sides together as you normally do. Trim the seam to about one-quarter inch. Next, attach edge of elastic to seam allowance only, using about 10 stitches to the inch and stretching both elastic and fabric slightly.

Then, fold waistband fabric up over the elastic and stitch from the right side in the groove or "ditch" of the first seam. The raw edge on the wrong side of the waistband does not need to be turned under since most knit fabrics do not ravel.

If you get lost in the above description, take a look at ready-to-wear and you'll get the idea.

Much of the elastic available for the home sewing market is not as satisfactory as that used in the trade. Manufacturers have available a thicker and softer elastic which is less likely to curl than the flat type. If you don't want to stitch elastic to the seam allowance, you can make more curl resistant if you use a width twice that which you need, fold it in half lengthwise and zig-zag the edges together. Or use two layers of elastic stitched together at the edges.

A word of caution in laundering. Laundering normally doesn't cause shrinkage and some elastics even stretch when wet, but most elastics will shrink when dried in the dryer at high heat, so watch dryer temperature.

Gardenias Challenge Gardening Ability

Although gardenias are not generally well adapted to household conditions, many people persist in trying to grow the plants indoors. Gardenias require carefully regulated temperatures and humidity. And prevention and control of insects is important. In spite of this, if you take the time and effort to study the gardenias' needs, you can have beautiful flowers for many months, says Robert F. Stevens, horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

To make sure your gardenias remain in good condition for next year, place them outside where they will be able to enjoy high humidity and plenty of air circulation during the summer months.

But before putting the plants outdoors, Stevens suggests re-potting them into larger containers. Gardenias that remain in the same container too long may develop growth, poor leaf color, bud drop and other problems.

Use ample drainage material at the bottom of the container, he adds. Repot the plants in a soil mixture that consists of peat moss, one part soil and one part sand or vermiculite. Small quantities of cottonseed meal are also desirable to provide an even food supply for the plants.

Select a slightly shaded outdoor site, protected from strong winds and place the pot in the ground to the rim. Place two or three stakes around the plant to protect it from dogs and small children and water when necessary. Finally, spray the leaves with water as often as possible and feed the plant at least once a month until fall.

With proper attention, your gardenias should be in good condition when they're brought indoors next September, says Stevens.

Of course, it's necessary to inspect the plants periodically for insects such as white flies, aphids and thrips. These plants are particularly susceptible to insect attacks.

After bringing gardenias inside next fall, place in full sunlight and try to maintain a fairly constant temperature. Extreme heat or cold may cause physiological difficulties in the plant. Also try to maintain as high a humidity as possible.

When buds develop, remove all but one bud per shoot to prevent bud drop.

Gardenias are a real challenge to the ardent gardener, concludes Stevens. But successful foliage and flower production are a tribute to his gardening ability.

Ticks Problem In Delaware

Ticks are now active in all areas of Delaware. They'll continue to be a problem until mid-summer, according to Frank E. Boys, extension entomologist at the University of Delaware.

The two most common ticks found in Delaware are the American dog tick and the brown dog tick. The brown dog tick is uniformly brown, while the American dog tick has a mottled white shield on its back.

The American dog tick breeds outdoors, bites people readily and may be carried on pets and people.

The brown dog tick breeds in kennels, homes and other buildings where dogs are kept but may be found outdoors in summer. It's a serious pest to dogs but seldom bites humans. The brown dog tick cannot survive Delaware winters outdoors, but the American dog tick can.

American dog ticks must feed on mice or rabbits during their early life. They move to dogs or people only when they become full grown. However, the brown dog tick requires only dogs as hosts. Ticks do not feed immediately upon contacting a host; they wander over the body from one to two hours in search of a proper feeding site.

Paralysis, which might be fatal, may result if a tick is allowed to feed for several days at the base of the skull of either a dog or human. Since ticks also transmit diseases, such as spotted fever, tick paralysis and tularemia, they should be removed immediately.

If the attached tick does not release easily, touch its body with a hot match tip or a swab dipped in alcohol or turpentine. If a bit of skin is pulled off with the tick, treat with spots with an antiseptic such as iodine or mercurochrome.

During the tick season, examine body and clothing frequently. Ticks are most often found along the hairline of the neck, in back of the ears and in the armpit and groin regions. Use a repellent such as delphene

(OFF) when you or your children walk where ticks are abundant.

Frequent examination of pets will often reveal ticks. Always check in the ears and between the toes as these are preferred tick sites, and remember to check and treat your pet's stepping quarters.

Powders containing the active ingredient Sevin are good and also safe. Use only as directed on the label. Products containing pyrethrins as the principle active ingredient are very safe and useful for quick removal but provide protection for only a few hours. Frequent shampoos with products designed to kill ticks are also helpful.

Around the home, ticks are found in uncut grass, weeds and roadsides. Keeping grass and weeds mowed in these areas will help.

Infested areas can be treated with Sevin, following the directions on the label. When you treat, concentrate the spray near trails, roads and along the edges of woods. Boys recommends a 15 to 20 foot barrier can be sprayed to prevent tick migration from adjoining brushy areas to lawns.

Gardeners Can Help Prevent Pollution

Homeowners are reminded they can do their share to help preserve and improve the environment.

According to Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware, one way homeowners may be able to improve the environment is by planting additional trees and shrubs where possible. For example, dense plantings of trees and shrubs help filter the dust out of the air. They also help reduce noise pollution from highways, shopping centers and other congested areas.

Stevens also recommends some ways gardeners can reduce pollution problems:

1. Don't use too much fertilizer. Have a soil sample analyzed of your lawn or garden to determine exactly how much and what kind of fertilizer is needed. When applying fertilizers, make sure you don't spread the material on walks and drives. Rain will wash this fertilizer into storm sewers, small streams and other drainage outlets.

2. Don't over irrigate. Avoid run-off pollution when applying water to lawn and garden areas. Lawns and gardens will absorb water at a definite rate depending on the type of soil and cover crop. Water applied at a rate faster than the soil can absorb is wasted, often resulting in polluting agents being washed into storm sewers.

3. Use mulches for weed and erosion control. A good mulch around trees, shrubs, vegetables and flowers not only helps control weeds and conserve soil moisture, but it will prevent soil erosion from heavy rains. Two to four inches of licorice root, peat moss, pine bark, straw or sawdust makes an effective mulch.

4. Don't use more chemicals than needed. When applying chemicals to control weeds, insects or plant diseases, follow the directions recommended on the label. If you use more material than required, you may injure the plants and cause unnecessary pollution.

5. Recycle plant residues. Residues such as grass clippings, prunings and dead plants can also make a good mulch. And composting plant materials for a year or more will produce a rich humus for your garden.

6. Cover bare soil. To prevent water and wind erosion, you should try to keep all bare soil covered. In areas where grass is difficult to maintain, ground covers and small shrubs may provide an attractive and useful planting.

KENT COUNTY COMMENTS

by JOSHUA M. TWILLEY
Levy Court President

Last Tuesday the Levy Court acted to again move forward with suburban street improvements which had been at a standstill for over a year because of defects in the present law. This was made possible because the state legislature passed amendments to the law on recommendations of bonding attorneys who said that the old law was unconstitutional. The Levy Court is grateful to the legislature and the governor for help in this matter because one suburban street has been approved by the residents of the area for over a year, and the Levy Court had been helpless to authorize the construction. Two months ago a second suburban development also presented a petition which could not be considered until now.

These suburban streets do not cause any increase in county taxes because the costs are assessed to the property owners, and paid over a ten year period as a suburban street tax.

As is so often the case, however, the suburban developments which need help the most still will not qualify for help under the amended act because of the conditions of eligibility. The most difficult condition to overcome is the requirement that the suburban development already contain dedicated right of ways at least fifty feet in width.

Furthermore, the requirements of the Suburban Street Act impose a quality street often more expensive than the suburban development needs. It is my feeling that we have an urgent need for further amendments to the Suburban Street Act to permit less expensive streets to be built in developments which do not have thru traffic or special maintenance requirements. There is no need for a fifty foot right of way for a dead-end street two blocks long. The street surface is usually not more than 28 feet wide, and sidewalks are not required. Furthermore, under the present law, there is no provision to acquire the necessary right of way in the event one property owner along the street is against the street improvement.

The final objection to the present law relates to mobile homes. In Kent County many suburban developments contain mobile homes, but the suburban street law excludes these developments from

Protect Horses Against Encephalomyelitis

Delaware horse owners should have their animals vaccinated against Eastern equine encephalomyelitis before June 1 reminds Dr. C. Melvin Reitour, equine specialist at the University of Delaware.

Eastern encephalomyelitis, which is usually fatal to animals infected, is often transmitted by mosquitoes, so it is important to have animals vaccinated before the mosquito season starts.

Commonly called sleeping sickness, equine encephalomyelitis is a virus-caused infection that affects the animal's brain and central nervous system, explains Reitour. Early stages are characterized by fever, nervousness or depression, walking into objects and reduced reflexes.

As the disease progresses, an animal becomes greatly depressed and stands in a sleeping position with its head down and, frequently, with its front legs crossed. Grinding of the teeth, inability to swallow, paralysis of the lips and throat and blindness may also develop.

Owners should make arrangements with their local veterinarians to have their horses and ponies vaccinated as soon as possible, stresses the equine specialist. Two injections are necessary for protection, and they have to be administered 7 to 10 days apart. Treatments must be repeated yearly since the vaccine provides only one year immunity against the disease.

Reitour says a bivalent type of vaccine should be used, giving protection against both the Eastern and Western strains of encephalomyelitis. Both strains are found in Delaware, although the Eastern form has a higher mortality rate.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture horse owners should also be on the alert for a new strain of encephalomyelitis.

Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE) has moved northward from South America and Central America into
