Inspection Lane Closed Monday

All four of the Department of Public Safety's motor vehicle inspection lanes will be closed Mon., Sept. 4, in observance of the Labor Day holiday.

William J. Warren, Jr., director of the Division of Motor Vehicles, reminds all school bus owners that their school buses must be inspected prior to hauling any students to and from school next month. He said most of the buses have already been inspected, but those that have not will be in violation of the State school bus laws if children are transported in them before they are inspected.

The motor vehicle director also urges vehicle owners whose tags expire Sept. 30 to avoid the last-minute, end-of-the-month rush to the lanes by getting their vehicles inspected now. It is suggested that motorists take advantage of Wednesdays when all four lanes are open for the public's convenience from noon to 8:30 p.m.

On Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, the lanes are open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Persons bringing their vehicles to the lanes for inspection must present proof of liability insurance as required by law before registration can be obtained.

Nabbed After Chase

A high speed chase by State Police last Thursday resulted in the arrest of a Pennsylvania youth and a Virginia man for alleged theft and assault.

William A. Wylie, 23, of Morristown, Pa., is being held at Delaware Correctional Center in lieu of $3,000 bond, while Robert E. Bailey, of Hallwood, Va., is being held at Stevenson Home in lieu of $4,850.

Police spotted the two near Woodside speeding and began a chase which went up to speeds of 80 miles per hour.

City Hall to Close Labor Day

City Hall will be closed Labor Day.

Wheat Allotment Notices Go To Producers

Notices of 1973 wheat allotments and an official explanation of the 1973 wheat set-aside program have been mailed to producers in Kent County, according to Russell C. Bowdle, chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

All participants will set aside an acreage equal to 86 per cent of their farm domestic allotment, will earn wheat certificate payments based on their domestic allotment, and will be eligible for Commodity Credit Corporation loans on wheat grown on participating farms.

An additional set-aside option also is offered, Bowdle said. Contingent upon their 1972 wheat acreage, producers may set aside an additional acreage up to 150 per cent of their domestic wheat allotment in return for a payment of 88 cents a bushel times established yield times acres of additional set-aside.

A producer who accepts the additional set-aside option also agrees to limit his production of 1973 wheat. The limitation is determined by the formula: 1972 wheat planted acreage on the farm plus any 1972 additional set-aside, minus the 1973 additional set-aside.

"The big point to make at this time is that a wheat grower in the 1973 wheat program can go one of two ways: (1) maintain required set-aside and conserving base acreages with no limit on his wheat acreage. (2) Maintain required set-aside additional set-aside, and conserving base acreages and limit his wheat acreage," the ASC Committee chairman said, "he should check with the county ASC office at Dover for full details."

A number of other important items are covered in the official explanation, including a reminder that 1973 is the year when a farmer who did not plant a program crop during the past two seasons can lose his allotment if he fails to plant and report for a third successive year.

Substitutions provisions are spelled out. Soybeans, corn, grain sorghum, and barley may be substituted for wheat to preserve allotment history.

"Then, too, I want to remind producers that set-aside acreage—both the required and any additional set-aside—must be of the same average quality as the other cropland on the farm," Bowdle said.

Producers may ask for set-aside inspection and measurement service from the county ASC office in order to assure themselves well ahead of time that set-aside land is acceptable. This service is offered at cost.

Allotment notices to wheat producers are sent several months before sign-up, at which time the farmers give official notice of their intent to participate in the Set-Aside Programs and designate their set-aside acreage. The official sign-up period has not yet been announced.

PSYCHIATRIC CENTER TO DOUBLE SERVICES

The Charles L. Terry Jr. Children's Psychiatric Center will be able to double its services with the opening of the hospital's second pod on Sept. 18.

Since opening in September 1969, the hospital has treated 67 children aged 6 to 13 for emotional problems. The opening of the second pod will allow the hospital to extend its diagnosis and treatment work to children between the ages of 6 months and 6 years.

According to Dr. Priscilla A. Keeler, center director, the hospital is one of only a few such hospitals in the country that provide in-patient services to emotionally disturbed children under the age of 6.

Each of the hospital's pods has a capacity of 18 beds. Each unit can also provide treatment to an additional 7 children through partial or day hospital services.

"We do both diagnostic and treatment work," says Dr. Keeler, "and we try to bring these children up to their age level."

Dr. Keeler also conducts weekly "Mother's classes" which are attended by the mothers of patients. She also plans to eventually bring some of these mothers into the hospital's treatment program to work with their own children.

Although in-patient services to children under 6 won't begin until mid-September, the center has been providing day hospital services since July 28 to 5 pre-school children.

At the center, children stay an average of 1 year, which is from an average of 5½ months during the first calendar year of operation.

Construction Begun at Cedar Creek

The Division of Fish and Wildlife is pleased to announce that contracts have been let and construction started to enlarge its parking and boat launching facilities at the Cedar Creek Access area near Mispillion Light House east of Milford. This facility has increased in popularity and fishermen usage since its original installation three years ago because of its proximity to the mid-bay fishing grounds and the tremendous success of the fisherman in catching the popular weakfish or sea trout.

When completed, this access area will park approximately 450 cars and boat trailers and will provide six additional boat launching ramps with two additional floating piers. It is being constructed under the Federal Aid in Fisheries Restoration Act which provides for 75% of the total costs of the project. These funds are obtained from a Federal excise tax on fishing equipment which fishermen purchase.

Construction of the parking facilities was let under contract to Seaford Construction Co., Inc. for a bid of $69,032.50. The launching ramps, piers and bulkheading was let to W. B. Mitten and Sons, Inc. for a bid of $106,970.00. Construction is scheduled for completion by January 5, 1973.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

Back home after two weeks in Johnstown, Pa., scenes of my childhood, I find myself in the same predicament as:

FARMER JOHN

Home from the city Farmer John
 Arrived this morning safe and sound
 His black clothes off and old clothes on
 "Now I'm myself" says Farmer John, and "think I'll look around."

Up leaps the dog, "get down you pup,
 "Are you so glad you'd eat me up?"
 The colt is going to be a roan,
 A beauty too...how he has grown.

The old cow moos at the gate to meet him
 The horses prick up their ears to greet him
 He pats old Bay and slaps old Grey
 "Ah! this is the comfort of being away."

These fields, for the city's stifled air
 Big motels with hustle and flair
 Land all houses and roads all stones
 That deafen your ears and batter your bones.

I wouldn't give this spot and peaceful life I live
 For all their Paris and Rome.

Cross-Country Team Young, Promising

Ex-West Chester cross-country runner, Jim Blades, has a young, talented group of hopefuls on hand for the 1972 season. Blades will be entering his first campaign after taking over for the retired Harold McDonald, who started cross-country in lower Delaware and compiled a fabulous record.

Blades was the first cross-country coach at Chipman School (grades 7 and 8). In 3 years his charges were unbeaten and in 1971 entered a state jayvee meet, competed against older runners and finished in the runnerup spot.

Most of 1972's top candidates are graduates of the Chipman program, possibly six out of the first seven, started with Blades at Harrington.

Friday night's first workout of the season saw Eddie Thompson lead a three mile run with Vernon Bowers, last fall's No. 1 Spartan, close behind. Freshman ace, Harry Benson, was next followed by classmates Rich Wright, Jim Guyton and Barry Doherty. No. 1 track miler junior Ron Mosley was next. David Moore of Frederica, is still at basketball camp. Moore is expected to battle Thompson and Bowers for the No. 1 spot.

Others for a chance to break into the top seven are Tom Clarke, Howard Caskey and Rick Sullivan.

John Moffett, a Chipman runner is only 13, but beat all but seven varsity runners Friday night. Jamie Simpson was ninth, with Eric Hamsher close behind, John Nickle, an 11-year-old new-comer, continues to impress coaches and varsity runners with his ability and courage. Ten-year-olds Mark Miller, Reig Outten and Ken "Bullet" Cerkleski look like future greats, also.

Nathan Z. Sipple Sr.

Nathan C. Sipple Sr., 57, 15 Wyoming Ave., died Monday in Kent General Hospital, Dover.

Cause of death was an apparent heart attack, the family said.

Mr. Sipple was a lifelong resident of the Wyoming area and was in the used car and trucking business for 25 years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Beatrice Sipple; a son, Nathan Z. Jr. of Wyoming; a sister, Mrs. Florence Melvin of North Port Charlotte, Fla.; and three grandchildren.

Services will be Friday afternoon at 2 at the Berry Funeral Home, Main St., Felton, where friends may call Thursday night. Interment will be in Barratt's Chapel Cemetery, Frederica.

SAFETY BILL

cluded all the elements of a bill Boggs introduced last year to provide a $50,000 death benefit to the families of policemen, firemen and corrections officers killed in the line of duty. The Committee bill, Boggs noted, broadened this coverage to include court and prison personnel engaged in dangerous work as well as National Guard personnel assigned to civil duty. It also added a $25,000 payment for loss of a limb.

 "These men and women live daily with unusual danger to their well-being in order to protect our lives and property," Boggs said. "We cannot, unfortunately, remove the countless hazards which they face every day, but we can give them the peace of mind that comes with knowing that their families will be provided for if they should be seriously handicapped or perish while performing their duties," the Delaware Senator observed.

Boggs also noted that the measure, scheduled to be taken up by the Senate when it reconvenes on September 5, would provide benefits retroactive to January 1, 1967. "I am particularly pleased that this would permit compensation to be paid to the families of two Delaware State Troopers, Ronald L. Carey and David C. Yarrington, who were killed in January of this year," Boggs said.

Mrs. Edwin P. Lord

Mrs. Elsie Mae Lord, 87, died Tuesday, Aug. 22, at Milford Memorial Hospital. Her husband died several years ago.

Surviving are a son, Col. Norman Lord, Lexington, Va.; five daughters, Mrs. Margaret Tatman, Lincoln; Mrs. Irene Webb, Milford; Mrs. Ethel Radon, New York City; Mrs. Lillie McCartney, Wilmington; Mrs. Marie Smith, Harrington; a sister, Mrs. Eva Hudson, Glenn Dale, Cal.; eight grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.

She was a member of Union Methodist Church, near Lincoln, where she was organist for many years.

Funeral services were held last Saturday afternoon at Union Methodist Church. Interment was at Hollywood Cemetery, near Harrington.

Arrangements were by the Berry Funeral Home, Milford.

TOWN AND COUNTRY TOPICS

FRANCIS WEBB
KENT COUNTY AGENT

Many Kent County farmers may be eligible for a disaster loan through the Farm and Home Administration.

Approval was given by President Nixon to declare Delaware farmers eligible for disaster loans. Eligibility for these loans would be based on farm enterprises that suffer a loss in income this year due to the earlier adverse weather conditions. These losses must be at least 10 per cent of a major crop or a 20 per cent loss over the entire farming operation. These figures will have to be proved against previous years' income tax reports.

Due to a change in the law, it now provides that all eligible farmers can receive up to $5,000 forgiveness clause with the remaining borrowed money to be paid back at 1 per cent interest.

One other stipulation to be eligible for such a loan is that you have to have used credit of some kind in running your farming operation. Unlike a regular FHA loan, you do not have to have been turned down by other lending institutions to be eligible for a disaster loan. It should be clearly understood that if you qualify for a disaster loan, your borrowing power with other lending sources would have no bearing on your eligibility for the disaster loan.

It is recommended for persons having crop failures this year, applications for loans should be made when the crops have been harvested and accurate losses determined.

For further details on the disaster loans, get in touch with your local FHA Office. The Kent County is supervised by Drew Clendaniel and is located on the east side of U.S. 13, Camden, telephone number 679-3294.

Corn blight is showing up throughout the state. No reason to get alarmed, however, because most of this is the northern corn leaf blight, which we have every year anyway.

You may notice some varieties of your field corn showing large dead areas in the leaves. These, in most cases, are the lesions of northern leaf blight known as "Helminthosporium turcicum." Plant breeders have been developing corn hybrids resistant to this disease for many years; however, some hybrids have less resistance than others.

There is nothing to get alarmed about, but you should be checking on your different hybrids, and if the northern blight causes severe damage, future planting of that hybrid should be terminated. There are no control sprays recommended for this disease.

I have not yet seen any southern corn blight in Kent County this year. This is as a result of normal cytoplasm hybrids being planted. Very likely you will not see the southern blight this year because of your selection of good normal hybrids, so certainly keep this in mind this winter when selecting hybrids for the 1973 growing season.

Just a reminder when getting harvesting equipment ready for this fall, make sure that all chain and belt guards and covers are in place and in good condition. Be sure that all combines and pickers have fire extinguishers conveniently located on them. It seems as though a $20,000 harvester should be worth a $10 fire extinguisher!

One other important point all of you realize, but seldom adhere to, is to make sure your equipment is taken out of gear before any adjustments are made or unplugging the machine takes place. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure!

It Seems To Me

Janet Reed

In every fashion cycle there are becoming styles for every figure. The important thing is to know your own figure, but few of us see ourselves as we really are. The ability to know your own figure is one of the most elusive and important elements of selecting becoming as well as good fitting styles.

Mainly, it's a matter of proportion -- the proportion of shoulder width to hip width; the proportion from neck to waist, from waist to knee, and the total height. Once you know your own proportions compare to a standard, you can create optical illusions to give you the appearance of a perfect figure.

How can you compare your proportions to a standard? One clue is the way a misses ready-to-wear dress fits you. Does the skirt always need shortening, put yet the waistline seems to be in the right place? This tells you that your body proportions from waist to knee are shorter than average. Look for high waisted styles to give the illusion of better proportion.

Does your skirt always need to be let out at the hipline? You know the problem here! Look for styles that create an illusion of width at the shoulder to balance that hip width. Or if you can't take the shortening line formed by a shoulder yoke or other widening detail, look for styles with eye-catching interest at the neckline. And, stay away from details that call attention to the hip line, detail such as large hip pockets or long full sleeves.

Lawn Care Program Scheduled at U of D

A lawn care program for Delaware homeowners is scheduled for Thurs., Sept. 7, at the University of Delaware's Agricultural Hall, Newark. The program will run from 6:30 to 9 p.m., according to David Tatnall, extension garden specialist.

A tour of University turf plots will feature tests with different lawn grass mixtures and work with ground covers. Sprinkler irrigation systems used on the plots include pop-up sprinklers, quick-couplers for rotating units and electrically controlled valves. Sub-surface irrigation is also being used on several of the turf plots.

A lawn care clinic will be available where University specialists will diagnose personal lawn problems. Visitors are encouraged to bring sod specimens to the clinic. Lawn

Are you short waisted? Maybe the lowered belt line is for you -- if your hip line is slender.

Waistline too thick? Look for dress lines that come from a wide shoulder in to a narrow line at the waistline and out again at hipline. Some princess styles have this line.

Each of us is different. No set of rules will be right for everyone. You must know and accept your own figure. If you don't have a full length mirror -- buy one by all means. It can be your best friend in telling you what is becoming -- if you let yourself be objective and see yourself as you really are -- not as you wish you were, or as you were twenty pounds ago.

insects, diseases and weeds will also be identified and specific controls recommended. The University's annual lawn care program is sponsored by the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service and is open to the public.

Stakeless Tomato Wins Taste Test

The new stakeless tomato tastes good, too.

In a recent University of Delaware taste test, 60 per cent of the "tasters" preferred Stakeless over two other commonly grown varieties, Better Boy and Delshier.

The test was held during the Farm and Home Field Day at the university's station in Georgetown. According to Roger Ginder, extension crops marketing specialist, 72 men and women cooperated in the testing.

Stakeless is the new tomato variety released this year by the University of Delaware. It should be available to home gardeners by 1973, according to Professor Eugene Brasher, the university plant scientist who developed Stakeless.

This tomato has bright-red, large (five to eight ounces), mild-flavored, meaty fruit with few seeds. It also resists cracking.

In addition, Stakeless may eliminate the need for pruning and staking garden tomato plants, Brasher says. This variety has extremely thick stems that support the fruit off the ground, if planted in full sun. It only grows 18 - 24 inches high, so it won't topple over and need to be staked.

Also, the tomatoes are protected against sun scald since Stakeless has unusual leaves that actually look like leaves on a potato plant.

Fortunately, Stakeless is also resistant to Fusarium wilt, a tomato disease that often severely damages plants in Delaware. And, it is sufficiently tolerant to early blight that its foliage stays green and attractive summer through fall.

Under Delaware conditions, Stakeless takes about 80 days to mature after transplanting. It will continue to produce tomatoes until frost.

Stakeless has many advantages for the home gardener, Brasher states. However, the taste is the final criteria.

And, Stakeless tastes best, according to taste-testers.

Check for Caterpillars

Home gardeners are reminded that many kinds of worms and caterpillars attack garden plants during late summer. Most garden plants are susceptible to at least one kind of worm and some plants are attacked by a variety of these insect feeders, says Frank Boys, extension entomologist at the University of Delaware.

To detect an infestation early, look for signs of insect activity as well as the worms themselves. When worms first hatch from the eggs that are laid by moths or butterflies, they are very small and difficult to see. However, their feeding injury to foliage can usually be seen, if you examine the undersides of both new and old leaves, explains Boys.

Another good sign that worms are at work is the presence of their droppings. As they feed they leave small to large black or green pellets on the foliage. Many caterpillars leave webs.

When cutworms are the culprits, examine plants just before it gets dark or scratch around in the soil at the base of injured plants. Cutworms are night feeders and will hide under the soil during the day.

To control worms on ornamentals, as well as vegetables, Boys recommends using carbaryl (Sevin) spray or dust, or a methoxychlor spray. If cabbage loopers are the problem, Bacillus thuringiensis spray gives good results. Insecticides must be applied thoroughly to be effective.

Repeat applications may be necessary, as moths fly in to lay new eggs.

Read label directions of insecticides completely before each use. And use only the recommended amount, stresses Boys.
