

Burriss Foods Slated To Locate Here

It has been announced by Gov. Russell W. Peterson the state will provide financing of $2 million to Burriss Foods, Inc. The firm plans to construct a 37,000 square foot cold storage and distribution facility on a 16-acre site in Harrington.

Burriss Foods is a diversified food distribution operation which has operated with headquarters at 5th and McColey Sts., in Milford more than 30 years. The new facility will enable the company to serve its customers better, which include major food chains, institutions and commercial food retailers.

Construction on the facility is expected to begin in the very near future. The bonds to be sold for the project are industrial revenue bonds and do not involve the state's full faith and credit. The term of the bond issue is 20 years.

Robert L. Halbrot, Secretary of the Community Affairs and Economic Development, said "Burriss Foods plans to hire 15 additional employees initially and anticipates a total of 45 new job opportunities from this project. The facility will be the most modern cold storage and distribution operation on the Delmarva Peninsula."

Bob Burriss, vice president and general manager of Burriss, said earlier this week the new facility will not immediately affect most of the Milford operations.

However, he indicated the company had encountered serious stumbling blocks to further expansion in Milford.

High city electricity costs with no industrial rates, lack of sufficient water pressure, lack of desirable commercially zoned property, and lack of adequate railroad access were among the major problems Burriss cited.

In addition, Harrington is actively recruiting industry and is anxious to have the food storage and distribution facility, he said.

It is economically impractical to operate with split facilities for the diversified food operation, he added, and any future growth and development will be at the new location.

KENT PROPERTY SURVEY STARTS IN MISPELLION

A Wisconsin mapping concern started work in Mispillion Hundred Tuesday under the auspices of the Kent Board of Assessment. The area efforts are part of a countywide project.

Ruhe-Laird Associates, of Appleton, after an aerial survey of the county, has two fieldmen, John Manki and Larry Ellenbecker, here.

According to "Rusty" Baynard, secretary of the assessment board, the next most important work is for fieldmen to call on residents to determine ownership and amount of land and, possibly, from whom the occupant purchased it, and the general outline of the property.

The contract stipulates the work in Mispillion Hundred will be the first in the county and it will be completed and accepted before going to other hundreds. The county work, incidentally, is scheduled for completion May 31.

Baynard added the interviewers would carry identification cards from the assessment board and the mapping firm.

The purpose of the survey, continued Baynard, is to make complete identification of each piece of property so the owner can be properly taxed.

LAKE FOREST GETS NEW MUSIC PROGRAM

Lake Forest South Elementary School will soon become the center for the perceptual curriculum which is a music program of discovery, research, experimentation, and performance.

Donald L. Bansbach, innovator of the curriculum, has accepted a position as music teacher at the Harrington school where he plans to continue his research and development in music education.

According to Bansbach the Perceptual Curriculum deals with the "world of sound." Students not only study about musical sound as shaped by the composer, teacher, or fellow students, but also try their hand at the creative act of shaping sound through improvisation and composition.

Another important factor in this program is the fact that students have an opportunity to find themselves in the world of sound. The studies make it possible for the youth to identify with music.

Greene said that when completed the project would be one of the world's largest Country Music operations, and would attract hundreds of thousands to the area each year.

City Gets Rest of Sewer Grants

The City of Harrington received the remainder of state and federal grants for construction of its sewage disposal plant and improvements to the sanitary sewer system.

City Manager Jack Harrington told the City Council last Thursday night $14,841 had been received from the federal government and $4000 from the state government.

The project cost approximately $685,000, all of which the federal Water Pollution Control Administration paid approximately one-third. The state Water and Air Resources Commission, as it was called in 1968 when the project was started, granted

In other business, a salary of $50 per month was allowed to Alderman Anna Rose Hampton. She will derive this sum for compensation for hearing traffic offenses, fines and costs of which will go to the City. She will also receive the costs of civil cases. The salary move was made by the Council after a General Assembly bill stipulated aldermen must be paid one. Furthermore, the legislation demanded aldermen send notices of traffic offenses to the motor vehicle division of the State Highway Department.

Mrs. Hampton will be paid monthly and the payment system will be on trial three months.

The council also, in business pertaining to the alderman's court, established fees for the serving of subpoenas. This chore police will do in off time, in plain clothes and in their personal cars. Payment called for $2 per call in the city, and, for out-of-town calls, the same amount plus 10c per mile for the use of their cars. Many subpoenas have been issued recently to persons charged with not paying their bills to the city.

On police business, it was revealed Patrolman John Smith, a full-time employe, had resigned on doctor's orders.

The Council employed a part-time patrolman, Wayne Wheeler, who will work when not on his regular job with the communications department of the State Police.

In other business, the Council established the following rates for issuance of building permits:

$1 per $1000 on the first $5000; 50c per $1000 on the second $5000, and 25c per $1000 on that portion over $10,000.

Rejected request of Dudley Willis, the city's consulting engineer, on making a park, for five years, on land Willis owns on East Street.

Agreed to get estimate on improving Ward Street.

Served notice that, where sewer and water are available, property owners must hook up by the end of this month. The City also served this notice some time ago but has taken the unusually frequent rains into consideration.

Trash will be picked up Monday; garbage on Thursday and Friday.

KENT COUNTY CURRENTS

by JOSHUA M. TWILLEY
Levy Court President

During the last two weeks I have been on County business in Washington and Philadelphia.

The Washington trip was the annual meeting of county elected officials throughout the United States, and the main topic at the convention was revenue sharing.

Revenue sharing will have a significant impact on Kent County. I received a letter yesterday from Vice President Agnew telling me that Kent County will receive one million dollars in the first year if the bill is enacted. This one million dollars is not without strings, however. It must be used for priority projects such as pollution control, safety and crime. However, Kent County is operating its landfills at a heavy loss and the federal money can be used to offset this loss. This will ease one of our most pressing problems. Vice President Agnew and cabinet members told us they were sure the bill would pass the Senate this summer, and the funds will be retroactive to January 1, 1972. I have doubts about revenue sharing because I think there is a waste when taxes are collected locally and go to Washington before they are returned to the community where they were collected. However, my point of view is very unpopular among the great majority of cities and counties.

The second trip to Philadelphia was to review the emergency employment program. Kent County has an unemployment rate of 6.6% which is the highest rate of outside of Wilmington. I therefore regard this act as an important help in meeting the helped over 100 persons find jobs and receive training; many of them Vietnam veterans. The act has made it possible for us to start the emergency call board program and has been of help to the local school districts and to other community service agencies such as the Golden Opportunity Center. As a result of Kent County's high unemployment rate, I have pressed for an increase in the appropriation in Kent. In any event, it is clear we will receive an appropriation of at least $112,000 commencing Sept. 1, so none of the programs we have started will suffer and we can continue the good work this program has made possible for at least one more year.

One thing is clear, sources of revenue for the county are changing. The federal government regards counties as the most suitable level of government for efficient services to people. The key word mentioned again and again was that counties are large enough to cope, but small enough to care, and I think that is truly a description of Kent County.

Win Two In Dover Track

Reig Outten, Harry Benson and Don Bryant were double winners as Harrington athletes won nine events in the first of the Dover ALL-COMERS Age-Group Track meets.

Outten, a wiry, 9-year-old, bundle of energy, won the 9-and-under, 100 yard dash in 14 seconds flat, faster than the 11-year-olds ran that event. He also took the 440 in 1:24.1 and beat all the 10-11 group, but two, in that one.

Bryant competed in the 16-18 division and surprised favored rivals in the 100 yard dash, by speeding home first in 10.3, his best century ever. He ran a dead heat in the 220 with Dover's Kevin Boyle (25 seconds) then was second in the long jump with 18 feet.

Ken "Bullet" Cerkleskie, 10, ran in street shoes, but was second in the 100, then won a highly-competitive 440 in 1:22.8. Cerkleskie is another distance runner, who has placed high in national competitions.

Matt Burgess, 14, had the best throw in the discus. He spun the high school platter 91 feet, 6 and one half inches, in the 14-15 division. He had another throw a half inch shorter than his winning toss. Matt added almost four feet to his personal record. Larry Pratt, former state discus champion and ex-University of Delaware track coach states that Burgess' technique is very good and that all he needs is more size.

Jerry Thompson had his best discus throw yet, as he tossed 78 feet, 1 and one half inches, for fourth place. Kevin Wooter hurled the javelin 19 feet to get second place, then finished third in the 12 pound shot, behind Burgess' second place.

Next meet is Monday 6 p.m. at Dover High. Come one, come all. Bring your gear.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

WISDOM AT SIXTY

A wise old Senior Citizen of eighty 'tells his friends, as they reach sixty;

"You have spent sixty years in preparation for life; you will now begin to live. At sixty you have learned what is worthwhile. You have conquered the worst forms of foolishness, you have reached a balance period of life, knowing good from evil, what is precious, and what is worthless. Danger in past, the mind is peaceful, evil is forgiven, the affections are strong, envy is weak. It is the happy age."

— OH WHAT AN AGE —

To be alive at such an age
When every year is a lightning page
Turned in the world's great wonder-book
Where on the leading nations look;

When miracles are everywhere
And every inch of common air
Throbs a tremendous prophesy
Of greater marvels, yet to be.

SEASIDE SECURITY

A young lady was vacationing in Florida soaking up sunshine on the beach when a little boy in swim suit approached and asked:

"Do you believe in God?"

The girl nodded, considerably surprised.

"And do you always go to church on Sunday?"

"Yes I do," replied the girl, getting more interested.

"And read the Bible?"

"At every opportunity."

The little boy was noticeably relieved. "Well then," he said; "Will you hold my quarter while I go swimming?"

Senior Center
News

Long time no write. Not because nothing is going on! Things are buzzing every day of the week. At last this reality. There is program activity; lunches at the center as Monday thru Friday. This new schedule begins the six- years of the center's existence. It was July of 1967 that the Harrington New Century Club offered its facilities for use as a center to a small group of senior citizens. Mem-100.

On Fri. July 7, excitement was running high among the 25 persons present in the center. In the morning mail the executive director, Angele Johnston, had received a check for $1400. The generous gift came from Mrs. Anne Brennan, niece of Mrs. Christina Clymer, who sent it in memory of her mother who had passed away earlier this year, and to honor her "Aunt Chris" who not only is a member but who also serves faithfully on the board of directors. Ann's generosity and thoughtfulness makes it possible to retire in just three years, the indebtedness that exists now on the present Center building. Saying that everyone is grateful is an understatement.

Another change has been made. Ruth Nasser has been given the position of program director and is very busy getting together new activities to fill the five day week schedule. Making strands of beads, rings, and earrings, as well as ceramics and bowling are being taught.

A group of 25 members visited the Nanticoke Senior Center in Seaford this past Friday. A delicious luncheon had been prepared for the guests and musical selections were given by three children. All the songs were "the old" favorites. Many new ideas for projects were gathered during the visit. It is so helpful to see what other centers are accomplishing.

The director, Angele Johnston, has returned after spending two weeks with her daughter who underwent major surgery in June.

Catherine Errigo, the former assistant - director, has made two visits to the Center recently. It was good to see her again after her serious illness which forced her resignation.

Important dates coming up - July 14 is the covered dish luncheon at noon followed by bingo during the afternoon.

Come, enjoy the food, and visit with your friends. Have you forgotten the large attendance at these affairs? On July 18, Tuesday, at 1:30 p.m. members born in July will be honored at a birthday party. There will be goodly number at the table of honor - Ethel (Ma) Stubbs, July 8; Linda Layton, July 10; Olive Clark and Mary Keller, July 11; Leila Hopkins and Marian Schaffer, July 18; Ethel Holden and Mary Dolby, July 19; Bessie Ryan, July 23; Emo Tee July 24; Helen Collins, July 25; and Elsie Vinyard, July the signs of Cancer and Leo: "Pull out all stops. Old friends are important. Give a dinner party." So? Come join them.

Bowling? Can't forget that! Bill Anderson and Jim Konienky are in a class by themselves. When both were present, each has one high game score and one high average score. Jim in one game was credited with 4 spares and 2 strikes out of the ten frames. Resiam had high score and high average score twice; Emo Tee held second place for single game score twice also; Gladys Hill had one first; Betty Martin holds one second and one third place; Carroll Pearson holds one second and two third places. Weather, illness and travel have prevented all the bowlers from being at the lanes each time.

A distress signal is out at the Center. Needed: drivers to deliver meals one day a week, 2 days, or as many days as you can spare. Call the center (398-3908) if you have any time to spare and help.

LEVY COURT

Carey is a former justice of the peace, and prior to that he served on Levy Court. Whoever is the victor in this election will have to run for the office again since Forester's term expires this year.

The Levy Court term is four years and it carries an annual salary of $6,000.

The average monthly benefit for a retired worker goes up from $134 to $162; for a retired couple from $224 to about $271. A widowed mother with two children will receive an average benefit of about $386, up from $322. For a disabled worker with a wife and one or more children, the new average monthly payment will be about $354, up from $295.

The special monthly payments to certain individuals 72 and over, who are not insured for regular social security benefits, will also be increased 20 percent, from $48.30 to $58 for an individual and from $72.50 to $87 for a couple.

The new law also includes a provision for automatic annual increases in benefits as the cost of living rises, a recommendation made by the President in his 1969 message.

Under the new law the contribution and benefit base, the maximum amount of annual earnings counted for benefit and contribution purposes, will rise from the present $9000 a year to $10,800 in 1973 and to $12,000 in 1974.

Thereafter, this amount will be adjusted automatically to keep pace with rising wages. This means as earnings rise workers whose earnings are at or above the level of the level of the maximum earnings base will pay contributions on higher earnings, but they will also have those additional earnings counted toward the benefits that will be payable to them and their families in the future.

Editorial by J. Harvey Burgess--Some people, living a long distance from Philadelphia, attempting to tune in on the Republican National convention in Chicago the other night, got the Kid Galivan-Gil Turner prizefight instead--and never knew the difference. From the Rotarian Magazine we learn an excavation in an ancient land has revealed a woman's petrified thumb, more than three thousand years old--and further, says the article, if the excavation had been three inches deeper, in all probability they would have found a man under that thumb. We saw a brat of some eight or ten years put on a demonstration in a public place a few days ago. He couldn't get what he wanted, and he didn't get what he deserved, so he began to scream and throw things right and left. The simple mother blushed and explained that Reginald had a complex. What Reggie needed was not a complex--but a complexion--rosy all over.

This is not true for many other U.S. industries, he adds. "It's no secret that wage rates output per man hour, and in some cases, lower raw material regulation have enabled foreign manufacturers to deliver products of acceptable quality for lower prices than our industries can."

The result? "We buy more than we sell. One of our nation's worsening problems is this unfavorable balance of trade." However, without agriculture, the balance would be even worse. Legislation has been proposed to restrict imports of certain manufactured products into the U.S. At first glance, this would even the trade balance and increase sales for U.S. manufacturers.

But once the U.S. sets such quotas, foreign countries would undoubtedly retaliate and reduce their imports of food and feed grains from the U.S., McAllister points out. "In the long run, this legislation could result in the loss of our export market for farm products."

Exports Valuable To Farmers

Restricting imports into the U.S. to help the balance of trade would probably hurt the American farmer.

And that in turn, could worsen the already unfavorable balance of trade, says W.T. the University of Delaware.

Last year, $7.8 billion worth of farm products were exported by the U.S. farmers. That is equal to crops from one acre out of every four. Export

TOWN AND COUNTRY TOPICS
DAVE WOODWARD
 ASSISTANT KENT COUNTY AGENT

Will your vacation go to the dogs? We know pets cause problems when you decide to take a vacation.

One time my aunt took her pet cat on a vacation and the poor thing traveled in a bird cage. After eight hours in a cage you can imagine the condition of the poor feline, not to say anything of the disagreeable odor that lingered during that hot day.

Some will solve their pet problem with the help of a friendly neighbor. Others will take their pet to a boarding kennel. But a few will elect to take their pet along on the trip.

If you are one of the latter group, we have some suggestions for traveling with your pet. Before the trip, be sure the animal has a current rabies vaccination. It is also wise to check with a veterinarian about regulations regarding pets in the area where you plan to travel especially if you are leaving the United States.

Tomato Problems In The Home Garden

It's very discouraging to have a good tomato crop in sight then see the plants turn yellow, wilt and die just before the first ripe fruit is sampled.

There are a number of diseases that attack tomatoes, points out Dr. Robert Carroll, at the University of Delaware. Some of these diseases are caused by pathogens while others are related to non-pathogenic factors. In some cases there is little you can do this year, but knowing what the problem is may help you in the future, he says.

When the leaves of the plant turn yellow, several factors could be involved. It could be due to root injury from too much water, if the garden is flooded during thunder storms or is overwatered by a zealous gardener. Tomato roots can only tolerate a saturated soil condition for a few hours before they begin to die. Insufficient plant nutrients will also cause yellowing of the leaves.

A fungal disease known as early blight may also cause discoloration in the leaves. Early blight causes dark target-shaped or "bullseye" spots on the leaves; the disease gradually defoliates the plant from bottom to top, until only the top leaves remain green. Carroll says a weekly spray program now using maneb will help control the disease.

Several wilt diseases will also cause leaves to yellow. Fusarium wilt often appears as severe yellowing, wilting and death of plants. Dark streaks will also be found in the stem base and roots of infected plants. Vascular wilt appears as a gradual yellowing and browning of the lower leaves often with a V-shaped area at the ends of the leaflets. Planting resistant varieties is the best control for these two diseases, and planting in well-drained soil will also help. Soil fumigation is possible but often is not practical for the home gardener, says Carroll.

Root knot nematodes in the soil is another cause of wilt. These microscopic eel worms cause abnormal, clubbed or swollen roots. Crop rotation or growing plants in containers of clean soil may be considered. Chemical treatment of the soil may be necessary in severe cases.

Fruit rots of several types seem to show up in tomatoes each year. These can be controlled with the same material used to control early blight. But don't be confused with a rot that appears on the blossom end of the fruit. This is often due to water stress in the plant and should not be confused with a pathogenic disease, cautions Carroll. Fungicide sprays will not help, since this condition is due to a lack of moisture or inability of the plant to obtain sufficient water during periods of high temperatures. To avoid blossom-end rot, maintain even soil moisture, water during dry periods, mulch or cultivate shallowly during droughts.

Curling and abnormal growth on the leaves and excessive growth on the stems may be signs of herbicide damage. Weed killers applied near the plants or herbicides used on lawns bordering the garden may be the culprits.

Make sure the animal receives a distemper-hepatitis booster injection if it has not had one recently. Also, ask your veterinarian to check the animal for minor skin ailments, ear infections, or anything else that could become an acute problem on the trip.

Check motel and camping areas where you plan to stop. See if pets are permitted. If your pet is not accustomed to automobile travel, prepare it for the vacation jaunt with Sunday afternoon rides prior to the trip.

While on the trip, provide the animal with its regular food if possible. Don't forget the leash. When the animal is allowed out of the vehicle, be sure it is on leash. Include exercise and relief stops in your driving schedule.

If you leave your vehicle at any time with the animal shut in, be sure a window is open slightly. Where possible, park your car in a shaded area.

Here's an idea for watering your house plants while you are on vacation. We suggest cutting a strip of cloth about two inches wide and two feet long. Put one end in a pail of water elevated higher than the plant. Bury the other end of the strip in the soil around the plant.

This will water the plant for about a week. The water will slowly and gently seep down into the potted plant.

Last spring, one of the largest motorized trail herds in history moved North, but it was not like the trail drives we see on TV with cowboys, horses. About 3100 yearling steers were shipped 650 miles from a ranch in the Texas Panhandle to a feed lot in northern Colorado.

The cattle were moved in 52 trucks from the Waggoner Ranch near Vernon to the huge Monfort lots near Greeley.

The trucks were loaded in three and a half hours. The not driving in tandem, the trip was made in 16½ hours.

4-H Club Talk
 with Marion MacDonald
 Kent 4-H Agent

Houston Cardinals 4-H Club was the host for the 18th annual Kent County 4-H Dairy Festival. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of Patricia Buie as Dairy Princess. Miss Buie is the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Buie of Woodside.

She was crowned after proving her milking and speaking abilities to a capacity crowd. An honor court comprised Linda Newnom of Houston and Kathleen McFarland of Hartly. These girls will be on hand at dairy activities during the Delaware State Fair.

Master of ceremonies was Dave Woodward, assistant county agricultural agent. For the event, judges were Mrs. Nancy Woodward, Earl Clinton and Mrs. Martha Benson.

Chestnut Grove 4-H Club held a dairy show with 13 members showing their animals. Junior champion was shown by Marty Dixon. Senior and grand champion was shown by Wayne Pierson. In fitting competition, first year 4-H'er Connie Swierczewski was awarded the blue ribbon with Steve Caldwell and Marty Dixon second and third respectively. In showmanship, Wayne Pierson was given the first-place nod with Marty Dixon second and Charwayne Pierson, third.

Fox Hall 4-H'ers recently held their annual project tour. The members visited everyone's home and saw their projects. The event was completed by a cook-out and pool party at the home of Dan Palmer.

Local Farmers Now Cashing Farm Set-Aside Program Payments

Approximately 350 farmers in Kent County were scheduled to receive farm set-aside program payments totaling $375,000 last week, according to Lister V. Hall Jr., county executive director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

By the end of the month, the total will be about $425,000 for 450 farmers.

Nationwide, approximately 750,000 cotton, feed grain and wheat producers were mailed $850,000 in expedited preliminary payments in time for the checks to arrive in producers hands July 1.

Payments under the set-aside programs are made to farmers who agree to set aside, or not farm, part of their land from production to meet a national objective of balancing supply and demand in certain commodities. In other words, keep the supply down to secure a better price. Payments to producers are limited to $55,000 per person for each of three crops mentioned above under the Agricultural Act of 1970.

Total 1972 farm set-aside program payments in Kent County are expected to be about $475,000.

Farm and Home Field Day

Farm and Home Field Day, an annual attraction at the University of Delaware's Substation at Georgetown, will provide latest research information to Delmarva farmers again this year.

Farm-and crop-oriented research will be on display on Aug. 9 with bus and farm-wagon tours throughout the day. Tours will take visitors over the 310-acre farm for on-the-spot inspection of the various research projects.

A wide range of research projects and their results will be available for review. Nearly 200 acres are divided into plots, each designed to find the answer to a specific problem. Projects include testing new varieties of field and vegetable crops, new chemicals, methods of controlling weeds and insects, irrigation, and new production techniques that ensure higher yields and better quality crops.

A highlight of this year's event will be information on no-tillage corn production. Research is aimed at evaluating the economic potential of no-tillage corn in Delaware. Farmers will be able to examine the demonstration plots and observe progress.

Chicken producers will have an opportunity to see latest results of broiler research, including effects of light intensity, vaccination and broiler management studies.

Diagnostic plant clinic will be available throughout the day. Visitors can bring plant specimens for diagnosis by a panel of University specialists in entomology, horticulture, agronomy, and plant pathology.

The clinic can help farmers and home gardeners recognize and solve problems caused by disease, insects, weeds, soil fertility levels, poor varieties and other factors that reduce yield or effect quality. If possible, clinic visitors should bring whole plants, insect specimens, or a branch of a tree or shrub to help determine the problem.

The yearly farm and home event also features a home-maker program, exhibits and displays of equipment and products, and a fried chicken lunch. Ed. Ralph, director of the Substation, is coordinating the day's activities.
