

Peterson Got Scott Paper Company To Check State Site

Here is the transcript of a portion of a news conference held on Thursday, August 5, by Governor Peterson:

Question: Governor, within the past few days, there's been the contact between officials of the Scott Paper Company of Philadelphia, county officials, and city officials of Newark, and Chamber of Commerce officials here in Dover as well as business officials, concerning the development of a paper manufacturing plant. Delaware's two cities of Newark and Dover as well as Havre de Grace, Md., are being considered. Should one of the two Delaware cities be considered positively and be chosen for the development of this site, will you make any attempt to block it?

Answer: Governor Peterson: Make any attempt to block it? I'll make every attempt to make it succeed. In fact, I have been involved in this thing now for over a month. Back in the middle of our major program here to get the coastal zoning act through, I made a special point that we could communicate to Mr. McCabe—Thomas McCabe—who is chairman of the board of the Scott Paper Company. I know Mr. McCabe, I tried to call him, he was not available when I called, and I asked Secretary Bunting (Secretary of State) who is a friend of his, to call him. He did that, a month or six weeks ago approximately, and told him how anxious we were to have this development come to Delaware and to point out that our exclusion of basic paper-making facilities in our coastal zone did not say that we were not in favor of programs that start out with pulp.

You see, the hazardous problem in the paper industry is where you take the wood itself and you extract the pulp from it. That is the basic heavy industry which we didn't want in our coastal zone. Once the pulp is made, there are many, many operations for converting that to various fibrous products—to paper cups—for example, many operations which are clean operations that can be carried on in industrial parks, and it's the kind of operation we'd be very pleased to have in Delaware. We're going out of our way to encourage them to come here, trying to sell them on it. Secretary Bob Halbrook (Community Affairs and Economic Development) is on top of this. He and his organization are working to bring it about.

So the answer to your question is I am 100 percent behind it. We want to make it happen. By the way, in reporting yesterday, Bob Halbrook made the point that the number of new jobs created in Delaware as a result of the efforts of many groups in Delaware, one of which is our State Department of Community Development, 2,000 new jobs have been provided in Delaware. And that is equal to the jobs provided by four refineries.

In the meanwhile, however, another candidate for the Scott Paper plant has appeared on the scene. A paper company official confirmed Friday Perryville, Md., was also being considered as a site for the paper-fiber factory.

Marshall Lewis, Scott vice president for corporate communications, also denied Newark had been chosen as the site. "No decision at all has been made to (even) build such a facility. It (the project) is at the feasibility stage," Lewis said. Scott is merely considering the possibility of such a plant, Lewis added, and is exploring possible locations and what it would take to build the facility.

An announcement by Scott last week indicated the plant would employ about 200 persons at first in the production of Airlaide, a fabric that would be used in such products as disposable dresses.

Scott is also considering the Dover area and Havre de Grace, Md.

LAKE FOREST SCHOOL BOARD OKAYS CONTRACTS

President Albert Price announced the appointment of James Pizzadilli as principal and Donald Garey as alternate to the delegate assembly of the Delaware School Boards Association and Marvin Brown, principal and E. B. Warrington, alternate to the State Board Advisory Council.

The position of high school athletic director be held open. Approved that the East Elementary School employ a part-time nurse aide for four hours per day at a rate of $2 per hour. Time of employment will be 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. each day.

The Board approved the hazards committee recommendation in regard to transportation of pupils in the Lake Forest district.

Melvin Luff presented bids for retubing the boilers at the North Elementary School as follows: Potts Foundry $3294; Joseph Richardson $6845.

Approved that the bids of Potts Foundry be accepted. Luff also presented the bid for replacing cast iron sections in a boiler at North Elementary School, Joseph Richardson, $6366.

Luff presented the question of local transportation, including the mail run, for the 1971-72 school year. After considerable discussion regarding the advisability of using the district bus, or contracting for the services, it was regularly moved, seconded and approved that the district advertise for bids for contractual bus service for 1971-72 school year.

The Board discussed the necessity of a 2 per cent over all decrease in operating funds for the 1971-72 school year. After considerable discussion it was regularly moved, seconded and approved that the following action be taken: The position of psychology not be filled and that present vacancies in physical education, Grade 1, and one guidance not be filled and that the district not support any field trips or rental of training films for the 71-72 school year.

Dr. Howard Henry presented bids for food service for the 71-72 school year. It was regularly moved, seconded, and approved that the following low bids be accepted: ice cream, Penn Dairies; bread, Zafferys; milk, Hi Grade; disposable food service, Lord Brothers & Higgins.

The board discussed the position of the vice principal of Lake Forest High School to replace Mock promoted to principal. It was approved that this position be advertised and all candidates appear at the Aug. 23 board meeting for an interview.

The board asked that a discussion of renewal of contracts of the central office administration be placed on the agenda Aug. 23 meeting. The board set the next meeting Monday, Aug. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the Lake Forest High School.

Milford Hospital To Reduce Room Rates And Laboratory Charges

In a surprise move, reversing an upward trend everywhere else, Milford Memorial Hospital Board of Directors voted to reduce its room rates and selected laboratory charges, it was announced by administrator Joseph B. Ahlschier. Effective August 8, private, semi-private and pediatric room rates will be lowered $1 per day while the reduction in the intensive care units will be $5 per day. Sixteen different laboratory tests are to be reduced from $7 to $4. He forecast a savings of $85,000 to the patients of this hospital as a result.

Attributing the achievement to the dedication and efficiency of "middle management" (head nurses, supervisors and department heads), the administrator called it the "first breakthrough in the battle against inflationary hospital costs."

The hospital board and the administrator have adopted a policy of placing greater responsibility in the hands of the middle managers. Having made scope in their approach and solution to problems, they were able to effect savings in many areas, Ahlschier reports.

"First, we appoint good people to responsible positions. Then we give them the authority and opportunity to put their decisions into practice. After all, since they have the daily contact and familiarity with their departments, they are in the logical position to seek out and eliminate soft spots or roadblocks."

That Milford Hospital can reduce rates at all is a unique achievement in the face of rising costs for labor, services, utilities, equipment and materials.

"Wherever we can control expenses, we are successful in containing costs," the administrator said. "In addition to room rates, every area in the hospital is scrutinized for possible economies."

Recently Milford intalled an ultra-modern piece of laboratory equipment that can process sixteen different laboratory with pinpoint accuracy while cutting costs in time and labor. Tests that previously cost $7 will now be only $4.

Paying tribute to all the employees of the hospital, whose exceptional performance made Milford Hospital's rate reductions feasible, Mr. Ahlschier said, "We have good reason to be proud of the staff who eagerly accepted the challenge we handed them. They have risen to the occasion even more admirably than we anticipated."

Charles Wheatley Parker

Charles Wheatley Parker, 63, of 2602 Jefferson St., Wilmington died Sunday, Aug. 8, in Delaware Division after a long illness.

He was born in Shortley near Georgetown and moved to Wilmington in 1936. He retired in May 1970 from the Freihofer Baking Co. in Wilmington. He was a veteran of World War II and a member of American Legion Post 6, Seaford.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Pearldean Hamstead Parker; a son, John W., of Norfolk, Va.; a daughter, Mrs. Lou Ann Hopkins of Bridgeville; two brothers, Samuel and Albert Parker, both of Millsboro; two sisters, Mrs. Alice Bets of Georgetown and Mrs. Ann McWilliams of Harrington; and three grandchildren.

Services were held yesterday afternoon at the Hardesty Funeral Home at 202 Laws St., Bridgeville. Interment was in St. Johnstown Cemetery, Greenwood. In lieu of flowers the family requests contributions to the American Cancer Society.

DPI To Increase Its Rates

Delmarva Power & Light Company announced Wed., Aug. 4, that rates charged customers in Delaware would be increased 5% for all gas and electricity used on or after August 1. The increase is the direct result of the public utilities tax passed on July 30, by the legislature (H. B. 544) and signed by the governor on July 31.

"As with all tax bills, it is the ultimate consumer that eventually pays the tax. The utilities bill is no exception. It clearly passes the increase along to our customers," Edward F. Spear, vice president for marketing and public relations, said.

"The tax is highly discriminatory and is nothing more than a very select sales tax on just a few utility services. It does not affect the sale of water, bottled gas, or fuel oil for heating your home. If you now heat with gas or electricity, you will pay $10 to $15 more in taxes this next heating season as compared to heating with other fuels which are not so taxed," Spear said.

Spear said that the company recognizes the urgency of the state's fiscal problems and does not oppose the utility tax as such. "However, we do strongly oppose the discriminatory nature of the tax and we believe that the tax should be less than 5%," he said.

Spear said that the bill directs the Public Service Commission of Delaware to pass the increases on to customers without a hearing.

He cited the section of the bill that reads "... when the tax imposed by Sub-section (b) of this section applies to a distributor subject to the regulation of the Public Service Commission, the Commission is directed, after consultation with such distributor and without a public hearing, to adjust the tariff of distributors so that the tax is passed through pro rata to the distributor's customers and the distributor's earnings are neither increased nor decreased by such tax."

"We want to point out to our customers that the tax will not be shown as a separate item on their monthly service bills. It will be included in the amounts billed for gas and electric service," Spear said.

"We don't like to apply the tax in that way, but we had no choice in the matter. The utilities tax bill does not permit us to show the tax as a separate item," he said.

Spear said that "the company's gross billings for sales of gas and electricity amount to about $90,000,000 currently. This will result in an annual tax of about 4.5 million dollars."

Becky Messick Attended National Agribusiness Meeting

Becky Messick of Greenwood recently attended the annual summer institute of the American Institute of Cooperation at Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colo.

Becky joined with about 800 young people from 41 states and Canada at this national agribusiness meeting. They also met in many sessions with the 210 young farmers and their wives and about 1,100 adult educational, agricultural and cooperative representatives.

Highlights of the institute included hearing speakers such as the Japanese ambassador to the United States, Nobuhiko Ushiba, John A. Hannah, administrator, U.S. Agency for International Development, Paul Anderson, world's strongest man, and Colonel Sanders; participating in youth rap and case study sessions on cooperative operations; and taking a final quiz to show what they'd learned.

Becky was Delaware's 4-H scholarship winner and Charmayne Pieron of Smyrna was sponsored by the interstate milk producers. Delaware's young farm couple was Mr. and Mrs. William Parker of Burrsville.

Youth Dies Of Accident Injuries

Injuries suffered Saturday have taken the life of Richard Schuyler, 17, of Felton, Delaware state police reported Wed., Aug. 4.

The youth died in the Delaware Division, Wilmington, at 4:30 p.m., the previous day. He was admitted to that hospital Saturday after his car went out of control on a curve and overturned on Kent 284, south of Felton.

Police said the victim was given emergency treatment at Kent General Hospital, Dover, and later transported by state police helicopter to the Wilmington hospital.

A Delaware native, the youth had completed his junior year at Lake Forest High School, Felton.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schuyler; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Schuyler of Felton; and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Calhoun of Milford.

Services were held last Saturday morning at the Berry Funeral Home, Main St., Felton. Interment was in Henlopen Memorial Park on the Milford-Rehoboth Highway.

Sixth-Graders Eligible For Boy Scouts

A boy who has completed the fifth grade or is eleven and with the approval of his parents or guardian is eligible now to become a Boy Scout, according to Spotswood Foster, commissioner of the Del Mar Va Council, Inc., Boy Scouts of America.

Formerly, boys had to be at least 11 years of age to join a Boy Scout troop but the Executive Board of the national organization has changed the membership requirement so that a boy is eligible when he has "completed the fifth grade or is eleven", Foster said.

The Del-Mar-Va Council which serves Delmarva Peninsula has over 300 scout troops. Foster reports that the council also expects to organize about 25 new troops in the next 3 months during the annual fall roundup, a 3-month membership campaign.

The Boy Scouts of America is in partnership with over 400 local schools, religious institutions, service clubs, PTA's civic organizations, labor unions, and other community groups that are chartered to use the scout program, Foster said.

KENT COUNTY COMMENTS

by JOSHUA M. TWILLEY
Levy Court President

One of the questions which counties and cities through out the United States are now debating is known as revenue sharing. This is basically a sharing of revenue obtained by the federal government from income tax receipts.

Many state and local governments want the federal government to share some of this tax with them, with no strings attached. If the federal government would do this, it would reverse the trend of centralizing power in Washington. The state and local governments are getting large sums of the money now from the federal government to support sewer systems, welfare planning, highways and schools, to name just a few. Without this federal help state and local governments would have to increase real estate and income taxes and find other ways of making money such as a sales tax. The trouble is that the present system of federal grants involves bushels of red tape and federal requirement and puts the federal government in a position of determining local needs and judging them.

The theory of revenue sharing is that it will return money to state and local governments so that they can decide where they want the money to go. However, I do not think Delaware would benefit from this and Kent County would be hurt. I say this for the following reasons: First, tax money that goes to Washington and then comes back will certainly not come back in the same proportions that it went, the federal government will keep some of it to handle the paper work. Wouldn't it be better to not pay the tax to Washington at all but collect it locally? Then the responsibility for raising the tax and spending the money would be closer together. Second, Delaware is one of the most prosperous states in the union, and would not get back as much as some other more needy states. Third, most of the revenue sharing proposals I have read exclude cities with less than 50,000 inhabitants and counties with small populations. Kent and Sussex Counties would probably not qualify for any funds collected by the federal government, from Kent and Sussex County residents.

Both of the two proposed systems of sharing revenue would benefit the large population centers, because the first one would be based on population rather than per capita income, and then the second would be based on need.

Delaware's small population would be a disadvantage to it by one of the standards and the fact that the per capita taxable income in Delaware is one of the highest in the nation would be to our disadvantage by other standard. Therefore, I feel that Kent County should not be in favor of revenue sharing.

Notes from Greenwood Kiwanis Club: Last Thursday night was director's night for the Kiwanis Club. President John Dorofee presided as routine business of the club was taken care of.

As a large number of the members and some of the wives would attend the large inter-club at the Sussex County sub-station field day Tuesday, Aug. 10, it was decided to dispense with our regular meeting August 12, and a round table meeting would substitute for the regular meeting.

Many of the members, their wives and guests attended the annual Kiwanis Club outing which was a dinner at Murray's Yacht Basin Sunday, August 8 at 2 p.m.

Miss Kathryn Richards, Mrs. Nellie Stevens, Mrs. Dorothy Webb and Mrs. Mary Cahall were among a group from Greenwood, Bridgeville, Seaford, Georgetown, Milford and Federalsburg, who visited the Brandywine River Museum on Thursday of last week. The trip was under the direction of Mrs. Delma Outen of the Kent-Sussex Tours Agency.

The Brandywine Museum is on the banks of the Brandywine River in Chadds Ford, Pa. It was reconstructed from the former Hoffman's Mill by the Tri-County Conservancy of Brandywine. The mill was rescued from the bulldozer in 1967, reconstruction began in 1970 and it was opened to the public as the Brandywine Museum on June 17, and will close the present season on October 17. The displays will attempt to fuse art and conservation. This season's exhibits are from the works of Howard Pyle, N. C. Wyeth, Andrew Wyeth and Jamie Wyeth. The American School of Painting which began in the Brandywine Valley is an important part of our American heritage.

From the museum the group went to the Heritage House, and then to the Barn Shops in Chadds Ford. They had dinner at the Stone Barn and saw the performance of "Barefoot in the Park" at the Fireside Dinner Theatre. This is only one of the many dinner-shows on the agenda of the Kent-Sussex Tours Agency for August and September.

Thursday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leteh Workman were Mr. and Mrs. Jake Cannon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Workman and Mr. and Mrs. Emory Williamson and Mrs. Christine Williamson attended the viewing Monday evening and the Workmans attended the burial Tuesday of Claude Adams of Cambridge, Md. Interment was made in Bloomery.

John Williamson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Williamson, returned to the base at Patterson Field in Ohio, where he is employed, after spending some time with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Snyder of Long Island are house guests of Mrs. Helen Maloney this week.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Lester Huey, Ronnie and Kevin, took the trip over to Cape May on the Lewes-Cape May Ferry.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Milburn and children and Lawrence Cade are on a week's vacation through the Smoky Mountains, North Carolina and Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. David Wilkins have returned from their honeymoon trip into Canada and are now in residence at their home in Lincoln. Mrs. Wilkins is the former Miss Sandra Cade.

Saturday evening Todd's Chapel Community House held an ice cream festival. The affair also honored Mrs. Ann Elliott who is retiring after teaching Sunday School for 42 years. The church presented her with a beautiful lamp and everyone enjoyed ice cream and cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Meredith Jr., of Wilmington, with his family, have been spending some time with his parents. One day with his dad, they joined Lawrence Meredith and William Cook, together with Ward Meredith and others from that area on a fishing trip.

In 1944, Mrs. White was a charter member of the Atlanta Home Demonstration Club. Since then, she has held nearly every office at the local, county and state levels of home economics extension.

A former school teacher in Sussex County, Mrs. White is also business partner and record keeper for her husband in their broiler and feed corn farming enterprise.

Mrs. Lambden has been a Delaware 4-H club leader for 39 years. A former president of the 4-H Link association, she received a certificate of merit for outstanding 4-H leadership in 1965 from the Delaware Bankers Association.

A member of the United Wesley Methodist Church, Mrs. Lambden has been active in numerous church programs. She also helped organize the Nanticoke Home Demonstration Club and was a member of the first advisory council of Sussex Council Home Demonstration Clubs.

In 1969, Mrs. Lambden retired as clerk for the Sussex County Court of Common Pleas. But the following year, she was selected by the Delaware Commission on Aging to serve as coordinator for the Sussex County Reassurance Telephone Line. This organization provides a daily contact service to elderly persons who live alone.

The Sussex County service clubs began the award to outstanding community leaders in southern Delaware in 1956. Approximately 200 club members and their wives attend the annual picnic supper presentation on the evening preceding the University of Delaware's annual farm and home field day.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Holberton

Generally steady to a bit higher prices expected through the rest of the year, seems to be the opinion of many reporters of agriculture news. Beef prices will show little weakness this fall since pork production is not expected to increase that much and as there seems to be little chance of a bigger supply of nonfed beef coming to market during this period. Features on beef are fewer than usual with most emphasis showing up on chuck steaks, steaks for broiling, and ground meat.

During the past week, both supplies and prices of hogs fluctuated; but there has been little or no change in retail prices. Specials are scattered among stores on such cuts as center-cut chops, smoked hams, bacon and loin roasts.

The forecast for hog slaughter during the rest of the year and into 1972 is smaller than first expected and consumer prices are expected to remain fairly steady to a bit lower. There will not be the anticipated low prices during the fall months as it looks now, and do not be surprised to have higher prices on pork during November and December than in 1970 at this time.

Lamb supplies continue to decline, so look for fairly steady prices throughout fall. Broiler-fryers are probably the most promotable product on meat counters. Continued features make this meat the outstanding protein buy. These young and tender chickens are very versatile and can make a meat a banquet or a simple affair.

Though cheese prices have increased greatly in the past few years, we are eating more of it. In fact, cheese is fast approaching butter as the largest manufacturing outlet for milk. There seems to be several apparent keys to this growing use of cheese. Rising income seems to signal larger purchases of cheese. Pizzas popularity has catapulted use of Italian-type cheeses. We are eating more processed cheese food and spreads, and a lot more is going into snacks and other processed foods. Also retail marketing innovations have multiplied the number of package sizes and convenience forms of cheese we can buy.

The vegetable picture looks like supplies will be adequate but price changes not too great. Local production is picking up and a number of fair buys can be found at roadside stands on home-grown tomatoes, corn, green peppers, and squash. Potatoes are another vegetable to check at these stands; remember though, these new potatoes are poor keepers so buy only what you will use within three or four days.

This is the time of year to enjoy all types of melons. They can work magic when it comes to cool refreshing additions to meals.

There are lots of Barlett pears at local markets now. The crop is large—40% greater than last year, so look for some fair to good buys on this fruit.

United States Coast Guard Academy Local Chit Chat

Accepting Applications The United States Coast Guard Academy is now accepting applications for the Class of 1976.

Governor Peerson pointed out that appointments to the academy are made solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition involving neither congressional appointments nor geographical quotas.

To qualify, an applicant must be unmarried and must have reached his 17th but not his 22nd birthday by July 1, 1972. The minimum educational requirement is a high school diploma, but high school seniors assured of graduation by June 30 of 1972 are eligible to compete if they have at least 15 credits by that time.

The governor said the program provides a good opportunity for participants to obtain an excellent undergraduate education at no personal cost with pay and allowances adequate to meet ordinary living expenses. Graduates of the academy are awarded Bachelor of Science Degrees and are commissioned as Ensigns in the U.S. Coast Guard. Selected officers may pursue further postgraduate education and specialized training.

Applications must be submitted prior to December 15. Application forms and additional information may be obtained by writing to the Director of Admissions, United States Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn. 06320.

Walter Messick observed a birthday Sunday. Those present for the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson, Lori and Lisa, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Collins, Becky and Doug, Harry Raughley, Louis Welch, Lynn Dean, Sheri and Debbie Simpson, Marie, Jimmy and Rhonda Lee Messick. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Collins spent a few days in Virginia last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Hayman and Glenn spent the weekend camping at the Log Cabin Hill camp grounds near Lewes.

Ralph Anthony is a patient in the Milford Memorial Hospital.

Several people from Harrington attended the annual steam and threshing show on the Jim Layton farm of Federalsburg, Md.

Walter Messick spent a few days last week seeing the new John Deere farm machinery at their plant in Waterloo, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor and Teresa, Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Hendricks, Beverly and Jack spent last week visiting relatives in Columbus, Ohio.

Harrington, Del.

TWENTY YEARS AGO—Delaware Governor Elbert N. Carvel, left in top photo, greets New Jersey Governor Alfred E. Driscoll. The date was August 16, 1951 when the Delaware Memorial Bridge was officially opened as the first fixed crossing of the Delaware River separating both states. Seventeen years later, on September 12, 1968 Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey dedicated the identical sister span to make the Delaware Memorial Twin Bridge the longest twin suspension bridge in the world. Flanking the Vice President are former governor Richard J. Hughes, left, of New Jersey and Charles L. Terry of Delaware.

Del. River And Bay Authority News

Some time during the grey dawn of August 16, the 230 millionth vehicle will pass through the toll plaza of the Delaware Memorial Bridge, its driver undoubtedly unaware that 20 years ago to the day the first vehicle crossed the first majestic span amid the fanfare and excitement of formal dedication ceremonies.

It has been little more than 18 months since the 20-year-old bridge was joined by an identical sister span. Now the longest twin suspension bridge in the world, the graceful arches of the twin facilities, its feet planted firmly on the banks of New Jersey and Delaware, speed people and products safely on ribbons of concrete and steel through this vital corridor of the Northeast.

But it was not always so. The Delaware River and Bay have been both boon and barrier to American progress. Ships of the oceans sailed up the Delaware with the cargoes that swelled commerce and built cities.

Across land the free flow of people and goods reached the river's edge and slowed. Ferry service made a futile attempt to keep pace.

Trade and traffic left the ferries in their own swirls and called on new technologies to reduce the river barrier. Thus ferries were replaced with wooden bridges, later by these giant arching tributes to man's engineering genius.

A changing economy traced the traffic patterns of today. New Jersey became a highway corridor between the New England States and those to the south and west. Delaware, most of the state positioned between Philadelphia and Baltimore-Washington, felt the impact of burgeoning highway traffic.

The demand for quicker river crossings became so great that on August 16, 1951, after many years of frustrating efforts, the Delaware Memorial Bridge was opened between Deepwater, N. J., and New Castle.

The traffic surge continued, far surpassing early predictions and in 1968, 17 years after the original span was dedicated, a twin bridge was opened, increasing capacity to an estimated 30 million vehicles a year by 1993.

Events which led to the building of the Delaware Memorial Bridge and its second span followed a path that began in controversy and ended in a spirit of cooperation.

Limits Defined

In 1932, planners of the tri-state region, which included Philadelphia first brought to public attention the need for a bridge or tunnel in the vicinity of New Castle at essentially the location finally adopted.

But before a fixed crossing could be fixed to connect the two states, their territorial limits had to be defined. A dispute over boundary had existed for more than 100 years, from the time Delaware and New Jersey became states. Then, in 1934, the United States Supreme Court ruled that the Delaware River within a 12-mile circle of New Castle and to the low water mark on the New Jersey side belongs to Delaware.

About a million vehicles a year were using Delaware River ferries in 1936, when a private company proposed building a tunnel near Wilmington. The proposal was defeated in the Delaware Legislature because of feeling that any such crossing should be a public rather than private project.

By 1942, two private ferry services were operating in this area. One ran between Penns Grove, N. J., and Wilmington and the other between Pennsville, N. J., and New Castle. As highway traffic increased, their lack of speed and capacity made them obsolete. They became a bottle-neck that seriously hindered industrial and population growth and caused serious congestion for through traffic between New England and Florida.

Delaware officials and citizens sought ways to overcome legal, engineering and financial problems that stood in the way of building a bridge.

In 1945, the Delaware Legislature signalled the start of the final planning phase by authorizing the State Highway Department to construct a crossing and to issue revenue bonds to pay for it. By 1947, the required approvals were obtained from New Jersey and the congress. In the next year, $40 million in bonds were sold at 4 percent interest and the first construction contract was awarded July 1, 1948.

Turnpike Built

New Jersey, beginning to reel under the post World War II onrush of traffic, later the same year authorized construction of the New Jersey Turnpike. An alignment running north to the Delaware Memorial Bridge was fixed in 1949. By mid-1951 it became obvious that estimates of future traffic would have to be revised upward and that enlarged connections would be needed between the two facilities. To pay for the higher construction costs because of the Korean War, an additional $3.9 million in bonds were sold at 3 3/4 percent interest.

The New Castle ferry in 1945 carried 1.3 million vehicles a year. In 1948, consulting engineers estimated that 3.6 million vehicles would use the new bridge in 1951. They were wrong. In 1952, the first full year of operation, the bridge carried 6.7 million vehicles.

Since then, volume has gone up an average of 640,583 vehicles a year, and 1969 became the first calendar year in which more than 16 million vehicles crossed the bridge.

Traffic for the first six months this year indicates a new annual record lies ahead. A 1970 record of 79,761 vehicles for a single day—November 29—was topped this year on July 2 when 81,373 crossings were made on the twin spans.

Second Span Needed

As the amount of traffic began its phenomenal climb after the bridge opened, officials recognized that a second span would have to be built sooner than anticipated. By 1958, negotiations between the states were under way and during the next five years feasibility and location studies for a second bridge were started and the required federal and state authorizations obtained.

These efforts culminated in 1962 with the creation (by a compact between Delaware and New Jersey) of the Delaware River and Bay Authority, consisting of 10 commissioners, five appointed by the governor of each state. The Authority, which took over operation of the bridge the following year, also operates the Cape May-Lewes Ferry at the mouth of Delaware Bay and is empowered to construct such other crossings as may be needed between the states.

On June 11, 1968, the Authority voted to proceed with the financing and constructing of an additional four-lane suspension bridge—a twin bridge—parallel to and 250 feet north of the original span.

In developing financing plans, the Authority decided to reverse previous toll reductions. Although traffic had been rising through the years, the revenues had decreased, the result of two cuts, from 75 cents to 50 cents and then to 25 cents. The rate was put back to 50 cents. Since then revenues have more than met the expectations of traffic consultants

NEW SUSSEX CARPET FACTORY WILL BOOST REGIONAL ECONOMY

The Peck-Sussex Corporation is completing a carpet factory in Bridgeville, and will go into production at the beginning of next month.

An Economic Development Administration business loan of $737,820 is going into the $1,242,800 project which will provide about 70 jobs immediately and 225 within the next two years.

The factory is a result of community financial support, state assistance and a determined struggle on the part of the corporation president to bring the concept into reality as well.

"The people around here showed that they are ready and interested in making a commitment to help this type of industry locate in the area," said John L. Stevens, Bureau of Industrial Development, Delaware Department of Community Affairs and Economic Development.

The plant's first order is for a two-tone nylon shag carpets. Four women trained in special program at Delaware Technical and Community College in Georgetown through an arrangement with the federal Manpower Development Training Administration were threading the giant napping machine that day.

Cones of nylon were aligned on panels of spindles and the twine threaded through clear plastic tubes to the machine where needles would punch it into backing material.

Baxter pointed out that the machine could be adjusted to make a variety of lengths in shag or loops and that up to four different tones could be gotten from one dye by using types of nylon which absorb dye to different degrees.

specialty stores as well as smaller retailers and even distributors," he added.

There are no other carpet factories on the Delmarva Peninsula.

"The Delmarva Advisory Council applauds this injection of EDA's jobs-generating loan funds. The payroll increment into the local economy is enhanced by the fact of introducing new types of jobs onto the Sussex scene," said DAC executive director Kenneth T. Matthews.

"DAC also applauds the community spirit in this investment process. Individuals in the Bridgeville area subscribed a portion of funds as required by EDA. The mayor and council of the town invested largely of their time and talents in order to make the Peck concept a reality. The EDA loan policy of community involvement was practiced in this instance; individuals, town authorities, county committees and state agencies all combined forces to bring a desirable industry to the Delmarva District," Matthews added.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

Mollie and me are leaving next Sunday for a week or ten days in vicinity of Johnstown, Pa., scene of our childhood, also the scene of the flood of 1889 which was considered at that time one of the world's worst disasters:

JOHNSTOWN

The cry of distress
Rang from east to the west
Our whole dear country now is cast in woe
For the thousands burned and drowned
In the city of Johnstown
All were lost in the great overflow.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stewart Dill

Miss Cheryl Jean Voshell Wed To Robert Stewart Dill

Miss Cheryl Jean Voshell became the bride of Robert Stewart Dill in a double-ring ceremony at 8:00 p.m., Friday, June 25, at the Felton Methodist Church in Felton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Voshell Jr., of Felton. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Edgar Dill Sr. of Viola.

Rev. John Massimilla officiated the candlelight ceremony which was followed by a reception at the Moose Lodge in Harrington.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a floor length empire organza gown featured bishop sleeves and a jewel neckline trimmed in Venice lace. A cathedral length Mantilla veil completed her ensemble. She carried a bouquet of white carnations mixed with baby's breath.

Miss Kay Wooten of Fredericka was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Jean Paskey of Felton, Miss Betty Myers of Felton, Miss Donna Blades of Dover, cousin of the bride and Miss Wanda Dill of Viola; sister of the groom. They wore empire gowns of apricot chiffon trimmed in white Venice lace with matching headpieces. Miss Julie Voshell, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Her floor length gown in Nile green was styled as the attendants. All carried baskets of white daisies.

The best man was William Dill Jr. of Viola, brother of the groom. Ushers were John McDowell of Felton, Lee Kersey of Viola, Gary Mahoney of Dover, and Doug Webb of Fredericka. Darrell Voshell, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

The bride's mother chose a pale yellow linen dress with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of pale green carnations. The groom's mother wore a pink polyester knit dress with white accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

Both the bride and groom graduated from Felton High School in 1968. The groom is presently a senior at Concord College in Athens, W. Va. The bride is a senior at Delaware State College in Dover.

Regional manpower administrator J. Terrell Whitsitt said the department had approved a 21-month contract with the office of personnel in the Delaware governor's office to open up the 76 civil service jobs in two state agencies for disadvantaged jobless workers and to provide training to allow 193 men and women to advance to higher paying jobs.

The new continuing education center, originally planned for June 1971, will be delayed. Not having this new facility urgently needed for higher education programs already planned will affect many thousands of extension and continuing education students as well as participants in numerous conferences, institutes, seminars and short courses.

Renovation to Alison Hall, home of the college of home economics were scheduled for completion by January 1973. The university is waiting to break ground on a music building and a basic science building. When any of these facilities will be completed now is a matter of pure speculation contingent on the day that a labor agreement can be reached.

In the meantime, some students will have to adapt their courses to the facilities that are available, and administrators will have to re-define carefully developed plans while getting on with the business of running a university.

The public service careers program is a new concept developed by the Labor Department's Manpower Administration to assist selected state, county and local governments to provide jobs within their civil service system for disadvantaged workers and to increase the skills of incumbent workers so that they can go up the civil service ladder. The program is tailored to the needs of the local government units.

Strikes Smash U. Of D. Building Program

Five years of comprehensive advance planning made by University of Delaware officials have been dashed by strikes on some $40 million of construction projects on the Newark campus.

Most crucial of the idle projects is perhaps the 16-unit Pencader Residence Hall complex, originally scheduled for occupancy in the spring of 1971 with accommodations for 768 students. Pencader includes 12 dormitories, three lounge-recreation buildings, and a 2,000 capacity dining hall.

While vice president for administrative services John E. Hocutt had anticipated some shortage of completions on the north campus complex, due to strikes and bad weather days, he had counted upon having four of the dormitories to house 264 students this fall. At this date, however, it is certain the four dorms will not be ready until the middle of the fall semester, contingent upon a summer strike settlement. Of the 264 students, 150 upperclassmen will have to be housed in local motels and university officials are desperately seeking local housing for more than 100 freshmen.

Equally critical is the fact that even if four of the Pencader dorms are available by second semester, the 2,000-seat dining hall will not be ready.

And while all of this creates a financial and logistics problem for the university, the greatest disruption is to the educational plans of those students who have based their fall plans on a room in Pencader. Meanwhile, the residence life office continues to be deluged with letters and telephone calls from dismayed students and parents. Stuart Sharkey, director of residence life, estimates that his staff expends half of each working day of a very busy schedule to cope with the flood of inquiries and complaints.

Educational programs and facilities also are hard hit. Purnell Hall, new home of the college of business and economics, was scheduled for use last fall. Without this much needed classroom and office space, the academic program of the college will be seriously curtailed.

The new college of nursing building, an advanced facility upon which the university is banking heavily for training much needed health professionals for Delaware, was originally scheduled for completion next February. The late delivery of this modern training center will hamper the nurse education program and thus have some effect on the entire state.

Two high-rise dormitories with accommodations for 1,298 students on the north campus had an original completion date of August 1972. Vitality needed to house one of the fastest expanding student populations in the nation, the completion date on these new facilities is a question mark.

The new continuing education center, originally planned for June 1971, will be delayed. Not having this new facility urgently needed for higher education programs already planned will affect many thousands of extension and continuing education students as well as participants in numerous conferences, institutes, seminars and short courses.

National Guard Completes Minor Reorganization

The Delaware Army National Guard has completed a minor reorganization that has resulted in minor increases in the authorized strengths of three units.

The realignment brings the Delaware units into conformity with the latest organization prescribed for similar units of the active Army units.

Headquarters 261st Signal

Command (theater of operations), at Dover, also received a name change in the process, becoming Hq. 261st U.S. Army Strategic Communications Command.

In spite of its numerical designation—a traditional one in Delaware—it is the only numbered unit of its type in the Army. The new structure of the 261st now parallels that of the only similar unit, the active Army's Hq. U.S. Army Strategic Communications Command Europe in Germany.

Principal changes in the unit, which have increased its authorized strength from 198 to 230, are a more functional staff organization, including a centralized communications systems control section. New capabilities include planning and supervision of ground facilities for satellite communications stations, and of audio-visual activities. Additional management capabilities will permit the use of a planning-programming-budget system.

Other changes include expanded comptroller and legal sections, and some increases in authorized rank to reflect broadened responsibilities. The unit is now authorized a major general, rather than a brigadier general, in command and a brigadier general is authorized as deputy commander.

At Greater Wilmington Airport, the 198th Aviation Company has been expanded from 170 to 234 persons, including 16 additional aviators.

The new organization accommodates the unit to the UH-1 Huey helicopter, with which it will be re-equipped. Principal changes include the addition of an armed helicopter aerial escort platoon, and a reorganization of the airlift sections into a single airlift platoon which can transport all the assault elements of an infantry or mechanized company.

Additional maintenance capability has also been added to make the unit more self-sufficient. It will now be authorized 26 helicopters and 69 rated aviators.

The 116th Surgical Hospital (Mopile Army) also at Greater Wilmington Airport, has been authorized six additional Army nurses, bringing its total authorization of nurses to 10.

The Rev. Ottinger Visits W.C.T.U. Event

The Rev. Mrs. Lorraine Ottinger, president of Delaware W.C.T.U. and former pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, of Harrington, is attending the 25th Triennial convention of the World Woman's Christian Temperance Union meeting in the Pick Congress Hotel in Chicago thru Aug. 4.

Harrington - Smyrna Recreation Track Meet Set
The Harrington Recreation Association will host a similar group from Smyrna, at a track meet, to be held, at Chipman School on Thursday, August 19. Starting time is 10 a.m.

John Moffett, a proven distance runner, at 11, won the 880, as expected, but the real surprise was the performance of Jamie Simpson, an inexperienced but strong runner.

Simpson started the half at a too-fast pace, slowed considerably at the end of one lap, then finished strong to clock a fine 3:09 half. Lots of seventh graders take all of April and May to get that fast. Jamie's there a year early to say nothing of the wet track and the lack of pace knowledge. He can be a good one.

Girls 9-and-under:

Boys 9-and-under:

10-11 100—1. Mark Tatman 13. 2. John Moffett 3. DNF 880—1. John Moffett 2.55 2. Jamie Simpson
Boys 12-13-14:
100—1. George Marshall 12.8 2. Mark Tatman 3. Jerry Thompson
Mile—1. Eddie Thompson 5.512 2. Barry Doherty 3. Jim Guyton

Local Track Meet Results
Rain scared some of the participants away, but Wednesday's track meet saw Reig Outten, Cheryl Lissy, Eileen Ryan and Jackie Guyton win two first place awards each. Outten, who was nine last week, made his debut in the track meet, with a victory in the 9-and-under 50, then turned in a good 92.2, 440 yard run. Cheryl Lissy, a versatile Bowers girl, was pressed hard in both the 100 and 880 yard runs by Debbie Duerr, a strong Felton performer. Lissy, that same evening, was in action at Wilmington's Baynard Stadium. There she long jumped 13 feet, 5 inches to lose by two inches, in the 12-13 group. Lissy also clocked 72 seconds to get the runner award in the 440 yard run. Two weeks ago she did 80 seconds, last week a 72 second effort. She's getting there!

Eddie Thompson's summer debut saw the Felton lad annex the 12-13-14 mile in 5.51, to set a series record.

Mark Tatman's 13 flat 100 on a wet track, in the 10-11 group, was outstanding. Mark later moved up to the 12-13-14 century, where the precocious eleven-year-old pushed George Marshall to a winning 12.8 time.

Cross-Country Team Welcomes New Recruits
For the past five years, new harrier aspirants had to beat a tough lineup of teammates, in order to win a first-string position on the Harrington High and Lake Forest High cross-country teams. Coach Harold McDonald's Lions and Spartans combined, show only eight dual meet losses in thirteen years of competition, against victories now approaching 140.

Most of last year's squad, are gone leaving a lot of holes to fill. It's been ten years since an opportunity such as this has occurred. For a change a newcomer has a good chance to win a varsity letter if he works hard. If you want to wear LF on your chest, think it over.

Laws, Boushard Lead In Doubles At Georgetown

Bringing home one winner a night is tough enough work for a harness driver, but sailing to the "charmed circle" with a double victory for an evening is twice the job, especially when the racing is keenly competitive, as witnessed by the many photo-finishes at Georgetown Raceway this summer.

Now, as this Sussex County oval swings into its 14th week of standardbred action and the driver standings shift and ratings get tighter, evidence is bearing out the fact the top teamsters on the rounds usually score the most doubles.

Take Charles Laws, for example, Chum the 43-year-old Middletown "Flash", currently racing at Georgetown, Laurel, and Ocean Downs, grabbed the driver lead early this meeting and maintains a healthy margin as the mid-Delmarva track heads into its final racing quarter with 20 victories. Laws is the only chauffeur after 33 nights of racing to score four driving doubles. In addition to this, he's the only horseman to bring home a "triple". Laws exploded that one on the Fourth of July.

Second leading driver, showing up on the charts for the first time this week, Ken

"the Flying Frenchman" Boushard, of Harrington after whipping in here half-way through the meet has earned six of his 9 wins with doubles. Boushard arrived here from Lincoln Downs in Rhode Island where he tallied his first leading driver award.

On the other hand, third leading percentage pilot, Bill "Yogi" Benard, of Milford who now has eight triumphs has come close but has not hit a driving double so far this meet.

Lindale Coverdale, of Harrington, leading driver here early in the season is credited with two duo-wins as is Vic White of Salisbury, who has been among the top five teamsters since opening night.

Other highly regarded horsemen who have doubled-up are Don Robertson, Georgetown; Morris Skinner, Centerville; Walt Layfield, Pittsville; John Chandler, of Pocomoke City; Don Vincent, of Harrington; Alan Myer, of Bridgeville; Al Sieva, of Milford; Charles Marsh Jr., of Rehoboth Beach and Delores Abbott of Federalsburg.

First post Friday and Saturday at Georgetown is 8:15 p.m. First event on Sunday evening gets away at 7:00 p.m.

Boy Scout News

The regular weekly meeting of Troop 76 will resume on Aug. 16. Time of meeting will be from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Place: the small gym at W. T. Chipman School.

The troop will swing back into action with a new scoutmaster, Paul Faulkrod and assisted by Ted Layton and George Roe.

The sponsors of the troop is the Harrington Lions Club. From the club the troop now has a working committee consisting of Elwood Wright, I.R., Calvin Wills C.C. John Curtis, C.M., Richard Schultze C.M. Robert Price C.M., William Shaw Jr. C.M., Gary Harrington C.M., Melvin Wyatt C. M.

Congratulations gentlemen on a great job that you are undertaking for the community and more important, for the young men, our future leaders.

Newly-Appointed Magistrates Have Begun Training Course

Five newly-appointed magistrates began a two-week training course Monday at Wilmington College on Route 13 south of Wilmington.

Morton R. Kimmel, administrator of Delaware's Justice of the Peace Courts said the sessions will begin at 9:30 a.m. and end no later than 4 p.m. Upon completion of the classroom training, the five will be sworn in as justices of the peace.

Then will come a third week of "on-the-job" training in their respective counties. They will assume their duties in the fourth week when they are assigned to a specific court. Then within one month will come a written examination based upon the course material, and test results will be forwarded to Chief Justice Daniel F. Wolcott and Governor Russell W. Peterson.

The five new magistrates are: James A. Rambo, Claymont; Mrs. Elizabeth C. Henry, Dover; Peter A. Gordon, Dover; Robert F. Handy, Lewes; and John D. Holler, Felton.

In September, every justice of the peace will be involved in a schedule of two half-day seminars a month, two hours per month as observers in the Court of Common Pleas, Family Court, Municipal Court or Superior Court, and regular written examinations.

The intensive training and education schedule was initiated by Kimmel upon his appointment as administrator last year by Governor Peterson. Kimmel also is a member of the bi-partisan Magistrate Screening Committee appointed by the governor to screen all applicants in a program to remove magistrate appointments from the patronage arena and upgrade the caliber of justice of the peace courts.

In addition, Kimmel last week started the first constable-training program in the history of Delaware's justice of the peace system. The "Custodial Security" course, also for bailiffs, started last Monday and will be given each succeeding Monday—except Labor Day—at the State Police Training Academy in Dover. The course, which end September 20, involves training in the use of firearms, weaponless defense, transporting prisoners and related areas.

DAVE WOODWARD
ASSISTANT KENT COUNTY AGENT

In an interview in the U.S. News & World Report, Secretary of Agriculture Hardin said that the number one problem the farmer has today is inflation.

"The one thing that would improve farm conditions most would be to bring inflation under control, so that the cost of things that farmers purchase, either for production purposes or family living, would be leveled. Gross income from sales has been increasing," said Hardin, "but the increase is being held up by rising costs for labor, equipment, and taxes. The position of the farmer is not unlike the person on a fixed income. Farm prices, themselves, have not advanced much over the past two decades. The farmer has produced more, increased his dollar sales, only to see his income eroded by rising costs."

Producers in the beef industry are concerned about making a profit as well as expanding their herds. The demand for beef has been projected to double between now and the year, 2000. It takes quite a few years to gear up to meet these demands.

How do cattlemen plan to meet the rising demand and still make a profit? In limited use today are two tactics—crossbreeding and artificial insemination, both of which increase out-put.

Crossbreeding to get cattle to feed out better is increasing in commercial beef herds rapidly. 30% of our market cattle today are crossbred to some degree. Research indicates that up to 20% improvement over purebred breeding is possible through increased calf survival and growth response, plus feed out efficiency.

Only 2% of beef cows in the United States were artificially inseminated in 1967, but the untapped resources of beef artificial insemination are: The ability to crossbreed from the best and most tested bulls, and it will reduce the number of bulls that the beef industry must keep up.

Delaware Horse Owners Asked To Participate In Survey

As part of its emergency program to control Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE), the U.S. Department of Agriculture has begun a national census of the U.S. horse population.

The USDA has asked the Cooperative Extension Service to provide a list of every equine species in each state. This information will be necessary to control VEE should the disease continue to spread across the country.

The recent outbreak of VEE in Texas poses one of the most serious disease threats ever faced by the horse industry. More than 1,100 horses have died and more than 2,000 others have been infected with the disease.

The ratio on beef farms stands at one bull for twenty cows.

Intensive research continues in induced twinning, which may be available by 1980.

Right now, around 80% of the beef cows produce a live calf yearly. Given induced twinning, a calving rate of almost 160% might be possible. In other words, cattlemen would have the potential to more than double the number of slaughter cattle within a single year.

Approximately seven to eight million beef cows in the United States fail to reproduce annually. This is a sizeable loss to the industry through lower calf production and added costs, resulting from multiple services in breeding. The most promising method under research to solve this problem is to inhibit ovulation for a while by means of drugs, then withhold the drug. This would give the cow the desire to become a mother at a predicted time.

The control of sex may be achieved for the cattle industry by about 1980. At present, births run roughly half male, half female, but it is desirable to alter this proportion. For example, only cows from which replacement animals were desired would be bred to produce heifers.

All others would produce bull calves, which are about forty pounds heavier than heifers at weaning and about 10% more efficient in feed utilization—as steers. Control of sex may be accomplished in theory by separating sperm into male and female components. Then by artificial insemination, a rancher could obtain the sex of the cattle he needs for his particular breeding and feeding program.

The process of artificial insemination is truly remarkable, but induced twinning, control of the estrus cycle, and control of sex would certainly be a great boon to the cattle industry and the end result would produce more beef for the world population.

To prevent further spread of VEE, the USDA has also extended a Federal quarantine to 11 states in the South. In addition to Texas, the quarantined area covers Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, California, Arizona, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

In Delaware, horse owners, trainers and others who maintain horses, ponies, mules or donkeys, should report the number they have to the nearest office of the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service. Here are the numbers to call:

New Castle County 738-2506, 738-2507 (Newark)

Kent County 878-4675 (Dover)

Sussex County 856-2553 856-2554 (Georgetown)

4-H Club Talk

with Marion MacDonald

The Delaware State Fair has ended for another year and many Kent County 4-H'ers have become winners in many ways. 4-H'ers participated in a variety of activities from sewing to leading a dairy cow.

Dairy members began the busy week with the Kent County 4-H dairy show. This gave local members extra practice for the open show the following week.

Winners in the fitting contest were Chris Webb, Country Grove; John Webb, Country Grove; and Marty Dixon, Chestnut Grove.

Judges for the day were: Dr. Wilbur Hesselntine, extension dairyman and Dave Woodward assistant county agent.

State judging contests saw approximately 85 Kent 4-H'ers the best. The best varied from skirts to sheep depending upon the contest.

Those receiving the premium money awards are: Clothing, Terry Gallo, Harrington Sunshine; Carol Waldbusser, Woodside Emeralds; and Tommie Jones, Double "T".

Foods, Rita Messick, Peach Blossoms; Becky Messick, Peach Blossoms; Denise Krise, White Oaks; and Esther Dill, Paradise.

Horticulture, Debbie Grier, Woodside Emeralds; Junanne Jerread, Peach Blossoms; and Carol Blessing, Houston Cardinals.

Home management, Lou Ann McKnatt, Harrington Sunshine; Linda Newnom, Debra Hopkins, and Rochelle Messick, Peach Blossoms.

Livestock, Richard Gooden, Fox Hall; Cheryl Warren, Woodside Emeralds; Paul Wilson, Fox Hall; and Dawn Webb, Country Grove.

Dairy, Charmayne Pierson, Chestnut Grove; Susan Aptt, Houston Cardinals; and Rodney Comegys, Fox Hall.

Field crops, Steve Mesibov, Peach Blossom.

Horse, Alex Gooden, Fox Hall; Debbie Sibbold, Kent Light Horse; and Linda Gibson, Double "T".

Poultry, Brenda Hopkins, Peach Blossom; and Colleen French, Westville.

4-H'ers also competed for honors in the state visual presentation contest. Individual and team presentations were given in agriculture, home economics and related areas.

Those winning from Kent County were: Vegetables and fruits, individual, Cheryl Sawyer team, Carol and Nancy Waldbusser; home improvement, team, Linda Newnom and Terry Bowman; clothing construction team, Rita Messick and Christine Marsh; clothing care, individual, Debbie Winebrenner; home beautification, individual, Maureen Boylan; health, team, David Mesibov and Jay Cahall.

Electric, team, Dale Virdin and Bruce Pleasanton; wood-working, individual, John Garey; automotive and tractor care, team, Becky Messick and Junanne Jerread; horticulture team, David and Dennis Webb; livestock, team, Cheryl and Greg Warren; and dairy, team, John and Chris Webb.

It Seams To Me

Janet Reed

This is the era of colorful, bold printed fabrics, beautiful to see and works of art. In many cases, they are best displayed as works of art. Once we fashion them into a three dimensional garment, our figures can distort the printed design. Or the printed design can appear to distort our figure.

These bold, distinct designs must be planned for the individuals who wear them. If you have a dress form, this is one time you will find it helpful. As you drape the fabric on the dress form, study where the lines and colors fall on your body, and judge the design in relation to your proportions.

Is the design more pleasing on you in crosswise or lengthwise direction? Is the motif at the neckline complete or does it appear to be chopped off in an unlikely spot?

Where will the hemline be, and does the design end at the hemline? Will sleeves make the design confusing? Would short or long sleeves or a sleeveless version be more pleasing? Do straight or diagonal darts cause less distortion of design.

Strong, rounded motifs which fall at bust or hip line repeat the curves of the figure and make them seem more prominent.

Borders or large block designs, such as the scarf print, take careful maneuvering so the lines will fall on your figure to give the effect you want. Sometimes the borders can be cut away and resewn in opposite directions, or in a new location, or used as trim, or even omitted.

Don't get carried away with the trim idea, though. Too many ideas in one garment give a "busy" confusing effect. The bold print attracts enough attention without the addition of trim or fine detail. On the other hand, borders of relate fabrics can "hold in" the design so that it seems more appropriate for clothing.

If you are resewing borders of stripes of the fabric to other parts of the garment, try to stitch at the edge of a stripe or a color change. If the machine stitching is balanced and the seam is well pressed, it will be practically invisible. Allow enough fabric for extra seams and matching.

Keep the dress design as simple as possible. The fewer the seams, the fewer problems you'll run into.

If you plan for a back zipper closure and find the center back seam runs through the center of a motif, move the seam over to a less noticeable spot. The zipper doesn't have to be in the center.

This will require a straight seam, however, and the neckline finish may need some adjusting. Plan for this in cutting so you'll have the necessary seam allowances.

Before you are carried away with the idea of working with one of these designs ask yourself if the design is really for you. Will you feel comfortable wearing it?

Some of us just aren't that type, and we might as well admire them on someone else or in the fashion magazines. Maybe we had better stick to plain fabrics. They're a lot less trouble.

Newark Youth Wins Feeder Pig Roundup

Robert Suppe, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Suppe, Newark, won top honors for his hog in the 4-H feeder pig roundup, August 2, at the Delaware State Fairgrounds, Harrington. His medium weight hog was grand champion of the show, and, in addition, he won first place for a hog entered in the lightweight division.

Reserve champion feeder hog, which also took second place in the medium weight division, was raised by Regina Baumann, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Donovan, Smyrna.

Suppe's grand champion hog was a 213-pound Hampshire gilt bred by Halsey Knapp of Nassau Farm Market, Nassau. The reserve champion feeder hog was a 215 pound Hampshire-Yorkshire cross bred by Clyde Betts and Son, Milton.

First place for fitting and showmanship went to Miss Baumann. Bruce Conoway, Georgetown, was second; Carey Belt, Georgetown, third; and Vicky Godwin, Georgetown, fourth.

In the lightweight division, Suppe placed first; Carol Ann Wright, Wyoming, second; Miss Baumann, third; Susan Gott, Newark, fourth; and Richard Humphrey, Goldsboro, Md., fifth.

Suppe and Miss Baumann placed first and second respectively in the medium weight division. Couler Passwaters, Bridgeville, was third; Miss Wright, fourth; and Belt, fifth.

In the heavyweight division, Doug Higdon, Townsend, placed first and Linda Hearn, Georgetown, was second. Third place went to Robert McClements, Dover while Miss Godwin was fourth and Debbie Hearn, Georgetown, was fifth.

Nearly 90 hogs were entered in this year's roundup. The 4-H members in the project each started with 60-pound feeder pigs April 24; they raised them until the animals were sold after the annual roundup. Lightweight hogs weighed up to 200 pounds, medium weight hogs were 200 to 230 pounds and heavyweights were 230 to 295 pounds.

Suppe's grand champion hog brought $60 a hundredweight, while Miss Baumann's reserve champion sold for $30. Other hogs ranged in price from $19.25 to $21 a hundredweight.

A Lesson For Teachers From DHA

Chances are that sometime during the coming school year, virtually every classroom in the country will have at least one child with a streptococcal infection, notes the Delaware Heart Association. It might be strep throat, scarlet fever or middle ear infection, possibly leading to rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease.

Because prompt action by the teacher in spotting the ailing child can lead to treatment that may prevent rheumatic fever or minimize its after effects, the Heart Association has published a 16-page booklet titled "Children With Heart Disease: A Guide For Teachers."

Rheumatic fever is an inflammation that may affect many parts of the body and, when it scars the heart valves, the result is rheumatic heart disease. Unlike other kinds of heart damage, rheumatic heart disease is preventable. By checking the strep infection, rheumatic fever, and thus rheumatic heart disease, is stopped.

This booklet gives the signs of a strep throat that distinguish it from a regular sore throat. It also describes the possible signs of active rheumatic fever, and offers advice on what to do in case strep infection or active rheumatic fever is suspected.

Should a child who has rheumatic heart disease or a congenital heart defect in the classroom, "Children With Heart Disease" gives reassurance and assistance to the teacher in working with such a child. Sections on restrictions on activity, heart surgery and the child's return to school are included. The booklet has an appendix containing information on vocational counseling, sources of help for medical services, innocent heart murmurs and teaching aids available from the Delaware Heart Association.

Tips For Children's Learning

Children begin learning the day they're born, not the first day of school.

They learn from everyone and everything around them. But, as a parent, you have the greatest responsibility to help your children learn, says Miss Mary Ann Finch extension human relations specialist at the University of Delaware.

Every pre-school child considers his parents the best possible source of information, about anything. So, when your youngsters asks a question, give him true, believable answers that he can understand. If you don't know the answer, admit it, but also tell him you'll help him find the answer. And then, be sure you do.

Talk to him about his ideas, and treat those ideas with respect. This is the beginning of those two-way communication channels you'll need so desperately when your child becomes a teenager.

Give him a chance to talk, to express himself. He needs to put into words what he feels and thinks. Ask him questions that help him think out his own answers, recommends Miss Finch.

Of course, your example is all-important, she adds. For example, if you read and your child sees you enjoy reading, he, in turn, will be interested in learning how. Visit libraries and choose books for him as well as yourself. Even a very young child enjoys being read to.

Learning should be fun and exciting; if you make it seem that way to your child, he'll be eager to learn more. If you make learning a tense, pressure-filled situation, his feelings may be very different.

Learning need not be as tightly organized as it will be in school. A snowflake, a new bird, a wiggly worm, a magazine picture—even a mud puddle—can offer opportunities to teach if you're alert.

Of course you can also provide many rich background experiences, too, says Miss Finch. A trip to the zoo, nearby museums, firehouses, stores are all worthwhile.

Help your children learn; tomorrow's complex world needs alert intelligent adults.

Veteran's Administration News

Q - I am a veteran who wishes to get in with a non-veteran to get a G.I. loan. Will the VA guarantee such a loan?

A - Yes, but the amount of the loan on which the guaranty or insurance is based will be in proportion to the veteran's interest in the loan. It may be difficult to find a lender willing to make such a loan.

Q - I drew a VA pension as the widow of a World War I veteran, and my only other income is from Social Security. Since I am unable to perform household chores, will the VA give me an allowance to help pay the people who do my housework?

A - There is a law which provides an extra allowance for widows drawing death benefits if their disabilities are such that they require regular aid and assistance of another person. In order to determine your eligibility for this allowance, suggest you submit to the VA office having jurisdiction of your claim a report of a complete physical examination by your physician. Your eligibility for the allowance can then be determined.

Q - My husband has not changed the beneficiary on his $10,000 National Service Life Insurance since our marriage. He says it is not necessary to change the beneficiary, since the insurance is automatically paid to the wife of a veteran. Is this true?

A - No. The Veterans Administration must pay the designated beneficiary of record. If your husband wants you to receive the proceeds of his NSLI policy, he must name you as beneficiary.

Q - I have National Service Life Insurance which has been in force on the Ordinary Life Plan since 1945. My children are grown now, and I am thinking of discontinuing the payment of premiums and taking a paid-up policy. If I do, will my dividends be discontinued?

A - No, but they will not be as large as those on your existing policy. If you take a paid-up policy, the amount of insurance in force will be less than the present face value of your policy. The dividends will be computed on this reduced insurance coverage.

Q - How does a veteran or serviceman go about getting a mobile home loan?

A - He should first obtain a Certificate of Eligibility from the nearest VA regional office. Then, he should find a mobile home of his choice which meets VA standards, arrange for rental or purchase of a mobile home lot, and apply to a private lender for a loan.

Q - My father served on the Mexican border in the U.S. Army before World War I. Is he qualified for a pension?

A - He may qualify for disability pension payments provided he served honorably for 90 days or more in Mexico, or in one of the adjacent states, or in Guatemala

Del. 4-H'ers Win State Fair Awards

More than 100 Delaware youngsters received cash awards in the 4-H demonstration and judging contests held during the recent Delaware State Fair.

The top three winners in the clothing judging contest were Nancy Smith, Greenwood; Burtie Gove, Townsend; and Terry Gallo, Harrington. Winning top honors in the foods judging competition were Rita Messick, Greenwood; Becky Messick, Greenwood; and Sharon Feucht, Middletown.

Karen Whaley, Laurel, won first place honors in the clothing construction demonstration and Rita Messick, Greenwood, and Christine Marsh, Harrington, were first in the team competition. Debbie Winebrenner, Harrington, was first in the clothing care demonstration, while Cindy Shaffer and Laura Blakeif, both of Wilmington, captured the first place team honors.

The top individual winner in the home improvement demonstration was Barbara Baxter, Newark, while the team of Miss Newsum and Terry Bowman, Greenwood, also took top honors.

Steve Messibov, Houston, was the winner in the safety demonstration contest; Ellen Fuhmeister, Susan Craig and Nancy McCave, all of Wilmington, were the winning safety team. The top winner in the home beautification demonstration was Maureen Baylan, Maryland, while the team of Gail Stacy and Anne Huffman, both of Wilmington, took top honors.

First place in the conservation demonstration competition went to Susan Whitaker, Newark, with Ann and John Lepkowski, Townsend, taking the team honors. Dan Roberts, Bear, was the winner for the entomology demonstration with Harold Goff and Byron Moxley both of Newark, winning the team award.

The top winner in the electric demonstration contest was David Messibov, Houston and Jay Cahall, Greenwood, receiving a first place finish in the team competition. Winning top honors in the breads and cereal demonstration were Cindy Moore, Bridgeville, and team members Virginia Roberts and Colette Jaco, both of Bear.

Linda Roberts, Bear, took first place in the meat and or British Honduras, or served at sea in the area of Mexico. He should contact his nearest VA office for full details.

Safety Hints

by Steven Mesibov

Fire! Fire! Your house is on fire! Quickly, what do you do? Knowing these few rules may save your life:

If you think there is a fire in your home don't fling doors open without first checking to see if it is hot. If the door is hot block it with furniture or a mattress to keep out smoke and gases. Always crawl to safety as the air is usually better near the floor. Take short breaths through your nose and cover your face with a damp cloth to filter out the smoke. And remember as soon as you have made certain everyone is safely out of the house be sure and call the fire department.
