

22 ATTEND AFS WEEKEND AT LAKE FOREST SCHOOL

A group of 22 teen agers would naturally be a very vocal gathering in this day and time. Imagine, however, a group of 22 teen agers from all parts of the world getting together for a weekend and having, perhaps, a first opportunity in months to speak to someone from your own country and in your own language. Such a meeting occurred over the past weekend when 22 Foreign Exchange Students, in the vicinity of Lake Forest, arrived for an AFS Weekend.

The AFS Club of the Lake Forest High School were sponsors of the weekend under the direction of their advisor, Mrs. William Smith and members of the AFS Chapter. It was a full weekend with many activities for the students, but plenty of opportunity, too, to speak to that fellow student from "home".

The group arrived Friday at Chipman Junior High School for a reception in the Home Economics room. There they met their student hosts for the weekend and visited classrooms in the Junior and the Elementary Schools. Needless to say, each guest from a foreign country was greeted with enthusiasm, particularly by the younger pupils.

Lunch and an assembly program at the High School preceded their going home with their host or hostess for dinner. The basketball game with Seaford offered an opportunity of half-time for the guests to be introduced to the audience. A quick refreshment time at 9:30 by a bus trip to Dover Downs. There a welcoming committee of parents, Chapter members and officials of the track led the students on a grand tour of the racing facility. Presentation of a blanket to a winning horse was even on the agenda for the evening.

On Saturday a bus trip was planned to the Island Field Site at South Bowers. This was another chance to talk in their native language and several students were observed in the constant animated conversation.

Mr. Thomas, State Archaeologist, was at the site to give a guided tour and talk. The students were most interested and asked numerous questions of Mr. Thomas. Dinner and a short rest with the host families was followed quickly by trip to Wesley College pool for a swim party. Again the normal chatter and talk of the 22 students was enlivened by the foreign languages being spoken. An All-American trip to Gino's before returning to Lake Forest was thoroughly enjoyed also.

Sunday, following church with their host families, the group once again met at Chipman for a farewell snack before being picked up by their

David Hume, the 18 century philosopher who took a dim Scottish view of practically everything, paid the cherry the highest of compliments. In his opinion the relatively recent migration of the cherry from Asia to Europe proved the world to be in its infancy. "Is it possible," Hume inquired, "that throughout a whole eternity, no European had ever passed into Asia and thought of transplanting so delicious fruit into his own country?...Is it possible that during the revolutions of a whole eternity, there never arose a Columbus who might open the communication between Europe and that continent? We may as well imagine that all men would wear stockings for ten thousand years and never have the sense to think of garters to tie them." Inevitable conclusion—recent cherry history, recent world.

In 1629, only nine years after the Pilgrims landed, cherries were cultivated in Mass. Ever since, they have been a favorite fruit for desserts for many special occasions, such as Valentine's Day, Washington's Birthday, and other holidays.

Adolescent Program To Serve Unwed Pregnant Teen-Agers

The Delaware Adolescent Program, Inc. will be expanded to serve unwed pregnant teen-agers in Kent and Sussex Counties following the signing of a contract between federal and state authorities in the office of Governor Russell W. Peterson today.

DAPI will receive $70,000 in federal funds for the operation of the program in Kent and Sussex Counties through June 30, 1972. No state funds are involved.

The program was started in Feb. 1969, by the Junior League of Wilmington to aid unwed pregnant teen-age girls by enabling them to stay in school during their pregnancy and continue through to graduation after the birth of the baby.

The State took over the funding and operation of the program in 1970. At that time Governor Peterson appointed a committee to look into the possibility of expanding the program state wide. It was the recommendation of the committee that offices be established in Kent and Sussex counties for expansion of the program.

The site of downstate facilities has not been determined in Wilmington, DAPI is located in Brown Vocational School. It is anticipated that 50 girls will be served in each of the two downstate offices. In the past the Wilmington office of DAPI has helped about 100 girls a year with about one-fourth coming from outside the city.

Signing the agreement in Governor Peterson's office yesterday were John E. Hilland Director of the Division of Social Services; Dr. Marjorie McKusick, Chairman of the Board of Directors of DAPI and Mrs. Lulu Mae Nix, Executive Director of DAPI.

Secretary Ralph Hynson's roll call revealed excellent attendance with 28 members present. Fire Recorder Garry Drummond reported five alarms last month; two dwellings, one over heated stove, and one Rescue call. We had a total of 93 men in service and logged 192 1/2 man hours.

wrecked automobiles with simulated trapped persons inside. After the regular crew had worked for twenty minutes the demonstration with the new tool started, and freed his victim in about twelve minutes. The conventional crew was still working when he finished. This was very impressive, and the tool is quite expensive. Our Rescue Crew members will get a chance to use this tool in the new course on Highway Rescue to be offered at the State Fire School this spring. We decided to wait until then before making serious consideration of purchasing this unit.

In one of our publications I found the following prayer and would like to pass it on as a closing thought:

It Seams To Me

Do you want a good deed? Why not design clothes for the handicapped?

Members of Federated Women's Clubs are just doing that in a contest held in conjunction with the President's Committee on Employing the Handicapped.

It was my privilege to judge the entries in the Delaware contest, and I was impressed with the amount of thought and innovative ideas used by the contestants.

Since each handicap is different, the contestant must analyze the needs and then plan the garment around specific problems to try to give the person some measure of independence in dressing.

In designing the wearing apparel, contestants were to consider comfort and freedom of movement, ease in dressing and undressing, minimum care and maintenance, and de-emphasis of the deformity or appliance. In addition, workmanship and suitability for the patient were considered. To enable easier dressing, dress openings were changed from back to front. Coat dress styles with Velcro fasteners instead of buttons are easier for the patient to manage. Longer than usual zipper openings were used in some garments.

Two-piece outfits have advantages for some persons, and can provide mix and match combinations. Pants were designed with long plackets on each side and were fastened with Velcro strips.

One clever seamstress designed bell bottom trousers to cover leg braces worn by a small boy. In addition, long loops on the inside of the waistband enabled him to grasp the loops to pull up the trousers. The elastic in the back of the waistband gave a comfortable, neat fit.

Eye-catching buttons were added to a vest to go with the little boy's trousers. These were shaped like horses' heads and must have been a delight to him. A ready-to-wear shirt completed the outfit, but the buttons had been sewn on top of buttonholes and Velcro fasteners placed underneath. Fabric choice is important; easy-care, washable knits were popular. Knits are also comfortable and should be firmly knit so they won't snag on braces or wheel chair. Wrinkle-resistant fabrics maintain a neat appearance.

Cheerful, bright colors and attractive prints do wonders for a patient's morale. Everyone likes pretty, new fashionable clothes, and it's even more important for the handicapped.

A good fit is important for comfort and appearance and may be difficult to achieve for some patients. A knowledge of fitting principles and pattern alteration is helpful. Once a comfortable fit is possible, several garments can be made from the same pattern.

Entries in the contest were accompanied by a photograph of the model wearing the garment. The looks of pleasure should be ample reward for those women who made the garments.

This is a commendable contest, and the Federated Women's Club should be congratulated for sponsoring it.

It was not me who played with the telephone and left it off the receiver, as you said. I am 8 and big. It was your son Frank. Harrington Bowling League

Leah S. Wheeler

Congratulations to Butler's Fuel as they rolled over the T&M Rejects in all three games to get four big points and the championship of the second tier.

Larry Larimore again this week paved the way for Butler's Fuel, and all team members equalled or surpassed their individual averages in the big win. Sam Lyons rolled a good 200 game also for the fuelers. Ray Wright and Leroy Betts bowled very well for the T&M Rejects in defeat.

Jarrell Fuel dropped the first game to the Spoilers, thereby dropping into second place in the standings, losing out on the championship title. Getting off to a sluggish start, the fuelers came back in the second and third games as Robert Jarrell blasted a superb 245 game and amassed a 553 series. The Spoilers received good efforts from Bruce Hemmington and Jack Sapp.

McKnatt Funeral Home started out the final week of bowling in this third by taking the first two games from Fry's American, and was in a good position to draw into a tie for the title. However, the Fry's quintet started very strong in the third game, amassing enough marks to remain ahead of McKnatt's, who started closing the gap late in the final frames. Fry's American, by winning the last game, knocked out all hopes of McKnatt's title bid. Harold Brode rolled a 217 game and 568 series; Harry Jack hit a 548 set and a 210 game and Stan Johnson, and Jerry Hayman bowled well for Fry's.

People's Restaurant rolled over Gallo and Stevenson in three games as William Manship rolled a 225 game; Robert Keller rolled a 204 game, and Frank Collins amassed a 569 set including a 201 game. Snooky Gallo and Ernest Gallo Sr. bowled well for the construction boys as they managed to eke out one game to their credit.

Robbins Hardware and Wally's Garage battled to a two-two stalemate as Frank Robbins, Jeff Robbins and Harry Brown (547) bowled very well for the Hardware team. Eugene Wright had a 207 game, and Larry Breeding rolled a 203 game for Wally's.

Taylor & Messick received good efforts from George Collins who hit a 213 game and 543 series, and Kenny P. Outten to take two games and total series from the Honey Dippers. Just four strong, the Honey Dippers got a good effort from Jim Carroll and George Elliott.

Ken Layton amassed a 542 series, including a 214 game and Paul Baker rolled a 217 game for Penn Central as they took three games from Quillen's Market. Earl Quillen and Warren Steerman rolled well for the market team, enabling them to win one game.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

—METHUSELAH—

Methuselah ate what he found on his plate, And never, as people do now, Did he note the amount of the calory count; He ate it because it was chow.

He wasn't disturbed as at dinner he sat, Devouring a roast or a pie, To think it was lacking in granular fat Or a couple of vitamins shy.

He cheerfully chewed every bit of his food, Unmindful of troubles or fears Lest his health might be hurt By some fancy dessert;

And he lived over nine hundred years. Son: "Why do old men drive slow?" Dad: "That's why they are old."

Lake Forest Cagers Even Seasonal Record

After twelve games, Lake Forest High School's basketball team shows six victories and as many defeats. The locals lost another cliff-hanger at Sussex Central last week by a score of 55-53, then romped to a 70-48 victory over Smyrna, in a home game.

Jim Blades' Spartans have finished a seven-game series with the Northern Division Schools. Lake Forest won three of these. They lost two more by narrow margins.

Five games remain on the schedule, all with Southern Division Schools. Chances are excellent for a winning season.

The Lake Forest-Sussex Central setto was nip-and-tuck all the way. Sussex Central had a 21-18 margin in field goals. The Spartans had a chance to win the game at the charity stripe, but couldn't although Jim Dill hit six-for-six. Lawrence Sorden and Frank Daniels paced the losers with 16 and 14 points, respectively.

Sorden caged 19 points in the Smyrna romp. Don Bryant added 14.

The Bolen line includes mowers, tillers, tractors for home and garden use and light industry with attachments. Ira Huffman is owner of Irabak which also sells spreader bodies. Robert Taylor, of the hardware firm, said the reason for transfer was to give better service for Bolen customers because Taylor did not have ample facilities, especially for the new 1886 18-hp Bolen tractor for light industry. He added, however, Taylor's Hardware would continue to keep American Hardware line of lawnmowers, riding mowers and tillers.

Clark's Hybrid make 204 bu. acre this year

CLARK'S HYBRID seed this year was grown in irrigated ground will produce more. But on the Delaware and Maryland, all hand detassled for a 100 percent normal seed production, into each of our single cross hybrids is bred a combination of high yield factors such as outstanding resistance to disease and insects, response to high fertility and plant population, tolerance to varying conditions, strong stalks that resist wind and rain. Farmers that planted CLARK'S HYBRIDS this year had no problem from wind damage on corn.

We feel that on an average a plant population in our Eastern growing areas should be in the 18,000 to 20,000 range. It is true that high population of over 20,000 in some years or on a population of 10,500 (too low we admit) but yielded an average of 121 bu. per acre. This is the type of hybrids you want to depend on. Hybrids that operate in a wide range of conditions.

KENT COUNTY COMMENTS

by JOSHUA M. TWILLEY
Levy Court President

The Levy Court is now in the process of establishing a fire and ambulance emergency call board for Kent County. The call board will be manned twenty-four hours a day and will eventually connect with all of the volunteer fire companies and ambulance posts throughout Kent County. This means that it will be possible for Kent County citizens in emergencies to receive speedier fire and ambulance service. For example, the personnel at the call board will know where every fire is in Kent County and what fire companies are responding and what pieces of equipment are left in the event of a second fire. Precious minutes will be saved in alerting a second fire company.

In the event of unusual emergencies requiring equipment such as rescue trucks or special fire fighting apparatus, the call board will be able to direct the volunteer fire companies with that equipment immediately and thus avoid the delays resulting when the wrong fire company is called. Likewise, they will be able to determine with more accuracy the location of the fire or emergency and thus alert the closest fire company immediately. In regard to ambulances, they will know when an ambulance is out and thus be able to immediately alert the nearest available ambulance. Connection will also be made with the police to alert them as well to the emergencies.

In other words, the call board will tie together the emergency services of Kent County in a much more efficient network.

Since my last report on the project, there have been several important new steps taken. Last week the volunteer firemen's Call Board Committee, together with the Levy Court, employed four persons who will be the call board operators and they have commenced preliminary training for the position.

Secondly, the county has applied to the Federal Government for a grant to help pay for the equipment which is presently estimated to cost about $90,000.00. We expect to receive word on this application next week. Thirdly, the Levy Court Commissioners and the Call Board Committee have been meeting to develop a training program and to determine such matters as the best location for the call board, and the best way to administer the program. Therefore, we have every reason to hope and expect that the Emergency Fire Call Board will be fully operational before summer.

TOWN AND COUNTRY TOPICS

DAVE WOODWARD
ASSISTANT KENT COUNTY AGENT

Income tax time is with us as many of you already know! However, there are many questions that have to be answered when a person wants to find out if he is qualified as a farmer or not.

Delaware has many part-time farmers. Many think of themselves as rural residents and not farmers, even though they sell a small amount of farm products during the year. Any money received from such sales is income and subject to tax. However, the gross sales should be reduced by the costs of producing and marketing the products sold.

This raises many questions such as who is a farmer? When and how do I report part-time farming incomes? Must I file and pay a quarterly estimate on my small farm income? If the operations show a loss, can I claim it against regular income? Below are answers to these questions about reporting part-time income for tax purposes.

A. Who is a farmer? You are a farmer (for tax purposes) if you receive two-thirds of your gross income from farming, which includes sales of farm raised products and animals but not the sale of machinery or farm real estate. If you qualify as a farmer, you must file your tax return by March 1.

B. If you do not qualify as a farmer but have farm income, must I file an estimated tax (1040ES)? A general rule is that those persons that expect to earn income that would require payment of $40 or more in tax addition to that withheld from regular income must file an estimated tax. Payment of the estimated tax can be made quarterly.

C. What expenses can I claim? If you can show that your intentions are to make a profit (it is not a hobby) you can claim all the expenses that are directly associated with producing the income. This includes cash costs and fixed costs of depreciation, taxes, repairs, interest, and insurance. A reasonable allocation of such costs must be made between the farm enterprise and the personal costs of rural residence.

D. What is hobby farming? If a farm is operated for recreation or pleasure, and the expenses are in excess of receipts, the expenses are regarded as nondeductible personal expenses, and the receipts may be omitted from gross income. If receipts exceed expenses, however, the excess must always be included in income. If the taxpayer can show that he is attempting to show a profit, his farm operations will generally not be classified as a hobby farm. Generally, if the activity shows a profit in two years out of five, I.R.S. will not consider it a hobby.

E. What about income from sale of firewood, timber, or Christmas trees? Small amounts of income from these sources may be reported on the farm Schedule 1040F. You are allowed to recover your original investment in trees as a depletion allowance on Schedule F. For larger amounts of income from sale of wood, timber, and Christmas trees, it may be possible to use Form 4797 and Schedule D and receive capital gains treatment on at least a portion of such income.

F. Are earnings from part-time farming included in Social Security Tax? Yes, if earnings were $400 or more and wages were less than $7800 ($9000 in 1972).

G. Do I use Schedule 1040F or 1040C to report recreation income? Minor income from renting campsites, boats, etc.,

Lima Bean And Pea Growers Meeting

Delaware lima bean and pea growers will discuss the controversial Sisk Bill at their meeting on Feb. 15. The Tuesday evening meeting begins at 7:30 at the University Substation at Georgetown.

Austin Rhodes, assistant director, Government Industry Relations Division of the Natural Cannery Association, will speak to the growers about his group's position on the bill. A discussion period will follow.

The Sisk Bill, if passed, would provide growers an opportunity to organize and carry on cooperative bargaining with processors.

John S. McDaniel, extension specialist in agricultural chemicals at the University of Delaware, will discuss new state and federal pesticide regulations which apply to their products. Talks will also be presented on weed control, fertilization, new varieties and field trial results on lima beans and peas.

Jay Windsor, assistant agricultural agent for Sussex county, is chairman of the meeting.

Steer Feeding Research

Grass pasture alone is not adequate for summer finishing steers, according to Dr. Richard Fowler, extension livestock specialist at the University of Delaware.

Holstein steers actually lost an average of 36 pounds in 2½ months in a research project by the University in cooperation with Draper King Cole cannery near Milford.

This loss was despite daily pasture irrigation with cannery waste water that supplied high levels of nitrogen to the grass.

Most farmers could certainly not afford such irrigation for pastures. But, in a few locations, irrigation with discharge from sewage treatment plants may be possible, Fowler says.

However, with or without irrigation, for a successful summer feeding program, you'll need to add extra grain rations to supply energy. The experimental steers got their protein and fiber needs from the pasture; but without grain, the Holsteins lost weight.

When ground corn was added to the cattle ration at a rate of one percent of the body weight, within a month the steers gained back all they had lost, plus 16 additional pounds.

In the study, six Holstein steers were kept from July 2 until September 16 on two plots of one-half acre each. The pastures were seeded to a K31 fescue, orchard grass and red top mixture.

For experimental purposes, no fertilizer or lime were applied. This was done deliberately to test the value of irrigating with cannery waste water, Fowler states. "However, before the summer was over, the pasture was in sad shape."

"This brings up another point for feeders. Don't overgraze—keep the pasture in good condition."

In the study, part of the reason for the gain in weight later in the season was doubling the pasture area to reduce overgrazing, Fowler says.

A pesticide residue study was an interesting sidelight to the research. During a good part of the summer, much of the irrigation water had been used for pepper processing. Peppers are one of the few crops still being sprayed with DDT for corn borer control.

When the grass was tested for DDT residues, the highest level was five parts per million (pp.m.). The residues in the steer ranged from 1.2 to 1.34 p.p.m. in the two steers checked. The maximum allowed in beef is seven p.p.m., so the steers were well within acceptable levels, Fowler states.

Another aspect of the study was designed by Dr. William Knibbe, soil scientist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture Soil and Water Conservation Service Research Division.

He was interested in learning whether cattle would pack down the heavily-irrigated soil and keep water from going through. Fortunately, the soil was so sandy no compaction was noted.
