

Both Parties Have Big Turn-outs in Primary

The Democrat organization's candidates in the 35th Representative District romped to an easy victory Saturday in a contest for delegates to the Democratic convention June 23-24.

Six posts were up for grabs and all went to the organization. The supporters of David P. Buckson had a field day in Kent County and especially in the 35th Representative District where the Peterson candidates for delegates to the GOP convention next month lost all but a single alternate's post.

Medicare Premium Increase Is $5.60 to $5.80

The basic premium rate of Medicare will go up from $5.60 to $5.80 a month July 1, according to W. J. Bulkley, social security manager in Dover.

The medical insurance part of Medicare helps pay for doctor bills and a variety of other medical expenses for persons 65 and over. The program is funded by individual premiums matched by the federal government.

The 20-cent increase in the payment in July compares to a 30-cent increase in 1971 and a $1.30 increase in 1970.

Bulkley says "the low increase this year reflects savings in the administration of Medicare as well as lower anticipated medical costs due to the Price Commission's edict limiting physicians' fee increases to an average 2 1-2 per cent a year."

The Medicare law requires an annual review of the cost of the medical insurance program. The payment rate is adjusted to cover the estimated medical expenses of Medicare patients during the 12 months starting with July 1.

The cost of the program was $35 million under estimates made last year. Without the Price Commission's limit on physicians' fees, it would have been necessary to raise the charge to at least $6 a month.

Developers Visit City Council

Two members of Pen-Dol Development Company, of Baltimore, attended a City Council meeting Monday night.

Dan Broyles, vice president of the company, and Murray Feigin, project manager, reviewed plans for a housing development on Peck Avenue.

Initial construction, it was learned Monday night, would begin at Peck Avenue and Dickerson Street.

The City Council will meet tonight since it did not have a quorum Monday night.

Miss Florence Long of Greenwood was feted at a retirement party Monday by her fifth grade homeroom class at Lake Forest South. They presented her with an engraved Revere Bowl. Refreshments of punch, cupcakes, potato chips and nut cups were served. Miss Long is retiring after teaching 43 years. Before coming to Harrington 29 years ago, she taught at Milton, Ellendale and Laurel.

Postal Service Issues Book

A book for stamp collectors having wide appeal for novice and long-time philatelists is being made available by the U.S. Postal Service by mail order, it was announced today by Postmaster H. W. Dill.

"This is the first postal service book to fully illustrate U. S. stamps in color and list the values on each issue from 1947 thru mid-1972," Dill said.

"Stamps and Stories" was prepared for the postal service by Scott Publishing Co., the nation's oldest printer of stamp catalogs.

While all of the pertinent philatelic information is included, the book extends far beyond the range of a catalog. The book contains illustrated stories covering many highlights in history that have been portrayed on stamps. The book also has a chapter titled, "How to be a happy stamp collector."

Stamps issued by the Confederate States of America are reproduced as are those of the United Nations and a sampling of stamps from many countries.

The book has 224 pages and is convenient pocket size. It may be ordered by mail from the Philatelic Sales Unit, Washington, D.C., at $2 per copy, plus 50 cents for handling the book.

A 26-year-old Delaware State Trooper was killed last Friday night near Harrington when his patrol car was struck in the rear by another car.

Trooper George W. Emory of North Street Extension Seaford, was taken to Milford Memorial Hospital in the Harrington Fire Company ambulance. He was dead on arrival at 12:01 a.m. He suffered multiple head injuries, according to Col. George J. Bundeck, state police superintendent.

The accident happened about 11:45 p.m. as Emory was driving his marked patrol car home after finishing the 3 to 11 p.m. shift at Troop 3, near Dover.

Investigating officers identified the driver of the other car as Walter E. Dixon, 25, of Philadelphia.

They said Dixon was driving south on U.S. 13—apparently speeding—when at the eastern limits of Harrington it struck the rear of Emory's patrol car. The accident occurred in a reduced speed zone near the intersection of U.S. 13 and Smith Ave.

Police said the patrol car apparently went out of control after impact, traveled about 180 feet, sheared off a utility pole and rolled once. Emory was thrown from his vehicle.

Dixon, whose car traveled about 120 feet before coming to a stop on the highway, was treated for minor injuries of the face and left shoulder.

Dixon was charged with manslaughter by motor vehicle, police said.

Dixon was ordered held in default of $25,000 bail in Court 6 and committed to Delaware Correctional Center near Smyrna pending appearance in the same court today at 10 a.m.

Police said Emory was involved in the state police community car program, under which troopers take their patrol cars home and are technically on patrol between their troop and their homes.

Emory, who was not married, joined the state police May 15, 1970. He is the 13th trooper to be killed in the line of duty since the state police force was established in the 1930's.

Emory was the 52d person to die on state roads this year. 34 were killed by this time last year.

Miss Termini Nursing Dean

The appointment of Miss Marguerite Termini as assistant dean of the College of Nursing at the University of Delaware was announced by Dr. Mary K. Carl, dean of the college.

Dean Termini will assume her new position on July 1.

On the faculty of the college since 1967, she has been an associate professor since then and coordinator of the psychiatric-mental health nursing program at the college.

The new assistant dean received her training and her degrees from the Brooklyn State Hospital School of Nursing and the Columbia University Teachers College in New York. Her graduate preparation on the master's level is in psychiatric-mental health nursing, and her work towards the doctorate at the University of Maryland has been in student personnel and guidance.

Before joining the U. of D. faculty, she was a psychiatric nursing consultant for community mental health centers associated with the National Institute of Mental Health in Chevy Chase, Md., an assistant professor at the University of Maryland Medical Center in Baltimore, and an instructor and a head nurse at Brooklyn State Hospital.

She is a member of the advisory board council on mental health for the State of Maryland and a number of professional organizations including the National League for Nursing, the American Nurses Association, and the American Association of University Professors.

Her most recent publications include annotated bibliographies for key professionals, and nonprofessional workers in the area of community mental health for NIMH.

She currently resides in Wilmington on Doe Run Court.

KENT COUNTY CURRENTS

by JOSHUA M. TWILLEY
Levy Court President

Kent County needs additional space and the present courthouse is not large enough. The judges have petitioned the Levy Court for two more courtrooms, plus related facilities such as a chamber for more judges and jury rooms. They base this on the fact that in the last two years the number of criminal cases alone has increased 25 per cent so that, at the present time, there are 400 pending criminal cases. This does not count any civil cases.

Sometime ago, the County commissioned a space study to give us an estimate of our needs for the next ten years in regards to the other services and offices of the county exclusive of the courts. This estimate told us we should provide for a 50 per cent increase for space needs.

What should the Levy Court do? We have been considering two alternatives. The first is to enlarge the courthouse; the second is to relocate offices in the courthouse somewhere else and turn the courthouse over to the exclusive use of the courts. There are advantages and disadvantages in both cases.

However, a third alternative which has never been considered before may now be possible. Suppose the county were to buy an existing building within walking distance of the courthouse, which had adequate parking and all of the other things a county building should have. It is possible we could buy such a building at a considerably lower figure than the cost of constructing a new one. Furthermore, it might be possible to lease the building back to the present owners for a period of time while the owner relocates and gradually move the county offices into it during this period of time. The rental income during the transition period would cover nearly the cost to the county for several years.

But it seems to me there is also a further possibility that should be considered. Why not transfer the courthouse back to the State of Delaware for the exclusive use of the courts in exchange for the purchase price of a new location? The State would then save rental payments and would be in a position to provide proper facilities which the judiciary so urgently need. The county would also benefit by a bigger office building at no cost to the Kent County taxpayers with twice the space now on Paula Caudell Wed To George Robert Eilers, Jr.

Miss Paula Caudell became the bride of George Robert Eilers Jr. Saturday in Prospect Methodist Church, Vernon. Mrs. Eilers is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asbiel Caudell of Greenwood and the bridegroom is a son of George Robert Eilers Sr. of Harrington.

The 5:30 p.m. ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph Bostick of Greensboro, Md.

The father of the bride escorted his daughter and gave her in marriage. The bride wore an old-fashioned gown embroidered with lace. A chapel-length train was attached.

Her headpiece of satin petals and seed pearls was attached to a bouffant illusion veil.

Mrs. Debbie BeMiller, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore an empire gown with white lace bodice and a light-blue satin skirt. Her headpiece consisted of lace attached to a blue velvet bow.

Miss Tina Dukes and Mrs. Patricia Anderson were the bridesmaids. Their gowns were fashioned identically to those of the honor attendants except the skirts were a darker blue. The headpieces were also identical to those of the honor attendants.

Miss Marilyn Caudell, sister of the bride, was flower girl and Johnny Rickards was ring-bearer.

Charles Anderson, of Harrington and Sigurd Eric Berzins of Frankford were the ushers. Clarence J. Black of Harrington was best man. The couple reside in Milford

Ellen H. Keith Weds Gary Paul Bollinger

A very beautiful wedding took place in Luther Lutheran Church, Seaford, Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. when Ellen H. Keith became the bride of Gary Paul Bollinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Bollinger of Lewisburg, Pa.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frederick G. Klein, pastor of the church. The church was decorated in old English boxwood and deep pink peonies, with mixed flowers on the altar.

The theme of the wedding was centered around the period of the Gay Nineties, and the costumes and flowers complemented this theme. The bride designed and made her wedding gown, with a bodice of white French organdy, trimmed with lace and blue satin ribbon, and a pale blue skirt of French organdy. A pleated white lace headpiece of floor length finished the costume. She carried purple violets arranged in an old-fashioned nosegay with paper lace.

Mrs. Joyce Green of Maryland, Md., was matron of honor. She wore lavender flowered organdy, trimmed with white lace and lavender ribbon. Her coiffure was entwined with small white flowers and purple ribbon bows, and she carried a nosegay of mixed flowers.

The junior bridesmaids were Miss Karen Case of Newark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Case, and Miss Debbie Green of Maryland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Green. They wore identical dresses of flowered organdy with yellow ribbons and white lace hats in garden style with yellow ribbons. They carried nosegays of mixed flowers.

The flower girl was Hilary Dayne Keith, who wore green flower sprigged organdy. Her little basket contained rose petals. The ring bearer was Teddy Keith who wore blue Eton shorts with white jacket. The best man was William Bollinger, Lewisburg, Pa., ed with small white flowers and purple ribbon bows, and she carried a nosegay of mixed flowers.

brother of the groom. The ushers were Ronald Case of Newark and Kenneth Green of Maryland. They, with the bride's father, Jacob Hatfield, wore matching suits, black, with deep blue ruffled shirts and black bow ties.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Jacob Hatfield, wore beige with white accessories, and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. William Bollinger, wore pale green with beige accessories. Both wore purple orchids.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Trail's End, in Greenwood, after which the couple left for a honeymoon trip through the New England states. Their going-away costumes were both white.

The bride attended Greenwood High School and is owner of The Early Attic Antique Shop, Greenwood. The bridegroom is a graduate of a high school in Lewisburg, Pa. He received an honorable discharge from the U.S. Air Force and is now employed by the Atlantic Aviation, New Castle, as an avionics technician. He is also co-owner of The Early Attic Antique Shop.

Manship W.S.C.S. will meet Friday evening in the Fellowship Hall.

In Viola and Manship United Methodist churches, Rev. John's sermon topic Sunday morning was "One Fellowship in Christ" and the Scripture was Mark 13, verses 21 through 37.

Sick and shut-ins include Elizabeth Jester, Stella Seaman, Mervin Shulties, Mrs. Minner, Betty Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Harrington Rash. Our prayers are with them for blessings and recovery.

The Viola W.S.C.S. met on Tuesday evening at the Viola Community Hall. This was the last meeting of the season.

They will start again in September. Hostesses were Nellie and Clara Jarrell.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Anderson of Camden are being congratulated on the birth of a son on May 30 at the Kent General Hospital.

There's a new baby daughter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Thompson born at Milford Hospital.

Fred Greenley spent the weekend in Charlotte, N.C., and attended the commencement exercises of his brother.

Happy birthday to Miss June Bravato on June 3.

The Rev. Charles Moyer was re-appointed as pastor of Whatcoat United Methodist Church in Camden, at the Peninsula Annual Conference held at Wesley College last week.

The Rev. John A. Massimilla is re-appointed to the Felton Charge. The Rev. Dale Pruitt of Wyoming United Methodist Church has accepted a position in programming with the State of Delaware.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland J. Conner, Jr., are being congratulated on their recent marriage at Wyoming United Methodist Church. The bride is the former Joyce Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor T. Ross. The couple are at home in Daytona, Fla.

A June 3rd wedding was that of Jessica Elizabeth Hurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hurst of Dover, and James R. Frazier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce G. Frazier of Magnolia.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Martin are the proud parents of a baby girl born at Kent General Hospital. Congratulations to Mary Kathryn Matthews, a dean's list student at Bucknell University. She is one of 12 co-eds tapped by Mortar Board, Women's Honor Society. Her membership is based on scholarship, leadership, and service. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Matthews of Camden-Wyoming.

Caesar Rodney High School cheerleaders sponsored a car wash Saturday at Camden 66 Gas Station.

Vacation Bible School will be held in the Felton United Methodist Church June 19 through Friday of that week, and on Sunday, the 25th, the closing exercises will be held during the 11 a.m. worship service. All children of the area are invited to attend.

For further information contact Mrs. Vonna Hobbs at 284-9229.

Come to the strawberry festival on June 10 starting at 4 p.m. at the Felton United Methodist Church, sponsored by the Willing Workers.

Mrs. John S. Argo

Mrs. Florence E. Argo, 87, of near Milford, died Friday in Witt's Nursing Home, Milford, after a long illness. Mrs. Argo was a lifelong resident of the Milford area.

She was a member of Slaughter Neck United Methodist Church, near Milford.

Her husband, John S. Argo, died in 1953.

She is survived by a son, Richard D. of Milford; a daughter, Mrs. Ruth E. Finnity of Milford; two grandsons and seven great-grandchildren.

Services were held Monday afternoon at the Berry Funeral Home, Milford. Interment was in Slaughter Neck Methodist Cemetery.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

MAKE ME A BLESSING TO OTHERS

Make me a blessing, Lord, help me
To help those needing help, to be
A blessing to my fellow men
Instruct me how to speak and when.

To hold my speech — when to be bold
In giving or to withhold
And if I have not strength enough
Then teach me Lord and make me tough

With mine own self, but gentleness
For those in need of friendliness
Give me a work, a touch to fill
The lonely life, faith for the ill.

Then let me lift their eyes to see
The vision of Thy victory.
Help me to help, help me to give
The wisdom and the will to live.

Faith gives us wings.
Hope gives us heart.
Love gives us life.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Carrington and all:
When we received our Journal dated May 11, with the picture of the stretcher on the front, I just had to write you my recent experience. Especially in times when so many people say no one wants to get involved.

Our son, Edward and family and his in-laws and Walt and myself set out to spend Mother's Day at Lake Casitis, a reservoir surrounded by mountains near Ojai, Calif. We made homemade ice cream, picnic complete, did some swinging and rented a boat for a ride. Upon approaching the farther side of the island in the center, we saw a boat stalled with 2 men aboard, so we towed them back to shore. This was quite an experience for the 4 grandchildren. After the boat ride, Edward and his son were playing ball, so Teresa said, Mom Mom, I want to go show you the ducks. So we crossed the road and down a few steps and started down the mountain hiking to see the ducks at the bottom in the water. I told her I might not get back up, if I get down and she said, "Mom Mom, I pull you up." So we were about half down, when I guess I took too long a step, so I heard bones crack, but instead of falling ahead, I sort of sat down backward, and rested with a place for my good leg, then I picked up the broken one and propped it up against the fence. Teresa tried to help me, but I told her to go get Pop Pop and dad. Up the hill she went like a flash. I turned and called twice for help. Immediately I had help, someone brought a sheet to put on the fence for shade, someone else caught hold of Walt as he was starting down sliding to me. Edward went for the park rangers and the boat patrol were there in a short time. It took six men pulling the stretcher and four carrying it up, with several walking behind for back up in case of them slipping.

When the ambulance arrived from Ojai I was on solid ground and able to crawl over on their stretcher. All in all, in much less than an hour I was in Ventura Hospital. Yes, I did my ankle up big, had it put back in place that evening with cast to the hip and came home on Wednesday, to see my doctor on Thursday. He sent me out to Mercy Marina Hospital for surgery on Saturday, which included inserting 2 screws, so I could walk again.

Even though we did have fun, I wouldn't advise anyone to spend a holiday that way, but I was so blessed and grateful for such wonderful help, and greatest of all, I've suffered very little pain. Even the doctors have been amazed. Since my return home last week Walt has showed his great skill of nursing.

Thanks for letting me visit with you, and all our many friends and family back home. Sincerely,
Virginia Paskey
P.S.: It was just 20 years ago May 24 that we left Delaware.

Letter To The Editor

"What's It All About?", the theme of the message delivered by William Griffin at Memorial Day exercises in Hollywood Cemetery said it all.

The attendance of Post #7 and its Auxiliary, the interested spectators, the three young ladies that spoke from the podium, the fine firing squad and buglers—always very impressive — and Prof. Louis Giusto and his Lake Forest High School Band.

A sincere thank you to Prof. Melvin Brobst for his parade arrangement, another job well done.

When you think of all these youngsters giving up a holiday—when you think of the many parents doing the same because their children were involved — when you think about the hours of planning and preparation in order to put this on — then that is "What's It All About."

A sincere thank you.

Spartan Baseball Season Ends With Two Losses

Lake Forest's baseball team won the Southern Division title, dropped the league title to Dover 4-0 and then was eliminated from the state tournament by Claymont 8-1.

The Spartans had three hits in each contest, against two of Delaware's top high school hurlers.

Mike Atkinson, probably Lake Forest's most consistent hitter, had two hits against Dover's Bob Naftzinger and one off the offerings of Claymont's 10-0 Tony Coppol.

Mike Davis hit safely against Dover, while Jim Dill had two safeties in the Claymont set-to.

Lake Forest's Dill brothers were the losing pitchers but neither pitched badly. Both contests could have been won but such a recipe would have involved a little more defense and a lot more offense on the part of the Spartans.

Hey Vernon! It Feels Good, Man!

Seventh grader Don Baynard of Felton, has a trophy or two already, but the award he won at the first annual Kiwanis Mile Run, held at Tower Hill School, Sunday afternoon, has to rank No. 1 in his affections, up to this point.

The 13 year old, 96 pounder, was picked to represent Chipman School in this event. Only one seventh grader from each Delaware school could compete. Donald was a good cross-country runner for Chipman coach Jim Blades last fall, but is brand new at running on the track. Told to pace himself carefully, he started on the pole but was last and losing ground steadily to the entire field after only 120 yards. Quickly instructed to pick up the pace, Baynard started knocking off rivals, one by one. On the last lap he moved from sixth to second and clocked a fine 5.27.6 mile. This is great work for a seventh grader. He'll be varsity caliber long before he hits the ninth grade.

When Don got a Kiwanis T-shirt and a handsome trophy, he grinned ear to ear, then uttered the title remark, which made a big hit with those spectators and Kiwanis Club members close enough to hear.

Rick Wright, Chipman 8th grader, opened up a big lead in the eighth grade mile by blazing a 63 second first quarter. This is a 4.12 mile pace and is much too fast. After a 2.25 half, the pack caught him on the third lap. Wright showed plenty of speed and as soon as he learns to pace himself, will be a terrific runner.

Vernon Bowers, 9th grade representative from Lake Forest, ran a good 4.55 mile and just missed the third place trophy.

Ron Mosley clocked a fine 4.53 in the sophomore division, but finished out of the money in this talent-heavy class.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne W. Holberton

Have you ever stopped to think how much you can do to help make everyone's food bill become smaller? There are many factors affecting food prices, and being a courteous shopper is a big factor. Did you realize that shoplifting increases our food bills by 1 1/2 to 2 percent? Bad checks are another problem. Today, grocery stores cash more checks than banks. The loss from bad checks is a bit over 1 percent of sales. Shopping carts cost from $40 to $50 each. How many have you seen on the street blocks away from where they belong? In some metropolitan areas, supermarkets lose an average of 30 carts per week. Who finally pays for this? We all do.

Our shopping practices add another 10 to 15 percent to food prices. You can't believe it? Well, here's how it works.

Two to three hours of labor each day are required to replace products we put into shopping carts then take out and leave along the way. Why not take them back to their proper places.

Mishandling of produce costs money, too—lots of it. Too many shoppers still use the mash, squeeze, and poke method to determine if the produce is fresh or ripe. Instead, why not learn and observe the true signs of quality, maturity, and ripeness. If you want to pick up the tomatoes, peaches, etc., replace them gently. Be concerned about the next shopper for a change.

The pilferage and breakage bill is also large. How often have you seen jars broken or jacksacks torn and frozen food opened? You know that the quality of frozen food goes down quickly once air enters the packages.

The pacifying bill adds to food costs also. Many more shoppers than we'd like to admit pacify Junior or Susie with a "little something to eat" when they get fretful while shopping. It may be only a peanut now but more later. Furthermore, who ever heard of a manager taking it away from a crying child? You guessed it — you won't. But it all adds up and becomes something else we all have to pay for.

Food markets are built for all of us and every effort is made to keep them clean, sanitary, attractive, and orderly. Do we do our parts to keep them that way? If we all think of the grocery man and supermarket as our partners in business, we will exercise more care as we shop. This would lower our food bills almost 15 percent — a savings of $240 each year for the average family of four. That's a lot of money to spend for careless shoppers.

Courteous shopping can pay big dividends! Don't you agree?

Mrs. Bieber

since 1969, will succeed Dr. Irma Ayers, who will retire as dean of the college on June 30.

Before coming to Delaware, she was a home economics teacher at Montoursville (Pa.) High School and for the Mt. Pleasant Special School District in Wilmington.

Mrs. Bieber is a member of the advisory committee of the New Castle County Vocational Technical School, a consultant to the Delaware State Department of Education for curriculum and in-service home economic teacher education programs, and a member of a number of university and college committees.

At the university level, she is a member of the committee on undergraduate records and certification and the committee on undergraduate admissions and standing.

In the college, she is a member of the graduate, recruitment, scheduling, and instruction and evaluation on teaching committee and coordinator of senior seminars. She has also served as a liaison between the College of Home Economics and the College of Education in teacher education and as an advisor for in-service programs for cooperating teachers.

Dean Bieber has conducted experimental courses in high school home economics for academic students and in-service programs for high school economics teachers, often concurrently, in the state and has been state membership chairman for the home economics teacher education section of the National Education Association.

She has authored a number of articles in her field and has been a curriculum advisor or consultant at workshops in Delaware, Maryland, and New Jersey.

In 1961, she was listed in "Who's Who in American Women" and in 1964 she received a teaching award at the U. of D.

Dean Bieber earned her B.S. in home economics at Drexel University and her M.S. at Delaware. She has taken advanced work at the University of Pennsylvania.

She is married to Homer L. Bieber, Jr., chief pharmacist at the VA Hospital in Elsmere. The Biebers live at 57 Bridle Brook Lane in Newark. The dean is a native of Honey Brook, Pa.

Mrs. John Biggs

Mrs. Gertrude H. Biggs, 88, of Viola, died in the Fletcher Nursing Home, Felton, Friday after a short illness.

Mrs. Biggs was a lifelong resident of the Felton area and was a charter member of the Betsy Ross Council No. 8, Daughters of America.

Her husband, John Biggs, died in 1967. There are no immediate survivors.

Services were held Monday afternoon at the Berry Funeral Home, Felton. Burial was in Barratt's Chapel Cemetery, Frederica.

Reigning Kent County 4-H Dairy Princess Miss Nancy Waldbusser of Woodside will pass on her crown to a new princess on Saturday evening, June 17 in Houston. Sponsored by the Houston Cardinal 4-H Club, this contest with approximately 18 contestants consists of each girl milking a cow for 60 seconds, followed by an extemporaneous 3 minute speech. The public is invited beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Veteran's Administration News

Q—I am the daughter of a veteran killed in Vietnam, and going to college under VA's Dependents' Educational Assistance program. I wonder if the $1,000 I earned last year will prevent me from receiving further education allowances?

A.—No. There is no limit on the income you may earn while receiving benefits under this program.

Q—I am in a VA hospital for treatment of a service-connected disability rated as 10 per cent. Will VA give me a permanent increase in my compensation?

A.—Compensation will be increased permanently only if there is a permanent increase in the degree of your service-connected disability. If you are hospitalized more than 21- days, a temporary 100 per cent rating will be assigned for the whole period of your hospitalization.

Q.—Some branches of military service have six months active duty training programs followed by years of weekly drills. Are these persons eligible for educational assistance under the GI Bill?

A.—No. Participation in these six months active duty training programs in the reserves or National Guard is specifically exempted from the definition of active duty for GI Bill purposes.

Farmers who are still applying herbicides to field corn may be interested in knowing that Lasso and Lasso Atrazine tank mix have been labeled for postemergence application. However, the clearance, or label, has only been granted when mixing with water and not with liquid nitrogen.

Because of rains and adverse weather this spring, one may be a little behind in getting most of one's pre-emergence chemicals applied. This last-minute label clearance for Lasso and Lasso plus Atrazine tank mix may solve the problem of selecting chemicals for postemergence application. The same rates should be followed when spraying postemergence as described on the label for preemergence applications.

Empty pesticide containers are always a problem to dispose of, especially cans and various plastics materials. It is important when such containers have been used that thorough rinsing and cleaning be done.

General rule of thumb says chemicals costing $20 per gallon, by properly rinsing the containers into your spray solution, you can save $1. This is not only important from the standpoint of economics, but also from environmental contamination when disposing of containers.

Follow this procedure when emptying pesticide containers:

Reduce Losses, Control Weeds In Soybeans

Soybean growers anxious to get their crops in the ground shouldn't neglect good weed control practices.

Effective weed control is necessary throughout the growing season, says Dr. William H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware. Soybeans can't compete with weeds for nutrients, sunlight and moisture. A weed infested soybean field will delay harvesting and increase harvest losses. It will also lower the value of the crop by contamination.

Mitchell notes that in a Virginia study, one weed per 16 feet of row resulted in a soybean loss of 2.7 bushels per acre. One weed every eight feet of row reduced yields 4.6 bushels per acre, and one weed per foot of row decreased yields by 11.5 bushels per acre.

Proper crop rotation is one of the most effective ways of controlling weeds in soybeans. Cocklebur, jimsonweed, morningglory and pigweed have a tendency to build up in soils under continuous soybean production. With alternate cropping of corn and beans, it's easier to control these weeds and the build up of weed seed is reduced.

Early preparation of the seed bed will also eliminate some weed problems, points out Mitchell. Many weeds can be killed by shallow tillage immediately before the crop is planted. But don't work the soil too deep or dormant weed seed will be brought to the surface to germinate later.

To insure a good stand of soybeans, use certified seed or seed that has been tested for germination and plant it after the soil is warm. Rapidly-growing soybean plants will shade out many weeds.

Along with good cultivation practices, herbicides are essential to control weeds in soybeans. A long list of chemicals are available including preplant, pre-emergence and post-emergence herbicides.

The small-seeded annual weeds tend to germinate in the upper inch of soil. Pre-plant and pre-emergence weed killers will eliminate most of them. The larger-seeded weeds such as jimsonweed, cocklebur and morningglory germinate from much deeper in the soil and are harder to control.

Mitchell stresses that certain weeds are tolerant to some herbicides. In addition, there is a small margin for error before crop damage occurs with all soybean herbicides. He says growers should pinpoint which weeds cause the most problems in their particular fields and then check with the county Extension office for information on which herbicides to use.

after normal emptying, the containers should be allowed to drain in a vertical position 30 seconds. For the best results, thoroughly rinse the container three times allowing 30 seconds for draining after each rinse. You should use about one quart of rinsing solution for one gallon container, and a gallon for each 5-gallon can. Drain each rinse into the spray tank before filling it to the desired level. The containers should be either crushed, if metal or plastic, or broke if glass, and proper burying of the debris should take place.

Corn planting has been delayed this spring and many producers are still planting. It is risky to plant corn after the first of June for a profitable yield. It seems a little foolish to risk planting corn as late as it is when the price potential for soybeans is so desirable. You are taking a real chance if you are still planting field corn now.

It Seems To Me

By Janet Reed

If you've had trouble sewing the invisible zipper, you may be interested to know that one manufacturer has introduced an improved foot to help us get better results.

Stitching too close and into the coil can cause zipper failure; or conversely, you can stitch too far away from the coil and a streak of the zipper tape shows the length of a supposedly invisible zipper. These have been occasional problems with this zipper.

The new foot is designed with a beveled diamond-shaped protrusion at the front end of the foot to guide the coil out of the way of the needle. This design feature prevents any possibility of stitching into the coil.

The foot has one centered hole for the needle to go through whether you are sewing on the right or the left side of the zipper. This eliminates the need for tedious adjustments. However, you can make a slight adjustment of the needle in the hole, right or left, to sew closer to the coil.

This may be necessary on certain fabrics to obtain a truly invisible seam-like closure with no zipper tape showing. For most fabrics the needle can be left directly in the center with no adjustment necessary.

Another advantage of this new foot is that it comes in a package containing four color coded shanks. Each shank fits a specific type of machine so it's easy to know when you have the right one.

The foot is designed for use with both nylon and metal type invisible zippers and it's inexpensive, too.

This is just one more of the many improved tools available for the home seamstress. Look for it the next time you shop at the notion counter.

4-H Club Talk

with Marion MacDonald

County judging scores have just been tallied and released. 4-H'ers learn the skill of making the best choice by competing in judging contests.

The top ten senior winners will compete forstate honors and cash awards at Delaware State Fair next month. They are as follows: Norma Voss, Lou Ann McKnatt, Linda Newman, Nancy Waldbusser, Char-mayne Pierson, Rita Messick, Pat Buie, Cindy Nechay, Pam Nechay and Judy Back.

Those receiving top honors in the junior division are as follows: Barbara Schepens, Becky Gruwell, Renee Outten, Tamara Wolpert and Marie Warren.

Top honors in the petite division go to Terry Alfree, Rhonda Kenton, Yvonne Mace, Mary Anne Alexander and Jane Springer.

A county field crops and judging contest will be held at the Houston Firehall at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday.

Care After Strawberries Bear Will Pay Off Next Year

Don't neglect your strawberry plants after the fruit is gone. It may mean a poorer harvest next year, says David Tatnall, extension garden specialist at the University of Delaware.

Strawberry beds should be renovated as soon as possible after the final picking. Start by thinning out the established plants so that newly-formed daughter plants can root and grow under uncrowded conditions.

Leave only a row of plants about one foot wide by hoeing or plowing away from each side of the row towards the center lane, explains Tatnall. The soil should then be pushed back towards the row and raked smooth to produce an even surface.

Weed and remove weak and diseased plants leaving about four healthy plants per foot. Frequent weeding is best to keep your bed in shape because the shallow root system of strawberry plants may be disturbed by pulling larger, well-established weeds.

Runners and daughter plants develop from strawberries at this time of the year so it's important that these young plants be properly spaced to avoid overcrowding and reduction of next year's yield. As runners form, daughter plants should be spaced about six to eight inches apart to reduce competition for moisture, nutrients and light.

While renovating your strawberry beds, Tatnall recommends applying a complete fertilizer such as 5-10-10 at the rate of three-fourths pound per 25 feet of row. Apply this to the sides of the row and be careful not to get fertilizer on the leaves, since this may result in burning. During prolonged dry periods, strawberries tend to wilt, especially on light, sandy soils. They need about one inch of water per week for enough growth.

If flower buds appear on plants set out this spring, pinch them off as they form so runners are more easily produced. It's essential that

Traveling With Children

Ready for vacation? You can enjoy your vacation and your children with just a little pre-trip planning, according to Miss Mary Ann Finch, extension family life specialist at the University of Delaware.

Small children establish their own patterns of eating and sleeping; it's important to stay as close to their normal schedule as possible; keep your child on his regular routines while you're traveling. If you upset a preschool child's routine or diet drastically, it may upset him physically and take some of the pleasure from your excursion.

When you're traveling a long distance with young children, remember children get bored quickly. Their interest spans are very short and they become restless and irritable if they aren't active. So plan ahead.

Miss Finch recommends bringing along toys or games to help entertain your child. And, if they help him learn while he travels—so much the better. Choose car activities that fit into a limited physical space; be sure they're safe, also. A few new toys or inexpensive games can be a surprise that will brighten that long, boring trip.

If you must travel several hours to your destination, see that your child is dressed comfortably and has a place to lie down to rest. You might take along snacks such as dry cereals, raisins, dried fruit or raw vegetables. Pick ones that are easy to handle and non-spillable, Miss Finch advises. Take along a wet wash cloth in a plastic bag and a small box of tissue so you'll be prepared for messy faces and hands.

Children sometimes become confused and frightened when visiting in other homes. They'll be getting a lot of attention from relatives they've forgotten. Don't expect your children to show immediate affection for people they seldom see. Even the most outgoing child can be suddenly shy among new people. And grandparents who only see their little loved ones a few times a year may be a little overzealous.

Children will usually become comfortable with the relatives if they are just given time to adjust. You may need to offer a friendly reminder to help the other adults understand your child's shyness.

Have a happy family vacation!

Animal Waste Disposal Research

Delaware's newest "hills" are man-made. The 45-foot-long 6-foot-high hills of sandy loam are part of an agricultural project at the University of Delaware. Dr. William F. Ritter and Norman Collins, engineers, are testing ways to recycle natural resources, in this case, wastes from dairy cattle.

The duo received a $12,500 grant for one year from Hercules Inc. in the first phase of a four-year environmental research program. Drs. William Liebhart and Allen Morehart, university plant scientists, are working on another program under the same grant.

The hill in the research will act as a giant filter for the waste. Once the pretreated waste is applied thru irrigation, bacteria in the soil will change the nitrogen in the waste to nitrogen gas.

Excess nitrogen in manure is the factor which limits the amount that can be applied to Delaware's sandy soil, Ritter explains. If enough nitrogen is removed in the hills of earth, farmers could use dairy wastes more efficiently, he adds.

The researchers will study the efficiency of the hills and bacteria, the rate wastes can be applied and exactly how much nitrogen is removed.

Researchers Liebhart and Morehart will study the effects of applying different amounts of poultry manure to plots at the university's sub-station at Georgetown. They will compare the yields of corn and the amount of nitrogen in the groundwater when they apply up to 2,000 pounds of nitrogen from such manure per acre.
