Power Line On Route 9

U.S. Senator J. Caleb Boggs (R.Del.) hailed reports that an agreement has been reached which will allow the construction of a proposed power transmission line along the west side of Delaware Route 9 between Red Lion and Deemer's Beach, instead of across the marshy Delaware River coastal area.

"I am delighted that the Delmarva Power and Light Co. has successfully negotiated an alternate right-of-way for the proposal that will permit the coastal area to be developed later on for recreation purposes," Boggs said.

"Not only does this new routing mean that the proposed line will be located more in accord with the state's coastal policies, but it greatly enhances the possibility that New Castle County will be able to use this stretch of riverfront for a public park," Boggs said.

Noting that the agreement does not in any affect the actual river crossing itself, Boggs said:

"I continue to hope that a satisfactory means will be found for the power line to cross the river to New Jersey without the adverse environmental effects of an overhead crossing at Deemer's Beach.

Last May I urged the Corps of Engineers to consider another land route for the line along Route 9 in connection with its environmental impact statement on the proposed river crossing.

Although the Corps of Engineers is directly concerned only with the river crossing itself, I asked them to evaluate land connections as well."

"This is important," Boggs told the Engineers, "because the Route 9 path is clearly preferable to the shoreline path."

"Use of the shoreline corridor," he said, "would preclude park development along the river and adversely affect the environmental value of the tidal flats."

"For that reason," Boggs said, "it is welcome news that an inland route can be used if it is finally determined that the power line will cross the river at Deemer's Beach."

Mice Invade Delaware Homes

Cooler fall weather may invite visitors to your house—including such unwelcome ones as mice.

The whitefooted mouse is a frequent guest, says John S. McDaniel, agricultural chemicals specialist at the University of Delaware. It is the most common mammal in Delaware woodlands.

When the mouse population increases after the fall breeding season, overcrowding in the woods forces mice to find a new home, often in your house. Once inside, the mice usually nest behind baseboards and walls, often gnawing wood, cotton cloth and other fabrics for nest-building materials.

In the woods, whitefooted mice eat nuts, berries, seeds, insects and tender bark of growing trees. But, inside your house, they turn to fruit, crackers, stored cereals and other food crumbs. They will gnaw through cardboard and other packaging to reach stored foods.

Mrs. Frank Delong's Boston Terrier pup, Emilie's Little Diplomat, won a blue ribbon for the best puppy at the South Jersey Kennel Club Show at Vineland Sunday.

Editorial—By J. Harvey Burgess: If Senator Williams is in earnest as an unearther of graft in public life, why hasn't he exposed a Republican or two? He did mention, very briefly, Guy Gabrielson, but backed away from it. Senator Williams may have exposed another Republican or two, but we haven't heard of it. Two congressmen were sent to the penitentiary on evidence supplied by Drew Pearson—Thomas, of New Jersey, and Brenner, of Ohio. Aren't they Republicans? If Senator Williams' motives aren't altogether political, why doesn't he unearth a few cases against the Republicans? Certainly there must be at least three or four corrupt Republicans in the United States.

Mrs. Isabelle D. Smith, of Philadelphia, is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greenhaugh.

UNICEF Drive To Be Oct. 26

On Thurs., Oct. 26, children around Harrington will be ringing doorbells for UNICEF, according to Mrs. Richard Johnson, chairman.

UNICEF began as an emergency program after World War II. Today there is a long range program in helping children in over 100 countries and the concern for the children's welfare and future continues.

Helping UNICEF is a nice way to show LOVE. 1 cent can buy a pencil or eraser, 5 cents can buy small pox vaccine for 5 children, 25 will provide 175 vitamin tablets for children, 50 cents can buy seeds to produce 6,000 tomato plants and $1 can buy exercise books for 5 children.

In 1971, about 120 children in and around Harrington participated with the assistance of about 24 moms driving these children to the various designated locations. There were moms registering children, counting the donations, serving cokes and other little jobs. All in all, about 160 persons were involved in our town. We have also been very fortunate and are most grateful to have had the use of the Century Club for this one afternoon.

When one of these children call on you, please give generous help.

Rent Watch Program Booklet Available At Dover Social Security

Copies of the Rent Watch program, recently announced by the Cost of Living Council, are now available at the Dover Social Security office, 19 Blue Hen Mall, social security district manager announced.

The "Rent Watch" program is aimed at preventing landlords from illegally boosting rents to take advantage of the increased social security payments which become payable this month.

The booklet tells social security beneficiaries what to do if they receive a notice of a proposed rent increase and how to file a complaint with the Internal Revenue Service by telephoning 1-800-9575 if they believe that the increase is in violation of Economic Stabilization Program regulations. This is a toll free number from this area.

In announcing the "Rent Watch" on Sept. 29, Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Cost of Living Council, noted that there had been instances in the past where the rents of older people went up when their social security benefits increased.

Social security beneficiaries in this area may get a copy of the "Rent Watch" leaflet by calling 674-3610, or they may write for a copy to: Social Security Administration, P.O. Box 478, Dover, Del. 19901. Copies will also be available on the pamphlet rack at the social security office.

HOMEOWNERS CORNER
by Ed Jones
Softwood floors should be finished with oil, paint, or varnish. Before finishing with anything, however, the floor should be scraped or ground smooth with an electric sander. The smoother the floor, the longer the finish will last, and of course, the better it will look. Softwood, however, may shrink and cracks will then form between the boards. These cracks should be filled with a commercial filler.
For more information on this and other homeowner matters, visit us at HARRINGTON LUMBER SUPPLY in Harrington. Featuring a staff of eight we are able to answer all of your questions and supply you with all necessary items for your next do-it-yourself project. Open Mon-Fri. 7:30-5 and 7:30-12 on Saturdays for your convenience.

KENT COUNTY CURRENTS

by

JOSHUA M. TWILLEY
Levy Court President

For over a year now the Kent County Levy Court has assisted the State Police in providing additional police protection in Kent County. Three additional state troopers have been assigned here and paid for through the use of a Federal grant.

The criminal rate in Kent County, as throughout the State of Delaware, has been increasing and the county government must continue to co-operate with the State Police to further improve the police protection afforded citizens especially in the unincorporated suburban areas and small towns.

Yesterday, representatives of the State Police presented an interesting new proposal which deserves serious consideration.

They have proposed that State police be assigned to specific areas and have their residence in this area, so that they would function similar to a local policeman.

They are preparing an application for a Federal grant to undertake this as a trial project in Kent and Sussex County. If the project is approved, it would mean for example, that a State policeman would live in Rodney Village, be on call for that area and patrol that area.

This would make him similar to a town policeman. He could protect the area more adequately, since he would have closer contact with it and be thoroughly familiar with the problems inherent to that area. The tentative proposal includes several policemen who would be assigned to several different areas in Kent County.

As you can see this is a whole new concept in police protection if the experiment is approved and works, it would provide suburban areas with additional security to combat and deter crime in their community.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

SUCCESS

It's doing your job the best you can, And being just to your fellowman . . . It's sharing sorrow with work and mirth, And making better, this good old earth . . .

Recent story on Paul Vineyard's long and eventful activities prompts these lines, Paul, one of the 12 octogenarians mentioned in last week's issue, brings to mind another of our solid senior citizens still around after 52 years and 3 months service, Howard Williams, 214 Del. Ave., retired local PRR agent.

Howard was the first fellow I met when I came to Harrington Jan. 1, 1946 from Baltimore, and about the most obliging and busiest businessman here since his duties involved passenger, freight, baggage, express, and train crew assignments at a time when 90% of transportation was by rail. Howard, who was also a telegraph-operator and had worked at many block stations before coming to Harrington, recalls that he sold $10,000 worth of tickets a month during World War II, and shipped horses to Maine, Kentucky, California and at one time received two stock-car loads of farm horses from St. Louis for Raughley & Creadick farm near Felton.

Some say the stepping-stones to success hurt their feet . . . (Not Harrington Hustlers).

Miss Janice Lee Green

Miss Green is a graduate of Wicomico Senior High School and Cambridge, Md. Hospital School of Practical Nursing. She is presently employed at Peninsula General Hospital.

A December 23 wedding is planned.

Harrington Bowling League

Leah S. Wheeler

Robbin's Hardware continues to be tough as they moved a big three and a half points in the lead on Herb Robbins' and Harry Brown's fine efforts. Penn Central dropped into the cellar spot as they were squeezed out from taking any points from their opponents. Robert O'Bier and Paul Baker bowled very well for the rail-roads.

arrell Fuel took three points from Quillen's Market as Sheldon Hayman and Martin Jarrell bowled well enough to give the fuelers the extra strength they needed. Dennis Pase, Earl Quillen and Eddie Kemp bowled real good efforts for Quillen's Market, which enabled the team to move up in the standings on their one point earned.

Harold Brode scattered the pins for a great 577 set which included games of 202 and 210 and Robert Garey added a real fine effort as McKnatt Funeral Home swept all four points against People's Restaurant. Although People's lost all four points, the team received real good efforts from Frank Collins and Norman Clough.

Billy Morris joined the Spoilers team Tuesday night and really made his presence felt as he rolled a fine 518 series, which combined with a great 541 set by Bruce Herrington and a 535 series effort by Leonard Outten, which included a grand 225 game, a team took three points from Fry's American. Jerry Hayman and John Forbes bowled good efforts as Fry's American managed to squeeze past their opponent in one game.

Wally's Garage showed a lot of strength as they crushed Big ohn's Son in all games as Larry Breeding amassed a great 553 series, including a 205 game, and James Shultie hit a grand 549 set, with a 215 game included, with David Ryan adding a good 209 game and a 510 series effort. Big John's as a team, received above average efforts from the four members present, but it wasn't enough to stave off the opponent's attack.

Taylor & Messick and Butler's Fuel battled to a two-two stalemate in Tuesday night's action. Snooky Collins continues to bowl superbly well as he paced Taylor & Messick with a grand 560 series which included a 211 game and Tom Brown added a good effort to help keep things even. Butler's Fuel received a great assist from Dickie Collins, who hit a 511 set and Larry Larimore added a fine 207 game and a good series effort.

Brothers Five seems to be getting into the thick of things again as they took three points from the T & M Rejects on Buck Thompson's real good 572 series effort, which included a 201 game. Ron Keily also added a good 200 game for Brothers Five. Ray Wright and Bob Wilson gave the Rejects the incentive the team needed to get one game to their credit for their efforts.

Table with columns: STANDINGS, W, L. Rows include Robbins Hardware, Jarrell Fuel, McKnatt Funeral, Spoilers, Wally's Garage, Taylor & Messick, Fry's American, Brothers Five, Butler's Fuel, Quillen's Market, Big John's Son, T & M Rejects, People's Restaurant, Penn Central.

Spartan Gridders Drub Winless Indian River

Indian River's hapless football team took it on the chin from Lake Forest's rebounding Spartans, to the tune of 30-6, at Dagsboro-Frankford on Friday night.

Lake Forest won its fourth game against one defeat. The winless Sussex Countians had the misfortune to face the locals at this particular time. Lake Forest was extra hungry after losing to Woodbridge in the "Mud Bowl" last week.

The Spartans got on the board in the second period, when Lawrence Sorden hit Robin Callahan on a 17-yard pass. Jim Dill took another aerial for the extra points.

Evasive Neil Travis went 14 yards for the second T.D. Dill's reception in the end zone, put the Spartans ahead 16-0.

Indian River's lone score came on an eight yard pass from Marvel to Weaver.

Travis' 76 yard runback put the game out of the Indians' reach, but Don Parker put the icing on the cake with a one-yard score, also in the third period. The Sorden-Dill combo clicked for two final points.

The Spartans will host Smyrna on Friday night. Comparative scores indicate that Lake Forest is the better team, but the Spartans will have to put their best foot forward. Smyrna has demonstrated an ability to move the football and could stage an upset, if that crazy spheroid takes a couple of weird bounces.

Bullet, Reese Cup Star in Navy Run

Two local mighty mites shown in age-group, cross-country runs at the U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., on Saturday afternoon.

Maurice "Reese Cup" Coverdale, 9, and Ken "Bullet" Cerklefskie, 10, ran against boys from Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Washington and Philadelphia and brought home a fifth-place trophy each, in races over one and one-half miles.

Coverdale competed in the nine-and-under group. In a field of over 100 runners, he was fifth most of the way. With a half mile to go, he was overtaken by a lanky runner from Sports International Track Club, Washington, D.C. The pair battled furiously all the way to the finish, with the West Street whiz outpicking his more experienced rival to get the fifth and final trophy. Cerklefskie, like Coverdale,

Spartans Get 2nd In Delmarva Invitational Run

Salisbury State College hosted a 13-team 3-state cross-country meet, last Thursday. The 2 1/2 mile run was held, in a beautiful setting, in Salisbury's city park.

The first annual Delmarva Invitational had three Delaware teams, three from Virginia and seven from Maryland. 91 runners left the starting line at James Bennett High School. 13 minutes and 40 seconds later, Dover Air's unbeaten Bob Baca, led the parade across the finish line.

Dover High won the first three team trophies, Lake Forest was second and Dover Air third, for a Henlopen Conference sweep. The youthful Spartan aggregation, has placed two trophies in the award case at the high school, this autumn and might have more later.

Individual trophies were won by Dave Moore (6th) Harry Benson (7th), Vernon Bowers (11th), Eddie Thompson (12th). Terry Pettyjohn's clutch 19th place effort clinched the runnerup spot for Jim Blade's Spartans. Bowers ran very well despite a leg he could barely walk on just long enough to get the gritty Spartan across the finish line. It was a fine team effort by three freshmen and two sophomores and establishes Lake Forest, a the second-best team of the 25 or so on the Delmarva Peninsula. Dover 41, Lake Forest 55, Dover Air 72, Wicomico

Chipman Harriers Win at Air Base

Ed Webster's Chipman School cross country team defeated Dover Air Base 26-31 last week, to make their record 5-1, on the season and two out of three over the Falcons.

Wade Brown, Jamie Simpson, George Gibbs, John Moffett were 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th for the locals. Improving Spartans Delmer Freeman and Bill Moore were 8th and 9th to give Chipman the win.

Others to do well for Chipman were Ken Cerklefskie, Maurice Coverdale, Gary Kashner, Mark Miller, John Nickle, Chuck Pitts, Jackie Guyton.

 grey rodent lives and breeds within the house, and its numbers increase rapidly. It eats the same types of household foods as its cousin.
 Both mice are active during the night, although the house mouse is not as shy as the whitefooted intruder, McDaniel says.
 Mouseproof your house to keep mice out, he advises. If a garage is attached to your house, make sure all doors are in good repair and tightly closed. A mouse can get in through a hole the size of a nickel.
 Replace any broken windows or torn screens at ground level and shut all the cellar windows and doors. Usually, mice won't gnaw their way in, they get inside through existing openings. And they usually come in at ground level; they seldom climb up to look for an opening.

The appetite of a flock of several thousands of blackbirds can mean heavy losses for individual growers. Losses may, on occasion, extend from 15 to 20 bushels per acre to complete destruction. The problem, in fact, is so severe in some areas that growers have had to divert corn acreage to other crops.

A nationwide survey was initiated in 1970 to appraise the damage caused by blackbirds. Conducted jointly by USDA Statistical Reporting Service and the U.S. Department of the Interior's Fish and Wildlife Service, the survey provides the first really valid indication of destruction caused by the birds. Results reveal that blackbirds destroy 0.1 to 0.5 percent of the corn crop annually.

The 1970 survey included more than 2,800 fields in 24 major corn producing states. Total direct loss caused by birds was 6,225,400 bushels, according to survey results.

The 1971 survey included more than 2,500 fields in 19 major corn producing states. Total direct loss was measured at 6,850,108 bushels.

Damage data varied so much that the statisticians say true losses could have been much less or as much as 10,525,000 bushels greater than the loss indicated for 1970. Similarly, the true loss in 1971 could have been anywhere from 4,501,159 to 9,199,057 bushels they say.

States losing more than 500,000 bushels of corn to blackbirds in 1971 were Ohio, Pennsylvania and Michigan. The states suffering losses at least this large in 1970 included Ohio, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana.

During both years, bushel per acre losses in Iowa were so low that despite the 10.5 to 11.5 million acres of corn grown there, total losses were less than 180,000 bushels. In contrast, Pennsylvania with less than one million acres of corn, recorded a loss of more than 800,000 bushels in 1970 and 650,000 bushels in 1971.

There have been many devices used to scare blackbirds from cornfields—high frequency sound devices, firecrackers, guns that go off every few seconds—but all of these are expensive.

The newest weapon recently registered for protection of cornfields from blackbirds has been named "Avitrol". It is applied by airplane of high-thrust seeder. The amount of pesticide applied is 0.14 gram per acre per treatment and three treatments are required.

This chemical has not been sold directly to corn growers; it's sold to aerial applicators and distributors who supply them. The Avitrol FFC Corn Chops 1-10 Concentrate consists of sized, cracked corn in which one out of every ten particles is coated with the chemical. The applicator dilutes this material on the basis of one part to nine parts of untreated cracked corn. Blackbirds that eat the treated grain react vigorously. They fly erratically and emit distress signals. As a result the flock leaves the field.

Avitrol Corporation, the manufacturer, stresses that the pesticide is biodegradable. Birds that eat the treated grain may or may not die, according to the amount consumed. Animals that pick up and eat dead birds, if there are any, are not harmed.

Previously, this chemical was registered for the control of sparrows, certain blackbirds and cowbirds around nesting sites; for control of starlings at feeding lots; and for control of other specific birds around airports and public buildings.

For cornfields, three applications are usually required and the total cost is $1 per treatment for a total cost of $3 per acre.

Beef Producers' Tour, Nov. 9-10

Commercial cow-calf herds in Virginia will be highlighted during the annual Delaware beef producers' tour, Nov. 9 and 10. This year's tour is being sponsored by the cooperative extension services of Delaware and Virginia.

First stop on the two-day bus trip will be the Front Royal field station of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. USDA researchers are studying the production performance of cow-calf herds using various breeds of beef animals.

Thursday afternoon tour members will visit three beef-cattle enterprises in Rockingham county where cow-calf herds are maintained along with feedout operations. In the evening Martin Strate, executive secretary of the Virginia Beef Cattle Association, will address the group at a dinner meeting in Harrisonburg. Strate will discuss the functions of the Virginia Beef Cattle Association and the beef cattle industry in Virginia.

Friday's program will include visits to a dairy-beef cattle farm, a crossbred cow-calf operation and Sugar Loaf Farm in Augusta County.

Sugar Loaf Farm has a 600-cow purebred Angus herd and is noted for its Colossal line of cattle. Tour members will have an opportunity to see the "new look" in beef animals developed from this strain of cattle.

Beef producers interested in the tour should contact Dr. Richard E. Fowler, extension livestock specialist at the University of Delaware, or a county extension agent for further details. Cost of the 2-day tour is $40 per person. The fee covers the bus fare, lodging and three meals. Reservations are required by Oct. 20.

Delaware Farm Income

The average net income on Delaware farms increased 6.8 per cent in 1971 more than the previous year, according to Dr. Raymond Smith, chairman of the department of agricultural economics at the University of Delaware.

Smith provides an economic analysis of Delaware's crop and livestock production for 1971 in a recent publication assembled from USDA figures.

The gross income per Delaware farm averaged one per cent higher than in 1970. Farm production expenses decreased for the first time since 1968. Only four states, Arizona, California, Florida and Nevada, have a higher income per farm than Delaware.

Income to farmers from some crops, including soybeans, mushrooms, barley, wheat and peaches, increased substantially in 1971.

On the other hand, some crops showed a substantial decrease in income to farmers. Among them are corn, lima beans, snapbeans and tomatoes.

With one exception, income from livestock and livestock products decreased in 1971. Fluid milk was the only product to show an increase. Broilers, eggs, cattle, calves and turkeys all decreased.

The dominant influence of broilers in Delaware's cash farm income is dominated by data for 1971, Smith says. Broilers account for 50.1 per cent of the cash farm income for the state. The cash income decreased by $5.1 million in 1971. The number of broilers grown in 1971 decreased by 9.7 million.

Smith listed a number of reasons for the decrease in farm expenses. Among them are decreases in expenses for feed, livestock and rent.

At the same time expenses were decreasing, the value of inventories on Delaware farms increased by $600,000. Smith says.

Delaware farmers produced 10.8 million bushels of corn in 1971. This is 2.9 million bushels less than in 1970. Smith attributes the low yield to a combination of effects of corn blight and dry weather.

Delaware farmers produced 4.2 million bushels of soybeans in 1971.

Evergreen Needle Fall Normal

Each fall home gardeners get concerned when their evergreens start to turn yellow and drop their leaves or needles. However, this is usually due to a natural phenomenon similar to the dropping of leaves of deciduous trees, says

Dr. Robert B. Carroll, extension plant pathologist at the University of Delaware. "It does not necessarily indicate that the plants are suffering from a disease or related problem."

Individual evergreen needles or leaves only live one to six years, depending on the species. However, evergreens stay green all year because they don't lose their foliage all at once.

Old or inside needles on pine and most other needle-bearing evergreens drop off in the fall of the year. Leaf fall is particularly conspicuous on white pine in October.

It seldom indicates trouble if the inside, or older foliage, yellows and drops, Carroll says. However, if the newly produced needles become yellow and drop, this may be due to a needle fungus, nutrient deficiencies, or toxic chemicals.

When the tips of conifer needles die, it often indicates unfavorable climatic conditions such as drought. Tip burn can also be caused by air pollutants, certain herbicides or excess fertilizer. In these cases, all the needles of a specific growth period are usually affected and the margin between affected tissue (usually reddish brown) and healthy tissue is very distinct, according to the specialist.

Needle fungi produce different symptoms than those just described. Usually, only scattered needles are affected and the needles of a particular growth period are seldom all killed. These are often straw colored or light tan.

Small black fruiting bodies of the fungus can often be seen on diseased needles when they are examined closely.

Examine evergreens closely for evidence of any of these problems. But, remember that needle drop caused by diseases and related factors is rare compared to normal loss of old foliage, Carroll adds.

New sewing machine models seem to come out as frequently as automobiles. Maybe it's time to trade in your old model on a new one. There are so many new features on sewing machines that it can be a bewildering choice once you start looking.

Before you go shopping, decide what you want the sewing machine to do for you. What kind of sewing do you plan to do? If you will be making draperies and slip covers and working with heavy fabrics, you'll need a sturdy head and a full size machine. If you use the machine for mending or sewing small items, perhaps one of the new lightweight and inexpensive portables would meet your need.

If decorative stitching appeals to you, these models may be worth the extra cost. If you plan to make most of your own and your children's clothes, you should invest in a versatile machine which will last a long time. The initial cost may seem high, but you'll save enough on family clothing to pay for the machine in a few years.

It's easy to get carried away when a demonstrator shows you all the things a machine can do. Most experienced seamstresses say that once the novelty wears off, they rarely use all the decorative stitches. If this feature adds much to the price, weigh it carefully before making a decision.

A good straight stitch and a zig-zag stitch will do about everything you need in a machine. Even knits and stretch fabrics can be sewn if you know how to handle fabric and machine. A stretch stitch is fine and you'll find many uses for it, but it's not essential.

Cabinet model or portable? The cabinet can be an expensive piece of furniture. But if you have no place to store a portable and don't want to move the machine, you may be willing to buy the cabinet. Is the handle one you can grasp easily? One portable does not have enough room to get the palm of the hand underneath the handle. To carry it any distance with the fingers is difficult.

Sew on the machine yourself to judge its comfort and ease of use. Take several kinds of fabric with you to test the stitching. Most machines will have a good stitch on a fairly stiff material, but sew on nylon trecot, polyester knits, thick fabrics and any kind you may have difficulty sewing in the past. Sewing on polyester knits will help you judge the smoothness of the teeth on the feed dog. Any roughness will catch the material.

Make a sample buttonhole to judge the quality and the degree of difficulty.

Remove and replace the bobbin. Can the bobbin be reached easily and does it come out readily? Is the bobbin easy to fill?

Is the light thrown where you are stitching? Is the bulb easy to remove? Does your hand come in contact with a hot bulb at any time when you are sewing?

How noisy is the machine? Does it vibrate when you sew? Can you control the speed? Does the machine stop quickly? How comfortable is the foot control?

Can the machine tension be changed easily? Do you know how to adjust both upper and lower tensions? Are stitch controls easy to read and adjust?

Ask about motor control. The step control changes the speed in a series of jumps. Carbon control increases speed smoothly and is easiest to control.

What kind of repair service is available? Are replacement parts easy to obtain? Will they be available when the model is discontinued?

Look for a guarantee and read it carefully. How long does the guarantee cover? Parts, motor, labor? If repair is covered, where will it be done? Is the company one of the best?

which will be readily available if you must make use of the guarantee?

If in doubt about the reliability of the manufacturer or retailer, contact the Better Business Bureau or the Division of Consumer Affairs.

Shop around and look at a variety of machines and models before you make a decision. Don't be afraid to ask questions.

Look at models your friends have and ask about their experiences, but don't let them influence your choice. Your needs may be different from theirs.

A sewing machine can be a satisfying investment if you select it carefully.

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne W. Holberton

Very few people realize that there are enough different kinds of cuts of meat available in today's supermarkets that a person could prepare a different dish every day of the year. This variety should make menu planning a real pleasure but the price of things may stop you. This is the reason why it's so important for you to know all you can about the meat you buy.

To assure us that meat is wholesome, all meat and meat products prepared in plants which make shipments into other states must be federally inspected. This assures us that the meat comes from healthy animals, is processed under sanitary conditions, is properly labeled and packaged and it is not adulterated or contaminated. This is what the round stamp pressed on the carcass assures us.

Since beef outsells all the meats here in America let's consider it. Most beef sold as cuts in retail stores is from animals 15 to 30 months in age. Meat from old animals is used for making processed products like frankfurters, bologna and luncheon meat. Now what about the selection. In general, cuts from along the back of the animal are naturally the most tender and palatable. They include the "ribeye" or "corne" muscle - the largest muscle in the animal and also one of the most desirable. Cuts from the back between the hip bone and the last rib contain the familiar T-shaped bone and two major muscles. The large muscle is the loin eye and the smaller is the tenderloin. These are separated by the upright portion of the T-shaped bone. This is where our best steaks come from. When the bone is in these steaks they are called porterhouse, T-bone or club steak.

In the porterhouse steak the tenderloin is large, in the T-bone it is intermediate in size and the club steak contains, if any, a very small portion. The tail of the steak is the flank meat and definitely is less tender. Where this "tail" has not been removed the price should be lower.

From the section of the back which contains the ribs, comes some of our best roasts - rib roast. The large, ribeye muscle together with a few small, firmly attached muscles are sometimes removed and sold as ribeye or delmonico steaks. The meat immediately below these ribs is thinner and much less desirable. This is the flank steak as well as stew beef, corned beef, etc.

In the region which contains the hip bone, the muscles are highly desirable - large and tender. This portion is made into tenderloin steak. The hind leg portion is cut into rump roast and round steak or roast. Because of its size, the main part of the round is frequently separated into three major sections - the top round, bottom round and round tip. The bottom section contains two parts of which the "eye of the round" is most desirable.

In the front section of the animal comes the chuck which is made into arm and blade roasts or steaks. The lower leg goes into beef briskets which is the cut most frequently made into corned beef.

Now that you know a bit more about where the cuts come from next week we'll discuss how to select for quality.
