BOGGS WANTS STATE NAMED DISASTER AREA

July 14, 1972 - Senator J. Caleb Boggs (R-Del.) today urged the Federal Government to act quickly and designate Delaware as a Federal disaster area. Such a declaration would make individuals in the state eligible for Federal assistance to recover from the damages caused by the Agnes storm.

Boggs sent separate telegrams to George A. Lincoln, Director of the President's Office of Emergency Preparedness; and James V. Smith, Administrator of the Farmers Home Administration (FHA), urging the quick designation and rapid approval of assistance programs.

"The most severe damage was apparently sustained by Delaware farmers," Boggs noted. Agnes caused an estimated $5,000,000 in agricultural damage in Delaware: $2,000,000 each in Sussex and Kent Counties, and $1,000,000 in New Castle County.

"It is essential that action be taken as soon as possible to assist the public and enable the affected farm families to receive Federal loans and other benefits so they can recover from the damage," Boggs explained.

If the application is approved, farmers would be eligible to receive long-term, low-interest loans through FHA, plus other benefits.

Boggs acted to support the July 11 request made by Governor Peterson to President Nixon, and the position taken by Senator David H. Elliott, Chairman of the Agriculture Committee of the Delaware Senate.

What can be grander than a magnificent turkey browning on the barbecue grill or spit? And what can be more economical?

Take your choice as to whether to roast the whole bird on a spit or to split it for top of the grill barbecuing. If you choose to barbecue the whole bird then select a small bird, unless you are prepared to spend a long time doing the job. Turkey rolls and roasts also are excellent choices and they require less preparation. However, if you wish to combine economy and good eating then buy a whole turkey and tailor it to suit your needs.

How - how much do you buy? If you buy a turkey (ready-to-cook) under 12 lbs., allow 3/4 to 1 lb per serving. For larger birds allow 1/2 to 3/4 lb. With uncooked boneless turkey roasts allow 1/3 pound per serving. Remember all of these amounts are per serving making no allowances for seconds or for left overs.

If you would like to barbecue the whole turkey and haven't done it before, then these tips may be handy. First make sure the turkey is thawed. Next start the fire, making sure it has a good start and the coals are right. This will require about 30 or 40 minutes.

While the coals of the fire are reaching the gray ash state, get the turkey ready - remove the neck and giblets and wash the turkey out. Drain it, getting it as dry as possible then to give it a real fresh flavor rub fresh lemon juice all over the cavity of the bird along with salt, pepper and poultry seasoning. Now truss the bird, using a string white cord or butcher's twine to tie the drum sticks to the tail. Fasten the neck (Continued on Page 4)

Albatross Will Stretch Its Wings At Brandywine

Albatross, the amazing bird of harness racing, returns to Brandywine Raceway tomorrow for the second of three 1972 appearances.

The 4-year-old pacer, trained and driven by Stan Dancer, will go forward in the $25,000 Adios Harry Invitational pace.

The holder of nearly every existing harness record, Albatross will bid Friday to equal Bret Hanover's mark of 31 2-minute miles. The Meadow Skipper product recently tied Dan Patch's mark of 30 with a victory at Saratoga. He accomplished the 30 mark in just two and a half years of racing as compared to the nine seasons in which Dan Patch raced.

The victory at Saratoga put the syndicated pacer over the $1 million mark in earnings, only the fifth harness horse ever to achieve the goal. In fact, the Saratoga victory makes the "Mighty Bird" the

Victimless Review

When the U.S. Supreme Court ruled 7-0 to declare Jacksonville, Fla., laws dealing with vagrancy, loafing and loitering unconstitutional, it moved toward abolition of "victimless crimes."

These are crimes in which no one is injured. They usually involve issues of morality or behavior which society finds objectionable. They also, according to a presidential Crime Commission report in 1967, account for a large share of the time occupied by courts and the police, and send a large number of prisoners to jail.

If vagrancy and loitering are on their way out, can gambling or drunkenness be so far behind?

The purpose of this national endeavor is to bring health information, education, recreation and religion to the workers at farming camps, who are mostly Puerto Rican.

At a special visit to the Star Farm camp at Magnolia, owned by John Walton, there was a short worship service and a party. At the time Israel, the cook, was celebrating his 27th birthday. Some of the men performed on the guitar and sang Puerto Rican songs. Two films were shown - one on the World Series and the other concerned accident prevention.

Sunday evening worship services have been planned, and the first will be held July 23 at St. Andrews Lutheran Church in Dover. The second, July 30, will be held at the First Baptist Church, Dover. The time is 7:30 o'clock.

Dover Aide F. Neylan Dies at 57

Francis P. Neylan, Dover city manager, collapsed and died last Thursday while playing golf in Williamsburg, Va.

Neylan, 57, apparently had a heart attack.

Last month he told the Dover City Council he planned to retire Nov. 1 when he became eligible for a pension. For the past year heart trouble had forced him to curtail some of his duties as city manager.

Before becoming city manager in 1965, Neylan worked as both city clerk and city treasurer. He would have been with the city 25 years this winter.

Mr. Neylan was born in Wilmington, but had lived many years in Dover. He lived at 501 N. Bradford St.

During World War II, he served in both the Army and Air Force. He was a member of the Del-Vets of Dover and Holy Cross Catholic Church.

Mr. Neylan's survivors include his wife, the former Margaret Ann Garrison; his daughter, Mrs. Katherine Markel of Richmond, Va.; two sons, Robert of Dover and David of Laurel, Md.; and two sisters, Miss Sophie Neylan of Wilmington, and Sister Saint Vincent of Washington, D. C.

Services were held Monday morning at Holy Cross Catholic Church, S. State Street, Dover. Interment was in Holy Cross Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, the family suggests contributions to Kent General Hospital, 640 S. State St., Dover.

ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Nowell of Newark announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret S. Nowell, to Roger Allen Betts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Layton R. Betts, of Harrington.

A graduate of Christiana High School, the bride-elect is employed by the Bank of Delaware.

A graduate of Harrington High School and the University of Delaware, the groom-to-be is employed by the International Playtex Corporation.

A September 30th wedding is planned.

Truck Driver Dies at Wheel

A Berwick, Pa., truck driver collapsed with an apparent heart attack Tuesday while traveling south on Rt. 13 but his driver trainee companion was able to avert an accident.

State Police at Bridgeville said Rolland H. Creasy, 46, slumped over the truck's steering wheel about a mile south of Greenwood. Michael Klinger, 25, also of Berwick, was able to grab the wheel and stop the truck.

Creasy was taken to Nanticoke Memorial Hospital, Seaford, by Bridgeville Fire Company ambulance and was dead on arrival.

Dr. Judith A. Tobin, deputy medical examiner, performed an autopsy at the Seaford Hospital and listed the cause of death as an acute coronary.

INFLATION & THE WEATHER

It used to be that everybody's favorite topic of conversation was the weather. But that's changing. Today, the cost of living index is running a close second. "Hot enough for you?" is being replaced as a greeting by "Have you seen the price of food this week?" And "Think we'll get rain?" is surrendering as a conversational gambit to "Get sick?—I can't afford to."

Inflation is hurting us all. In the past ten years alone, transportation costs have risen 31%, food is up 35%, and housing has soared 39.5%.

And so one of the nice things about working for the telephone company is the knowledge that phone service has not contributed to the inflationary spiral. In the past ten years, the overall cost of telephoning in Delaware has gone up only 1/10 of 1%.

Everybody talks about inflation. We have been doing something about it. In fact, if the cost of everything had gone up as little as the cost of phone service, we just wouldn't have inflation.

That's a sunny thought. Try it in conversation.

MRS. FREDERICK J GOGGIN efficient secretary personified, standing with her boss, Joseph H. Webb, and holding her bouquet of red roses which were her retirement gift plus the brand new Mercury Comet, gifts from the company.

Mrs. Goggin Retires With Roses And "Something in the Garage"

An efficient secretary is a job as bookkeeper, office manager and secretary. It rarely seems, but Webb's Ford, Lincoln and Mercury were fortunate the past 18½ years to have such a "gem". Mrs. Frederick J. Goggin, Georgetown, has been bookkeeper and secretary during that time for the Milford Webb agency.

MYRON FLOREN — accordionist and assistant band director with the Lawrence Welk Band, will be featured entertainer at the Delaware State Fair at Harrington on Thurs., July 27, at 8 p.m. This will also be Governor's Day, Senior Citizen's Day and Armed Forces Day at the fair, with all persons 60 or over admitted to the grounds free.

Margaret Coggin on July 6 was invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Webb, owner of the Milford area Ford car garage, for a dinner in her honor upon her retirement from the company. She was presented with one dozen red roses and a silver charm bracelet with a medallion hanging from it with her retirement date recorded on it and on the reverse side inscribed "A date to remember."

After dessert, Mrs. Goggin was called to come outside to look at "something" in the garage at the Webb home. It was then she was shown her 1972 Mercury Comet which was a gift to her in appreciation of her loyalty to the company.

Mr. and Mrs. Goggin live in Georgetown. Mrs. Goggin recently retired as a real estate broker in that city.

KENT COUNTY CURRENTS

by JOSHUA M. TWILLEY
Levy Court President

I have called for a special election on Thursday, July 27, 1972, for the selection of a Levy Court Commissioner to serve the unexpired term of Dr. Samuel Forester. The person elected will serve until the end of the year. Only persons who were registered in the old 29th Representative District, before it was abolished, will be permitted to vote. This district included most of the City of Dover north to Cheswold.

Some time ago the Levy Court Commissioners appointed Mrs. Frances Messina, the first woman commissioner, to serve until the special election. She has recently announced that she will run as a candidate in the special election, and there is also a Republican candidate and an American Party candidate.

Under the law I must issue a writ of election on July 17th calling for the election on July 27th; but in order to give the candidates and the Election Department more time, I stated the date publicly last week. Since the 29th District has been abolished, this special election will have no bearing on the General Election to be held this November.

It is unfortunate that the Election Law did not make better provision for filling vacancies of Levy Court Commissioners and I, for one, have urged the Legislature to make changes in the Election Laws. The nonsense of the Election Law is striking when you consider the case of the Kent County Receiver of Taxes who also died recently. In this case there is no special election at all. Instead, the vacancy is an appointment by the Governor for the unexpired term of 3 1/2 years. In my opinion, vacancies occurring in county offices should be filled by a vote of the Levy Court Commissioners until the next General Election. This would mean that elected officials would fill vacancies in case of death for periods of time less than two years, and then the people would elect a successor for a more reasonable term of office, and the cost of a special election could be avoided.

The special election to be held on July 27th will probably cost the taxpayers $10,000.00 to fill a vacancy for five months in a district which no longer exists. On the other hand, the Governor is appointing a county-wide Receiver of Taxes for Kent County for 3 1/2 years, so that the voters of Kent County will be deprived of filling this vacancy for two general elections. This is just another example of why

WORLD CHAMPION HARNESS HORSE RETURNS TO BRANDYWINE — The amazing Albatross, 1971 "Harness Horse of the Year" and fastest standard-bred in history by virtue of a 1:54 3/5 clocking just two weeks ago, will compete in the $25,000 Adios Harry Invitational Pace this Friday (July 21) at Brandywine Raceway. A holder of nearly every existing harness record, Albatross will bid Friday to equal Bret Hanover's mark of thirty-one 2:00 miles. Stan Dancer's 4-year-old champion recently became only the fifth harness horse ever to earn over a million dollars, and tops among all pacers with more than $1,001,800. Earlier this year at Brandywine, Albatross equalled the track record, when he captured the $25,000 Adios Butler Free-For-All Invitational in a blistering 1:56 3/5.

Matt Burgess Wins 3 Dover Track Events

Matt Burgess swept the 14-15 age group weight events, in the second All-Comers track meet, held at Dover High, on Monday night. Burgess, 14, annexed the shot put, discus and javelin. He threw the 12 pound iron ball almost 26 feet, spun the discus 90 feet, 9 inches and hurled the spear 91 feet. This was his best effort in the javelin yet, a new event for him. He threw the discus 91 feet, 6 1/2 inches last week. Reig Outten was a double winner, taking the 9 and under 100 in 14.9 and the 440 in 1.26.5.

Harry Benson had no opposition in either the 440 or the mile run, so he was awarded first place by merely striding the distances required. However, the thirteen-year-old from Brownsville had opposition in the 100 from Mark Tatman, 12, of Harrington. Benson, a terrific distance runner, turned in his best century clocking yet, an 11.7, to win. Tatman, a 10-11 state Junior Olympic sprint champ, in 1971, has a 12.1 clocking despite his youth. John Nickle took the 10-11, 220 and 440 yard runs in 35 flat and 1.25, respectively. Nickle, then lowered his 100 yard dash best from 14.7 to 14.2. Barry Doherty won the 14-15 mile in 5.27. His best previous time was 5.51. He hadn't planned to run the event and hadn't trained for it for several months. Jackie Guyton had only one rival in the 10-11 girls' events, so handily won the 100 in 14.3, the 220 in 39 seconds and the 440 in 1.34. Jackie, like Benson, Outten and Tatman is a former Delaware State Junior Olympic champion. Kevin Wooters was second in the discus (14-15) and the javelin. Kevin hurled the spear 84 feet, compared to his 69 feet, which got him the runnerup spot last week. Wooters was third in the 12 pound shot put, with a throw of near 24 feet. These Dover High meets will continue for the next four Monday nights. There are age groups for everyone. Starting time is 6 P.M.

First Harrington Recreation Track Meet Held

The first Harrington Recreation Association track meet was held last week. The next is slated for August 2nd. Jackie Guyton, Reig Outten, John Nickle and Harry Benson were double winners. Benson's 12 flat 100 yard dash was the outstanding performance. Girls 10-11 50-1. Jackie Guyton, 7.7; 2., Terri Collison. 440 - 1., Guyton, 1.27.1; 2., Collison. Boys 9 and under 50 - 1. Reig Outten, 7.6; 2., David Lekites. 440 - 1., Outten, 1.29.7; 2., Lekites. Boys 10-11 100 - 1., John Nickle, 15.1; 2., Barry Thompson. 880 - 1., Nickle, 3.25.6; 2., Thompson. Boys 12-14 100 - 1., Harry Benson, 12.; 2., Mark Tatman; 3. Matt Burgess. Discus - 1., Matt Burgess, 81-9 1/2; 2. Harry Benson, 61-2; 3., Barry Doherty, 48. Shot Put - 1., Harry Benson, 32-9 1/2; 2., Matt Burgess, 32-6; 3., Barry Doherty, 26-9.

Big Leaguers Lose to Seaford, Laurel

Harrington still had a narrow, half-game edge over second-place Milford and Laurel, after losing to Seaford 5-2 and Laurel 4-3. Jim Dill hit a homerun and a double in the Seaford tilt. Mickey Chaffinch and Lawrence Sorden had two hits each against Laurel. Harrington rallied in the late innings to fall one run short, in the latter contest.

skin to the back with a skewer. Flatten the wings against the breast, then tie the string around the breast to hold the wings securely. Insert the spit so the turkey is well balanced and will cook uniformly. To get the true barbecue flavor and aroma and assure even cooking in minimum time do not stuff the turkey. Baste with butter and with a barbecue sauce during the last 30-40 minutes of cooking. Proper and thorough cooking of the turkey is important. To assure the internal temperature of the bird reaches 185 degrees F use a meat thermometer. However, if you allow 1 1/2 to 2 hours for a 4 to 6 lb bird it will be done. A 6 to 8 pounder is likely to take 2 to 2 1/2 hours; an 8 to 10 pounder, 2 1/2 to 3 hours; a 10 to 12 pound turkey, 3 to 3 1/2 hours; a 12 to 15 pounder, 3 1/2 to 4 hours; and a 15 to 20 pounder, 4 to 5 hours. If you would rather grill a turkey then cut a small turkey into pieces or buy the pieces (more expensive this way). Prepare the fire in advance as above, when the coals are covered with gray ash, place the turkey pieces on the grill 6 to 8 inches above the coals. Cook, turning occasionally for about 1 1/2 hours. If desired, baste with your favorite barbecue sauce during the last 30 minutes of cooking. No matter what form you choose, or what cooking method, you'll find a cook out centered around turkey will be a highlight of your summer eating.

July Start of Gov. Fiscal Year

Although July is the month which means the middle of the summer, hot weather, and beach for most of us, for the Federal government July 1st is the beginning of a brand new fiscal year. Many businesses also do this for the convenience of accounting procedures, and the federal government has followed this plan for many years.

This arrangement was basically satisfactory as long as Congress remained in session for only part of the year. All the work, including the budget was completed before June 30th. However, being a Congressman or Senator has become a year long job. Much of this is caused by the demands of a Congress moving towards more modern and responsive government. Also, the work necessary to represent 200 million people is greater than when the country was much smaller.

However, one of the casualties of both the increased workload and the past inefficiencies still present in the system has been the government's fiscal year. Recently, and especially last year, the budget requests by various agencies have lingered long after June 30th before they were approved. This year most of the budgetary requests were passed by both the House and Senate by the end of June but not with sufficient time for Executive Department approval before July 1st. For example, the Department of Defense with a budget request in excess of $80 billion is now living on "continuing appropriations." This term means that the entire Defense Department is being run without any real idea of what money will be available for the year already started. They are being provided with funds just to keep going. Future planning must wait until Congress acts. This is similar to a consumer buying a car on credit and waiting to find out how much he can borrow until the car is several months old.

To combat this problem, I and some other members of Congress have suggested legislation which would make the government's fiscal year and the calendar year the same. That is, the government's fiscal year would start January 1st and end December 31st. This way, before Congress adjourns in December, it will have passed all of the different appropriations bills for the various agencies, and each of these agencies would in turn know just what its budget for the coming year would be. This would provide a better basis for planning and also save some of your tax dollars.

Red, But Not Read

"Newspapers in Russia, so reports go, are 'red', but not read. Russian just don't seem to read newspapers the way Americans do, mainly because the chief function of the Soviet newspaper editor is to defend, explain and promote the Communist Party's policies and achievements. News from beyond the country, which the Party wants to block out never appears at all. Official news is played up. Other news get a paragraph or two. Nothing for deaths, except official obituaries, marriages, etc. A little different from American newspapers, huh?" —Plainview, Nebr., News

Greenwood

by Pat Hatfield

GREENWOOD KIWANIS Nineteen Kiwanians were in attendance Thursday evening to hear W. F. Gabel, head of the Division of Production and Promotion, Forestry Section, Delaware State Department of Agriculture. Mr. Gabel, introduced by Robert Willey, Program Chairman for the evening, was the guest speaker.

In a most interesting manner he told what the work of his Division was all about, how it was all accomplished, and how they assisted interested woodland owners to produce more and better forest crops and establish new forest crops on idle land.

How they grew the great number of pine seedlings at the State Nursery just north of Ellendale, was not only interesting but very instructive. Next week, President Elliott announced that the Club, after their dinner hour, would be given a tour of the Peck Suss-

Bridgeville, otherwise known locally as the Carpet Factory. Mrs. Robert G. Clark and daughters, Mary Ann and Dawn, of Mt. Holly, N. J., were Saturday overnight guests of her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Albin P. Ottey at the Hatfield residence. On Saturday evening the Clark girls were guests of Hilary and Teddy Keith for an evening at Rehoboth. Millard Huson of Wyoming was a guest of his niece, Mrs. Lawrence Meredith, one day this week. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Laughery entertained on Wednesday evening, July 12, in honor of his mother's birthday. To greet Mrs. Kathryn Laughery were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vincent and Mrs. Loretta Downes and children from Milton.

The trailer also includes a tens including the future central office switching systems including the future electronic system. (The Diamond State Company is now installing an electronic central office in Wilmington that becomes operational in 1973).

Delmarva Division Red Cross Aiding Flood Victims in Maryland

The Delmarva Division, American Red Cross, with the Delaware Chapter serving as the headquarters chapter, has assisted 168 families to date in Port Deposit, Maryland, who were driven from their homes and suffered losses in the flood caused by tropical storm Agnes.

The Red Cross has spent more than $24,000 to date in its relief program for the Port Deposit flood victims, which included expenditures for food, clothing, essential household furnishings, medical and nursing care and occupational supplies and equipment.

Cash contributions totalling $20,000 have been received to date by the Delaware Red Cross Chapter in its appeal to help the flood victims in the most widespread disaster situation in this nation's history. A quota of $35,094 has been set for the state chapter.

The Red Cross has been operating a disaster relief center to help the flood victims at 3 North Main Street in Port Deposit. The Center was opened June 26. Starting Tuesday, July 11, the Red Cross is operating a relief center at the Cecil Center Holly Hall on Southbridge Street near Rt. 40 in Elkton, Maryland. The Center will be open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Delmarva Red Cross Division also operated a disaster relief center in Millington, Maryland to provide relief for flood victims in affected areas of Kent County, Md., and Queen Anne's County, Md. The Red Cross spent over $7,000 there in assisting 30 families with food, clothing and shelter.

Red Cross officials said that all Red Cross help is an outright gift with no obligation to repay.

Harry B. Bissell, Jr., Delaware Red Cross Chapter chairman, said the American Red Cross is facing the greatest demands in its history for relief. He said the response of Delawareans to the appeal has been heartening.

Mr. Bissell said that more than 50,000 families in the flood-ravaged Mid-Atlantic States will require individual assistance from the Red Cross, and the cost of the mammoth relief operation is now expected to exceed $15 million.

The number of flood victims who received Red Cross emergency mass care in the sudden disaster corridor from the Carolinas through West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania to New York's southern tier has passed the 250,000 mark.

The Red Cross has moved into high gear with its individual family assistance program, aimed at bringing flood victims back together again and in family units as fast as possible.

Red Cross officials said that the organization has expended its disaster budget and all reserve funds for this purpose and is now dependent on a generous response from the public to its emergency call for funds.

Mr. Bissell said cash or checks should be marked "Disaster Relief" and sent to the Delaware Chapter, American Red Cross, 910 Gilpin Avenue, Wilmington, Delaware 19899 (Post Office Box 831).

Residents in Kent County should send their contributions to the Kent County Red Cross Office of the Delaware Chapter at 42 South State Street, Dover, Del. 19901, and resident in Sussex County should send their contributions to the Sussex County Red Cross Office, 100 West Market Street, Georgetown, Del. 19947.

Home Falls Hurt More Than Pride

One minute you're on your feet, the next you're not—you've fallen! And you may be one of the ten thousand injured in home falls each year.

People don't fall just because they aren't looking where they're going. That's part of the reason, says Miss Coral K. Morris, home management specialist at the University of Delaware. "But, there's more to it than that. Usually you're in a hurry, you are careless or thinking about something else. When these things are combined with the wrong circumstances, an accident results."

Stop and think; look around. Do you store pails, mops, brooms, newspapers and books on stairways? Maybe you put things there thinking you just didn't have time to walk the rest of the way. Do your children's toys collect on the stairway? If they do, someone is in for a bad fall sooner or later.

How about the way you travel those stairs? Do you take two steps at a time, risking life and limb to save a few seconds? You'd better slow down. It's fine to be full of life, but if you want to stay that way, you'll save more time walking up the stairs one at a time.

Do you walk "blind" on stairways by carrying so much you can't see where you're going? Your hands are so full you can't hold the handrail; you try to see around or over your load and that throws you off balance; you're groping and stumbling—and down you'll go. You may arrive at the bottom, but not in the way you intended.

Don't prowl around in the dark of night. You might think you're doing your family a favor by not waking them with the light. But you're sure to wake them up with a fall, and you're certainly not doing them or yourself a favor if you're hurt.

Check your home and get rid of hazards that can cause nasty falls. A carton in a passway, an extension cord going too far, even a worn place in the rug all mean a potential fall. You can slip on a wet or greasy spot on the floor, on a rubber band, hair pin, or a newspaper. Scatter rugs without non-skid backs are a real hazard.

Provide adequate lighting in the halls, stairways, bedrooms, and outside entrances to your home. Immediately wipe up spilled food, mud or snow tracked in by the children.

Your own carelessness can cause falls too, Miss Morris reminds. Do you think it's quicker and easier to stand on a chair, a table, or a drawer to reach a high place than to use a stepstool or stepladder? It's a good way to a quick, easy fall, too.

Of course, the bathroom is a prime area for falls. Do you use safety devices for protection against slipping in the tub or on the wet floor? Handholds can help you in and out of the tub. A suction-type rubber mat in the bathtub and a non-slip mat on the floor will also help keep you on your feet.

Do you wear proper shoes? It's important whether you're working, playing or doped up. Wear well-fitting shoes rather than slippers or socks when you're doing housework and you might help prevent a fall. Always keep your shoes in good repair, too, Miss Morris adds. Heels worn down to slick nails and slippery floors are a sure thing for a good fall.

Do you trust to luck that your children won't fall from

U. of D. Ag Editor's Office Wins National Recognition

For the tenth consecutive year, the Agricultural Editor's Office at the University of Delaware has been recognized in a national communications contest.

Awards were made by the American Association of Agricultural College Editors during their national meeting, July 9-12, in Tucson, Ariz.

Three Delaware entries earned a "Very Good" rating while four received "Good" ratings.

The weekly press service, a weekly radio script service and a gardening bulletin all were cited as "Very Good." The daily and magazine press services, a television feature and a table-top exhibit were recognized as "Good."

More than 500 communications entries from land-grant colleges, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Canada competed in nearly 30 categories this year. The association includes approximately 600 professional communicators who prepare agricultural and home economics information.

The three press services, all called "Delaware Farm and Home News," are prepared by Gerry L. Webb, editor; Ron Wills and Mrs. Lorraine Kingdon, assistant editors; and Mrs. Nancy Campbell, graduate assistant. The daily and high places? Many serious—even fatal—injuries occur during those first adventurous years of life. A child doesn't know where danger lies. It's up to you to keep small children away from stairways, open windows and porch railings. Install gates, bars, and other means of protection wherever needed.

Remember falls can be a problem for all ages. A child or teenager may fall and only get skinned knees, bruises or sprains. But the same fall could cause a broken arm, leg or hip to an older person.

Veterans News

Q—I am a veteran's widow drawing a VA pension. Would state welfare benefits reduce my pension?

A—No. VA does not consider benefits from public or private welfare organizations as income for purposes of computing pension.

Q—As a veteran attending college under the GI Bill, I wonder why VA does not pay for all my educational expenses?

A—Like the World War II and Korean Conflict GI Bills the current GI Bill is intended as educational assistance, rather than a total subsidy thru four years of college. Veterans who went to school after WW II often had to supplement their educational allowances just as the majority of all well motivated college students do.

Q—I am a World War II veteran and have used a small portion of my GI loan entitlement. Can my remaining entitlement be used in purchasing a mobile home?

A—No. You must have the maximum loan guaranty entitlement available to qualify for mobile home benefits.

Q—How do I get admitted to a Veterans Administration hospital?

A—Apply in person to the VA hospital nearest your home taking with you a copy of your military separation papers. If unable to visit the nearest hospital, a private physician may request by phone admittance for a veteran-patient, being prepared to advise admissions authority as to military data and the need for hospital care.

Coming Events

Ice cream festival at Burrowsville Community House, Sat. Aug. 5. Serving begins at 4:30. Sponsored by Union United Methodist Church.

Weight Watchers meet every Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. at Harrington Senior Center. Must have 25 members present each week to hold class in Harrington. New members accepted weekly. Come and be counted.

The Harrington Volunteer Fire Company will sponsor modified and sportsman stock car racing, open competition, Wed., Aug. 2 at the Fairgrounds. There will be 6 elimination heats with the first heat to get underway promptly at 8 p.m., 2 consolation races and 2 (25) lap features.

Delaware Park Raceway News

Grass racing specialists will have their final stakes opportunity of the Delaware Park meeting Sunday when the $25,000 added, mile and three-eighths Sussex Turf Handicap features the ninth sabbath program of the Stanton session.

It will be the 35th running of the Sussex, but only the 17th on the grass, to which the stake was converted in 1956.

Forty-four horses have been made eligible for the upcoming renewal. Among the nominees is the German-bred Wustentochel, last year's Sussex victor, but that veteran is not expected to defend his honors.

Six of the horses that raced in the Brandywine Turf Handicap earlier in the meeting are nominated for the Sussex. They are New Alibhai, who ran second in the Brandywine; Tryandstoppe, third; Elephant Walk, fourth; Onandaga, fifth;

Ogontz, sixth, and Good Horse (who couldn't hold a wide early lead and wound up eighth). The Brandywine victor, On Your Toes, was not named for the Sussex.

Among some of the other best known stakes campaigners who may be in the Sussex line-up are such as Real Note, Red Reality, Star Envoy, Twit The Axe, Warino, Oak Spring, North Flight, Native Heir, Larceny Kid, Kling Kling, Duc By Right, Anzio Blue and the 3-year-old grass ace, Dubassoff, who captured Delaware Park's Kent Stakes on the turf on June 4.

Should Dubassoff accept the issue, he'd have a chance to become the first 3-year-old ever to capture the Sussex.

Staytonville Store Burns

Deputy state fire marshal Charles B. Stevenson III said that no cause is yet determined for the early morning fire at Staytonville that destroyed most of a store owned by John Annett.

Farmington, Greenwood, Milford, and Houston fire companies responded at 1 last Thursday morning and the fire was under control within 45 minutes.

The fire, which Stevenson said began on the front porch, gutted the store, and destroyed half of the roof on the five-room building.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne W. Holberton

In France they call it "melon d'eau," in China its called "Silkwa." Arabs call it "bot-tikh" and speakers of Sanskrit ask for "chaya pula." We call it watermelon.

The watermelon has been grown for thousands of years in the warmer parts of the world. Its original home seems to be Africa where it has grown wild since prehistoric times. Pictures surviving from ancient Egypt show that watermelon was cultivated then. The actual mention of the watermelon under the Hebrew name, "abbatichim," is found in connection with the history of the Hebrew exodus from Egypt. This melon was well known thousands of years ago in the warmer parts of Russia, Asia Minor, the Near and Middle East. It was probably known for hundreds of years in Europe. Here in our own country, earliest records show the American Indians have always been especially fond of the melon.

The job has always been, then, as now, how to pick a good watermelon. Melon quality is not easy to detect unless the melon is cut. Even then you have to know what you are doing. Because of this its helpful to know some of the characteristics of a good melon. Here are some to consider: it should be symmetrical in shape, firm to the touch; it should look fresh and be of good color for its variety. The underside of the melon should be a pale yellow instead of white or green this usually says the melon is mature.

Since many people cannot use a whole melon many stores are selling more and more melons by the slice. This makes the job of choosing a lot easier since the color of the flesh and the seeds can tell you pretty well about the melon. Look for flesh that is a good shade of red (not light pink) the seeds should be dark brown or black, and the flesh texture should be firm and succulent.

If you should get a watermelon that is not fully ripe it may be ripened at room temperature if it is sufficiently mature. Fully ripe melons should be chilled several hours before serving for best flavor. Count on about 12 hours to chill a whole melon.

When the melon is cut be sure to wrap it tightly in waxed paper or put it in a plastic bag. This is to prevent the melon from drying out and also to prevent the aroma of the melon from spreading to other foods in the refrigerator.

Although watermelon is sweet to the taste, it is low in calories making it a delightful dessert for all. A wedge four by eight inches (about 2 lbs. weighed with rind) has about 120 calories. Watermelon is also a fairly rich source of Vitamin C and also a good source of Vitamin A.

Serve watermelon in wedges, slices and quarters or as ball combined with other melon balls. It's delicious with fruit sherbert or with blueberries and peaches. Watermelon is good anytime of the day or night.

Mosquito Control Around the Home

The mosquito season is here and the pesky insects will be around until the first hard freeze this fall. But homeowners can help control the mosquito problem by eliminating minor breeding areas, according to Dr. Frank Murphy, assistant professor in the department of entomology and applied ecology at the University of Delaware.

He says the elimination of standing water is one of the best methods of controlling these insects. Breeding sources such as bird baths, small swimming pools and animal watering tanks should be flushed and refilled with clean water once or twice weekly. Leaves and debris in roof gutters should be removed to prevent water from collecting, and artificial containers should be dumped and overturned. Old tires should be destroyed or placed where they will not serve as a breeding source.

Generally, homeowners should not try to control large mosquito breeding areas on their property, cautions Murphy. The State Mosquito Control Division of the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection should be contacted to control mosquitoes in these areas.

During the day, the northern house mosquito, our most common offender around protected places, such as basements, attics, porches, garages, under lawn furniture, roof eaves, shrubbery, hedges, vines, tall grass and weeds. Murphy says temporary relief from the adult mosquitoes may be possible by spraying shrubbery, high grass and other vegetation with one of the following pesticides using a pressure type garden sprayer: Malathion (6 tablespoons of a 57 percent formulation in a gallon of water), Nayer (1 1/2 tablespoons of a 25 percent formulation is a gallon of water), or Methoxychlor (1/2 cup of 50 percent wettable powder in a gallon of water).

To control adult mosquitoes available aerosol bomb containing prethrin. Resin strips impregnated with DDPV (Vapona) will also control mosquitoes in closed areas where there is no great amount of air circulation. For further information on controlling mosquitoes, copies of bulletin E-19, "Mosquito Control Around the Home," are available by writing the Department of Entomology and Applied Ecology, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Del. 19711.

Methodists Name Bishop Mathews

The Northeastern Jurisdictional Conference of the United Methodist Church assigned Bishop James K. Mathews to replace retiring Bishop John Wesley Lord last Thursday night.

Who's Helping Whom?

It was a conversation we overheard. The first fellow said: "What a wonderful thing it is that so many people do so much for him. Ever since he got sick his friends have rallied to him, even people he didn't know very well. They have done all kinds of things for him. Somebody paid his city taxes; somebody else had his house painted; he still does not know where his new TV set came from; his neighbors mow his grass, shovel the snow off the walk. What a wonderful thing it is for him that so many people do so much for him now that he's an invalid. I just wonder how he will ever be able to thank them."

The other fellow, an old gentleman, said, "I'm not sure you're right." The first fellow said, "You surprise me. I think it is heartwarming and wonderful that so many people are doing so much for him. There is really no way he can ever thank them enough." The old gentleman nodded, "I know, I understand. But I think you have things backwards. I think maybe the people doing all those good deeds are getting more out of it than he is. Now if he hadn't gotten sick, if he hadn't needed help, what would all those good people be doing? Would they really have found somebody else to help? Would they really know so well the pleasure of helping someone else? I doubt it. Nope, I think they owe him their thanks more than he owes them..."

Section 1. Article VIII of the Constitution of the State of Delaware is amended by striking said section in its entirety and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "Except as provided by Section 8 of this Article, trial by jury shall be as heretofore."

Methodists Name Bishop Mathews

Bishop Mathews, 59, was born at Breezewood, Pa., and reared in Ohio and Texas. He has an A. B. degree from Lincoln Memorial University and a S. T. B. degree from New York Theological Seminary. He did graduate work at Boston and Columbia Universities. In 1957, he received a Ph. D. degree from Columbia University with a dissertation on the religious teachings of Mahatma Gandhi. He has been a pastor, missionary to India and has served as associate general secretary to the Board of Missions. In 1956, he was elected a Bishop of the Church in India but resigned before his consecration, believing the Indian Church was mature enough to elect Indians to the episcopacy. He was elected bishop and assigned to the Boston area where he has served 12 years.

Editorial, by J. Harvey Burgess—ABE WROTE THIS — A; though he doesn't know it, Abe Decker, of the Kent Shoe Stores (This is not a commercial) is both poet and philosopher.

Almost nine years ago he came to us with a statement, "They are saying that this country is run by one man, Franklin D. Roosevelt. Well, if it is run by one man, then for Heaven's sake, let's let him run it. What other man on earth can perform such a fine job?"

As a result of that talk with Abe, we wrote a lengthy bit of verse (we can't call it poetry) in which we enumerated all the progress made during the Roosevelt regime—and the caption for that bit of verse was "One Man—Just One Man."

We signed that lengthy bit of verse "Jasper Hay"—sort of a grass root name, you know—and the verse was published by the Democratic organization all over the nation, not because the verse contained any merit, but because Abe's sound philosophy contained oodles of sense—and truth.

Only this week Abe said to us: "Certainly there is graft anywhere where huge sums of money are involved. We have had examples here in Delaware where trusted bank employes have appropriated large sums to their own use. In the Pittsburgh area, both in Pennsylvania and in West Virginia, we have been sickened to read about some half-dozen banking institutions whose officers swiped millions of dollars from those institutions. We drop over to the Atlantic Seaboard to discover that the Mergenthaler type-setting machine people were chiseled out of more than a million dollars. We read, practically every day, where some trusted employe has swiped enormous sums, but that is news for a day—and only a day. Yet when someone meanders off with a measly mink coat or a doggone deep freezer, the subsidized press keeps it alive for years."

Abe makes good sense to us—or so, it will be better understood, we employ local terminology—hoss sense.

Dutch Elm Disease Control

Dutch elm disease is showing up again this year in many Delaware elms.

However, a new fungicide, benomyl (Benlate), may help protect American elms from this destructive disease, according to Dr. Robert Carroll, extension plant pathologist at the University of Delaware.

Benlate has received a great deal of publicity as the answer to Dutch elm disease. But it's not a magic cure-all, Carroll cautions. "The fungicide simply shows promise as an aid to prevent and control the disease. It's still in the experimental stage; it was only approved for widespread use on elms a few months ago."

Severely infected trees cannot be saved even with Benlate. Unfortunately, it will still be necessary to cut them down and destroy them.

But, Benlate is a new way to attack Dutch elm disease since it's aimed at the fungus itself, not the elm bark beetle which spreads the disease. Most of the previous chemical treatments were designed to destroy the beetles. They weren't successful because some beetles always survived—and it only takes one beetle feeding on a twig to introduce the fungus into a tree and start an infection.

Benlate is very toxic to the disease-causing fungus, yet it is safe to use, Carroll emphasizes. "The chemicals that make up the fungicide are harmless to both people and wildlife." Benlate is used with methoxychlor, an insecticide which helps control the beetles.

Two ways to use Benlate in controlling Dutch elm disease are now recommended, Carroll says. The first method consists of spraying trees with methoxychlor early in the spring before the trees leaf out. This is followed by spraying with a combination of Benlate and methoxychlor when the leaves are fully out. Both sprays should be repeated each year. And, Benlate without the insecticide won't be effective.

The second method involves injecting Benlate directly into the circulatory system of the tree. Benlate in solution is put in a small cup; it is taken up by the tree through a feeder tube. The fungicide goes to all parts of the tree; it helps protect against future infection and, to some extent, stops the spread of already existing infection.

Actually, Carroll states that using both methods will provide the greatest protection.

However, severely diseased trees still can't be helped even with Benlate. For successful control, disease symptoms must be spotted very early and treatment started immediately.

It isn't easy for most people to recognize early signs of Dutch elm disease. If you have elm trees, watch them very carefully during June, July and August. Look for leaves on individual branches that are wilting early.

Only trained tree experts can tell the difference between wilting from Dutch elm disease and wilting from some other cause. A laboratory test is also often necessary. But, timing is so vital that experts usually treat first and confirm their diagnosis later. Otherwise, it may be too late for the tree.

You will need the services of a trained tree expert both to detect and treat this fungus infection, Carroll believes. Large scale, expensive equipment is needed for thorough coverage with sprays. Also, properly injecting Benlate into the tree trunk requires some training and skill.

Present methods of using Benlate are not the "last word" in Dutch Elm disease control. Research goes on. Scientists are trying to come up with a rot injection method to allow better distribution of the fungicide throughout the tree. A method of pressure injection might also be better.

And, some very long-term breeding research is being conducted to develop disease resistant elms. Disappointingly, today's resistant varieties are not as desirable as the American elm.

Your elms have a life expectancy of 300 years—if you can safeguard them from Dutch elm disease.

TOWN AND COUNTRY TOPICS

FRANCIS WEBB
KENT COUNTY AGENT

Keep your Johnsongrass in- delayed after this date. This festations in line this year, if is not an exact figure, of at all possible. Due to the course, but a good rule or continued wet conditions, it thumb to follow.

I believe if I had ground prepared and already had the soybeans, I would plant up through the week of July 17th. The price outlook for soybeans is again desirable for this season, and this reason, I believe you can plant soybeans somewhat later, perhaps get a lower yield, but still end up with a reasonable profit, depending, of course, on weather conditions.

Many growers have been noticing a yellowing of the lower leaves on soybeans, which in most cases is resulting from excessive water. The spotting on these leaves is a fungus leaf spot that is becoming prevalent because of the wet conditions. This will not kill the soybean plant, and in most cases will not affect yields in any way. It is considered somewhat secondary because of the reduced vigor-ness of the plant.

Many herbicides have given inadequate weed control this year because of the rain. So, if you have used a recom- mended herbicide this year in your soybeans and have gotten poor results this is the primary reason. Most soybean herbi- cides are highly soluble in the soil and deactivated or leached out under heavy rainfall. Naturally, this results in poor weed control. The only alterna- tive left would be mechanical cultivation, if at all possible.

Late planted corn is showing many difficulties in certain locations in the county. From our investigations, this is re- sulting from excessive loss of nitrogen and potash and mag- nesium deficiencies.

From this statement, I know you are wondering how you can get potash deficiency when you have applied maybe 100 to 150 pounds per acre of K20. With the excessive rain, the corn crop has set a shallow root system, primarily growing within the top four to six in- ches of the soil surface.

Generally, your pH in this area is much lower than the soil below this point. We have tested some areas where the overall soil profile tested in the 6.1 to 6.3 range; however, when you take separate soil cores from various depths, it showed that the top four in- ches gave a pH reading of 5.2 to 5.3. Below this four to five inches, the pH jumped to 6.2 or 6.3. This would naturally in- dicate that with the root sys- tem being very shallow and primarily concentrated in the surface soil the plant could show deficiency under this low pH.

We believe that such corn fields will take care of them- selves if we continue to re- ceive good growing tempera- tures and full sunlight. The root system will extend down into the sweet soil and be able to absorb the magnesium, phosphorous and potash that it is requiring.

In most cases, no action should be taken on the part of the farmer. If you have any questions on these comments, give me a call.

It Seems To Me

Janet Reed

Gadgets galore! With all the interest in home sewing, it seems new gadgets appear daily. Some good, some bad.

A few of the good ones I've seen lately make me wonder why someone didn't think of that before. So simple, yet so useful.

I like the hem clips. They're fashioned like a giant, flat bobby pin and hold the fabric edges while you're working on them. I was sold when a saleswoman in a ready-to-wear shop slipped them on a dress hem to shorten it in a flash so I could get an idea of dress length and total effect. Now I use them when trying on a dress to measure a hem to judge the correct length and evenness.

It's much quicker and more effective than pins. You can easily and quickly adjust if the hem is not the length you want. The clips are marked in quarter inches up to three inches, so they serve as a mea- sure also.

Hem clips are especially useful when working on fabrics which can't be pinned. Once you start using them, you'll wonder why it took someone so long to market this idea.

Another useful tool is the "Button Elevator"; it holds any size button in proper place and elevation while you sew it on. A button must stand far enough away from the cloth to allow for thickness of fab- ric when you button the gar- ment. The thicker the fabric, the higher the elevation needed. It used to be a struggle try- ing to balance a pin, or a match, or a pencil beneath a button and sewing over it so you would have enough extra thread to make the button shank underneath. Now you can select the elevation you want, slip the "elevator" in place and sew on the button. When you remove the eleva- tor, finish the shank as you've always done. Elevation choices range from 1/8 inch to 1/2 inch.

Then, there is the "Jet. Baster". It's simply a filled bob- bin inside a clear see-through automatic dispensing case. Just thread your needle once, and baste as long as the bob- bin holds out. The bobbin pins right to your fabric, so there's no problem with tang- led threads and no need for constantly rethreading need- les. Most of us don't baste any more, but there is still hand work to be done and this tool is great when you have a wide hem or other distances to cover with hand stitching.

Another useful device is the automatic buttonhole cutter. It has a retractable fine steel blade with special lock-in grooves which are automati- cally sized and set for the standard buttonhole sizes from 1/2 inch to 1 inch. A small cutting block is included to make cutting easy and safe.

You have to decide if a sewing gadget is right for you. Unless you use it often, and have a place where you can find it when you need it, a gadget may simply be some- thing else to clutter your stor- age space. But some of these new tools look promising enough to merit a special cor- ner in my sewing box.

By planting tomatoes in pots, the 4-H'ers will be able to give the plants adequate sunshine. They can move the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al- bert Miller, Newark, developed the project. The two New Castle County 4-H junior leaders gathered the group to- gether at Wilmington's Neigh- borhood House and distributed pots, plants, sold and instruc- tions for watering, caring for and tying up the stalks. The youngsters were also given a supply of sunflower seeds to plant.

No-tillage Corn Research At University Field Day

Research tours at the Uni- versity of Delaware's Farm and Home Field Day, sched- uled this year for August 9, will hold special interest for farmers involved in corn pro- duction.

Field Day tours of research plots will include the no-till- age experiment. Farmers will be able to observe the pro- gress of the corn under actual field conditions, and begin their own evaluation of this method of production as it ap- plies to their farming situa- tion.

On May 4, area farmers were on hand to watch as no- tillage or no-plow corn was planted on seventeen acres of sandy loam soil at the Uni- versity's Georgetown Substa- tion. The corn was planted in a rye cover crop killed with a herbicide just before the corn was planted. Producers, then, saw planting equipment and asked questions of manu- facturers and dealers.

Researchers are studying the economic potential of no- tillage corn production in De- laware, insect and disease damage, and the results of using the rye cover crop as mulch. Those results will be part of Field Day.

Field Day events also in- clude demonstrations and ex- hibits, a consumer program, special interest tours and a fried chicken luncheon.

Unemployment, Who's To Blame?

By Reed Larson

Executive Vice President National Right To Work Com.

For several months now, supporters of voluntary unionism have been closely watching the U.S. Department of Labor's unemployment index for any significant signs of change. But we've been having the same luck as everyone else. Unlike the union bosses who blame the jobless problem entirely on the Administration (and we're not going into the business of defending the Administration), we'd like to offer an alternative raison d'être for the remarkable unemployment problem: compulsory unionism.

More specifically, we'd like to propose that a significant factor in the rise and persistence of unemployment in the U.S. is the Federal policy that allows union officials to spend as much time and money as they please on politics and social causism while ignoring the needs of their members. This policy, of course, is the same one that allows a worker to be fired if he refuses to join or pay dues to a labor organization.

We think America's workers would do well to listen—because we're talking about their jobs and their paychecks.

It appears from the Labor Department's "Area Trends" series on employment/unemployment that where unemployment is the highest and most tenacious there almost certainly is compulsory unionism. Where unemployment is a lesser problem, there almost certainly is a law protecting the workers of those states from forced union membership. Simply stated, serious unemployment and forced unionization are running hand in hand.

Professional union apologists most certainly will call it coincidence, but how solid is their case? Can it compare with this?

In May and June of this year 54 metropolitan areas across the country had rates of unemployment at or above the 6% mark (called "substantial" by the Labor Department). Of these, all 54 were in states where compulsory unionism is condoned.

In March and April the figures were similar. In April, 56 of the 150 major labor areas monitored by the Department had substantial unemployment—54 more than in non-Right to Work states. In March, the figures were 53 and 2.

In terms of jobs these figures are also significant: the 150 metro areas studies by the Labor Department include 40 in Right to Work states and 110 in compulsory union states. So overall, the compulsory union states have had an average of one out of every two metropolitan areas in the highest unemployment brackets.

Is this 50% disaster mark a coincidence?

We think not. We think, as we have said many times before, that compulsory unionism opens the door to lackadaisical union leadership. It makes it too easy for union officials to spend the better part of their efforts pursuing pet causes while ignoring the day-to-day needs of their members. And we think it is paying off in a declining job market. Union officials who don't have to deliver the goods to maintain their membership balance sheets often don't—and the members can do nothing about it except pay the consequences.

When the union bosses conversely have to prove themselves over and over again, as they do when membership is voluntary, chances are they'll take care of first things first.

The evidence clearly points in this direction. So who is to blame for the rise of joblessness in America? Just the Administration? Or is there possibly another culprit in the form of compulsory unionism? That's our guess.

Losses Become Gains

Population growth and its future dangers rank high as conversation pieces these days, and some figures in a recent United Nations study will make the confrontations more interesting.

The U. N. study starts off by estimating that between 1600 and 1945—a period of 345 years, approximately 54 million people in the world died in military service.

The crux of the study is that all the wars in that period, plus famines and epidemics, have slowed down world population growth by only around 10 years. From this, although not stated, it can be deduced that unless such things as wars, epidemics and famines occur, the population growth would in time become unmanageable, and—again we presume—result in more wars, epidemics and famines.

The U. N. study cites evidence that famines and epidemics often act as a drag on population growth in areas where overcrowding already is already a problem—the Indian subcontinent, for example. Millions died there in floods and epidemics in 1876-78, in the 1892 and 1897 famines, and later in the 1918 flu epidemic, and still the population in India continued to increase.

Hundreds of thousands more died in Europe because of food shortages after World War II.

"The ravages of war, famine and epidemic have been devastating indeed," the U. N. study says, but "even so, the setbacks which they have caused in population size have often been restored by the sheer inertia of normal fertility and mortality trends. Had there been no international violence since 1850, the current population size might have been reached 10 years earlier."

The study puts the world population in 1970 at around 3.6 billion and predicts it will be 6 1/2 billion by the year 2000, adding that the 1970's may well be the decade of the fastest world population growth ever to be obtained.

Add the swift world population growth to health practices that prolong life and it is easy to see that the next generation or two is going to have problems. Wars, famines and epidemics are not the approving means any more for limiting or controlling world population, but what are the alternatives?

Abortion, sterilization, and other forms of birth control are abhorrent to many individuals and organizations. So is starvation, overcrowding, pollution, and all other things that go along with the world having more people than it can decently accommodate.

Anyone with an answer kindly forward it to the U. N. and send a carbon to the Daily Star-Journal, Warrensburg, Mo.

Beating a Path To Find One

Hikers and campers are entering wilderness areas in such numbers they are spoiling the unspoiled environment they are searching for. As an experiment this summer, says Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton, visitors to the wilderness sections of three national parks will have to compete for a limited number of access permits—"sort of like hotel reservations." This could become the order of the day for all such areas in the future.

Here is the painful paradox confronting the American people. So that it will always be possible to get off the beaten path and enjoy pristine nature we have set aside and protected areas of virgin wilderness. Yet we cannot enjoy them without beating a path of our own.—Taney County Republican, Forsyth, Mo.

L. F. Teachers Attend Workshop

Lake Forest South Elementary teachers at Harrington School attended a Social Studies Inservice Program Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. This was the latest in a series of workshops extending over a two-year period established in order to launch a new social studies program in Lake Forest South Elementary School at Harrington.

The new program will enable children to study the world, not only with text books, but filmstrips, films, pictures, maps, artifacts and reference books in the library.

Attending the workshop are Mrs. Anne Minner, fifth grade teacher; Mrs. Ellen Perry, fourth grade teacher; Mrs. Ethel Ellingsworth, fourth grade teacher; Mrs. Nancy Green, sixth grade teacher; Mrs. Constance Raymond, third grade teacher; Mrs. Joann Seyfert, librarian and W. E. Cline, principal.

Cline explained: "In the new social studies program, the librarian is an essential part of the educational scheme because she must supply the books, filmstrips, pictures and other items that must be used to supplement the text. Also, the teachers and the librarian must work closely together because children will be sent to the library for independent research. I'm extremely hopeful that this new program will open new horizons for our children."

Lake Forest Registration Set

Lake Forest South Elementary School in Harrington will hold registration for all children entering kindergarten through grade six who did not attend this school during the last school year. The registration will be held Aug. 21, 22, and 23 from 9 a.m. to noon at the elementary office on Dorman Street.

It would be helpful if children entering grades 2, 3, 4, 5 & 6 would accompany their parents when registering. This would enable us to quickly check their reading abilities so they can be placed in the proper reading groups.

Count in Discount!

You're going to notice a difference at Acme.

For one thing, you won't find any week-end specials or flashy savings for "This Week Only". We have a different approach . . . a better approach! Instead of a few low prices on a couple of hundred items, or a few "Specials" . . . we can save you a little on every item, thousands of items in the store! That means you won't have to wait until next week to see if you're going to save or not. You save every week you shop . . . consistently . . . week in and week out. We can talk about it all we want . . . but to prove it, you have to try us . . . just once. That's all it will take, and it will change your food shopping habits forever. At Total Discount Acme and Super Saver, we take savings seriously . . . because you do.
