

Race Track Handle Shows Gain in '72

Despite foul weather on several weekends and a thoroughbred meeting running just 16 miles up the road, the comparative figures show that the 1972 average mutual handle for the spring meeting at Harrington Raceway was up over the previous year.

The Kent County harness oval completed a 25-night spring season Saturday with an average mutual handle of $91,693 compared to $91,254 for the shorter 20-night meeting in 1971. That is an increase of nearly 1/2 of 1 per cent.

The average nightly attendance was down but the per capita wagering was up. This year an average of 1922 fans were on hand nightly throughout the 25-night period. In 1971 for the abbreviated 20-night meeting the average was 2158.

This year's per capita average was $45.86 compared to the 1971 per capita of $42.26. Jim Wilson of Harrington, leading percentage driver, and John Childress of Felton, leading dash pilot, were presented with $100 U.S. Savings Bonds by track president Herman C. Brown and former governor David P. Buckson.

Sonny Jim's universal driver rating was 500 per cent. Childress won 23 dashes.

Following the tenth race on the final night, George Brem of Salisbury, Md., became winner of the $500 cash drawing.

Senior Center News

All in the family? Yes! Welcome to several new members who have joined our family since the last of April. As the center serves the residents of Kent County within a ten mile radius, senior citizens from other towns are becoming interested in our activities. Marion Rasmus and William Anderson of Ellendale have recently been added to the rolls, as have Olive Clark of Magnolia; Dan Richardson of Greenwood and Sallie Needles of Harrington.

Bowling is still a favorite activity and is indulged in on Thursdays at 10 a.m. at the Milford Bowling Lanes. The new members of the bowling team are Marion Rasmus, William Anderson, Jim Koniencki and Carroll Pearson, Jim and Andy are experienced bowlers while the rest are still trying and gaining experience. High game honors for the past two weeks have gone to Jim Koniencki, Bill Anderson, Marion Rasmus and Annabelle Morrow. Sam Short has not bowled recently but it is hoped he will soon be as active as ever.

Last Thursday bowling was forced to take a back seat, as 32 members attended Senior Citizen's Day at the Dover Armory. Most of the day was spent in explaining and making known both the federal and state efforts being made in behalf of the senior citizen.

Tuesday, May 16, 25 persons attended the monthly birthday party. The eight members who were born in May there were two present, Nellie Wilson and Ethel Bull. Also wished a pleasant and healthful new year is James Koniencki, Ray Wilson, Josephine Kielbasa, Katie Austin, May Pearsall and Virginia Clarkson. Mrs. Louise Zacker who is visiting Christina Clymer was a welcome guest.

May 6, a group of 36 left the Center for a 2-day trip to Williamsburg. The weather was ideal and everyone reported having a most enjoyable time. This is the first trip of this length attempted by the members but from all indications it will not be the last.

Our oldest member is back in Harrington. Emma Passmore is now at her home on Wolcott Street and is able to move about without help.

For coming events — don't forget the tea party on Monday, May 22, at Marian Moore's home on the Harrington - Milford Road. Please notify the Center (398-3908) by Thursday, May 18 if you need transportation.

If you attended the Center or read this letter regularly you know there are definite advantages to being a senior citizen. Another first is coming our way — on the 2nd Tuesday of every month the Blue Hen Merchants' Association is offering a discount to all senior citizens who hold a blue identification card.

Participating merchants will have signs posted. The blue card may be obtained at the Center any Monday, Tuesday, or Thursday. Take advantage of your age — get one.

Not feeling well? To ill to fix a nourishing meal? Maybe we can help. Meals are sent out at noon each Monday, Tuesday and Thursday to senior citizens, upon request, if such request card can be made by 10:30 a.m. Perhaps you need help for a day, a week, or regularly. There is no charge. The Center exists to serve the elderly.

SHE KEPT FELTON ON THE MAP 21 YEARS — During this period Mrs. Walter H. Moore wrote a lengthy and interesting account of the affairs of the Felton community and its environs. She succeeded to the post, after the death of Mrs. Evelyn Killen, in February, 1951. Mrs. Moore, who is retiring because of ill health, has been succeeded by Mrs. Madeleine Bennett.

Peonies Need Disbudding Others Need "Pinching"

If they are to produce their choicest flowers, peonies need disbudding, according to David Tatnall, extension garden specialist at the University of Delaware.

Disbudding is the removal of the small side buds along the stem, he explains. But don't remove the top bud since that is the one that will produce the best bloom.

Disbudding should always be done when the buds are quite small. This allows water an nutrients to aid in making a larger terminal bud and consequently a larger and better bloom.

Harry Binder Talks Carpets

The twelve years that I spent in Southern Carpet Mills has provided me with a unique knowledge of the carpet industry. The purpose of this column is to share this knowledge with you... the carpet buying public.

The carpet you plan to buy is one of the best values available today. Its decorative power alone can add more to your room than almost anything else you can buy. The cost will probably be less than you expect.

Before buying carpet, you should be armed with certain basic information. You should have answers to certain questions you have about carpet, carpet fibers and carpet textures.

There are hundreds of different styles... most of them look great. But you want the one that best mirrors the way you live. Your carpet should fit into your way of life.

PLUSH CARPET is luxurious. It is the most elegant of all carpets. It is what carpet people describe as "cut-pile". Sometimes called "velvet", a plush carpet can serve as a show case for your furniture. Plush carpet is usually, but not always, in solid colors. The shading effect, caused by the way the light hits the pile, is objectionable to some people. Many feel, however, that the shading adds richness and character to the carpet.

Future columns will describe other styles and fibers of carpeting. Meanwhile visit our showroom and examine the many samples on display.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

NONSENSE?

For thousands of years this old world rocked along with no thought of pollution. Then London, New York and Los Angeles started it. Within a year the whole world became polluted. Now it stinks. Why so sudden?

Was it the Republicans, the Democrats, the hippies, the Johnson administration or the Russians? Anyhow it is one thing they can't blame on Nixon.

Madalyn O'Hair lost her appeal. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court ruled it was OK for the astronauts to pray or read the Bible!

BELIEF

If, kneeling at your mother's knee,
 You learned a faith that keeps you strong,
 No effort shall be made by me
 To prove that your belief is wrong.

If your way leads to heaven, proceed,
 Nor any of your hopes resign.
 I have no doubt that there, indeed,
 Are many other ways than mine.

Women dislike jury duty — it's all listening.
 He never had a penny to his name — so he changed his name.

Turner, DeMora Break Loop Track Marks But Are Fourth

Lake Forest seniors George Turner and Dave DeMora, broke long-standing records in the 14th annual Henlopen Conference Track and Field Championships, but competition was so tough, both had to settle for fourth-place finishes.

Turner's leap of 21 feet in the long jump bettered the 20 feet, 6 inches jump of Harrington High's George Pfeiffer, in 1961. However, all five point-scorers beat the old record with Dover's Jim Solomon reaching out a fantastic 22 feet, 10 1/2 inches. All of these kids are now in the college performance range.

Dave, another of the late-blooming DeMoras, had a ten feet effort in the pole vault, in the season's opener, but couldn't equal that effort until Saturday's meet in Dover. He cleared 10 feet, 9 inches to acquire the Lake Forest record, then beat the best Harrington High effort with a 11-1 vault. He went over 11-6 to surpass the Henlopen Standard of 11-3, then successfully negotiated 11-6 and 11-10, before narrowly missing at 12 feet, 1 inch. Jim Messick of Woodbridge was the winner at 12-6. Dave DeMora must have been pepped up as much as those long jumpers were, to improve that much in one meet. His brother, Dan, holds the Lake Forest mark, 5 feet 8 inches in the high jump. Dave came out for track, as a junior, while Dan waited until his senior year.

Another Spartan primed for a top effort was halted by questionable officiating. Bob Smith, a quarter miler with a best of 54 seconds flat, won a trial heat, on Friday. Several minutes later, Lake Forest was casually notified, that Smith was disqualified, for nicking the inside of the white line, dividing the lanes. This is "nit picking", the kind of gray area violation, which is seldom enforced. On Saturday, the final went in 52 flat. Smith might have won it all, but certainly would have scored, at least.

The Spartan 440 and 880 relay quartets qualified on Friday, for Saturday's finals. In the finals, both groups ran well for third place finishes. Don Bryant, Bob Smith, Neal Travis and Don Parker clocked 45.5, equalling the Spartan school record. Bryant, Smith, Norman Baynard and Herman McBride turned in 1972's best Spartan clocking, 1:35.4, in the 880 relay. George Turner's 41 feet, 1/2 inch jump, netted him fourth place in the triple jump, only one inch away from second place.

Sophomore Ron Mosely and freshman Eddie Thompson were fifth in the mile and two mile runs, respectively. Thompson's 11.05 performance was his best ever. This pair and Dave Moore are expected to battle 1971's No. 1 cross-country Spartan, Vernon Bowers, for top ranking in the harrier sport, this autumn. They will be a young team, but a good one.

Bowers, who was a nationally-ranked distance runner (No. 3) at 13, is now 14 and turned in an excellent 2:12.5 half mile in the two-mile relay. Senior Rick Hamm had a 2:12.7.

Coach Jim Blades used freshman Kit Tillman and sophomore, Howard Kasky, two green but promising newcomers, on the last two legs. Tillman, out of action recently because of illness, ran 2:20.5, 12 seconds under his previous best. Kasky lowered his personal mark by several seconds to 2:23.5. This quartet finished fifth to get in the scoring column for Lake Forest.

Jim Schiff of Harrington High ran the 100 yard dash in ten seconds flat in 1959. Vic Walters of Woodbridge had a 9.9 effort to break the oldest Henlopen mark. With new standards in the pole vault and high jump, all league marks are as of 1970, or later.

Mrs. Willis F. Smith

Mrs. Viola E. Smith, 76, of 104 Wolcott St., Harrington, died Monday at home after a long illness.

Mrs. Smith was a lifelong resident of the Harrington area.

Her husband, Willis F. Smith, died in 1959.

She is survived by a son, Franklin, at home; a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Clark of Harrington; a brother, Ralph Brown of Harrington; a step-sister, Mrs. Helen Harper of Wilmington; four grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Services will be Thursday afternoon at 2 at the McKnatt Funeral Home, 50 Commerce St., Harrington. Interment will be in Hollywood Cemetery.

Mrs. Wilbur Sedgwick

Mrs. Edna A. Sedgwick, 74, of Felton, was dead on arrival Monday at Kent General Hospital, Dover, after suffering an apparent heart attack at her home.

Born in Vernon, she lived most of her life in the Hous-ton-Harrington area, until 6 years ago she moved to Felton. Her husband died in 1966.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Sarah Hurd of Felton; a step-brother, Francis Jewell of Milford; a step-sister, Mrs. Lilly Peterson of Milford; a grandchild, and two great-grandchildren.

Services will be this afternoon at 1 at the Berry Funeral Home, Felton. Interment will be in Hollywood Cemetery, Harrington.

Spartans Beat Dover, Seaford, Near Division Crown

Bob Young's Lake Forest Spartans edged Dover 1-0 and tripped Seaford 6-1, to gain an 8-2 record. The Spartans are assured of a tie for the title in the Southern Division of the Henlopen Conference.

The locals could have sewed up the pennant with a victory over second-place Indian River, on Monday, but were rained out. The Spartans are champions with a victory in either of its last two contests or an Indian loss in either of their final two settos.

For the second straight game, the Spartans won a cliffhanger, though getting only one hit. Lawrence Sorden pickled a Bob Nafzinger fastball, for a third-inning home run and the die was cast. Dover could manage only three hits off Spartan ace (4-0) Jim Dill and didn't know how to run the bases, when they did get on. Bizarre base-running helped wipe out Dover's two threats.

Freshman Russell Dill, the other half of Lake Forest's brother mound act, gave Seaford's Blue Jays only two hits. Lake Forest's six hits amounted to a slugfest for the normally light-hitting Spartans. They remind one of a champion major league team of yesteryear, the "Hitless Wonders", who parlayed great pitching and defense into victory after victory.

Mike Atkinson and Jim Dill had two hits each for Lake Forest.

Woodbridge Wins Track Title And Should Now Get One

Woodbridge High's Blue Raiders went on a rampage, at Dover Friday and Saturday, to annex the Henlopen Conference championship. Athletically speaking, this has to be the young school's finest hour.

The Blue Raiders have no track on which to practice and all meets are away. Yet the Bridgeville - Greenwood combine set four conference records, won nine of eighteen events an upset the lower Delaware track powers, Seaford, Dover, Cape Henlopen, Lake Forest, Milford, Caesar Rodney and Sussex Central, among others. Only Smyrna, which finished low man on the totem pole, has no track, also.

Woodbridge has a much smaller student body too, than most area schools.

We feel the Blue Raiders have earned a track of their own, whether they win the state championship, or not and they have a good chance to win all the marbles, at the University of Delaware this

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne Holberton

Nutrient labeling - would you like it? You have until June 28 to make your comments on a Good and Drug Administration proposal that would establish, for the first time, a uniform, voluntary nutritional labeling system for packaged food.

FDA said it developed the new system in response to requests by consumer groups and to a recommendation by the 1969 White House Conference on Food, Nutrition, and Health favoring nutritional labeling. The system would encourage manufacturers to voluntarily list calories, fat protein, carbohydrates, vitamins, and minerals on food packages. With the ever-increasing number of processed and formulated foods available, it makes it difficult for us to identify the nutritional qualities of the food we buy. The FDA feels with this system they will help solve this problem and thus help us all to eat properly.

Briefly, here is how it works. Under the proposed guidelines an information panel prominently on food packages would contain the nutrition information. It would be under the heading "Nutrition Information" and would list the following:

A statement of what is considered the average size of a serving, expressed in common household terms, such as cup or ounces or slices.

The number of calories per serving, rounded off to the nearest 5 calorie increment.

The number of grams of protein, fat and carbohydrates per serving, rounded off to the nearest gram.

The amount of vitamins and minerals in each serving listed as percentages of the Recommended Daily Allowances (RDAs). The list would comprise at least 7 vitamins and minerals; and

The amount of protein in each serving expressed as a percentage of the adult requirement of RDA.

A nutritional label would comply with the proposed FDA standards of at least 80 percent of the product if the package met or exceeded the claimed nutrient levels.

This system would be voluntary; but if a manufacturer elects to use it, the form

A completed tomato cage should be 18 to 24 inches in diameter and stand 3 1/2 to 5 feet tall. Place the cages over the plants immediately after transplanting, while the ground is soft and the plants are small. As the plants grow and the tomatoes ripen, the mesh will keep the plants off the ground and you can pick the fruit through the six-inch openings.

Tomatoes In Cages Means Less Work

A relatively new method of growing tomatoes in cages is being suggested to home gardeners by a horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

Cage-growing tomatoes promises less work and high yields, according to Robert F. Stevens. In one experiment, a grower harvested 66 pounds of fruit from one tomato plant grown with this practice.

For the home gardener, cages require very little extra expense over the traditional method of staking each plant or using trellises in the garden. And the fact that growers can produce better quality tomatoes in cages makes this method of production even more attractive, says Stevens.

As a result of extensive experiments conducted in Michigan and Virginia, agricultural researchers recommend a four-step program for growing tomatoes in cages:

1. Set out regular trellis type tomato plants in five foot rows with two feet between the plants. Stevens recommends the following varieties for Delaware gardeners: Spring Giant, Super-sonic, Heinz 1409, Jet Star, Superman, Delsher, Ramapo, Burpee VF, Burpee's Delicious or Roma.
2. Construct cages 18 to 24 inches in diameter and 3 1/2 to 5 feet tall. Use concrete reinforcing mesh — 10 gauge wire frame — or other sturdy wire mesh that has openings of at least six inches. Cut and bend the mesh into cylinders fastening the ends together and snipping off the bottom rung. By cutting off the bottom rung, the cage can be pushed into the ground about six inches deep around each plant.
3. Once the tomato plants have been set out, put the cage in place and make sure it is well anchored. No suckering, pruning or training is necessary. The plant will come up through the cage and the wire mesh will support it. Cost of the cages will vary between 25 and 50 cents each, but they can be stored and used year after year.

4. When the fruit ripens, it can be picked through the six-inch opening in the cage. Since the fruit remains off the ground and is protected by plant leaves, sunscald and fruit cracking are often reduced with cage-grown tomatoes.

Sunshine 4-H News

Donna Shultie

Farm safety pays and stay on the safe side of electricity by Gene Gallo was just one of the many reports and demonstrations given at the Harrington Sunshine 4-H Club meeting on May 8, at St. Stephens Social Hall. Barbara Miller give an informative report on the nutritional value of the four basic food groups. Barbara also asked each member to bring items to make fire extinguishers at our next meeting.

Demonstrations were given by Donna Shultie on "Discover How Its Done With Baking Soda." She showed many ways healthful and useful ways baking soda can be used.

"Give Your Garden a Proper Diet - Soil Test" was another interesting demonstration given by Roddy Donovan. He showed the members how to take a soil sample and mail it to the University of Delaware, who in turn will send the results.

Many activities took place since our last meeting two of our 4-H'ers, Gene Gallo and Roddy Donovan visited another 4-H Club, the Honey Bees, May 4, and show them how to give demonstrations on electricity and photography projects.

Our sewing girls really enjoyed themselves going on a tour to Danneman's Fabric Shop, seeing different kinds of materials and notions reported Lou Ann McKnatt.

The Diamond State Twirlers were really pleased when 16 of our 4-H'ers accepted an offer to a square dance, April 22 for them reported Mary Ann Cooper.

Three of our members made soil conservation posters for Soil Stewardship Week. They were Becky Gruwell, Todd Gruwell and Barbara Miller.

May looks like a busy month, too. Eight girls will be in the dress revue May 13. Our club plans on doing church service for St. Stephen's Church on Mother's Day, May 14. On May 15, Gene Gallo planned for our club to tour the Bridgeville Police Headquarters.

We will hold a bake on May 19 beside the People's Bank between 4:30 - 7 p.m.

Our club also plans a trip to Washington, D.C., June 3. Several 4-H'ers helped the Jaycees at the chicken festival. They were Debbie Ryan, Bonnie Maloney, Gene Gallo, Martin Miller, Roddy Donovan, Becky Gruwell and Jerri Draper.

Our club president reminded us of Flag Day for May 14, Mother's Day, May 20, Armed Forces Day, and May 29, Memorial Day.

Donna Shultie showed a film on "The Four Basic Food Groups" at our April meeting for a demonstration.

Charlene Keller read a poem entitled "May" and Randy Sullivan read the Bible. Refreshments for the meeting were served by Charlene Keller, Randy Sullivan and Renee Outten.

Well-bred Holstein calves will be offered to youngsters in 4-H and FFA at realistic prices.

The Delaware Holstein Heifer Project is sponsored by the Delaware Holstein Association in cooperation with the University of Delaware Agricultural Extension Service and the FFA. Its purpose is to assist and encourage 4-H and FFA youth to raise Holstein heifers for a profit.

These animals are to be owned and raised by these young people and resold approximately two years later at the Annual State Holstein Sale at the Delaware State Fair in Harrington.

It is hoped that the heifer will be bred and conceive so that calving will be shortly after sale time. This normally returns the highest price, especially if the sire of the heifer and the bull are outstanding.

The purposes of the program are to develop knowledge and ability to raise dairy animals successfully; to help youth make money; to gain experience with an investment, record keeping and making the investment pay; to experience the thrill of buying, developing the animal, showing and selling her at auction; and, more important, developing the character of the youth.

The following committee appointed by the Association to select the calves to match the number of boys and girls who wish to enter the project by the purchase of a calf are: H. Wallace Cook, Jr., Newark, phone 378-2298; W. Lewis Phipps, Jr., Wilmington, phone 655-0558; B. Irvin Armstrong, Middletown, phone 378-2227; Samuel Dixon, Clayton, phone 653-7232; William Vanderwende, Bridgeville, phone 349-4423; State FFA leader, phone 678-4654; Dr. W. R. Hesselstine, University of Delaware, phone 738-2523. The calves will be priced at $125 each. All animals raised in the project will be sold through the Annual Holstein Sale at approximately two years of age.

An additional $10 per calf will be charged to be used as follows: The money will be placed in a bank to accrue interest during the two-year period. The $10 per calf will be used to insure payment to any youth whose calf or heifer dies. No more than the purchase price will be repaid to any buyer.

We personally think that this is a very worthwhile project for a family that loves animals and is interested in working together. If you are interested, contact the University of Delaware Cooperative Extension Office in Newark, Dover or Georgetown or any of the committee mentioned above.

Many times an animal owner thinks his animals are being poisoned either maliciously or accidentally when he finds them dead with no prior illness, but a little detective work usually reveals some other cause of death.

A family dog dies a slow agonizing death from kidney failure. Upon later questioning it was learned that ant poison containing thallium, a toxic metal, had been consumed by the dog just before it became sick.

Another instance a family's son drove a pick-up through a field of beef animals with the tailgate down. Two "empty" cans of a herbicide containing an arsenical compound bounced out. The next day, four animals were dead.

A dairy farmer parked his tractor in the alleyway of his barn when not in use. As the cows passed by the licked the battery cables, because of the salty corrosion. After losing four good cows from lead poisoning, he started parking his tractor outside.

With all the emphasis on environmental safety and pollution these days, people should not forget that their animals are also susceptible to most of the pollutants and poisons that threaten humans.

It Seems To Me

Janet Reed

No one wants to spend a lot of time caring for clothes in hot summer weather. And aren't we lucky to have such wonderful carefree fabrics today?

Maybe you don't remember when summer clothes meant hours at the ironing board and people almost dreaded to see summer come because of all the ironing. But I remember, an I'm especially grateful for man-made fibers and new knits that can be tossed in the washing machine and the dryer.

But have you ever lost the care directions and tossed the wrong thing in the washer and dryer by mistake. Disaster!

Our efficient textile industry is coming to the rescue again with permanently starched labels, so proper care directions will always be at finger tip. Practically all clothing manufactured after July 3, will be required to have permanently attached labels giving proper care directions.

Excluded from the labeling requirements are shoes, gloves, items used as headwear, and items selling for less than three dollars which are ordinarily washable. If a product's appearance or use would be substantially impaired by a permanently attached label, exceptions can be granted.

The rulings also apply to imported clothing and to fabric sold for the purpose of making clothes at home.

Labels must also state any treatments that would harm the fabric, so we are warned what not to do.

Federal Trade Commission rulings give examples of how the instructions should be stated. For example: "Machine wash warm. Gentle cycle. Do not use chlorine bleach." Or "Hand wash cold. Do not twist or wring. Dry flat and reshape. Do not dry clean."

But we consumers must assume the responsibility for reading and following these directions. If we don't and the fabric does not perform properly, it's our own fault.

Today's fabrics are wonderful creations by textile scientists, but consumers must fill their role of using the product as it was intended to be used. Follow care directions.

Fun With Nature

Spring and summer days are an excellent time for your children to learn about the world around them, says Miss Mary Ann Finch, extension family life specialist at the University of Delaware.

Your child is sure to have questions about nature and the things he sees-feels-hears-smells. If you're willing to slow your pace to answer those questions, you'll be helping him become more aware of his world, she says.

"Awareness can grow to curiosity, then to understanding and finally to independence."

Try to spend some time with your youngsters to guide this development. Find a quiet place for listening—in your backyard, the park or down the street. Both of you sit quietly for 60 seconds without moving or talking. Listen to the sound of the wind through the trees or around buildings. Then talk about what you're hearing—the birds, animals, insects or man-made sounds.

Look for colors, Miss Finch suggests. What colors can you see in the distance? Are they different from those close by? How many shades of green do you see?

Children like to touch, so feeling nature can be really exciting. Feel smooth and fuzzy leaves, touch soft objects, furry or coarse textures. How does wet mud feel? What's the difference when it's dry?

Smell the smells of nature. How many can you smell in a walk in the woods? How does the grass smell when it's freshly cut? Share that beautiful "after-rain" smell with your child.

As a parent and teacher you need to look, touch, smell, taste and hear with your child as he learns. Experience the same adventures in nature as he does. Be with him as a willing guide in the wonderful world of nature.

Keep Delaware Beautiful

It cost $200,000 just to clean the litter off Delaware highways in 1970 alone.

James A. McLane, eastern regional director of Keep America Beautiful, Inc., cited this figure during State Day. The Delaware Home Economics Extension Clubs' annual meeting was held May 1 at Rehoboth Beach Convention Hall.

Why do people litter? What kinds of things do they throw away? Which litter boxes would people use? What kind of laws and law enforcement is needed? These are the questions McLane's organization is trying to answer.

McLane believes that a concentrated state-wide program could result in a noticeable reduction in litter and therefore the cost of cleaning it up. Of course, this can't come about unless each citizen sees his responsibility to his total environment.

Litter is a health, financial and safety menace, McLane says. An unclean visual environment breeds other problems — community decay, lower pride and lower property values.

He challenged Delaware residents to protect and enhance their environment by improving their own personal habits and by working in public programs to reach others.

In the State Day afternoon session, Dr. Samuel M. Gwinn, director of Delaware's Cooperative Extension Service, presented a special leadership award to Mrs. Earl White, Bridgeville, for her outstanding work in the club's state-wide environment projects.
