

Housing Project to Start In 3 Weeks

An official of Penn-Del Development Corporation, Baltimore, told the City Council Monday night construction of a housing project would begin here within two to three weeks.

Murray Feigin, secretary-treasurer of the corporation, maker of the statement, was accompanied by Daniel Broyles, vice president, Dr. Donald Schumar, president, and Dudley Willis, of Edward H. Richardson Associates. Willis, who is also the City's consulting engineer, said the project's beginning was in "a relatively late phase."

The housing project, at East Street and Peck Avenue, calls for 100 townhouses to cost, Dr. Schumar told The Journal, from $18,500 to $19,500, and the houses would be for sale, not for rent. The houses are on 10-acre tract. The development corporation also has option on an adjoining tract of 10 acres, and said Dr. Schumar, 20 additional acres are available.

In other business, the Council acted as follows: Granted Harold Melvin, of North Street, to the end of July to hook up to a sanitary sewer.

After an executive session, agreed to hire a full-time patrolman. Two councilmen said they did not know whom he would replace, if any.

Read letters from Ken Meredith & Son and Triangle Oil Company opposing sale of an alley between Liberty and Clark Streets. The alley is not open. Howard Brown, owner of an adjoining tract, had told the City he was interested in buying it. Mayor Burton E. Satterfield said he didn't think the City would sell it.

Read letter from Francis Baker, of the State Highway Department, about making a speed study of Delaware Ave., from the City limits to Center Street. This, a state road, is posted at 25 miles per hour.

The state is eyeing 35 miles per hour. Council approved the study.

Agreed to replace lift pumps on the sewer system on North Street and in an alley behind Harrington Ave., near the City limits. The pumps will also have lights which will operate in case of malfunctioning of the pumps.

Lake Forest Board Answers Questions on Bond Referendum

Lake Forest Board of Education members have been answering questions from the audience during their talks to clubs and civic groups on the coming school bond referendum. The questions most frequently heard indicate the issues of most interest to the voters.

One of these concerns why most of the new classrooms will be constructed at the East Elementary School in Frederica. The Board speakers point out three principal reasons: the need for more classrooms in the area where new home construction is concentrated, the need to make all three district elementary schools comparable in enrollment capacity and in educational program offered and the need to keep the bus transportation time to a minimum.

Closely related to this problem is the question concerning changes in existing school attendance assignments. These assignments and establishment of bus routes must be reviewed every year. In order to keep pupil transportation time and distance to a minimum, the attendance areas must be adjusted to changes in housing concentrations and the numbers of pupils coming from each housing area. The ideal situation is to have equal educational services at each school building and every pupil assigned to the building nearest his home. To achieve this ideal, attendance area lines must fit changes in housing patterns in the district.

Audiences have also been concerned with the elimination of the five portable classrooms now rented for emergency use at the Frederica building. The speakers assure them that the new construction would mean the end of these makeshift facilities. The annual $3,000 rental fee will also come to an end.

Voters have also questioned the possibility of building a new junior high school near the present senior high school. The big objections to this proposal are the excessive cost of such a program and the need for making maximum use of the building facilities already constructed.

Board spokesmen emphasize that the proposed construction at Frederica and Lake Forest High School offers the most economical solution to the critical problem of space for the coming increase in school enrollment.

The referendum on a bond issue of $457,000 to finance the district's share of the new construction is scheduled for Wednesday, April 12. The tax rate increase would be fifteen cents per hundred dollars of assessed valuation. Thus the cost to the average property owner of the district (assessment $6,000) would be $9.00 per year or seventy-five cents per month. Board President Albert Price points out that this is less than the price of two packs of cigarettes.

If approved by the voters the new classrooms should be completed by September, 1974.

TRIBBITT BLAMES DELAY ON FREDERICK

On the campaign trail, Sherman W. Tribbitt (D-Odessa), House minority leader, attacked House Speaker William L. Frederick (R-Cedarcrest) at a meeting of the 35th Democratic Club at the Century Club.

The Odessa resident and gubernatorial aspirant, blamed Frederick for the "delays and inport at Alameda, Calif."

Frederick appointed the 6-man Ethics Committee after newspaper disclosures that Rep. Thomas L. Little (R-Deerhurst) had a conflict of interest when he used his influence to win a contract from the state to administer retirement plans for state employees through a firm he co-founded.

Later the probe was expanded to include the question of whether Rep. George C. Hering III (R-Wilmington) violated the Constitution when he voted for a bond bill which contained funds to pay the law firm in which he is a profit-sharing partner.

The committee voted 5-1 to exonerate Hering, but split 3-3 on the Little matter. Since then, Tribbitt has urged the entire matter be reopened.

Tips On Home Vegetable Gardening

A home vegetable garden can help you fight rising food costs and an expanding waistline. Backyard gardeners agree that home-grown vegetables are less costly, fresher and more nutritious—and the healthful outdoor exercise is an added bonus.

Since gardening time is just around the corner, now is the time to complete your garden plans, according to Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware. To help you plan this year's garden, he recommends a revised extension bulletin, "Home Vegetable Gardening in Delaware." (Continued on Page 5)

KENT COUNTY CURRENTS

by JOSHUA M. TWILLEY
Levy Court President

The reason for the Kent County Government as indeed the reason for all local government is to serve the community.

It is best equipped to do this because it is closer to the citizens of the community and it is easier for the citizens to get their needs before the government and get something done.

In the last year and a half some good examples of this have been in the way the new street lights and garbage collection services have begun through community organizations and a way was devised to start the services and assess the cost.

The Levy Court held meetings with the residents and they voted to have the service and they knew what the cost would be to them, when they voted.

This is the way it should be, and this is why Kent County needs a Home Rule Bill.

It is ridiculous for the Kent County Levy Court Commissioners to have to go to the Legislature for permission to handle local problems and meet local needs.

None of the municipalities have to do this because every town charter gives the towns these powers.

New Castle County and Sussex County also have this power, leaving Kent County as the only local government in Delaware, which must go down to the legislature to get a law passed every time it wants to do something.

What interest do the legislators from the City of Wilmington or New Castle County, have in these things for Kent County.

The legislators should be concerned with State matters and they are, which means that the local things are often difficult to get passed.

Why should Kent County have to get permission from the State Legislature to handle such problems as street repairs, drainage, and ditching.

It makes better sense for the Kent County Levy Court to have the authority to do these things in response to the local demand of the people involved and their willingness to provide the money to pay for it, all Levy Court Commissioners are elected the same as legislators.

Next Tuesday morning the Levy Court will vote on a final draft of a Home Rule Bill for Kent County.

We hope the Legislature will pass this bill so that the Kent County Commissioners will no longer be the only local government in Delaware without adequate authority to serve the people who elected them.

Harrington's Phones Made 3.9 Million Calls in '71

According to statistics just released by the Diamond State Telephone Company, Harrington's 2751 phones handled 3,951,000 calls last year.

"That's an average of about 1436 calls for each phone - including extensions," says Manager Jim Strickland.

More calls more often," he explained.

The increased usage in Harrington has required the company to make numerous additions to the central office switching equipment. The exchange was converted to dial operation in 1941.

"Last year we spent $53,000 for more dial apparatus in the Harrington central office. And this year we'll spend $58,000," Strickland pointed out.

The Sunshine collecting was taken, amounting to $2.25.

Mrs. Winkler, regretted to report some of those who rent our club building, are opening the windows, after turning the heat up high, then going home leaving the building this way. We are just not able to heat the outside atmosphere. If people continue to leave the windows open, after they leave the building, they will have to pay for this extra oil used - either or by an extra deposit ahead of time - or they will have to pay the oil bill. Those in charge -- when renting the building will have to take some responsibility, of leaving the building just as they find it when they first enter.

Senior Center News

Signs of spring are appearing everywhere. That includes the Center. Many who have been "shut-in" during the winter are now appearing regularly at 102 Fleming St. So good to see them drifting back; it is much like having a group of new members.

The program is out. Circle this coming Tuesday, April 11, the date of the monthly birthday party which has proved to be one of the most popular events on the Center's calendar. There are nine members celebrating birthdays this month and it is hoped that most of them will be able to attend the party in their honor. They are Minnie Coates, Blanche McKnatt, Helen Rash, Rae Casler, Lillie McBride, Mabel Kemp, Bernice Johnson, Sadie Chambers and Myrtle Kemp.

As one senior citizen to another, the membership also extends its best wishes to Robert B. Gray, who will be 91 on Saturday, April 8. Congratulations, Mr. Gray!

A telephone reassurance service is to be started in the near future. Any shut-in who would like to be called for a check on their well-being or for a short chat should contact the Center (398-3908), giving name and telephone number. This is a free service offered to senior citizens of this area.

Another free service that more and more shut-ins are finding invaluable is the hot meals program.

A nutritious hot noon-day meal will be delivered to shut-ins, upon request, each Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday.

A third service — "Over 65 Club" — with application blanks being sent from the University of Delaware, entitles you to attend cultural and other events without charge. There is no fee for membership in this club; just fill out the application blank which can be secured from the Center just for the asking.

As for bowling, scores are really improving. Many are achieving scores over 100 now. Gladys Hill had both high single game score and high average score; Bette Martin placed second in both scorings; and Sam Short placed third in both. This is the first time that anyone person has held the same place for high score and high average. Last week two names were inadvertently reported incorrectly. Wm. Anderson's name was given as Wm. Coverdale and Bess Barco as Bess Bato. Sorry for these mistakes.

Definition of the week: a bachelor is a fellow who never finds out how many faults he has.

Ground Covers For Home Landscapes

Many homeowners have bare spots in their yards or other areas where it is difficult to grow grass. Steep banks, small areas that are hard to get into with a lawn mower and shaded spots are areas where it is especially difficult to maintain good lawn grass.

Ground cover plants can often solve this problem, says David V. Tatnall, extension garden specialist at the University of Delaware. But it's important to select the right plants for different locations.

Some ground covers, such as Japanese spurge (pachysandra), grow well in dense shade but are not suited to sunny locations. Others, like honeysuckle, are rampant-growing vines they may become obnoxious.

Tatnall says some standard ground covers that are well adapted to sunny locations include bugleweed (ajuga), English ivy, myrtle—often called periwinkle or vinca—and thyme. Others suitable for a sunny area include heath and heather, crownvetch and mondo grass.

In deep shade, Japanese spurge is perhaps the best ground cover. But lily of the valley, myrtle and English ivy will do well in partial shade.

The list of acceptable ground covers is long and includes many unusual plants such as hardy cactus, sedums and plumbago. Several low-growing shrubs, such as Arnold dwarf forsythia, dwarf willow, Wilton's juniper, rockspray cotoneaster, winter-creeper and wickura rose, are also used for ground covers. And various perennials, including daylilies, woolly betony and candytuft, are excellent in certain areas.

With such a wide variety of ground covers available, you should have no trouble in selecting one that is suitable for your needs.

Harrington Bowling League

Leah S. Wheeler

Jarrell Fuel duedled Butler's Fuel Tuesday night and came up with four big points, which enabled them to stay on top of the heap. Harold Melvin and Dallas Hayman gave superb efforts in pacing the fuelers to victory as they rolled 587 and 579 series respectively. Harold's great effort also included a 208 game and Dallas had a 200 and 208 game included in his fine series, with the rest of the team coming through with great efforts. Larry Larimore rolled a fine 210 game and Robert Wright led the scoring with a real good effort as each man surpassed his average in Butler's Fuel's losing cause.

Wally's Garage clobbered Fry's American in all games to stay tied for the lead with Jarrell Fuel. James Shultie and Wally Ryan contributed good extra power efforts. Wally's needed to stay abreast of their opponents. LeRoy Wheeler rolled a 215 game and 540 series and Don Jester paced the Fry's team with a very good 524 set, for a well above average effort in a losing battle.

Harry Brown hit a 551 series, including a 202 game and Wallace Wootten rolled a good effort for Robbin's Hardware as they upset the Spoilers in the race to the top. By taking three points, Robbin's moved into the third spot in the standings, one half game ahead of their opponents. Billy Morris provided the Spoilers with enough power for them to capture

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

Several years ago, during an epidemic of rabies, an inquisitive Englishman asked an Irishman; "What are Rabies and what can be done about them?" The reply waws; "Rabies are Jewish Priests and there can't be a d-mn thing done about them."

Today we are hearing a lot about "Women's Lib" and to know more about it, the following might be enlightening; "Just before I left home tonight a man from the post office handed me a special delivery letter. It's from my Aunt Mike. I know you think that Mike is a funny name for a woman, but when my aunt married my uncle, she took his name.

I haven't read this letter yet, but will open it and we'll read it together.

Now it starts out; "Dear Nephew: I'm sorry to start this letter with sad news, but we have been having a lot of trouble with your Uncle Mike. He's been wearing those high stiff collars again. You know how obstinate your uncle is. Every time I tell him to do something he just shakes his head N.O. Well, the other day he started having fainting spells and the doctor found that those high collars were gradually sawing his head off. And I know he is going to get into trouble with the government, too. He got his income tax blank the other day and sent it back to them with a letter that said: "Dear Treasury: I received your application blank today. But I already belong to several good lodges and do not care to join your income tax at this time."

I've been having a lot of trouble with my complexion, so last week I went to a beauty shop, but I'll never go there again. They told me they couldn't cover up all my wrinkles with that Pancake Number 5 and that I should switch to Kentone Number 7.

Guess I better close now.

Your loving Aunt Mike

Cerklefskie & Gallo To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Cerklefskie, 210 Commerce St., Harrington, would like to announce the engagement of their daughter, Cynthia Lee Cerklefskie, to Mr. Ernest C. Gallo, (Snookie), son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Gallo, Andrewville.

Cynthia is a senior at Lake Forest High School and Vocational Technical Center, where she is taking Cosmology. She is presently employed part-time at the Beauty Spot, Harrington.

Mr. Gallo attended Harrington High School and is employed by Gallo & Stevenson local building contractor. A July wedding is planned. The couple plan to live in the Harrington area.

one game to help keep them in contention although time is going to be the worst enemy, with only three weeks left in the season.

McKnatt Funeral Home started their contest in good form by taking the first two games, but lost some power in the final game, dropping by a big margin and just barely squeezing by the Honey Dippers to eke out the series point for three out of four points as they fell in the standings to fifth place. Robert Garey hit a great 541 series and Harry Jack added a good effort to give McKnatt's some extra power they needed. The Honey Dippers gave a good accounting of themselves with Jim Carroll and Dave Martin giving the team a little extra boost.

George Collins set the pace for Taylor & Messick with a good 543 set and Tom Brown added a good effort as the team took three points from People's Restaurant Tuesday night. Cloyd Bushey rolled a 201 game in a good series effort and Shanley Smith added a fine effort to give People's one more game to their credit.

Gallo & Stevenson and Penn Central each went into their contest with just four men, with Gallo & Stevenson coming out on top by taking three points from the railroaders. Ken Garey's great 547 series effort, which included a 215 game, provided the construction team with all the extra power it needed. The railroaders failed to put up much opposition after taking the first game of the contest.

The T & M Rejects are ending the season in a flourish as they took three games from Quillen's Market. Ray Wright, Leroy Betts and Bob Wilson contributed good above average efforts for the Rejects. Donald Wilson, Donald Butler and Dennis Pase added good efforts to enable Quillen's to eke out one game.

Freeze branding quickly and permanently marks cattle with letters or numbers large enough to read at several hundred feet.

Don't get upset when you can't get close enough to a heifer to read her eartag. Don't fuss and fume when one has torn out her tag and you have to check all heifers to identify the one with the split ear.

The application of a "super cold" iron like those used in the old west for hot branding will mark your animals permanently. The branding iron is placed in a liquid refrigerator before applying it to the animal's hide.

The cold penetrates several layers of skin and destroys the pigment producing cells that are responsible for the red or black coloring of the hair. The iron is normally held against the hide from 20 to 25 seconds. When the hair grows back it will be white and be the exact width of the branding iron. If it is held an additional 15 to 20 seconds, the hair follicles will also be killed and there will be no hair regrowth in the branded area. There will be a scar in the branded area with no hair in it. However, eventually the surrounding hair will cover the scar and identification will be lost.

The idea of using the cold branding iron has been around for a few years, but it hasn't caught on for two reasons. First, identification isn't any problem in a small herd as the dairyman and his family do most of the work. When herds get larger and more hired help is used, cow identification is difficult. Freeze branding could be an answer to the problem.

An article in the March issue of the Pennsylvania Farmer by Larry W. Specht describes the details of freeze branding. Suggest you read it.

If your horse is unthrifty, teeth could be the reason! Prevent serious tooth problems; check your horses' teeth at least once a year.

Dr. L. Dwight Schwartz of Penn State says horses' teeth may wear off so unevenly that chewing hay and oats may be painful. The enamel edges will remain on the outside of the upper molars, cutting the inside of the cheeks while the lower teeth develop sharper points on the inside, cutting the tongue. When this happens your horse may refuse to eat, eat only a little, or hold his head to one side while chewing.

Colic and indigestion could follow improper chewing. A veterinarian can cure unevenly worn teeth by floating or filing off the sharp enamel points and edges. Generally no anesthesia and only a minimum of restraint is required.

All permanent equine teeth, except for the canines, constantly are pushing out of the alveoli, the part of the jaw where the teeth are anchored, by the slow growth of bone beneath the teeth roots. This continues through the horse's life and is nature's way of compensating for the wear that occurs while the animal chews food.

Missing teeth present problems in older horses because the opposite tooth continues to be pushed out of the alveoli when no wear occurs. It may become long enough to prevent the horse from chewing properly.

A horse usually has all its permanent teeth when it is five years old. A dental checkup can also discover other problems in a horse's mouth, such as broken teeth, mouth injuries, abscesses, foreign bodies and tumors.

It Seems To Me

by Janet Reed

Interfacing continues to puzzle many seamstresses and a question frequently asked is, "Do I need to use interfacing with knit fabrics?"

It depends on several factors—the type of knit, the style of your garment and the effect you want. Ask yourself why you're using interfacing. Do you want to keep an area from stretching? Do you want to add firmness and body? Then, study your fabrics. It is soft and limp, or firm and resilient?

Styles today are softer and do not have the more tailored lines of a few seasons back. Therefore, they require a soft fabric. If the knit is a soft, drapable fabric to be made into a soft style, the only place you may need an interfacing is at the neckline to help retain the neckline shape, or to keep the fabric from rolling. A very lightweight interfacing should be used so you do not change the appearance of the soft knit.

On the other hand, if the soft knit is to be made into a tailored shirtwaist style, you'll want an interfacing to stabilize collar and cuffs and the front opening. One of the lightweight press-on types would be suitable.

Since knit fabrics have some stretch, you may want the interfacing to have some stretch also, depending on the purpose of the interfacing. For example, an inset belt should have some firmness but also some slight stretch. Cut the interfacing on the bias. In a tailored collar, stretch isn't necessary, so cut the interfacing on the straight grain.

The knit fabric you're using may be firm, fairly heavy double knit polyester. It may be firm enough to keep its shape without interfacing.

With or without interfacings, top stitching gives added firmness and helps the garment keep a neat, tailored appearance.

Since most of today's knits are washable, pre-shrink interfacing if you can. The press-on types are an exception.

The question of interfacing shouldn't be too puzzling if you study your fabric and consider the need for extra support in the garment style you have selected.

Harrington Day Care Center News

Harrington Day Care Center
Three Years Ago Today
Mrs. Maynard Brown
Director

Three years ago today, the Harrington Day Care Center came into being at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

Its enrollment has reached 54 children during the school year and between 60 and 65 in the summer months; this enrollment includes 10 kindergarten and 12 school children that come to the Center before and after school. The children range in age from 2½ to 10 years and a usual day covers the hours from 6 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.; five days a week.

Working parents with children find our staff warm, friendly, affectionate, honest and sincere in their respect of the children and their parents. We as a staff believe love and understanding plays an important part in helping the children with their every day activities.

Through activities they choose themselves, the children are given ample opportunities to learn, explore and discover various concepts. By participation in such activities as building, modeling, painting, singing, story telling, and dramatic play, the children learn to express themselves creatively. Through excursions about the community and other places they form an understanding of the world in which they live. For example, the yearly visit to the Delaware State Fair gives the children an opportunity to see first hand animals and various exhibits that they may have seen in picture books.

The Center also offers the children a place to work and play with other children; to learn, to trust and communicate their feelings to adults and to acquire some independence. Between 7 and 8:30 a.m. the children are given a nourishing breakfast; hot lunch from 11 to 11:30 a.m. and a snack after their two hour nap.

Our staff consists of a director, four teachers, three teacher's aides, three foster grandparents, two Youth Corps workers a cook, a part-time secretary and janitor and many volunteers. Mary Louise Long, of Milford, a University of Delaware Educational Major, who has been with the staff for two summers and gave us a helping hand during the Christmas Holidays and Semester break, will be a part of the staff again this summer.

We would like to thank Mr. Hobbs, the bus driver who transports 15 of our children to and from school every day, and Mrs. Jones, who so graciously brings our 10 kindergarten children to our door. We also like to express our thanks to all others who have contributed or donated their time and service in any way in helping us to have a successful Center.

We wish to thank Col. Crawford, chairman of the Board of Directors for the guidance and concern that he has for the Center; also Mrs.

Joan Winkler, treasurer, who takes out of her busy schedule to do our book work without any pay and to all of the other officers and members of the Board for their concern.

The Center's Board of Director's consists of:

- President - Robert H. Crawford
- Vice-Pres. - Mrs. Nell Bausell
- Secretary - Mrs. Ann Minner
- Treasurer - Mrs. Alice Winkler
- Director - Mrs. Carrie P. Brown
