Hitchhiker Found Guilty In Local Robbery

A Chester, Pa., man was found guilty Tuesday of robbing a motorist who befriended him Nov. 13.

Lawrence W. McCleary, 26, was found guilty by Superior Court Judge William J. Storey of taking $100 from John W. Fritts, 67, of Frenchtown, N.J.

According to police, McCleary and Joseph A. Shopley, 21, of N. Scott Street, Wilmington, were hitchhiking on the New Jersey Turnpike when Fritts offered them a ride.

The trio traveled south to Harrington, where McCleary and Shopley forced Fritts to leave U.S. 13 and drive on Wheeler Park Road.

Police said the pair pulled Fritts from the car, hit him on the head with a cue stick and took his wallet containing $100.

The pair went to the Harrington bus terminal and boarded a bus bound for Wilmington. They were apprehended at Clement's Bus Stop by state police.

A presentence investigation was ordered Tuesday for McCleary.

Shipley is a patient at Delaware State Hospital. He will be tried for robbery when he is discharged.

A rabbit apparently jumped up between the two hunters. Brockway fired his 20-gauge shotgun but missed the rabbit and hit Smith in the face and chest, police said.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

TIME IS IMPORTANT

This is the beginning of a new day. God has given me this day to use as I will. I can waste it or use it for good.

What I do today is important, because I'm exchanging a day of my life for it. When tomorrow comes, this day will be gone forever, leaving in its place, something that I have traded for it.

I want it to be gain, not loss; good, not evil; success, not failure; in order that I shall not regret the price I paid for it.

— SO ARE HORSES —

Indian to Banker: "Me want to borrow two hundred dollars". Banker: "What security have you?" Indian: "Me got two hundred horses". This seemed sufficient and the loan was granted. A few weeks later the Indian came again, displaying three thousand dollars. He paid off the note for the $200 and started to leave. "Wait a minute, my friend", said the banker. "Why not let me take care of that money for you?" Looking the banker straight in the eye, the Indian said, "How many horses you got?"

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Holberton

As we begin the new year, we must bid temporary adieu to supplies of several fresh fruits and vegetables that all of us have been enjoying lately. Cranberries will soon be off the market for another year, so while you can you may wish to buy an extra pound or so and freeze. They are simple to do, just put in an air tight container and freeze. Grape supplies, too, will almost disappear during the month. True, supplies haven't been that large, but it will become the usual to see fresh produce counters without grapes.

"Del.-65" Benefits Increased For Blue Cross & Blue Shield Members

Blue Cross and Blue Shield members who are 65 years of age or older will have their "Delaware-65" benefits increased Jan. 1, to match the increased Medicare deductible and coinsurance amounts for hospitalization effective on this date.

Courtney H. Taber, managing director of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Del., Inc., reported the plan would absorb the increases for its 30,620 members covered under the "Delaware-65" plan. This is the fourth successive year that this non-profit plan has adjusted for higher deductible and co-insurance costs.

There are 44,671 Medicare beneficiaries in Delaware. Those who do not have supplemental coverage provided by Blue Cross or other programs will have to pay $68 instead of the current $60 deductible for the first 60 days of hospitalization during a benefit period. A coinsurance amount also is required if hospitalization extends beyond 60 days and this will increase from $15 to $17 a day for the 61st through the 90th day.

A benefit period under Medicare's Part A, the hospital insurance program, begins the day a person enters a hospital and concludes when he has not been confined to a hospital or other institution for a period of 60 days. All benefits renew after the 60-day lapse.

If the Medicare patient uses up more than 90 days of hospital care during a benefit period, he can draw on his lifetime reserve days, a total of 60. These are permanently diminished each time a Medicare patient uses them. The charge to the patient for each lifetime reserve day will increase from $30 to $34 per day.

If the Medicare patient has a post hospital stay of more than 20 days in an extended care facility and the stay requires full-time skilled nursing care, the present $7.50 coinsurance will increase to $8.50 from the 21st through the 100th day.

Under the Medicare law, the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare is to determine the amount of the inpatient hospital deductible applicable for benefit periods beginning in the following calendar year. If the cost of hospital service increases significantly during a year, the deductible amount must be increased for benefit periods starting in the next year in the proportion that the increased cost bears to $40. The law requires that increases in the deductible must be in steps of $4.

Use Your Head To Save Your Heels

Taking care of your home and family is a fulltime job by itself. So it's no wonder you feel frustrated trying to cope with the triple role of job, home and community service.

"Use your head to save your heels" is a sensible way to save wear and tear on family relations as well as your own mental health, says Miss Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware.

Using your head means planning ahead. A working mother simply has to be well organized to keep track of everything she has to do.

List all your household jobs that must be done and put them into a planned schedule. Be sure they're actually jobs that must be done.

Decide whether they need doing once a day, once a week, once a month or even less often. When can they be done most easily — before you leave for work, in the evening or on weekends? Can someone else do them?

Find a place for everything to get rid of clutter. You may need more shelves, drawer dividers and extra storage boxes to store items.

Reduce the number of decorative objects so there will be fewer things to care for and clean.

Don't buy things you haven't time to care for. If you enjoy having bric-a-brac around the house, you must weigh your pleasure against the time and energy it takes to keep it clean and attractive.

Why not, instead, use one or two decorative objects at a time and change them frequently?

Review your housekeeping standards. Every employed woman must adjust her standards of what has to be done into something she can realistically handle.

Studies show that women who are fulltime homemakers spend eight hours a day in housework. But, the amount of time employed women spend keeping house goes down only slightly.

The woman working 30 or more hours a week outside the home still spends about five hours a day doing housework. She may have to lower some of her standards and leave out some tasks such as ironing sheets.

Involve family members in helping with household tasks. One of the basic considerations in deciding if a wife and mother should take a job outside the home should be the willingness of others in the family to share home care and maintenance tasks.

Instead of carrying guilt feelings over what is left undone, let children help. Even if the job isn't as well done as if you'd done it, you've increased their feelings of independence and satisfaction. After all, it's their home too.

Finally, plan for time to be together as a family. Blocking out some time each week for family time might be a good way to get reacquainted with busy family members.

Remember, you only have so much time and so much energy. It takes planning to use that time and energy to the best advantage. But then, if you weren't a good planner, you probably wouldn't be able to hold one job — let alone three.

Nursing License Change Clarified

Permanent certificate numbers for nurses in Delaware have not been changed, although the numbers were inadvertently omitted from renewal licenses currently being mailed out.

John Vance, administrator of the Office of Health Related Professional Licensing, said the omission occurred during a changeover to computerized licensing forms. The certificate number on the new licenses is a renewal number good only for this coming year; and nurses' permanent numbers remain unchanged.

The error affects registered and licensed practical nurses, whose renewal licenses are currently being processed.

Mrs. Byran Killen

Mrs. Lida Killen, 69, of near Felton died Monday at Kent General Hospital in Dover after a long illness.

She was a member of the Mt. Olive Ladies Aid Society. She is survived by her husband, Bryan, a daughter, Mrs. Thelma Gerardi, of Felton; two grandchildren; three great-grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Nettie Adkinson of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Services were held yesterday afternoon at the Berry Funeral Home at Felton. Interment was in Mt. Olive Cemetery, Sandtown.

All-America selections are determined on the basis of trials at various locations in the United States and Canada. Only the top varieties are selected for special recognition.

Carved ivory, the silver medal winning zinnia, was recognized for its large ivory colored blooms. Individual blooms are five inches wide, and out of the cactus type. This means the petals are not flat and starched, but airy and soft, and this, coupled with the fine color, makes carved ivory excellent for flower arrangements.

Plants of this zinnia are uniform, vigorous and productive, reaching a height of 2 1/2 feet.

Gold galore is a semi-dwarf hedge-type marigold. Each plant may have as many as 25 large, solid gold colored blooms at one time. This marigold can be used either in masses or as a border planting.

This year's petunia winner, circus, has large, double deep-salmon and white blooms. Each petal is salmon toward the center and white on the outside.

This petunia is early flowering with the flowers well distributed over the plant. It is also a compact plant — not much over one foot in height and not over two feet in width.

Summer carnival is a large flowered hollyhock that flowers from seed the first year. The centers of these flowers are fully double with a single row of guard petals framing the double centers. The plants each five to six feet in height and produce many blooms in various colors — scarlet, deep rose, rose, pink, yellow and white.

State Approves Funds For Rittenhouse Associates, Inc.

The state has approved the issuance of $450,000 in tax-exempt revenue bonds to Rittenhouse Associates, Inc., Governor Russell W. Peterson announced.

The funds will be used by Rittenhouse to refinance a 40,000 square-foot plant in the Rittenhouse Industrial Park on Christiana Avenue near the Wilmington Marine Terminal. The plant is leased from Rittenhouse by Allied Corrugated Container Corp.

Governor Peterson said the action will permit Allied to add a second and third shift, with 35 more employees to be hired by the end of this year. The plant presently employs 40.

"This is another positive result of the state's program to increase employment opportunities for its citizens," he stated.

The governor said he was notified of the state approval by Secretary Robert L. Halbrook Jr., of the Department of Community Affairs and Economic Development.

Halbrook said he approved the project on the recommendation of the seven member council on Industrial financing and the Division of Economic Development.

He explained that under the state's industrial financing program, revenue bonds and general obligation bonds can be issued for the purpose of refinancing companies locating in Delaware or expanding their operations here. The Rittenhouse project involves revenue bonds, which are not backed by the "full faith and credit" of the state and thus pose no financial risk for the state.

The General Assembly this year enacted legislation increasing from $10 to $20 million the state's authority to issue general obligation bonds.

LABOR COSTS CAUSE INDUSTRIES TO BUY ABROAD

Labor unions were charged with exporting jobs and creating simultaneous inflation and unemployment in the United States in a year-end summary by the national Labor-Management Foundation of developments in the labor-management field.

Americans are beginning to see that run-away labor costs have put some industries' backs to the wall and jobs are being abolished as a result, according to S. Rayburn Watkins, president of the Foundation. Union monopoly powers and practices have priced many products of American industry off the world markets and shackled the nation's economic progress, Watkins said.

"For example, 15 years ago, the United States led the world in exports of TV sets, accounting for 60% of the world's exports," the NLMF head said. "Since then, production of TV sets moved to Japan, Taiwan and other countries with lower wage scales. In the first ten months of 1968, the United States imported more than two million TV sets; a 60% jump in one year. Such shifts of production from the United States to other countries went largely unheeded by union professionals.

"The loss of production and jobs to foreign competitors can be laid at the door of labor unions which have been able to impose unrealistic, inflationary wage increases bearing no real relation to productivity, and to union featherbedding and make-work practices," Watkins said.

According to the National Labor-Management Foundation, the unions' exercise of monopolistic powers over business plus their extraordinary influence over Congress will come under heavy attack in 1972.

Watkins said that in the year ahead the National Labor-Management Foundation will exert its energies to obtain legislation to: (1) Place unions under anti-trust regulations and end the legal immunities which let unions force costs upward and stifle competition by restraining trade and engaging in make-work and other restrictive practices, (2) Prohibit strikes by public employees whose services are essential to the safety, health and well-being of the public, (3) Eliminate food stamps and other tax payer supported benefits for strikers, (4) Curb union monopoly powers by prohibiting industry-wide bargaining which enables a single union to shut down an entire industry and endanger the economy and security of the nation.

In discussing the unions' role in creating the current crisis, Watkins said the rising cost of labor led to rising prices, and this led to American manufacturers going out of the country to get their product built more cheaply. He said that union managers failed to recognize the impact of their economic demands which forced American firms to spend over 10 billion dollars a year on new plants and equipment overseas producing over $120 billion worth of goods and services annually. The American labor market became too rich for the American businessman to survive within his own boundaries.

A prominent dealer of John Deere farm equipment told us West Germany was building the machinery to be assembled in this country. A rumor is Dodge Motor Company will have its vehicles manufactured in Japan.

Incidentally, it is strange but two of the most prosperous nations in the world are among those we defeated in World War II—Germany and Japan.

Americans began to buy foreign made products because they were cheaper than the products at home, the NLMF executive pointed out. As a result of foreign industry increasing its production capacity and selling to Americans, the United States now has a balance of payments problem tied in with the economic problems of inflation caused by the wage-price spiral.

"In March of 1970, President Nixon said that American business and government must seek and develop every opportunity to meet the challenge of growing international competition," Watkins said. "Organized labor also faces this common challenge with business and government. Labor union leadership can provide the missing link which could turn this opportunity into reality. A saner and more intelligent approach to wages and productivity from organized labor unions can bring America back to her full productive capacity."

THE MAN WITH THE BUILT-IN SMILE

Who is the man with the built-in smile?

He is not a native but has lived in Harrington many years. He has seen many moons and is well beyond the time for normal retirement, but continues to work every day he is able and that encompasses most working days.

He is a modest man, has polite speech, rarely says anything uncomplimentary about anyone.

He is a topflight craftsman in many fields and a willing worker. His services are continually in demand and not easy to procure.

Only once, in two decades, have we seen him without the built-in smile and that was after the death of his beloved wife.

When we say he is a gentleman in the truest sense, that cuts down the number of prospects as to the identification of this 80-year-old phenomenon.

He is a man of brains but this is typical of Harrington and its rural environs where one can be found or trained to do almost any task. Who is this man?

SPORTS

Dave Moore, Six Others, Make National Run Ranks

David Moore of Frederica and six other long distance runners from the W. T. Chipman School, in Harrington, were listed in "Starting Line", a track magazine, with international circulation, for their exploits in the 2nd Annual Road Runners Club of America Cross Country Championships.

The championship tests were held in New York City's Van Cortlandt Park, in November over a course used annually for some of America's top harrier championships, including those of the IC4A, the Heptagonals, the NCAA and the AAU. Fifty-two Chipman runners completed the 1 1/2 miles and were awarded handsome trophies. Starting line lists the first 25 finishers in each age group, thus giving each of these a national ranking in the Road Runners Club of America.

Moore's performance was remarkable for two reasons. First, his 8:48 was 25 seconds faster than the other 51 locals could muster and missed ninth place by only nine seconds. Over 100 runners from all over America competed in this race. Second, Moore at 14, was competing in the 14-15 class and most of the 14 runners, who beat him, were undoubtedly, high school freshmen and sophomores and were probably star varsity runners. David will run his first varsity race in 1972. Coach Jim Blades predicts a great future for his fellow Frederician.

Vernon's Ricky Wright didn't make the top 25 but ran an excellent 9:13.

Howard Parker, 13, was 11th in the 12-13 group with an excellent 9:24; closely followed by Barry Doherty (15th) in 8:29. Doherty nosed out veteran Newark harrier Gordy Thompson.

Don Baynard and Lester Blades were 24 and 25th, respectively.

Harrington runners Ken "Bullet" Cerklefskie and Mark Smith were nationally ranked in the 8-9 group. Cerklefskie was 17th with 11:23. Smith, who had been running only three weeks or so as 21st in 11:37.

Needless to say every boy mentioned here and many locals not mentioned have great futures in the long distance running field. As many as seven or eight of the eighth graders could win varsity letters at Lake Forest in 1972. Moore has a chance for the No. 1 team spot.

Spartan Matmen Open Season

The Lake Forest wrestlers began what looks to be a very good year this week. The team is very aggressive and ready to win. If you have never seen a wrestling match, you are really missing the ideal of individual sport competition. Wrestling pits man against man, both of equal size. This sport gives the little guy a chance to really shine on the athletic screen.

Starting at 89 pounds is freshman Rodney Wyatt who sports a 12-0 junior high record and will start the Spartan team matches off with a good hard bout.

Behind Wyatt is freshman Terry Jarrell, who, weighs 85 pounds and was looking good last year when he dislocated his elbow.

At 107 pounds is freshman Bobby Boscoe, with a 11-1 record in junior high competition last year. Boscoe is very aggressive and shows the look of a real up and coming grappler.

Behind Boscoe is freshman Richard Shulties, who is working hard to get the needed experience needed to make a wrestler.

Martin Miller weighs in at 115 and brings an 8-3 record from J.V. Martin is strong and has confidence, which makes for an unbeatable combination.

At 123 is returning letterman Tommy Clark who really wants to go all the way this year. Clark has experience and is moving well on the mat. Pride makes a good wrestler great.

Alan Welch is backing up Clark and is showing much aggressiveness. With experience comes poise.

Gary Crave also weighs in at 123 and lettered last year. Gary has experience and ability but just needs to get his thoughts together with his wrestling. Jay Lemmons is also here and has little experience but shows speed and is improving.

Junior letterman Charles Baynard had a 6-3-2 record at 123 pounds last year. Charles is using new and varied holds this year, which accounts for his wins up to this time, for behind him is Chris Mertz who could wrestle for any starting team. Mertz beat Baynard by one point during eliminations and Baynard won by two at another time. Monday night during practice Chris broke his collar bone in a freak accident and will be out for the year. That was the first broken bone within the conference in years. Normally wrestling is an injury-free sport, due mostly to conditioning and the nature of the sport.

At 136 pounds is sophomore George Davis with a 3-1 record in varsity competition last year and a 7-1 record in J.V. At 115, George has been in wrestling many years and has the potential to get it all together this year.

Behind Davis is sophomore Sven Osmundson, who has been looking good and has lots of desire. With experience, this wrestler could really go.

At 141 this season is Norman Baynard, who comes back with an 11-1 record and Peoples Restaurant started out in real fine shape as they took the first two games from Taylor & Messick Tuesday night. In the third and final game, it was a different story as they were soundly beaten and had to concede the total series point also to their opponents for a two-two split. Norman Clough paced the Restaurant team with a 200 game, with Snooky Collins providing the extra scoring punch for the T & M quintet with a superb 622 series effort which included games of 203 and 231.

Butler's Fuel dropped into third place as they dropped three games to Jarrell Fuel altho Larry Larimore rolled a 228 game and each man on the squad rolled his average or better. Dallas Hayman hit a 559 set, including a 206 game for Jarrell's.

Wally's Garage and Fry's American met on just about even terms, with Wally's taking a big win the first game. However, that was all they were to get as Fry's caught fire and took the second and third game with enough margin to give them total series.

Also, Robert Wyatt and John Forbes paved the way for Fry's with Hank Wheeler chipping in with a 200 game. Larry Breeding rolled a 204 game and a 549 set, and Wally Ryan added a good effort to Wally's.

Robert Garey piloted the McKnatt Funeral Home quintet to a three game victory over the Honey Dippers, hitting a good 546 series, which included a 206 game. Also adding good efforts for McKnatt's were Bob Faulkner and Donald Garey. Don Draper bowled a good effort for the Dippers as they eked out one game.

Robbin's Hardware and the Spoilers battled to a two-two stalemate in Tuesday's contest. Jeff Robbins bowled a 207 game and fine series, with Harry Brown adding a great 535 series effort, along with a fine above average effort from Frank Robbins which helped keep Robbin's even with their opponents. Leonard Outten paved the way for the Spoilers with a great 578 series effort which included a 216 game and Billy Morris added a good effort to help balance the Spoilers attack.

Gallo & Stevenson put together a balanced attack to become victors in three games over Penn Central as Henry Jachimek, Jr. and John McCloskey added 203 and 204 games respectively for extra scoring power for the construction team. Ken Baker and William Willoughby bowled very well with Bernard Coffman adding a 213 game to Penn Central's efforts as they were able to get one game to their credit.

The T & M Rejects are on the move and it shouldn't be too long before they start moving up the standings ladder as they took three games from Quillen's Market. Bob Wilson proved to be the straw that broke the camel's back as he ended a good night's effort with a great 225 game to give the Rejects the third game and total series as they had battled Quillen's to a one-one split in the first two games. Donald Wilson and Warren Steerman bowled well for the Quillen's Market quintet.

Asbury W.S.C.S. News

The glow of candlelight, soft music of the organ and the quiet beauty of the sanctuary of Asbury Methodist combined to add reverence to pledge service of the Women's Society of Christian Service.

Mrs. Earle E. Nelson conducted the service Tuesday evening with the assistance of Miss Gwen Melvin, organist and Miss Kathy Nelson, soloist. Officers and chairmen of the society and circle leaders lit candles to signify their pledge to fulfill their duties during the 1972-1973 terms.

Following the service the members moved to the Collins Hall for the business meeting. Mrs. John Shaffner, newly elected president of the WSOS conducted her first meeting.

Five new members were accepted into the group. Mrs. John Harrington will join the Rebekah Circle, Mrs. Harold Brode the Dorcas Circle, Mrs. Martin Graham and Mrs. Mark Warren the Mary Circle and Mrs. John Butler will be a member of the Martha Circle.

And accepting what comes as a gift heaven-sent - It's giving up wishing for things you have not

And making the best of whatever you've got, It's knowing that life is determined and planned

And that God holds the world in the palm of his hand - And it's by completing what God gives you to do

That you find contentment and Happiness too.

New USDA Yearbook Looks To Good Life

How rural America and U.S. agriculture can help make living good for all Americans of the next century is outlined in the 1971 Yearbook of Agriculture, just off the press.

Titled A Good Life for More People, the new yearbook cites programs designed to encourage redistribution of the population over the next 30 years to take some of the pressure off the metropolitan centers.

Detailed in the 415-page hardbound book are the potentials for the development of human, economic and natural resources needed to shape an environment of interestingly better quality for future Americans.

Currently, 74 percent of Americans live and work most of their time on two percent of our land. Yet, there is ample room for economic expansion, according to the yearbook.

The book cites a need to make new uses of land, build new communities and rejuvenate old rural communities.

It Seems To Me

Janet Reed

Clothing is one of the most flexible items in the family budget. When we really have to economize, it seems easier to start with clothing.

In the first place, all of us have more clothes than we really need merely to protect us from the elements. We buy clothes for many other reasons, but if we really have to economize, we can buy fewer.

And, we can wear clothes longer. It's fairly easy to get another year's wear from most of our clothes before we discard them. We may be tired of them, but that doesn't become so important if we are watching the pennies.

Usually it is the homemaker who makes her clothes last longest. Children grow quickly and when everything is outgrown, they are apt to get the big chunk of the clothing dollar. Dad's clothes, too, will come before new ones for mother if he is the sole breadwinner and must present a business-like image at work.

In affluent times we become somewhat careless and tend to forget some of the shopping skills and care skills that help extend the clothing budget.

Invest in more basic clothes of good fabric. These can be worn for many seasons. Fads and high fashions are likely to be expensive and have a short life as well.

Look for good quality fabric, even if you have to do some minor style changes. Good fabric will clean well, wear well and look good for the life of the garment.

Since labor is one of the big costs of clothing and you pay for labor regardless of fabric quality, you have a much better investment if you can spend slightly more for good fabric. Of course, if you know fabric quality, it also helps you to pick out the best bargains among the sale merchandise.

Buying at sales may or may not be a money saver. It's easy to buy something you don't really need, or something that doesn't go with anything else you have. Planning ahead so you know what you can use will be a help if you shop at seasonal sales. Sticking to the plan may require a firm will when you see bargains on all sides.

When you keep clothing in good condition, you aren't as tempted to buy new things. Keep clothes mended as needed and learn to do inconspicuous mends.

Wear an apron when preparing food to avoid those troublesome grease spots.

Follow care directions for every garment. Look for care directions before you buy the garment so you will know if you have the proper equipment or if you're going to have to spend extra money for special cleaning. If the care directions are gone and you don't really know the fabric, you may be throwing money away.

Making clothes for the family may or may not be a money saver. It can enable you to have better clothes for less money since you don't count your labor cost. But, whether you have the time, skill and energy to sew must also be considered.

Most of us have our own pet economics when clothing the family. It is one place to start stretching your money.

As first priority, it lists providing productive work opportunities. It notes encouraging figures; for instance, in 1970 about 50 percent of capital expenditures by manufacturing industries was devoted to modern plants in rural areas.

Decent housing is cited as another top priority. The yearbook notes that only a third of the population now lives in rural areas, but half of our substandard housing is located there. Other rural shortcomings include inadequate and unequal social services, and lagging educational attainment.

By the year 2000, we may need perhaps as much as 50 percent more agricultural production than we have today, according to the yearbook. It indicates that such a goal can be met, and that this should mean increased income for rural families.

The 80 chapters in the yearbook, prepared mainly by specialists in the agricultural department and the state land-grant colleges, are grouped in four major sections. They are "Space for Living", "Services for Living", "Production Resources for Living", and "Issues for the Future."

Copies of A Good Life for More People, the 1971 yearbook of agriculture are available from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Each member of Congress also has a limited number of copies for free distribution.

No-Till Cuts Corn Fields Erosion

No-till crop production will probably increase in Delaware this year, according to a University of Delaware crops specialist. Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist, says no-till corn offers a practical solution to the serious wind erosion problem that develops every year at planting time.

Most farmers use a winter cover crop to cut down on wind erosion. But a heavy loss still occurs in April and May as farmers prepare the ground for planting and before the young corn plants grow enough to become wind-breaks.

The no-till method Mitchell is suggesting involves a rye cover crop which is sprayed with the chemical Paraquat just prior to planting time. The plants die in two or three days leaving a heavy top growth and undisturbed root system to protect the soil. Corn is then planted in this rye mulch using a special no-till planter. Chemicals are used to control weeds so the ground cover is never disturbed.

There are other advantages to no-till corn besides erosion control, according to the agronomist. Soil temperatures remain five to ten degrees below normal throughout the season, there is less soil moisture evaporation and the cost of tilling the soil is eliminated. Corn yields are at least equal to conventional production methods, according to Mitchell.

Peach Blossom 4-H News

Linda Newnom
Santa Claus visited the December meeting which was held on the 15 in the Church of the Brethren Fellowship Hall.

Members assembled at 7 p.m. to have a group photograph taken by Mr. A. B. Parsons.

Devotions were led by Christine Marsh, Robbie Salmons and Jonathan Harcum. Reports were heard on recent county skating party by Karen Jerread; Harrington Christmas parade by Junanne Jerread; National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago by Steve Mesibov and Becky Messick. Special music was by Brenda Clark playing an accordion solo and a duet by Kathi Hopkins and Donna Pearson.

Before receiving refreshments, members passed through a receiving line, introducing themselves to Mrs. Frances Clark, Mrs. Ruth Vincent, and Raymond Baker. Members brought gifts for Operation Reindeer project and received gifts from the club. Refreshments were served by the Marsh family and Glen Divel. Terry Bowman served the punch.

Herbicide Combinations For Soybeans

Herbicide combinations may be the answer to controlling broad-leaf weeds, such as jimsonweed, velvetleaf and morning glory in soybeans, according to E. M. Rahn, professor of plant science at the University of Delaware.

In a paper presented at the 25th annual Northeast Weed Control Conference, Jan. 5, in New York, Rahn and research assistant Thomas Smith reported that tests conducted at the University's Georgetown Substation showed that several herbicide combinations are effective in providing full-season control of broadleaf weeds in soybeans.

The most effective control of the problem weeds was obtained with a combination of trifluralin and 2, 4-DB. Trifluralin was applied pre-plant incorporated at half a pound per acre, while the 2, 4-DB was applied in a directed spray—0.2 to 0.4 pound per acre—to the lower third of the soybean plants when the plants were 10 inches tall.

A preemergence treatment of alachlor (1 lb. per acre), naptalam (1.5 lbs. per acre) and chlorpropham (1.5 lbs. per acre) was also effective in controlling jimsonweed, velvetleaf and morning glory.

Last summer's tests showed that excellent early season velvet leaf control is possible with vernolate applied pre-plant incorporated at the rate of 2.5 pounds per acre or a combination of chloramben (1.5 lbs. per acre) and linuron (0.5 lbs. per acre) applied in a preemergence treatment.

U. Of D. Spring Sewing Spree Answers Seamstress' Questions

Women and even men who sew at home are daring projects they wouldn't have dreamed of tackling a few years ago. Everything from sewing lingerie to tailoring men's jackets.

If you have questions about sewing, anything from difficult projects to new fabrics and threads to machines to zippers — answers will be available at the University of Delaware's spring sewing spree. The two-day event, sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service, is scheduled for Jan. 12 and 13 at the Student Center, Newark.

Representatives of a dozen commercial companies will give 45-minute demonstrations and be available to answer questions. And, two local expert seamstresses will also be on hand to talk about sewing techniques.

Mrs. Richard Simpson, Chestnut Hill Estates, Newark, will demonstrate "Making Men's Sportcoats" at 8:30 p.m., Wednesday, Jan. 12.

Fit is just as important in men's clothes as in women's, Mrs. Simpson says.

Campaign Techniques Workshop Set For Jan. 8

A campaign techniques workshop has been set for Jan. 8, by the Young Democrats of Delaware. Robert E. Moss, director of the Office of Campaign and Party Organization and the Democratic National Committee will lead the session, to be held at the University of Delaware.

"The workshop will acquaint Young Democrats and other participants with the nuts and bolts of political campaigning. It will include discussions of party organization, media relations, and campaign planning," explained Kenneth Ryder, State Young Democrat president.

Robert S. Weiner, national youth registration coordinator for the Young Democratic Clubs of America, will conduct a seminar on youth registration. The Delaware Young Democrats are conducting a continuing drive to register newly enfranchised

Gypsy Moth May Soon Be Threat To Del. Woodlands

Indication that the destructive gypsy moth may soon be a threat to Delaware woodlands was revealed by officials of the State Department of Agriculture.

Robert Hickman, state plant pathologist, said for the first time egg masses of the pest have been found in Delaware.

"Four egg masses were found in northern New Castle County," Hickman stated, "near the Pennsylvania border."

New Castle Young Democrat president, Stanley F. Glowiak, will kick off the workshop with a survey of local Democratic politics, at 11 a.m., in Memorial Hall.

Mrs. Leslie Winkler of 201 McDaniel Drive, Wilmington, is chairing the event. She said that the workshop will "increase the effectiveness of the Young Democrats and others in the coming campaign."

Persons interested in Kent and Sussex should contact Ken Ryder at 284-9377.

er and experience has shown that this means there are no doubt many times this number yet undiscovered."

He pointed out that gypsy moth caterpillars defoliated some two million woodland acres in nine Northeastern states this past summer. Pennsylvania was hard hit with some 498,000 acres of trees hit.

Hickman said that state and federal personnel have for the past several years established traps throughout the state to capture male moths. He said 6 were trapped in 1969, 27 in 1970 and over 400 this past summer, indicating the destructive moths are moving into the state in serious numbers.

In conjunction with the USDA's Animal and Plant Health Service, Hickman said the state has released thousands of parasitic wasps which feed on the moth egg masses. This is one method of control since environmental considerations caused the discontinuance of DDT treatments in 1958, he added.
