

Kent Wants to Alter Trash Collection Fees

Kent County Levy Court voted unanimously Tuesday to request from the General Assembly the authority to add administrative costs to its charges for trash collection.

Levy Court President Joshua M. Twilley said at Tuesday's meeting the cost of administration of the county's trash collection program has been estimated at about $100 per month for all eight districts. He said the increase would amount to about 10 cents per month on the individual bill.

Residents receiving trash collection service contracted for by the county currently pay only the actual collection charges.

Commissioner John T. McKenna said pressure from county legislators and Dover Mayor Crawford J. Carroll "may have moved it a little quicker," but that the county had planned eventually to pass along the costs to those receiving the service.

Carroll and House Minority Leader Hudson E. Gruwell, D-Dover, indicated Monday that a bill prepared for introduction in the legislature might be necessary if county cost accounting problems could not be resolved.

Carroll has maintained for some time that Dover residents are "subsidizing" the county by paying the same county taxes as non-city residents and having to maintain separate city services with the city tax.

The legislation would set up a "local service function budget" for Kent County, similar to that in New Castle County. City residents pay taxes for services the city provides, such as trash collection and recreation.

"We would definitely oppose that legislation," McKenna said. "It's not working in New Castle County."

McKenna said the administration charges were not added when the trash program was begun because "we didn't know what they (the costs) were." He said the county is prepared to hire a full-time accountant to put the trash collection and other programs on a user-fee basis where possible.

On another piece of pending in the House of Representatives, County Comptroller William C. Torbert said he did not feel a raise to $8,000 would be warranted for the comptroller.

"I'm sending letters to legislators," Torbert said. "I would like my salary to remain as is." He added that row office deputies and other employees deserve a raise.

The bill, H.B. 332, would raise seven Kent and five Sussex County elected row office holders' salaries to $8,000 per year from the $6,000 most now receive.

The Long Walk II - AFS Walkathon A Big Success

Last year's inaugural 15 mile stroll to Bowers Beach was a big success, raising more than $1,000 for the American Field Service foreign exchange student program.

Saturday's second annual Walk-a-thon promises to exceed the 1972 total since 158 persons went 15 miles and another dozen or so went part of the way. The total should be swelled further because many of the marchers obtained multiple sponsors, who pledged 10c or more a mile for each mile covered.

Possibly the top trio in number of sponsors consists of Margaret Kinney, Dolores Kulkula and Kathy Giles.

The 1973 course started at Chipman School, Harrington, went out the west gate and past Blades Crossroads to Hopkins Crossroads (James Emberlain house). Here a right turn sign funneled the caravan onto Sugarstick Road, heading northeast. This road intersected the Masten's Corner-Hollandville Road, where another right turn led past the old Minner basket factory, into Masten's Corner. There at the third checkpoint stood Lake Forest High School assistant principal Gary Annett, assisted by David Watlack, in the dispensation of ice cold orange juice. After this brief, welcome respite, a right turn headed the weary travelers toward Harrington. At a crossroad two miles north of Harrington, the Chipman School could be seen. Some of the kids plaintively inquired "We can see the school, why can't we turn here and go to it?" But, in order to finish 15 miles, it was necessary to continue east past the last checkpoint "Mrs. Anne Minner" toward the railroad track. A turn to the right on Weiner Ave. extended, then carried the blistered feet into town, onto North Street, Dorman Street, Center Street, in the south gate of the school, to the athletic field and home.

Mayor Wm. A. Minner and Brazilian exchange student Celia Rebeiro opened the gates at 9:08 and the cavalcade was on. Brad Morris, ex-distance star at both Harrington and Lake Forest High School was still warming up in the parking lot. Eventually, Morris passed everyone, ran five miles off course because the sign at Hopkins Crossroads pointed north instead of east. Morris got a ride of three miles, then cruised into the Chipman parking lot after only one hour and 45 minutes. He ran 17 miles altogether.

Sue Ellen O'Neal, the lone bike rider, rode 18 miles and finished 10 minutes ahead of Morris. Miss O'Neal got off once to pick honeysuckle. The second time she dismounted she saw a snake and dismounted no more.

Barry Doherty and Don Woods, cross-country runners, came in together, followed by Matt Kowalski and Rick Woodward, two more Lake Forest harriers.

Jim Chatham and George Gibbs, received trophies as the first Chipman boys to finish. Jim Guyton and Shawn McLain were next. McLean was the only finisher in the top 14 who is not a cross-country runner.

Seventh grader John Nichle ran 16 miles, since he ran back half a mile to get his pledge card from his father, John Sr., who also completed the grid.

Girls' State June 25 to 29

The 31st annual Delaware Girls' State will be held in Dover June 25 to 29 inclusive. The girls will be housed in Wesley College and government sessions will be held in Legislative Hall. Karen Cohee and Phyllis Markowitz were chosen to represent Lake Forest. Also, in the event that the girl who is selected is unable to attend, Doreen Chaffinch and Judy Tatman were chosen alternates.

These girls were selected because the judges thought they had the following qualifications: Leadership and initiative, ability to speak before a group, character, courage, honesty, scholarship, co-operativeness, and physical fitness.

Osmundson To Represent L. F.

Sven Osmundson was nominated and elected by the junior class to represent Lake Forest at the Pete duPont Congressional Intern Program.

Pete duPont organized this Student Congressional Intern Program to involve juniors from Delaware high schools.

During the week of May 7 to May 11, Sven and seven students from other schools, will go to Washington for a week. During this time they will sit in on a House of Representatives, Committee, and Senate meetings.

The general idea of this program is to get students interested and involved in the government.

Last year, Tommy Clark was our representative from Lake Forest.

Fine Arts Festival at Chipman School

The first Festival for the Fine Arts to be sponsored by the W. T. Chipman Junior School, Earl Griffin, principal, will be held next Thursday and Friday evenings, May 31 and June 1, at the Chipman gym from 7 to 9.

The festival is being given under the guidance of Dan Evans, English and drama departments; George Black, art department; and Melvin Brobst, music.

The three departments will present programs simultaneously, permitting the public to wander through the three sections at will. The drama department is planning to present a history of the drama from the Greek period to modern times, the art division will have spectacular displays of art work performed by students throughout the year, while the music department will offer short programs by ensemble from the band as well as rock groups.

A feature will include an outdoor French cafe where refreshments will be served at a moderate fee. While the festival is open to the public without charge, donations will be welcome.

Phone Co. Asks Caution In Digging

Diamond State Telephone Co. urged farmers, excavators and gardeners to exercise caution when digging because it is possible to cut underground telephone cable.

Jim Strickland, the utility's local manager, said that last year 352 telephone cables were damaged in Delaware. Of these, 222 were damaged in Kent and Sussex Counties.

"Underground cables carry circuits for hospitals, fire, police, doctors, newspapers, radio and television stations, as well as (Continued on Page 4)

State Senate Approves Food Stamps For Poor

A bill to supplant the surplus food commodities program with federal food stamps passed the Senate Tuesday after a lengthy discussion that showed the stamps will save state money. S.B. 192, sponsored by Sen. Margaret R. Manning, R-Marshallton, picked up 19 favorable votes with two senators absent.

The bill enables the stamp program to start in October with about a one year transition between the programs.

Ronald N. Tenaro, assistant to the comptroller general of the General Assembly Joint Finance Committee, said first year operation will cost the state $303,000. However, he said, federal aid will reduce that to a net of $168,000.

The state now pays about $365,000 per year on food commodities in helping welfare families. Second year net costs for food stamps are projected at $358,000 without an overlap in the commodities program.

Third year net costs, Tenaro said, will weed out ineligible and be $331,000. The three year projected costs include a staff of 30 people, some of whom will be picked up from the commodities program to run the food stamp plan.

The program, if it passes the House and is signed by the governor, will allow needy families more money to purchase a wide variety of foodstuffs at stores, compared to the diet now offered by the commodities plan.

The Senate also passed a bill to ease the penalty for first offenders convicted of driving while intoxicated. The law now provides a mandatory one-year loss of license.

S.S. 1 for S.B. 69, sponsored by Sen. Jacob W. Zimmerman, D-Dover, would allow drivers to apply for a work license after taking a state-operated safety course and having their cases reviewed. Sen. George Jarvis, R-Harmony Hills, a proponent of the bill, said it would take four to five months for those convicted of drunken driving to obtain a work license.

The Senate sent a House bill back to the House that will save the state about $600,000 in personal income tax rebates. H.B. 246, sponsored by Rep. John G. S. Billingsley will end tax credit in Delaware for income tax paid to political subdivisions outside Delaware.

Boys' State Lake Forest Representatives

The Department of the Delaware American Legion will sponsor Delaware Boys' State at Delaware State College June 17-22.

Three delegates were chosen to represent Lake Forest: Sven Osmundson, Willard McGinnis and Grant Salisbury. Alternates were also chosen in the event that the delegates cannot attend.

The qualifications were that they be junior boys with above average grades, possess leadership abilities, and have an interest in learning more about government through practical application.

Rotary Club Honors Exchange Student

During their "Ladies Night" meeting last Monday evening at the Senior Citizens Center, the local club with their Rotary Annis, hosted exchange student Celia Riberio and her American parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mason of Raughley Road. Celia, a senior at Lake Forest High School, showed slides of her home city, Fortaleza, and surroundings in the State of Ceara, Brazil. She proved to be a real ambassador for her home-land as she cheerfully answered questions.

President Richard Johnson presented her with one of the club banners and a beautiful Rotary Plate with wheel in center and international related engravings.

Ma Bell Muzzles Obscene Callers

Obscene calling doesn't pay. That's the latest word from Ed Wellman, who's in charge of Diamond State Telephone Company's "Annoyance Call Group."

He and his team of communications specialists have been catching obscene callers since his group was organized back in 1966.

In Delaware last year, there were 4,911 complaints reported to his group.

"About 93 per cent of the complaints are resolved as soon as our specialists talk with the harassed subscriber. This compares with only 80 per cent back in 1966. The remaining 7 per cent are more serious," he went on.

"But once we put our tracing equipment on the line, we are successful on 31 per cent of our attempts," he added.

A typical "trace" incident occurred in Wilmington about two weeks ago.

"I got a report from the telephone business office that a subscriber was being harassed by a heavy breather. We narrowed the suspects down to a few boys. I set up a 'trace' and it turned out to be two neighborhood boys.

"They were brought before Juvenile Judge and placed on probation.

New Castle County, which has the highest density of phones in the state, also has the highest number of harassing calls," he went on.

"Last year in New Castle County, there were 3,683 complaints reported to me. And in Kent and Sussex Counties, there was a combined total of 1,228 calls.

Over the years, we have found that about 19 per cent of all harassing calls are obscene, about 1 per cent are threatening, such as bomb threats or bodily harm, and some 80 per cent are the harassing type calls, such as nuisance calls, hang-up calls, or complete silence calls, etc.," he added.

"The usual reason for the 'silence' type," he said, "is because the harassing caller is usually known to the person receiving the call, and if he spoke, his voice would be recognized."

"Our group has discovered that a lot of the harassing calls are made by neighbors or 'past' friends and sometimes even by someone in the family... a cousin or uncle.

"I don't want to give the impression that harassing phone calls aren't a problem. They are now, and probably will continue to be," he said.

He gave this advice for those who get harassing calls:

First, "don't talk." Talking keeps you and the obscene caller on the phone, and this is just what the caller wants. Your instinct may be to try to find out who the caller is. But don't try - you will only be giving him more satisfaction.

Second, "hang up." Always hang up when you hear the first obscene word, or if the caller refuses to speak.

"We have a free booklet, 'What To Do About Annoying Telephone Calls.' It is available by calling the local telephone business office. It also includes a 'Call-log' that helps the police and the phone company resolve the case," he said.

If threatening or obscene calls continue, call the telephone business office, and they will refer it to me and my group, McIlwain concluded.

Veterans Administration News

Q - I've been honorably discharged from the Army for three months. Now, I'm ready to go to work, but I can't find a decent job. Can you advise me?

A --The Veterans Administration operates 72 Veterans Assistance Centers (USVAC) in major cities of the country. Visit or call one of these centers which provide job-finding assistance. Also, register with your State Division of Employment Security because VA works closely with them, as do most business/industrial firms.

Q -- Is it true that my GI insurance dividend on my World War II term policy is taxable?

A -- No. Accrued interest on insurance dividends left with VA is taxable, but not the dividends.

Q -- I'm a 43-year-old veteran with an honorable discharge. Several months ago I learned I have terminal cancer and I am bedridden with no income for the remainder of my days. Can I get financial assistance from VA?

A -- If you had wartime military service, you should contact your nearest VA office for assistance in making a determination of your eligibility for a VA pension.

Q -- Is the Veterans Administration cutting back the number of people operating its hospitals?

A -- On the contrary, by the end of fiscal year 1973 (June 30), VA will have increased personnel in its hospital and medical care program to a record 154,000—nearly 10,000 more than last fiscal year, and 20,000 above the fiscal year 1971 level.

Q -- Can a veteran get VA help in dealing with his family and job problems even if he isn't sick?

A -- Yes. Some of VA's veterans assistance centers are staffed with social workers (now called community service specialists) to help meet the veteran's total counseling needs. Specialists are on duty in Boston, New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit and other principal cities, and VA plans eventually to place them in all centers.

Q -- Are husbands of female veterans eligible for the same Veterans Administration benefits as widows of male veterans?

A -- Yes. Under PL 92-540 (Oct. 24, 1972), the term "wife," for purposes of benefits, includes the husband of a female veteran and "widow" includes the widower of a female veteran. Q -- How many changes of program can a veteran make under the GI Bill? -- Under Public Law 92-540, one voluntary change is permitted. VA counseling is required for any additional changes. Q -- Any truth to the rumors that VA plans to close some of its hospitals? A -- VA has no plans to close any of its 168 hospitals. In fact, new ones are currently under construction and several were completed last year. Also, VA's hospital system is prepared to serve a record number of patients in fiscal year 1974 -- 1,108,900 inpatients and 13.5 million outpatient visits. Q -- I am taking on job training and I have five children. I am getting an allowance for my wife and one child but nothing for the other four children. Can you explain why? A -- Before a change in the law on Oct. 24, 1972, the allowance could only be approved for two dependents. However, under the new law, $8 monthly can be approved for dependents in excess of two. Suggest you apply for the additional allowance.

GENE GALLO, a Lake Forest senior, enrolled at Kent County Vo-Tech Center won first place in electrical trades at the State VICA contest held at the Delcastle School on the weekend of April 13-14. Gene will now go onto the national contest to be held in June at Tulsa, Okla.

Free Hot Dots Given By Sunshine 4-H

Free hot dots will be distributed by the Harrington Sunshine 4-H Club members throughout the Harrington area this weekend. Hot dots are reflectorized stick-ons to help you walk safely at night. They will adhere to books, belts, bicycles, pocketbooks, jackets or hard hat surface. They reflect automobile headlights up to 600 feet. The Harrington 4-H Club joins all other 4-H clubs in the state in this safety program for pedestrians.

American Legion Auxiliary News

Mrs. Harold Fry was selected to serve as president of Callaway - Kemp - Raughley - Tee American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 7 for the coming year. The election took place at the May meeting of the unit Tuesday evening. Mrs. Fry will be installed at a joint installation of Legion and Auxiliary officers Saturday evening, June 2, at the post home.

The local unit was the recipient of a National Citation for Meritorious Service for enrolling by January 31, 1973, members equalling or exceeding the membership goal for that date. The citation was signed by the national president, Mrs. Maxine Chilton. Mrs. Henry Bullock, membership chairman, reminded members that dues for the 1973-74 year are now being collected.

Mrs. Bud Camper, junior activities chairman, reported at the meeting that she had entered a doll in the national contest. A doll dressed in the native costume of the city of Hong Kong was required and Mrs. Camper researched the information and costumed the doll accordingly.

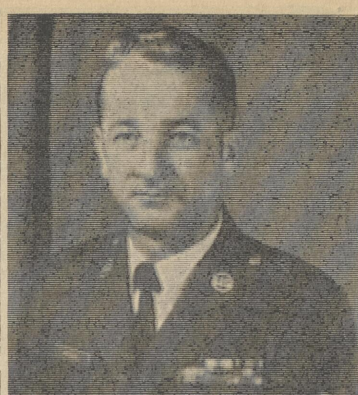

Memorial Day weekend will be the time of the annual Poppy Days. Mrs. Morrison Stuart, chairman, will, with her committee, offer the Memorial Poppy to the public in memory of the many who gave their lives in America's wars. The dates are May 24, 25 and 26. Donations are used to aid hospitalized veterans and their families.

The 31st annual Delaware Girl's State will be held in Dover June 25 to 29. Karen Cohee and Phyllis Markowitz from Lake Forest High School were selected as delegates, alternates are Doreen Chaffinch and Judy Tatman.

Area Students Win Honors

Two local area students won scholarships at the University of Delaware Tues, May 8. Michael L. Coverdale, of Harrington, received the Delaware State Grange award and Patrick J. Cannon, of Greenwood, received a Southern States award.

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

A patriotic-minded "GI" somewhere in the trenches penned the following, which became a world war song.

— ARLINGTON CEMETERY —

There's a star-spangled banner waving somewhere,
In a distant land, many miles away,
Only Uncle Sam's great heroes get to go there
And I hope that I may rate that place some day.

I see Washington and Lincoln, Grant and Perry,
Nathan Hale and Colin Kelly too
There's a star-spangled banner waving somewhere,
In a land where all are free and brave and true.

Bryant, Mosley, E. Thompson
Top Locals In Loop Track

The Henlopen Championship track meet was held at Laurel Saturday. Don Bryant, Ron Mosley and Eddie Thompson were point scorers for Lake Forest's Spartans.

Bryant was third in the triple jump with a 42 feet, 1/2 inch leap. This is a new Lake Forest record, beating the old mark, set by George Turner in 1972, by several inches. Bryant had eclipsed Turner's standard in the long jump, earlier this season. Don also holds the Spartan mark in the 120 yard high hurdles. His three school records are equalled by ex-Spartan distance ace, Chris Wetherhold, who had top Lake Forest performances in the half mile, mile and two mile. Bryant may have a share of a relay record or two. We'll have to check on this. As a junior, he has time for more record-breaking. He wants to take a crack at the standards in the low hurdles, 100 and 220 yard dashes and 440 yard run. He's a big, powerful athlete, who might hold half the Lake Forest track records by graduation time.

Ron Mosley was in contention all the way in the 880 yard run. He eventually ended up third behind two, talented performers, Larry Savage of Cape Henlopen and Will Phillips of Dover.

Eddie Thompson and Seaford's veteran senior distance star, Phil Shuler, were involved in a hotly-contested two-mile run, with the lead changing several times. Shuler, a 4.31 miler, is two years older than the slender Felton sophomore and has more speed, but had his hands full. Phil eventually edged out a two-second victory, recording a 10:20 to Thompson's lifetime best of 10:22. Thompson appeared to recover much faster after the grueling grind, than did the winner.

Jack Taylor, of Dover Air, is a fine runner, but he was a dis-

Chipman Track
Team Scares
Caesar Rodney

Al Lewis' W.T. Chipman School track team was handled easily, in an early-season meet at Caesar Rodney.

The result was entirely different in a return match held at Chipman School, here, last week. The Riders took a 46-36 verdict this time, but had to scramble to do it. Also Chipman's ace middle distance man, Delmer Freeman, who normally runs in three races, was ailing and could not compete, except for an appearance in the shot put (third place). Another Chipman key man, sprinter Ken Wingo, did not show. With this pair in the lineup, Chipman could have won the meet.

Coach Lewis has added a pair of winners in Ricky Loper and Ron Shockley, both big kids. Loper won the high jump (4 feet, 7 inches) and tied for second in the 220. Shockley annexed the jump with a leap of 15 feet, 5 1/2 inches.

Lewis' ace in the hole, George Marshall, took the 50 (6.2), the shotput (42 feet) and ran on the winning 440 relay team (51.9). Mark Tatman was second in the 100 in 12.2, one-tenth of a second off the winner. Tatman was also runnerup in the 50 and ran on the 440 relay with the Marshall's George and Kevin and Lester Jones. Jones was third in the 100 and the high jump.

tant third, as the frontrunners had the track to themselves.

Lake Forest's mile relay unit was second in their heat. Although their 3.47 clocking did not place in the scoring it was still almost ten seconds better than they've done this season. The Spartan quartet, all underclassmen, could be strong contenders the next two seasons. Freshman Harry Benson, sophomore Kevin Wooters and Kit Tilghman and junior Ron Mosley should be close to 3.35, in 1974.

Spartan Nine Rebounds Over
Seaford, Indian R.

Bob Young's Lake Forest Spartan baseball team rebounded from a loss to Dover and beat Seaford 4-2 and Indian River 4-0.

The locals own a 9-1 record and are again the Southern Division of the Henlopen Conference champions.

Jim Dill held Seaford to three hits, while the Spartans hit safely seven times. Bill Winkler and Jim Dill had two hits each. Mike Atkinson, Russell Dill and Neal Smith had the other Lake Forest bingles. Winkler drove in two runs.

The Dill brothers limited Indian River to three hits. Lake Forest had seven base knocks. Bill Winkler, who must be the top average hitter, had another brace of bingles, as did Bob Nored. Others to dent the hit column were: Mike Atkinson, Russell Dill and the improving freshman rightfielder, Neal Smith.

Winkler was listed as second-string catcher behind the departed Lawrence Sorden, at the start of practice. Presumably, he would have started somewhere because of his potent bat, even if Sorden had remained on the team.

Pettyjohn,
Horvath Capture
Little Lincoln

A capacity crowd of Delmarva auto racing fans was treated to a thrilling evening of Sportsmen-Modified action at the new Little Lincoln Speedway. Milton's Eddie Pettyjohn, campaigning the only known station wagon in stock car racing in the United States, chaffered the Warrington Bros. Corvair to his second triumph in as many weeks. Tony Daisy of Houston, charged the Jim Martin 396 Corvair to second over Ellendale's Sonny Brittingham, who was third in the Rumpstitch Valiant. Brittingham and Pettyjohn led their charges from deep on the starting grid finding only Daisy in the high speed groove. A welcome addition to the field was Doug West and his Chevrolet finishing fourth at the checkered flag. Fifth went to Glen Wilson from Houston driving a flawless race.

Sportsmen feature racing took the full 25 laps to decide a winner. Dover's Clem Horvath piloting the Navy Maverick worked his way through the pack, only to find Eddie Pettyjohn in the Paul Whitelock Chevelle slide by and almost win it all. The versatile Horvath was not to be outdone, as he came out of the fourth turn on the last lap, he dropped down low and shot by Pettyjohn before the finish line. Floyd Hudson of Goldsboro, was third in a Chevrolet and Frederick's Bud Coverdale took fourth in a Chevy II. 1970 champion Richard Reed was fifth in a Falcon.

Official opening night preliminary winners were: Pettyjohn; Horvath; Brittingham; and Pettyjohn. Henry Boyd of Lincoln won the Hobby Race with Dennis McVain finishing second. Little Lincoln Speedway has the only official female photographer of stock car racing. She is Miss Ann Chernokal of Chester, Pa.

Laurel Trackmen
Beat Spartans
On Depth

Laurel High School, the owner of the only all-weather track in Kent and Sussex Counties, took an 84-57 decision, over the Lake Forest's Spartans, by racking up a lot of second and third places. The Bulldogs held a narrow 9-8 edge in first place finishes.

Don Bryant, favoring an injured leg, performed under wraps, but still recorded winning efforts in the long and triple jumps and anchored the victorious Spartan 440 relay team. Freshman John Pickett, Charles Baynard and Lee Dunbar all ran well and gave Bryant a lead.

Eddie Thompson fought a home straightaway wind for eight laps and recorded a solid 10:30 win in the two mile run. Joe Voshell shook off a challenge from a Costa Rican exchange student to finish third.

Charles Baynard captured the 180 yard high hurdles in 22.7. Freshman Harry Benson, a 14-year-old prospect, was not extended in winning a 4.58 mile.

Ron Mosely wasn't pushed in the 880 and recorded an easy 2:08.8 victory.

Sophomore Kit Tilghman annexed the 440 yard run, over a superior rival, by mixing in equal parts of courage and intelligence. First Tilghman beat Whaley to the first turn, then kept the Bulldog on the outside by refusing to let the latter get far enough ahead to cut in. The Spartan held on to eke out a close 57 second win.

John Pickett and Shellfont Waples were second in the 100 and 220, respectively.

Ron Dunlap was second in the long jump and third in the triple jump. Matt Burgess was third in the discus with a near 100 feet throw, his second-best toss of the campaign.

Kevin Wooters was third in the 220, 440 and high jump, an exercise in versatility.

KENT COUNTY CURRENTS

by
JOSHUA M. TWILLEY
Levy Court President

Last week I reported that Kent County had received a grant of $81,000.00 from the Federal government to provide summer jobs for young people in Kent County. We appointed Jim Kelly, distributive education co-ordinator from the Smyrna School District, and Bill Gale, a teacher in the Caesar Rodney School District, to plan the project for us. The object of this program is to put as many Kent County young people, as possible, to work in community services.

Jim Kelly and Bill Gale have done an excellent job in canvassing community organizations for their support and cooperation. At this point they have developed job sites in the Parks and Recreation Department, Day Care Centers, Senior Centers, Golden Opportunity Center, YMCA, Dover Public Library, Catholic Social Services, Kent County Mental Hygiene Clinic, SPCA, Archives Department, Soil and Water Conservation District, DOIC, Delaware Youth Center, museums, such as; the Dickinson Mansion and the Delaware State Museum. Altogether, we expect to provide 160 summer jobs. The employing period will be from June 26 through Aug. 24. Applications for employment will be processed through the local high schools and the Kent County Levy Court Office in the Court House.

We are especially pleased with the response from the many Community Service Agencies; with their help the students will have interesting and rewarding jobs and the community organizations will receive help at little or no cost to them.

Mrs. Ernest W. Tucker

Mrs. Elsie S. Tucker, 72, of near Harrington, died Monday in Milford Memorial Hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Tucker was born in Maryland, and had lived in the Harrington area most of her life. Surviving are her husband, Ernest W. Tucker; one daughter, Mrs. Bernice Hrupsa of Harrington; her father, Thomas Minner, Thomas Minner Jr., of Felton, and Calvin Minner and John Talbert Minner, both of Harrington; one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Hrupsa of Felton; and four grandchildren.

Services will be this afternoon at 1:30 at the Berry Funeral Home, Main Street, Felton. Interment will be in Hollywood Cemetery, Harrington.

WALKATHON

Jackie is a two-time Delaware Junior Olympic champ in track. Chuck Pitts and Jim Hutchison were 12th and 13th. Coming in together in 14th place were Bob Mullane, Grant Salisbury and the writer, Keith S. Burgess.

The latter was on 100-year-old legs (50 each). The first walker in was freshman track star Ann Scovill. Glen Witt and Ron Woods came in, followed by Mike Stiers; Ed Kukulka and John Knapp. This trio again were the first high school boy walkers.

Karen York and Karen Singleton got the Jr. High girl trophies.

Celia Rebeiro was 34th of the 158 finishers. The last finishers, somewhere around 3 p.m., were eighth graders, Rosanne "Notso" Lively, Pam Miller and Brenda Echenrode.

Margaret Kinney perhaps typifies the spirit of the entire undertaking. She stated she was very tired and often felt like giving up. But, every time, she remembered the many sponsors on her cards and courageously stuck it out to the end.

By 1980 Americans will be mand well over 31 billion pounds of beef. That's more than 130 pounds per person per year!

These figures mean that U.S. cattlemen must increase cow herds by some 20 million head, which is 40 per cent more than present levels. More production per cow may be the answer, instead of adding more cows to the herds. This means a need for superior calves that grow to higher slaughter weights at younger ages.

Animal scientists have made significant gains on increasing pounds of beef produced per cow per year, but time required to breed, test and select cattle for the more efficient traits has always been a holdback. Artificial breeding has been a boon to both beef and dairy industries for more than 35 years. The profreezing and injecting bull semen has met only half the challenge of reducing time needed to select superior animals. The cow is able to produce only one calf per year. The national average production is only 3.5 calves in a cow's lifetime.

A new technique has been taken to compress the generations required for the cattle upgrading process. A new practical science called "ova transfer" has now become available to U.S. cattlemen and dairymen. More specifically, ova transfer is the process of transferring many fertilized eggs from a single superior cow to several ordinary cows. The science could bring rapid advancement to the goal of more pounds of beef per cow per year.

Dr. Harry Rajamannan, President of International Cryo Biological Services, explains the company's service this way. "We are commercially providing cattlemen the service of removing large quantities of fertilized eggs from their selected superior cows and placing the eggs in other less approved cows to be carried through pregnancy to birth. The foster mothers contribute nothing genetically to the calves. They are merely incubators for the superior embryos—the result is several superior animals per year from a single highly valuable cow.

For the first time, genetically superior cows can multiply faster and influence blood lines as bulls have been doing through artificial insemination. The ultimate results will be to increase the average beef or milk production per cow. Ova transfer will prove to be one of the greatest improvements tools ever used by the domestic animal industry."

ICBS is presently researching techniques to freeze eggs for long term storage, such as semen is frozen today. This would allow cattlemen to buy eggs from certain superior animals as they might purchase superior live animals today. Then, using still another process under research, each egg might be non-surgically injected into the reproductive track of an average carrier cow, which will, in time, yield a highly valuable animal.

DODGE MEDIUM-DUTY CONVENTIONAL

For 1973, Dodge offers three conventional cab medium-duty models (D500, D600, and D800). They span a GVW range from 14,800 pounds to 29,760 pounds, making them ideal for such applications as dump, van, stake, and tractor-trailer service. The range of wheelbase, spring, axle, and engine options makes it possible for you to select and equip your conventional cab medium-duty truck to your own special needs and yet do it economically.

DODGE LFC Diesel and Gasoline Models

The Dodge LFC Diesel and Gasoline Models are built to withstand the daily grind of tough construction work and heavy-duty hauling. These 90-inch BBC trucks provide great maneuverability for city traffic and parking. In addition, they have an all-metal front end to help take the knocks of urban congestion. The Dodge LFC Models are also built to take the strain of long hauls and long work hours with a minimum of downtime. The 90-inch BBC tractors with up to 320 horsepower will allow 45-foot trailer operations in states with 55-foot maximum overall length limits.

DODGE SINGLE AND TANDEM DUMPS

The Dodge Dump has proven its durability and low-cost-per-mile operation in millions of miles of local travel. It is used by top carriers and quality fleets because of its ability to keep going with a minimum of maintenance and downtime. The Dodge Dump is preferred by knowledgeable construction people because it delivers outstanding toughness, economy, durability, safety and comfort. It features solid steel front-end construction that's built to take the hard knocks of any kind of tough construction hauling. Available in gasoline or diesel models.

DODGE BUILDS TOUGH TRUCKS

The 1973 Compact Van and sportswagon feature the same ruggedness and durability of the Dodge heavy-duty diesel Tilt Cab. The Dodge tilt cab features a custom cab trim package showing Extra Care In Engineering.

IN MEMORIAM

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Sara Harrington who passed away May 29, 1972. Although she was only a mother-in-law, To me "She was my Mom". She was the sweetest person That God did give to me. She knew just when to say, "Kneel down and pray with me." To some they call them Mother-in-law. But to me, she was my mom. Sadly missed by daughter-in-law and son.

Scholarships For Study Out of State Offered To Delaware Residents

Scholarships for study out of state are offered to Delaware residents in a program administered by the State Department of Public Instruction.

Paul G. Stitik, supervisor of federal regulations and information at the department, said over 200 grants ranging up to $800 are expected to be approved for the 1973-74 academic year.

Grants are awarded to persons with financial need who take college, graduate, or professional courses that are not given in institutions supported by the state of Delaware but that lead to occupations in which positions are expected to be open here. Examples are pharmacy, medicine, law, dentistry, social work, and optometry.

Awards cover one year and may be renewed. Eligible are full-time students accepted for a program that leads to the student's first bachelor's degree, first graduate degree, or both.

Applicants are judged according to merit and financial need, and the family's ability to assist is one factor in the selection.

For 1973-74, Stitik said, no grant will be awarded for undergraduates unless the student's out-of-state cost exceeds $1,725, the current fee for tuition, room, and board at the University of Delaware.

Interested persons are asked to consult their guidance counselor or college placement officer or write or call Stitik at the State Department of Public Instruction, Dover 19901, telephone 678-4620.

Some 250 out-of-state scholarships were granted last year. The General Assembly launched the program in 1963 and last year appropriated $150,000 for the scholarships.

Real language begins to develop when the child begins to use grammar, the rules which allow words to be formed into sentences. Children do this by developing their own rules and applying them to their own language. The rules develop through trial and error, and the child modifies them to resemble adult language.

There are several things you can do to help your child develop language. Most important, talk with him. Remember, this is not the same thing as talking to or at him, or for him. Try to get the child to talk more often. When somebody asks him a question, let him answer.

Even if your child is slow to speak, he will improve much more quickly if you let him speak for himself.

Finally, let your child be creative with language. You can encourage this creativity by accepting his new words, letting him tell you stories, and let him tell you what he's thinking about.

At first, babies produce many combinations of sounds. When they are about five or six months old, they begin to differentiate sounds and use only those that belong to the language of the adults around them.

At about six months, the child's speech takes on a definite pattern as he prepares for his first word. The pitch can range from high to low, and he begins to imitate the sounds of adult speech.

At the same time, the baby begins to understand certain words, and to react to them in an appropriate way. If you say "stop," the baby knows what you mean. Before that age, the baby responds to your tone of voice rather than the meaning of the word.

When the baby is about a year old he should be ready for his first words. They are usually about the objects around him. These nouns make up about half of an eighteen-month-old child's vocabulary.

Children generally begin to speak at about the same age, according to Mary Ann Finch, extension family and child development specialist at the University of Delaware, but there can be a big difference between individual children.

Baby's first babbles, goos and gurgles. At first, it's a sound of discomfort. Later, the baby uses speech as a way to get your attention.

Check Now For Armyworms

Delaware small grain farmers should be checking crops regularly this spring for armyworms, advises Frank E. Boys, extension entomologist at the University of Delaware.

This destructive insect appears somewhere in Delaware every year in the spring. Some years many acres of crops are destroyed by this pest. But, it's totally unpredictable; areas with large acreages of small grains are most affected, but no field with small grain is immune.

Armyworms are difficult to control once they are large. Therefore, if your fields are infested, apply treatment as soon as possible to catch the worms while they are still small.

Malathion, carbaryl, toxaphene or trichlorfon are available for armyworm control. Be sure to read the labels for proper use. One application usually controls armyworm infestation, Boys says.

Children Learn To Speak At Different Speeds

Check your fields often during May, recommends boys. Hunt carefully on the ground; the armyworm feeds at night and hides during the day. The newly-hatched caterpillars are frequently found in barley with heavy growth.

Young armyworms are thin, active, bluish-green worms with a black line. Larger worms, up to one and a half inches long, are hairless and green to black with a pinkish or brick-colored line on the sides. Some of the full-grown worms in Delaware have a decided pink cast.

In small grain, the worms first eat all foliage, then climb the stem and cut off the seed head. If worms are numerous, can destroy a field in two or three days. Controls should be applied in small grain if there is an average of three worms per square foot, Boys says.

The worms will attack other crops such as pasture and alfalfa; apply controls if you find five or six worms per foot. If they run out of food in a field, armyworms will migrate in "armies to other fields."

Armyworms are difficult to control once they are large. Therefore, if your fields are infested, apply treatment as soon as possible to catch the worms while they are still small.

During the summer the schedule will be supplemented by additional unscheduled crossings when required to prevent possible traffic congestion, Bright said.

HOMEOWNERS CORNER

by HARRY JACK

Do you know how to protect gutters and leaders? The best way is with wire caging or screening. Leaders are usually protected from clogging and leaking by a wire cage at the intake. For gutters hanging below the edge of the roof, a better protection is given with strips of wire netting. Run the upper edge to the outer rim by spots of solder and make the slope sufficient so that leaves will slide off. A leak in a gutter of wood or metal can be stopped up with a piece of roofing felt.

Vegetable Protein Substitutes — Can They Replace Meat?

Can you imagine inviting friends over for an analogue barbecue this summer? Or how about having fried analogue for breakfast with your eggs instead of ham?

Analogue are imitation meat products. Made from soybeans put through a special texturing process, they are designed to take the place of meat in the American diet. The texturing they receive can make them resemble ham, chicken or beef. So far, they enjoy only a limited popularity. But optimists in the vegetable protein field predict growth to a two billion dollar market over the next ten years. In fact, they see the possibility of soy protein meeting eight per cent of the country's "meat" requirements by 1980.

Vegetable protein meat substitutes have a promising future, says Margaret Krackhardt, extension nutritionist at the University of Delaware. But some problems need to be solved before they can fulfill their potential. Research is still needed to make them nutritionally competitive with animal protein. Public attitudes need to be changed to win their acceptance. And they need to become available at a lower cost than at present, if they are to successfully compete with meat.

Today we need these alternatives to meat in our food supply, says Miss Krackhardt. They can provide us with more food variety, hopefully at less cost. And they have some definite advantages. They are essentially free from cholesterol in contrast to real meat. They are also very low in saturated fats. For these reasons, they could play an important role in certain diets for people with cardiovascular disease. And in time, they may be fortified with additives to make them nutritionally more equal with meat.

Whether they can actually replace meat in the human diet altogether is still a question, says the nutritionist. There are always certain lost factors in using a substitute food item—certain necessary trace elements in addition to the protein, for instance. Research is just getting into the function of microscopic amounts of trace minerals and their importance to body functions. But the concept of using vegetable protein products as meat substitutes has good possibilities.

Another problem with these products at present is their acceptability. We consumers are a conventional lot, reluctant to try new foods. Look how long it took margarine to gain acceptance as a butter substitute, points out Miss Krackhardt.

Probably the most successful so far of the texturized vegetable products on the market is one resembling bits of bacon. Some institutions have experimented with serving analogs—"Soybean steak." But vegetable protein limitations for meat still have a long way to go toward general public acceptance.

The children of today are far more ready to accept such substitutes than many of us adults with our fixed food opinions, points out Miss Krackhardt. In some areas, children are already getting textured vegetable proteins in their school lunches. Since 1971, the USDA has permitted the use of soy extenders in some school lunches as a protein source in amounts up to 30 per cent. What's more, the children are much more familiar with food substitutes in general than most adults. In some cases, they actually prefer the substitute because it is more familiar.

Far more popular than the use of analogs right now is the use of soybeans as an extender in meat products or food containing meat. Some canned stews, chili, meat soups and prepared meats like sausage and lunch meat contain various percentages of textured vegetable proteins.

Unfortunately few of these products are cheaper than meat. And this is another reason why they are not more popular. The high price of soybeans at present, plus production costs, makes these meat substitutes just about as expensive as meat.

In whatever form they are prepared, Miss Krackhardt suggests that vegetable protein products may be more acceptable if viewed as a food in their own right, rather than a substitute for something else. Instead of stressing its pseudo aspects, she views the vegetable protein concept as an entirely new food enterprise, acceptable on its own merits. In line with this, she urges some standardization of such products. Their nutritional value needs to be known so that people can determine for themselves whether they are getting what they need in these products.

It Seems To Me

Janet Reed

Sweaters are an ideal cover-up for cool summer evenings. Why not make your own to coordinate with your summer wardrobe?

Some of the most attractive ready-to-wear dresses for spring and summer come with a sweater or cardigan-type jacket. These sweater knits are available by the yard in luscious colors in soft mohair or acrylic. All you need to do is find the sweater fabric you prefer and team it with a print or plain color and you have the makings for a handsome, practical summer outfit.

There are plenty of jacket patterns you can adapt for use as a sweater. If you don't want to bother with buttons and buttonholes, plan to eliminate the overlap as you cut. Also eliminate the collar and you have a very easy garment to construct. Seam allowances at the neckline and center front can also be cut away if you plan to bind the edges.

Your chief concern will be the edge finish. Facings usually are not used because of all the dangling edges which show when you remove the sweater. Edges may be bound or finished with matching or contrasting braid which can often be bought with the sweater fabric. The braid must stretch to fit smoothly around the curved neck edge.

A custom detail is achieved by the use of the dress fabric for binding the edges. Cut it on the bias for maximum stretch in shaping around the neck curve. The use of dress fabric will limit the use of the sweater with other summer outfits, however.

The sweater fabric itself may be used for binding if it's not too bulky. Sometimes, a very narrow facing of a lightweight material such as sheath lining may be used. Turn under all the raw edges and sew in by hand with inconspicuous stitches. The finished facing should be no wider than one-quarter inch.

Use a stretch stitch if you have one on your machine. If not, stretch the fabric slightly as it feeds under the presser foot. A polyester-type thread also allows for stretching.

You may prefer a hem in the jacket rather than a binding since a hem gives more weight to the edge. As you cut, remember that both jackets and sweaters are longer this year.

Many of the sweater-jackets have an elasticized or drawstring waistline. To achieve this, cut a strip of matching lightweight fabric such as sheath lining and sew it to the wrong side of the sweater at the waistline. Through this, draw a narrow cord belt of sweater fabric. It should be long enough to tie at center front. Elastic may be used instead with a button and loop fastener at waistline. For a quick, easy sweater simply let it hang straight.

New Longwood-U. of D. Fellowships Announced

New Longwood Program Fellows selected for the academic year 1972-73 have just been announced. Four two-year fellowships in the Longwood Program in Oriental Horticulture at the University of Delaware have just been granted, according to program co-ordinator, Dr. Richard W. Lighty.

Recipients of the grants are John W. Drouts, Drumore, Pa.; Mohammad Gheissari, Teheran, Iran; David O. Lofgren, Seattle, Washington and Colvin L. Randall, Dover, Del.

Drouts is a specialist in herbaceous perennial plants and comes from a strong background of practical nursery work. He previously studied at the New York State University at Alfred, and is a graduate of the University of Delaware.

Gheissari, the program's first foreign Fellow, is a supervisor in the Ariaehr Botanic Garden in Teheran, Iran. He is presently on leave of absence to study botanical garden and arboretum operations and organizations in Britain and the United States. He previously studied irrigation systems in California. He has been in charge of irrigation systems, plant exchange and other functions in Ariaehr Botanic Gardens. Gheissari is a graduate of the University of London.

Lofgren is an experienced horticulturist who recently published an article in the American Horticulturist on "Climbing Plants and the Ways They Cling." He is a graduate of the University of Washington in Seattle.

Randall, a native of Dover, is interested in the history of gardens and the role of water in them. He has done an exhaustive study of fountains as elements in garden design and the history of fountains. He is a graduate in Architectural History at the University of Virginia.

The Longwood Program is designed to give graduates training to go into public horticulture a background of experience and education to prepare them for management positions with botanical gardens, parks and land beautification programs. The program is financed by a grant from the Longwood Foundation, Inc. It utilizes the staffs and facilities of the College of Agricultural Sciences at the University of Delaware and Longwood Gardens.

The graduate program provides a wide variety of courses in fields related to horticulture and landscaping. Longwood Gardens will serve as a summer workshop for the new Fellows. There they can observe the

Chrysanthemums Make Excellent Flowers For Fall

If you're looking for a beautiful, hardy fall flower, consider planting chrysanthemums. They will be ready for fall blooms if you plant them in June, says David V. Tatnall, extension garden specialist at the University of Delaware.

If you want to start plants from cuttings, remove three or four inches from the ends of the plant and place the cuttings in a rooting medium like vermiculite, sand or sphagnum moss.

Plant chrysanthemums in a sunny location with well drained soil. They should be given a 5-10-10 inorganic fertilizer and water regularly.

The plants often grow too high for their own strength, so you may wish to pinch off the terminal growth to make the plant bush out instead of growing taller.

To produce larger, more perfect blooms, remove the smaller range of activities of a public garden and gain experience in management and other phases of horticultural science.

side buds. This will make the remaining buds grow larger. Stake and tie disbudded chrysanthemums to insure proper growth.

Del. River And Bay Authority News

Word that the keel for the new S.S. Delaware has been laid at the Todd Shipyard in Houston, Tex. was received today at the monthly meeting of the Delaware River and Bay Authority.
The announcement was hailed by Authority members as an indication all preliminary problems have been worked out and that construction of the three new shallow draft vessels for the Cape May-Lewes Ferry will proceed close to schedule.

Delivery of the S.S. Delaware is expected in the late spring of 1974. The other two vessels will be delivered at 90 day intervals.
The Commissioners also examined plans for a passenger loading system to be incorporated in the new vessels. The system allows passengers to load and unload at the deck level on movable covered steps similar to that used at many airline terminals. Loading of passengers at the same time as vehicles, but in different areas, will save upwards of 20 minutes in loading time, it was estimated by the naval architect supervising construction. The architect also reported that the shipyard is continuing the use of two shifts in order to meet the projected delivery date of the new vessels.
At the same time the Authority passed a resolution confirming sale of the present S.S. New Jersey, one of the old vessels plying the Cape May-Lewes ferry route. Purchaser of the old S.S. New Jersey is Mass. Conn. and New York Services, Inc. The purchase price was disclosed at $350,000.

Spartan Conquers Intellectually

Spartans conquer again; this time intellectually. James Dill, a current senior at Lake Forest, has received the McCabe Achievement Award which has given him practically a full scholarship for four years.
This scholarship is presented by Mr. McCabe, an executive of Scott Paper Co. McCabe presents the grant annually to an eligible male from the Delmarva Peninsula. The applicant must excel in leadership and academic achievement.
Jim and thirty other applicants were interviewed by the Dean of Admissions of Swarthmore College, who chose seven finalists. Jimmy was selected from these seven by a separate selection committee. Jim was selected over a Rhodes Scholar.
In addition to receiving the scholarship, Jim's name will appear on the McCabe page of the Swarthmore catalogue, as a recipient of the McCabe Scholarship.
Jim is an active student participating in Student Council, sports, band, National Honor Society, and clubs.
