ANOTHER CHRISTMAS

By J. Harvey Burgess

Even before October's painted days were on the wane, we began to dream of Christmas, and when November's rains began to fall and the trees were stripped of their golden glory of foliage, we could not believe that "the melancholy days" had come—for soon the clouds would presage snow and over the stainless mantle, hiding, and thus forgiving, all the desecrations of earth, would come Santa Claus!

The snowbirds began to group upon the ground in early December, feeding to guard against the hunger that might assail them when the grass seeds would be covered with snow. Then we began to count the days: "Only two weeks until Christmas—thirteen days—twelve days—eleven days—and then time seemed interminable—the days were so long, so dragging—why didn't they get up and hustle?"

And then—only four days until Christmas! ONLY four days? It seemed an eternity away. With other children, we were sitting on a log down by the "big road," and as we talked of Christmas, childish eyes grew bigger and rounder. We had been good children, especially for the past few weeks—surely the good Saint Nick would not forget us! What would he bring us this time?

We knew from our brief experience, a few of the little treasures we would have at home—such things as taffy, molasses candy, popcorn balls, nuts, etc. These were home-produced, and we could have them any time, but we would have a bountiful supply at Christmas, and we knew there would come, from some far-off clime, such treasures as oranges and coconuts—Christmas was the only time we ever saw them in our little country town.

All of us attended church services the Sunday before Christmas and we heard them tell us about the Three Wise Men, of the Star of Bethlehem, of the Babe in the Manger. It was natural for us to associate Santa Claus with Christ—an maybe we, as little children, were closer to the truth than we have been since—for in bringing cheer—and happiness—and Comfort—and Faith into this tragic world they are strangely alike.

Stockings would be hanging around the fireplace on Christmas Eve, and the smaller children even had two stockings hanging there for their little dog—but the one outstanding event of this sacred season of the year was the Christmas tree. We didn't have small Christmas trees in every home, as they have today, but one big, glorious Christmas tree for the whole town. It was a great, fragrant cedar, in the county courthouse, so tall that the branches spread against the high ceilings of the room. Garlanded treasures, that Christmas tree was the most beautiful sight in all the world. Being children, and hungry for recognition, you may imagine the thrill that came to us when Santa called our names, when he held our hands, and through the packed room came one of Santa's assistants to deliver the presents to us.

We had no rich people in our town, and very few were poor. We do not recall that in this little town there was any organization formed to see that the children of the poorer families were remembered on Christmas. Such an organization was unnecessary—we were neighbors. There were many warm-hearted people in that town and many without the knowledge of the vember's rains began to fall and the trees were stripped tunate ones were not neglected—and as a result the children of the poorer families received many more gifts from the tree than the children of the more prosperous. They left for home that night, hugging their treasured gifts to their breasts—the stars still in their eyes, perhaps the reflection of the one great star of two thousand years ago—the Star of Bethlehem!

Since childhood's days are the only days of unalloyed happiness we are to know here below, let no only in Gethsemane, has there been in this world of too child with a bright memory of Christmas. Perhaps only in Gethsemane, has there been in this world of too much bitterness anything as bitter as an unforgetting little children—we can hear their bitter sobs echoing down the years—and often re-echoing in a prison cell.

HORROR STORIES ON CHRISTMAS DAY

Al Mann Files For Mayor

Alfred G. B. Mann could be the next mayor of Harrington; at least, his petition for the office was the only one picked up for the post as The Journal went to press Wednesday.

His petition, and those of others, must be turned in at City Hall by tomorrow evening.

The petitions will be read at the annual citizens meeting, Fri., Jan. 9, at 7:30 p.m., at the Fire House.

William Minner councilman for the Fourth Ward, whose term expires, has picked up a petition and indicated yesterday he would run for re-election to the three-year office. Minner is the state's chief liquor inspector.

The Rev. William E. Griffin, Center Street, extended, has also picked up a petition and indicated his desire to run as councilman in the Second Ward. This post was held by the late George Vincent who died early this year, his third in office. Griffin, former pastor of the Church of the Nazarene here, is principal of Lake Forest East Elementary School at Frederica.

Getting back to the election of a mayor for two years, Mann is a former city manager here, is a member of the zoning & planning commission, and is manager of the sewage disposal plant for the City of Dover.

Mayor Satterfield served out the unexpired term of Fulton J. Downing, who had moved from the community and who is now deceased. He then served two elective terms. Previous to his tenure as mayor, he served on the City Council 10 years.

He told The Journal Tuesday evening he would love to serve again but believed he would be unable to do it adequately because of increased commitments required of his job with Paradee Oil Company in Dover.

He added, however, he liked to work with the city and hinted he might take a more active part later. However, 15 years is a long time to serve in city offices.

The municipal election will be held Tues., Jan. 9, at City Hall from 12 noon to 7 p.m., E.S.T.

TV, Receiver Stolen

Police report a burglary at the home of Theodore G. Layton of rural Harrington sometime between 5:30 p.m. and 10 p.m. Monday. Reportedly someone entered the Layton home by breaking a window in an outside door and reaching through the window to unlock the door.

Police said a portable TV and an AM-FM receiver were taken from the home. The total value of the two items was $180.

City Crime Rates Decreasing

Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst announced today that serious crime in the United States increased one percent during the first nine months of 1972—the smallest increase since the FBI began issuing quarterly reports in 1960.

During the same period of 1971, serious crime increased 6 percent. The rate of increase has been in a downward trend since it peaked at 19 percent in 1968.

Mr. Kleindienst also reported actual decreases in serious crime during the January-through-September period, compared with 52 cities during the same period of 1971.

"This near zero growth rate and the increasing number of

Golden Wedding Anniversary

Rev. and Mrs. William H. Miller and family gave a reception in honor of Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin D. Wells, of 13 Mispillion St., on their 50th Wedding Anniversary last Saturday afternoon at Calvary Wesleyan Church. Mr. and Mrs. Wells were married Dec. 23, 1922, in Elkton, Md. They are natives of the Milton area.

Approximately 75 guests were in attendance, including 3 grandchildren and 1 great-grandchild.

Clerk of the Peace Thomas Cullen Dies

Thomas Philip Cullen, the Democratic Kent County Clerk of the Peace, died last Thursday, Dec. 22, at Kent General Hospital, Dover. He was 38.

Cullen, who was first elected to the row office post two years ago, had been suffering from a long illness. One year ago he underwent an operation for removal of a lung.

The remaining two years of Cullen's term will have to be filled through a governor's appointment.

Cullen was a skilled technician at General Foods, where he had been working since 1953.

He is survived by his wife, Gale, two sons, Thomas 13, and John, 4; three daughters, Laurie Ann, 10, Judith, 6, and Lynda, 10 months; his mother, Mary Cullen; five brothers and six sisters. Cullen lived at 1254 Harri-soil Dr., Dover.

He was born in Randolph, Mass., where he was educated. He was a veteran of the Korean War in the U. S. Army.

Cullen was one of the first members of the old White Oak Civic Association, now known as the North East Civic Association.

He was the former president of the Young Democrats of Kent County and was active in the 31st District Kent County Democratic Committee.

A Mass of the Resurrection was held Saturday at Holy Cross Church, with interment there.

The family has requested that in lieu of flowers, donations be made to a special memorial fund which will be set up in Cullen's name at a later date.

Inborn Risk Of High Blood Pressure May Come To Light When "Pill" Is Used

The Delaware Heart Association reports that recent investigations suggest that the "pill" may be bringing to early light women who run an inherited risk of developing high blood pressure.

The report dealt with 14 "normal" women, ages 22-48, whose blood pressures rose above normal only after starting an oral contraceptive. When the pills were stopped, blood pressure again returned to normal. But one to five years later and while still off the pill, 7 to 14 women developed mild hypertension.

It was suggested that these women fall into a category designated as "prehypertensive," meaning they probably have a genetic tendency to high blood pressure.

The follow-up study revealed that 9 of the 14 women, or 64%, had a family history of hypertension, and "excessive" percentage that makes unlikely the possibility of this apparent genetic tendency correlation being merely a chance occurrence.

The hypertension subsequently developed by the women while off the pill was of the kind labeled "essential," or of unknown origin. No evidence could be found to indicate the presence of certain condition known to bring on other forms of hypertension. The results led investigators to suggest that a sizeable proportion of those in whom it appears that oral contraceptives has produced hypertension de novo (brand new) will later develop essential hypertension.

The investigators said work is now underway to pin down the route by which oral contraceptives work their effects on blood pressure.

U. of D. Symphonic Band To Perform In Boston, Jan. 22

The U. of D. Symphonic Band has been invited to perform at the Music Educators National Conference on Mon., Jan. 22 in Boston.

The band was selected on the basis of a tape of last January's Winterim concert.

Under the director of J. Robert King, professor of music at the U. of D., the band will play Gustav Holst's "Hammersmith," Sir Arthur Sullivan's Suite from the ballet "Pineapple Poll" and Floyd Werle's "Concertino for Three Solo Brass and Band," fea-

Christmas Light Winners

Saturday evening, Dec. 23, the homes and businesses of our community were judged. Many homes were decorated with many different effects. With so many beautiful displays offered to be judged it made the job very hard to make selections.

The winners of this year awards for the best decorated home: 1st place - was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pitlick, of Harrington Ave.; 2nd place - was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Outten, Harrington Manor; 3rd place - was the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Lord on Dickerson St.; and Honorable Mention Award was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Tucker of Dorman St. Best decorated window was Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clendenon on Benjamin St. and Honorable Mention Award to Mr. and Mrs. William Houlton, Shaw Ave. Best decorated door was Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt Tatman on Reese Ave. and Honorable Mention to Mr. and Mrs. Roland Cashwell, of Jackson Ditch Road. Best decorated commercial window was the N. B. Downing Co. on U. S. 13.

The judges made special mention of the lighted display for a commercial establishment of the Messick Nursing Home and the special effects of the door at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Outten.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

Master where shall I work today?
My love flowed warm and free
As he pointed to a tiny spot
And said, "tend that for me."

I answered quickly: "Oh no, not there!
Where nobody else can see,
No matter how well my work is done,
Not that little place for me!"

His voice, when He spoke, was not stern
As he quietly said to me;
"Disciple, search that heart of thine,
Are you working for them or me?
Nazareth was only a little place
And so was Galilee.

HOME LIFE

—Something to think about—
How he acquired so much knowledge
Since he never went to college?

The answer: He came of good parents who followed God's teaching.

We have a multitude of institutions which we call schools. But the real schools where the real lessons of life are learned are the homes of America. We hear a great deal about higher education, but the highest that can be had we found in the lofty lessons of self control, self sacrifice, sublime faith and a splendid trust which home life has such a marvelous power to teach.

There is no training to be had in school or college or anywhere in the world which can take the place of discipline of the home.

Teacher: "I want to talk to you about your little boy."
Mother: "Nothing doing. I had him all summer and not once did I call you."

The year 1972 will soon go down in history, and just about the only figure that has taken that direction.

Crime Can Be Reduced

If the Standards proposed by the National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals are widely adopted, a nation-wide reduction in crime may occur, Governor Russell W. Peterson said.

Speaking before The American Assembly in Harriman, N. Y., Governor Peterson said the standards developed by the Commission over the past year will be presented Jan. 23 at a conference in Washington, D. C., Governor Peterson is Chairman of the Commission.

"For many years rising crime has detracted from our quality of life in America," the Governor said. "Much was known about how to cope with this problem but leaders failed to bring the appropriate organization and necessary resources to bear.

"Naturally, we do not expect to present an instant panacea. Nor do we expect that everyone will agree with the priorities and standards we have set. What we hope for is careful consideration of our proposals by officials from state and local government - by police chiefs, correctional officials, judges, prosecutors, defense attorneys - by citizens who have concerned themselves with the monumental problems of crime in this nation," the Governor added.

Peterson said most of the standards have proved to work in several cities, while remaining proposals are based on the general experience of the commissioners working in the field of crime reduction.

Governor Peterson outlined some of the conclusions of the Commission for the Assembly. The final Commission report will suggest that:

"The criminal justice system must be made to work as a system and not as a group of separate activities.

"The police must be more closely related to the community.

"The time interval from apprehension to sentencing must be reduced "to stop the recycling of criminals and to provide the greater deterrence which comes from swifter justice."

"The correctional system must be more community-based, "since most offenders' rehabilitation is hindered rather than helped through incarceration."

"But probably most important of all," the Governor said, "we must prevent young people from getting into trouble in the first place. To do this we must provide them with the opportunities to become involved in meaningful, rewarding and satisfying careers."

"It behooves us to get behind this approach and insist that our leaders give crime reduction the priority and the resources it needs. There is no greater challenge to us today."

The American Assembly is affiliated with Columbia University of New York City. Several times each year about 70 experts in a specific area of interest gather at Arden House in Harriman, N. c., to discuss a problem in their field.

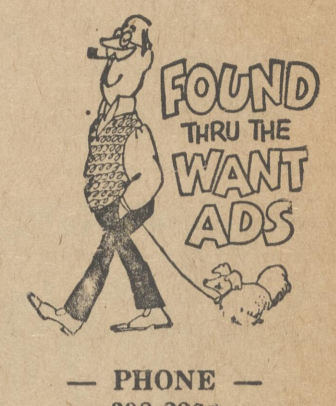

The topic for the present session is "Prisoners in America." Following the discussion session which started last Sunday and ended yesterday, the conclusions of the Assembly will be published to provide people working in the problem area with up-to-date information and trends of thought for solving crime reduction problems.

HOMEOWNERS CORNER by HARRY JACK

There is nothing that takes away from the appearance of a doorway like a sagging hinge or one that is loose enough to cause a door to sag. However, even if you do not know much about handy-man stunts, you will find that it is fairly easy to correct a loose hinge. If the screws are loose, it means that the holes they fit into have become enlarged. Simply unscrew all the screws and plug the holes with sticks and plastic wood. Wait until the patching is completely dry; then screw in screws again.

Handy-men quickly find that there is nothing like the help they get and the quality supplies they find at HARRINGTON LUMBER & SUPPLY, Harrington, 398-3244. When you need the right information on how to get a job done—ask our staff. We know how to help and often can save you time, money and inconveniences. Don't hesitate to ask questions. Our best wishes for a Happy and Healthy New Year!!

Payment of the first $57,000 toward the total $12 million for the construction of three new shallow draft vessels for the Cape May-Lewes Ferry was authorized last week at the regular monthly meeting of the Delaware River and Bay Authority.

Authority Director William J. Miller Jr. said he would be able to announce at the January meeting the exact date for keel laying of the first vessel.

Construction of three vessels is underway at the Todd Shipyard in Houston, Tex. Delivery of the first vessel is scheduled for early spring, 1974.

A letter was received from the Cape May County, N.J., Chamber of Commerce endorsing the authority's resolution requesting transportation directors of both states to extend U. S. Route 9 across Delaware Bay to make the ferry service a permanent highway link. Extension of the U. S. Route 9 across the ferry route would permit coastal travelers to follow numbered routes along the entire coast.

Miller announced that bids have been advertised for resurfacing two bridges at the Farnhurst Interchange along the I-295 approach to the Delaware Memorial Twin Bridges.

 year, and urged other papers to endorse the idea.)

Headlines in the Philadelphia Inquirer Christmas morning, 1949:

"Father of 4 is killed by Hit-Run Auto," "Youth Admits Shooting Crying Child in Holdup," "Boy Is Crushed To Death Under Father's Truck," "Girl, 17, Drowns As Car Overtakes," "Battling Brothers Injure 2 Police," "Silent Thief Gets Nurse's Purse," "Fugitive Seized in Strangle Case," "Aged Man Found Beaten in Street," "Girl, 16, Near Death After Home Attack."

Many other crimes were listed, but these are enough to illustrate our point. The Philadelphia Inquirer is a pretty conservative paper, not given to stressing the happenings of the underworld. These stories are the result of routine reporting, and we believe any paper published in a large city anywhere in America recorded a similar list of crimes on that day.

Little children read or hear these stories. What must they think—murder, rapine, pillage on the anniversary of the Christ? "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men" must sound like hollow mockery to them.

We suggest that on Christmas Day you omit all mention of crimes. You will find enough wholesome, cheering, faith-restoring copy to fill your biggest edition.

There's the story of the dog, Rex, at a tiny town in Tennessee. For years and years Rex had met the fast train daily and picked up and delivered to his master, the newsdealer of the town, the bundle of newspaper thrown from the train as it screamed by. On Christmas Day, 1948, for the first time in history, this fast train came to a screeching stop at the little town and from the train came the conductor, the engineer, the hostess, with a huge beef bone—lots of meat on it—wrapped with Christmas-decorated paper—and presented it to Rex! The train wailed away through the hills, but a dog with wistful eyes followed its course, millions of people were happier when they read the story.

Remember the painters in New Jersey, the entire membership of a union of painters, who rushed in and in one day painted the residence, the outbuildings and the fences of an ailing G. I.

A home was destroyed by fire in New Castle, Delaware, and a family was left destitute. A service club started the ball rolling and funds were subscribed to build a home.

Then there is Herbert Sutton. This little citizen of Boys Town, Neb., bet 38 candy bars that North Carolina would beat Notre Dame in their annual football game. The Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity of the University of North Carolina heard of this. 38 candy bars were returned to Herbert and the fraternity voted to finance the trip for the little boy to see North Carolina play Rice Institute at Dallas on January 2.

A little boy in Ohio sold his pet pony to buy a marker for his mother's grave. As soon as this was known, citizens bought the pony from the new owner and returned it to its adoring master—and presented the little boy with a purse of $300.

Let's not forget the farmers of the little community in the Middle West. They came from far and near with tractors—planted, cared for and harvested the crops of an ailing neighbor.

Can we remember the members of a service club in the Northwest? They were building a home for a widow with several small children, across the street from a church. They worked even on Sunday, but knocked off an hour or two not wishing to disturb the services. The minister came out—the salt of the earth, and iodized at that—for he had PRACTICAL religion! "Gentlemen," he said, "do not stop your work on account of the services. I am in there merely TALKING about the Lord's work—you are DOING His work!"

How did we learn about these illustrations of man's humanity to man? By reading these same daily papers.

We hope the publishers of America will omit the mention of tragedy on each Christmas Day—just one day of the 365—get out a Murder Special the next day if you must—but keep this one day clean, wholesome world, just as we, too, believed when we were children—and that the Star of Bethlehem, too long obscured, still shines in the sky.

Sans Free Throws, Bulldogs Edge Spartans 50-48

A most unusual basketball contest took place at Laurel High last week. Contrary to the usual trend, the home team received far less free throws, than did the visiting Spartans. In fact, the Bulldogs had only three attempts from the foul line, made none, yet won the game, 50-48, over a team rated superior to them.

We can't recall a game, at any level of competition, in which no points were scored on free throws.
 Lake Forest trailed in field goals, 25-20, and when the Spartans missed nine of seventeen foul shots, Laurel got the verdict.
 The Spartans, obviously, had an off night, though Neil Gilbert Currie, heavyweight and Jerry Hobbs, 150 pounder.

Lake Forest Wrestling News

This is the third week of the wrestling news from Lake Forest. We will be telling you about Jerry Hobbs and Gilbert Currie.

Jerry Hobbs is in the 150 pound weight class. He is 17 years old and has been wrestling for 3 years. Jerry has gone to the conference tournament each year. When asked what he thinks about when he goes out on the mat Jerry replied, "I want to beat that man." He thinks about winning. When asked what he feels like when he loses, Jerry replied, "I feel sad and bad, because I know I didn't work hard enough." Jerry comes out for wrestling because it's rewarding and he likes it. When asked his girlfriends' feelings about the wrestling sport, Jerry replied, "She likes it, because she likes to see me win." Jerry thinks that this year our team is working very good and hard. There will be a Top 3 - Lake Forest, Caesar Rodney, and Smyrna.

Gilbert Currie is in the heavyweight class. He is 18 years of age and has been wrestling for 3 years. Gilbert has never wrestled at the conference tournament. When asked what he feels like when he goes out on the mat to wrestle, Gilbert said, "I feel like a man, like winning, and like pinning." The most exciting thing that has happened to Gilbert is when he was wrestling for Dover he pinned a wrestler in 15 seconds. Why did you go out for wrestling was asked to Gilbert and he answered, "I enjoy wrestling it's fun." When asked what he feels like when he loses, Gilbert replied, "I want to die because my pride has been hurt." His goal is state champ. Gilbert's value in wrestling is medals, trophies, pride, success, and beating Stanley Hicks from Milford." Gilbert says that "this is my first year in varsity wrestling and I'm going all the way. His girlfriend doesn't like wrestling. Gilbert's comments about our team were, "Everyone is doing their part and we will have no trouble with Smyrna or Caesar Rodney what so ever. We have two of the best coaches in the conference and we're great!"

Harrington Bowling League
 Leah S. Wheeler

Since this column was last written the league lead in the Harrington Business League, has bounced around like an erratic ping pong ball.

Tuesday night saw the lead change hands again as Wally's Garage moved a half game on top by getting two and a half point against People's Restaurant. Larry Breeding set the pace for Wally's with a great 541 set and Wally Ryan chipped in a good 223 game and Mrs. Mays of Claymont, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Case, of Milford, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Cose, Karen and Blair of Newark.

In the evening following their dinner they entertained with Open House for their many friends.
 Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Meredith enjoyed Christmas Day dinner with her niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hedgecock in Dover.
 A group of young people from the Greenwood United Methodist Church went out caroling on Wed. evening around town and out to the Country Rest Home. They returned to the church for hot chocolate and cookies.
 Mrs. Helen Maloney entertained the immediate members of her family to Christmas dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wharton and sons, Geoffrey and William, spent Christmas with relatives and friends in Hyattsville, Md.

game, and 537 series and Snooky Collins chipped in with a 205 game and 539 set. Even though Penn Central was overwhelmed by their opponent's 2779 output and league leading single 982 game, Ray Baker bowled a real good effort.

The Spoilers dropped in the standings when they were trounced by McKnatt Funeral Home in all games Tuesday night although John Shaffer and Bruce Harrington bowled real good efforts. Donald Garey bowled a great 229 game and 565 series for McKnatt's and Harry Jack rolled a real good effort.

Robbins' Hardware and Fry's American collided and when the dust had settled, Fry's American had made a clean sweep of all four points. Bill Brode, John Forbes and good efforts to give Fry's the Jerry Hayman bowled real good efforts to give Fry's the extra strength they needed for victory. Herb Robbins bowled a good effort for the losing hardware team.

The T & M Rejects continue to show good strength as they managed a two-to-two stalemate with Butler's Fuel. Junior Bishop, Leroy Betts and Bob Wilson bowled great efforts for the Rejects. Ralph Butler hit a fine 202 game and a great 553 series as he paved the way for Butler Fuel's two points and Robert Wright added a great effort.

Big John's Son took all four points from Quillen's Market on the fine bowling by Mike Kohel and Sam Powell. It was a big night for Big John's as they not only won all four games, but displayed their new colorful bowling shirts for the first time this season. Maybe that's all the team needed for a little more incentive to win. Donald Wilson bowled a good effort for Quillen's in a losing cause.

City Crime

The largest decrease in District of Columbia crime were recorded in auto thefts, robberies, and burglaries, all of which were down by more than 30 percent.

Violent crime in the United States increased 3 percent during the first nine months of 1972, compared with a 10 percent increase for the same period last year. Property crimes showed no increase during the 1972 period, compared with a 6 percent increase last year.

The latest crime figures were contained in the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports, a nationwide collection of police statistics supplied voluntarily by local, county, and state law enforcement agencies, and made public today by L. Patrick Gray, III, Acting Director of the FBI.

Cities with 100,000 or more inhabitants reported a 3 percent decrease in serious crime, while crime in suburban areas increased 4 percent. In the same period of 1971, crime in suburban areas increased 11 percent. Crime in rural areas increased 6 percent during the first nine months of 1972.

cities reporting actual decreases reflect the concentrated and co-operative efforts of all levels of government - federal, state, and local, "the Attorney General said.

The Nation's capital continued to make significant progress in crime reduction. Serious crime in the District of Columbia dropped 27 percent during the nine-month period, and violent crimes were down 23 percent, compared to the same period a year ago.

Symbol For Public Safety Department

A unique symbol, created to give visual identity to the Public Safety Department and its various divisions, will soon be appearing on Department stationary, literature, vehicles and signs.

Announcing the new symbol Colonel George J. Bundeck, Acting Secretary of Public Safety, said it will provide the public with an easily recognizable mark designating the many services provided by the Department's ten divisions and offices. He said the Department symbol will not replace the few individual symbols already in use, such as the State Police Shield, but used with them to identify the divisions as part of the Department.

Established in August, 1970, the Public Safety Department includes the Secretary's Office, Administration Division, Alcohol Safety Division, Boiler Safety Division and Communications Section. There is also a Highway Safety Office and a Community Relations and Public Information Office.

"Because of the nature of the services it provides, the public probably has more frequent and closer contact with the Public Safety Department than with any other Department in State Government," Bundeck noted. "With this in mind, it was decided several months ago to show the interaction and co-operation between the Department's divisions and offices in serving the public with the creation of a visual identity."

The symbol, which has been accepted as the official mark of the Public Safety Department, has a simplicity of design which makes it memorable and easily reproducible in various media. Bundeck described the symbol as a quadriform-four shapes that form a diamond in their center. He said the diamond center is symbolic of Delaware, the "Diamond State", and the four shapes symbolize security, safety, service and survival - ultimate responsibilities of the Department.

While the Public Safety symbol is not representational of any one object, it connotes such things as a shield, a highway intersection, and protection. Its contemporary design reflects the modern services provided by the Department.

As used to officially designate the Department, the four quadrants will be blue with the center diamond shape gold. However, when used by the individual divisions and offices the center diamond will be color coded to differentiate between each of the subunits of the department.

"We believe that the symbol will enhance the Department's ability to communicate effectively with the public," Bundeck commented. "When a person sees the symbol of the Public Safety Department he can be assured that modern professional public safety services are available."

"Mom's and Dad's Music Class"

Parents of students at Lake Forest South Elementary School will have an opportunity to learn about the new music program at the school through two open house programs Jan. 8 and Feb. 12. This will not be the traditional open house where parents go and hear about the class plans for the year, see student papers on the bulletin board, and ask general questions about the school program. The music open house will be a real class for the parents. In fact it is called "Mom and Dad's Music Class."

Donald L. Banschbach, music teacher at the school, states that music programs have changed since parents attended school. These special "Mom and Dad" classes are an opportunity for parents to find out more about some of these new ideas. Parents can be told about the program, however, Banschbach believes the best way for parents to learn something about the activities is to become an active participant in a class which uses the new methods. Plans for the "Mom and Dad" class include writing music, playing instruments, and listening to music. These will not be "kiddie" activities but real life adult problems which parents may tackle on their own level.

The first class, Jan. 8 from 7:30 - 9:30 is for parents with children in grades 1, 2, and 3. On Feb. 12 from 7:30 - 9:30 parents of children in grades 4, 5 and 6 will have their class. Both classes will be held in the music room at the rear of the school building. Interested persons who do not have students in the school may receive an invitation to the class by calling the Elementary School Office 398-8011.

Kent Church Gets Permit For Addition

Among the Kent County building permits issued by the office of L. Paige Tumeay, chief building inspector, was one for an addition to the Methodist church on the Harrington-Burrsville road, to cost $5,000.

Also issued were permits for the Clark Equipment Co., Smyrna, for a boiler room addition to cost $13,000 and two new home permits for the Carriage Lane Development Co., to be erected on Carriage Lane at a cost of $22,000 and $20,000. Other building permits issued recently include:

Gerald A. and Rita Russell, Road 95, trailer, $3,600.

Carl R. Jr. and Lorraine M. June, near Milford, house, $29,850.

Dorothy M. Tipsword, Dover Heights, garage, $1,000.

Benjamin Jr. and Emily Hughes, Harrington, house, $15,000.

Russell V. and Gladys M. Ranum, Road 313, house, $4,000.

George J. and Patricia A. Barilla, Tidbury Manor, swimming pool, $3,890.

William H. and Doris L. Watson, Del. 8, house, $23,000.

David F. and Sherry L. Gary, Road 232, house, $16,900.

Arthur Chubb, Kings Cliffe, trailer, $1,500.

Robert V. and Jacquelin E. Fleming, Blackiston, trailer, $12,500.

Walton H. Simpson, Camden, storage shed, $1,000.

Stroman T. Watford Sr., Road 368, shed, $2,000.

Agnes M. Vane, Harrington, addition, $2,000.

John and Frances Abbate, near Bethesda Church, house, $30,000.

Warren J. and Regina E. Groff, near Felton, alterations, $2,500.

U. of D. Begins Construction Of Insect Research Building

Ground breaking ceremonies were held Dec. 14 for a new U. S. Department of Agriculture Beneficial Insects Laboratory at the University of Delaware. The 9,000 square foot building will be built by the University and leased to the Agricultural Research Service of the USDA.

Dr. W. E. McDaniel, dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences, was master of ceremonies at the ground breaking. Speakers at the ceremony were University President Dr. E. A. Trabant, Edmond duPont, chairman of the University Trustee Committee on Grounds and Buildings, William Day, director of the USDA Beneficial Insects Laboratory, and Dr. Dale Bray, chairman of the University's Department of Entomology and Applied Ecology.

Mr. duPont said that Delaware has benefited from the University's past co-operation with the USDA Laboratory through the development and distribution of a parasitic insect to control the alfalfa weevil. Successful results from research now being conducted on the European corn borer could lead to control of that insect on 200,000 acres of corn produced in Delaware. The laboratory will serve the eastern half of the United States. The only comparable facility in the country is in California, Bray said.

The USDA staff and members of the University will use the building for joint research on biological control of insects. Emphasis will be placed on finding a method of replacing chemical insect controls which might be sources of pollution.

It is planned that the USDA staff will have adjunct faculty appointments at the University so they can teach and direct research of University graduate students, Bray said.

Some of the research done through the facility will include sending researchers to other countries to seek beneficial insects. The building will include quarantine facilities to house insects brought back to this country.

The air-conditioned building, designed by Richard Phillips Fox, Inc., will also have offices, staff and student laboratories, insect rearing rooms and controlled environmental chambers.

Work by the Facciolo Construction Company of Wilmington is scheduled to be completed in September of 1973. The building will be located on a 5-acre plot of the University Farm near South Chapel Street.

Assessment Meetings To Aid Landowners

A series of sessions will be held in January to assist landowners who wish to apply assessment under the 1968 Farmland Assessment Act, Edward H. Schabinger, New Castle county agricultural agent, announced recently.

Several sessions have already been held to acquaint landowners with the Act and to help them determine if they are eligible to apply for assessment under the law. The January meetings conducted by the Co-operative Extension Service, will assist them in filling out the application forms.

Persons applying under the Act must have a copy of the Farmland Evaluation Advisory Committee's Report, the 1970 soils map of their property and an application form. This material is available from the New Castle County Agricultural Extension Office in Newark and the County Assessment Office, Public Building, Wilmington.

The three sessions will be held Jan. 9 at the Fellowship Hall of the Townsend Methodist Church, Townsend, Jan. 10 at Crothers Brothers Store in Mt. Pleasant, and Jan. 11 in Agricultural Hall Auditorium in Newark. They all will start at 8:30 a.m. and last until 4:30 p.m.

Planning Makes An Old Bathroom New Again

Walls of towels and hanging shelves can be a big help to many bathrooms. Taking a creative approach can often make an adequate bathroom more functional, according to Miss Coral Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware. The first step is to make a list of things your bathroom needs. This includes a towel and toothbrush for each member of the family and storage space for each person, Miss Morris says.

Second, remember that things should be placed where everyone can reach them. This is where the wall of towels can come in handy. Adults can reach towel racks at the usual level, but that can be quite a stretch for youngsters. An interesting effect can be created by using towels of different designs or colors, and it also avoids mix-ups, she adds. It's a good idea to look at new products on the market. Hanging racks and shelves can go a long way toward supplying storage space in a bathroom which doesn't have it built in.

The area under the basin can be used for storage even if your bathroom doesn't have a vanity, she says. Make a washable fabric skirt to fit around the lower edge of the basin. Then bend heavy gauge wire and attach it to the underside of the basin with suction cup hooks. Attach the skirt to the rod with cafe curtain hooks and your storage space is ready.

Miss Morris stresses the importance of including children in your plans for the bathroom. A stool is a big help in reaching the water. A mirror placed at child-eye-level encourages good grooming. A nylon mesh bag to hang on a hook or doorknob makes a good storage place for bath toys.

Unless your bathtub is new enough to have a non-slip surface, it's a good idea to use non-slip treads that stick to the bottom of the tub or a rubber bathmat.

Making an old bathroom seem like new is just a matter of planning and organizing, Miss Morris says.

Aeration Protects Stored Corn

Farmers who store corn are often troubled with moisture migration in the corn during the winter. This happens in late fall and early winter when the corn stored close to the bin walls cools more rapidly than corn at the center of the bin, explains Thomas H. Williams, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware.

When a large difference in temperature occurs in stored corn, air currents move down through the grain near the walls and up through the grain in the center. The warm air picks up moisture from the grain, which then condenses and freezes on the colder grain at the top of the bin.

Wet grain tends to form a crust during the winter and can mold when warmer weather comes, Williams says.

One way to prevent the problem is to equalize the temperature of grain in the bin. This can be done in any size bin, but may not be necessary in bins of less than 1,000 bushels.

In bins with an aeration system, the fan should be started during late fall or early winter and operated until all corn is cooled to 35 or 40 degrees. The temperature of the air coming from the fan is the same as the temperature of the corn, Williams adds, so when it reaches the correct temperature the fan can be stopped.

Williams suggests that grain in all types of bins be checked regularly during the winter. Any crusted corn should be scattered over the surface or the corn is likely to sprout when the weather warms.

Grain can also be checked with a probe. Another technique can be used in bins with fans. Turn on the fan and smell the air to see if it has a musty odor, he says.

In early spring, warm the corn to 65 or 70 degrees. Once the aeration fan is put into operation, it is worse to shut it off before all the corn is warmed than to have left the corn cold, he warns.

TOWN AND COUNTRY TOPICS

DAVE WOODWARD
ASSISTANT KENT COUNTY AGENT

Farmers and feed dealers are facing the most serious feed cost situation World War II. Soybean meal, the primary source of protein that goes into poultry, dairy, and feeder cattle rations, has increased in price tremendously since early spring.

We have heard prices quoted for soybean oil and meal at $210 per ton. Generally, the feeling is that it's not going to get any worse, but who knows. If it goes much higher, it's certainly going to hurt a lot of farmers and feed dealers, and ultimately reflect a price increase in groceries for the housewife.

We have had quite a few calls with regard to how to make feeding rations more economical. Rather than give a general prescription, we would encourage you to call your local Co-operative Extension Office and ask advice on your particular problem. For Kent County, call 736-1448.

The Maryland and Delaware Pork Producers Association, in co-operation with the Co-operative Extension Services of Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia, are sponsoring a Pork Industry Day on Feb. 27, 1973, in Salisbury, Md. Our objectives are twofold—improve pork production practices and to promote consumption of pork products.

Last year we held our first National Ham Show, and it created much interest, especially from homemakers who attended the evening sessions. We are improving our 1973 Ham Show by providing detailed rules and by having two classes—Country Style and Light Cure, Commercial Style Cured Ham. Cash prizes have also been added this year and will be awarded as follows:

COUNTRY STYLE HAMS
1st. $50 and trophy
2nd. $25
3rd. $15
4th. Ribbon

COMMERCIAL STYLE HAMS
1st. $50 and trophy
2nd. $25
3rd. $15
4th. Ribbon
Deadline date for entries: January 30, 1973.

The rules for the 1973 Delaware Ham Show are as follows:

1. Competition is open to all ham curers who custom-cure and smoke hams or who cure hams for sale or private use.

2. Two classes of hams shall be open for competition: Class I—Country style hams, any weight, uncured. Class II—Light cure, commercial style hams, any weight, uncured.

3. Exhibitors are limited to not more than one entry in each class. All entries must be cured in the plant or smoke house of the exhibitor. Exhibitors must specify on the entry blank whether the ham is a Country Style or Light Cured, Commercial style ham.

4. Description and evaluation of each class of ham is as follows:
Country Style Ham: To be eligible for this class, hams shall have been cured and aged for not less than 50 days (using the Animal and Plant Inspection Service proposed standards for "Country" or "Country Style" Hams and Pork Shoulders, and considered suitable for safe storage without refrigeration; no ham shall have been aged longer than 12 months. These hams will be uncured.

Light Cure, Commercial Style Hams: To be eligible for this class, hams shall be mildly cured. This class is considered to consist principally of pumped hams which will require refrigeration. All entries in the commercial category must be cured and smoked. These hams will be uncured.

5. Entries will be judged by two qualified judges.

6. Judges shall be required to disqualify any ham which does not meet any of the rules or requirements of the show.

7. All hams will be exhibited after the judging until the Pork Industry Day ends.

8. The hams entered in the show may be picked up at the conclusion of the Pork Industry Day in the exhibition area. All hams will have a score card attached so that the owner will be informed of the score obtained by his ham.

Will It Be A Cord, Crib or Pickup

Before you go out to buy a stack of firewood for those cold winter evenings, you better understand the wood dealer's language. When he asks if you want a cord, "pickup" or crib of wood, will you know what he means?

Tom Williams, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware, says a cord is a stack of wood four feet wide, four feet high and eight feet long. Each piece of wood should be two feet long. A "pickup" load is approximately half a cord, or two feet wide, four feet high and eight feet long—enough wood to fill a half-ton pickup truck. A crib is something like a wheelbarrow load.

Keeping this in mind, base your firewood needs on the amount of space you have

Growing Degree Days Can Aid Farmers In Selecting Corn Varieties

Many seed corn companies are replacing the days-to-maturity rating with a growing-degree-day rating as a measure of corn maturity requirements.

Growing-degree-day ratings tell growers the amount of heat corn requires to reach physiological maturity. And corn maturity depends more upon the number of heat units or growing degree days than on calendar days, according to Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware.

The growing degree ratings can help you select the best corn varieties for your area. Mitchell says it will also help you select the maturity group needed if you're forced to delay planting or have to replant.

For example, if you have to replant corn on May 25 and have 2,800 growing degree days left before frost, you can select a corn variety with a growing-degree-day rating less than 2,800. And you can still plan on having your corn mature before it is apt to be damaged by frost.

Mitchell explains that the average number of growing degree days in Delaware ranges between 3,200 and 3,400 from May 10 to October 10. Growing degree days are calculated by adding the day's high temperature and the day's low, then dividing

Holiday Plants Need Proper Care

Provide your Christmas plants with ample light, moisture and temperature, if you want to enjoy the bright blossoms during the entire holiday season.

Keep the plants in bright light—preferably sunlight—during the day, in a cool room at night and water them before the soil dries out. But never let your flower pot stand in water once the soil is thoroughly wet, says Bob Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

New varieties of the poinsettia, probably the most popular Christmas plant, have greatly improved its keeping quality. But the plant still requires proper care. Temperatures below 60 degrees F. or above 75 degrees F. will shorten the life of the blooms.

Avoid setting the plant near a hot or cold air register or a door or near a window at night unless the window shade is pulled.

Poinsettias thrive best if kept in bright light during the day. Keep the soil moist, using water of room temperature. If the soil is allowed to dry, the leaves will turn yellow and drop.

Bright light and sufficient moisture are also requirements of other flowering plants. Stevens offers these tips on the care of other Christmas plants:

Azaleas blossoms will last longer if the plant is kept in a cool room at about 60 degrees F. The plant should be kept in bright light during the day. A constant moisture supply is important. Soak the pot in water occasionally so the moisture will penetrate to the center of the pot. Allowing the soil to become dry will cause the flowers to wilt and dry prematurely.

Reiger begonia will thrive under good light and average care. It has above-average keeping quality. The plant is characterized by dark green foliage and orange, red or salmon coral blossoms.

Christmas cactus require sunshine but not too much water while in bloom. It should be kept in a cool place at night. When it has finished blossoming, water the plant once or twice a week and give it plant food once a month. It should have full sunshine from April to October. Next Christmas the delicate pink flowers will appear again, provided the night temperature is not above 65 degrees F. when flower buds are setting and developing.

Partially opened chrysanthemum flowers will not develop their full color if the plant is kept out of the sunshine. Sunshine during the day, cool temperature at night and abundant moisture will give you long-lasting blooms.

If you have a cyclamen, always water around the edges of the pot or set the plant in a dish of water. Water in the crown may cause rot. Never let the soil dry out completely while the plant is in flower or leaves will turn yellow. Leaf yellowing as well as bud blasting may also occur if the night temperature is too high or if the plant is not getting enough light during the day.

A Jerusalem cherry requires bright light during the day and a cool room at night. Water this plant moderately. Fruits drop naturally after they mature, so discard the plant when all the fruits have dropped.

It Seams To Me

Janet Reed

This is sale time, that time of year when stores are clearing out Christmas merchandise and cutting down on inventories. It's a time when you can get good bargains, especially on clothing and fabrics. Now is a good time to acquire quality items you might normally feel you cannot afford.

But don't get carried away by a big mark-down. Nothing is a bargain unless you have use for it. In the excitement of a sale, it's easy to buy items only to wonder when we get home why we bought it. And sale merchandise is usually not returnable. Money spent on a garment you will wear once is a poor investment compared to the same amount spent for one you can wear often.

Party dresses and the glamour fabrics are often on sale after Christmas. It could be a good time to buy them for use next year. Styles are fickle though, and who knows what the latest craze may be a year from now. Those long skirts might contain enough fabric for remodeling next year if need be. Popular as they have been this year, long skirts are likely to be around for another year. But, usually when the market becomes saturated with a style, you'll see a totally different style emerging.

Fabric for party wear might be a safer bet if you know how much to buy and if you can store it properly. But be careful about stocking up on velvets and other crushables unless you can store them properly. Also, buy the fabrics that were new this season because they are likely to be around next year.

It's a good time to buy winter dresses and coats, because there is still a lot of time left this year to wear them. Winter fabrics, too, are marked down substantially and if you get busy and make them up now, you'll get your money's worth.

Some fabrics can be bought to be used next year if your storage is adequate, and if woollens can be stored to prevent moth damage. But before you get too enthusiastic, remember that the new fabrics next fall will tempt you too, and you may wish you didn't have to make up that bargain.

Some bargains get pushed to the back of the "to make" drawer for a long time—until they are out of style or you no longer like them. If the material is never used, there is no bargain there. Most seamstresses have drawers full of such bargains, so before you add any more take stock of how much you have on hand, your clothing needs and how much time you have to sew.

This may be the time to take advantage of sale prices for lingerie rather than to make it, unless you received a plentiful supply for Christmas. Lingerie is a popular gift item and if store stock is not exhausted, it is priced for clearance. Returns of gift lingerie can also be purchased at great savings if you can find your correct size and find something you need.

Deadline date for entries: January 30, 1973.

The rules for the 1973 Delaware Ham Show are as follows:

1. Competition is open to all ham curers who custom-cure and smoke hams or who cure hams for sale or private use.

2. Two classes of hams shall be open for competition: Class I—Country style hams, any weight, uncured. Class II—Light cure, commercial style hams, any weight, uncured.

3. Exhibitors are limited to not more than one entry in each class. All entries must be cured in the plant or smoke house of the exhibitor. Exhibitors must specify on the entry blank whether the ham is a Country Style or Light Cured, Commercial style ham.

4. Description and evaluation of each class of ham is as follows:
Country Style Ham: To be eligible for this class, hams shall have been cured and aged for not less than 50 days (using the Animal and Plant Inspection Service proposed standards for "Country" or "Country Style" Hams and Pork Shoulders, and considered suitable for safe storage without refrigeration; no ham shall have been aged longer than 12 months. These hams will be uncured.

Light Cure, Commercial Style Hams: To be eligible for this class, hams shall be mildly cured. This class is considered to consist principally of pumped hams which will require refrigeration. All entries in the commercial category must be cured and smoked. These hams will be uncured.

5. Entries will be judged by two qualified judges.

6. Judges shall be required to disqualify any ham which does not meet any of the rules or requirements of the show.

7. All hams will be exhibited after the judging until the Pork Industry Day ends.

8. The hams entered in the show may be picked up at the conclusion of the Pork Industry Day in the exhibition area. All hams will have a score card attached so that the owner will be informed of the score obtained by his ham.
