

Mutuel Handle Up At Races

Harrington Raceway is riding the crest of its best spring harness meeting in its history at the trotters and pacers swing into their third week of activity. Through the first eight racing days the mutual handle is up over 23 per cent and the attendance showed a 3.67 per cent increase over a comparable period last season. The gains are even more significant when one considers the fact that Harrington is conducting its harness meet in direct competition with the thoroughbreds at nearby Dover Downs.

Thursday evening is Governor's Night and Delaware Governor, Sherman W. Tribbitt will be on hand with his Cabinet and members of the General Assembly to present the trophy in the featured trot, named in his honor.

Speedy Sweet with Roland Shimp driving is the probable post time favorite in the B2-B3 Handicap event, having finished close up in his last few outings. Precious Rainbow is making his first 1973 appearance and he could also greet the Honorable Tribbitt in the winner's circle. Stephen Guy owns, trains and drives the eight-year-old Floris gelding who won a qualifying race handily in 2:11.2 at the Harrington oval April 13th.

Birney's Hot Shot is another who should make his presence felt after being forced to take the overland route last week for driver Ed Long.

Marty Burton will handle the driving chores behind Tom and Doris Pattison's Joyce Nickawampus who earned almost $6,000 last season including a 2:06.4 triumph at Brandywine.

Patrons are reminded that there will be no racing on Good Friday and Easter Sunday in observance of the Easter holiday, however, racing will be conducted as usual on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings with a first post time at 8 p.m.

80 YEARS OF SERVICE to Lake Forest area. John Steward, 39 years, Courtland Dill, 41 years.

National School Bus Safety Week

In recognition of National School Bus Safety Week, we have chosen two men that have served many years as school bus contractor drivers in the Lake Forest area.

John Steward has been serving the Lake Forest area for 39 years. His salary was one dollar a day for driving. Mr. Steward drove a 28 capacity city bus, compared to today's 66 capacity buses being used in Delaware. Courtland Dill has served the Lake Forest area for 41 years. In talking with him, he informed me he was paid $4.75 for driving and operating his bus. Mr. Dill had what was considered a big bus, as it was a 42 capacity. During the years he has driven over a half-million miles.

We like to think that every week is National School Bus Week, and along with the public, constantly strive for a safe school transportation program.

Coping With The Sales Pitch

It's always open season on consumers. Even in his own home, the consumer is not free from the sales pitch. Door-to-door sales offers, phone solicitations, and direct mail advertising are three of the ways in which businesses try to market their products in the home.

How can the consumer deal with the inconvenience, the annoyance, the expense and sometimes downright fraud of these marketing efforts? There are several things you can do, says Coral Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware. First refuse to acknowledge the unwanted sales overture. Know your legal rights. And enlist the help of consumer-oriented services to terminate undesired solicitations, especially those that are fraudulent.

The consumer always has the option of refusing to respond to a home sales pitch, says Miss Morris. In the case of the door-to-door sales overtures, you have the privilege of not answering the door, of not opening it to the sales person, and of not engaging in conversation which may lead to a sale.

The same thing goes for phone solicitations. If you don't want the product, don't listen, she advises. Don't be afraid to be rude if necessary; it may be the only way to turn away some salesmen.

Direct mail solicitations are another form of marketing intrusion into the home. Here, too, you have the final say. You do not have to open advertising mail, and are under no obligation to respond to it.

The consumer has certain clear legal rights which protect him against the impositions and the sometimes fraudulent practices of each of these forms of home marketing, says Miss Morris. Federal, state and local laws have been passed in recent years to guarantee you the right of choice and to ensure that you are not pressured or tricked into spending your money.

Delaware residents are now protected by a state home solicitation law which gives them

New Century Club Notes

The Harrington New Century Club held its regular meeting April 10, at 12 noon, at which time sandwiches and coffee were served. Dessert was homemade pumpkin pie which was baked by Mrs. Jehu Camper.
At 1 p.m. all left the club and drove to Island Field Cemetery, located at Bowers Beach.
Clifford Lafferts, site manager of the cemetery, met the group on its arrival and told of the mass grave pits that had been discovered at Island Field. As many as seven people have been found in one grave. When a child was buried it was placed on its back in a modified extended position. Most of the burials had flexed arms and legs drawn up in various degrees of tightness. It is believed this was done so that the grave would be smaller or that this was a sleeping position.
Some graves had a cup or a bowl beside it which was for offerings. This container may

Great Geneva Near Dover and Liston House Named Historical Places

Great Geneva near Dover and the Liston House at Liston's Point have been named to the National Register of Historic Places. Both houses were built before 1750, and both are distinguished for their architectural qualities.
The Liston House was built around 1739 by Edmund Liston, whose father had settled the property a half-century earlier. On the morning of July 12, 1747, a company of Spanish marauders attacked the house and went on to plunder the home of James Hart nearby. Liston's fearful neighbors petitioned for military protection, which was denied by the Pennsylvania legislature. For more than two centuries, the Liston House has survived virtually unchanged.
Great Geneva, a two-story brick house on the road from Lebanon to Camden, was the home of John Hunn, a famous abolitionist and organizer of the "underground railroad" slave-smuggling network. His son John served as governor of Delaware between 1901 and 1905. The house, sometimes known as "Little Geneva", was rescued from ruin by its present owners, and now stands restored.
By virtue of their inclusion on the National Register, these two houses are now protected against encroachment by federal projects and federally-licensed projects. Under the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966, the National Register is the Division of Historical and Cultural Affairs; the director of the division is Delaware's representative in matters relating to historic preservation.

Home handymen are the cleverest folk around when it comes to making gifts! Why not make a small table for the little folk in your family? Child experts say that children do best at a table made for their height and sit most comfortably on chairs which are made for them. For older folk, what could be more welcome than a set of bookshelves or a small hassock chest for keeping treasured objects. Look around your house. Think of what you could do with a little ingenuity and some pieces of wood.

Home handymen shop for all their materials at HARRINGTON LUMBER & SUPPLY, Harrington, 398-3241. Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

EASTER

Knowing "The Master" dwelt among us, And when, departing up on high, Left a plan for us to follow Which pleased God and will never die.

The following appropriate lines appearing in this month's issue of the Asbury Visitor, better defines the way we "Down Home - Folks" feel about it.

EASTER

Now that the Christ is risen, Now with the darkness gone, The road lies out before us, Upward, and on and on.

There are His sandal footprints, There is His form ahead, Straight and strong and compelling, The Christ that they left as dead.

Nothing can dim His glory, Nothing can stay His feet, And countless are they who follow Him down each lane and street;

And I would be one among them, Along the Glory Way; I would arise and follow The risen Christ today.

-Grace Neal Crowell

Bryant, Parker, Mosley Lead Spartans Past Bucs

Ed Webster's debut as Lake Forest's head track coach was a success, as the Spartans outlasted Milford's Buccaneers 73-68.

Don Bryant, Don Parker and Ron Mosley were double winners for Lake Forest. The first two were also on the first-place 440 relay quartet.

Bryant won the 120 yard high hurdles, eased up, in 16.7 and jumped only once to annex the triple jump with 39 ft., 2 in. The triple jump record at Lake Forest is 41 feet plus. It is held by George Turner (1972) and is rated as one of the top Spartan standards. Coach Webster and Bryant both expect that record to fall soon.

Don Parker edged Milford's fleet Lou Giusto in both dashes, in the rain, recording 10.5 (100) and 24.4 in the 220.

Mosley, a long-striding junior, easily finished in front, in the mile and half mile runs. Harry Benson, a fine, freshman prospect, ran a lifetime best of 5:05, in the mud, to finish second in the mile, then was runnerup in the 440. Bob Kashner's best-ever mile (5:16) made it 1-2-3 Lake Forest.

Kit Tilghman was second to Mosley in the half. Neil Travis, an explosive relay runner, competed in only the 440 and 880 relays, both won by Lake Forest. But Travis has too much talent to vie in two events when rules allow him three. Webster is seeking a third spot for Travis, such as the 100, 220, 180 low hurdles or the long jump. All these specialties fit a speed-burner like Neil, in fact he is Spartan record-holder in the low hurdles.

This last event saw Milford get luck and blank Lake Forest 9-0, with Lee Dunbar away on a school function and Charles Baynard disqualified for two false starts. A Buc clocked 23.4, a time already bettered by both Baynard and Dunbar. Nine more gift points in the pole vault occurred when Sven Osmundson, Lake Forest's only returning vaulter did not put in an appearance.

Eddie Thompson, No. 1 Spartan in cross-country, ran a fine, 11 minutes flat, two mile. Joe Voshell, perhaps the hardest worker on the Lake Forest team, clocked an excellent 11:29.4, in his first varsity start ever. This young freshman may eventually rank with the best long-distance runners in Spartan history, at a school noted for excellence in distance running. Howard Kaskey was third for a 1-2-3 Spartan sweep.

Greg Osmundson, Lake Forest's own, red-bearded, Viking, took the 12 pound shot with a toss of near-37 feet.

Earlier this spring Lake Forest lost Lester Fountain, a nineteen foot-long jumper, who could not pass the physical. Distance ace, Vernon Bowers and sprinter Dennis Tolson had to leave the squad because of matters not pertaining to track.

John Pickett was hastily recruited to take Tolson's place. This freshman did a great job on the winning 440 and 880 relay teams.

Matt Burgess, at 140 pounds, and 5 feet 8 1/2 inches, was 10 pounds lighter than the next smallest of the dozen discus throwers, some of whom were in the 200 pound group. Nevertheless, the 15-year-old sophomore with the fine technique spun the platter almost 104 feet and finished second to a burly Buc, who threw four feet better. Jerry Thompson, Rob Wyatt and Benny Cohee, other Spartan sophs filled the next three places.

Ron Dulap and Shellfont Waples ran well on the winning 880 relay four. John Starke was third in the high jump, in his first varsity start.

Dill Brothers Emulate "Me and Paul"

Back in the Gashouse Gang era of the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals, "me and Paul" stood for Dizzy Dean and Paul "Daffy" Dean. These brothers, fireballing righthanders, pulled off many miraculous feats.

Lake Forest has such a duo "me and Russell" which could stand for Jim and Russell Dill, although we don't mean to indicate that the soft-spoken Jim Dill is in the same league, vocally, as the brash, out-spoken Hall-of-Famer, Dizzy Dean.

Sophomore Russell Dill blanketed Delmar 6-0, on two hits. Mike Atkinson led Lake Forest with three safeties, Bill Winkler had two more. Jim Dill had a hit and two RBI's, Russell Dill, Jerry Steerman, Bob Nored, Tom Clarke had one bingle each.

Jim Dill gave Milford one hit, as the Spartans ran their record to 3-0, with a 5-1 verdict. Jim had three hits, Russell had two, John Knapp, Jerry Steerman, Wayne Voshell each hit safely once.

Come to think of it, we don't believe that Dizzy and Paul could hit like the Dill brothers.

George Marshall Stars in Chipman Track Opener

W.T. Chipman School's seventh and eighth grade track team, coached by Al Lewis, were beaten by a powerhouse Caesar Rodney team at Camden-Woming Monday afternoon.

George Marshall was Chipman's top performer. Marshall despite a poor start, hurled the won the 50 yard dash in 5.9 eight pound shot 38 ft. 9 in. for second place and anchored the winning 440 relay team.

The relay unit recorded a fine 51.4. Lester Jones got the early lead, Mark Tatman and Kevin Marshall carried the baton on the second and third legs.

Tatman was third in both the 50 and 100 yard dashes, Jones was second in the 100 in 11.8 and in the high jump with 4 ft. 9 in.

Delmer Freeman finished second in the 220 in 26.6 seconds and third in the 440 in 60.6 seconds. Freeman fouled on two 17-foot long jumps and eventually placed third with a leap of 15 ft., 3 in.

Coach Lewis is a former cross-country runner from Williamstown, N.J., home of the fabulous Marino brothers. Five or six long-distance stars from one family is really hitting the jackpot.

Chipman travels to Millsboro for their next start.

The plans were developed by the co-operative efforts of USDA's extension service, state extension stations, USDA's co-operative state research service and agricultural research service.

The building plans, their purpose and some of the construction details are shown in the illustrations and are described in the text for each plan.

Walpole says economy of material and labor has been given particular emphasis. The structures are efficient and useful for the purpose intended.

Fathers Important In Child Raising

In our society, family structures are changing, one-parent homes are becoming more common and families are becoming less stable. Children need help learning to cope with the complex life of our culture, says Miss Mary Ann Finch, extension family and child development specialist at the University of Delaware, and the image of a father and mother helps them position themselves in the society.

Until recently, the significance of the father's role in the socialization process was seen primarily as that of financial supporter. This is no longer the case. Numerous research reports indicate the father's relationship with the child is of particular significance to both boys and girls.

For example, studies indicate that in a group of disadvantaged boys, those whose fathers were absent tended to be depressed, insecure, unstable, irritable, impulsive and immature to a greater extent than the boys whose fathers were in the home.

Youngsters whose fathers are absent have been found to have difficulty in adjusting in school, and they often create problems for all the other children in the classroom. Even peer rejections have been found to be associated with the absence of the true father of a child.

Such reports should help us appreciate the father's role in the socializing of any child, Miss Finch says. On the other hand, they are disturbing since there are so many children in our society who are being reared without a father.

However, one encouraging study indicates that father substitutes may help the child adapt to the lack of a father in the home. For example, after one big-brother project was completed, the participants were found to have improved their self-image and their attitudes toward school, they played better with friends and had higher aspirations.

Based on these studies; programs allowing young children to be exposed to male models are rapidly appearing. Nursery schools and kindergartens are recruiting boys of high school age or older to be with the children for part of each day.

Primary grade school teachers are using older male students who are potential drop-outs to help younger children learn to read. The result has been beneficial for the older boys because they have found more meaning in their school experiences, and for the younger children because they have a male model for at least part of the day. They also have more individual help in learning to read.

More men are being encouraged to seek careers in preschool education and in the earlier elementary grades, Miss Finch adds.

Nurserymen Form New Association

Nurserymen have formed a new organization to promote nursery products and skills of the Delaware nursery trade. The Delaware Association of Nur-seriesmen was organized at a recent meeting of local nurserymen at the State Department of Agriculture Building in Dover.

Officers of the new association include Gary W. Shields of Millcreek Nurseries, Newark, president; Joseph Wick of Wick Nurseries, Smyrna, vice president; and Michael M. Harris of Barnyard Gardens, Hockessin, secretary-treasurer. Members of the executive committee in addition to the above include Norman Cannon of Sussex Nurseries, Bridgeville; Harold Timmons, Bunting Nurseries, Shelbyville; and James Welsh, All-Seasons Garden Center, Dover. Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware, was named advisor to the new organization.

The association will be affiliated with the American Association of Nurserymen, Inc. Meetings of the group will be held monthly. The next meeting will be at 8 p.m., April 18, in Agricultural Hall at the University of Delaware, Newark.

All nurserymen and those in closely-related businesses are invited to join. For more information call or write Michael M. Harris secretary - treasurer, Barnyard Gardens, Inc., Yorklyn Road, Hockessin, 19707.

TOWN AND COUNTRY TOPICS

FRANCIS WEBB
KENT COUNTY AGENT

The day of cheap food is now over! I think you as a consumer realize that the price of food today is higher than it has been for some time. However, this increase in price is relative to past food prices and is not compared to other consumer goods.

Food prices have increased 46 per cent in the last 20 years in comparison to wages and other goods having an increase of 122 per cent.

Food has always been one of the cheapest consumer items on the market—it's still the cheapest with the increased prices. While you are reading this article, just take 16 per cent of your total annual income. This is the amount you have to take out of your spending money to keep you supplied in the highest quality and most nourishing foods in the world.

Imagine some of our neighboring countries having to spend as high as 55 per cent of their disposable income for food that's not even as nourishing, readily available, and as wide a selection as we have on our food market. This percentage figure is from Russia. In West Germany they are spending 33 per cent, and the United Kingdom is in the 25-28 per cent bracket.

So, from this you can see that we are quite fortunate, but unless I'm really mistaken I don't believe we can continue to enjoy the foods that we have at the ridiculously low prices they have been. Yes, we have been used to cheap food, and we have taken it for granted. But with fewer farmers, escalating land prices, cost of equipment, seed, fertilizer and other inputs, we are going to have to readjust and give a fairer share of our food dollar to the farmer. I believe the only way this can happen is by the overall food prices increasing to where the farmer can realize a decent income. At the same time, the wholesalers and retailers will still take their proportionate share.

I believe it is in the interest of our country to adjust our food prices so as the farmer can continue to be the most efficient and aggressive industry in the world. As you may realize, the United States has made a complete circle. We started our rapid advancement through food and fibre production technology, which supplied us and many foreign countries. Our impact then shifted to other consumer items and created our heavy industrialization that we know today.

Much of this technology has now shifted to foreign countries and we find they are now able to produce these non-food consumer items, including luxuries and convenience materials, much cheaper than we are able to produce them. But what has come back to us now is the production of food and fibre again. We have to admit that the world population is looking very desperately to the United States for much of the food which is now needed for our world population.

I am not saying this is good or bad that we are supplying these materials to the foreign countries, but I can guarantee you that the demands are there and this is part of the reason for our higher food prices that we are now experiencing.

Foreign trade is predicted to increase tremendously in the next few years. This alone is going to greatly influence our own food prices. You may think that it is unfair to send these products to other countries and, in turn, raise the price to us. It may or may not be; I am no judge of that, but I know that we must have commodities that are marketable in our foreign countries to adjust our balance of payment in the world market.

It Seams To Me

Janet Reed

Ruffles and flourishes! Use ruffles for a fashion flourish. They are perky and feminine and an attractive trim at neckline, sleeve, hem or other garment edges.

The easiest method is to make a double ruffle so you won't need to finish raw edges. Cut a fabric strip, straight or bias, twice the width of the finished ruffle plus seam allowances. The length of the strip will depend on how full you want the ruffle to be, and possibly the width desired.

The sheerer the fabric, the fuller the ruffle should be. If the strip is three times the length of the edge to be trimmed, it will give a very full ruffle. For heavier fabric, a strip twice the length of the edge will give enough fullness. A very wide ruffle will need more fullness than a narrow one to keep it from looking skimpy.

How you finish the ends of the ruffle depends on where it is to be used. For the ruffle itself, fold in half lengthwise with wrong sides of the fabric together. Make two rows of gathering stitches along the raw edge; one on the exact seam line and the other within the seam allowance. Use a long machine stitch and a strong thread, such as nylon or polyester on the bobbin. This will be less apt to break when the threads are pulled up. Two rows of stitching will help distribute the fullness more evenly and will be protection in case one thread breaks. When you have attached the ruffle, remove any gathering stitches that show.

Mark off the area to be trimmed into four equal parts. Also mark the ruffle into four equal parts. Pull up bobbin threads so that an equal amount of fabric is distributed in each section and that marks on the ruffle match the marks on the garment edge. Place the ruffle on the right side of the garment with raw edge of ruffle even with raw edge of garment. Stitch in position through line of gathers on the seam line.

Finish a neckline with a fitted facing. Use a bias strip on straighter edges such as wrist or hem. Place facings over ruffle, against matching raw edges. Stitch exactly on line of previous stitching. Trim seams, clip curved edges and turn. The ruffle should now stand away from the seam. Understitching will help hold it in place.

If you do not want the bulk of a gathered ruffle, try circular ruffles. These are cut from several circles which are first slashed and then joined along the straight grain. The edge of this ruffle may be finished with a very narrow hem or if you are using sheer fabric, the ruffles may be faced with self fabric and turned. The circular ruffle cause of the many bias edges which stretch easily.

Attach the circular ruffle in the same manner as a straight ruffle with this exception. Place a row of staystitching on the seam allowance of the inner circle of the ruffle. This will allow you to clip every half inch up to the line of staystitching. The ruffle can then be straightened out as you stitch to the garment on the seam line.

Plant Corn Early

Farmers should start planting corn early. According to Dr. William H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware, all corn should be in the ground by May 15.

He says planting early has several advantages. First, early corn can be planted at higher populations and you can expect higher yields. Early planted corn is usually shorter than late planted corn. Also, by planting early, you improve the chances of your corn pollinating in lower temperatures and before the summer drought which usually occurs in late July or early August. And when corn is planted early, the crop will be better able to use subsoil moisture before it evaporates, which can be important during a dry year.

Early planted corn does not always yield as much as that planted at the optimum time but the average yield reduction from planting too early is less than from planting too late, Mitchell points out. Early for Sussex county may mean April 10 to 15, but in New Castle county, it would be 10 to 15 days later.

Planting early also improves chances that your corn will mature earlier in the fall. And corn that matures early improves the chances of field drying, and helps avoid field losses from bad weather and lodging. In addition, you may be able to take advantage of a slight price advantage for early harvested corn.

Mitchell points out that early planting is not without risk. But he adds the risk is usually worth it.

Cold, wet soil can take its toll on early planted corn. Weed problems can arise if the soil is too wet for timely cultivation. And there is a chance of frost injury. And careful choice of herbicides can control the weed problem.

Name New 4-H Agent

A Wilmington native, Miss Ann Schaub, has been named to a new position as assistant extension 4-H agent for Sussex County.

Miss Schaub's appointment which begins April 16, was announced by Dr. Samuel M. Gwinn, director of the Delaware co-operative extension service. A graduate of St. Elizabeth High School, Miss Schaub received her bachelor of science degree in Home Economics from the University of Delaware.

While at the university, she served as a senior residence hall advisor, editor of the Newman Center newspaper, Exit, reporter for the Review, teaching assistant in home economics and tutor advisor during a summer program for in-coming freshmen students.

In her new position, Miss Schaub will be responsible for expanding the educational 4-H youth work in rural community sex County. She will also assist Sussex County 4-H agent Ted Palmer in selected youth activities.

Miss Schaub's office will be located at the University of Delaware Georgetown station.
