

Nominations Open For Kent Soil & Water Conservation Supervisor

The Kent County Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Supervisors announced this week that nominations may be made for a supervisor to serve on the district board. The term will start January 1, and continue for a four-year period. The election will be held in December. The date and time will be announced later.

Any interested farmer or landowner who desires to be a candidate for election to the board may be nominated by ten or more farmers or landowners of the county.

Three requirements that a candidate must meet are as follows:

- 1. Be a Kent County farmer resident.
2. Receive the written en-

National Guard Changes To Signal Corps

Delaware Army National Guard units in Kent and Sussex County changed from the Transportation Corps to the Signal Corps on Nov. 1.

The units will not have the mission of providing telephones and teletype service, by either wire or radio, to all other army units operating in their assigned part of a field army's combat area.

Brig. Gen. Austin C. Chidester, commander of the 261st U.S. Army Strategic Communications Command, with headquarters at Dover, said the change will give Delaware again the advantages it once had when most of the units were artillery, before the Guard's January 1970 reorganization.

"With most of our units in the Signal Corps and trained in electronics - related operations, our guardsmen can look toward promotion and advanced technical training wherever opportunities arise. For the past two years, guardsmen have for the most part been limited to opportunities that came up in other units of the same branch," Gen. Chidester said.

In the reorganization, the 198th Transportation Battalion headquarters at Milford will become the 280th Signal Battalion, regaining the number it had as an artillery unit before 1959.

At Harrington, the 2198th Transportation Co. will become the 2198th Signal Platoon (Forward Area).

Detachment No. 1 of the 2198th Transportation Company, now at Milford will become the 199 Signal Co. (Army Area), moving to Georgetown, where it will replace the 2199th Transportation Co. which will be inactivated.

Detachment No. 1 of the 2199th Transportation Co., at Dagsboro, will move to Harrington to become the 2199th Signal Platoon (Forward Area) joining the 2198th platoon here.

I.O.O.F. Grand Lodge To Install Officers Sat.

The annual session of the Grand Lodge of Delaware, Independent Order of Odd Fellows will be held Saturday at Lake Forest North Elementary School, Felton.

Grand Master Thomas L. Kates will preside over the meeting. Following the day session, there will be a public installation at 8 p.m. The public is invited to witness the past grand officers installing the newly elected and appointed Grand Lodge Officers of Delaware Odd Fellows for 1971-72.

Fire Company Auxiliary News

The meeting was called to order Nov. 8, by the president, Dorothy Collins. She introduced three new members to the auxiliary. Following the customary reports of the officers, balloting on a candidate for membership took place. We are pleased to have Mrs. Cindy Brode join us.

The auxiliary will serve the Fire School at Dover Nov. 21. Preparations for the dinner will not be necessary Sat., Nov. 20. All members who wish to help with the dinner, please report to the Firehouse at 8:30 a.m., Sunday, Nov. 21.

Dec. 18, the auxiliary will serve a dinner at the firehouse to members of the Equitable Life Insurance Company. Final plans for this event will be made at their December meeting.

A motion was made to purchase 13 pairs of curtains for the dining room. We are sure these will be an attractive addition for our coming events and the holiday season.

Dec. 13 will usher in a covered dish dinner for members. Please bring your own place setting and a $1 gift with your name inside to be exchanged. Our regular meeting will follow the dinner.

Jan. 19 the auxiliary will serve the Kent County firemen and Jan. 25 will be our turn to serve the Kent County ladies.

The treasurer, Betty Taylor announced that $185 profit was made on the "cakeless bake." Thanks to all who helped make this event such a success.

Nomination of officers for 1972 was made. Officers will be elected at our December meeting.

The Kent County Ladies Auxiliary will meet at Frederica Nov. 16.

Those members of the auxiliary who do not have transportation to attend our meetings may contact the president. She will arrange for someone to drive you to the firehouse and carry you home after the meetings. We're having good attendance and hope to continue this trend at future meetings.

New Faculty Members At Lake Forest High School

Several new teachers have joined the staff at Lake Forest High School this year. Some are replacements and some are filling new positions resulting from increased enrollment.

Miss Faith Fallimore, from Greensboro, N. C., is teaching Spanish I and II and ninth grade English. She also sponsors the foreign language club. She graduated cum laude from Asbury College, Kentucky, with a bachelor of arts degree in Spanish and a minor in history. Miss Fallimore lives in Milford with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Griffin and attends Calvary Wesleyan Church in Harrington.

Three new teachers are recent graduates of the University of Delaware. Mrs. Joanne Statham (B.S.), Mrs. Eileen Redden (B.A.), and Miss Pat Dyal (B.S.)

Mrs. Statham, who is teaching math at Lake Forest, is a 1967 graduate of Milford High School. She lives there now with her husband, Mike. Her hobbies include go-kart racing and playing the organ. While at the university, Mrs. Statham worked as a substitute teacher in the Newark district.

At Lake Forest, Mrs. Redden, a social studies major, is teaching geography and Problems of Democracy. She attended high school in St. Louis, Mo., and graduated from P. S. duPont High School in Wilmington. She is living now in the Felton area with her husband Allan, who works for the State Highway Department.

Miss Dyal teaches girls' physical education and coaches the J.V. hockey team. A native of Wilmington, she graduated from John Dickinson High School. She now lives in the Rodney Apts., in Dover.

Dan Seik is a "farm boy" from Pittsburgh. He is graduate of California State College, California, Pennsylvania, with a B.S. Ed in biological science and in January will complete graduate studies in counseling services at Indiana University of Pennsylvania. At Lake Forest he is teaching biology and physical science. He is single and lives in Dover.

The new senior social studies, Keith Phillips, commutes each day from Laurel where he lives with his wife, Ruth Ann and three daughters. He is a graduate of Laurel High School and Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., with an A.B. degree in history. He teaches P.O.D., economics and sociology and is advisor for the Booster's Club.

Ed Wheatley, a graduate of Harrington High School and Delaware State College is teaching boys' physical education. He is familiar to Lake Forest faculty and students since he frequently served as a substitute teacher while completing his studies at Delaware State.

The new library aide is Mrs. Shirley Reichelt, who also has often been a substitute teacher at Lake Forest. She attended Wesley College, and Goldey-Beacom Business College. She lives in Frederica with her husband, Robert and their son, Bob, Jr., who is a senior at Lake Forest. The Reichelts also have two married daughters. One of Mrs. Reichelt's many outside interests is music. She is assistant choir director and pianist for her church and frequently sings with her sisters for various charitable organizations.

Norman Greenfield from Dover is a part time teacher at Lake Forest High School this year. He is teaching a class in German II for the students who began their study of this language last year and will need two years of a language to meet college entrance requirements.

The latest addition to Lake Forest is Mrs. Dawn Neville. She has joined the English department to teach classes in twelfth grade and some special reading classes. Mrs. Neville is a graduate of Radford College, Radford, Va., with a B.S. in English and a minor in sociology. She has three years' teaching experience in Wicomico County, Md. She lives in Milford with her husband Bill who works for the Delmarva Power and Light Company in Harrington.

Ex-Milford Hotelman Dies At 88

Charles C. Windsor, 88, of 206 Northwest Front St., Milford died Sunday at Sharp's Convalescent Home, near Milford, after a long illness.

A native of Delaware, Mr. Windsor at one time operated Milford's Norman Hotel and the Windsor Cafe. For many years he also held auction sales on Saturdays for the nearby farming community.

He was also a member of the Milford Odd Fellows Lodge for more than 50 years. Mr. Windsor's wife, the former Stella Sharp, died in 1970.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Leroy P. Robinson and Mrs. Joseph E. Webb, both of Milford; and a sister, Mrs. James H. Salevan of Athol, Mass.

Services will be Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Berry Funeral Home in Milford. Interment will be in Odd Fellows Cemetery in Milford.

Jack-Lighters Apprehended

Environmental Protection Officers of the Division of Fish and Wildlife, Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control, apprehended two Marylanders illegally hunting deer at Woodenhawk, north Sussex County approximately one-half mile from the Maryland line, following extensive "stake out" operations.

Alvin Edward Harding, 22, of Hurlock, and Robert William Collins, 20, of Cambridge were convicted in Magistrate's Court Number 4, Seaford, on the following charges:

- (1) Hunting deer in closed season; (2) hunting without a valid hunting license; (3) hunting on Sunday, and (4) hunting deer by the aid of a spotlight.

Each was fined a total of $197.50 including court costs and in addition, sentenced to 30 days in the Sussex County Correctional Institution, terms to be served on consecutive weekend days.

Enforcement officers are concentrating their efforts against night hunting of deer. Illegal night hunting is not only detrimental to the resource but is extremely hazardous when loaded guns are carried in automobiles.

KENT COUNTY COMMENTS

by JOSHUA M. TWILLEY
Levy Court President

The University of Delaware presented an excellent, thorough report of Kent County and what it should do about a local service function budget.

To quote from the report, "concerning the central question about which this report is written, namely whether or not the county should adopt the local service function budget, our study indicates that this budget has a sufficient number of shortcomings to preclude its use in Kent County."

The report also recommends that Kent County residents pay for services by user fee wherever possible. It states that general services should be paid for by the General Real Estate Tax. It concludes that Kent County should plan its future this way and should not use a local service function budget.

The report indicates that the cost of zoning is the chief area where municipalities should receive financial credit. In that area it makes the following recommendation, and I quote, "It is possible that county assistance to local zoning can take the form of improved information on municipal boundaries and property lines resulting from the county's tax mapping program, since the total cost of general zoning administration will probably not be great enough to justify the administrative costs which tax rebates would require."

The report will be forwarded to the mayors of the municipalities in Kent County for their study and comments.

Harriers End Campaign With 7-5 Log

Lake Forest High's 1971 cross-country squad ended the season with a 7-5 record. Coach McDonald has never had a losing season in cross-country. Starting off in 1958 with an unbeaten team, he had only one loss in his first three campaigns. Entering 1971, his team had lost only eight times in one hundred and forty starts. The Spartans' performance this fall would have been a good one at most schools but Coach McDonald's teams never lost more than two meets in one season before.

Vernon Bowers, a sensational 14-year-old freshman, was the team's No. 1 harrier. After losing to veteran runners at the start of the season, he recorded a second-place finish in the Lake Forest Invitational and ended the dual-meet slate with a string of first-place finishes. His latest victories were in the Laurel, Caesar Rodney and Woodbridge meets. Lake Forest easily handled two of the three but were soundly thrashed by C.R.

At Laurel Bowers and veteran, Jackie D. Parker finished in a near-tie. Parker flashed his best form in some time, as both just missed the course mark of Phil Shuler, of Seaford. Shuler is the top downstate harrier. Both Spartans could have beaten the old standard except that neither had the proper lightweight flat shoes, required for a top effort on Laurel's hard-surfaced layout.

Eddie Thompson, another fine freshman performer was third in 14.08, followed by senior Rick Hamm, veteran Johnny Jackson and senior Larry Dill. Greg Henry, Laurel's top runner finished seventh preventing a perfect score by Lake Forest. Nevertheless the 15-48 triumph was a guarantee that the winners could not end up below .500.

Caesar Rodney, a good young team would have had a perfect 15-50 score if Bowers had stayed home. But, Vernon overcame a poor start to nip Steve Cimo, at the wire, to take first place honors. Caesar Rodney had never won a dual meet from either Harrington High or Lake Forest High, but were not to be denied.

At Woodbridge, Bowers coasted to a 13.51 clocking over the flat 2.45 miles course. Eddie Thompson, Jackie D. Parker, Rick Hamm, Larry Dill, Rick Sullivan and Ron Mosley, finished during an 18-second period to assure

Chipman Cross-Country News

Chipman School's cross-country team had two more stellar performances last week. Running on a cold, windy day, these seventh and eighth graders were impressive on the 2.4 miles Killen's Pond course.

Eighth grader Dave Moore, was under 14 minutes again (13:52) with Howard Parker and Harry Benson next. Rick Wright set a personal mark of 14:20 in fourth spot.

Lester Blaes, Barry Doherty, Kim O'Toole, Don Baynard, Ron Voshell and Jim Guyton completed the top ten. Only three and four seconds out of the top ten were newcomers Delmer Freeman and Jamie Simpson. The latter, a 12-year-old seventh grader, had the days best performance, as he ran strongly into the stiff wind and substantially improved his clocking to a fine 15:43. Wade Brown and Dave Dale were other seventh graders to set new marks.

At Laurel, Moore finished first in 14:23 for 2 1/2 miles. At 14:27 was Howard Parker, enjoying 1971's finest effort. Next came Barry Doherty, Jim Guyton, Kim O'Toole, Rick Wright, Don Baynard, 11-year-old Arnold Sudler, John Moffett, Ron Berry, Jamie Simpson, Ron Woods, Dave Dale, Stanford Smith, Delmer Freeman, Eric Hamsher, "Bullet" Cerklefskie, Bob Mullane, Wade Brown, Kevin Peck and John Morris.

Lake Forest of an 15-50 shut-out.

Sullivan, a freshman and Mosely, a sophomore, never ran until this season. Both have won varsity letters and each ran his finest race ever, at Woodbridge.

Rick Collison, Chris Adamo Rudy Bordley, and Ron Dunlap and Bob Kashner finished in front of the first Woodbridge runner.

Winterize Small Gasoline Engines

If your power mower, outboard motor and other small engine tools have finished another season, don't just shove them into storage without a little preventive maintenance.

Improper storage can cripple small gasoline engines, points out Thomas H. Williams, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware.

Gasoline left in the carburetor can become gummy and foul fuel lines, he explains. And excess moisture may cause rust on cylinder walls and pistons and allow piston rings to freeze. Salt water corrosion can also damage outboard motors that are not washed and flushed with fresh water after salt water use.

Most major engine manufacturers include storage suggestions in operating and maintenance manuals, says Williams. But if you've lost or misplaced the manual, here are several key steps to head off storage deterioration.

Drain all gasoline from the tank, start the engine and run until fuel lines and carburetor are empty. Now remove the carburetor bowl, clean it thoroughly and replace.

Remember to drain the crankcase of old oil and replace with new.

Next, remove the spark plug and clean or replace it if necessary. Before replacing the plug, however, pour a teaspoon of SAE 10 weight motor oil into the opening and crank the engine several times. This helps to distribute the oil and forms a protective coating over pistons and cylinder walls. Do not reconnect the spark plug lead before storage.

Finally, clean the engine exterior with an old toothbrush or wire brush, paying particular attention to the cooling fins on the cylinder and head. Coat all unpainted metal parts with grease or oil.

Store the engine in a dry place if at all possible, adds Williams. And leave the cap off the gas tank to prevent moisture collection. If the engine must be left in the open, cover it with waterproof fabric or plastic for protection from the weather.

Spartans Tame Wildcats 27-0

Delmar's Wildcats proved to be a rather toothless bunch and were tamed 27-0, by a band of football Spartans, at Harrington, on Friday night. Al Wood's Lake Forest eleven now boasts a 6-2 log and has away contests coming up with Dover Air, Saturday afternoon and Milford on Thanksgiving Day.

Lake Forest did not have to reach a high, emotional plane to defeat Delmar and may be able to handle Dover Air, on the same basis.

Quarterback Lawrence Sorden hit Frank Daniels with a pass good for a sizeable gain. Pass interference gave the Spartans more territory. Rick Porter plowed into the end zone for all the points the Spartans were to need this night. Daniels booted the extra point.

Jim Dill's interception and 22 yard return was spoiled somewhat by a clipping penalty, but Lake Forest turned it into a score anyway. Hern McBride and Rick Porter gained 13 yards on two ground plays. Two quick tosses to Neal Travis carried his team from the Wildcat 41 to the 9. Daniels' leading reception in the end zone and subsequent point after, by placement, made the score 14-0.

Daniels later failed on a 19-yard field goal try, when the pass from center was too high to get a kick away.

Delmar recovered a Spartan fumble and aided by two penalties reached the Spartan 10 before time ran out. The second infraction saw Rick Porter get a passer for a big loss only to see teammates pile on late and draw the fine.

In the fourth period, speedster McBride fled up the left sideline for 16 yards before Delmar's last man got him 29 yards out. Neal Travis swept right end for those 29 yards, then entertained the fans with his new dance creation "The End Zone Stomp."

Daniels drilled the point-after attempt through the uprights, but missed from the 23 when the officials had him kick again after a foul. Sordes took a punt, started right, reversed his field and went 59 yards for the final T.D. Daniels who must be top team scorer by now, added his ninth point of the evening.

Robin Callahan had the "Hit of the Week" and won "Offensive Player of the Week" designation. "Defensive Player of the Week" was Jim Dill.

See you at Dover Air, on Saturday afternoon?

Harrington Raceway Ends Racing Season

Paul Myer, Bridgeville driving ace stole the show on the final afternoon of the Harrington harness meeting when he wheeled home a "driving triple" to become the second chauffeur of the entire season here to accomplish such a feat.

The other pilot to bring home three winners in a single evening was Salisbury teamster Vic White, who rolled off with the leading percentage and dash driver awards. He was presented with a one hundred dollar check by track president Herman C. Brown. John Childress of Harrington was presented with a one-hundred dollar check as second leading dash driver. Dave Brock of Georgetown received honorable mention as third leading dashman. White had 26 wins; Childress 20; Brock, 19.

Brown announced that the statistics for the forty-third night meeting revealed that after 43 programs this fall compared to 42 programs in 1970, the average handle was up more than one-half of one per cent the attendance was off-slightly and the per-capita wagering was up more than four percent.

In 1971, $4,514,408 was pushed through the mutual windows compared to $4,384,932 last year. The average was $104,986 this year, up over the $104,403 in 1970. The average attendance was down just 85 persons on the nightly average; this year 2,308; in 1970, 2,393. Per capita wagering was $45.47 up considerably over $43.62.

Harness racing action moves 20 miles north of Harrington this Tuesday evening when Dover Downs opens its 78 program winter meeting.

Discipline For Young Children

Keeping your youngsters well fed and clothed is simple compared to giving each one just the right amount of love and discipline.

Yet these are just as basic, according to Miss Mary Ann Finch, extension human development and family relations specialist at the University of Delaware. She spoke recently to New Castle county mothers on discipline for their young children.

Miss Finch defines discipline as guidance — teaching, learning. "It is helping children grow toward self-discipline — a major goal of most humans. It is something for you to do and with your child, rather than what you do to your child. You talk and explain, you help him learn to think for himself. It isn't easy and it takes time, effort and constant attention to be effective."

Remember to show your love and affection for your children; affection gives security. Your child needs to know he is truly loved for himself, no matter what he does. If he knows — whether he succeeds or fails — he is still loved, then he feels secure.

You may do all kinds of physical things to show your love — clothing, feeding and caring for your child. Many times he needs that extra hug, that smile, or a quite time together with a book.

Miss Finch explains that the secure child is able to have a creative life because he is willing to try new things without fear of your rejection. This doesn't mean you must always accept everything he does, but always accept him.

Try to give your child choices only when you are willing to accept his decision. If you don't let him follow through with his choice, you're telling him he was wrong — so wrong you don't respect him or his choice. Before long, the child won't want to make and choice. A child who has never known respect is unable to respect himself or to respect you in return.

Listen to yourself. If you hear yourself saying, "I've told you over and over again not to do that," then your method of telling isn't getting through. You need a new method; you need to get out of a rut.

You also need to listen to what your child is saying. Just listen — you can discover what he is learning, what he needs to learn, and some real good clues as to which approach would work best.

Giving your child your help supplements his efforts and encourages him to develop his abilities. But you have to give just the right amount. And that amount varies with each child.

A child who receives too much help may become over-dependent; he may seek help before really trying for himself. If he receives too little help, he may constantly fail at his task and thus develop a feeling of inadequacy — or an exaggerated feeling of independence.

Remember that as your child grows, learns and changes, his rules will need to grow and change.

Your approval — your recognition of your child's achievement — is very important to him. It gives him encouragement and direction. Your child will tend to remember and do again those things for which he has received your approval.

Try to give your directions in the positive form. In other words, don't use "don't." Try not to give your child a roadblock without showing him a detour. It is very confusing to a young child to constantly be told no, don't, or stop and never be told just what it is he can do.

Discipline, Miss Finch points out, is often used to stop misbehavior, but it can't help your child unless he understands why he is wrong. Finding the cause is many times the real key to discipline.

Veteran's Administration News

Q — I have been married six years to a World War II veteran who still carries his mother as the sole beneficiary of his $10,000 G.I. insurance policy. Can I get the Veterans Administration to change it, since I am no longer to work?

A — No. Legally, VA must pay the proceeds of G. I. insurance to the beneficiary designated by the veteran.

Q — I have a certificate of eligibility for education benefits which I received three months ago after filing VA Form 21E-1990 and a copy of my discharge papers with VA. Can you tell me why I have received no checks?

A — The certificate of eligibility which you saw still have must be given to your school so it can certify your enrollment to VA. After VA receives this certification, your checks will start.

Q — Are there any income requirements for obtaining a mobile home loan?

A — Yes. You must show, among other things, that your present and anticipated income and expenses are such that it could be reasonably expected that the loan will be repaid, and that you are a satisfactory credit risk.

Kidney Disease Program Aides 10 Persons During 1970

Delaware's chronic kidney disease program, operated by the State Division of Physical Health, has aided 10 persons during its first year of operation.

Authorized by the General Assembly in 1970, the Chronic Renal (Kidney) Disease Program became effective No. 1, 1970. The purpose of the program is to assist with costs of kidney machine treatment, called hemodialysis, for patients who meet medical and financial eligibility standards.

The program was initially funded by the legislature with $58,000. Guidelines adopted by the program's advisory committee stipulate that during the first year of treatment, a patient is entitled to assistance up to $8,000. In subsequent years, the patient is entitled up to $4,000 assistance.

A report on the program's first year indicates that 12 applications were received, of which 10 persons were found to be both medically and financially eligible for assistance and four received partial help. One patient died during the year.

Programs funds were used to purchase or aid in the purchase of seven kidney machines. Three machines were purchased in full — one for a patient, and two for use in Wilmington hospitals. Cost of the other machine was covered largely by patient's insurance.

A public education program was undertaken to inform medical community and the public about the availability of the program.

Patients under the program received hemodialysis treatment at two hospitals in Pennsylvania and one in Wilmington. The advisory committee has approved training of new personnel, especially nurses, to staff Delaware facilities so that more of the treatment can be provided in the state.

According to the report, "the committee hopes that it will be possible to interest some physicians in the downstate area in hemodialysis so this treatment can be provided locally to the downstate population."

Questions about the program or applications for assistance should be directed to the Office of Social Work, Division of Physical Health, State Health Building, Dover, 678-4744.

Harrington Bowling League

Leah S. Wheeler

Well, it's all over but the shouting as Taylor & Messick has definitely sewn up the first third title with two weeks of bowling left as they have already accumulated a ten game advantage over their closest rival, George Collins rolled superbly well as he amassed a grand total of 589 with games of 203 and 214 included and Bobby Collins chipped in with a great performance hitting a grand 556 series, including a 208 game, with Kenny P. Outten adding a very fine above average effort to put the finishing touches on Taylor & Messick's conquest of the first third. The luckless victims of the T & M combine was the usually strong Honey Dippers, who only could muster a meek offense.

Leonard Outten proved to be a thorn in Jarrell's Fuel's side as he paved the way for the Spoilers in besting the fuelers in three games to move up into the runnerup spot in the standings. Outten's very fine 223 game and great 560 series, combined with Carl Wright's 528 series effort and above average efforts by most of the team proved to be the downfall for the Spoilers opponents.

Howard Tibbitt rolled a great 537 series and Sheldon Hayman came on strong to hit a great 516 set, enabling Jarrell's to capture one game.

McKnatt Funeral Home and Fry's American clashed in Tuesday night's fray and when it was all over, McKnatt's had four more games to their credit on the strength of Harold Brode's 201 game and grand 556 series and Donald McKnatt's grand 541 series effort. Rolling well for Fry's were Stan Johnson (526) and Bob Wyatt.

David Ryan and Larry Breeding bowled well for Wally's Garage although they could only manage to salvage one game against a fired up Robbin's Hardware. Harry Brown rolled a great 202 game and a grand 535 series to pave the way for the three game sweep by the Hardware quintet.

People's Restaurant's Cloyd Bushy bowled a fine 202 game and William Manship hit a great 200 game and a very good series, along with Stanley Smith's fine effort to lead them in a three-game sweep over Gallo & Stevenson. Henry Jachimek Jr., scorched the boards for a great 222 game and 542 series to enable the construction boys to salvage one game.

Penn Central swamped Quillen's Market on the fine bowling of Ken Layton (533) and Ken Baker. Quillen's Market was able to take one game of the setto by getting a great assist from Ralph Kemp and Dennis Pate.

Butler's Fuel took all four games from T & M Rejects on Ralph Butler's fine bowling along with a good effort from

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Holberton

If Ben Franklin had had his way, the turkey (not the bald eagle) would have been on the Great Seal of the United States. America gave turkey to the world; but the scrawny, wiry, wild creatures of colonial days are a far cry from our meaty, flavorful birds of today.

With some of the biggest turkey-eating days just around the corner, it's never too soon to talk about turkeys. Here are some tips well worth noting; they may help you make a better decision about the birds you will buy this season.

Turkeys come in the ready-to-cook form with 9 out of 10 birds sold frozen. These birds range in weight from 4 to 35 pounds, with the most popular being the 10 to 16 pound turkeys. This is the reason why it is best to buy the size you prefer early and store in your home freezer, or order for delivery just before Thanksgiving. These medium weight turkeys are called Hen or Young Tom turkeys. Larger birds, 18 to 22 pounds and up, may be sold as Tom or mature turkeys. This size is preferred when a large number of servings are required. The very large birds are used for making processed foods like soup, TV dinners, turkey pies and canned and convenience specialties.

Asbury W.S.C.S. News

A service of dedication, commitment and installation was the theme of the November meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Asbury United Methodist Church Tuesday evening, Nov. 2. Mrs. Norman Toadvine, president conducted the installation service.

Those who will assume their new offices on January 1, are: President, Mrs. John Shaffer; vice president, Mrs. Earl Thomas; secretary, Miss Oda Baker, assistant secretary, Mrs. Reginald McKnatt; treasurer, Mrs. Gary Homewood, assistant treasurer, Mrs. Earle Nelson, sunshine chairman, Mrs. Carroll Welch Sr.; publicity, Mrs. William A. Minner; local church responsibilities, Mrs. James D. Moore, Christian social relations, Mrs. Donald McKnatt; missionary education, Miss Heba Baker, spiritual growth, Mrs. Edgar Graef and Mrs. Louis Hopkins; membership, Mrs. Fred Powell; secretary of program materials, Mrs. Mark Willey and nominations, Mrs. Melvin Wyatt.

Circle leaders for the coming term will be Mrs. William Brode, Mrs. Mark Willey, Mrs. Frank Derrickson, Mrs. Allan Parsons, Mrs. J. Edward Taylor, Miss Pauline Hopkins, Mrs. William W. Sharp, Mrs. Charles Rapp and Mrs. Herbert Cain, Mrs. Jehu Camper and Mrs. Lillian Boone.

Mrs. Donald McKnatt reported that $193.90 was collected for the UNICEF drive Thursday, Oct. 28. 120 children participated in the collection with 38 being members of Asbury. This was the largest amount ever collected.

The annual fall meeting of WSCS will be held on Nov. 18 at Epworth United Methodist Church, Rehoboth. Theme for the day will be "Religion and Art." Reservations for luncheon must be made by Nov. 12 with Mrs. Homewood. The Rebekah Circle with Mrs. Ethel Bull and Mrs. Thomas Porter co-leaders, served refreshments to close the evening.

Mrs. Walter P. Ewing

Mrs. Lucy Homewood Ewing, 86, of Chesapeake City, died Tues., Nov. 2, at Calvert Manor Nursing Home, Calvert, after a long illness. Mrs. Ewing was a native of Chesapeake City, and had lived there most of her life. Her husband, Walter P. Ewing died in 1964.

She was a member of Trinity United Methodist Church, Chesapeake City.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Emily Knebls of Wilmington, Mrs. Mary McGurk of Chesapeake City and Mrs. Nettie Hindman of Avondale, Pa.; two brothers, Ernest Homewood of Harrington, and Arthur Homewood of Ft. Myers, Fla.; a sister, Mrs. Mary Gary of Collegeville, Pa.; seven grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Services were held at the convenience of the family. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests contributions to Trinity United Methodist Church, sent in care of the R. T. Ford Funeral Home, Chesapeake City.

Prepare For Winter

Keep the cold breezes outside this winter. Make sure your furnaces, heaters and other heating aids are all in working order.

"First and most obvious, check the fuel supply for furnaces, stoves, heaters and other units," says Miss Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware. "Lay in a supply of fireplace logs before bad weather slips in."

If you have a central heating system, get it checked each fall by a qualified heating engineer or contractor. Air filters and oil filters should be carefully checked and replaced if necessary. All motors, fan bearings and pump bearings should be oiled and otherwise cared for according to the unit's operation manual.

Are all the chimneys and flues on your house clean and safe. Without cleaning, old flues and chimneys which don't have flue liners can cause dangerous soot fires, Miss Morris cautions.

Hot water systems should be checked at all connections, and valves for possible leaks. Are "air locks" making your radiators inefficient? Loosen the small valve on top; the air will come out first. Tighten as soon as water starts running out.

A blazing fire in the fireplace makes any room cozy no matter how cold it is outside. Fireplaces, to be efficient heating units, must have dampers that are in order and work properly. If your fireplace is open and has no damper, either close the fireplace opening, install a new damper or install the glass-front type screen which serves as a damper to prevent heat loss up the chimney.

Often you can really save on heating bills — and add tremendously to your comfort — if you insulate your house. Add that needed insulation in the attic, side-walls and under the floor. Also install vapor barriers to protect insulation from moisture.

When you feel a cold draft coming from a window or door, you know that the opening, or its framing, is leaking air. "The remedy is easy," assures Miss Morris. "Just install weather stripping at movable joints and caulk the frames of all windows and doors." Check windows and doors for any that may need to be repaired or replaced.

If you haven't already, install storm doors and storm windows or insulating glass. They can cut heat losses in half. In addition, they can reduce the difference between room air and window temperatures; this produces a cold feeling when you're near a window in the winter and causes cold drafts across the floor.

A few other chores should be taken care of before winter sets in. They include replacing or fixing your house roof, gutters and outside steps and floors where snow and ice can be a hazard.

Miss Morris also suggests insulating any exposed water pipes which would otherwise freeze in cold weather. Rearrange the garage or carport so you can actually get the car inside for the first time in months. Winterize the lawn mower and store it safely, along with your garden tools.

Then, let the winter winds blow; you'll be snug — and snug — inside.

Bill Dellinger - Owner
Wolter's Dry Cleaning, phone 422-5316, located opposite the Fire House in Milford, is famous for the quality of their work. They offer a complete laundry and shirt service. People are often judged by their appearance. Our clothes mean a great deal in making that first impression a good one. It is wise to keep them neat and clean. It is an established fact that fabrics that have been cleaned often wear a great deal longer. Be thrifty and have your clothes cleaned often by Wolter's Dry Cleaning where all the help is experienced and their equipment is the best that is possible to secure. Remember, if your clothes don't look like new, they need to come to Wolter's Dry Cleaning. We, the writers of this 1971 Town and Country Review, feel that we can highly recommend Wolter's Dry Cleaning and refer them to all our readers for the finest cleaning service available.

Webb's Ford Lincoln & Mercury, Inc.

Joseph H. Webb - Pres.

In this day and age when so many companies are offering automobiles for sale and each has such a wide selection of models to choose from, it is very difficult for an individual to decide where to go for a new car. All the companies advertise that their cars are the best, but who is to say what car is. Obviously so all the cars on the market today must have their good points or they wouldn't have survived the ups and downs of the business. We therefore can conclude that the real difference in buying a car is who the dealer is you buy it from. The ideal dealer to buy a car from offers a fair price on the new unit as well as an honest dollar for the car you trade in, however, the most important factor is the service that one receives on his new car year after year. The writers of this 1971 Review would like to point out a dealer that considers the most important part of selling a car the quality service he can offer you after the sale. We are talking about Webb's Ford, Lincoln & Mercury, Inc. at the corner of No. Walnut & Rehoboth Blvd. in Milford phone 422-8071, dealers, of course, for the famous Ford, Lincoln and Mercury automobiles. See them today for a new or quality used car and you'll see why we say "Customer Consideration" is their byword.

Case Power & Equipment

Joseph H. Frazer - Manager

To be efficient, a piece of farm or construction machinery must be built to stand rough use. Case Power & Equipment features the famous J. I. Case line of machinery which has stood the test of years of rugged usage and has proven satisfactory in every phase. They also feature a complete parts and repair department so that when your equipment needs repair, they can give you the best service in the shortest time at the least possible expense to you. Be sure and contact them first when in the market for any type of farm or construction equipment. Just call for information or stop in the next time you are in the area and let one of their representatives show you the advantages of using J. I. Case equipment. In this 1971 Review we, the transcribers, suggest you depend on Case Power & Equipment, located on Harrington Road in Milford, phone 422-9751, for all your farm or construction equipment purchases, repair and service.

Silicato, Inc.

Francis Silicato - President

For general building construction in the commercial, industrial, or residential field, see Silicato, Inc. at South East Front in Milford, phone 422-8140 or 422-5523, well known for their ethical business standards and first rate construction work. They employ well qualified craftsmen who have had the training and experience to properly complete general building jobs. As has been experienced by other persons who have contracted with this firm, you can be certain that they will handle the job with top quality materials, fine craftsmanship, and can be trusted to complete the job in the specified time at realistic prices. From the editing staff of this 1971 Town and Country Review, we publish our high regard for the above board business policies of Silicato, Inc. and suggest to our readers that they contact them for any and all general building work.

Welch's Seed Service

Carroll Welch, Jr. - Owner

Welch's Seed Service is located on Vernon Road in Harrington, phone 398-3635. No one is better acquainted with the seed and fertilizer business than this firm. Their many years of experience have enabled them to offer you seeds that will produce, seeds that will give you the highest yield for the variety. They are continually studying the results of planting of various brands, the soils, etc., and are so close that planters in this section may seek their advice and in return keep them posted on the results of their own progress on experiments. The progressive planter recognizes the great value of this contact, and the fact that it is more economical to deal with a local merchant where adjustments are more easily made and personal interest is maintained. They sell, clean, and treat all kinds of farm seeds, and handle Verta Green fertilizers. We, the compilers, recommend Welch's Seed Service to all our readers for anything in seeds and fertilizer in this Town and Country Review.

Bennett Machine Co.

Crerar Bennett - Owner
Located at 1601 South Dupont Boulevard in Milford, phone 422-4837, is the Bennett Machine Co.

This company is the headquarters in this area for dairy equipment and supplies. Through the efforts of the management of this firm to supply the dairies in this area with the latest in modern dairy processing equipment and shipping containers, they have established a large clientele of regular buyers. Each employee in this company has been completely schooled in this field and can assist you in selecting the proper equipment for the job that often times cuts down production time and costs. In this 1971 Town and Country Review we, the authors, would like to make public our unconditional endorsement of the policies of this reputable company and suggest that you contact the Bennett Machine Co.

Kenton's Studio

Harvey Kenton, Jr. - Owner

Good Management Can Reduce The Uncertainty In Farming

Farmers constantly have to make decisions that will affect their business for several years. But often, these decisions have to be made with little knowledge of what happen in the future. For example, a livestock producer may have to decide whether or not to increase the size of his breeding herd. At the same time, he may not know what type of market he will have when his animals are ready to be sold or the cost of the feed required to maintain these animals.

This illustrates one of the major problems today's farmer faces - the uncertainty of the future, according to W. T. McAllister, University of Delaware extension agricultural economist.

Farmers frequently have to make managerial decisions that will affect their operations for several years, he explains. Many of these decisions are not economically reversible. McAllister says that due to this uncertainty, farmers tend to make their production plans based on the current market situation and past experience. They can also hedge against uncertainty by contract production. The contract shifts the risk to someone else, but it may also result in smaller profits for the farmer. Another method of eliminating some of the uncertainty in farming is to use good management practices, stresses McAllister. This means low production costs, high production efficiency, a planned marketing program and a strong financial position.

Boy Scouts News

by Ronald Woods
At the last Scout meeting the Boy Scouts of Troop 76 had a special guest, Jack Louis, the district camping commissioner, who came to show a film on camping. Only one boy of the troop was ready for a board of review, he was Jerry McGinty, who passed requirements for the second class badge.

The Scouts now have a new rule saying that any boy who has a uniform must wear it or be fined 15c. Sometime in December there will be a camporee on the south side of Killen's Pond. On which the boys have to build a sled no less than 18" wide and 6' long.

Coming Events

Weight Watchers meet every Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. at Harrington Senior Center. Must have 25 members present each week to hold class in Harrington. New members accepted weekly. Come and be counted.

TOWN AND COUNTRY TOPICS

KENT COUNTY AGENT

The use for outdoor pesticides for this season is quickly diminishing. If you are like most other farmers, as well as urban residents, there are half bags of this material and a quarter jar of that material left over. With proper storage, these chemicals can be saved for use next season, along with minimizing any hazards of child or adult poisoning.

While reading the following procedures, be thinking of a spot you have that will fit the bill.

1. Store materials in a locked, safe storage area out of reach of children that is properly identified as "Pesticide Storage Area."

2. Store all materials in original containers. Dust or wettable powder pesticides can be stored without heat and still retain their effectiveness; however, liquids must not be allowed to reach freezing temperatures.

Under proper storage conditions, chemicals can be used year after with satisfactory results; however, when possible, purchase only the amount needed for one season. For further information on storage and proper disposal of pesticides, contact your county cooperative extension office of the University of Delaware; the Kent County number is 736-1448. Remember, the most economical, efficient, and safest manner of pesticide disposal is using the chemical according to label directions.

The winter months that are quickly approaching will be the time for enjoyment from the fireplace. Now is a good time to buy firewood. Many people buying firewood have no idea what to buy or how to store it properly.

Wood that has been piled and air dried for six to twelve months is lighter to handle, provides more heat, and leaves less ash. If green wood is all that is available, pile it loosely outdoors, but off the ground. Pieces larger than eight inches in diameter dry slowly, so these should be split before stacking them to dry.

Many people ask which firewood burns the best. Listed below are suggestions about heating and burning values of different wood species:

Species rated as best for fireplace burning are: white oak, apple, black birch, hickory and black locust.

Rated good are: white ash, beech, black cherry, red oak, elm, maple, and black walnut.

Fair are: white birch, sycamore, yellow, and red pine.

Some species rated as poor for fireplace burning are: Aspen, basswood, willow, white pine and spruce.

Remember, these ratings are for heating and burning values only. They cannot be applied to ratings for other purposes.

If you would like more information on firewood and ways to make colored flames for holiday purposes, call your cooperative extension office.

Ag Problems Listed By University Speaker

American agriculture faces five major problems that must be dealt with, according to Dr. Donald F. Crossan, assistant vice president for university relations at the University of Delaware. He spoke recently to a group participating in the University's "Man and His Planet" series.

Crossan, who was formerly associate dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences, has made it possible for Americans to have a plentiful inexpensive supply of high quality food. He credited the interrelationship between agricultural research, extension education and competition for making it possible for less than 10 million farmers to produce the food and fiber for more than 200 million consumers. He said this relationship places agriculture in a position of strength to deal with future problems.

The five areas of concern for American agriculture were listed as labor, land use, pesticides, animal waste disposal and rural development.

Concerning farm labor problems, Crossan said the worker who picks the fruit for consumer table deserves the same wage as the man who tightens the bolts on consumer automobiles. He pointed out that farm workers now average about $1.65 an hour, while factory workers earn $3.65 an hour or more.

To increase farm worker wages would mean greatly increased food prices if current yields and costs of production remain. To combat this, he said agriculture must have accelerated research programs on increasing yields, efficiency of production and marketing and in better methods of distribution and storage of foods. Crossan also said there need to be programs to help those workers moving out of agriculture and to help prepare and maintain the existing farm labor force.

Turning to land use policies, Crossan said, "The rape of the land must stop. Cities and towns cannot be allowed to expand radially into prime agriculture land." He said there must be a national land use policy that considers the one invaluable resource — agriculture land. Pointing out that the amount of usable land is fixed, Crossan said we are currently losing 4000 tillable acres each day to public development.

The assistant vice president called for stepped up research in the area of environmental quality as it involves agriculture. He said there needs to be multidisciplinary research at all levels involving universities, industry, federal and state agencies.

Fall Good Time For Soil Testing

Fall is an excellent time to take soil samples for 1972 corn, soybean and vegetable crop production, according to Leo Cotnoir, soils scientist at the University of Delaware.

Soil conditions in the fall are much better for taking samples than in the spring when it's often too wet.

Soil samples taken now provide results early enough to spread lime and fertilizer. Early application gives adequate time for the fertilizer to react before the next crop season.

A soil test begins with the purchase of a soil sampling bag at your county agent's office. To prepare the sample, follow the instructions printed on the bag. Fill out the enclosed information sheet and send the samples directly to the soil testing laboratory at the university.

It is very important that soil samples be taken correctly and that the samples represent the area from which they are taken, reminds Cotnoir. A good sampling procedure involves taking a minimum of 20 cores per field or one core per acre if the field is larger than 20 acres.

Sewing Contest For Delawareans

The annual make-yourself-with-wool contest is open to all Delaware girls between 10 and 21 years of age, according to Mrs. Barbara DeMeese, Delaware Cooperative Extension Service, state contest director.

State judging will be held on Saturday, December 4, at Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware. The deadline for entries is November 20.

Three divisions will compete at the state level. Seniors from 17 to 21, and juniors from 14 to 16 may enter dresses, suits or coats; sub-deb girls from 10 to 13 years of age may enter skirts or jumpers.

If you're planning to enter, be sure you choose material that will be acceptable in the contest, advises Mrs. DeMeese. Mohair, cashmere, alpaca, llama, camel's hair, guanaco and vicuna are well accepted as wool.

The fabric may contain up to five percent of another fiber or fur and still be eligible. Also, interfacing, facings, linings and underlinings need not be wool. All-wool fabric bonded to tulle or foam may be entered.

All contest garments must be made from fabrics produced in the U.S.; entry blanks must be signed by a representative of the store where the fabric was purchased. The name of the fabric manufacturer may be necessary if there is any doubt about the cloth being American made.

State winners in the junior and senior divisions will compete in a Mid-Atlantic regional contest on January 7 and 7, in New Windsor, Md. A junior and a senior regional winner will then enter national competition held in Phoenix, Arizona, January 2.

Entry blanks are available from Mrs. DeMeese, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark; phone (302) 738-2507.

Broiler Housing Seminar

Cage-reared broilers have more broken bones than those raised on the floor, according to George W. Chaloupka, University of Delaware poultry research associate.

The results of a study of the cage-coop "Delaware system" of broiler production were presented recently at the 10th annual boiler housing seminar at the University of Delaware's Substation.

The Delaware system involves starting chicks in wire cages for the first four weeks of growth. Birds are transferred to plastic coops for the remainder of the growing period.

The major advantage is that broilers can then be transported in these same coops at processing time, saving time and labor.

Chaloupka's study compared the cage-reared broilers' performance with that of floor-reared birds. Windowless, environmentally controlled housing was used for both treatments.

Bone breakage is a deciding factor in evaluating research results. All breeds tested, Vantress — Arbor Acres cross, Hubbard, and Hubbard-AA cross, showed a higher rate of wing and breast trims among the cage-reared birds. Damaged or broken wings must be trimmed at the processing plant; this results in downgrading the poultry.

Most of the wing damage in the cage-coop chickens was due to broken bones. Floor-reared birds showed fewer broken bones but more bruises. Most breaks occurred below the elbow. Disjointing was at the shoulder. The floor-reared broilers in the study had higher weights, a lower death rate during the finishing period, and fewer rejections at the processing plant than those cage-reared. At this time, the floor-reared birds present a better end product, Chaloupka says.

"However," says Chaloupka, "more work will be done to correct the problems in cage-reared broilers, including nutritional experiments."

Thick polyethylene mats and thin urethane mats were also tested as methods of reducing breast blisters in the cage-reared birds. The thick mat apparently worked well; they reduced blisters to a level at least as low as floor-reared broilers, Chaloupka said.

The thin mats, based on one study, showed little effect on reducing blisters. A still newer mat will be used in the next flock.

It Seems To Me

Janet Reed

Long skirts and dress for evening wear are back on the fashion scene. Many of us are happy to see them return; they're graceful and feminine and add a glamorous appearance to an evening event.

The evening skirt is easy to sew, too, so if you're planning to make a dress for holiday parties, you'll have the easiest sewing job in years.

The most difficult part? Deciding between the bright colorful prints and dressy fabrics available for this purpose. If you can't decide on one, make two or more.

The same blouse can be worn with several. Most of these colorful skirts are worn with a black or dark turtle neck long sleeved jersey blouse which matches the background of the print.

You may find this a good way to use some choice fabric bought in a moment of weakness and stored away with your fabric treasures. Recently, I saw a beautiful skirt of Thai silk plaid teamed with a tailored blouse in a plain color.

The patch work idea is still popular. If you have lots of time and fabric scraps, you can make a "one of a kind" skirt. Some unusual combinations I have noticed lately were: a skirt from bright colored nylon jersey squares, a skirt of wool pieces and another of beautiful upholstery scraps.

Most of the long skirts are straight-cut to take advantage of the design in the fabric, so they are easy to sew. Two straight pieces, seamed together and gathered onto a skirt band, add a zipper and finish the hem and you have a new skirt.

If the fabric is narrow, you'll probably want to leave one side seam open for walking room. How far you want to have the skirt split seems to be a matter of personal taste. Some are open far enough to show matching pants, but that adds another sewing project.

If you are using one of the large bright fabric designs, plan it carefully before cutting. Panels should match at back and front and borders or horizontal stripes should fall where you want them at the hemline. Also consider your own figure. By lowering or raising a design a few inches, you may have a more pleasing effect.

Many of the evening skirts are teamed with tailored style blouses, and a belt may complete the costume. Even though there are many choices available this year, they all seem to be colorful, so we should have a colorful holiday season.

TERRY GALLO, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gallo, Harrington, is the 1971 state 4-H winner in clothing. A member of the Harrington Sunshine 4-H Club for her sixth year, Miss Gallo is a freshman at the University of Delaware majoring in nursing. She has earned previous awards in the Reddy Foods contest and clothing demonstration. Her current projects are leadership, clothing, foods and nutrition, safety and citizenship. Miss Gallo will receive an all-expense paid trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Nov. 28 to Dec. 2.

STEVEN MESIBOV, 17, a Farmington Peach Blossom 4-H Club member, has been named 1971 state 4-H winner in safety. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Mesibov, Houston. Mesibov, an eight-year club member, is enrolled in electric, automotive, small engine, photography, safety and leadership projects for the current year. He has been a previous award winner in land-judging, electric, woodworking and safety, and was a state winner in public speaking. Mesibov will receive an all-expense paid trip to the National 4-H Club Congress, held Nov. 28 to Dec. 2.

DOUGLAS VANDERWENDE, 15, has been awarded an all-expense paid trip to the National 4-H Club Congress as the 1971 state 4-H winner in field crops. The congress is held in Chicago Nov. 28 to Dec. 2. Vanderwende, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Vanderwende, Bridgeville, is in his sixth year of 4-H club work. He is a member of the Dublin Hill Yellow Jacket Club enrolled in dairy, swine, garden, field crops, leadership and tractor projects.

4-H State Winners Named

Twenty-nine Delaware 4-H members have been named state winners in the national 4-H awards program, according to James O. Baker, state 4-H leader. Six state winners receive prizes or U.S. savings bonds while the remaining winners will attend the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Nov. 28 through December 2. Winners include: Kent County: Edward Gibbs III, Camden, public speaking; *James Harrison Jr., Goldsboro, Md., petroleum power; *Steven Mesibov, Houston, safety; *Terry Gallo, Harrington, clothing; *Becky Messick, Greenwood, Achievement; *Beverly Jarmon, Hartly, bread.

(Those marked (*) will attend the National 4-H Club Congress. Others have received savings bonds or prizes.) The winners in each project were selected on the basis of their outstanding 4-H club work. Purpose of the projects is to develop leadership talents and to work toward the broad objectives of character and effective citizenship. Award winners must also exhibit knowledge and skills of their specified projects.

Farm-City Week

The 17th national observance of national farm-city week will be held November 19-25. The event is sponsored by the National Farm City Council, Inc., working with state and local service and educational groups.

Farm-city week will be observed in Georgetown on Nov. 9, according to William H. Henderson, Sussex county agricultural agent. A joint meeting of the Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs will host a speaker from the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service.

W. T. McAllister, assistant extension director, will discuss the state's broiler industry at the Midland Grange Hall.

Farm-City week is designated at a time for fostering a better understanding of the relationship that exists between farm and city people. The observance notes not only the interdependent roles of producers and consumers of America's agricultural abundance, but also opportunities for cooperation in building for the future.

The national farm-city committee directs activities for farm-city week. The committee is composed of representatives of more than 150 businesses, farm professional, trade, church, youth and service groups, educational institutions, government agencies, publishers and broadcasters.

Peach Blossom 4-H News

Happiness is being named the top club in the county and receiving the Silver Cup Award, which was sponsored by the Kent County Links.

The Kent County achievement banquet was held at Caesar Rodney High School on Oct. 30. Seventeen Peach Blossom members received county medals. Becky Messick and Steven Mesibov were named state winners and will be attending National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

We were honored to have four outstanding first year members, each receiving a trophy. They were Laura Newnom, Debbie Hopkins, Brenda Clark and John Garey.

In the window display competition we placed second and received $8, being topped by the Double T Club of Hartley.

A rotating trophy is awarded in each of the judging categories. Coming back to Farmington with us were the clothing, horticulture, field crop and home management trophies.

Beef Producers Tour

A tour of a Pennsylvania beef cattle operation and an exposition is available to Delaware beef producers.

The Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Delaware is sponsoring the tour.

The November 9 bus tour will visit Old Dutch Farms near York, Pa., where tour members will observe a feed lot operation using high moisture corn for feeding. The farm also has a retail beef outlet.

The tour will also include the Harrisburg livestock exposition. Angus breeding cattle will be judged that day and the open class steer contest will be held. Beef producers will be present for the selection of the grand champion and the feeder calf show.

A Pennsylvania State University beef specialist will be available to talk with Delawareans on the progress of the Penn State cross-breeding program, according to Dr. Richard E. Fowler, Delaware extension livestock specialist.

Dinner in the Lancaster area will conclude the tour.

For tour information and reservations, contact county extension agents in Newark, Dover or Georgetown.

Reupholstering Tips

Has dad's favorite chair become an eyesore in your living room? The dog has turned your chair into his chair? You'd like to give new life to a family heirloom?

Then your chair might be a good candidate for reupholstering.

R. T. Jones, New Castle professional upholsterer, has conducted a four-session class in reupholstering, sponsored by the New Castle County Extension Service at the University of Delaware.

Jones suggest you first decide if your piece of furniture is worth the time, effort and expense involved in upholstering. Is the chair or sofa well designed and well constructed? You can make small repairs in the frame if the piece is basically sound.

You'll want to ask yourself a few more questions before beginning. How much will supplies cost? Will the family enjoy the chair enough to justify the work, time and money involved? Do you have a convenient place to work? Will you complete the job in a reasonable length of time?

If you have the time, patience and skill (or a way to learn the skill), chances are that you will find reupholstering very satisfying and worth your efforts.

Mr. Jones points out that the basic steps in upholstering a chair are easy to learn. However, each step is important and must be well done before the next is started.

Adequate lighting and ventilation are essential for the place where you'll be working. An area where you can leave the chair and your equipment undisturbed during the process will help make your job go smoothly.

You may find the job will move faster and easier if two persons can work together. Husbands and wives counted as one admission to his class and "teams" made up almost half the audience.

The fabric you choose is also important, according to Mrs. Virginia Ahrens, assistant professor, University Delaware department of textiles and clothing research. She presented results of fabric research done at the university.

She told the apprentice upholsterers that research showed that price is not related to performance of a fabric. Also, she said not enough information about fabrics is available to consumers, and that voluntary standards of upholstery fabric manufacturers need more legislation.

It takes careful comparative shopping to choose the right fabric for the job. Mrs. Ahrens said: Upholstery fabrics are available in a variety of fibers, weaves, colors, textures and patterns. An evenly-woven fabric with a flat surface will wear longer than a brocade or highly textured fabric.

It's important to consider where and how the chair will be used and the care it will require. You should consider a fabric that won't fade, is resistant to soil, mildew and flame, and is suitable to the chair. Think about the color, design of the chair, texture of the fabric and the scale of the fabric pattern to the chair and the room.

Feel the fabric. After all, you'll be sitting on it. If it's starchy, it may snag hosiery or other fabrics. Hold it to the light to check the firmness of the weave. Bewary of fabric with a heavy coating of latex on the back. It may be covering up for a poor quality at the price you can afford.

Measure carefully and plan pattern placement on fabric width before you buy. Buy enough, but avoid wasting large amounts of a fabric which is usually fairly expensive.

A leaflet on choosing upholstery fabric is available; contact Mrs. Barbara Demesse, New Castle County Extension Office, University of Delaware, Newark 19711.

Houseplants can add color to any home, but they may require some special attention during the winter, according to Robert F. Stevens, University of Delaware extension horticulturist.

Make sure your plants are placed in an area where they will receive plenty of light. But do not put them in a warm room where the air circulation is limited.

Stevens recommends a daytime temperature of 65 to 70 degrees for most houseplants. At night, the temperature should remain between 55 and 65 degrees.

In addition to higher temperatures and reduced light, humidity is relatively low indoors during the winter. With the exception of plants such as cacti and succulents, the dry atmosphere may cause yellow leaves, scorched leaf edges or poor foliage color.

To protect your plants group them together or place them in saucers covered with moist sand or pebbles. Syringe the plants with water several times each day and wash the leaves under a shower weekly.

Keep the soil moist at all times, adds Stevens. Although the frequency of watering may depend on several factors, most plants require daily watering at this time of year.

When the fall winds start to blow, humans aren't the only ones who seek shelter indoors. Many insects will also find their way indoors, says Frank E. Boys, extension entomologist.

The cluster fly is among the most common and annoying of these overwintering insects. Although they look like houseflies, cluster flies are part of a different insect family and present no health hazard. But they are an extreme nuisance.

They can squeeze through tiny cracks around windows and under sills, penetrating defenses effective against most other insects.

Once inside, they congregate in partitions, notes the entomologist. In the winter, they move toward heated rooms attracted to the lights at night and fly erratically around them.

The best control against cluster flies is prevention, says Boys. Make sure windows and louvers are tightly secured. Keep cracks around windows, chimneys and trim tightly caulked. And see that all splits and holes in the siding are caulked and painted over.

If these flies have already gained access to your home, Boys recommends using a space spray or Vapona strip to control them. Vapona strips should be used only in unoccupied rooms, closets and attics with little air movement, he adds. Do not put Vapona strips in rooms used by children the elderly or individuals under stress.

Pyrethrum sprays are also effective against flies buzzing around windows and lights, but should not be used near aquariums. These sprays are highly poisonous to many fish species.
