

Land Rezoned For Apartments, Condominiums, Commercial

Harrington may have an apartment-condominium complex, it was revealed Monday night after a public hearing on rezoning land of Dudley C. Willis in the former Trane Company plot on Peck Ave.

There was but one complaint at the hearing after which the zoning and planning commission endorsed the project, followed by an approval by the City Council.

The land, heretofore zoned as an industrial park, comprises 16.7 acres, more or less, for the complex, and 2.96 acres, more or less for light commercial, or C2.

Willis told the Council Monday night he would not develop the land but he had a prospect to do it. He believed the project would comprise 216 dwelling units. City sewer and water are available to the project.

In other business Monday night, the Council hired Paul Davis as full-time patrolman. Davis has been on the Seaford police force and has attended the state police school.

Rescinded an ordinance permitting the shooting of pigeons in the community. Heretofore, permits were granted to shoot pigeons around the churches and nearby properties.

Harry G. Farrow, Hanley St., mentioned he had bats in his attic and was told the city health service would provide for their capture. Farrow believed the bats were coming from a nearby abandoned house.

PENN CENTRAL STARTS SPECIAL SERVICE

Penn Central Transportation Company has inaugurated a special "run-through" freight train to speed delivery of shipments that were enroute to points south of Kirkwood, on the Delmarva Peninsula when the rail bridge over the Chesapeake & Delaware Canal was put out of service after being hit by a ship on Fri., Feb. 2.

The SCL handles the train to Portsmouth, Va. The Norfolk and Portsmouth Belt Line Railroad takes over operation there for delivery to Penn Central's Norfolk Yard. The cars are then floated across Chesapeake Bay to Cape Charles, Va., for delivery in local freight service.

Penn Central has nearly 350 customers on the peninsula south of Kirkwood. Major commodities handled in this service are fertilizers, construction and building supplies, food and food products, poultry feed, grain and grain products, office furniture, plastic and rubber products, coal, pulpwood, fuel oil, stone, lime and road materials, waste materials, tin cans, chemicals and nylon fabric, baby products and sanitary supplies.

Also, Penn Central is trying to develop ways to restore the crippled bridge, which has closed both the rail artery and the canal.

The 1,000-1,400 cars that were on the Penn Central system and bound to or from the Delaware, Maryland and Virginia peninsula points when the incident occurred are being consolidated at Penn Central's Enola, Pa., classification yard, near Harrisburg.

The special "run-through" train is being moved by Penn Central from Enola to Potomac Yard near Washington, D.C., where it is interchanged

30-Minute Blackout For Milford

The failure of a voltage regulator at the Delmarva Power & Light's Harrington substation was blamed Mon., Feb. 12, for a 30-minute electricity blackout in the Milford area.

DP&L officials said service to Milford and to the Lincoln and Ellendale Electric Co. went out at 10:27 a.m. and was restored at 10:57. Both the city of Milford and the Lincoln and Ellendale Co. buy their electricity from DP&L.

Grocery Store Prices Include More Than Food

The consumer who has just spent twenty or thirty dollars at the grocery store often finds it hard to accept statements about the increasing efficiency of farms and the marketing system. Even so, studies have shown that the average family spends only 16.2 percent of its spendable income for food.

According to W. T. McAllister, extension agricultural economist at the University of Delaware, we spend 4 to 5 percent less of our spendable incomes on food than we did in the 1950's.

People often confuse their food bill with the total of the grocery store checkout tape. That total probably includes laundry and paper products and maybe tobacco, kitchen gadgets, clothes, auto supplies or light bulbs.

Of course, food prices have gone up. Some of the increase goes to the farmer, but about 60 percent goes to pay higher marketing costs. Red meats and fresh vegetables have had the greatest increase in prices, mainly because they must be kept refrigerated, they require a great deal of preparation for market, and they are frequently shipped long distances.

Producers and marketers are also victims of higher prices, and these can only be recovered through higher prices to the consumer, McAllister says.

In any business, the best way to handle rising costs is to increase labor efficiency. In the last ten years, farmers have increased their output per man hour twice as fast as in manufacturing industries. Today each farm worker produces enough food for 51 people, three times as much as 20 years ago.

Even though food prices have increased, so have the spendable incomes of most consumers. In the long run, most of us are better off than we were even ten years ago, McAllister says.

Democrats Elect Killen Kent Chairman Without Opposition

NEW KENT DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMAN—Ernest E. Killen, of Harrington, who was elected chairman of the Kent County Democratic Committee Tuesday night. He was the first person to hold the post in more than 25 years who was not from Dover.—Price photo.

Ernest E. Killen, of Harrington, was elected chairman of the Kent County Democratic Committee Tuesday night at the Hub Restaurant, Dover.

He replaces Secretary of State Robert Reed who chose not to run for re-election because, he told the packed house of the Hatch Act.

Other committee officers, all elected unanimously, were Franklin Fountain, Milford, and Mrs. Joan Slight, Dover, vice-chairmen; Max N. Terry Jr., secretary, and Maurice A. Hartnett, Dover, treasurer. Mrs. Slight replaced Mrs. Frances Messina, Levy Court Commissioner, who chose not to run for re-election.

Reed, who presided, explained procedures for obtaining jobs.

Many merit system openings were available, he said, as he advised applicants to see the State Personnel Office.

Resolutions by the 33rd and 35 District Committees called for replacement of Republicans by qualified Democrats in those jobs not under the merit system.

Killen said the first man he was going to see was I. Hammond Cabbage, acting director of the personnel commission. "Besides, the governor wants changes all down the line," he explained. Gov. Tribbitt showed up after the meeting, having been detained by another meeting.

Killen was elected without opposition, though the name of Vernon Derrickson, former chairman, was bruited about before the meeting commenced.

National Commander Joe L. Matthews will make his official visit to Delaware on March 16. A dinner and dance will mark the occasion of his visit. The Lady of Fatima Church Hall will be the site of the dinner.

Reservations and tickets for both events can be purchased from Unit or Post Offices.

Seeing Florida and Friends was a great joy. We started home - Fri., Feb. 9, 1973 at 8:00 a.m. arrived home Feb. 14, 1973. What an experience!

Edna Gruwell, Norma Minner, Dorothy Graham, of Harrington, and Mrs. Sam Cloud, of Denton, Md., were a part of the fresh storm that hit South Carolina. After more than ten hours in a stranded car we were rescued by the gallant National Guard and taken to the Armory at Bamberg, S.C.

Before the Rescue - After it quit snowing, as far as the eye could see, were marooned cars and trucks. Some out in fields, evidently the drivers panicked or snow blinded them. We stayed in our car and heating it as it cooled, keeping the window dry with paper towels, eating sparingly from the snack bag Edna and Norma had brought, we were as comfortable as you could be. A man said he was eating "high on the hog", peanuts and oranges, another was so upset-he talking very loud, "don't you know something just has to be done, don't you know some one has just got to move." There was no place to go only deeper in the snow--he went back to his car started it, roared the engine--mode one lunge out of line--deeper into the snow he went, don't know what happened to him. Others chatted about where they lived--where and what they had seen, how much gas and food they had and all the ifs -butts and ands you could possibly encounter.

On to the National Guard Van -- With all the sadness about you it was best to keep your sense of humor and we four did. Talked with the folks in the Van, some from Canada, New York, Florida, S.C., Ohio, and a newlywed couple from Berlin, Md. Men were very gracious, kind and thoughtful. Down with Women's Lib!!!

Farmers on the tour will visit farms on the upper Maryland coast. Topics of discussion will include marketing cattle, finishing techniques, purebred operations, selection of animals, waste management systems, use of winter pastures and crop residues, and fescue pastures and natural shelters.

These management topics will be discussed by the owners and managers of the farms on the tour. Dr. Richard Fowler, livestock specialist at the University of Delaware, will summarize the main points of the tour. Summaries will also be given by Dr. Arden Huff and Bill Curry of the University of Maryland.

After lunch at the Cecil-ton Fire Hall, John Morris, extension dairyman at the University of Maryland, will show slides and lead discussion on dairy beef operation.

Farmers interested in the tour should contact their county agent.

Little League Registration

The Harrington Little League held a meeting Thurs., Feb. 15 to select the registration dates for the 1973 season. Approximately 12 managers and coaches combined, attended the meeting.

Line dates for registration is Sat., March 3 and 10, at the Lions Club Building on West Liberty Street. Time is 1 to 4 p.m. All new registrants should bring a copy of their birth certificate and every child registering must be accompanied by their parents. There is a $2.00 donation requested.

It takes approximately 28 men to manage and coach the teams that are in the local organization, but as of this date only about half of that number have responded to the call for help this season. If there is anyone in the community that is interested in managing or coaching a team call Kenneth A. Baker at 398-8421 immediately. The Little League organization cannot function without help and if enough men do not donate their time and effort for the sake of their children, so they can play ball, then this will be the end of little league in Harrington. The Little League is in trouble and the community had better get behind this project now, or there won't be a 1973 season.

Beef Tour Scheduled

Delmarva area farmers will have an opportunity to visit three working cattle operations during the Eastern Shore beef cattle tour and educational program. The tour is scheduled for Feb. 28.

Farmers on the tour will visit farms on the upper Maryland coast. Topics of discussion will include marketing cattle, finishing techniques, purebred operations, selection of animals, waste management systems, use of winter pastures and crop residues, and fescue pastures and natural shelters.

These management topics will be discussed by the owners and managers of the farms on the tour. Dr. Richard Fowler, livestock specialist at the University of Delaware, will summarize the main points of the tour. Summaries will also be given by Dr. Arden Huff and Bill Curry of the University of Maryland.

After lunch at the Cecil-ton Fire Hall, John Morris, extension dairyman at the University of Maryland, will show slides and lead discussion on dairy beef operation.

Farmers interested in the tour should contact their county agent.

Commercial Foods Class Field Trip

What better way to learn how gourmet food is prepared and served than to lunch at a Dover inn. Feb. 1 the commercial foods class at Lake Forest dined at the inn and toured the General Foods plant in Dover.

At the Jello division in the General Foods plant, Robert Watkins, supervisor of food service, explained cafeteria and canteen service.

Food service and preparation procedures were discussed with the visitors by Roger Keith of the inn.

Trip such as these give the student who anticipates a career in the food service industry a broader view of foods.

The trip was financed from the sale of more than 1000 candy apples prepared by the students under the supervision of Mrs. Ruth Koble, teacher, and Mr. Rena Heinz, student teacher.

A New Concept In Art

The Creative Arts Committee of the Avenue Methodist Church has asked me to teach Art History on Saturday mornings in the Holzmueller Gallery of the church. I have a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Art History from Swarthmore College. I will teach two six week sessions. The first, called "Picture This" will be for ages 5-12 and will begin the morning of March 3. The second session will commence in April and it will be designed for ages 13 through adult.

The registration for "Picture This" will be from 7-8 p.m. on Thurs., March 1, in the church library. The price for a six week session is $7.50 per student. However, special family rates and scholarship are available.

The presentation will consist of slides, original art works, and prints. It will not be a lecture series but rather discussions involving all the members of the class.

What Can Four Women Find To Do?

Owner was cook, his three handsome sons were serving and washing dishes, but they too were exhausted as they had been on continuous duty since Friday morning. We volunteered our help and it was accepted. Norma as waitress and cashier, Edna, Pearl and I, girl Fridays. Edna stirred up batches of hot cakes, Pearl made syrup, all had a hand at the grill and dish pan. Edna even beat one of the Sons turning out pancakes and hamburgs as far as I was concerned. At one point the Owner, asked if he could go to get groceries. We laughed and said "we guess he could go being he owned the place. At this time there was no one but the four of us holding the place together. Norma was lucky with tips -- put them in the kitty. Owner gave us our meals and lots of compliments, one being he had never met such nice ladies. I told him, I agreed, but there were lots more in Delaware and Denton, Md. The Sheriff and his deputy retrieved Edna's car Mon. afternoon because we were feeding the hungry -- consisting those that sorta panicked, chatted with the lonesome and bereaved. It was great to get a shower and a complete change of clothes. Bamberg and surrounding areas had no equipment to handle the history and disaster making snow storm.

As food dwindled we had less and less to offer but it was warm, clean and nourishing. Coffee went by the gallons.

One lady had a cute silver poodle and would you believe that poodle didn't like the inconvenience of not being able to go and do as she was accustomed. The snow was a real bother to her! (Fifi) Her mistress was teaching her to talk.

Our helping, helped us immensely--did not have to be rocked to sleep. As always found people to be the Greatest.

Glad to be back to Harrington. Garden spot of the world, to me, anyway. Count use mistakes as Best Wishes.

What can four women find to do? It was asked of us on our trip to Florida by a young gas attendant.

Tuning in on Nuclear Power. Delmarva Power proposes to build a Nuclear Power Plant on the Peninsula to meet the ever-increasing needs for electricity. Nuclear Power seems the most logical choice in today's world since it causes minimum impact on the environment, and does not depend upon large supplies of coal, gas or oil, all of which are dwindling. 29 NUCLEAR POWER PLANTS ALREADY. There are already 29 Nuclear Power Plants in the United States producing electricity commercially. Some of them have operated 10 YEARS. No one has ever been injured as a result of a nuclear accident at a Commercial Nuclear Plant. People ask Will a nuclear plant blow up? "No Way" to answer by popular expression. A very dilute uranium fuel is used. So dilute, in fact, that it's physically impossible to create an atomic explosion in the reactor. Not even a nuclear expert could make this fuel explode like an atomic bomb. The Atomic Energy Commission and the Environmental Protection Agency are just two of the many responsible agencies which supervise and regulate every aspect of Nuclear Power, on a continuing basis. Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne W. Holberton

Everywhere you go you hear about it. And it's true, food prices are up. The total food expenditures in the U.S. in 1950 for farm produced food was $44 billion, in 1971 it was $107 billion. The bill for marketing farm foods amounted to $71 billion in 1971, two-thirds of the total retail cost. Marketing costs include all changes for transporting, processing, packaging, and distributing foods from the U.S. farms.

Why has the cost of marketing increased 45 billion dollars? About one-half of the increase is accounted for by the additional food that is required to feed a growing population. Another large factor is the ever rising costs, particularly for labor. This accounts for another one-third of the increase in the marketing bill.

Have you ever stopped to think of how many tasks formerly done on the farm and in the house are now done by the marketing system? Increasing numbers of consumers demand foods that are pre-washed, pre-peeled, pre-cooked, pre-mixed and pre-packaged. In most cases, this convenience saves time but it always costs more. This, of course, increases the marketing cost.

Expenditures for food eaten away from home are increasing, even at the hamburger stand. Why - operating costs in public eating places usually amount to more than one-half of the price charged the consumer for the food he is served.

Regardless of all of these reasons for the increase in the food bill, food is cheaper today than twenty years ago. Before you hit the panic button did you realize that in 1950 we spent 22% of our bring home pay for food? Today we only spend 16%. So the "real cost" of food is actually coming down. Just to show you what I mean look at what one hour of labor by a production worker in manufacturing would buy then and now.

In 1950 he could buy 10 loaves of bread, now 14 loaves. In 1950 he could buy 2.3 lbs. of chuck roast, now 4.7 lbs. In 1950 he could buy 2.4 dozen eggs, now 6.7 doz. In 1950 he could buy 1.9 gallons of milk, now 3 gallons. And so it goes on down a long list of foods.

Of course, food does cost a lot and we are all very conscious of it, since it is the one thing that we buy each week and many times more often. We can see the prices change each week, whereas with a car, house, rugs, furniture the shock comes only ever so many years.

Many of us think the field on the other side of the fence is greener. Yet, when you consider what we spend here in America in comparison with other countries, we know our food is a bargain and we are in green pastures.

Do the chairs in your house shake? The cause may not be anything more than a loose rung or two. The remedy for this is quite simple. When a rung becomes loose, it is because the glue holding it tight has dried and will not hold. Undo all loose joints. Scrape old glue out of the joint and off the rung; then reglue. Remember to bind each joint as you redo it, using cord or special chair braces. This will hold the joint in place until it is completely dry.

It's simple to find the supplies you need if you shop at HARRINGTON LUMBER & SUPPLY, HARRINGTON, 398-3241. Spartan Cagers Beat Falcons, Lose To Bulldogs Lake Forest's basketball Spartans, a scrappy, cohesive unit, put up a good fight before dropping a 69-59 verdict, to a good Laurel Bulldog quintet. The locals then enjoyed a 73-36 romp at the expense of Dover Air's 1-14 Falcons.

Jim Blades' Spartans, at this writing, own an 8-7 record and are tied with Laurel and Indian River for second place, in the Southern Division of the Henlopen Conference.

Lake Forest had a 21-14 bulge after one period, but slacked off thereafter with timely. Laurel caught up at 16, 13, and 9 points respectively, then gradually crept away in the second half.

Don Bryant and Jim Dill, two of the top pointmakers in the league, paced Lake Forest with 22 and 17 points. The effort by this duo stacked up pretty well with the 42 points tallied by Laurel's Hitchens brothers, Ron (22) and Don (20). Ron Hitchens leads the Henlopen Conference and Don is among the leaders.

Lake Forest had a good night at the foul line, which helped keep the Spartans within striking distance.

Jim Dill racked up 19 points against Dover Air. Mike Atkinson tallied 17 and Don Bryant had 10. Bryant hit 8-for-8 from the charity stripe, while Atkinson carried 7-of-8.

Lake Forest has games remaining with Indian River and Woodbridge. Both clubs defeated the Spartans, earlier in this campaign, at Lake Forest, in closely-contested games. However, the Spartans have lost four players and will present a much different lineup for the final conference tests.

Charley Baynard Wins Henlopen Mat Title

Charley Baynard, Lake Forest's senior 132-pounder won the Henlopen Conference championship at Smyrna, on Saturday night.

Baynard had been beaten only once this campaign, by Sussex Central's Dale Swain. He beat Swain 4-3 for the title. Earlier, Baynard, the No. 1 seeded wrestler, beat Dave Flood, of Cape Henlopen 10-0 and Dave Darlin, of Milford 3-0 in overtime, to advance to the final.

Charles Baynard was competing in sports, at Harrington, in the seventh grade. He has competed in, at least five sports, at one time or another. Baynard dropped out of a couple of sports, in which he showed great promise and has put most of his eggs in two baskets, for football and wrestling. As a football player, his lack of size caused him to play in obscurity, for five years, while older brother, Norman, larger and faster was among the stars in the pigskin firmament.

But in wrestling, Charles has made his mark. He's one of the most reliable athletes any coach could wish for. He does not miss practice and he's willing to put out once practice starts. Regardless of how he makes out in the state meet, he's had a great swan song.

Tom Clarke (125) 2nd and Chris Mertz (138) were other Spartans to qualify for the state meet. Each finished third at Smyrna.

Clarke beat Andy Scrafford at Dover 4-0, in the quarter-final round, then dropped a 5-2 verdict to Willie Vann of Cape Henlopen. Tommy swamped Jack Taylor of Dover Air 10-0, in the Consolation round.

Mentz decided Scott Miller of Delmar 12-0, Randy Noll of Smyrna 5-2, lost 5-2 to eventual champion Laverne Demory of Milford, then beat Rick Christy of Caesar Rodney, 5-3, for third place. Demory is also a star in track and cross-country at Milford. This gives him two chances for an athletic scholarship, as a runner or as a grappler.

Terry Jarrell (100) pinned Mike Richards of Woodbridge, in the opening round, then lost by a fall to 100-pounder Tony Neal, Sussex Central. Rodney Wyatt (117) pinned James Wheatley of Laurel, decided Tim Parks of Woodbridge, 3-0, was pinned in 53 seconds by Bobby Bosco of Caesar Rodney, then lost a controversial 6-5 bout to Daniel Boone of Smyrna, with a trip to the state meet hanging in the balance.

Bosco and Wyatt were teammates at Chipman School in Harrington and at Lake Forest High. Bosco is undefeated this campaign and will compete at the University of Delaware, as Henlopen Conference csamp.

Earlier this season, he beat Lake Forest's Martin Miller by one point. Wyatt didn't report for wrestling duty until Martin left because of illness. This brings out an interesting question. If Bosco hadn't moved to C.R., if Miller had not become ill and if Wyatt had not been several weeks late, who would have been No. 1?

With these guys going head-to-head in practice all three would have improved to such an extent, that Lake Forest might have had the three top 117 pounders in the loop. Of course, we are assuming that none could move up to 125 and beat Tom Clarke, or make the weight at 109.

At 143 pounds, Chris Adamo outpointed Aaron Johnson of Milford 4-1, then lost 7-2, to champion Joe Remender of Seaford.

Tom Baker (159) opened with a 8-4 win over Jeff Campbell of Smyrna, then lost 4-3 to Dean Tingle of Delmar and 5-2 to Charles Cannon of Sussex Central.

Harrington Bowling League Leah S. Wheeler

Brothers Five served notice that they're going all the way in the final third as they shelacked Fry's American in all games to remain the only team in the league with a clean slate. Ron Kelly again bowled superbly well as he amassed a grand 613 series, with games of 226 and 228 included, and Buck Thompson added a 204 game as the whole Brothers Five squad bowled above average efforts. Leroy Wheeler was the pace setter for Fry's American with a grand 618 series with games of 202 and 221 included, and the whole team bowled real good efforts in a losing cause.

George Collins paved the way for Taylor and Messick as the team swamped the Quillen's Market squad in all games to move into second place in the standings. George's 570 series was backed by Snooky Collins 540 set which included a 204 game. Ralph Kemp rolled a good effort for the Market Squad.

Butler's Fuel and McKnatt Funeral Home battled to a two-two split in Tuesday night fray. Sam Lyons and Dickie Collins bowled good efforts for Butler's Fuel. Robert Taylor and Ken Garey rolled good efforts for McKnatt Funeral Home.

Bruce Harrington was high bowler for the night in Tuesday night's local league with a fine 233 game and Leonard Outten hit a fine 214 game and the rest of the team chipped in with good efforts as the Spoilers were only able to split even-up with the T & M Rejects. The Rejects squad bowled good efforts with Bob Wilson leading the pack. Big John's Son is putting forth good strength in this last third and rode the hot hand of Mike Kohel and Sam Powell to conquer Jarrell Fuel in two games to earn three points for their fine efforts. Harold Melvin bowled a good effort for Jarrell's. Jimmy Fitzhugh bowled real well as People's Restaurant took three games from Robbin's Harwar as he got a real good assist from Cloyd Bushey and Phil Shulties. Harry Chadwick rolled a fine 211 game and 541 series and Harry Brown bowled a fine effort for Robbin's enabling the team to salvage one point.

Penn Central could only field a four-man squad Tuesday night, but the team managed to get one point against Wally's Garage to remain well up in the standings. Steve Baker rolled a good effort for the railroaders. Dave Ryan and Eugene Wright rolled fine efforts for Wally's Garage.

TOWN AND COUNTRY TOPICS

FRANCIS WEBB
KENT COUNTY AGENT

If the term, OSHA, is not familiar to you, you had better take the time to become completely familiar with it if you have one or more employees. This is the Williams-Steiger Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970, which provides for job safety and health protection for workers.

Many of you farmers may feel that you are exempt under this law, but I can assure you that if you hire a non-family person for one hour any time during the year, you must abide with this federal law. I would like to say that I do not know all the fine details of this law and how it pertains to you, but I would like to give you some of the rules and regulations that apply to all employers, no matter if they are industrial, business oriented, or farmer.

To start with you must display the Safety and Health Protection on the Job Poster in your place of business. This is mandatory and you are subject to a $500 fine if a compliance officer makes a routine check of your business and it is not displayed.

The general law also states that an employer will be fined $100 for not keeping the required records as outlined in OSHA. The law further explains that with less than eight employees records do not have to be kept. But let me remind you that having less than eight employees only voids the record keeping aspect and has nothing to do with your compliance to the OSHA law. It still remains that employing one or more persons for any period throughout a year automatically requires compliance to the law.

This law deals with the agricultural community at the present time in four areas, and these are sanitation in temporary labor camps, storage and handling of ammonia, pulpwood logging, and slow moving vehicles. All this is saying is the OSHA administration has set specific guidelines by which these facilities and materials and/or situations can be handled. Non-compliance will result in severe penalties, primarily through fines. I can assure you that the OSHA staff is at the present time setting guidelines for many other aspects and situations within the agricultural industry.

This law further states for all businesses that all acci-idents must be reported to the regional office within 48 hours if there has been a fatality or if five or more persons have been injured in the same accident. Non-compliance holds a $200 fine.

As you are reading this article, I would bet that you are not in compliance with the law, because it requires that during the month of February a summary sheet entitled, "Occupational Injuries and Illnesses," Form 102, must be displayed in your place of business. This must be done if you have one or one hundred employees. You are in trouble if a compliance officer, in his random selection of businesses to visit, has chosen yours.

Let me tell you just a little about the regional set-up here, which includes our state of Delaware. The regional office, which is #3, is in Philadelphia and the chief compliance officer is Thomas Bulard. This regional office is in one of a six state area with Delaware included in the six states. At the present time, they have 78 compliance officers, randomly selecting businesses (including agricultural) on which they are making inspections. My understanding is that the larger businesses, or ones with obvious health and safety problems, are being pinpointed. However, having only a few employees does not exclude you from a random inspection.

I do want to linger on the requirements and all the details of this law, but I would anxiously encourage each and everyone that employs one or more persons to inquire and investigate their obligations under the Occupational Safety and Health Act. The University of Delaware Co-operative Extension Service will send each farm operator the guidelines by which agriculture must comply. For immediate information, feel free to call our office at 738-1448 and we will try to answer your questions. There is an OSHA office in Wilmington and exact information can be obtained by calling 658-9251.

It Seams To Me

Janet Reed

Most of us are sold on the man-made fibers—their performance and ease of care. They have revolutionized the textile industry. But changes have occurred in natural fibers, too, due to research conducted by scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Look what has happened to cotton. Chemicals are used to give cottons wash and wear, durable press and hap-retention qualities often associated with synthetic or blends. Cottons can be made to stretch due to a slack mercerization process. The looser the weave, the more the fabric will stretch. Inexpensive cotton lace can be given depth and richness by this same process.

Research has found ways of making cotton fabrics flame resistant. Chemical treatments are so effective that in the presence of flame or extremely high heat, the fabric will char but will not burst into flame.

Cottons are available in all kinds of finishes, construction and weights. Cotton can be knit or woven. It can be made to look like silk, linen or wool. Cotton takes beautiful colors; it wears well; is absorbent; and is comfortable to wear. Wool fabrics, too, have changed because of current research and now we can wash treated wools by machine without fabric shrinkage. This protection against shrinkage lasts through repeated washings, making treated woolen garments as easy to care for as synthetics.

Another U.S.D.A. research project has developed a new process for tanning shearlings, that makes them washable and suitable for hospital, home and fashion use.

Shearlings are lambskins with fleece attached. In the past, the use of these soft shearlings has been limited because they were difficult to clean. Now, they can be laundered and still retain their softness and resistance to perspiration which makes them ideal for boot linings, ski jackets and bed pads for invalids. They also are used for fashion apparel, throw rugs, car seats and stuffed toys. This same tanning process can be used to make leather washable for gloves and other items.

Natural fibers have felt competition from the man-made fiber industry, but research has developed improvements to make natural fibers more acceptable to consumers and more competitive in today's market. Natural fibers are still with us and better than ever.

Say Goodbye To Staking Tomatoes

This summer Delaware home gardeners can say goodbye to pruning and staking tomato plants.

Stakeless, a new variety developed at the University of Delaware, is available for the first time this summer to the general public. The Stakeless tomato is a bush-type tomato with extremely thick stems that support the fruit off the ground. These sturdy stems eliminate the need for stakes and the labor of pruning and tying operations, according to Professor Eugene Brasher, the University plant scientist who originated Stakeless.

This unique tomato has unusual leaves which resemble those of a potato plant. Leaf growth is so dense that fruit is well-protected from sunscald. In fact, at first glance, few if any fruit can be seen on the plant, even during the height of the production season.

The tomatoes are large (five to eight ounces), mild-flavored and crack-resistant. Stakeless has a bright red, meaty tomato that look like the Delsher, another popular variety, but this newer variety has fewer seeds.

Under Delaware conditions, Stakeless takes about 80 days to mature after transplanting. It will continue to produce tomatoes until frost.

Stakeless is resistant to Fusarium wilt, a tomato disease that often severely damages plants in Delaware. And it is sufficiently tolerant to early blight to keep foliage green and attractive throughout summer and fall, Brasher says. Because of its sturdy growth and upright habit, he sees Stakeless as suitable for ornamental landscape plantings as well as home garden use. The plant grows to between 18 and 24 inches in height.

Only one seed supplier, D.V. Burrell Seed Growers in Rocky Ford, Colorado, still has available seed for this year. Seed should be sown about the third week in March.

For a free copy of Brasher's bulletin on THE STAKELESS TOMATO, write the Agricultural Editor's Office at the University of Delaware.
