ROAD BUILDING
Teal Construction Inc., of Dover, was the apparent low bidder Tues., June 27, at $201,000.17 for reconstruction of three dirt roads and three Harrington streets, according to the state Department of Highways and Transportation. The project involves Road No. 310 near Farmington, Road No. 385 near Felton, and Road No. 433 near Harrington, Harrington Avenue, Second Avenue and Enterprise Avenue are the streets affected in the Harrington area.

Robert Berwick Promoted To Road Post

Robert "Dick" Bewick has been promoted to assume all responsibility for the Office of Plans and Design, as well as the Bureau of Highway Planning now under his supervision in the Department of Highways and Transportation.

A Kirk Means, Jr., Secretary said, "It is anticipated that placing both the planning activities and the design activities under one office will provide more effective continuity and coordination between these two closely associated functions."

Bewick began his highway career with the Department in 1952, the year he graduated from West Virginia University with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Civil Engineering. His experience has included suburban development, review of consultant design and Assistant Chief Engineer in charge of planning.

In 1963, Bewick received the Dover Distinguished Service Award (Young Man of the Year) and appeared in "Who's Who in the East."

He is a member of the Dover School Board, its past president, and was recently elected 2nd vice president, Delaware School Boards Association.

Bewick serves on the Planning Committee for New Castle County Land Use and Transportation Planning Program and the Technical Committee for Wilmington Metropolitan Coordinating Council.

Bewick resides at 106 Lynnhaven Drive, Dover with his wife Jean and his two children Karen and Kenneth.

Corrections Officers To Receive Pre-Service Course

The division of adult corrections and the Delaware Technical and Community College are joining to provide a pre-service educational training program for all correctional officers who will be assigned to one of the state's three adult correctional facilities.

Nineteen correctional officers will participate in the initial four-week training program to begin July 5 and thru Aug. 3. With the exception of planned field trips, all class sessions will be held at Smyrna High School.

John K. Moran, director of the Division of Adult Corrections, and Paul K. Weatherly, DelTech president, jointly announced the project. The two agencies have worked out the details for the training sessions and each of the agencies will absorb some of the project costs.

A second group of correctional officers will begin the four-week course on July 14. After these initial training groups have completed their educational program, the classes will be included in the basic orientation for new correctional officers.

All the correctional officers involved in the first two sessions are men and will be assigned to either the Delaware Correctional Center near Smyrna or the Sussex Correctional Institution near Georgetown. Correctional officers at the Women's Prison will be included in future sessions.

Through arrangements worked out with DelTech, the correctional officers who attend the four-week training session will earn three college credits and will be encouraged to continue their studies at one of the two branches of the community college and work toward an associate degree in criminal justice.

"The basic point of this training will be to equip these men to do their job," Moran says. "The field of corrections is changing and you can no longer just walk in off the street and do the job well."

During the four-week training session, the correctional officers will attend classes on the history and philosophy of corrections and civil liberties, treatment programs, basic law and legal procedures, the personal search and use of restraints, human behavior, drugs, report writing, self defense and the use of the baton and riot control, firearms and the use of gas.

The new officers will also participate in two days of on-the-job training. One day will be spent at the Delaware Correctional Center and the other at the Sussex Correctional Institution.

U.S. SENATE MAKES FLOOD CONTROL APPROPRIATION

The Senate today passed legislation that would allow $50,000 to be spent on surveying the need for flood control, waste water management, and additional water supply systems in the Christina River Basin of Delaware.

The money to initiate the study was included in the Public Works Appropriations bill at the request of Sen. J. Caleb Boggs (R., Del.). Boggs had earlier sponsored a resolution authorizing the study by the Army Corps of Engineers.

"This study will be important to every citizen of northern Delaware. It should lead to recommendations for improvements that will lessen the flood danger and enhance local water supplies," Boggs said.

Sussex to Get Sewer Grant

Sussex County has received a Federal grant to demonstrate new, innovative sewer construction methods at Bethany Beach, Sen. J. Caleb Boggs announced.

The grant for $769,000 was made by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency.

"I am delighted that the EPA has made this grant to Delaware," Boggs said. "This project will enable Delaware to show the nation what can be achieved—in lower costs and faster work—when building the sewer systems needed for effective water pollution control."

"This is another indication of Delaware's leadership in environmental enhancement."

The most innovative aspect of the project involves placing new sewer lines into the ground through a continuous operation. "Trenches won't be dug separately," Boggs explained. "Rather, a machine will plow the sewer line into the ground and cover it in a single operation."

Boggs estimated that this new technique should reduce construction costs by nearly 30 percent and cut 40 percent off the time needed to build a complete sewer system.

"Because a stretch of sewer can be laid and the land returned almost immediately to its former appearance, this project will have a minimum impact on the many vacationers who visit Bethany," Boggs added.

The demonstration sewer, approximately 16 inches in diameter and several miles in total length, will be built in that portion of the Bethany Beach area from Route 14 to the ocean.

The project concept was developed by officials of Sussex County, in conjunction with Edward H. Richardson Associates, a Newark consulting engineering firm.

Jim Beene Weds Charlene Vincent

Mrs. Charlene Vincent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Price, Sr., was married to Jim Beene, of Harrington, Saturday in Denton by the Rev. Martin C. Isaacs of the United Methodist Church. Beene's parents are deceased.

A reception followed in Farmington Fire Hall after which Mr. and Mrs. Beene went on a honeymoon to Nashville, Tenn.

The Beenes, both of whom are employed by General Foods, Dover, will live on Vernon Road.

L.F. Board To Meet July 11

The next regular meeting of the Lake Forest Board of Education will be held Tues., July 11, at 7:30 p.m. at the high school.

Coming Events

Weight Watchers meet every Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. at Harrington Senior Center. Must have 25 members present each week to hold class in Harrington. New members accepted weekly. Come and be counted.

The George Hill Family Reunion will be held Sunday, July 9 at Killen's Pond State Park.

"We in Delaware were relatively lucky since we did not suffer damages as severe as those in our neighboring States following the storm known as Agnes," Boggs explained. "While flooding brought disruption to several localized areas, it could have been far worse," Boggs added. "This study should assure the development of a program that will give the citizens of northern Delaware the best possible protection against damage from another Agnes."

Boggs also noted in a Senate speech that the bill also provides money for other important work to be undertaken in Delaware by the Corps of Engineers during the fiscal year that begins Saturday, July 1. For example, it appropriates $150,000 for continued planning and engineering design work on the construction of the Delaware Bay-Chesapeake Bay Waterway, which will extend from Lewes, to Cape Charles, Va. The planning on this project was initiated last year after adoption of an amendment offered by Boggs.

The bill provides another $150,000 for the final planning and engineering work on a project to improve beaches from Cape Henlopen to Fenwick Island, Del. These funds will complete the engineering stage of the project, with construction expected to begin next year, Boggs noted.

Other projects in the bill include: $9,750,000 for operation, maintenance, and construction along the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal, including new recreational facilities; $100,000 for jetty repair work at Indian River Inlet, south of Rehoboth; $50,000 for dredging at the mouth of Little River, Del., work that will once again make that river suitable for small-boat navigation; and $550,000 for dredging of Wilmington Harbor.

Pierre duPont Talks

We in Congress have just voted to spend nearly $13 billion more of your money. This time, it's for the Agriculture program. I guess by present standards, that's not a great deal, but it certainly buys a lot of soy beans. I've been a critic of many of the Agriculture programs since I came to Congress. The Department of Agriculture has almost as many employees as there are farm families in the country. And all too often, the small farmer with the real problems doesn't get the help he needs; it goes to the large corporate wheat and cotton farmers in the South and Midwest who farm tens of thousands of acres in a highly automated fashion.

Well, I believe that much of this criticism is justified. Our crop subsidy programs are expensive, and they do cost you and me our hard-earned tax dollars—nearly $5 billion of the 13. And much of this money goes to the wrong people. That's why I've continually supported legislation to limit payments to individual farmers to $20,000 per year. So far we have not been successful, but we have succeeded in limiting the payments to $55,000 per farmer. The Agriculture Department is trying to make sure this regulation is effective. The $55,000 limitation is the first step in trying to make sure that those farmers who really need the help, get it.

Outten Receives Gates Award

A special award was presented recently to William Robert Outten, who is employed at Fry's American. The award, a plaque bearing two rare silver dollars, two Kennedy half-dollars and a specially minted commemorative coin set in an automotive engine sign, was presented for exceptional customer service by a representative of The Gates Rubber Co.

The boy was taken to Millford Memorial Hospital, then transferred to the Wilmington hospital.

City to Receive More Than $32,679 For Municipal Aid

Harrington is slated to receive $32,679.10 from the state Department of Highways & Transportation for construction and maintenance of its 10.53 miles of city streets in 1972, according to the Municipal Street Aid distribution list released last Thursday. The participating towns and cities, 54 in number, will receive a total of $2 million, the maximum allowed by the Delaware Code, in municipal street aid for the fiscal year ending June 30.

The money, which comes from the proceeds of the state motor fuel tax, was provided for by the General Assembly in 1957.

The annual competition by the highway department is determined by a formula of 40 per cent distribution according to population of each municipality and 60 per cent according to the mileage of useable streets not maintained by the state in each incorporated town.

For 1972, the rate was $3.98 per capita and $2193.94 per mile.

The allocations to other area towns is as follows:

- Bridgeville, $21,738.48.
- Camden, $13,657
- Ellendale, $9639
- Farmington, $894
- Frederica, $8034
- Greenwood, $11,070
- Houston, $5451
- Millford, $75,947
- Viola, $2082
- Woodside, $1413
- Wyoming, $12,628.

Harrington Boy Serious After Mishap

A 12-year-old Harrington boy was in serious condition in Delaware Division, Wilmington, last Thursday night after falling from his minibike and striking his head on a cement block the same afternoon.

State police at Bridgeville said Lee T. Henry of 817 Calvin St., was riding his minibike alongside the railroad tracks 2 miles south of Felton.

He apparently tried to cross a stream using the railroad crossing bridge when the mishap occurred. Police said the boy and his bike fell about 11 feet onto a bank, where the youth struck his head.

"Leaks" In Spending

"Leaks" in spending can cause serious family financial problems. A "leak" is money you've spent without knowing where it went or without receiving much satisfaction from it, according to Miss Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware. Stopping the "leaks" in your spending could mean you and your family can have more of the things you want and need.

First, of course, you'll need to recognize where the "leaks" are. They may begin with a lack of planning. Try to keep records and learn from them. Records can help you become aware of any over-spending or poor buying habits.

A "leak" may occur if you don't understand your own weaknesses, so that you're not able to strengthen yourself against urges to spend. Maybe you're a compulsive spender just as some people are compulsive smokers or drinkers, says Miss Morris. "And, of course, everyone has a weakness for some type of spending. If you can't resist pretty shoes, don't go to the shoe store just to look unless you want a budget leak."

Or, maybe you don't want others to know you can't afford to spend a lot of money. You're reluctant to say, "We just can't afford that. Or you deprive yourself when your child cries, "Why can't I have it? I'm the only one who doesn't." Don't be ashamed of your spending limitations; accept the money you have to spend as one of the realities of life. Take pride in your ability to stretch your money as far as possible toward buying the kind of life you want.

"Leaks" may occur through poor buymanship; choosing goods and services today is more complicated than ever. There's such a variety of products that have the same basic function. And, the more there is to choose from, the harder it is to decide what is best for your particular use.

Understand and know the product you're considering. If you don't ask questions and get adequate information, you can easily overspend. A high price tag doesn't necessarily mean the highest quality. Of course, check prices between stores.

Don't buy on impulse. Use a list and think before you buy. Make it a rule to sleep on a major purchase; the offer should be as good the next day. Be aware of your mood when you shop—when you're tired or hungry, you're influenced more easily.

Don't buy items with features you won't use. Miss Morris warns. For example, if

NOW & THEN

If these minibikes continue to use the right-of-way of the Penn Central, in the station area, some one is going to get hurt and the financially depressed railroad is going to have a lawsuit.

The Lake Forest School District, which is suing for $200,000 because of a defective roof, might get sued itself if go carts continue to use the blacktop lot at W.T. Chipman, Jr. School. If they skid into the brick building, that will be all she wrote.

We ate some buds of the tiger lily Saturday evening and found them delicious. Boil two minutes, serve with butter, salt and pepper and they are better, I think, than the average canned, string-beans. I am drying blossoms now to use as a garnish on meats, and in stews. I tried some Saturday night but could not detect any flavor, but that could be because I smoke too much.

The City Council did not hold its regular meeting Monday night but it is scheduled for tonight.

City Manager Jack Harrington and Charles Greenhaugh have metal frames over their tomatoes. This is a feature the extension department of the University of Delaware has been advocating the past two years.

The extension department has also been advocating the use of mulches in gardens. This practice, the department recommends, conserves moisture and eliminates tilling. Our rear lot was cut recently and has a pile of grass clippings. This residue was one of the mulches recommended. We will have to put it on the garden. Mr. and Mrs. Willard Breeding, expert gardeners, have been using pine needles as a mulch.

It is likely the primaries will be moved up from September to Aug. 19. The General Assembly has passed the bill and the governor is sure to sign it. That means the tempo of politicking will increase.

The City will receive some $32,000 in municipal aid this year, a few thousand less than it received last year. The sum is determined by the miles of city-maintained streets and the population. We believe the reduced sum is because of reduced population here.

Miss Pascale Philippot Entertains French Relatives

Sergeant and Mrs. Robert Guyton of Vernon Road are entertaining relatives from Laon, France. Mrs. Guyton's mother, Mrs. Serafina Naumowicz and niece, Miss Pascale Philippot are the guests.

Miss Philippot, a pretty, 15-year-old mademoiselle is the daughter of Laon's postmaster and will start in the French equivalent of America's junior class (grade 11) in the fall.

Actually, Miss Philippot started school at age 3, has studied English for three years, piano for six years and ballet for eight years. She attended Lake Forest High School for the last few days of the school year, but had trouble understanding what was said in some of the classes, presumably because of the slang used and the speed of the conversations.

Pascale enjoyed the math, French and German classes. She has also studied German at home. Miss Philippot is having a good time here and is expecting to bid a tearful farewell to her American cousins around the middle of July.

Mrs. Naumowicz visited America in 1965 and managed to travel by plane from France to New York to Mississippi without knowing a word of English.

Her father and brother left Poland in 1912 and came to the United States. World War I prevented the female member of the family from coming here. Another brother arrived here later. The father returned to Europe in 1928, but the boys settled in the Chicago area.

In 1926, Mrs. Naumowicz and her husband moved to France. Life in Poland, even then, was under the threat of Russian domination. Mrs. Guyton was born in France and met her husband there. She and her husband speak several languages.

Mrs. Naumowicz, although Polish-born, states proudly, "Now, I am French!" She has just returned from a visit with nieces, nephews and a sister-in-law in Chicago.

Mrs. Tommie W. McPherson

Mrs. Bonnie L. McPherson, 27, of Farmington, died Saturday at Kent General Hospital Dover, after a short illness. She was employed by the motor vehicle department in Dover the past seven years. She was stricken while at work Mon., June 26, and was rushed to Kent General Hospital.

Mrs. McPherson was a member of the Farmington United Methodist Church and was treasurer of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Farmington Volunteer Fire Company. She was born in Harrington.

Survivors include her husband, Tommie W.; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Vincent of Farmington; two sisters, Mrs. Sandra Wood of McLean, Va., and Mrs. Ellen Dale of Farmington; and two brothers, Albert L. Vincent and Ronald C. Vincent, both of Farmington.

Services were held Tuesday afternoon in the Berry Funeral Home in Felton. Interment was in the Hollywood Cemetery in Harrington.

TO EXTEND SCHOOL CLASSES TO A FULL YEARS IS PRACTICAL

The passage, by the General Assembly, of Senate Bill 582 with House Amendment 1, is an action which pleases us immensely.

The measure, according to Rep. George Robert Quillen, of Harrington, will permit schools to operate on a quarterly basis, with the pupil to select the quarters he or she wishes to attend.

Quillen says extension of school classes would be beneficial in that it would not put all of the graduating labor on the market at one time. He added that, historically, the length of the school year was determined by the demands of farm labor.

We recall that in the South school was held in the summer so the children could pick cotton in the fall.

Continuing school in the summer would permit a more pragmatic use of the school plant. An objection to summer school, once upon a time, was it cost more to provide air conditioning in the summer than heat in the winter. However, as Rep. Quillen explains, the new schools have air conditioning.

Another advantage of summer school is that it might permit pupils to make up for courses they had failed to pass. A parent told me her son was not graduated this year because he failed in history. She says he is returning to school to take another crack at it. Inclusion of summer school should be of advantage here.

WHAT NEXT?

The U.S. Supreme Court has outlawed capital punishment as "cruel and inhuman punishment" and cites the Eighth Amendment. The time will not be far distant when life sentences will be appealed to the court on the same grounds.

If the court declares these sentences unconstitutional, appeals then will be made for shorter sentences.

Meanwhile, someone reminded us recently, who is taking a stand for the victims? For example, the 4-year-old Los Angeles girl, playing on her lawn, who was killed by a shotgun blast from an automobile, occupied by four youths who stopped their vehicle in front of the lawn. They were arrested but what will be done?

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

PRECIOUS WEALTH

You are richer today than you were yesterday—if you have laughed often, given something, forgiven more, made a new friend today, or made stepping-stones of stumbling-blocks; if you have thought more in terms of "thysself" than of "myself," or if you have been cheerful even if you were weary. You are richer tonight than you were this morning . . . if you have taken time to trace the handiwork of your Maker in the common-place things of life, or if you have learned to count out the things that really don't count, or if you have been a little blinder to the faults of a friend, or foe, you are richer if a little child has smiled at you, and a stray dog has licked your hand, or if you have looked for the best in others, and have given others the best in you.

IT ALL DEPENDS ON HOW YOU THINK

If you think you are beaten — you are.
 If you think you dare not — you don't.
 If you'd like to win but think you can't
 It's almost certain you won't.

If you think you will lose, you've lost,
 For out in the world you'll find Success begins with a fellow's will
 It's all in the state of your mind.

If you think you're outclassed, you are,
 You've got to think high to rise,
 You've got to be sure of yourself before
 You can ever win a prize.

Life's battles don't always go
 To the stronger or faster man,
 But sooner or later the one who wins
 Is the one who thinks he can.

A male quartet from Mount Carmel High School and Kentucky Mountain Bible Institute, Jackson, Ky., with their president, Dr. Karl S. Paule, will be at the Greenwood Wesleyan Church, Addix St., Friday, July 14, at 7:30 p.m. for a special service.

Local Big Leaguers Lose First Game Monday

Underdog Georgetown finally put it altogether Monday, tumbling Harrington from the 16-18 Big League baseball unbeaten ranks with a 5-2 decision.

The triumph was only the second in six starts for Georgetown. Harrington suffered its initial setback in six outings and saw its American Division lead over challenging Laurel reduced to half a game.

Milford climbed to within 1½ games of the American frontrunner with a 7-3 romp over Woodbridge in Monday's other action.

Sunday play had seen all-winning Dover extend its shutout string with a 10-0 thumping of Smyrna-Clayton. Suburban remained hot on the Dover heels in the National Division race with a 13-1 clobbering of Camden-Wyoming, and Laurel continued to surprise with a 3-2 squeaker over Georgetown.

Righthander Jeff Pettyjohn proved the stopper for Georgetown against Harrington. He handcuffed the leaders with just four hits and struck out 13. He was backed by a nine-hit Georgetown attack that featured two home runs by outfielder Curtis Brock.

Brock now counts four home runs in successive times at bat in his last two games, during which he's also rapped a double.

Norm Short belted a solo homer in defeat for Harrington as Bob Newnom took the mound loss.

BRANDYWINE TO START PACING SERIES FRIDAY

Something new has been added to Brandywine Raceway's outstanding 100-night harness program and the first segment of the added attraction comes up tomorrow night.

Brandywine will introduce the Lord De La Warr pacing series, for 3-year-olds which were nonwinners of $30,000 in 1971. The purse for the four-race series is estimated at $37,000.

Three divisions, to be held on successive Fridays, July 7, 14 and 21, are valued at $7500 each, with the championship event listed for Fri., July 28 with a purse of $15,000.

Fully 97 top flight pacers have been entered in the series, and Race Secretary Bruce Munn has announced a separate filly division to be held each week if there are enough entries.

There is certainly enough talent for colt and filly divisions with such female pacers as Porcupine and Hail to Bret nominated for the Brandywine series.

Billy has the largest entry list, nine eligible pacers, including Miracle Tip, a bay colt who two years ago was the highest priced yearling at the sales when he was bought for $125,000. Other candidates include Cory, Farmstead Byrd, Jarobe Byrd, Racing Sailor, Steady Jet, Boehm's Bret, Holly By Golly and Porcupine.

A trio of Dancers have a number of top entries eligible. Stan Dancer has top flight Moonland Rainbow, Sulta Rainbow and Captain Hook ready. Harold Dancer could race Butler's Prince, Butler's Queen and Vaunted Yankee. Vernon Dancer's proteges include Ben Hanover, Farm Bill, Farm Raker, Honest Waverly, Lyss Revonah and Liberty Bell.

A top candidate for Lord De La Warr honors is Clarence Martin's Beau Rivage who earlier this was clocked in 1:59 3/5 at Liberty Bell.

Charlie Fitzpatrick's Monseigneur, John Simpson's Hilarions Way and Del Miller's Tarport Max are also eligible.

Joe O'Brien, making a bid for driving honors, has four nominees, including Armbr Mimi, while Jim Larente will probably go forward with Bret's Knight.

Asbury Defeats Baptist 9-7

Asbury defeated Baptist 9-7 Tuesday evening. Baptist tied the score at the bottom of the 5th with five runs. In the top of the 7th Donnie Garvey lead off with a single, Charlie Brown doubled. H. Brode sacrificed Donnie home. B. Rash singled. C. Brown home for the final run. H. Brown had 2 hits knocking in 4 RBIs. B. Rash 3 hits, 2 RBIs. C. Brown 2 hits, J. Redden 2 hits, Nick Morris 3 hits. Richie Dennis got 4 hits in 4 times at bat for the Baptists and scored 2 runs. Losing pitcher was Clark Lilly, with Donald McKnatt tossing his second victory in two days.

Big Leaguers Beat Milford, Laurel

Last week's results

Earl Everline's Harrington Big League entry edged Milford 5-4 and blanked Laurel 7-0 to remain unbeaten in five American League starts.

Harrington led Milford 2-1, going into the final frame, but saw the visitors get three runs. The locals eked out the victory on hits by Norm Short, Jim Dill, a walk to Jerry Steerman and sloppy work afield by Milford.

Short, Gary Harrington and Mickey Chaffinch had two hits each for Harrington. Dave Newnom was the winning moundsman.

At Laurel, Jim Dill doled out three hits in pitching the shutout. Mike Trotta's three-run homer was the big Harrington blow. Lawrence Sorden drove in a pair of runs to put the icing on the cake.

Simple Precautions For Your Safety and Pleasure

SWIMMING POOL

Radios, portable TV sets, lamps and electrical devices should not be used at poolside. There is too much danger of splashing, or knocking them into the water, causing short circuits, serious shocks, or worse.

WATERFRONT

When using electric tools, stay on dry ground or a dry surface, and be sure you have a 3-wire "grounding" power cord. Then you are protected in case a faulty tool "leaks" electricity.

TENT TRAILER

If temporary wiring is used, be sure it is weatherproof, 3-wire cord with adequate "grounding" protection for any appliances used. Be sure the "grounding" connection is properly attached at each trailer trip stopover.

TRAVEL TRAILER - small type

Don't tamper with trailer wiring. Trouble begins when a makeshift 2-wire cord is substituted for the 3-wire "grounding" power supply (120 volt). Then, should any electric device become faulty, and "leak" electricity, all exposed metal parts of the trailer could become energized. A serious shock hazard. Don't tamper with trailer wiring.

OUTDOOR LIVING

Use extension cords, outlets and appliances of the 3-wire "grounding" type. Outdoor power cord is rugged with heavier gauge wire, thicker outer layer of waterproof insulation to protect against moisture.

When you're in wet bathing suit, stay away from electric appliances, including refrigerator. Disconnect electric grills, broilers, etc., before washing.

Electricity is one of nature's wonders.

Treat it with caution and respect and it will serve you well.

"Leaks" (Continued from Page 1) you're buying a range, consider its basic purpose is cooking—boiling, frying, baking, broiling. Almost any stripped, quality-built range will do these jobs adequately.

But, you could also buy a range that will tell the time of day, start and stop cooking when you aren't there, allow you to bake at two temperatures or bake and broil at the same time, warn when foods have cooked enough, clean the oven and provide you with a supply of hot water.

The difference in the price is sizable. Be certain you will use all those extra features before you buy them.

You can anticipate family needs and save money. Of course, you can't predict emergencies, but some things happen with regularity—Christmas, birthdays, linens that need to be replaced, winter coats bought, etc. Plan ahead for these regular needs and buy when the price is right.

The challenge is finding the "leaks" in your spending and understanding what you do to cause them. Direct your dollars where you want them to go.

An early morning fire did $25,000 damage in Milford's business Saturday morning. Flames were confined to a kitchen, office and two storage areas in an extension of an apartment building next to the Hotel Norman on Walnut Street. Smoke and water caused extensive damage to a bar in the main building. Lone victim was a parrot.

Harrington Grange met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rawling Monday night. The members pitched horse shoes and watched the "telly."

T. Ralph Snowberger, 45, a former teacher of agriculture at Milford High School, was found dead of a self-inflicted shotgun wound at his home in Milford Monday morning.

Dewitt Lewis and Miss Anna Lewis, both of Wilmington, spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lewis.

Miss Roxanna Taylor, David King and Dr. and Mrs. William McCoy of Dover, spent Wednesday evening at Longwood Gardens near Kennett Square, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Spicer and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Porter spent Sunday at Lewes.

The Misses Barbara Masten and Betsy Rogers, of Ellicott City, Md., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pitlick. Miss Christine Powell, of Montclair, N. J., spent the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Powell.

Miss Elizabeth Ann Greenly was a weekend guest of Miss Barbara Johnson at Rehoboth.

Scab Hits Flowering Crab Apples

Flowering crab apples are one of Delaware's most beautiful and popular small ornamentals. Unfortunately, most of these trees are subject to one or more serious diseases. One of the most serious diseases attacking crab apples this year has been scab, according to Dr. Robert Carroll, extension plant pathologist at the University of Delaware. He says weather conditions have been ideal for the fungus causing the disease and severe infections occurring in the state.

Scab first appears as dull, smoky spots on leaves that soon change to olive-green. The spots may also occur on the fruit and flower parts. Diseased leaves often look distorted and the spots eventually turn a dark brown to black. The entire tree takes on a dull, lifeless appearance.

Although severely infected leaves will drop, most flowering crab apples will not die from scab. However, repeated defoliation will weaken the trees and make them more susceptible to other disease-causing organisms and insects.

To control scab Carroll recommends destroying fallen leaves to reduce the fungus spores that cause the initial infection. Fungicides (captan, dodine and benomyl) are available to help control the disease. For best results, the first application should be started in early spring at bud break. However, spraying when new growth appears and repeating twice at approximately 10-day intervals should also help.

Mimosa trees are quite plentiful and seem to be very popular in Delaware. However, Mimosa trees, sometimes commonly called "the silk tree," have a very severe disease problem that kills many of the trees, usually in the age range of six to ten years old. This is Mimosa wilt, which is caused by fatal disease "fusarium."

This disease is not only in the soil, but can be transmitted through the seed, thereby automatically transferring this organism to the young seedlings that sprout from the seed of the existing trees.

The Agricultural Research Service, as well as universities is working to develop resistant varieties to the wilt disease. There has been some progress made, and it appears that in three or four years resistant varieties will be available to the home owner. Until then, though, the planting of Mimosa trees is discouraged because of the severe disease problem we presently have. It is real heartbreaking to have planted a tree eight or ten years ago and now when it is just getting a useful size to have it killed by this disease.

Homeowners with fruit trees will have to keep a seven to ten day spray schedule on their fruit trees during this wet weather to deter diseases. This is very important during wet, humid weather and even

It Seems To Me

It's a time of sleeve choices in the fashion picture. Puffed, Dolman, bell or flare? Set-in or kimono? Long sleeves or sleeveless? The wide choice is a reaction from years of set-in sleeves and sleeveless styles. Fashion never stays the same for long, and seems to be turning her imagination to sleeves.

If you haven't worn a version such as the Dolman or the bell sleeve, think twice before rushing to make them. They can do strange things to your figure. If you can find a similar ready-to-wear style, try it on to get an idea of how becoming it is to you.

The Dolman is cut in one with the bodice and may have considerable drape under the arm. This makes some women appear top heavy and shorter. This style looks better on the tall thin woman with a dramatic flair for clothes. The shorter woman will look better with a version that fits higher under the arm, or a different sleeve style.

The puffed sleeve adds width at the shoulder line. This version looks best in a fabric with some slight body which further creates an illusion of width.

The raglan sleeve has a seam from underarm to neckline. This line tends to emphasize a large bustline, and emphasize any tendency to round sloping or narrow shoulders. The line is more apparent in a plain fabric than in a print. The slant or angle of the seamline will affect its becomingness also.

The long sleeve has been popular for several seasons, even for summer wear. But the comfort of the sleeveless style indicates that women are not about to give it up. If your arms are firm and slender, the sleeveless version is an attractive choice.

If long sleeves are quite full, this fullness hits the body at the hip line when the arms are held straight down at the sides. This extra fabric at that point creates an illusion of width. Some of us don't need that.

The short cape sleeve and the bell sleeve have width which ends at bust line. Do you want to create an optical illusion at this part of the figure?

As sleeve styles vary, fabric choice becomes important. The large Dolman sleeve requires a soft, drapable fabric. Puffed and bell sleeves look best in a fairly light weight fabric with some body. The cape sleeve must drape softly but not hang limp.

Variety in sleeve styles adds another problem to style and fabric choice. Maybe this is the reason why we continue to see the largest number of styles with set-in sleeve or in a sleeveless version. They are more becoming to most of us.

The Garden-You Can't Take It With You

All set for sun and fun on your vacation? You can't take your garden with you so take care of it before you go. Before vacation can save hours. Afterward, it is obviously much easier to remove small weeds now, than larger, well established ones later, points out Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

Apply a good mulching material after weeding, Stevens suggests. A layer of mulch two inches deep will prevent most weed growth, keep the soil cooler and conserve water. Commonly used mulching materials include grass clippings, pine bark, peat moss, licorice root, old hay and straw.

Aesthetically speaking, your weed-free garden will look better to your neighbors than one which has become overgrown with weeds. If the weather turns dry in your absence, a weed-free garden will not lose as much precious water. And rapidly developing weeds will not be able to shade desirable garden plants.

House plants should also be given a little special care before you leave. However, if you plan to be gone for more than two weeks, ask a friend or neighbor to water plants for you.

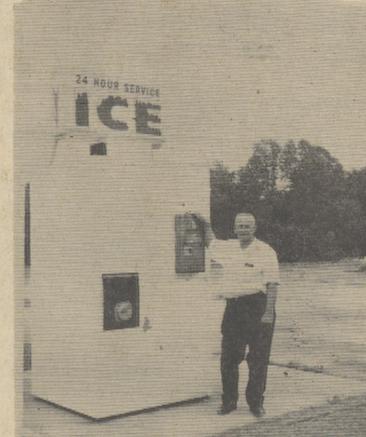

Stevens suggests soaking house plants thoroughly the night before you leave and placing them in plastic bags just before departing. Tuck the bag under the pots so the plants are completely covered. Never put plastic-covered plants in the sun, Stevens warns; they would bake to death. Place them away from sun where they have plenty of light. He also cautions against leaving plants soaking in a few inches of water because they may die.

Don't be alarmed if there are a few yellow leaves on your plastic-covered plants when you return. With normal care, they will soon recover.

Kindness Is Leaving 'Orphan' Wildlife Alone

Usually the kindest thing that can be done for wildlife "orphans" is to leave them alone, advises a U. S. Department of Interior biologist stationed at the University of Delaware.

John T. Linehan believes adopting a wildlife orphan could be one of the most unkind things one can do for young song birds, fawns, baby rabbits or almost any other young wildlife species.

The first thing most persons think when they find the young animal by itself is the mother has been killed and an "orphan" has been left. They probably get this idea from the movies. But Linehan says that when a young animal is found alone, chances are its mother is nearby and will tend to her young after humans leave.

Picking up wildlife is actually illegal since all wildlife is considered property of the state.

Also, experience doesn't bear out the idea wildlife parents won't care for young "tainted" by the scent of humans. However, do not encourage children to handle or play with young wildlife. It will undoubtedly frighten and upset the young animals.

If your children bring in a young animal, quickly take it back to the spot where it was found and release it, Linehan advises. Wild pets look cute, cuddly and appealing, but you face many problems if you try to rear them.

They grow up. As adults, many become rather unmanageable, especially during the breeding season.

In many cases, the animals become sick and die because of improper care and other needs of which we know very little. After being fed and cared for by someone, pets released into the wild often die because they cannot fend for themselves.

Plant in a Trench For Early Vegetables

Harvest sweet corn and tomatoes ten days to two weeks ahead of season.

They're doing just that in a research plot at the University of Delaware's Substation in Georgetown, according to Robert Stevens, extension horticulturist. The vegetables were planted March 28—several weeks ahead of the normal schedule—in a special plastic covered trench.

With system, plants can go in the ground as soon as the soil temperature warms up.

SHOP AND SWAP IN THE WANT ADS

Plants are protected even if air temperatures dip down to 25 degrees provided it doesn't stay that cold for too long. This spring, corn and tomatoes even survived an early April sleet storm.

On a sunny, breezy spring day, the temperature under plastic is as much as 30 degrees warmer than the open air. On a cloudy, still day, the differences may only be four to six degrees.

The trenches used in the experiment were eight inches deep with one side ridged higher than the other. They run east to west so the plastic catches more sunlight. When the continuous strip of plastic is laid down, water will drain off the slope, Stevens explains. Once the plants grow up to the plastic, it is rolled back.

He used a special plow to make the unevenly ridged trenches; only two of these plows have ever been manufactured. However, home owners could easily dig the trenches by hand and other plows could be adapted by growers working on a small scale.

The sloped plastic covering didn't work perfectly, Stevens admits. Some water collected. It may be necessary to poke a few holes in the plastic or sweep the water off by hand. Of course, any holes also let in cold air which could partially defeat the whole purpose of the plastic.

This trenching method only affects the time of harvest. It makes no difference in the size or quality of the vegetables. There could be more diseases and insects under the plastic if they are already on a few minutes in the garden. Laying down the plastic and digging the trenches is too expensive for large-scale commercial growers, Stevens believes. However, the technique should be valuable for home gardeners and for farmers who grow for the local fresh market or roadstands.

Delaware Food Market Report

As the waters subside and the flood damage is tallied, fresh fruits and vegetables will be on the list. Already the Secretary of Agriculture in New Jersey has said the damage to crops is outstanding in his state. This will probably be the case for many of the flood ravished states. What this will likely mean is what not have the abundance of fresh fruits and vegetables produced locally and thus they will have to be shipped in. When it is all added together it simply means higher prices.

As we approach the half way mark in 1972 our grocery stores remain stacked high with top quality food from which we may choose. Though prices continue to edge up a bit, food still remains a bargain when compared with yesterday year. Twenty years ago we were paying 60 cents a pound for fryers, and 70 cents a dozen for grade A large eggs. The list of food goes on and on. Do you remember? And, salaries were much smaller.

As you shop during July you will continue to find poultry one of the lowest cost proteins available. Turkey will be a common feature in markets also. Production this year will be up about 5 percent over 1971. Cold storage holdings are up slightly too. Marketings of broilers for July are expected to be 3 to 5 percent larger than last year and it typically reaches a peak in the summer. Prices also tend to rise because of strong demand. Eggs, too, will remain our inexpensive choice during the month although supplies will be down somewhat.

As far as red meats go, the movement of hogs to market will reach its yearly low in July. Prices at retail will reach their high at this time too; however, due to Phase II prices may not increase as much as usual. Cattle marketing will remain near present levels but don't be surprised to see prices climb some due to demand. Veal and lamb marketing will remain below the level of the past few years and prices are and will be high.

July is another month of heavy receipts of fishery products with ample supplies of fin fish and shellfish. Look for fair-to-good buys on blue fish, cod, flounder, halibut, mackerel, porgies, sea bass, and whiting. Most shellfish will be abundant in July with shrimp a common feature. Though supplies are good, fish and shellfish are more expensive than a year ago.

Supplies of dairy products will remain at a high level during July. Wholesale prices for a number of manufactured dairy products, such as nonfat dry milk, cheese and butter will be at or near their seasonal lows.

The U. S. Dept. of Agriculture lists each month those foods that are expected to be in heavy supply and reasonable in cost. The July list includes turkey, plums, watermelons and fresh vegetables.

4-H Reddy's Food Contest

4-H'ers will compete for cooking awards in the annual Reddy's Food contest Wednesday at the Delaware State Fairgrounds here. Delmarva Power and an electric co-op sponsor the contest. A 4-H state electric show will be held at the same time and place.

The contest is divided into four cooking areas—bread, desserts, main dishes and small appliances.

Each area has three age-group divisions—senior, 14 and older; junior for those 11-13 years old, and petite for ages 9-10.

Contestants in the state contest have already been named winners in their county. They are judged on the adequacy of their menu, appearance of their table setting and the quality of the food they prepare. Twelve state winners will receive U. S. savings bonds.

The Reddy's food program is jointly sponsored by the University of Delaware co-operative extension service. The contest is designed to help club members improve their skills in food preparation and to help develop wholesome attitudes, character and personality traits thru competition.

Anyone interested in the tour may obtain more information and an itinerary brochure by seeing Dr. Hesselstine, Room 026, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, 19711; telephone 738-2523.
