BENJAMIN WINS SPRINT CAR RACE

"It really wasn't necessary for him to bang around like that," Harry Benjamin said after winning the United Racing Club's 25-lap super sprint car feature race at Harrington Raceway, Saturday afternoon.

"I was nicked on the rear wheel by his front wheel, but I was too far by him at that point."

When Benjamin passed leader Hal Wilson on the far turn of the 17th lap, the next 300 yards of the race resembled a demolition derby rather than a race as the two cars banged into each other.

An what Benjamin was trying to say was that Wilson could have avoided contact and didn't.

Real Estate Value Goes Up in State

Taxable real estate in Delaware increased 3.9 per cent in assessed value during fiscal 1972, according to a report of the State Department of Public Instruction.

In a study of assessments-tax rates prepared by the Division of Planning, Research, and Evaluation, the department lists a total assessed value of real estate in the state of $1,963,709,532. The amount is $75 million higher than last year's total of $1,888,441,101.

Sussex County assessments upped 7 per cent, while Kent County was up by 5 per cent and New Castle County 3.2 per cent.

Public schools in Delaware derive 22 per cent of their revenues from local property and capitation taxes. The state share of school revenues, drawn from the General Fund, is 71 per cent, the third highest state share in the nation, while the remaining 7 per cent comes from federal grants.

Assessed valuation per pupil is $14,733 statewide. Seven districts exceed the state average: Alexis I. duPont, $37,822 per pupil; Mount Pleasant, $19,689; Wilmington, $19,515; Cape Henlopen, $18,722; Alfred I. duPont, $16,714; Capital, $16,138; and Claymont, $14,854.

Financial resources of districts vary by nearly four to one in terms of full value of real estate per pupil. Property is assessed at 70 per cent of full value in New Castle County, at 60 per cent in Kent, and at 50 per cent in Sussex.

The State average full value of real estate per pupil is $22,722. The Alexis I. duPont District average is lowest at $13,925 and Appoquinimink's second lowest at $15,726.

Five districts had combined tax rates of over $2 per $100 of assessed value of taxable property, including the rate for current expenses and debt service; Wilmington, $2.833; Stanton, $2.32; Marshallton-McKean, $2.18; Newark, $2.16; and Alfred I. duPont, $2.10.

The judge was stricken at his Dover home in Woodbrook as he prepared for a vacation in Rehoboth, where he owns a summer residence.

Judge Messick was appointed to the bench in July, 1966, by the late Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr.

His 12-year term reached its half-way mark yesterday. Judge Messick was elected to Kent County Levy Court as a Democrat in 1964.

When he was appointed a judge he was serving as president of Levy Court.

The judge opened his law practice in Dover in 1955. Prior to that he had served as clerk of the Supreme Court, deputy attorney general and Kent County prothonotary.

Model Plane Used In Mosquito Study

Mosquitoes have been attacked with everything from a swat to a spray.

Now a king-size model airplane, with a wing span of seven and a half feet, is being used to find safer and better ways to spray for mosquitoes than from experimenting with full-sized aircraft.

George Whitmyre, a graduate student in the department of entomology and applied ecology at the University of Delaware, is trying to find out ways to avoid sprays drifting where they're not wanted and exactly what effect climate has on spraying.

Whitmyre is working with an ultra low volume spray (ULV) that's often used in method uses undiluted minute amounts of chemical per acre. "It's a very efficient method of applying chemicals and it's low-cost. Also environmentalists like the extremely small amounts (i.e. 1 fl. oz./Acre) of chemicals needed.

"But no one yet knows enough about such things as controlling drift from spray patterns. So, ULV spraying is restricted in Delaware," Whitmyre says.

The chemical is sprayed in extremely small droplets - averaging only 50 microns in diameter (1 micron equals 1/25,000 inches). Even a mild breeze can blow the spray where it's not wanted.

Also, the layers of warm and cooler air normally present in the atmosphere can do strange things to the ULV spray pattern. "And no one knows now exactly what will happen - or why," Whitmyre says. Spray particles may even go up to the higher cool air instead of coming down to control mosquitoes. That means that ULV sprays could finally come down miles from where they're supposed to.

Hopefully these disadvantages of ULV spraying can be

Felton Lad Drowned In Boat Crash

A late-night fishing trip Sunday ended the life of nine-year-old Shayne A. Reed when the pleasure boat in which he was riding cracked into the Mispillion jetty and capsized.

Shayne's father, James A. Reed, of Felton, was still missing Monday morning as a result of the accident. Four others were injured, none seriously.

According to State Police from Troop 7, Dewey Beach, the 17-foot Hatteras in which the group was riding apparently slipped out of deep water in the fog and drizzling rain and struck the north jetty. The point of impact was about a quarter-mile from the lighthouse. The keel of the wooden boat was chewed and splintered and a five-foot long gash was ripped in the port side.

The boat's owner and three other passengers were apparently able to climb ashore on the rocks of the jetty. They were picked up almost immediately by an unidentified boater who heard their cries for help.

The four were taken to the Milford Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and all but one released.

The four are David L. Bowen, 31, of Dover, the owner and operator of the boat; John W. Conley, 38, and his wife, Alva L. Conley, both of Felton; and Alton Mobley, 34, also of Felton. Bowen was hospitalized with chest injuries and abrasions, according to police.

The accident happened at about 10:30 p.m. as the party was heading out for an hour's fishing. By shortly after 11, State Police, Coast Guard and volunteer rescue units were in the area.

The boat, holding Shayne's body trapped in the bow, was brought ashore by the Coast Guard around 3:30 Monday morning. The boy was declared dead on arrival at the Milford Memorial Hospital at 3:50. Police said he had suffered head injuries.

Search operations began immediately, and continued throughout the night in hopes of rescuing the missing father. Reed is the father of three younger children and owner of Reed's Service, Inc., an appliance repair shop in Felton.

Although both police and Coast Guard declined to officially comment on Reed's chances for survival in the channel waters, other rescuers held little hope that he would be found alive.

However, a 40-foot patrol boat from the Coast Guard group at Cape May was ordered to continue the search all day if necessary. The boat was supplemented by Coast Guard helicopter, Marine Police and occasional volunteer boats.

Helicopter efforts Monday were to be centered from a site off Clarke Point, just above Big Stone Beach, along the shoreline to Prime Hook Beach. Boats were to search from two miles north of the jetty to two miles south.

Sunday night's search by an estimated 100 police and volunteers was concentrated along the Mispillion Creek and Inlet.

A twisted lawn chair, broken windows and tangled tarpaulins and fishing gear were brought ashore Monday morning around 8 as dragging

QUILLEN HINTS HELL GET KENT TAX POST

State Rep. George Robert Quillen, a Harrington Republican, said last week at the state fair that he may be the next Kent County receiver of taxes.

The county post was vacated several months ago when Democrat G. Dorsey Torbert died. Torbert's term would have expired in June 1975.

State law dictates that Gov. Russell W. Peterson gets to fill the vacancy with the confirmation of the Senate. Several senators said they would not object to confirming Quillen.

Quillen said he discussed the matter with the governor on Wednesday and "told the governor I'll take it."

Although several appointments face the state Senate, mostly magistrate slots, it is uncertain when or even whether the Senate will return this year.

Edward Reed Found Dead

Edward Reed, 24, of near Harrington, was pronounced dead on arrival last Thursday at Nanticoke Memorial Hospital, Seaford.

State Police at Bridgeville said Reed was found in the back seat of a car in an abandoned sandpit on Kent 439, east of Farmington.

Police found a vacuum cleaner hose attached to the exhaust pipe and leading to the side window of the car.

Mr. Reed was a native of the Harrington area who worked at the Hollywood Diner in Dover. He never married.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Reed, with whom he lived; four brothers, Charles, Lemuel Jr., Wayne and Ralph, all at home; six sisters, Mrs. Nancy Thornburg of Willow Grove, Mrs. Betty Kemp of Felton, and Misses Amy, Mary, Shirley and Catherine Reed all at home; and his Elsie Griffith of Greensboro, Md.

Services were held Sunday afternoon at the McKnatt Funeral Home, 50 Commerce St., Harrington. Burial was in Mt. Olive Cemetery near Sandtown.

Year-Round School Bill Passes

Governor Russell W. Peterson has signed into law S.B. 582, which provides local school districts with the option of having year-round school programs if they choose.

Each individual district may prepare a plan for a 230-day school program. If it receives State Board of Education approval, the plan must be approved on the local level by a referendum six months before implementation.

The law states that students must be given the option to attend school during the summer months, but it may not be mandatory. Teachers must also be given an option for the summer months.

A plan may be prepared for kindergarten through 12th grade or for Junior and Senior High only. The law does not provide for a plan that involves only the elementary grades alone.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

TODAY

Yesterday is past and done,
 Tomorrow has not yet begun,
 So make the best of this one day,
 Today is yours, so heed the way.

You use these hours; the deeds you do
 Will mark the past and future too.
 Today is yours, each sunbright hour,
 Each passing storm and sudden shower.

But you can face it, come what may,
 For God is there to show the way.

Harrington Is Ousted From Little League Tourney

Harrington's Little League All-Stars were ousted from the Delaware State Little League championship tournament by a hard-hitting Milford entry.

The locals had a terrific first inning. Paul Miller and Bill Moore hit home runs and Harrington tallied four times, kayoing Milford's starting hurler, in the process. After that outburst, it was all Milford.

Moore had two hits for Harrington, while Doug Vincent drove two runs across the plate.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Mrs. Johnston,
 On behalf of my aunt, Mrs. Christina Clymer and the Brennan family, I want to thank you and your membership for the help and the kindness shown to us in our time of grief at the passing of my mother, Mrs. Glenda Brennan. We were very interested in the brief history of your "home away from home" and much impressed with the marvelous work that you do and the help that you extend to the Senior Citizens of Harrington. Aunt Chris often told mother and I of the pleasant hours spent in the Senior Citizens Center and we were so pleased that she enjoyed your facility so much and takes such delight in the friendship and companionship made available to her and all the senior members of your community.

Although mother had lived in N. Y. for almost fifty years, Harrington was always very dear to her. She instilled in her children a deep attachment and affection for Delaware, and in particular, Harrington.

You mentioned, with justifiable pride, that through various programs and donations you have managed to pay down your mortgage to an outstanding of only $1400. As a memorial to our mother, and in deep appreciation for the kindness of your membership I enclose a check in that amount with the hope that you will use it to make the final payment on your mortgage.

Sincerely yours,
 Anna C. Brennan on behalf of myself and Mrs. Christina Clymer

Locals Do Well In Dover Track Meet

Harrington athletes won seven events in an all-comers meet, despite leaving home several performers, who won in Dover last week.

The Monday night competition saw Harry Benson make the transition from 12-13 to 14-15 competition in fine style. Harry celebrated his 14th birthday with easy triumphs in the mile (5:23.5) and the 440 (62 seconds).

Don Bryant won the 16-17 100 yard dash in 10.4 and anchored the winning 440 relay team.

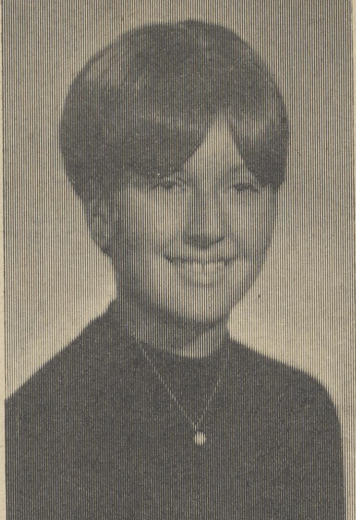

Reig Outten's last races as a nine-year-old were good efforts. Reig won the 100 in the 14.6 seconds, then finished second in the 440, despite being slowed by a rival who stopped suddenly, forcing Outten to break stride.

John Nickle was third in the 10-11 100 yard dash in 14.2, then ran a smart race to win the 220 in 33.4. Leroy Parker and Barry Thompson were next for a 1-2-3 Harrington sweep.

Parker's sisters Wanda (9) and Miranda (8) were first and second in the girls 9-and-under 220. Wanda's 37.9 clocking beat all the boys in that age group as well. Seven-year-old Marvin Parker was fourth in an earlier 9-and-under event.

Kevin Marshall, 12, was first in the 12-13 440 yard run in 73 seconds.

HARRY BINDER TALKS CARPET

On an average of three times a week, I am asked to explain how I, the guy who headed up credit collections and customer service at Playtex for twenty years, got into the carpet business. Because there is so much curiosity about it, I'm going to tell the story here.

During the early sixties, International Latex bought a latex compounder in Georgia. This compounder bought latex from I.L.C., compounded it and sold the compounds to the carpet mills in the South for use in attaching the secondary backing to carpet. Since large sums of money were involved, it became necessary for me, the corporate credit manager, to visit the carpet mills owing money to I.L.C. at regular intervals. A point was reached where I was in Georgia every other week. Finally, I took an apartment in Georgia and spent more time in Georgia than in Delaware.

Friends, learning of my close relationship with the carpet mills, started asking me to get carpet for them. I accommodated them. In fact many Dover homes have carpet bought through me many years before my store was opened.

Finally, after my near fatal accident in Georgia, I decided that not many people knew more about carpet than I and that I should therefore go into the business.

About the time I opened the store, a large mill in Georgia got into financial difficulty. I was asked to act as watchdog for the creditors. I accepted and later became the trustee in bankruptcy. As a result, during the first six months of 1970, I flew from Baltimore to Atlanta every Monday morning and from Atlanta to Baltimore every Friday evening. Monday through Friday I was in the carpet mill.

That's the story of how I backed into the carpet business and why I know where to find the good buys in carpet.

Model Plane

overcome once the reactions to weather conditions are accurately known. Also, appropriately designed spray nozzles may help.

Whitmyre's model plane has many of the characteristics of a full-sized spray-plane. For example, application rate, spray distribution, the swath width, the size of the droplets, and spray pattern are all similar to a full size spray plane. The model aircraft is being used only for research, not for actual spraying for mosquito control, Whitmyre emphasizes.

The advantages of using a model for testing are obvious, he says. "Besides the low operating cost, the model plane doesn't need a runway or a ground crew. Many more experimental flights are possible in a short period of time and it will take off and land on any grassy field and fly in any kind of weather. If it crashes, nobody gets hurt."

Whitmyre designed and machined the special spray equipment and constructed the model himself.

Flying the model requires great skill because it's heavier than most mini-planes — 15 pounds when loaded with spray. Meyer Gutman, Perryville, Md., an expert model pilot, has also assisted in test flying the aircraft, and "he's teaching me the art of flying the mini-plane," Whitmyre says.

Aerial spraying to control mosquitoes is only one of the many methods being used, according to Dr. Frank Murphy, assistant professor of entomology. "The most promising method of permanent control is proper water management practices in Delaware wetlands."

Although water management methods are utilized, supplemental use of chemicals are necessary for adequate mosquito suppression. Results of tests with the mini-plane may reduce the ecological hazard by reducing drift to off-target area.

Mrs. Joseph Hostetler
Mrs. Nancy D. Hostetler, 90, of rural Greenwood, died Sunday at the home of her daughter after a long illness.

Mrs. Hostetler was born in Mifflin County, Pa., and had lived in Greenwood for the past ten years. She was preceded in death by her husband, Joseph Hostetler.

She was a member of the Allensville (Pa.) Mennonite Church.

Mrs. Hostetler is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Lizzie Detsweiler of Allensville, Mrs. Sylvia King of Belleville, Pa., Mrs. Mary Smith of Newton, Kan., and Mrs. Barbara Slabough of Greenwood, two sons Jacob of Sarasota, Fla., and a sister, Mrs. Lizzie Kauffman of Belleville; two brothers, Noah and D.K. Hostetler, both of Belleville; 32 grandchildren; and 37 great-grandchildren.

Services were held Tuesday afternoon from the Mennonite Church. Interment was in the adjoining cemetery.

The model aircraft is being used only for research, not for actual spraying for mosquito control, Whitmyre emphasizes.

The advantages of using a model for testing are obvious, he says. "Besides the low operating cost, the model plane doesn't need a runway or a ground crew. Many more experimental flights are possible in a short period of time and it will take off and land on any grassy field and fly in any kind of weather. If it crashes, nobody gets hurt."

Whitmyre designed and machined the special spray equipment and constructed the model himself.

Flying the model requires great skill because it's heavier than most mini-planes — 15 pounds when loaded with spray. Meyer Gutman, Perryville, Md., an expert model pilot, has also assisted in test flying the aircraft, and "he's teaching me the art of flying the mini-plane," Whitmyre says.

Aerial spraying to control mosquitoes is only one of the many methods being used, according to Dr. Frank Murphy, assistant professor of entomology. "The most promising method of permanent control is proper water management practices in Delaware wetlands."

Although water management methods are utilized, supplemental use of chemicals are necessary for adequate mosquito suppression. Results of tests with the mini-plane may reduce the ecological hazard by reducing drift to off-target area.

1972 Farm and Home Field Day

Aug. 9 - a valuable day for area farmers attending the 28th annual Farm and Home Field Day at the University of Delaware Substation near Georgetown.

University researchers will be available to discuss new ideas and research with those attending. The Sick Plant Clinic, an annual service at Field Day, will be repeated this year. It gives area gardeners and crop growers an opportunity to council with plant, insect and disease specialists about their plant problems.

Research plots will be open for tours with concentration on weed control, a real problem since the early summer rains in Delaware. Farmers will be able to observe the results found in research and make a judgment about control measures best suited for their own fields. There will be examples of tests on corn and soybeans, in both high and low organic matter soils; the effectiveness of herbicides on early and late planted corn; and the use of herbicides for nutsedge control in corn as well as for use on cucumbers, pickles and direct seeded asparagus.

Dr. Paul Burbutis will be present to discuss his recent results in insect control research using black netting on pepper plants. By preventing insect damage, the netting has enabled pepper crops to produce yields three to four times greater than that on crops of unsprayed, uncovered peppers.

New ideas in raising broilers, no-tillage corn crops, a fried chicken and watermelon feast will also be featured at the Field Day.

Japanese Beetles Active

Warm, humid weather has brought out one of our most persistent garden pests - the Japanese beetle. Homeowners should be alert for beetle damage to roses, grapes, ornamentals and shade trees, according to Frank Boys, extension University of Delaware.

Adult Japanese beetles will attack a variety of plants, he explains. When feeding on foliage, they usually destroy the tissue between the veins, leaving a lacy skeleton in their path. Damage to plants often ranges from slight to heavy.

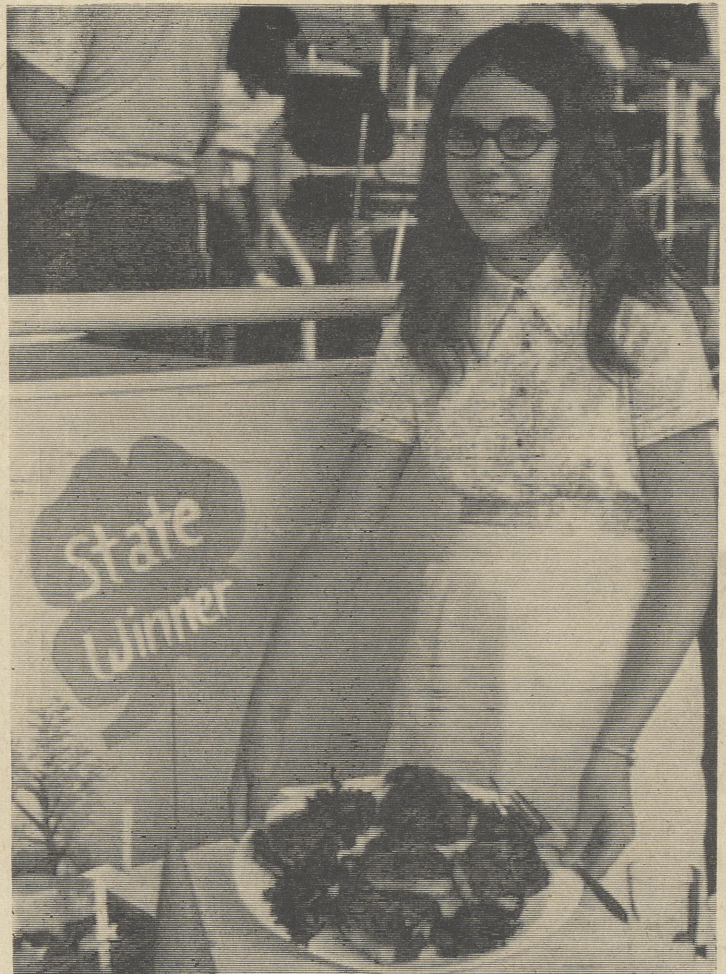

Easily identified, Japanese beetles are slightly under a half-inch long with a shiny, metallic green coloring.

Despite this formidable appearance, the beetles can be controlled, says Boys. The foliage and fruit of most plants can be protected by spraying with Sevin or methoxychlor at recommended rates. But timely and thorough applications are important. Plants should be treated as soon as the beetles appear and regular applications continued at 7 to 10 day intervals.

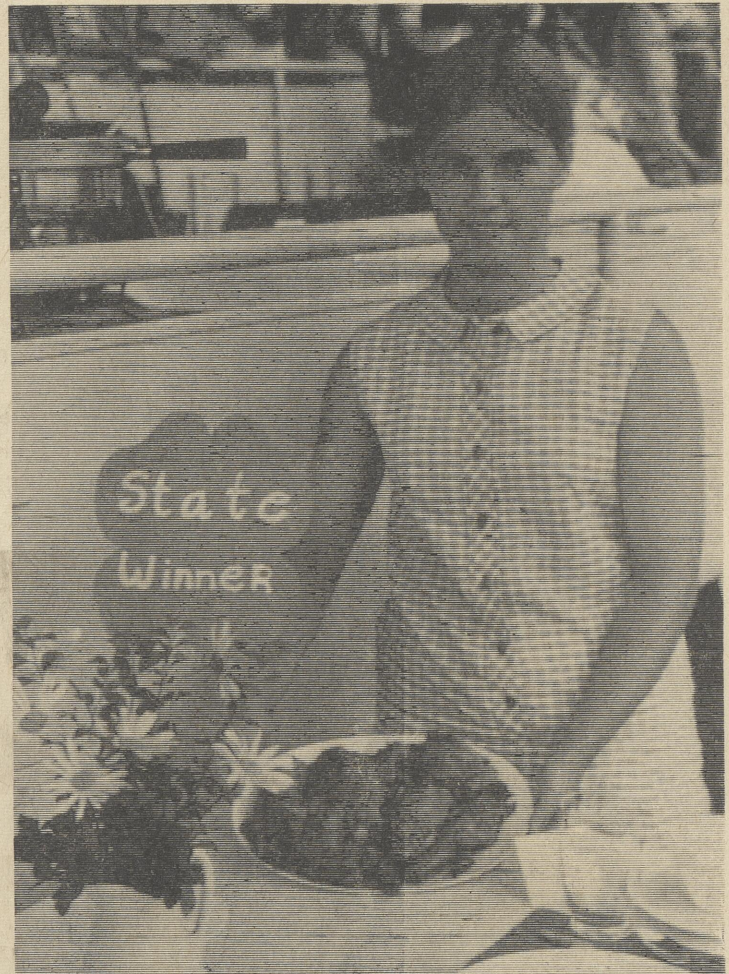

When insecticides are used around fruit and vegetables, it is important to observe the required waiting period between the last application and harvest. This waiting period is specified on the insecticide label.

Ten acres were purchased from William S. Smith April 2 for $1200. This land is now used for the exhibit of farm machinery.

On July 21, 1930, 10 acres were purchased from J. Gordon and Elva Smith for $3000. The Swine Building and grove are in this area now. On March 13, 1931, seven acres were purchased from Joseph and Mary Karlik for $300 for clay for the racetrack.

May 10, 1938, the Bert Deputy farm, owned by Martha L. Gill, was purchased for $2025 for 10 acres.

On March 12, 1939, three acres were purchased from Harry F. Tharp for $2000. This was cleaned up and made into the East Entrance.

The fair continued during World War II in 1942-43. In 1944, grounds were rented to Libby, McNeil & Libby to harbor 300 German prisoners of war. The prisoners were also there in 1945. These also did some carpenter work on the grounds under the supervision of Wilbur Layton.

In 1945, a committee headed by Sen. Fred Bailey planned parimutuel harness racing to start in 1946 which is still going today.

Jan. 4, 1946, application was made to J. Wirt Willis for a 15-day harness-racing meet to begin Aug. 15. The meet, however, lasted 18 nights and cleared $10,980.08. It was the first parimutuel harness meet on the Maryland-Delaware Circuit and one of the first in the East.

President B. I. Shaw died in October, 1947; consequently, Jan. 9, 1948, the following officers were elected: President, J. O. Williams; 1st vice president, J. Gordon Smith; 2nd vice president, Allen Cannon; secretary, Ernest Raughley; treasurer, W. H. Horleman, and assistant treasurer, Fred Powell. C. Tharp Harrington was made treasurer on the resignation of Horleman.

In 1948, it was agreed to buy land from Fount P. Billings to build a mile track, and the VonGoerres property of 75 acres be purchased for $2500.

Secretary Ernest Raughley died in 1949. He had served the fair since its beginning. In the same year, T. Brinton Holloway was employed as general manager of the fairgrounds.

On Dec. 10, 1954, a contract was signed with Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Company to build a grandstand and it was dedicated on Governor's Day at the fair the following year.

President Jacob O. Williams died Sat., June 7, 1958, and was succeeded by the present president, J. Gordon Smith.

General Manager T. Brinton Holloway died in 1961 and was succeeded by George Simpson, the present manager.

Since the building of the grandstand, a mezzanine floor and a clubhouse have been added. A restaurant was also built in 1960.

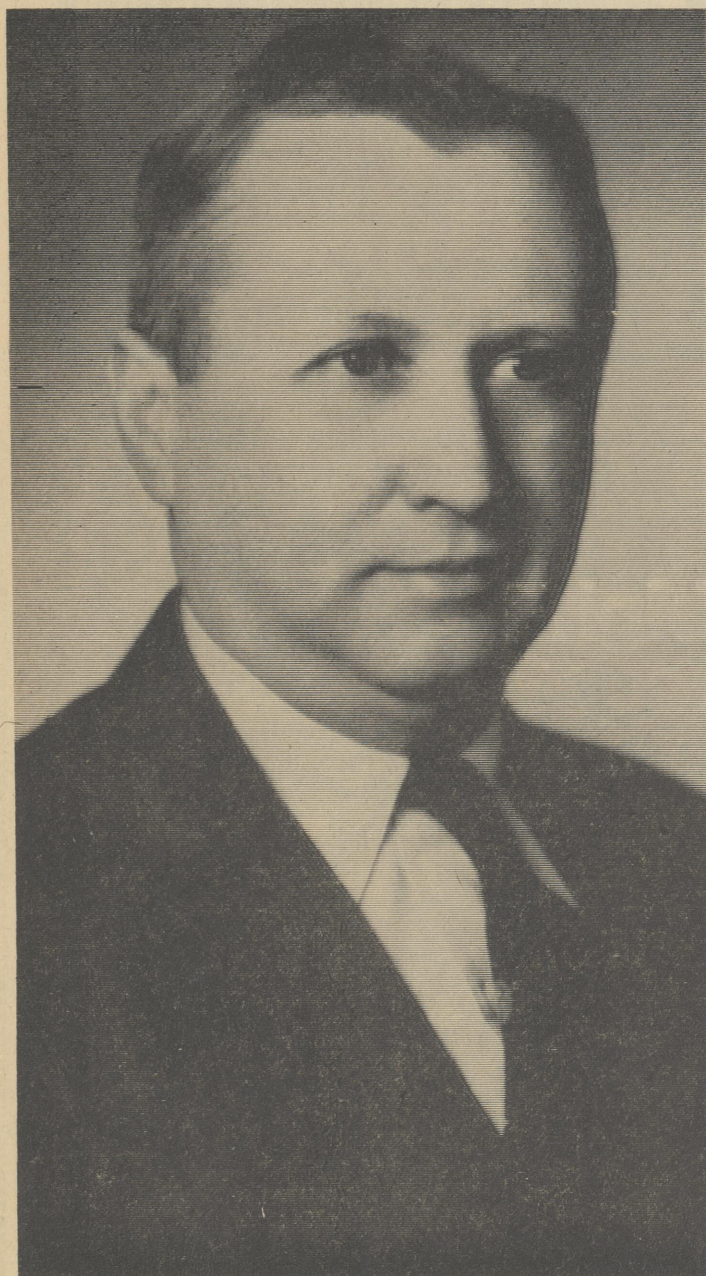

The name of the fair was changed to Delaware State Fair in 1962, and the name of Kent & Sussex Raceway was changed to Harrington Raceway in March, 1967.

The present officers of the fair are as follows: J. Gordon Smith, president; Robert F. Rider, 1st vice president; A. B. Parsons, 2nd vice president; George C. Simpson, secretary-general manager; Jehu F. Camper, 3rd vice president; Walter Messick, 4th vice president; C. Tharp Harrington, treasurer, and Mrs. Earl Thomas, assistant secretary and treasurer.

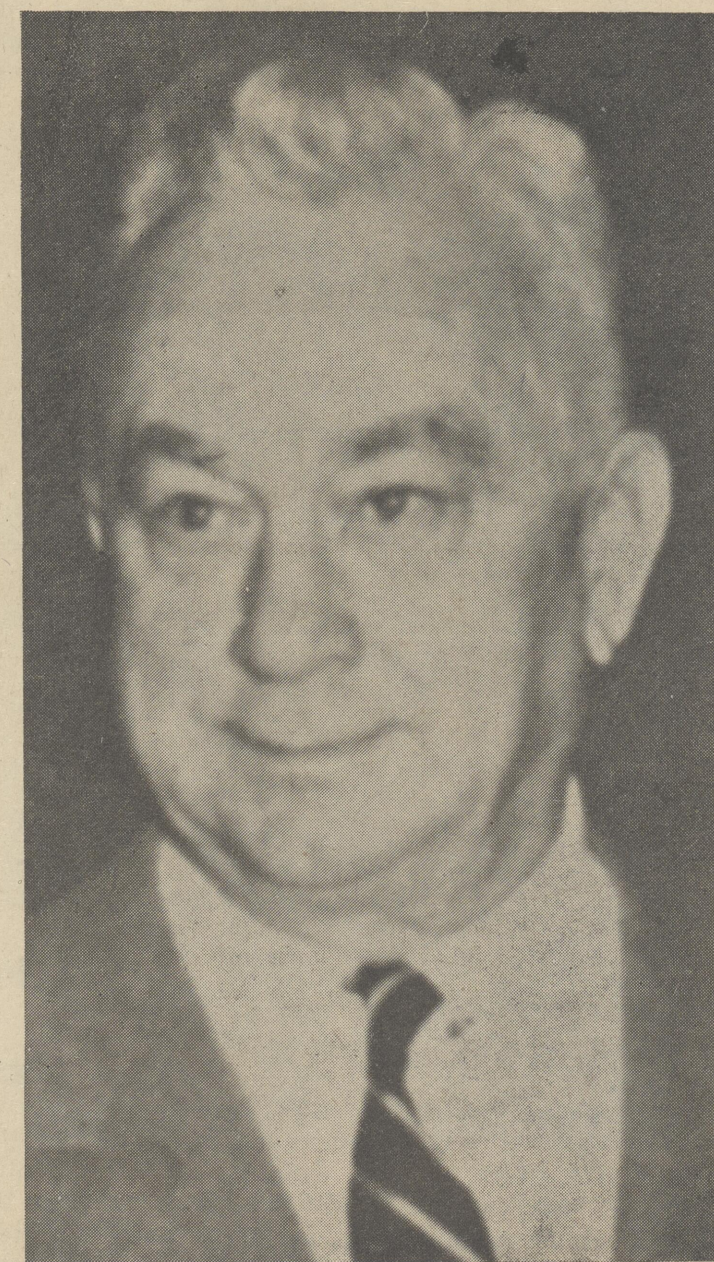

The fair is now held from Friday night to Saturday week, nine days.

Many trees suffer from lawn-moweritis. This comes about from people bumping their trees with their lawnmower. In many cases, this can be fatal to young trees and very damaging to older and well established trees.

This seems to be even more of a problem than ever before, I suppose from the increase in the number of riding mowers. These are naturally harder to handle in close areas and, of course, around trees and shrubs.

Trees are very valuable in the landscape for both beauty and shade. They also cool the air temperature in their immediate vicinity. Keeping all this in mind when riding or pushing your lawnmower, just imagine how many years it will take to replant the trees that you are bumping into.

I am sure in some cases where the lawn is mowed by youngsters, some of this damage cannot be helped, however, you should caution whoever mows your lawn against this bad practice.

Few people realize that the only living portion of a tree is just a thin layer around the outside. In many trees this is only a quarter inch thick. So you can see how bumping or continually injuring the bark can be very injurious to your trees.

It seems as though we have enough problems keeping the bugs and diseases off the trees so let's not damage them even more by running the lawnmower into them.

The University of Delaware Sciences and Cooperative Extension Service will show their feathers on Aug. 9.

Yes, that is the date for the Annual Farm and Home Field Day at the University Substation Farm in Georgetown. Everyone is invited and we

What do you do with fabric leftovers? I always seem to end a sewing project with an awkward length left over -- too much to throw away -- too little with which to bother. But there are lots of ideas around today to help us make use of these fabric pieces.

One answer is to make a matching handbag or tote bag. Patterns of various kinds are available, and you can purchase handles at craft shops and notion counters. Now you can buy kits to make tote bags. They include stiffening material and all other supplies and directions. You use the fabric of your choice, and have a professional looking bag for very little money and effort.

Many dress styles today show a combination of fabrics or colors. You may have enough leftovers for a yoke or a front dress panel or pleat inserts. By using pieces of fabric on hand you can cut down on the amount you need to buy.

Polyester knits make good swim suits. Depending on the style of suit you prefer, you may have enough leftovers for the whole thing. If you prefer a suit which gives you more cover-up, you can create an original design by combining the leftover fabric with another material.

If you have small children -- or grandchildren -- fabric leftovers are probably no problem for you. Leftovers are usually large enough for shorts, sleeveless blouses or tops and sunsuits for children.

Since quilting is in vogue again, you might want to start a family heirloom with your leftovers. Those patchwork quilts bring back fond memories of favorite clothes and happy associations.

If you really can't be bothered using up all the leftovers, sort out to groups whose members sew. Some sewing groups use the material for making children's clothes or handcraft items and will be glad to receive the larger pieces practical for their use.

Creative women concerned with stretching the family budget find great satisfaction in being able to make "something for nothing." It does take time, though. You may be able to use your time in some other way.

have a day planned full of interesting, informative, and in most cases helpful demonstrations and exhibits.

We will even have a Sick Plant Clinic that will aid you ornamental problems as well as all types of field crops. Bring your plants along and be sure to put them in a plastic bag so they will stay fresh, so an accurate identification of the problem can be made.

For most homeowners, our Demonstration Row should be very interesting. In this are many new varieties of fruits and vegetable plants. Many of these plants are 1972 releases which should be available to the home gardener next year. The most refreshing event of the day is the Watermelon Break. This occurs around three o'clock, and I believe this event is the most popular in the entire Farm and Home Field Day.

Remember that it's Aug. 9, starting at 10 a.m. The University Substation at Georgetown will be welcoming everyone. So, get a car load from your neighborhood and come on down and spend the day. We also have a very delicious fried chicken luncheon.

Local FFA Wins Three Contests

Students from Lake Forest High School won three of five contests held by the Future Farmers of America July 24-25 at the Harrington State Fair. Teams from Caesar Rodney and Woodbridge High Schools won one event each.

Lake Forest, advised by John Curtis, took first place Caesar Rodney second and Milford were third. Individual winners were Diane Alfree of Middleton High School and Comegys, both of Caesar Rodney.

Lake Forest won the agronomic crop event, with Caesar Rodney second and Woodbridge third. Individual prizes went to Richard Heikle of Lake Forest and Steve Tatman and Mark Nelson of Woodbridge.

First place in vegetable section also went to Lake Forest, followed by Christina and Caesar Rodney. Butch Harrington, Lake Forest had the high individual score, with Anna Coleman of Christina second and Carson Ganta and Lawrence Holdeman of Lake Forest tied for third.

Caesar Rodney's team victory came in livestock judging. Laurel was second and Lake Forest third. High scores were made by Alex Gooden and John Webb of Caesar Rodney, with Michael Webb of Woodbridge third.

Woodbridge won the poultry contest, with Laurel second and Caesar Rodney third. Individual winners were Ronnie Lindale, Milford; Mike Baker, Woodbridge; and, tied for third place, Robert Oliphant, Laurel, and Joanne Stafford of Newark.

State FFA advisor is William E. Dannenhauer, supervisor of agricultural occupations, the State Department of Public Instruction. Caesar Rodney advisor is Horace Short, and Noah Cain advises the Woodbridge FFA chapter.

Livestock Outlook Bright

Delaware livestock farmers are apparently facing a favorable outlook for the next nine to twelve months, according to economist at the University of Delaware.

He says the U. S. Department of Agriculture's June 1 inventory of hogs showed seven percent less animals on hand than a year earlier. This reduction in hog numbers was spread across all weight classes, so any sizeable increase in marketing is not expected during the next four to six months.

The inventory also included farrowing expectations which showed a five percent reduction for the next five months. Hog prices should remain good during most of 1973.

Beef cattle marketings are around the level of last year but cattle prices are being bid up by consumers who continue to buy meat at a record level, points out McAllister. But he says this demand for red meat at a time when livestock supplies are below normal is pushing broiler and turkey

Fleas May Stage Attack When Vacation Ends

When you and your pet return from vacation, you may find your house contains more "pets" than you had before you left.

A hungry hoard of adult fleas often develop from eggs and larvae while houses are empty of people and pets during vacation, says Frank Boys, extension entomologist at the University of Delaware.

He says flea eggs are so small you might as well not look for them. The larvae develop in rugs, upholstered furniture, lint deposits and prices a little higher. Broiler prices have reached a level they were at last year before the general price freeze was announced.

mostly in beds where dogs and cats sleep. In summer, they sometimes develop outdoors in soil.

Fleas hatched during vacation spread throughout the house and yard in search of warm-blooded animals. And when you and your pets return from vacation, you're a ready-made lunch counter.

Fleas most often attack your feet and lower legs, leaving a series of two to four skin punctures in a row.

Boys suggests treating dogs and cats with a four-percent malathion or five-percent carbaryl (Sevin) dust. Also dust their bedding areas.

If the infestation seems severe, he suggests using a light spray of 0.1 percent pyrethrum or one-percent dichlorvos (DDVP) from a pressurized can for a quick kill, but not on the pets. Spray all rugs, upholstered furniture and other areas where you see fleas.

A repeat treatment may be needed, because the spray lasts only a few hours.

To stop flea population on your lawn, use either a spray or dust of malathion or carbaryl.

Child Plus Book, Adventure

A child and a book -- it's a combination that can lead to adventure, learning, and new experiences for that child.

Miss Mary Ann Finch, extension family life specialist at the University of Delaware, believes that books are an excellent way to give your child meaningful learning experiences. Even if your child is not reading the book himself he can learn from your reading the printed words for him or by looking at the pictures.

Miss Finch remarks that there are many well-equipped libraries in the surrounding area which have books especially selected with the different age levels of children in mind.

A trip to the library can be a real adventure into learning for your child. He'll discover what a library is and become familiar with the librarian and how she can help him. He can learn responsibility by understanding that he must care for the book he borrows.

When it's time to select a book for your child, let him help. Consider his age, his interests, what he now knows and what new things he will find fun to learn.

Miss Finch illustrates that a book about a farm visit may open new doors of adventure for a city child. Or a child anticipating a visit with the doctor may get a better feeling about his visit through a book about doctors. A child in Delaware can learn how a child in Africa lives by reading a book.

The length of a story will vary, of course, says Miss Finch, so try to select one that won't be too long for your child's attention span -- or he'll lose interest.

Pictures are important to your young child and his reading. Most children like pictures in color, but good, accurate, black and white pictures can be educational as well. The pictures can be realistic or the cartoon type. If your child is looking at a cartoon picture, he may need your help to distinguish what is real and what is "pretend." You are an important influence on your child's attitudes about books and reading.

Your feelings are easily relayed to your child now and will influence his future attitudes. If you show him that you enjoy and find an interest in reading and books, then he will tend to use books more as he grows up.

Plan a trip to your local or area library soon. "It will be a real learning adventure for Finch says.
