Mrs. Davis graduated from Smyrna High School, attended the University of Bridgeport, Bridgeport, Conn., and earned a B.S. from Delaware State College. She lives in Clayton with her husband, Norman, and their three-year-old son, Wade. In addition to her classroom assignment, Mrs. Davis also is sponsor of the cheerleaders.

Convictions Cut Phone Frauds In Delaware

Diamond State Telephone Co. said there have been 20 major fraud apprehensions in Delaware so far this year.

James Nolan, the telephone company's senior security agent for Delaware, said of these 20 apprehensions, 10 have been arrested.

"Those convicted include people from all walks of life: housewives, businessmen, students, and servicemen," Nolan added.

"One of the recent cases involved an airman who was convicted of using a phony telephone credit-card number to make 100 calls to Philadelphia. He was sentenced to six months in prison by a military court."

"The number of toll fraud cases have dropped somewhat over the summer months."

"We're not sure if the word has gotten out that it doesn't pay or whether it is just a summer lull," the agent said. In the last year the telephone company has stepped up its security activities to halt toll fraud. This includes a closer watch on uncollected toll calls.

Also, faster case-work with the distant telephone company's security agents are also doing a better job which helps us solve more cases, the local security man said.

"It isn't fair that our honest subscribers should have to carry the burden created by the free-loaders," he added.

Raceway Handle Sets Record For Meet

A record handle for the fall meet was set at Harrington Raceway Saturday night when $20,280 passed thru the windows in the first race.

Handle for the 10 races in the evening was $178,324. George C. Simpson, raceway general manager, said part of the attendance of the afternoon's 10 races remained for the night's racing and this helped the handle.

He added the track's record handle, for a single race, was a little over $22,000, established around five years ago.

SPECIAL EDUCATION TEACHERS VISIT SEAFORD PROJECT

Mrs. Thelma Miller and Mrs. Phyllis Greenhaugh, Lake Forest South Elementary School special education teachers, visited the West Seaford Elementary School to observe a new special education program designed around a learning center where a team of teachers provide the help that each child needs. The children spend most of the day in special classes and come to the learning center for special help.

Both teachers in reporting to W.E. Cline, the principal, were enthusiastic. He explained, "We are attempting to develop a special education program that will give children useful experiences in regular classrooms besides the kind of help that will get children out of special education and into regular classes again. Too often children have been locked into special classes for years. I have visited schools in New Jersey and will shortly be going to Seaford, Marshallton and New Castle to see their programs. I expect to send Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Greenhaugh to other schools this year. I hope to be able to provide a superior special education program next year."

AT HARRINGTON RACEWAY—Paul Kemp of Dover, is congratulated for winning the "Paul Vineyard Pace," by the man of the night, 82 year-old trainer-driver, Paul Vineyard. The sulky master of Harrington was honored by Harrington Raceway and many friends and associates this week. Winning horse was the 7-year-old Rudagar gelding Mr. Joe R., owned by Phoebe and Mary Ann Kemp, also of Dover. He turned in the half-mile in the "slop" in 2:17. Ed Bennett (far left), Mrs. Vineyard, driver Olin Davis, publicist, Jack Renault and Frank Quillen were among the many visitors in victory lane to congratulate Vineyard and pilot Kemp. The Harrington meet continues through Nov. 4 with Monday and Tuesday the only dark nights. This coming Sunday the Kent oval will present another double-header card with ten races at 2 p.m. and ten more at 7 in the evening. Post time week nights is 8 p.m.

Paul Vineyard or 50 Yrs. on a Sulky

"But wait! The frantic thousands are startled from their seats as out of nowhere flashes a horse whose thunderous beats of hoof and heart are grandeur - by inches are his gains Fred Greenly's horse is coming - Paul Vineyard at the reins!"

They honored horseman Paul Vineyard at Harrington Raceway last Friday night; not because he was a great horseman and is retiring at 82 years, but because he is a great horseman who is not retiring at 82.

In 1912, Paul Vineyard would race horses hitched to sleighs right down the center of town; before that he would drive his own milk-wagon horse, Jim, (after the deliveries) from his native Bridgeton, to Salem, N.J. where he'd campaign him in matinees and then drive him back to his farm home.

In one of the scrap books, neatly pieced together by Mrs.

Vineyard, there is a list of more than 1000 horses - standardbreds - that Paul hat Paul has trained and piloted. There is another list titled, "Tracks Where Paul Raced" - 77 of them; from Maine to California.

In a half-century of sports pages, the colorful reinsman has been nicknamed, "Handsome Paul", "Gimme-a-Cigar" Vineyard - "Longshot" - "the Acaro of Trotting" and, as recently as 1961, "the greatest man we know of with a front runner."

Paul and his stock have blazed the front cover of the Harness Horse; appeared in Life and Post magazines and the Morning Telegraph; been featured in Sunday supplements and the subject of volumes of copy in major newspapers all over the country.

The four lines at the first of this story, and those at the end, are from the poem, "Direct Express", written by the late J. Harvey Burgess, of Harrington. The tribute to the greatest son of Billy Direct, recounts the famous upset contest in which Vineyard up behind the stallion pacer beat favored Jimmy Creed and nine other top contenders in the $25,000 Invitational at Roosevelt Raceway back in 1947.

Direct Express, who died in harness at the age of five, was owned by the late Fred B. Greenly, of Harrington. As a three-year-old he, with Vineyard at the lines, took a mark of 1:59 3/4 and he was Pacer of the Year in 1946, undefeated.

The roster of two-minute pacers the elder statesman of harness has guided down victory lane reads like a "Who's (Continued on Page 9)

Md. Driver Hospitalized After Spill

Driver - trainer Barrett Smith, of Church Falls, Md., suffered fractures of both knees when the horse he was driving fell at Harrington Raceway last weekend.

Smith was aboard the three-year-old Bonnie Hurricane when she stumbled and fell, catapulting the driver to the track at the finish of the fourth race Saturday night.

The horse walked under her own power after she regained her feet. Smith was admitted to Milford Memorial Hospital.

Seven daughters, Mrs. Eunice Brown, Mrs. Mildred Welch, both of Harrington; Mrs. Dorothy Raughley, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mrs. Esther Andreasen, Wilson, Conn.; Mrs. Evelyn Groves, Centerville, Md.; Mrs. Audrey Kates, Felton; and Mrs. Ella Brown; 48 grandchildren, 112 great-grandchildren and 17 great-great-grandchildren.

The second double-header Sunday of harness racing will take place this week at Harrington Raceway, track management announced.

Twenty races have been programmed by Racing Secretary John Phillips for Sunday. First post time is 2 p.m. Post in the evening will be 7 o'clock.

Meanwhile, this week on the Delmarva oval, local drivers and owners continued to visit victory lane here with Dover's Paul Kemp, piloting Mr. Joe R. and winning the Paul Vineyard Pace; Hubert Blades, of Seaford capturing the Wilkinson-Hess trophy with Jimmy Wayne, owned by Tom Plummer, of Wilmington and Lee Daniels of Clayton, scoring in the H.M.R. Auxiliary of Stockley Pace with his own Herrljou Byrd.

Eddie Taylor, leading driver of the meeting, of Columbus, Ohio, won the Biden for Senate Pace with Dave, a four-year-old Brown Star gelding, owned by Austin Kayser, of Frederick, Md.

Also wheeling down to the winner's circle last week were: Salisbury's Provisional, ace Jack Bauman with Nell Crain, owned by Christine Whyland, also of Salisbury; Richard Putz of Georgetown, with Fannie Byrd; Eastern Star N. with Milford's Vinal Kirby and Don Robertson of Georgetown, with Ivy Chuck.

U.S. SENATE PASSES BEACH EROSION BILL

The Senate approved a major federal project to repair beach erosion along the Delaware side of Delaware Bay.

The project, proposed by Sen. J. Caleb Boggs (R-Del.), lists a number of specific locations along the bay coast where this demonstration work will be undertaken: Pickering Beach, Kitts Hummock, Bowers, Slaughter Beach, Broadkill, and Lewes.

"Quite obviously, the current erosion damage is no temporary problem," Boggs told the Senate. "Nature is not repairing itself. This continuing threat must be met with new innovative methods to reverse this damage, and it must be met now. I believe that new solutions are needed because conventional beach nourishment tactics have a short life expectancy and high annual maintenance costs."

Boggs pointed out that a recent study by the Army Corps of Engineers showed that erosion along the Delaware Bay beaches has been continuous since earliest surveys dating back more than a century.

Horse Fund Stakes Closed Sunday

The Delaware Standardbred Development Fund Stakes came to a close Sunday afternoon during Harrington Raceway's finest days. The ninth race of the afternoon card, a 3-year-old colt and gelding trot, saw Drexel Mark trained and driven by John Belote cover the mile in 2:10 2/5. The 1-5 favorite Regal Cadet broke at the 3/4 pole and Drexel Mark took command the rest of the way. Presenting the trophy to the owner in this $3,000 stake was Ed Alexander, a member of the Delaware Standardbred Development Fund Board.

This concluded the series at the Harrington Raceway for the fall meet. A record amount of money $102,315 was awarded in purses during the session. The series will continue at Dover Downs Raceway starting November 5.

Editorial—J. Harvey Burgess: We have read of Stevenson banners being displayed at the Eisenhower meeting, which is an indication of good taste on the part of the Democrats. However, we read of many Democratic meetings where "I Like Ike" banners are displayed and where feeble attempts at heckling are attempted. These "I Like Ike" banners, and the attempt at heckling, says the papers, are the work of teen-agers. Certainly the teen-agers like Ike—but they like Hopalong Cassidy better.

Veterans Administration News

Q - How long can I go to school under the GI Bill? A - You are entitled to 1 1/2 months of schooling for every month of active duty after Jan. 31, 1955, up to a maximum of 36 months for 18 or more months of service. However, no educational assistance may be paid after eight years from date of your last discharge, or after May 31, 1974, whichever is later.

Q - I'm drawing VA compensation for a 100 per cent service disability, and the agency has granted a waiver on my GI life insurance premiums. Should I return the insurance dividend check I received recently, since I pay no premiums? A - No. You are entitled to the dividend. Under the waiver provision on your policy, the insurance continues in force as though premiums are being paid.

Q - If my job requires transfer to another location can I be released from liability for a home purchased with a GI loan? A - Yes, if the loan is current, the buyer agrees to assume your liability, and VA accepts him as a good credit risk. A release from liability does not automatically restore your GI home loan entitlement, however. Entitlement may be restored only if the loan has been repaid in full.

OCTOGENARIANS — WHY WE ARE STILL AROUND

At such an age!
 With every day, a lightning page
 Turned in the world's great Wonder-Book
 Where-on the leading nations look.

When miracles are everywhere
 And every inch of common air
 Throbs a tremendous prophecy
 Of greater marvels yet to be.

There are at least a dozen of us oldsters in Harrington in the Octogenarian bracket, primarily because of good neighbors and having lived close to the Good Book. Hard work and a good life—pardon have also been factors, as portrayed in the wonderful "Paul Vineyard Story" in this issue.

Paul is one of those in mind, others worthy are Howard Williams, Walter Lekites, Sr., Charley Peck, Sr., John Wyatt, Bill Wheeler, Bill McCabe, George Price, Rueben Outten, Winslow Knapp, Leon Kent and several others still around because of good surroundings and an active life in their early days. These events will be mentioned in later issues.

One of us was asked, "to what do you credit your age?"

Answer: "Because, was born in 1888."

THE SINGING WESTS — A week of revival will be held at the Greenwood Wesleyan Church Oct. 15-22, with the Singing Wests - Rev. Edna West and daughter Carol. Their widespread ministry in sermon and song has included the states, Canada and Newfoundland.

Rev. Ray Music and family of Baltimore will be special workers for Rally Day, Oct. 15, with the West family beginning Monday night. Everyone is invited to share this spiritual "Feast of Good Things." Services are held nightly at 7:30 and on Sunday, 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. Rev. Etta Clough is the pastor.

Something New In Politics

The American political system, which has seen many changes in the past few years, some good and some bad, experienced something new, "political espionage." Or at least someone has been caught with their finger in the pie and in the process of conducting espionage in the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee Headquarters.

Links direct to the present administration point definitely toward an attempt to secure information and disrupt the Democratic party.

Operating on a relatively small scale, we always thought the two-party system meant only that one was supposed to provide a better slate of candidates than the other and then out-campaign their opponents on a higher level than we have experienced in the last few days.

However it becomes quite evident there are those in the political scene of this country who would go to any means legal or otherwise, to override the rights of others.

This situation cannot be overlooked nor can it be permitted in the American society or political arena. If one party or the other is guilty of these cloak and dagger operations, those responsible should be severely punished.

There is still room in the American political scene for honesty. . . but it will be fostered only if the leaders agree ## and the public demands.

Woodbridge Upsets L.F. 12-6

There was no joy in Mudville, Friday night. Lake Forest fans, soaked by a driving rain had their miseries compounded, when winless Woodbridge upset the undefeated Spartans 12-6.

The teams sloshed through three scoreless periods, although the losers did have one touchdown called back.

Lawrence Sorden ran 17 yards for a Lake Forest touchdown to open the fourth period. Leading 6-0, the locals saw Woodbridge capitalize on two breaks, to give Coach Joe Purzycki, his first coaching victory.

Rick Wheatley, back to punt, received a high snap from center. With a great effort, he managed to bring the ball down, but couldn't get the kick away. Blue Raider Jim Maddol received the blocked punt, on the bounce and raced 33 yards for the equalizer.

With 3½ minutes to play, Jim Hopkins intercepted a pass and scurried 65 yards to give Woodbridge its first triumph, after a tie with Laurel last week.

Lake Forest goes to Indian River Friday night. The Indians are having a rough year and will be hungry. However, they are probably the Spartan's weakest foe of 1972. The locals will be anxious to rebound.

Senators Win, Spartans 2nd, in L.F. Invitational

The 15th annual Lake Forest Invitational cross-country meet, held at Killen's Pond state Park last Thursday, saw Dover High nose out the host Spartans, in the seven-team test.

Dover tallied 45, Lake Forest 54, Dover Air 81, Caesar Rodney 95, Cape Henlopen 98, Seaford 155 and Woodbridge 211. Low score wins in cross-country.

Dover Air's sensational junior, Bob Baca, led all the way, and beat runner-up, Larry Savage of Cape Henlopen, by half a min., in 12 minutes and 11 seconds. Only two runners have ever done better here, a former Spartan, now running for Washington College, Chris Wetherhold did 12:09 and 12 minutes flat. Dover Air's Dan Rincon, now the cross-country runner at the University of Maryland, had 12:01 and 11:58 here. Baca has one more start here this fall and two of three more in 1973, if he's still around. He could eventually get under 11:50.

Lake Forest's young team of one junior, two sophomores, and four freshmen did a tremendous job in finishing second. Vernon Bowers was second in this meet, last fall. Be-set by illness twice in the last month, he still managed a best 1972 clocking and a very creditable 14th place finish.

No. 1 Spartan, sophomore Eddie Thompson, led the local charge with a personal lifetime best of 12:51. Eddie is now No. 3 on the alltime Spartan list, behind Brad Morris (12:48) and Chris Wetherhold (12:00) of the 1969 state champion team.

Harry Benson, 14-year-old phenomenon, was 8th in 13 minutes flat. Both he and Thompson won handsome trophies. David Moore (11th) missed an award by one place.

Junior Ron Mosely (15th), Benson Moore, Barry Doherty (23rd) and Terry Pettijohn (31st) also ran lifetime personal bests, for the local 2.4 miles course.

In the jayvee race, Jim Guyton, Howard Caskey and Ron Dunlop were 10th, 11th and 14th for Lake Forest. Each had their fastest trips ever.

Ed Webster's 7th and 8th graders from W.T. Chipman School, had superb efforts from John Moffett, Wade Brown, Jami Simpson, George Gibbs and Bill Moore (7th grade). All had clockings between 15 minutes and 15:26, in a driving rainstorm.

Ten-year-old, Ken "Bullet" Cerklefskie has a great, best-ever-time, near 16 minutes. Jackie Guyton, also aged 10, was the best female harrier with a terrific 17:58 effort.

Wouldn't it be something if she became the first female to make a boys' varsity team at Lake Forest, say about 1977?

Gary Grove, a recent varsity recruit, did only two workouts, but broke 16 minutes for an excellent first clocking. Other young runners to do well were Mark Miller, John Nickle, Chuck Pitts, Jim Chat-ham, Jim Draper, Gary Kashner, Mark Homewood and Kevin Marshall.

Coach Jim Blades' Spartans won another team trophy for the trophy case in the lobby. For a young high school Lake Forest has certainly done well in sports.

Spartan Harriers Beat Seaford For 3rd Victory

Jim Blades' Lake Forest Spartans cross-country team defeated Seaford 20-43, here, last week, to up its seasonal log to 3-0.

Senior Phil Shuler of Seaford, won the test with a swift 12:42. Edditt Thompson was second followed by six teammates, Harry Benson, David Moore, Vernon Bowers, Ron Mosley, Barry Doherty and Terry Pettijohn.

Harrington Bowling League

Leah S. Wheeler

Robbin's Hardware moved out a little further in the league lead as they rolled over McKnatt Funeral Home to take three more points for a solid two and one half game lead. Harry Brown and Herb Robbins bowled real good efforts for Robbin's. Joe Green made his start with the team this season a good one as he gave the McKnatt team a little extra strength to enable them to get one point for their efforts.

Harold Melvin paced Jarrell Fuel over a three point romp of Butler's Fuel as he amassed a superb 610 series, with games of 212 and 231 included. Dallas Hayman added a fine 201 game for the fuelers winning efforts, getting a 547 set. Dickie Collins, Ralph Butler and Robert Wright bowled real good efforts, which enabled Butler's Fuel to salvage one point.

The Spoilers missed a good chance of moving up closer to the top as they dropped three points to Wally's Garage. Gene Wright and Dave Ryan bowled real well to give Wally's a real boost, with Dave adding a 200 game to his effort. John Shaffer bowled real well and gave his team enough strength to capture one point.

Snooky Collins scorched the boards with a great 588 set, which included games of 204 and 212 to pave the way for a three point sweep over Fry's American by Taylor & Messick. Tom Brown also added a real fine 207 game. John Forbes bowled very well for Fry's American.

Brothers Five and Big John's Son battled Tuesday night and the victor was Brothers Five as they took three points from their opponents. Rich Dennis rolled a 202 game as he set the pace for Brothers Five in their romp. Although Big John's Son could only get one point, Bill Kohel bowled a real good effort.

Peoples Restaurant took the first game of the contest with Quillen's Market by a wide margin and hung on to gain a tie for the series point as Quillen's edged them by getting two and one half points. Frank Collins bowled a good effort for Peoples's and Quillen's Market got a real good assist from Donald Pase.

Penn Central dropped three points to the T M Rejects, although Steve and Paul Baker rolled very good efforts. Robert Wilson, Bill Shockley and Ray Wright gave the Rejects all the momentum they needed for their win.

President Richard M. Nixon will be successful in his bid for reelection, according to Dr. Gordon J. DiRenzo, professor of sociology at the University of Delaware.

Dr. DiRenzo bases his prediction on social psychological research of the 1964 and 1968 presidential elections which he conducts in several parts of the country.

He predicts that the psychological differences between Sen. George McGovern and President Nixon will give Nixon a greater winning share of votes than he received in 1968.

The research on presidential voting was conducted to study the correlation between the personality of the voter and the personality of the candidate he votes for. Dr. DiRenzo says politicians differ in the images they present, and voting behavior is a function of psychological identification between voters and candidates. In other words, voters tend to vote for candidates who reflect their own personalities.

Similar research in the past has offered inconsistent results leading to suspicion about the validity of such explanations, Dr. DiRenzo says. Such inconsistencies stem from the fact that the political issues and candidates involved in some of the studies were not different enough to give significant weight to the personality identification factor.

However, Dr. DiRenzo says, he studied offered the public clear choices in terms of ideological differences and psychological images projected by the candidates. He also cites the 1972 election as one in which voters are being provided with another clear choice. Dr. DiRenzo's study focuses on authoritarian and dogmatic (close-minded) versus nondogmatic (open-minded) dimensions of personality. In classifying personalities into either group, it is not so much what one believes, he says.

The findings show that although Republican and Democratic voters often can be determined in terms of personality structure, more significant distinctions exist between the personalities of voters and their preferences for presidential candidates.

According to Dr. DiRenzo's research nondogmatic voters overwhelmingly elected Johnson in 1964 and Humphrey in 1968, while dogmatic and authoritarian personalities in those years preferred Goldwater and Nixon and especially Wallace in 1968.

Dr. DiRenzo says party crossover or defections are partly caused by the voter's psychological attempt to seek an identification between his own personality and that projected by the candidates. In 1968, for example, 80 per cent of the Wallace voters in Dr. DiRenzo's study were crossover and defections from the Republican and Democratic parties.

Dr. DiRenzo specializes in the field of social psychology and is interested particularly in the functional relationship between personality systems and political systems and behavior.

A cum laude graduate of the University of Notre Dame, Dr. DiRenzo also received his masters and doctorate degrees there. In addition he has done graduate work at Harvard University and post-doctoral studies at Columbia University and the University of Colorado.

Dr. DiRenzo is a fellow of the American Sociological Assn., as well as a member of numerous professional organizations, including the American Psychological Assn., the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science and the American Political Science Assn.

Dr. DiRenzo has authored numerous articles and books, including "Personality, Power and Politics" and "Concepts, Theory, and Explanation in the Behavioral Sciences."

TOWN AND COUNTRY TOPICS

FRANCIS WEBB
KENT COUNTY AGENT

Today's food and fiber producer cannot be classified as a normal farmer of years ago. He is now an agribusinessman.

The lasting impression of a farmer as visualized by city folk is a man in bib overalls with manure on his shoes. I agree that many agribusinessmen in livestock production may still have manure on his shoes, but it's not likely he will be wearing bib overalls.

Today's farmer is truly a finance specialist, an engineer, an agronomist, a labor specialist, and even a politician. He utilizes all of these skills in his farming enterprise to produce the highest quality food and fiber that we have ever known, yet produces them at such an efficient rate so as to make the case nominal to the housewife. So, when the term farmer is used, I would hope that people visualize this person as a very keen businessman, who, in many cases, has a college degree.

What is modern farming? For Delaware it would be a grain farmer tilling 500 to 1,000 acres, or a dairyman milking 75 to 150 cows and tilling enough cropland to supply feed for his herd, or a vegetable grower tilling 200 to 400 acres of crops. All these farms would entail an investment in machinery alone costing over $150,000. When land and buildings are added to this, the farmer, or now an agribusinessman, could have three hundred to five hundred thousand dollars in total assets. If you are a non-agriculturist, can you imagine having funds of this amount tied up in an investment that on the average returns only four to eight per cent?

By no means is the agribusinessman asking for sympathy in any way. Naturally he is in this business because he wants to be, and he knows this is a good way of life. But it should be kept in mind when evaluating this agribusiness enterprise, that the price he receives at the farm is in no proportion to that received by other handlers through the marketing channels. To give a couple of examples, the farmer receives 2.6c for corn in a 31c. box of corn flakes, 2.5c. for wheat in a 23c. loaf of white bread. You may not think of lumber as an agricultural product, but it most certainly is. On the average, the agribusinessman receives 25c. for each dollar's worth of pine grown in his woods.

These prices for his products have increased at an insignificant rate when compared to the final retail price. So, even though the scene of U.S. agriculture has changed tremendously, and, in fact, we have gone from the so-called farmer in his bib overalls to a highly mechanized and complex industry in which the farmer can be truly called an agribusinessman, he is still receiving the same prices for his commodities.

With leaves and debris from your garden becoming such a real problem for disposal, let's think for just a moment of a way to dispose of these products and at the same time produce a very useful product for use around the house and garden. Build yourself a compost pile.

Compost piles are easy to construct and to take care of, yet will supply very good humus material for mulches in your flower beds and garden. Materials such as leaves, old sod, lawn clippings, straw and plants (including the weeds) can be used in this pile.

The principle is that piling this material, alternating refuse, soil and lime, fungi and bacteria act to break this material down into useful compost. A compost pile would take a very small area in the back corner of the garden or yard, and if put together properly, is not unattractive in any way.

If you would like to have more information on compost piles, call the Kent County extension office, 736-1448, and ask for the free USDA bulletin entitled, "Mulches For Your Garden."

It Seems To Me

Janet Reed

How do you determine what alterations are needed on a pattern?

Once you have established which pattern fits you best, you may have few adjustments to make. But it's a rare figure that can get by without any pattern changes.

There are several easy adjustments that can be made before you try the complicated methods described in most sewing reference books. Always try the easiest and most obvious methods first.

If slight changes are needed for body circumferences, they usually can be made on lengthwise seams. For example, if you need to add an extra inch, you can stitch one-fourth inch beyond the side seam lines to add to it. The more lengthwise seams there are in the garment, the more possibilities you have of adding a bit of extra width. For this reason, it's a good idea to allow one inch instead of five-eighths inch seam allowances as you cut lengthwise seams.

Any addition of width at seamlines must be made where the figure needs it. Skirt adjustments may be needed in the back skirt for some figures, but in the skirt front for others. This is a very obvious rule in pattern adjustment, but often overlooked.

Analyze the figure to judge how it varies from the average. That's where adjustments are needed.

Any prominent curve for which adjustments are needed will need additional width and length to fit properly. For the prominent back hip, the skirt pattern not only must be widened to fit circumference, but lengthened so it will not poke out and ride up at the hemline. Waistline darts are deepened to release more fullness as needed.

Make use of the darts. They take up fabric to release fullness for body curves. Position of darts often need changing to release the fullness where the individual figure needs it. The bustline dart usually needs lowering for mature figures.

Darts can easily be changed from one part of a pattern to another by the principle of dart transference. Look for illustrations of this useful guide in references on pattern design or pattern making. If the figure varies greatly between bodice and skirt, the easiest solution is to buy patterns of that size that fits the bodice. Skirt adjustments are easier to make. Or you can develop your own basic skirt pattern and use it instead of the one which comes with the pattern.

Figures also may take one size for the front of the body and another for the back. It's easier to make adjustments for the back bodice than the front. Width changes can be made the entire length of the back bodice from shoulder to waist. Then darts should be changed at waistline and shoulder to fit the figure.

Each figure is different, so analyze yours carefully and make the easiest adjustment to fit individual body differences.

New Crop Is For The Birds

Delaware farmers may someday be producing a crop for the birds if current studies being conducted by the cooperative extension service at the University of Delaware are successful. Extension specialists are studying large-scale sunflower production to determine the feasibility of growing the crop for bird seed.

Several tons of sunflower seeds are used annually in commercial bird feeds on the East Coast alone. At present, most of this seed is produced in North Dakota, Minnesota and California.

In the university studies, test plots have been established in Newark, Dover and Georgetown. Three varieties of sunflowers have been planted in each area using various planting rates, fertility programs and herbicide treatments. By the end of the month, the sunflowers will be harvested, dried and processed for bird feed. The seed will then be evaluated by a local marketing firm for quality to see if it compares favorably with sunflower seed currently on the market. The seed must have a clear, bright seedcoat to be accepted.

One marketing firm has indicated that it could handle 2,000 to 3,000 acres of sunflower seed from the Delmarva peninsula. And tests in other states show that growers can expect to harvest an average of 1,000 to 5,000 pounds of seeds per acre under normal growing conditions.

Actually, sunflowers have been around for a number of years. Many home gardeners plant a few rows of the large-flowered plants to brighten their landscape and provide food for their fine-feathered friends. Commercial production of the crop in the United States has been limited, however, because of problems with insect damage, fungus diseases and problems associated with poor-quality seed.

Dr. William H. Mitchell, extension agronomist who has headed the university's sunflower research program, notes another problem farmers may encounter. "In some of our test plots, birds couldn't wait for the crop to grow and decided to eat the seed instead. This was not a very productive decision and resulted in some poor stands." This is a problem farmers are quite familiar with and must learn to handle if they are to grow the crop, he adds.

Once the sunflower plants emerge from the ground, the Delaware researchers feel bird damage will not be a major problem. Farmers will have to harvest the crop before it is completely dry, however, and finish drying it artificially. Thus, growers will have to line up ample drying and storage facilities before planting more than a few acres of this new crop.

Sunflowers have a long way to go before they can be called one of Delaware's major crops. But farmers may soon have a new crop that will fit in with their current cropping programs and add a few dollars to their pockets.

Holly Research Results in New Method of Plant Analysis

Holly is one of the lushest and most beautiful symbols of Christmas. Research being done at the University of Delaware may make the plant more beautiful and increase the market for holly grown in Delaware.

The research being done by Dr. Charles Dunham, professor of plant science, and Russell Balge, a graduate student at the university, is aimed at developing new methods of preserving plants for later chemical analysis which will promote new and better ways of growing holly.

In the past, plants being preserved for chemical analysis have been dried in ovens or by use of air drying techniques. These methods have presented a number of problems to researchers, Dunham says. Plants dried by this technique change in chemical composition during the drying process. Some of the soluble sugars in the plants change to less soluble forms as the plants dry. As a result, later testing does not adequately indicate the original makeup of the plant.

To combat this problem Balge has done developmental work on a technique of freeze drying plants with liquid nitrogen. The technique accurately preserves the carbohydrate content of the plant, Dunham says.

Dried tissues are used to determine the weights of various elements in plants. They give a more accurate and reliable picture of the components of the plants than tests using fresh plant tissue, he says. Balge is the third graduate student to work on the holly project. However, the discovery concerning freeze drying is the direct result of Balge's own work, Dunham says.

The goal of the tests on holly is to relate the flower and berry production levels of the plant to various levels of light intensity. Holly grows in deep shade but doesn't produce berries well there. The researchers hope eventually to apply the results of their tests to commercial holly orchards.

Holly is used primarily as a decoration, mostly at Christmas time. American holly used to be marketed considerably more than it is now, Dunham says. American holly is the variety that grows in Delaware. Most holly on the market now is English holly grown on the west coast. The researchers hope to use the results of their work to increase the amount of American holly on the market.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne W. Holberton

You don't have to look at the calendar to know that fall has arrived. Apple time is here, you can see them as well as smell them. As you drive through the country they brighten roadside stands with fragrant reds, greens and yellows. At city markets apples add much to the color and appeal of the fresh produce counters.

As you look at apples do you get confused by the many different varieties? It's no wonder. There are over 7,000 varieties grown throughout the United States. Luckily we don't need to know most of them. Only about 20 varieties are grown in large amounts.

Because of taste and texture differences, some varieties of apples are better suited to certain uses than others. For instance, one apple may be excellent for baking while another variety, if baked, would completely fall apart. Let's take a look at the main varieties available here.

Red Delicious - this is the most popular apple in the United States. It's medium to large in size and deep bluish red in color. The bottom of the apple usually has four points to it. It's at its best when eaten just as is, but can be used for sweet, flavored applesauce. It is also excellent for salads. However, it is not satisfactory for pies or baking. It is available October through March.

Golden Delicious - this apple ranks third in national sales. It is perhaps the best all-around apple - equally good for eating out of hand, salads, baking, pies - just every cooking use. Season-October through March.

McIntosh - second leading apple in national production.

This is a medium sized apple. It's a bright red apple striped with a dark red color. Besides being good for "just plain eating" this apple is used for pies, sauce and freezing. It is only so-so for baking. Season - September thru March.

Jonathan - this is a small to medium sized apple and has an attractive deep red color. The flavor is tart, making it a good apple for all uses. It's usually available from September through January.

Rome Beauty - this apple is best known as "queen of the baking apples" because it holds its shape well, doesn't cook up, also good for other cooking uses. The storage life of this apple is considered the best. It is medium tart in flavor. An all around good apple. Season - November through May.

Don't forget apples like cold temperature and high humidity. To keep them fresh and crisp, store in a cool place (40° F if possible).

The quantity you will need? Here is a simple guide to help you decide.

- 3 medium apples - 1 lb.
- 1 lb. equals 1½ cups of apple sauce
- 6-8 medium apples equals one 9 inch pie
- 1 bushel equals 96 to 144 apples

apples
1 bushel equals 16 to 20 qts. applesauce

Still Time For Outdoor Painting

There is still time this fall to touch up the trim around the windows or under the eaves, but don't put it off too long. Outside painting can be done anytime the temperature is between 50 and 90 degrees, says Ernest A. Walpole, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware.

Remember to get a good paint job, you need to have a firm, clean surface on which to apply the new paint. Use a scraper and a wire brush to remove all loose paint. If there are areas that look dirty like under the windows and under the overhang of the roof, wipe off the dirt with a cloth or sponge, using a detergent. Then rinse with a garden hose. Areas where bare wood can be seen should be spot-primed before the first coat of paint is applied.

Walpole says, base the selection of the exterior paint on the kind of surface (masonry, wood or metal) that is to be painted. Check the paint can label first to see if the manufacturer recommends using a primer or undercoat.

Hoofs". There was Bengazi Hanover, broken at Harrington, a three-year-old son of Tar Heel, who notched a mark of 1:57 3/5. This stallion at two, won the $49,000 Roosevelt Futurity and went on to bank more than $231,500 in just 42 lifetime starts; and there was Mighty Tide (1:57 1/5), Hayes Hanover (1:59 3/5) Snipe Reward, Armbrø Dale, Riley Hanover and Morgan Hanover.

Vineyard started his harness career in a baseball uniform. He left the New Jersey farm and played ball with the Athletics' top minor league team three years and then, at his father's urging, returned to Bridgeton.

"My father was a religious man and didn't take much to ball playing or race horses. But I had one stepping up with a little speed on the farm, and he let me drive him in the fair and that started a lifelong love affair," Paul told the New York Mirror.

He started driving on the Bay State Circuit in the early 20's and learned a good deal of his early equestrian knowledge from the late Walter Garrison. He moved up as first trainer for the T.L. Gustin string in Doylestown, Pa.

It was with the Gustin owned two-year-olds, Saratoga and Time's Scarce that Paul logged a world record which still stands.

Columnist Clem McCarthy describes the feat; "Paul Vineyard may have set a record for courage in the sulky—by driving a team of two-year-old pacers—in hoppers—in 2:05 1/4—over a half-mile track at York, Pa." That was in October, 1940.

The January, 1944 edition of Harness Horse carried the following graph: "Paul Vineyard has foreseen plans to train at Pinehurst and has shipped his stable with Colby Hanover, as his ace to Harrington, Delaware."

It was a big move; since then Paul and his charming wife Elsie and son (now a dentist in Salisbury) have made the heart of harness racing country home. Over the years Paul has been one of the top promoters of this area for winter training.

For graphic insight of Paul's horsemanship here is Charlie Palmer's Morning Telegraph account of Aug. 7, 1942:

"For sheer guts and fine horsemanship we give you Paul Vineyard in the fifth race at Roosevelt Raceway Wednesday in a 12-class trot. This time the longshot king was driving the favorite, Lord Sherbrooke. In rounding the turn first time, Vineyard and Jimmy Jordan - driving Star Henley on the inside-came too close together, the sulky hubs engaged. In a split second Vineyard's sulky was turned over and he was tossed to the track. In another split second, Vineyard was kicking the sulky off him, was jerking Lord Sherbrooke clear of the rear horses. The field swept past, Lord Sherbrooke was plunging after it, with empty sulky, but Paul Vineyard was still swinging onto those reins, being dragged on his knees. Through a big cloud of dust you could see Paul Vineyard fighting to get on his feet—still clinging to those lines. His weight on them was slowing down the horse. He did get on his feet and was running behind, was reaching for the sulky with one hand, holding Lord Sherbrooke's reins with the other. Paul Vineyard leaped back on the sulky, then took off after the field. A great roar of applause went up as he swept past the grandstand the first time. Yes, he was on his way behind but what of it? He had done something not a man in a thousand could do. He had swung on after his sulky had tipped over; he had climbed back on, and he was driving after that field. He couldn't catch the leaders, or course, but at the finish, second time around, the Peter Henly colt beat him across the line by a nose. Paul's only concern was the fate of the horse he was commissioned to drive, not his own welfare. Maybe that's one reason he's in demand among owners who know horses and men."

Thirty years later, sitting with his wife in the dining room of their home; a color painting of Direct Express centering one wall, Paul Vineyard still maintains, "Luck... lots of luck in this game."

"You know that racing last night, Sunday night at Harrington was some of the best I've seen here," Paul said. Quite a compliment to those who make the wheels go 'round hereabouts.

Paul calls stock "squirrels" and "stemwinders". He's seen every change in the business-sport more than 50 years and he loves to break and train colts. "Paul's at the track every morning at 6," Mrs. Vineyard confirms.

There's a book for all horsemen in Paul Vineyard's background and experience - someday, someone will write it. There would be chapters about the night at Roosevelt when his charger's hoppers broke and he held the whip in his teeth, the reins in one hand, and the hoppers in the other and won the race! And a chapter on the day he won all three heats at the Reading Fair and the time he broke the track record at Roosevelt; and that one of his hobbies is fixing radios.

Or that morning he was no doubt over at the Harrington oval training the two-year-old S.J. Flip, a promising son of Henry T. Adios, the pacing champ that Paul and Mighty Tide beat four out of five trips sometime ago.

"I expect to be training and driving another ten or fifteen years. You see - I dropped out of school in the fourth grade, so if I ever quit this business," he told the Herald in 1965, "I'd find getting another job pretty tough."

"The Roosevelt Raceway crowded into its breathing space; The teeming thousands gathered to see the dauntless race! A myriad of colors, the grandeur of the sight - The grandeur of the sight. The sport of Kings they call it - night!"

The tour will include visits to Belgium, Denmark, France, Germany, and Holland. State Allotted Federal Money

Governor Russell W. Peterson announced that he has been informed by the Secretary of Interior, Rogers C.B. Morton, that Delaware has been apportioned $1,724,373 from the Land and Water Conservation Fund for Fiscal Year 1973.

This is Delaware's share of the national apportionment of $181,800,000. Delaware was apportioned $2,418,675 for Fiscal Year 1972 and $1,983,200 for Fiscal Year 1971.

These funds are used to match non-federal funds on a 50/50 basis and are used for the purchase and development of land for outdoor recreation use or conservation.

Some of the projects that have been carried out since this program began in fiscal year 1965 include the acquisition of Brandywine Creek, White Clay Creek and Killens Pond State parks. Also, significant expansion at Lums Pond State Park, the establishment of Milford Neck and Nanticoke Wildlife areas and major expansion at the Little Creek Wildlife Area, as well as the development of Cool Springs Park in Wilmington, Delaware Recreation area in New Castle County and the planned development of Lums Pond State Park.

Deadline For 4 Year Army ROTC Scholarship Applications Announced

Male high school students who will graduate during the 1972-73 school year and are interested in applying for an Army ROTC four-year scholarship must apply not later than Jan. 15, 1973.

The four-year scholarships are offered on a competitive basis to high school seniors and the scholarship recipient may attend any one of the approximately 290 colleges or universities which have a four-year ROTC program provided he is accepted by the institution.

Three, two and one-year Army ROTC scholarships are also available on a competitive basis to students already enrolled in the ROTC program.

During this school year the Army will award over 2,000 Army ROTC scholarships for total of 6,500 scholarships to be in effect during the school year 1972-73.

Students interested in an ROTC scholarship should contact their guidance counselor or the nearest professor of military science. Delaware residents should contact the University of Delaware.

Math Funding Available

Science and mathematics teachers in Delaware at the Junior, middle or high school level will have an opportunity to obtain funds for special projects through the Del-Mod system, which has a resource center at Delaware Technical and Community College, South.

Proposals for projects costing up to teaching grants of $400 must be submitted by Nov. Categories covered by the funding would include materials, consultants, substitutes, secretarial expenses, computer time, or other applicable expenses.

Del-Mod director Charlotte Purnell, in making the announcement at a dinner meeting recently in Dover, said that "many teachers feel the need to pursue a classroom idea, but have neither the time nor the equipment" to implement such ideas.

Mrs. Purnell also indicated that district-wide proposals for larger amounts would be welcome. Each district participating in the comprehensive proposals would be expected to provide matching funds or in-kind contributions.

John Reihner, state science supervisor and William Geppert, mathematics supervisor, will be available to assist teachers or districts in preparing proposals.

Individual grants will go directly to teachers whose proposals have been approved after review. At the close of a project, a written report will be required, on the activities undertaken and the materials developed in the course of the project.

Both district-wide and individual proposals may be concerned with curriculum ideas, teaching strategies, adaptation of scientific research for classroom work, or other ideas which may improve the teaching of science or mathematics.

Del-Mod is the familiar name for the "Delaware Model", a systems approach of science and mathematics. Funded by the National

by Ed Jones.

A home fix-up project, major or minor, can provide the handyman or even the entire family countless hours of pleasure and enjoyment. But home improvements can only be fun when you're properly prepared to tackle the job. This, of course, requires knowledge, materials, and the right tools for the job. Cardinal rule number one: Always have the right tool for the particular job you're doing. These are a few of the many facets of planning and completing home improvements which we'll be discussing in the weeks and months to follow. Won't you join us?

We of HARRINGTON LUMBER & SUPPLY in Harrington welcome you to join us in our weekly column. And at our store—your headquarters for contractors and do-it-yourselfers. We feature a full line of quality merchandise including a complete selection of panelling, Anderson windows, doors, and many other useful items commonly sought by the homeowner. HELPFUL HINT:

Instead of using water to mix plaster, next time you have a job around the house, use vinegar. It has a slower rate of "setting".
