SUIT AGAINST 2 STATE AIDES DELAYED

Vice Chancellor Isaac D. Short II Friday deferred action in a civil suit by the Burris Processing Co. of Milford, against two cabinet secretaries.

Short met for 15 minutes in the Court of Chancery with attorneys for Robert L. Halbrook Jr., secretary of Community Affairs and Economic Development, Hugh Martin III, secretary of Administrative Services, and for the Milford company.

Halbrook was named in his suit as a cabinet secretary. Martin was named in connection with his Milford company, Bay-Central Corp.

Short told H. Edward Maull Jr., who represents Burris, John J. and Harold Schmittinger, Dover attorneys representing Martin, Bay-Central and the Delmarva Association of Refrigerated Warehousemen, and Peter Nolan, representing the state, that he was going to ask Chancellor William Duffy to reassign the case.

The two were named defendants in a case involving the sale of $2 million in revenue bonds. The court action apparently is clearing the way for the bond sales.

Short's 12-year term expires March 23 and he apparently does not want to proceed with the case, which may not be completed before he leaves his post.

Short had no comment on the matter Friday, nor did Maull, a Georgetown attorney. John J. Schmittinger said he was going to present a motion but that Short said he would have the case reassigned.

Local Laboratory Technician Consultant on Analyzer

A Harrington woman, employed as chief technician in the laboratory at Milford Memorial Hospital was given a taste of New York show business when the duPont Corporation called her in as a technical consultant for an automatic clinical analyzer commercial.

duPont salesmen, and students have been initiated into its vast potentials under Mrs. Hobbs's supervision.

Consequently, it was only natural for duPont to turn to the Milford Hospital and Mrs. Hobbs, who served in an advisory capacity to directors, cameramen and actors during the filming of the commercial in New York and at the duPont offices in the Wilmington Airport. The New York Hospital was used to film the actual case of a comatose patient.

In use at Milford Hospital for over a year, the analyzer has stacked up an impressive record. The most important advantage is in providing physicals and prompt diagnostic information, which in turn speeds up treatment and cures.

Another important plus, are the cuts in time and labor which have resulted in reductions in laboratory charges, saving patients more than $45,000 in its first year of operation.

The first hospital of its size and the fourth in the nation - to install the equipment, Milford for over a year, has been an observation center for the machinery. Personnel from large metropolitan hospitals,

Hot Mayoralty Campaign Sees Minner Breeze Across the Line

One of the most contested municipal elections for mayor saw William Minner win handily here Tuesday.

He garnered 294 votes as compared with 221 for Alfred G.B. Mann, former city manager now employed by the city of Dover.

Minner, outgoing councilman from the Fourth Ward, is chief enforcement officer for the Delaware Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission. The mayor serves two years.

Also running, upopposed, were William E. Griffin, principal of Lake Forest East Elementary School, with 148 tallied for councilman in the Second Ward, and William W. Shaw Jr., for an identical post in the Fourth Ward with 155 votes. He teaches in Caesar Rodney School.

School Bands Selected For Inaugural Parade and Ceremonies of Governor Sherman W. Tribbitt

Leon de Valinger Jr. of the Joint Committee for the inauguration of Governor Sherman W. Tribbitt, has announced the selection of the Conrad High School band to take part in the President's Inaugural Parade in Washington on Jan. 20.

De Valinger said that Delaware has such a good reputation for producing outstanding high school and junior high school bands, that the committee's task of selecting just one was a difficult one.

She then narrated a pictorial slide presentation, which was well received by the membership.

De Valinger also announced that the Joint Committee has selected the bands of the Sussex Central Junior High School and of Middletown High School to be the official bands playing at the inaugural ceremonies of Governor Tribbitt. The inaugural ceremonies for the governor, which are open to the public, will be one of a difficult one. "But," conducted at noon on Tuesday the 16th of January, in front of Legislative Hall in Dover.

Bill Minner

Mayor Burton E. Satterfield who had served 11 years as councilman and four as mayor, issued the following statement Tuesday night:

"I am really thrilled to hear the turnout of the election. I was really glad to see the interest of the citizens to turn out. It goes to prove when you have two capable men, what the citizens think of them, win or lose. I wish the elected mayor the best of luck and I shall be available for any help I can give him."

Broilers May Avoid Limited Price Break

Senator Bill Roth expressed pleasure Friday that after careful review the Cost of Living Council is complying with a request made by the broiler industry for a limited exemption for broilers from the Council's regulations under the Economic Stabilization Act.

The Delaware legislator indicated his support of the broiler industry's request in a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz.

Social Security Increases

A record $100 million was paid out in social security cash benefits to residents of Delaware in calendar year 1972, according to W. J. Bulkeley, social security district manager. This was an increase of $10.6 million over the total paid out in the year before.

In his letter Roth explained, "a processed broiler is not considered a 'raw agricultural product.' Therefore, the processed broiler is controlled by the wage-price guidelines of the Economic Stabilization Act."

Consequently, it was only natural for duPont to turn to the Milford Hospital and Mrs. Hobbs, who served in an advisory capacity to directors, cameramen and actors during the filming of the commercial in New York and at the duPont offices in the Wilmington Airport. The New York Hospital was used to film the actual case of a comatose patient.

He pointed out "broiler processors are both the producer and the processor of a raw agricultural product," therefore, "the broiler industry has received unequal treatment when compared to other products, such as raw seafood, governed by a comparable producer-processor structure."

Forced To Write Check

A Georgetown man was apparently forced at gunpoint Tuesday night to write a $540 check to pay off a bill.

State Police have charged a 34-year-old Felton man, Alton Mobley, with armed robbery after the incident. According to a police report, Mobley entered the Georgetown home of Ivory Jenkins and allegedly forced him to write the check to settle a debt owed to Outten Brothers, a Dover firm.

Another man, David F. Outten, 21, of Felton, has been charged with being an accomplice to an armed robbery. Police reported that he stayed in a truck outside Jenkins' home when Mobley went inside.

Mobley was released on $5,000 bond, and Outten on $2,500 bond, pending court action.

Home Rifled

Burglars apparently struck the home of a Harrington area man sometime Sunday night and made off with a combination radio-tape player, a rifle, two shotguns, a bow and two walkie-talkies.

State police said the victim of the thefts was Roger K. Beauchamp and reported that his home was unlocked when the burglary occurred.

Wreck Hospitalizes Harrington Couple

A car-truck accident last Thursday near Lincoln has hospitalized a Harrington woman and her husband, both of whom remain in serious condition in Milford Hospital.

State Police said a car driven by Evelyn C. Argo, 51, of rural Harrington collided with a truck driven by David A. Yoder, 61, of 52 Howell St., Dover, at the intersection of Del. 113 and Rt. 207 approximately one-half mile west of Lincoln.

Police said Yoder had just pulled away from the stop sign at the intersection and was headed north when Mrs. Argo, apparently attempting to make a left turn at the intersection, struck the rear of the truck.

Yoder, Mrs. Argo and her husband, James B. Argo, were all taken to Milford Memorial Hospital. Yoder was later released, but the Argos were admitted for additional treatment.

 What makes a floor vibrate? There may be several causes, but among them one of the most likely is lack of support under the beams. Beams underneath the floor should not be too short nor too long. They should be supported by bridging that is well-fitted and tight. If your floors need added support, this can be provided by a four-by-four or an even larger timber supported by posts or columns. Needless to say, no other work should be done on a house until the floors are solid.

 In underscoring the need for warm-up exercise, it is suggested that these findings may account for the occurrence of some heart attacks in people with normal coronary arteries. Generally, heart attacks happen to people with coronary arteriosclerosis, a hardening and fatty blockage of the heart's own pipelines. But such fatty obstruction is not always found; and the possibility exists that in certain susceptible individuals, an abrupt step-up in physical activity might bring about a blood shortage, even if only momentary, to precipitate a heart attack.
 Researchers suggest that the average person should jog "very easy" for four or five minutes before getting into any sudden, strenuous bursts of activity.

"Warming Up" To Exercise Is The Best Way

The Delaware Heart Association reports that sudden vigorous physical activity without any preceding warm-up exercise may be hazardous to your heart.
 Recent research showed that of 44 healthy firemen, 31 developed momentary abnormalities in their electrocardiograms after plunging abruptly into a strenuous running exercise. When the firemen were given prior warm-up exercises, these abnormalities did not show up.
 According to researchers, neither the state of physical conditioning nor age, (age

Grapplers Open With Two Victories

Lake Forest's varsity wrestling team opened its 1973 campaign by trouncing Woodbridge 56-2 and Cape Henlopen 47-11.

Don Lankford and Glenn Jarrell fought to a 7-7 draw, in the only bout, in which Woodbridge escaped defeat. Pins were recorded by Terry Jarrell, Charles Baynard, Jerry Hobbs, Tom Baker, Skip O'Neal and Gilbert Curry.

The final tussle of the evening saw the 294-pound Spartan, flatten the 314-pound Blue Raider, Rich Smith, in 1:20, the fastest fall all night.

One week earlier, Cape Henlopen filled all twelve weight classes; in a loss, to Caesar Rodney. Five of those grapplers did not face Lake Forest and the Cape was forced to forfeit four matches. This had the effect of giving Lake Forest a 20-0 head start.

Of eight matches actually contested, Lake Forest won four, Cape Henlopen took three and one was drawn.

Martin Miller, Jerry Hobbs and Gilbert Curry won by falls. Hobbs and Curry won by this method for the second straight time. Miller's 40 second flattening of Travis at 117 pounds took top speed honors. Hobbs' pin of Wildy was a quick 53-second job.

Spartan Coaches Tom Muehleisen and Elliott Workman will know more about the Spartans' potential, after the match, with the strong, unbeaten Caesar Rodney Riders on Wednesday, January 10.

Spartans Ground Falcons, Bow To Indians in 2 Overtimes

Lake Forest's basketball Spartans and Coach Jim Blades had a nice, pleasant 63-27 romp at Dover Air, then dropped a double-overtime, ulcer-breeder to Indian River. The 77-74 thriller was played at Lake Forest.

Eleven Spartans saw action at Dover Air. The score would have been even more one-sided, but for the 21 free throws missed by the victors, of 40 attempted.

Neil Travis paced the locals with 19 points, Don Bryant and Lawrence Sorden, added 24 markers between them.

Indian River edged away from the Spartans and built a six point lead after three periods. Lake Forest outpointed the unbeaten Indians 24-18 in the fourth period, to send the contest into overtime.

Don Bryant had a career-high of 27 points for the losers. Lawrence Sorden and Jim Dill added 20 and 15 points, respectively. Tony Townsend's 35 points for the Indians, is the top scholastic mark, thus far, for the 1972-73 season, in Delaware. Lake Forest is 2-2 in Henlopen 3-3 overall.

At the end of December 1972, 28.4 million men, women, and children were receiving monthly social security benefits, one out of every 8 Americans. Over a million persons were added to the benefit rolls during the course of the year.

Retired workers and their dependents account for about 63 percent of all those receiving payments. The survivors of workers who have died, including children and their widowed mothers, aged widows and widowers, an aged dependent parents, make up close to one-quarter of all those receiving social security payments. Another 11 percent are disabled workers and their dependents.

Although social security is often mistakenly looked upon as a program for the elderly over 26 percent of all beneficiaries are under age 60 and 15 percent are under age 22.

TOWN AND COUNTRY TOPICS

FRANCIS WEBB
KENT COUNTY AGENT

What is going to happen to your land and your farming operation when something happens to you?

I would guess that there will be 50% of you reading the above statement who are not prepared for this situation. Estate planning is a very critical part of farm management. Just stop for half a second and think of all the years you have worked to accumulate what you now have. Do you want this to be left in the hands of the state to distribute among heirs as they see fit, or do you want it divided among your family the way you want it to be? Well, if you have not made preparation of a will and planned dispersal of your property, you may turn over in your grave when the state divides your lifetime earnings!

I know many of you are not familiar with state laws and many of the legalities that go along with this type of work, but as you realize, we have plenty of people close by that are highly qualified to assist you in your estate planning. I cannot think of any other segment of farming that can be so detailed and complicated to each individual situation as the division of property and the dispersal of personal holdings. What am I really saying is that each of you are an individual identity when it comes to the way you want your lifetime holdings dispersed.

Questions such as, "Should property be held in joint ownership?", "Should a family-owned farm be incorporated?", "Are wills necessary?" and many, many others come up when thinking of how accumulated and personal belongings should be left.

How would you like to give the state and federal government 30 or 40% of your lifetime earnings? Well, this can happen very easily if advanced plans and accompanying wills and trusts have not been prepared.

I think by now I have aroused your interest in estate planning, but don't think just because you only own a few acres that I am not talking to you, too. Wills and estate planning are not only for the large farmer and landowner, it's for everyone.

The University of Delaware Co-operative Extension Service is working to assist you in making plans for the future. Similar to last year's estate planning meeting, we have again planned two individual meetings, one on wills and the other on estate planning. Be sure to mark January 18 on your calendar for the session on "How to Make a Will Work For You." While you are at it, mark January 29 for the estate planning session. Both sessions will be held at the Capital Grange Hall in Dover, starting promptly at 7:30 p.m. These sessions will adjourn promptly at 9:30 p.m.

It seems as though we always find some excuse for putting off this type of management decision. I can guarantee you that by attending these two meetings, you will have a much better understanding of the importance of a will. It will further stimulate interest in estate planning that will encourage you to take appropriate steps to secure your life savings and make it livable for your spouse and children when they have the heirs that will have to finalize all transactions.

Let me leave you with this one thought-if you have property that you want to keep in the family, thought must be given to this transaction; if not, your heirs may have to sell the property to pay state and federal estate taxes.

I have just a few more comments dealing with farm management decisions-these pertain to property you lease. There are many acres that are leased in this county by verbal agreement only. In many cases, these work with few problems. But in the cases where they do not, this can create many headaches which should be totally unnecessary.

Your University of Delaware Co-operative Extension Service has inadequate information, pamphlets, and even lease papers that we can supply you with to help prevent these headaches. No property should be leased from either end without a written lease agreement.

There are many types of leases-livestock share, cash, crop share, and any or all combinations of these. A written lease is an asset for both parties involved. In many cases, such a lease can be drawn up between the two of you with proper signatures notarized to be legal. However, in complicated lease agreements, a qualified attorney should be contacted to make sure that all points are covered.

If you would like to have information on farm leases, contact your County Extension Office at 736-1448.

It Seems To Me

January is the traditional time to replenish household linens because of the special pricing offered by stores. We used to have January white sales, although the term hardly applies anymore.

The colorful designs can tempt one to discard the whites and go all out for color. But before you do, consider the advantages of each. Everything else being equal, you will pay more for color and design, and in some cases a great deal more. If the sheet carries the designer's name, this adds to the cost. How important is this to you? Maybe you can be just as happy with a colorful design by a less well-known artist.

With colors you may want to pay more attention to color co-ordination. White sheets can be rotated to distribute wear, but if you do this with colors, you may have some strange color combinations unless you plan with care. Maybe this is not important to you, however.

What kind of laundry service do you use? If you launder at home, you can regulate water temperatures and wash colored sheets at warm temperatures to help preserve colors. Water temperatures aren't always regulated as well at Laundromats or commercial laundries.

If you use bleach or other products for their disinfectant quality, colors will begin to fade long before the fabric wears out. Check the label for an indication of colorfastness and any laundering precautions.

In a cheaper sheet, color and design tend to camouflage a poor quality fabric. You can judge the quality of the fabric by the firmness of the weave. Since a close weave uses more thread, a good quality fabric will cost more. Do you want to spend your money for fashion or wear or both?

The thread count of the fabric may not be indicated on the label anymore, but you are likely to find the terms muslin or percale. Sheets woven of 100 percent cotton, or a blend of cotton and polyester may be muslin or percale depending on the quality and length of the cotton and the number of threads per square inch.

Muslin is made from carded cotton which contains both long and short fibers. It is a looser woven fabric containing less than 180 threads per square inch.

Polyester is added to cotton for easy care as well as longer wear. No one wants to iron sheets, so by tumble drying the polyester-cotton blend at the correct temperature, we have smooth sheets without the work.

Permanent care labels will be attached to the sheet if it was made after July, 1972. Look for these labels, and follow the care directions exactly. With proper care, the linens will keep their new appearance for a long time.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne W. Holberton
Nineteen hundred and seventy three is off to a running start with a long list of new foods. Here are a few for you to think about.

Breakfast is off to a fast start with a lot of new convenient foods showing up to help it along. One company is test marketing breakfast bars that furnish all of the elements for a complete breakfast of 180 calories. The nutrition has been balanced to contain 20% of the recommended daily allowance for adults of all essential nutrients.

Another convenience item for quick breakfast lovers is a new bread, being test marketed in New York. Two slices are said to supply the equivalent vitamins, minerals and proteins of a glass of milk, two slices of bacon and an egg. (I'd miss eating all those different textures and flavors.)

For those of you who love hot coco with all the trimmings here's a new product. This one contains instant non-fat dry milk, coco, and real marshmallows which float to the top when hot water is added. (Now, no worry if you've forgot to buy the marshmallows - they are built in!)

Here's something for those people who have said "to cook breakfast is too much trouble," toasted eggs. This convenience product is a frozen, cooked item made from fresh frozen eggs. The round toaster eggs have enough body to go into the toaster without losing their shape. Each contains the equivalent protein of one medium sized egg. They come four to the box and in four different flavors: plain, cheese, country style (with bits of bacon flavored bits) and spicy western (with shallots, peppers and chives).

Deserts will be given a new look with a quick turn of the wrist. You blend and freeze whipped topping and flavored gelatin. It comes in strawberry mondae, Lemon Tuesday, raspberry wednesday, orange thursday, cherry friday, and lime saturday. It can be served either directly from the freezer or slightly thawed and each pack makes 8 servings.

Rice too is taking on new shapes and flavors. These new rice foods are still in the experimental stages but from the look of things should soon be ready to be tested. One of the products is a frozen, cruste, pre-cooked, pre-fried rice product. It is similar to an extruded potato product. This rice product is said to go well with green peppers, mushrooms and shrimp. It can be spiced or flavored with a variety of seasonings.

Hard cooked eggs, peeled and ready to use as is or in prepared dishes are on the market in Michigan. This product guarantees no green yolk rings. This is an institutional food but wouldn't it be great for all of us who have so much trouble hard boiling an egg to devil. These eggs are sealed in a poly bag surrounded by liquid and stored in a box for ease of handling. (Wonder how they taste?)

These are just a very, very few of the new products and foods awaiting our approval in this new year of 1973.

Quick Action Can Save Poisoned Animals

If your pet is poisoned, you have only a few minutes to save him from permanent damage to his internal organs. Knowing what to do in an emergency can save your pet's life, says Dr. William C. Krauss, extension animal scientist at the University of Delaware.

Many household chemicals are harmful or even fatal to pets. Some of the most dangerous are found in rodenticides, insecticides, lead-based paints, gasoline products and antifreeze.

Thallium and warfarin are found in rat poisons. They interfere with blood clotting, causing the animal to die from hemorrhaging. Ethylene glycol, an ingredient in antifreeze, is often licked from garage floors by dogs.

Pets that lick or chew fences or walls covered with lead-based paints risk lead poisoning. Other dangerous substances include amphetamine compounds, arsenical agents, strychnine and some kerosene products.

If you suspect your pet has been poisoned, call your veterinarian immediately. There may not be time to take the animal to a veterinary hospital. With guidance over the phone, you can take immediate steps to prevent further absorptions of the chemical.

The best thing for pet owners to do is prevent poisoning from happening, Dr. Krauss says. Remember that your pet doesn't know what will harm him. If you know that a chemical can harm your animal, keep it stored out of his reach and clean it up immediately if it gets spilled.

Terrariums Make Good Indoor Gardens

If you are a gardener frustrated by winter weather, you might try building a terrarium in your home. Made in glass containers, terrariums are miniature wild gardens which act like tiny greenhouses.

Many types of glass containers can be used, according to Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware. Some of the most common are large brandy glasses, goldfish bowls and small or medium sized rectangular aquariums. A piece of glass is used as a cover to keep in a humid atmosphere. Half-gallon or gallon jars with covers can also be used.

Plants for the terrarium can be either wild or cultivated in greenhouses. Some of the most popular are maranta, begonia, coleus, croton, dracaena, philodendron, wandering Jew and African violets. Mosses, ferns and 4-5-inch-tall seedling evergreens collected in the woods also work well, Stevens says.

As a finishing touch, small weathered rocks, bark, twigs, and acorns can be placed among the plants.

To make your terrarium, first wash the container with a strong detergent until it is completely clean. Then place a layer of small stones on the bottom to provide drainage. Finally, add a 2-inch layer of soil composed of equal parts garden soil, peat moss and sand. If you wish, you can mound the soil to one side to make a slope.

Try to avoid getting soil on the leaves when you put in the plants. They can be planted with tweezers. When everything has been planted, spray all the plants with water and put on the glass cover.

Keep the terrarium in a cool room with good light, but don't place it in direct sunlight. Turn it occasionally so the plants will grow uniformly and not lean in one direction. The plants need only enough water to keep the soil moist. Watering once every 3-4 weeks is usually enough, Stevens says. If the inside of the container becomes fogged, open the cover for a few hours to allow the excess water to evaporate.
