

City Favors Tax Break To Attract Industry

The City Council, at a special meeting Monday night, agreed to a tax break for Burris Foods, Milford, to build a cold storage distribution plant in an industrial park on which it has an option from the Progress Corporation of Milford.

The land, lying to the south of Reese Avenue and adjoining the Penn. Central Railroad, formerly belonged to Ralph Smith and comprises between 15 and 16 acres. John Burris, of Burris Foods, told the Council Monday night he estimated the cost of the structure at $600,000.

The tax solution is as follows: Figuring on the basis of the usual assessment of 60 per cent of the value of the building, Burris would pay the usual tax rate of $1 per $100 on the first $100,000; on the second $100,000 the tax rate would be 75c and on the remaining value the tax rate would be lowered to 50c per $100.

The tax solution which, according to City Attorney Roy S. Shiels, would call for a contract, would be in force ten years.

Shiels to work out the problem with Houston Wilson, of Georgetown, attorney for Burris, before the contract becomes official.

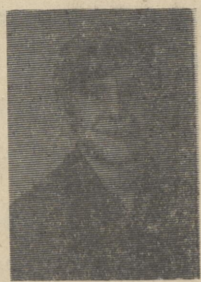

Burris figured his plant would be a block from the western end of the tract and have an outlet on the Harrington - Farmington back road. It would also have a railroad siding. The city would run sewer and water to the Burris property line.

Burris, who said Monday night he wanted to start construction as soon as possible, said his plant would distribute foods to Acme Markets in several states and 70 per cent went to the west of Harrington.

He advanced a prominent reason for coming to Harrington: a shortage of cold storage space in the Milford area.

KENT MAN HELD AS RAPE SUSPECT

Terry Richard Fox, 25, of Frederica, charged Sunday in the rape of a 19-year-old Greenwood woman, is being held in the Sussex Correctional Institution in default of $10,000 bail.

State police said Fox had offered to help victim and her girl friend after their car became disabled on U.S. 113, four miles south of Dover Air Force Base.

Police said Fox apparently was unable to start the car and offered to drive the two women home. Near Hickman, however, the suspect reportedly displayed a knife and ordered the Greenwood girl to disrobe. Her companion was forced from the car.

After the assault, police said, he took the girls to the home of one of them near Hickman. Later, his victim was examined and treated at Milford Memorial Hospital.

Fox was arrested at his home and taken to Magistrate Court 4, Seaford, where he waived a preliminary hearing for a trial in Superior Court.

Harrington Recreation Activities

The first week of the Harrington youth basketball program kicked off with the Bucks, Celtics, and Bullets emerging as solid winners.

Calvin Burris and Darnell Burton were the standouts for the Bucks as they scored 21 and 10 points respectively in a 35 to 18 win over the Knicks. The Knicks, coached by Jerry Smith, hustled all the way but could not catch the high scoring Bucks. Don Baynard of the Knicks scored 10 points.

The Celtics, led by Bruce Benson's 17 points posted an impressive 32 to 12 win over the Lakers. Bobby Loper scored 9 points for the Lakers and one of the smallest players in the league, Jerry McGintie hit for 7 points. The Bullets established themselves as a powerhouse as they beat a good Hawk team 41-21. James Flamer and Roger Perry were the big guns for the Bullets as they scored 14 and 19 points. Barry Doherty led the Hawks with 9 points. All games are held at the Chipman gym every Saturday and the public is invited to attend.

The second week of basketball competition at the Harrington Recreation Boys League proved to be exciting with all three games going right down to the wire. After the smoke cleared, the Celtics and Bullets were firmly in first place with perfect 2-0 records.

The preseason favorites for the league were the Bucks and Bullets and their encounter Saturday ended in a 42 to 37 win for the Bullets. The Bullets jumped to an early lead only to have the Bucks catch them late in the game.

When Darnell Burton fowled out, the Bullets hit on two baskets and put the game away. The Bullets were sparked by the rebounding of James Flamer and his offensive effort in the second half proved to be the deciding factor in this crucial contest. Calvin Burris was high scorer for the game with 19 points.

The Celtics maintained their first place tie by edging out an inspired Knick team 38 to 32. Bruce Benson's 15 points was high for the Celtics and Zack Taylor gave an exhibition of offensive shooting in pcmping in 19 points for the Knicks.

The Hawks opened their season record by nosing out the Lakers 39 to 37 in a ball game that was as close as the score indicates. James Harris and Charles Benson lead the Hawks with 17 and 14 points respectively. Kevin Pritchett was the high man for the Lakers with 16 points.

Penn-Dol Sample House Scheduled for April 30

Penn-Dol Development Company, of Baltimore, hopes to have a sample house erected by April 30, the City Council learned Monday night in a letter from Murray Feigin, who will be in charge of the $2-million-dollar project.

In the missive, Feigin asked the Council to improve Peck Avenue, which borders the project on the north, and to open the avenue to U.S. 13. At the special meeting, the Council favored the improvement but asked City Manager Jack Harrington to ask Feigin the nature of the work. In the letter, Feigin said his company was willing to provide engineering layout and design for Peck Avenue without cost to the city.

Peck Avenue is a dirt street running from East Street to Simpson Street. The city owns the land, however, for a continuation of the thoroughfare one block to U.S. 13.

The Penn-Dol development is also bordered on the west by East Street; on the south and east by lands of Dudley Willis. The current development contemplates 100 townhouses on 10 acres.

According to Dr. Don Schumer, president of the development company, an option is held on an adjoining tract to the east which could accommodate another 100 houses.

He said, in a telephone call to The Journal Christmas Eve, his company would operate in Harrington until the housing demand was satisfied.

The company, which also builds large industrial buildings, has listed the houses as selling for $19,000 to $20,500. However, some houses may be built on a rental basis.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon R. Brown of Bordentown, N. J., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Virginia Anne Brown, to John T. Pizzadili, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Pizzadili of Felton.

Miss Brown is a graduate of Bordentown Regional High School and Burlington County College. She is presently studying for her bachelor's degree in medical technology at the University of Delaware.

Mr. Pizzadili is a graduate of Bordentown Military Institute and is a senior at High Point College, majoring in elementary education.

Soils Laboratory Serves Rural and Urban Residents

Farmers, homeowners and commercial establishments in Delaware had more than 5,000 soil samples analyzed at the University of Delaware's soils testing laboratory in Newark during 1971, according to Leo J. Cotnoir, associate professor of plant science. Individual fertility recommendations based on these tests helped increase crop yields, improve home lawns and maintain commercial landscapes.

Over 1,450 soil samples came from New Castle County. Cotnoir says 750, or more than 55 percent, of these were for golf courses, lawns and home gardens.

Approximately 2,245 soil samples were forwarded to the soils lab from Sussex County, while another 1,115 samples came from Kent County. The majority of these soil tests were for farmers who raise corn, soybeans and vegetable crops.

The soils lab also analyzed more than 4,000 soil and plant samples for research projects at the university.

A routine soil test costs $1. For that dollar, university technicians determine the soil pH—or degree of acidity, the phosphorus, potassium and magnesium contents, and then prepare an individual recommendation for fertilization.

Cotnoir explains that the soils laboratory is also equipped to test samples for micronutrients, nitrogen, boron and organic matter. However, an additional service fee is charged for these tests.

Three All-America Vegetables

Flavorful, productive, easy-to-grow—all describe the three new All-America Selections winning vegetables for 1972, according to Robert Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

The winners are Victory cucumber, which is a productive, disease-resistant type, and two modern red cabbages, Ruby Ball, an early variety, and Red Head, a later type.

Every year All-America Selections, which is a non-profit educational organization founded by seedsmen, supervises the testing of many, many new vegetables, Stevens says. There are 27 test gardens throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico, and competent horticulturists at each location put the vegetables through a rigorous testing program. Only the best of the new vegetables are considered for an award.

Victory, the bronze medal winning cucumber, is especially noted for its disease resistance. This means not only that spraying is less important, which is a boon to home gardeners, but that productivity is greater, since diseases do not tap the plant's strength.

Cucumber Victory is tolerant to both powdery and downy mildew, which often turn cucumber plants white during the growing season. It is also tolerant to scab and mosaic. In addition, Victory has considerable tolerance to angular leaf spot and to anthracnose, both of which can cause production problems.

But the bonus points of Victory don't stop here. It has a preponderance of female flowers which contributes to its heavy yield.

Victory cucumber has an excellent flavor, is crisp and firm and has a fine dark green color. Its over-all rating in size and shape for a slicing cucumber is tops. In fact, because of its fine color and quality, yield and adaptability, Victory is expected to replace many older types presently grown by home gardeners.

Ruby Ball, the earlier of the two new red cabbages, was awarded a gold medal, Stevens says. It is an F1 hybrid and extremely uniform. It is ball-shaped, has a short core, is solid, and has a nice, sweet flavor. It produces 5-pound heads.

Ruby Ball's companion, red cabbage, Red Head, won an All-America Selections bronze medal. It does an excellent job a bit later in the season than Ruby Ball.

Red Head is an F1 hybrid also, and has fine uniformity, an excellent flavor, a nice, compact head and a dark red color.

Seeds of All-America Selections winning vegetables are available through your favorite seed catalog or packet seed rack, or at garden center specializing in garden plants, Stevens points out.

Avoid Johnsongrass Problem Dairy Farmers Told

To prevent any problem with an undesirable Johnsongrass-forage sorghum hybrid, plant only Certified Piper sudangrass seed.

Several Mid-Atlantic states are considering taking action to eliminate future infestations of the Johnsongrass-type plant, according to Dr. Wm. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware. Both sorghum and sudangrass are extensively grown in Del. as dairy cattle forage.

Fortunately, ample supplies of certified Piper sudangrass are available from major seed companies, Mitchell says. "Piper is grown for seed in California in Johnsongrass-free areas, and California spokesmen are assuring growers that the seed is clean.

Piper has several other advantages, he adds. It's low in prussic acid and excellent for grazing.

The problem resulted from contaminated seed grown in areas where Johnsongrass grows wild. The undesirable seed is actually a hybrid resulting from cross-pollination of sorghums with native Johnsongrass.

If a dairyman has been leaning heavily on forage sorghum Mitchell advises planting Piper sudangrass. Of course, corn makes a reliable silage. Oats or rye would be a satisfactory substitute for green chop feed. Dairyman may need to increase the number of acres devoted to these crops.

For the long term, dairy farmers may want to consider increasing alfalfa acreage, too.

As seed companies adjust to the problem Johnsonville contamination, they will undoubtedly shift seed production completely into areas that are free from this weed, Mitchell says. "In the meantime, Delaware farmers can avoid the problem by planting Certified Piper sudangrass."

Rainy Day Recipe for Children

Take one rainy winter day—add two or more children. Result? Usually, a recipe for earsplitting noise and utter bedlam. Delaware winters being what they are, you can count on quite a few days with preschoolers confined indoors. But they don't have to be a completely unhappy experience, says Miss Mary Ann Finch, human development and family relations extension specialist at the University of Delaware.

Rainy days spent playing indoors call for special places to play, special activities and clearly understood limits, she adds.

You can't expect youngsters to play quietly all the time. But you can confine noisy games to the basement, or the back porch or, at least, a room that can be closed off from the rest of the house. Preferably, that room should have a minimum of furniture and "breakables."

Coloring, finger painting and making collages require washable tabletops or practical, easy-care flooring.

Why not set aside a rainy-day shelf? Put special toys there that your children use only on rainy days, says Miss Finch. Maybe you could add a book or a quiet game just right for a grey day.

Or, try making a rainy-day grab basket. Next time you're shopping, pick up a few novelty toys or story books. Choose inexpensive surprises that your child can select for himself when the raindrops or teardrops, start. Fresh or dried fruit can be added to the basket for a special surprise.

Remember that when it's gloomy outside, your child's disposition can easily follow the cue. It's a disappointment and a change for him. He has to make quite an adjustment in his usual play-day.

Try to find a time during the day to be close to your child. Set aside some time in your schedule to read a story or play a game with him. Your youngster could look forward to some kitchen-time with you. He can help bake cookies or make pudding for supper, suggests Miss Finch.

Be prepared—for the stored-up energy, extra noise and interruptions that are a part of the rainy-day scene. The day will not be easy for you, but you can make it pleasant. Let your sunshine brighten your child's rainy day.

Veteran's Administration News

Q—May a veteran pay off a G.I. loan before date final payment is due?

A—Yes. A VA-guaranteed loan may be partially or fully paid at any time ahead of schedule. However, part payments may not be less than one monthly payment or $100, whichever is less.

Q—About two years ago, I received VA outpatient treatment for an injury sustained in service and verified by VA. Can I receive treatment again from VA?

A—Yes, if you have established this service-connection with VA. Suggest you apply for treatment again.

Q—I have been drawing widow's pension of $81 since January, 1971, and I earned $900 the rest of the year. Should I report this to VA, and what effect will this have on my pension?

A—Anytime a person who draws nonservice-connected death pension has a change in income during the year, it must be reported to the VA office having his records. That office will decide if pension adjustments are necessary. If there is income that could not have been anticipated, payments are usually adjusted at end of year in which income changed.

Canterbury - Viola

by Edna Massimilla

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Xavier of Woodside on the birth of a son Jan. 26 at Kent General Hospital.

"The Singing Prouses" a gospel singing group from Salisbury, Md. will be guests at the Barratt's Chapel Sub-District United Methodist Youth Fellowship meeting Feb. 6, 7 p.m. All members from Viola, Camden, Woodside and Felton are urged to come.

Miss Melinda Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. of Viola became the bride of David Reynolds Robbins, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Robbins of Frederica on Sat. at 1:30 p.m. at Peoples United Church of Christ, Camden. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Peace. The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a long white gown with long veil and carried a bouquet of mixed roses and mums. The maid-of-honor was the sister of the bride, Susan Griffith. Her gown was royal blue. The three bridesmaids were Karen Knight of Wyoming, Patricia Rogers of Clayton and Georgia Kimball of Dover. Their gowns were emerald green. B. Terrace Webb was the best man and the ushers were Daniel R. Griffith, C. William Brown and Joseph P. Wootten. The bride's mother wore a light blue street length dress with matching accessories and the groom's mother chose medium blue with matching accessories. Both mothers had white orchid corsages. A reception followed the ceremony at the Elks Club in Dover. The bride is a graduate of Felton High School and is employed as a licensed practical nurse at Kent General Hospital. The groom is an auto body mechanic. The couple will reside in Frederica.

There's a new addition at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Long of Canterbury. Their baby daughter was born on Jan. 23 at Kent General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. James Perry of Camden are the proud parents of a son, born on Jan. 21. He has been named Scott Edward and weighed eight pounds and two ounces at birth.

The Paradise 4-H Club had its Parent's Banquet on Jan. 20, 7 p.m. at the VFW Hall in Felton. Miss Melanie Hoff, president, introduced the guests who included Miss Norma Voss and Miss Charmayne Pierson, of the Chestnut Grove 4-H Club. Both of these members are actively engaged in 4-H activities. During the past eight years Miss Pierson has participated in projects on home improvement, clothing and food. She was one of five who went to Colorado to the American Institute of Cooperation as a 4-H representative. Miss Voss has been a member for six years. She was recently chosen to go to Chicago for the National Congress, being a Delaware State Winner of 'swine'.

"Raising two little pigs and aring for them was an interesting experience" Miss Voss relates, and she continued 'I never thought I could get to love them so much'. Being a 4-H member has many advantages. You may choose your favorite project and pursue it. Melanie Hoff is really becoming a fine bread baker, and she will be completing a hand-made suit to be included in the displays in April or May. Ray Roland received his eight-year pin at the banquet. The club leaders are Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hudson and Mrs. William Eliason.

The Massimilla family had the pleasure of having Miss Leena Huotilainen of Finland spend the weekend at the parsonage during the AFS program.

The UMYF Sub-district meeting will be held Feb. 6 at 7 p.m. in Magnolia. A gospel singing group, The Prouses, will be the guests.

Boy Scout and Cub Scout Troop No. 141 will attend Felton U.M. Church on Sunday, in a group, for worship and will take part in service.

Feb. 19 thru 21st - The Davis Family Weekend to be held at the church. A fellowship dinner will be held Feb. 21 at 6 p.m. Each service will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Seventh Day Adventist Church Notes

The largest evangelist effort ever undertaken by the Seventh-day Adventist Church is planned for 1972, states Pastor Michael Miller of the Harrington church. Called MISSION '72, the worldwide program is entirely people oriented, with church members being assigned their own personal mission in the community. Although the campaign does not officially get under way until March, church members have been studying ways of better witnessing for Christ in preparation for the event.

One of the first steps was a November week of prayer in the local church. Similar meetings were held in Adventist churches around the world. A gift Bible program has also been initiated whereby the church gives free Bibles to anyone who wishes to participate in Bible study classes. To date the Harrington church has given away dozens of Bibles.

As a community service, pastor Miller plans to conduct a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking in the Spring. A medical doctor will assist in the program which has helped more than 75 percent report success in kicking the habit in the thousands of other Five-Day plans conducted.

"We wish to have every member of the Harrington church involved in some form of evangelism or community service this year," states Pastor Miller. "This is a worldwide campaign," explains the pastor. "Every Adventist church in the world is participating."

With a membership of two million, Seventh-day Adventists operate more than 16,000 churches.

State Chamber of Commerce Issues Federal Tax Estimate For Delaware

Delaware taxpayers will be required to pay out approximately $837.4 million in Federal taxes as their share of the cost of the Federal spending budget of $246.3 billion proposed by President Nixon for the Federal fiscal year beginning July 1, 1972, according to an estimate today by the Delaware State Chamber of Commerce.

This estimate was based on the State Chamber's calculations that Delaware taxpayers bear .34 per cent of all federal taxes.

The State Chamber pointed out that any change which Congress may make in this budget will reduce or increase the amount that Delawareans will have to bear depending on whether Congress cuts or spends more.

The $837.4 million which would be borne by state taxpayers to support the President's proposed budget is 3.4 times the amount of General Fund revenue collected by state government for last fiscal year.

The State Chamber noted that while the $246.3 billion spending estimate for fiscal 1973 represents a relatively modest increase of $9.7 billion over the current estimate of $236.6 billion for fiscal 1972, the total exceeds 1971 outlays by $25.2 billion. These two spending increases totaling $34.9 billion compare with a two-year increase of $17.8 billion from 1968 to 1970.

The Chamber suggested that Congress should challenge and carefully study the future consequences of the "full employment budget" idea adopted by the President for 1972 and repeated in his 1973 budget. This idea relates spending each year to revenues that would be generated under existing taxes and full employment rather than to actual anticipated revenues. It would permit sanguine acceptance of two successive deficits in 1972 and 1973 totaling $64.3 billion, or $30.4 billion more than the two-year deficit of $33.9 billion in 1967 and 1968 which was a significant factor generating the inflation of recent years.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

Since Retirement

I've done a lot of thinking
 And worked on things galore,
 I've had the urge to nobler deeds
 Than I have tried before.

Contentment really dwells with me
 And peace of mind I claim,
 I want to work for those I love
 And leave behind a name.

Charles Kingsley has wisely said: Thank God every morning when you get up that you have something to do that day which must be done, whether you like it or not. Being forced to work, and do your best, will breed in you temperance and self-control, diligence, and strength of will, cheerfulness and content, and a hundred other virtues which the idle never know.

VENISON DINNER

Last Wednesday evening (Jan. 26th) the annual venison dinner of Asbury Methodist Church saw ninety seven members enjoy good food, fun and fellowship in the Collins Hall of the church.

This was the 19th consecutive year for the dinner, inaugurated in 1953 by the Methodist Men's Club of the church under leadership of Rev. Robert VanCleaf. The occasion represented dedication of the new Sunday School building which had just been completed, all labor being furnished by the men's group themselves.

This group is still active as ever, meeting at breakfast on the first Sunday of each month. Results of their efforts are reflected in the property's surroundings, for which our community can be justly proud.

Spartans Split Two Tight Cage Tilts

Lake Forest took on two, winning basketball teams from the Northern Division of the Henlopen Conference in the Spartans' last start. The locals played the larger schools to a standstill and emerged with a narrow victory over Seaford and a similarly narrow defeat, at the hands of Cape Henlopen.

Jim Blades' improving cagers were one starter short against the Cape but opened up a 13-5 bulge in the first period. The Vikings had a hot, second period effort of 21 points to go ahead by one at the half.

The second half was a replay of the first. Lake Forest had the edge in the third period, but the Vikings rallied to win 54-52, with a fourth-quarter surge.

Frank Daniels was top Spartan with 17 points. Bruce Burton and Jim Dill added 12 and 10 points, respectively.

Jim Dill, who never had a free throw against Cape Henlopen, had 15 against Seaford and converted 12. His 26 points represented a new, personal career high. Frank Daniels added 12.

Lake Forest gained its fifth victory in ten starts and holds third place in the Southern Division, at this writing.

Grapplers Beat Laurel, Bow To Seaford

Lake Forest's wrestlers had a 43-15 romp over Laurel, then bowed 31-16, to an underdog Seaford team.

The Blue Jays with four defeats this campaign did not figure to beat Lake Forest but apparently had a "hot" night, while catching the Spartans on an off night.

Lake Forest started off with five straight pins, the 46 second effort by Martin Miller being the fastest. The thirty point cushion after five matches did the trick, as Laurel outscored the locals over the last seven bouts by 15-13, as two Bulldogs won by falls.

Skip O'Neal was the only Spartan to score a pin at Seaford. Tom Clarke and Norman Baynard won by decision. Two other Spartans were involved in stalemates. Lake Forest 43, Laurel 15. Harrington Bowling League

Leah S. Wheeler

Jarrell Fuel, McKnatt Funeral Home and Butler's Fuel exchanged places with last week's league leaders as they all moved to the front on big wins Tuesday night. The battle for the championship title for the second third has six teams in close contention and either team can take the title next week, the last bowling night in this third.

Looking ahead to next week the odds are very good that as Jarrell Fuel will go against the Spoilers, McKnatt's will battle Fry's American and Butler's Fuel with the most advantageous opponent to face will go against the Rejects.

Dallas Hayman rolled a 565 series and a 205 game and Harold Melvin hit a 203 game, with Martin Jarrell adding a 202 game to aid in Jarrell Fuel's crushing triumph over Fry's American in all four games. Robert Jarrell also added a good effort for the fuelers. Fry's American's Don Jester rolled very well for the losers.

Donald McKnatt seared the boards for a 557 set with a 213 game included; Harold Brode hit a 556 series and Don Garey rolled a 205 game and 533 series to give McKnatt Funeral Home a big four game win over the T & M Rejects. Jimmy Messick, Bill Shockley and Ray Wright bowled good above average efforts for the Rejects.

Larry Larimore paved the way for Butler's Fuel as they took three big games from Gallo & Stevenson to share a piece of the top spot. Larry also lead the league with a 220 game and had a fine 543 series as Ralph Butler, Ray Wright and Sam Lyons also bowled above average efforts. Sam Lyons also had a good 200 game. Ernest Gallo Jr., and Ken Garey bowled very well for the construction boys.

Taylor & Messick rolled a team 2642 to take over the top spot in the league in team series. A big factor in the move to the top of the team series category was George Collin's 615 series, with games of 219 and 203 included and Snooky Collins 208 game along with Tom Brown's fine above average effort, as the farm boys

From the land of British Racing Green.

Only 24 of the top racing drivers in the world are eligible to compete in all International Grand Prix.

More than half of them are British.

For the British, cars are a very no-nonsense, unfrilly business. In a car, they regard beauty as a function of how beautifully it functions, and nothing reflects this more than the classically British TR-6.

It is English to the core.

In fact, it's just about all core—a big, beautifully engineered 6-cylinder motor, powering a sturdy transmission that slides solidly from one gear into another.

A heavy-duty independent suspension that can take anything that any road can dish out.

All tightly put together in a body with rugged, clean lines and topped off with a couple of comfortable reclining seats.

The classically British TR-6, is an utterly straightforward, square-jawed kind of car.

The kind they don't make anymore, anywhere but England.

KENT COUNTY COMMENTS

by JOSHUA M. TWILLEY
Levy Court President

Last Tuesday morning the Levy Court finally took the much overdue step of setting up its own administration department. Up until now all of the Levy Court business has been performed by employees borrowed from the Clerk of the Peace office. This had reached a point where 90% of the work in the office was for the Levy Court.

There are many things the Levy Court must do for itself, for instance, it must:

Administer maintenance of the Court House and County Buildings.

Handle all County purchase. Administer the New Suburban street light program and assist Suburban areas which are trying to establish these districts.

Handle inquiries, questions and complaints of Kent County citizens concerning all aspects of County problems such as drainage, roads, street signs, taxes, sewer/flood insurance, police problems, parks and recreation, tax exemption, tax assessment, employment and housing, just to mention some of them.

Coordinate activities involving the state and municipalities in such matters as comprehensive federal funding, cooperative activities, such as Parks and Recreation, Planning and Zoning, Intergovernmental Taxes and Government Reform financing.

Perform the Clerical and administrative follow through on all of the decisions of the Levy Court. This responsibility alone is so large that it defies listing. As an example of this I would like to list the matters from the meeting of Tuesday, Jan. 18, which was a typical meeting. After that meeting the Levy Court Staff had to:

Prepare certificates of appointment for 17 Special Constables including, I.D.'s, Oaths, Bonds, and personnel records, and contact the Constables for swearing in ceremonies.

Follow through to see that the approved bills were paid and the checks written.

Prepare reports for the Federal Government on the EEA program.

Prepare background information in order to decide on salary matters.

Direct alterations and repairs for a draftsman's room and a conference room for the Planning Office, and prepare specs for additional work space in the Receiver of Taxes Office.

Follow through on the status of lease negotiations on one of the landfill sites.

Check on the progress of the Sewer Contracts.

Follow through on the information needed to decide the feasibility of two additional landfill collection stations.

Gather the information necessary for the semi-annual budget and finance review.

Notify the persons who appeared in connection with proposed Zoning Ordinance to the decision taken in regard to their request.

Set up a meeting with the Kent County Firemen's Association to reach a decision concerning the employment Call Board Personnel.

Follow through on request of the Levy Court to set up an additional training course for Special Constables.

Set up a meeting in Denton to inspect the Fire Call Board there.

The administrative follow through mentioned above is from JUST ONE LEVY COURT MEETING and was in addition to all the other continuing responsibilities necessary to operate the County Government.

In order to serve the citizens of Kent County efficiently and without interruption, the Levy Court could no longer afford the confusion and conflict which would necessarily follow, when all of these duties were performed by personnel who were not hired for that purpose.

Kent County was the only government in Delaware without clerical assistance under its direction, and everyone familiar with the workload performed strongly urged that the step taken last Tuesday to establish the position of Deputy for the Levy Court was critically important and necessary to serve the citizens of Kent County.

It Seems To Me

What makes sewing machines skip stitches? That's a question that was frequently asked at the exhibit of making lingerie at the recent Sewing Spree sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Delaware.

And it does seem to happen most often when you are sewing a material such as nylon tricot.

Many things could contribute to this problem. Each person must analyze her own situation and do a bit of experimentation to conquer it.

Skipping is most likely to occur when fabric resists needle penetration and when the fabric tends to cling to the needle. Since nylon tricot is strong and soft and also can build up static electricity, skipping stitches is likely to occur.

Skipping can occur, too, if the needle and thread are not the right size for the fabric. If you mend nylon lingerie using the regular needle and cotton thread, you'll probably have skipped stitches. Use a fine (No. 11 or 9) machine needle and fine nylon or fine polyester thread.

One company is making an extra-fine polyester thread for sewing lingerie. A fine silk thread is another possibility. You may need to experiment to find the best combination of needle and thread for the fabric.

Ball point needles seem to give better results, and lessen the danger of cutting fabric that occurs with a sharp needle.

Try to maintain a slow, steady speed. A fast speed is more likely to develop static electricity and cause fabric distortion. Experiment with your own machine to find the speed least likely to skip stitches.

Some fabrics are treated with a finish to give more body and easier handling. This can coat the needle with resulting skipped stitches. You have the choice of laundering fabric before sewing and having more difficulty with rolled edges and soft fabric. I prefer to sew fabric unlaundered since it's easier to handle, and look for other means to control skipping.

If you are using straight stitching, use the throat plate with the smallest hole. It supports the fabric better with less stretching when the needle penetrates.

Hold the fabric somewhat taut as it feeds under the presser foot. This prevents the fabric from sliding around so much and makes needle penetration easier. It may also help prevent puckered seams. You will need to experiment though, because knit fabrics have differing amounts of stretch and if you hold the fabric too taut, the seam will not be closely sewn.

Keep the sewing machine parts free of lint. Static electricity will cause rapid build-up of lint when you sew on nylon and other fabrics of man-made fibers.

If, after all your experimentation, the machine still skips stitches frequently, the "timing" of your machine may need to be adjusted by a qualified service man. I've heard that there are some machines that will never sew fabrics such as nylon tricot without skipping. Don't use this as an excuse though, because most machines sew nylon tricot very well if you take the time and have the patience to experiment.

New Century Club Notes

The Harrington New Century Club met for its regular meeting, Tuesday, Jan. 25, at 8 p.m. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Francis J. Winkler, who all joined in repeating the Pledge and the Collect. The Secretaries and Treasurers reports were given and accepted. The Sunshine collection was taken.

Mrs. Rapp reported she had Place Mats and Writing and Note Paper for sale.

Mrs. Winkler named the nominating committee, Mrs. T. H. Storus, Chairman; Mrs. Charles Peck and Mrs. James Moore.

Mrs. Blanche Cahall, Chairman for the day, introduced her guests, Mr. John Harrington, the new City Manager, who spoke a few words to us, and Mr. Burton Satterfield, Harrington Mayor, who spoke to us telling us some of the things the town is doing, has done and plans for the future. He told us the water and sewage system are now in very satisfactory condition and could take care of 2/3 more usage than people using it now. The town would be very happy to have more new businesses move into the town, therefore giving more people work and more people building new homes. He gave us a great deal of interesting information about our town. He said the people would be welcome to attend the Town Meetings.

All potato growers should cast their vote on the proposed potato research and promotion plan. Potato growers in 48 states of the nation will vote Feb. 1 through Feb. 10 to determine whether a nation-wide potato research and promotion plan should be approved.

This plan will be administered by a national potato promotion board made up of producers selected by the Secretary of Agriculture from nominations made by producers. Each state would be entitled to one board member for each five million hundred weight of potatoes produced with at least one member per state. The program would be financed by an assessment of up to one cent per hundred weight of potatoes handled. Handlers would be permitted to collect assessments from producers, but producers not wishing to contribute would be reimbursed upon written request.

All Delaware growers are urged to cast their ballot and return it immediately. If any grower did not receive the ballot along with the pertinent information, he can obtain a ballot at the Kent County Extension Office by calling 736-1448.

If you have any questions about the proposed potato research and promotion plan, contact our office for additional information or explanation.

The Delaware Christmas Tree Growers Association has planned its annual meeting for February 10, to start at 7:30 p.m. at the State Highway Building across from the Blue Hen Mall on Rt. 113, Dover.

Included on the program will be an explanation of ways to handle income from the sale of Christmas trees for income tax purposes. There have been many questions asked about how this should be reported to the Internal Revenue Service for both state and federal.

One of the highlights scheduled will be a guest speaker from Penn State University, Dr. Edward Farrand, Extension Forester for Christmas Tree Production at Penn State will cover in detail the cultural management procedures for handling new plantings as well as the care of established Christmas tree groves.

Anyone interested in Christmas tree production and the sale of trees, both retail and wholesale, should plan to be with us for the evening. There will be a booth set up to accept members to the association that evening.

A very interesting and informative program has been designed, so be with us to get the latest information on all angles of Christmas tree production.

Persons interested in soybean production should plan to be in Salisbury, Md., on Feb. 3, at the Youth and Civic Center for the 6 Delmarva Soybean Meeting. An outstanding program has been developed to cover new soybean varieties, soybean fertility and growth regulators, as well as comments on insect problems that have been encountered the past couple of years.

One other interesting topic will be "Balancing Your Rotation System," which is a very important item that should be incorporated in all soybean production operation.

Discussion will follow with proper machine adjustment during harvest and to end the program, "Gearing Up For Domestic and Foreign Markets" will be outlined.

Everyone is invited to attend the 6 Delmarva Soybean Meeting at 10 a.m. in Salisbury.

The University of Delaware is now offering all Delaware residents who are sixty-five years old or older and their spouses an opportunity to obtain tickets to most University events at no charge. In order to take advantage of this opportunity, Delaware residents may apply for membership in the newly organized "Over 65" Club.

The University events that are included in this free attendance program include all athletic events other than football, University Theatre and Cultural Extension functions open to the public. May be in the future football games will also be included in this new program.

Anyone interested in joining the "Over 65" Club may call the Extension Office nearest them for an application form. We will be glad to answer any questions you may have pertaining to this new club.

Winter Horse Care

Rainy, muddy winter days mean you get less use from your horse, but it needs even more care, according to Dr. Melvin Reintour, extension equine specialist at the University of Delaware.

Your horse will get less exercise than he's used to getting. You should provide exercise facilities, Reintour says.

He'll need adequate, well-aired, clean shelter. To prevent thrush, an unpleasant, bad-smelling problem with horse's feet, keep the stall clean and dry. Also, check the stall for loose and protruding nails and other sharp edges that can cause troublesome wounds.

"Is the stable well-aired?" asks Reintour. "If you go into the stall in the morning and notice an overwhelming smell of ammonia while the moisture fogs your glasses, your stable needs ventilation. A well-aired stable will help you escape the cost of eye and respiratory problems with your horse, too."

Feed your horses according to their needs, he recommends. They should have access to clean, non-freezing water. Don't allow them to range over manure piles. Neither cold weather nor the heat of fermentation will destroy worm eggs which could infect the animals.

By this time you should have your horses treated for internal parasites. Horses should not be expected to go through the winter feeding a horde of unnecessary parasites as well as themselves.

Also, treat your animals for bots, stresses Reintour. The fly larvae spend the winter in your horse's stomach and interfere with digestion.

Your veterinarian has combination treatments which will get rid of most internal parasites. Also, talk to him about vaccinating horses against various encephalitic diseases, what other treatments are needed and the parasitic control program best suited to your horses.

A number of horse skin problems were evident last fall, Reintour noted. "They're probably caused by fungi; talk to your veterinarian about treatment."

Make sure the fungi are not carried over in the gear to cause a new infection. Clean, disinfect, repair and renew all the gear.

Winter is a good time to get your horse's feet taken care of, Reintour says. Keep hooves trimmed and even. Remove the shoes if you don't plan much riding or work for your horse this winter.

Recycling Still Best System With Animal Wastes

Improper handling of animal wastes has been blamed for much of agriculture's contribution to land and water pollution. And the healthy smell of manure is becoming less appreciated by the nonfarming public.

With the passage of stronger pollution control laws, many livestock farmers may soon be forced to take a closer look at their waste handling systems, according to Norman E. Collins and William F. Ritter pointed out that farm animals in the U.S. produce nearly two billion tons of waste per year.

To handle this waste, scientists have proposed numerous new programs. Collins says researchers have devised a system to convert animal waste into crude oil. Other scientists have turned waste into garden compost for homeowners as well as a palatable animal feed. It will require considerably more work, however, before animal waste can be converted into useable products at a reasonable cost.

Recycling animal waste through the soil is still the easiest and most economical method of disposal for farmers, the agricultural engineers stress. But producers must time their applications carefully; maintain efficient crop programs that will utilize the nutrients added to the soil from the waste; and take into consideration the effect of the waste on soil, groundwater and surface runoff.

According to Collins and Ritter, a dairy cow produces nearly 18 tons of waste per year. This tonnage contains 100 pounds of nitrogen, 36 pounds of phosphorus and 180 pounds of potash. On this basis, a dairy farmer can apply the waste from two or three cows for each acre of cropland or pasture.

The faster this waste is returned to the soil and plowed under, the better, adds Collins. Manure spread in the open loses about one-third of its original nitrogen content, 40 percent of its phosphorus and 80 percent of its potash in six months.

Although many livestock producers are still using a conventional manure spreader, liquid manure handling systems are becoming more popular. Ritter says farmers should have a system that (1) keeps the cost of handling the waste to a minimum, (2) can be mechanized as much as possible, (3) eliminates the possibility of water contamination and (4) minimizes the odor problem.

Introduction To Metric System

Would you be proud of your figure if your measurements were 98-56-96? Would you buy a liter of fruit juice for 49¢ if you could buy a quart for the same price?

If the United States converts to the metric system, you may need to know the answers to such questions.

Mrs. Janet Cordrey explained how changing to the metric system will affect homemakers at a recent meeting sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service at the University of Delaware. She is a nutritionist for the New Castle county Department of Physical Health.

The English system of measurement, the one known and used today has many drawbacks, she said. For one, it's inconsistent—more than one unit of measurement is used for the same physical quantity.

For example, if you're selecting a rug for your home, you have to change square feet or square inches into square yards. If you're shopping in a grocery store without unit pricing, you have to compute the best buy between two quart-size juice cans for 65¢ versus three pint-size juice cans for 51¢.

Mathematicians may find these conversions rather simple, but it's obvious that every consumer is not a mathematician.

A change to the metric system would mean an overhaul of most manufacturing systems. The manufacturers of automobiles would change measurements instrument panels. Road signs, clothes, packages—all would be affected.

What would happen to food preparations? Would you cook by weight or by volume? Would there be a metric cup, a metric spoon? What will you have to buy to prepare a meal? Remember, however, that cooking will still remain a matter of proportion, said Mrs. Cordrey.

What would happen to clothing? Now you buy clothes either by code size, such as a size 12 dress, or by actual measurements. Hopefully, the metric system would mean more consistent and accurate sizing and labeling.

Health and medical items may also cause concern. Pharmacists have been using metric measurements for some time now. But the doctor's instructions are given in customary measurements. In the new system, prescriptions may be accompanied by directions to take so many millimeters per day rather than teaspoons.

The new measurement also includes a change in the temperature scale. Units of heat would be measured in degrees centigrade rather than degrees Fahrenheit. You'd have to understand the difference. A one or two degree change in Fahrenheit temperature would not necessarily warrant a call to the doctor. But on a centigrade scale, it would.

"Why should we consider the change?" Mrs. Cordrey asks. Simplicity. Your children would only have to learn one system of measurements in school. And the metric system is based on units of ten, like money, so it will be easier to learn.

You may be concerned about the difficulty of adapting to this new system. But you're already doing it, said Mrs. Cordrey. Home sewing patterns already include metric measurements along with English measurement. Mail order companies are also involved in the metric system.

There is already much metric information on the products on the supermarket shelves today. You don't notice it because you don't need to use it—but it's there. A lot of products carry the metric weight in grams as well as the weight in ounces.

In your weekly shopping, you'll notice very little difference. You'll still judge by eye and experience the amount and size of food package to fill your family's needs.

The two systems are not equal in size so it won't be only a matter of learning new names for a quart, a meter stick is about 3 1/3 inches longer than the customary yardstick. If the switch comes, there may be price adjustments to fit the nearest convenience metric measure—in yard goods and grocery items, for example. The prices will stay in proportion to the quantity you receive. It won't be a price rise by the manufacturer or retailer.

It seems inevitable that the metric system will come, stated Mrs. Cordrey. Many industries and products need it. But it will be gradually phased in. The National Bureau of Standards is prepared to inform and guide consumers. And there'll probably be about a ten-year period for conversion.

The most economical method of conversion for you as a homemaker would be for you to continue to use your present equipment and recipes until you need or feel compelled to replace them.
