

Man Arrested in Hammondtown Death

Nine months and a day after a man died in a flaming shack near Farmington, state police have arrested a Harrington man on a warrant charging him with murder.

Police arrested Charles R. Derrickson, 32, of near Farmington Monday night, after he was indicted by the Kent County Grand Jury for first-degree murder in the death of Carl W. McNeal, 25, of Tyrone, Pa. Police said McNeal was the "Farmington Man" who was shot in the head and then died in a flaming, two room shack at about 2:30 a.m. on Dec. 12.

The dead man had been known only as the "Farmington Man" until Tuesday when state police personally notifying McNeal's parents in Tyrone, released his name. State police spokesman Alan P. Poland said the dead man was identified as McNeal during the investigation, but would not say how.

Derrickson was arrested under a warrant issued by Superior Court Judge James B. Messick after the grand jury had handed down its indictment. He is being held without bail in the Delaware Correctional Institution at Smyrna.

Poland said the state police investigation was completed while the grand jury was still in session, so the state sought an immediate indictment.

When the lonely shack and the charred body were originally examined after the early morning fire, state police said they had no reason to suspect foul play.

But a month later, state Medical Examiner Ali Z. Hameli had pieced together some skull fragments and found a hole a third of an inch in diameter made by a bullet that was found in the debris on the building's floor.

Hameli said his tests showed that the man had been shot in the back of the head and, while he was still alive but unconscious someone set the shack on fire.

According to Hameli the 25-caliber copper-jacketed bullet was found on the floor because, as the heat from the fire built up, the victim's head exploded and the bullet fell out.

The shack, owned by a Philadelphia man who used it for summer vacations, was just a pile of smoldering ruins at 2 p.m. Dec. 12 when it was discovered in Hammondtown Woods by Robert Ellers of Farmington. Ellers reported the fire to state police.

Police probing the ashes came upon the charred, unrecognizable body. The man's clothing had been burned off, making his identity a mystery, but he was wearing a calendar wristwatch that showed the date and the time: 2:31.

Jardine Tells Civic Leaders Of Proposed EDA District

The vice president of a natural gas company told Harrington civic leaders Wednesday night, Sept. 8, of the efforts of a county group to have part of Kent declared a federal Economic Development Administration unit.

John Jardine, chairman of the Positive Action Committee, an offspring of the Greater Dover Chamber of Commerce, said a goal of his committee was 1000 jobs in the area.

Turning to EDA, Jardine said President Nixon wants to try out six economic development centers in the nation. "We are being considered as one," Jardine explained and asked local officials to let him know what projects they want.

The Positive Action Committee, comprising representatives of Kent municipalities, wants an EDA district from Smyrna to Harrington to Milford. If this area is accepted, EDA grants many advantages, such as second mortgages to businessmen, public agencies, Indian tribes, and local development groups. EDA also grants loans to new businesses or to expand existing firms.

Industries have expressed an interest in locating in the Harrington area if it is included in an EDA district.

Returning to Jardine, he said Gordon Berry, EDA regional director, was impressed by the raising of funds to attract industry in Kent County. It was, he added, one of the few areas which has done so. In conclusion, Jardine explained we have the wherewithal and the prospects.

Information Center On Economic Actions Is County ASCS Office

All residents of Kent County may obtain answers to questions on operation and interpretation of the Presidential order of Aug. 15 on prices, rents, wages and salaries from the Kent County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Office, according to Russell C. Bowdle, chairman of the county ASCS committee.

County ASCS offices throughout the United States have been chosen as information centers to answer questions from all citizens on President Nixon's executive order which is designed to stem inflation and strengthen the national economy.

The Kent County ASCS office is receiving official answers to questions concerning the president's action, and any person in Kent County who wants or needs precise information should get in touch with the county office, Bowdle said.

The Kent County ASCS office is located 3 miles south of Dover on U.S. 13. The mailing address is 2319 So. Dual Highway, Dover. The telephone number is 697-3601.

In charge of the office is Lister Hall Jr., county executive director. The office has a staff of three persons. "Ours and all ASCS offices throughout the nation, will function as information centers in all locations outside of highly urbanized areas," Hall said.

County ASCS offices are not to handle complaints or appeals, he said. They will serve only to provide official information. Persons with complaints will register them with the most convenient district or sub-district office of the Internal Revenue Service.

Persons or guesses made by ASCS county office people. They will answer only those questions for which they have been supplied answers. If they don't know the answer to a specific question, they will say so. If a member of the public wants the county office to obtain an answer, the question will go by phone or mail to the nearest IRS district office," Hall said.

Normal function of ASCS county offices is to administer farm action programs of the U.S. Department of Agriculture on the local level. County committee chairman Bowdle said ASCS service to farmers will continue without interruption.

"Our county office people welcome the opportunity to serve their country and are happy to make the extra effort in this crucial period," he said.

KENT COUNTY COMMENTS

by JOSHUA M. TWILLEY
Levy Court President

Kent County just recently became the recipient of federal funds in the amount of $112,500 under the emergency employment act.

Basically these funds are to provide jobs primarily for returning Vietnam veterans, but can be used for unemployed or underemployed individuals. The jobs are to be in the areas of public service such as health care, public safety, crime prevention and control, recreation, and the maintenance of parks, streets and other public facilities.

One of the problems facing the Levy Court is fair and equal allocation of these funds in areas which would best benefit the citizens of the county. To achieve this, the Levy Court is in the process of contacting each town, city and municipality to determine their needs. Based in a per capita distribution, the fair amount is $1.40 times the amount of population.

We have already received requests from schools in the county regarding the utilization of these funds to hire the teachers' aides.

A prime concern in the county has been the establishment of an emergency service call board for dispatch and coordination of rescue and emergency equipment by the police and fire companies. We are researching the possibility of applying a portion of these funds to employ individuals for this much needed service.

Available now through the initial federal funds received, are positions within the county government such as clerk-typist, property assessors, building inspector, and draftsman trainees. Application for these jobs can be made through the Levy Court by contacting Mrs. Robert Hartley, 673-4370.

Kent County is joining with all other counties throughout the United States to provide jobs for people that would not otherwise be available, and fulfill the needs in the areas of public service.

Observe Fly-Free Planting Dates

Delaware wheat growers can avoid heavy Hessian fly damage this fall by observing fly-free planting dates, according to Frank Boys, extension entomologist at the University of Delaware.

Approximately fly-free dates are October 3 in New Castle County; October 8 in Kent; and October 10 in Sussex. Generally, no wheat should be seeded before the first week in October. Wheat planted before this time may suffer extensive damage from Hessian fly maggots.

Mature Hessian flies lay eggs on young plants, particularly wheat, during August and September. Maggots hatching from these eggs start to feed on plants immediately.

Only maggots that have advanced to the pupal stage before cold weather begins develop into mature flies. Less mature maggots are killed by the first heavy frosts, but not before inflicting damage to the host plant. This damage can drastically reduce yields the following year, according to Boys.

By observing fly-free dates, farmers can take advantage of an insect control program that eliminates the need for chemical controls, Boys adds. This control is effective because Hessian flies reproduce only in the early fall. If the proper host plants are not available, reproduction declines and the insect population decreases. Complete eradication is impossible, however, because several wild plants are also suitable hosts for Hessian fly maggots.

U. Of D. To Dedicate Ice Arena & Outdoor Pool

Dedication of the University of Delaware's ice arena and outdoor pool will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Dr. E. A. Trabant, university president, will accept and dedicate the facilities, to be presented by Edmond Du Pont, chairman, committee on grounds and buildings, university Board of Trustees.

David M. Nelson, director of physical education, athletics and recreation at the U. of D. will preside at the ceremony.

Del. River And Bay Authority

A new high for weekend traffic was set during the month of August for the Delaware Memorial Twin Bridge. Traffic for the weekend of August 20, 21 and 22 was 223,901. The previous weekend high was 215,414.

Traffic on the Delaware Memorial Bridge this August increased 92,725 vehicles over August, 1970. These statistics were made public by Theodore C. Bright, general manager, in his monthly report to the commissioners of the Delaware River and Bay Authority.

Bridge traffic for August was 1,927,660 vehicles compared to 1,834,935 for August 1970, an increase of 92,725 vehicles or 5.1%.

Bridge traffic for the twelve month period ended August, 1971 was 17,211,097 vehicles compared to 16,358,134 vehicles for the twelve month period ended August, 1970 an increase of 852,963 vehicles or 5.2%.

Since August 16, 1951, 232,391,864 vehicles have crossed the Delaware Memorial Bridge.

Members of the skating club of Wilmington, a group of accomplished amateur skaters, will present a exhibition in the arena after the dedication.

Skaters will be Judy Schwomeyer and James Sladky, who placed third in world dance competition in 1971; Cozette Cady and Jack Courtney, who is a former world's champion in men's roller skating competition; Jane Pankey and Richard Home, world roller skating dance champion in 1970; and Alice Stockfleth, Robin Rock and Leigh Byrne, all of whom have been winners in area competitions.

Attendance at the dedication is by invitation. Tickets will be taken at the door.

The ice arena and outdoor swimming pool are located in the south campus athletic complex on the north side of the Delaware Field House.

Both facilities will be available to residents of Newark and other areas making up the university community.

Cost for the two was nearly $1.2 million, including construction, professional fees, equipment and furnishings. Both were built with private money, gifts to the university. The ice arena building measures 271 feet by 110 feet, with a skating rink surface of 85 by 200 feet that can accommodate 500 skaters at one time.

The olympic-sized pool is "T" shaped with areas for racing and measures approximately 166 feet by 44 feet, with a diving area of 44 by 38 feet.

The arena building will be used for dressing for swimming in summer and for skating in winter.

When there is no ice surface, the arena will be used for physical education and other activities. There will be a skating pro shop where skates will be rented and repairs made.

POWER TO SERVE AND PRESERVE

When electric energy is used for heating and manufacturing, no combustion occurs; no pollutants reach the atmosphere.

Granted, there are problems connected with generating electric energy, but they are concentrated at the power plants.

The problems are not insignificant, nor are they insurmountable. With patience, money, technology and cooperation, they can be solved.

Electric Energy is proving to be part of the solution of the problem of environmental improvement.

Today's trend is toward re-cycling: old cans into new cans; old glass into new glass; old automobiles into fresh metal; used paper into new paper; waste water into clean water.

It takes a lot of energy to carry out re-cycling. Much of it is, and will be, versatile Electric Energy.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

There has often been mention of the possibility of life on other planets throughout the universe and it seems after each moon trip of our present-day, lessens this possibility. Personally, I'm hoping and believing there is not, that this is —

A MIGHTY GOOD WORLD AFTER ALL

No slacker ever held a place
 In the hearts of his fellowmen
 No victor has ever won a race
 Till he tried and tried again.

With the sweet you must take the bitter
 Some honey will come with the gall;
 We must fight and not be a quitter
 It's a mighty good world after all.

When twilight fades and the golden glow
 Is sinking fast toward the west,
 A solace comes when it's time to go
 If you know you have done your best.

There'll be no need for a sad farewell
 When you answer the final call,
 For the part you played will always tell
 It's a mighty good world after all.

Henry J. Clokey, 74, husband of Bessie Galentine Clukey, died in Monticello Hospital, Monticello, N. Y., Tuesday after a lingering illness. Born in Dexter, Me., son of the late Joseph and Virginia LaPlante Clukey, he had made his home in Harrington 17 years. He was a prominent driver of harness race horses.

There are no mosquitos in Southern California, at least in the portion in which John S. Harrington erstwhile local resident, resides. In a letter to The Journal, he writes, "I noted an article in 8/18 issue regarding mosquitos, where Charles D. Murphy Jr. wants an appropriation to get rid of them. Of course, that's a lot of money to ask of a little state and I imagine a lot of oldtimers and politicians laughed and ridiculed the idea."

A $480,000 bond issue for new school construction has been awarded to Harris Trust & Savings Bank and Francis I. duPont, low bidders. The money raised thru the bond issue represents the local share of a total of $1,200,000 which will be used to build a 32-room addition to the present high school facility erected in 1929. The state will supply the other $720,000.

Harrington Bowling League
 Leah S. Wheeler

Taylor & Messick got off to a flying start on the opening night of the bowling season for the Harrington Business Bowling League by winning all four games from their counterparts, T & M Rejects. George Collins set the pace for the frontrunners, with Tom Brown coming through in fine form to help balance the attack. The T & M Rejects whose debut as a new team in the league was marred by their defeat, will take a little time to adjust, but should, before to late in the season, jell into a fairly strong team.

The Spoilers squeezed into second place by one pin by crushing Butler's Fuel in three games as Henry Jachimek, Jr., paved the way with a very strong showing with Leonard Outten also contributing a fine effort. The fueler's Sam Lyons rolled a fine 212 game and 569 series and Ron Wright hit a fine 213 game and 587 series to enable them to capture one game.

Just one pin out of second place is Wally's Garage who bested People's Restaurant in three games with David Ryan and Larry Breeding leading the way for the gang boys. People's got off to a sluggish start but should bounce back into a strong form they showed last year before the season gets too far advanced.

Fry's American, an old team, with a new name, holds the fourth place spot in the standings. LeRoy Wheeler led the attack with a good 221 game and a fine 533 series, with Stan Johnson also chipping in with a real fine effort, as they swamped Penn Central in three games, although Marion Brown made a very fine showing.

The Honey Dippers, the other new team in the league started out with good strength as they conquered Gallo & Stevenson in three games to hold down the fifth place spot in the standings. Bob Annett kept the Dippers on top with a real fine 202 game and 530 series. For the losers, Henry Jachimek, Sr., rolled well enough to enable the contractors to capture one game, with John McCloskey, another new name on the roster, adding a very good first night effort.

Last year's champs, Jarrell Fuel, got off to a slow start, as they were only able to manage a split with McKnatt Funeral Home. Stand-out bowler of the night in the local league was the superb bowling by Jarrell's Harold Melvin, who rolled two consecutive games of 216 while on his way to amassing a grand 631 series. Better get started boys if you want to catch him, as he is way out in front of the heap in the individual high series categorie at this point. Melvin's team-mate, Robert Jarrell, also scattered the pins for a real fine 224 game to lead in the individual high game category. McKnatt's Harry Jack added a fine 203 game and Harold Brode chipped in with a fine effort to balance the attack for the split.

Bowling under the auspices of Robbins Hardware, an old team with a new name captured two games from Quillen's Market for a fine start in the new season. Harry Brown hit a great 539 series to lead the Hardware team and Ralph Kemp contributed heavily toward aiding Quillen's in keeping things even.

Vernon Bowers Clocks 14.40 For 2.4 Miles

Vernon Bowers, probably one of America's top young distance running prospects, voiced a desire to "run for time" at Lake Forest's 2.4 miles, hill and dale cross-country course at Killen's State Park, last week.

Bowers, a slender freshman, scorched the tough layout in a very fast fourteen minutes and forty seconds. His first

Wood's Spartans Trip Cape Henlopen 7-0

Every new head coach hopes to win his first start after taking over the reins. Victory is doubly sweet, if fate decrees that the first opponent is coached by someone the rookie head coach, has previously served under.

At Lewes Friday night, Cape Henlopen coached by ex-Lake Forest, Bill Muehleisen, went down to a 7-0 defeat, at the hands of Lake Forest's Spartans, now coached by Albert Wood. The top defensive hit of the evening was made by Don Parker, followed by one of equal ferocity applied by Gary "Punky" Harrington.

Richard Devilly and Frank Daniels caught Lawrence Sorngren passes to set up the winning touchdown.

Seaford's talented Blue Jays, rated one of the top two Henlopen teams, are fresh off a landslide victory over Delmar and will meet the Spartans, at Harrington, on September 24.

Opening date is September 28, at Middletown, at Coach McDonald send his Spartans after a fourteenth straight winning season. Record to date 140 victories and 8 losses.

Cross-Country Interest High At Chipman

Jim Blades, Chipman's cross-country coach, has recruited a large squad of over thirty candidates and is working them into shape, as he aims for is third unbeaten season in three years of coaching.

Previously mentioned as doing very well were: Howard Parker, John Moffett, Ken Cerklefakie, Eric Hamsher, David Moore, Herb Jarrell, Jamie Simpson, Charles Scott, Wayne Voshell, Ron Woods, Dave Moffett.

On Monday night, two eighth graders, both first-time hurriers bolted into the lead spots in the 1971 rankings. Barry Doherty did a swift 15.35, followed by Jim Gayton in 15.55. Some of the veterans, particularly Parker, Moore and Scott, ran better than 15.25 last year, but Doherty and Gayton are in the drivers seats, at present.

Newcomer Jay Welch ran one lap of the two lap layout in a fast 7.45. He could have a fine year.

Don Baynard's 18.17 is a good seventh grade effort. We knew he could run thorough. He used to work out regularly in fast times, in 1968 and 1969. He'll move up the ladder. Others praised by Coach Blades were: Kevin Peck, Neal Smith, Rick Moore, Wade Brown, Arnold Sudler, Stanford Smith, Charles Walters, Rick Wright, Bob Mullane, John Morris, Ron Berry.

Some other candidates are of fairly recent vintage and most cases haven't been clocked yet.

TOWN AND COUNTRY TOPICS FRANCIS WEBB KENT COUNTY AGENT

With some sections of Kent County urbanizing like it is, it makes land use planning and zoning even more critical.

When looking ahead to orderly development, land-use planning and zoning becomes even more important than what it is today.

In the future, much attention will be given to these maps in determining highway location, school and factory sites, recreation areas and septic tanks or tend to flood basements.

The making of these maps has been a joint effort between the Soil Conservation Service, State Agricultural Experimental Station, and the Kent County Levy Court.

Some states have these maps for years and have put them to use in almost every aspect of land-use planning.

These maps are a real break-thru in aiding Kent County development groups—agricultural, industrial, and residential. Meetings are being held in the county to explain the purpose and usefulness of these maps.

We may be getting a break-thru in soybeans yields in the near future. Many can remember the progress that was made when hybrid corn

Fall Is The Time To Plant Ground Covers

If you have trouble maintaining grass in certain locations, don't overlook the use of a ground cover, says Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

Ground covers are some of the most useful landscaping plants available, he explains. They are especially useful in shady areas, along a steep bank or in an odd-shaped corner.

Late summer and early fall is a good time to plant ground covers, Stevens adds. The plants will have a chance to become well established before cold weather sets in.

Delaware homeowners have a wide selection of attractive ground covers from which to choose. In shaded areas, Stevens suggests pachysandra, English ivy, periwinkle (myrtle), ajuga (bugle weed) or creeping lily-turf.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Halberton

Nearly four thousand years ago, somewhere in Western Asia near the Caucasus Mountains and the Caspian Sea, the first known written mention of the plum was made.

A male sterile soybean line has now been developed by USDA scientists. In order to produce a hybrid plant, you must be able to control the pollen that is fertilizing the flower.

Now, with further research scientists have found a male sterile source that can be used in soybean production. The male sterility is very important in the production of a hybrid seed source.

According to USDA scientists, with a few more years research on this new male sterile line, there are real possibilities that soybean yields will have a break-thru.

The use for soybeans around the country is becoming more and more demanding, and production in the United States is not able to supply the demand in many of these foreign countries.

Free Horse Shots Given This Week

A statewide horse vaccination program is in progress this week in an effort to prevent a disease that has killed more than 1300 horses in Texas.

According to Dr. Wesley Towers, state veterinarian, the first case in the United States was found in Texas in early July. Since then, thousands of horses have been affected.

A complete schedule of vaccination locations, dates, times and veterinarians is available from county extension offices.

In Georgetown, phone 856-2553/54, Dover, 736-1448 and Newark 738-2506.

fruit is low in calories, a large plum has only 19. It also has plenty of nutrition in the form of iron and Vitamins A, B, and C.

When deciding on how many you will need, the following can give you an idea: 1 lb. yields 6-8 medium plums; 2-2 1/2 lbs. are needed for one 8 or 9 inch pie; 1 1/2 lbs. are needed to make 1 pint canned or frozen; 2-2 1/2 lbs. are needed for 1 quart of canned or frozen fruit; one-half bushel is approximately 28 lbs. and will yield 19-28 pints or 11-14 quarts of canned or frozen fruit Use plums for special treats such as plum tarts, plum and orange salad, steved plums, and plum sauce to serve over ice cream. Just let your imagination carry you, and you will find many uses for plums as a replacement in other recipes or in entirely new ways.

Peaches are still one of the best fruit buys. Some late varieties are still in heavy supply. Bartlett pears are another excellent choice, as this year's crop is a very large one.

It Seams To Me

by Janet Reed

What is the test for a good fitting garment? Comfort is probably the final evaluation, but how do you achieve a comfortable fit?

Seams and darts are used to mold a flat piece of fabric to our individual body contours. Seams are placed on the body to allow ease of movement with a close to the body fit.

For example, armhole seams are placed at the armhole joints so that the arm can move freely without binding. If this seam is too far out on the shoulder, it creates the effect of binding because it interferes with arm movement.

Shoulder seams and side seams are shaped to follow body contours are clues to proper fit. The shoulder seam should follow the highest line of the shoulder, and side seams should appear to fall straight down the sides of a garment.

Darts take up fabric so that the garment can be shaped to body curves. Therefore the dart should be aimed to throw fullness where it is needed. Bustline darts that are too high create bulges of fabric above the bustline.

Fabric wrinkles are clues to improper fit. A horizontal fold of fabric above the neckline usually is an indication the garment is tight at the neckline, or a fold of fabric between waist and tummy means that fabric should be released over the tummy.

Diagonal folds of fabric are further clues to improper fit. Trace the diagonal fold to its source, and you will find that fabric is too tight at one or the other end of the diagonal.

The amount of garment ease necessary for comfort will vary with the fashion silhouette. But in every fashion cycle the garment will fit body. At the present time, this close fit is at the shoulder and chest line with the garment hanging from this part of the figure.

USDA Proposes Ending Cash Change in Food Stamp Transactions

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has invited public comment on a proposed revision in Food Stamp Program regulations that would prohibit any cash change to food stamp users in retail transactions.

Currently, food stamp rules permit change up to 49 cents to be given in cash in a single transaction. The revision would require retail food stores to issue credit slips or tokens to food stamp shoppers for amounts up to 49 cents, with the credits good only for eligible foods in the same store.

Assistant secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng said the proposal was being made under USDA rule-making procedures in response to comments contained in the Agricultural Appropriations Conference Report of July 22. The Senate House conferees said the practice of giving cash change "threatens the success of the Food Stamp Program and should be stopped."

The proposal would also require that deposits on bottles or other returnable containers of eligible foods be paid by the purchaser in cash, instead of with food stamps as is the current practice.

The proposed revision will be published in the Federal Register on Friday, Sept. 10. Comments, suggestions or objections are invited and may be mailed or delivered so as to be received within 30 days by James E. Springfield, director Food Stamp Division, Food and Nutrition Service, USDA, Washington, D. C. 20250. Comments received will be open to public inspection.

proper fit. If the garment is not cut on straight grain, fabric distortions and wrinkles can form as the fabric tries to straighten after washing or cleaning.

Ag Students From High Schools To Represent Del. In Competitions

Agriculture students from six high schools will represent Delaware in competitions later this month sponsored by the Future Farmers of America and the 4-H Clubs.

At the Eastern States regional exposition, Springfield, Mass., on Sept. 17-18, Jim Harrison, Steve Rhinehardt, and Chris Webb of Caesar Rodney High School will compete in poultry and eggs judging. John Webb, David Webb, and Alex Gooden of Caesar Rodney will take part in livestock judging. Laurel's team of Joe O'Neal, Eugene Henry and Barry Kennedy will contest the dairy and milk judging.

Steve Long of Sussex Voc-Tech will compete in tractor driving, and Nyle Callaway, III, of Lake Forest will enter the star farmer event. Representing the state at the exposition of the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council at Kiamesha Lake, N.Y. on Sept. 22-23 will be Newark High School's Keith O'Connell, Nata Bolton, and Joey Dickerson. Laurel's team originally qualified for this event, but commitments to football keep the team from competing in New York.

E. J. Steen of Sussex Voc-Tech will compete as star poultryman.

Delaware students qualified for regional competitions by winning state contests held at the Harrington Fair in July. Costs of the participation are met by state funds and by sponsors.

State FFA advisor is Fredric E. Myer, supervisor of agricultural occupations, the State Department of Public Instruction.

Asparagus Aphids Found In Delaware

Delaware asparagus growers should check carefully for early signs of a new insect pest—the asparagus aphid.

The first aphids were recently found in Kent County, reports Frank Boys, extension entomologist at the University of Delaware. Although these aphids were discovered in wild asparagus, he says farmers can expect to find the pests in commercial plantings, too.

Asparagus aphids often do dwarfing of mature plants and have a shriveling effect on young seedlings. This aphid may also cause extensive rosetting of the bush (clumps of branches or leaves).

The sucking insects usually feed on tender young growth or under the bracts of the plants. But since these aphids are so small—you may need a hand lens to see them—and the same color as the grass, they usually go undetected until excessive damage is done says Boys.

To control the aphids, the entomologist recommends treating infested plantings to one quart of 57 per cent malathion per acre.

Proper Pickling Procedures

Carry on a tradition—the spicy, pungent, sweet-sour taste of grandpa's pickles and relishes may live again for today's families.

Although food markets offer a wide variety of pickles and relishes, many homemakers gain satisfaction from making their own pickles when garden vegetables and fresh fruits are in abundant supply.

Miss Marguerite Krackhardt, extension foods and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware says, "Pickling is a delightful art that well repays the time and care you must take for success."

Select tender vegetables and firm fruit for canning; however, pears and peaches may be slightly underripe. For whole pickles, use unwaxed cucumbers because brine cannot penetrate the wax. Choose the size best suited to a particular recipe and sort for uniformity.

Refrigerate any vegetable you don't use immediately after purchase or pickling; provide good ventilation. Definitely discard any vegetables with evidence of mold growth.

Be sure to remove all blossoms from cucumbers soften during fermentation, wash thoroughly to remove all dirt.

Follow the recipe exactly and use precise recommended proportions of best quality fruits or vegetables, sugar, salt, vinegar and spices. Then you won't have to add alum or lime for crisp pickles.

Pure granulated salt, if available, is best for pickling, says Miss Krackhardt. Don't use iodized salt; it may darken pickles. Uniodized table salt can be used but the brine may become cloudy from materials that have been added to the salt to keep it from caking.

Cider vinegar, with its acid taste, gives a nice blend of flavors, but it may darken light-colored fruits and vegetables. When light pickled beets, onions, or cauliflower, use a white distilled vinegar.

U. Of D. Students Study Cattle Waste Treatments

Treating cattle wastes with the chemical paraformaldehyde effectively controls odor problems with liquid waste storage, according to student researchers at the University of Delaware.

This summer six college of agricultural sciences students studied various problems associated with animal waste storage and the effects of animal wastes on plants and soils. To fund the research, they received a 7,600 grant from the National Science Foundation under the Student program.

Dairy farmers have for years simply spread raw manure as fertilizer on their fields. However, increasing concern about water pollution and complaints about odor from suburban neighbors may force the use of new methods of waste disposal, explains Mark Graustein, the university entomology senior who designed the research project.

Cost is a major factor in choosing an alternative method. Collecting wastes in a closed liquid holding tank is only moderately more expensive than spreading raw manure. However, odor is a definite problem when the wastes are stirred or the tank emptied.

Waste-drying systems are much more costly. Both storage alternatives prevent water pollution from run-off much better than merely allowing wastes to collect in the feedlot.

Working with the less expensive liquid system, the student researchers investigated a chemical method of reducing objectionable odors. Paraformaldehyde has several advantages, according to Graustein. It's a readily available, inexpensive chemical that sharply reduces bacterial action.

Paraformaldehyde controls the bacteria that produce the evil smelling hydrogen sulfide from manure. It also prevents the release of nitrogen as ammonia gas, another pungent odor.

Tests on the effects of paraformaldehyde treated manure on plant life showed it cut down on the germination of sorghum seeds and slowed down seedling growth. However, the chemical has no apparent effect on more mature plants, Graustein says. "Farmers should therefore apply manure treated with paraformaldehyde after seedlings have matured."

Best results were obtained with low concentration such as five-tenths of a percent of the paraformaldehyde.

Once the treated manure is spread, the chemical is lost rapidly, Graustein states. This prevents any possible residue problems or ill effects.

Homemade pickles and relishes add a special touch to meals and snacks, and, with the exception of the sweet type, are low in calories. Serve yours with pride; follow up to date methods and instructions.

on the soil chemistry. The research project also involved studies of plant response to manure, the use of insects to break down solid manure and an economic study of cattle waste disposal methods.

Norman E. Collins, assistant professor of agricultural engineering served faculty advisor for the project.

Other students taking part in the project were Ann Leshinski, Yeadon, Pa., a junior majoring in horticulture; Stephen Miller, Wilmington, junior entomology major; Mark Manno, Wilmington senior animal science major; Guilford Ide, Newark, junior entomology major; and Richard Payne, Wilmington sophomore entomology major. Nolan H. Baker Jr., Newark, university economics graduate, also took part.
