

Tribbitt Hiring Role Draws Fire In Kent GOP

The Kent County Republican chairman says a memo indicating the governor personally approves all hiring of employees under the state merit system "smacks of political patronage."

The memo sets up guidelines for hiring under a Tribbitt imposed job freeze on the executive branch of government.

Francis A. DiMondi, Kent County GOP chairman, said he has "no quarrel" with the governor approving which jobs will be filled "but why does he want to personally check names? It appears he is taking care of the people who are going to be loyal."

Part of the directive stipulates that all job requests will be sent to Wayne D. Ellingsworth, Tribbitt's administrative assistant, along with the list of names of those eligible to fill the job.

"The thrust of this procedure is that the governor wishes to maintain fiscal control and proper management," the memo dated July 31, states.

Told of DiMondi's statement, Tribbitt responded, "He can look at it that way if he wants to. I don't see it that way. It's a question of not only the slot but who. I've got to see who's being hired."

"Cabinet secretaries come in and say somebody has got to be hired. It could be his aunt or uncle."

Tribbitt was interviewed while rushing to a meeting in Georgetown and could entertain no further questions on the matter Tuesday.

Ellingsworth, when asked why the memo was marked confidential, said, "I don't know. It was sent by Cabbage. In all frankness, I don't see why he included my name in the memo. All the mail comes to me anyway."

Cabbage said the memo was marked confidential because it seemed to be the consensus of opinion of a group of high level officials who attended a meeting where the memo evolved that they wanted it marked confidential.

"It's not confidential because of any chicanery," he said.

He added, "I do not see this as a move by the governor to support patronage. No rules are being violated. We're complying with the law. Anybody who gets on that list has to be qualified."

Merit system rules, initiated by the late Gov. Charles L. Terry Jr. and executed by former Gov. Russell W. Peterson were designed to move middle management and lower echelon jobs out of the political spoils system.

Prior to enactment of the merit system, the state faced a massive turnover in employees every time a new administration took office.

The rules state that the personnel office will submit the top five applicants, if there are five, for each position covered to a state agency trying to fill a position.

The agency then selects one of the five and returns the selection to the personnel office for final approval. If all five are rejected the rejection must be accompanied by good reasons.

Cabbage said none of the lists dispatched by his office since the date of the memo have been rejected in toto.

Asked why the governor had to have the lists of names, Ellingsworth said, "He didn't necessarily have to have them. I thought they ought to accompany the form (a hiring approval form required under the freeze) to make sure people were being hired from the merit system."

American Legion Installs New Officers

Having concluded its 1973 Department Convention held in Wilmington Manor the newly elected officers to serve for the coming year were installed at ceremonies held at Holiday Inn Sat., July 28, in Dover.

William W. Craig, insurance agent from Milford and a veteran of World War II, was installed as Commander of the State Legion Department. He was unanimously elected by the delegates to the convention and assumed his office upon installation by Delaware's National Executive Committee, Raymond H. Trabbold of Wilmington.

Elected to serve with Commander Craig was Edward S. Phillips Sr., of Pot Nets, 1st Vice Commander; and John E. Byrne, Dover, as 2nd Vice Commander. Rev. George Goodley of New Castle, was re-elected to serve as Department Chaplain.

Garland D. Bloodworth was re-appointed to serve as the Legion's chief administrative officer and also as the State Service Officer, while Fred H. Van-Sant, Edward M. Knight, and Michael Cycyk were reappointed to serve as Judge Advocate, Finance Officer, and Historian, respectively.

Out-going Commander Carlton L. Smith of Smyrna, reported that the Legion had enjoyed its highest membership since 1947 and had distinguished itself in programs of Americanism, child welfare, and rehabilitation.

Two notable resolutions were passed at the convention and will be presented to the national convention. One would oppose any participation by the US government in the so called "Atlantic Treaty" which would support world government via the United Nations and the other would curtail and prevent the President, the Administrator of Veterans Affairs, and the Office of Management and Budget from making arbitrary decisions regarding the closing of hospitals, the curtailment of funds appropriated, or changes in the rating schedule for disabilities without these matters first being brought before the Veterans Affairs Committees in both the House and the Senate.

Kent Home Rule Bill Returned For Revamp

The latest version of the Kent County home rule bill has gone back to the drawing board. After more than three hours of discussion at an open workshop session Monday, Kent Levy Court requested changes concerning a proposed director of finance and current board of assessment.

"Home rule" is designed to give Kent Levy Court control over county affairs, almost independent of the state legislature, and to reorganize county government to some degree. The draft bill, which must be accepted by Levy Court and adopted by the General Assembly, was announced in its latest form three weeks ago by Commissioner John T. McKenna, D-Dover.

No Need To Apply Now For Federal Supplementary Income

People already getting public assistance because they're 65 or over, or blind, or disabled do not have to apply now for Federal supplemental security income payments, according to W.J. Bulkeley, social security district manager in Dover.

Some people getting State or local assistance misunderstand and are coming in to apply for supplemental security income but they don't have to. We're taking applications now only from people who aren't getting public assistance but who think they might be eligible for the new Federal payments to start next year.

People already getting State or local assistance don't have to do anything now about the supplemental security income program. They'll get more information and instructions later this year.

The first monthly supplemental security income payments will be made in January 1974. State and local public assistance offices will continue to make payments in the usual way.

People who need more information to decide whether they might be eligible for supplemental security income payments should call social security at 674-3610 or 856-6301, whichever number is toll free, or write the Dover social security office at P.O. Box 478.

The aim of the Federal program is to provide supplemental payments in cases of need so that people 65 or over, or blind, or disabled will have a basic cash income of at least $130 a month for one person and $195 a month for a couple. The amount people will get will depend on their other income, and States may add to the basic Federal payment.

the functions of that office could be performed by a recently hired county accountant.

A director of finance would also have assumed the supervisory duties of the current Board of Assessment, and Commissioner James B. McIlvaine, D-Magnolia, questioned any change in that direction. The commissioners almost unanimously agreed, however, on the need for a separate Board of Assessment Review to hear assessment appeals.

Questions about elected row offices, such as receiver of taxes occupied much of the session Monday. The bill discussed Monday would have retained all row offices, and prevented the county from abolishing them, for reasons Commissioner Samuel G. Thomas, D-Camden, called "political expediency."

He said proposed abolishment of row offices or reorganization of them "has been one major reason why these home rule bills have never gotten into the legislature, let alone ever gotten out." He said opposition crosses strictly political lines, and that many persons think election of officers such as prothonotary, register of wills and the others gives the people more control over county government.

Commissioner George W. Cripps, R-Buchanan Acres, said "I'm all for kicking political expediency in the seat of the pants." He suggested someone study the need for the row offices and as a minimum, prepare a separate bill which would suggest needed reorganizations.

McKenna said the reorganization committee, in drafting the home rule measure, did not undertake to study the present system. He said the committee made its statement on row offices with the provision which said they could not be abolished by Levy Court.

McIlvaine said some "high officials" which he would not name had suggested that if Levy Court could not decide what it wanted to do with the elected row offices, it might not be ready to handle home rule.

"Everybody wants to pass the buck," Twilley said, "because everybody's afraid of what the political parties will do. They think it will hurt the party organizations (not to have the row offices elected) and they're probably right. These are actually very basic philosophical decisions."

Most of the commissioners agreed that the Levy Court should not have the power to abolish elected offices.

That Monday's session was public came as a surprise since the commissioners have generally been reluctant to discuss matters of "political expediency" in public. All seven commissioners appeared at the informal meeting in the courthouse.

H. Reese Wilson Named To Finance Post

H. Reese Wilson has been named Delaware's Secretary of the Department of Finance, Governor Sherman W. Tribbitt announced Monday.

The nomination, disclosed at a meeting of Democrat Senators Monday afternoon, must earn the consent and confirmation of the Senate. Republican Senators, by their own choice, opted not to attend the meeting in the Governor's Dover office.

"Delaware has been waiting for the right man to fill this highly sensitive and significant post," Governor Tribbitt said in naming Wilson. "I could have named a Finance Secretary months ago, if I had been willing to settle for a lesser candidate."

"But the position is too important to appoint someone just to occupy space at a desk," Tribbitt said. "In Reese Wilson, I believe I have found a capable, bright and dedicated professional to pull Delaware out of the financial quagmire in which our State has wallowed so long."

"We need reevaluation of the financial systems we are using now," the Governor said. "We need someone with a fresh outlook to provide more than just rhetoric, but hard results. And I believe Delaware has found that man in Reese Wilson."

McKenna is chairman of Levy Court's county reorganization committee. At last week's Levy Court meeting, he said he would ask for Levy Court adoption of the bill. The workshop session was set after some opposition developed.

At Monday's session Levy Court President Joshua M. Twilley suggested a new draft of the bill, eliminating the proposed post of director of finance. He said many of the functions enumerated for that office are performed by statute by the elected receiver of taxes.

"What really will he have to do? If we don't abolish any elected offices, then we should not create the position of director of finance," Twilley said. McKenna agreed that many of Food Prices-- Here To Stay?

The prediction is that food prices will go even higher under Phase IV. It's already started to happen. But what about the future? Are these high prices here to stay?

Many food prices will probably continue to advance during the rest of 1973, predicts W.T. McAllister, extension agricultural economist at the University of Delaware. This is because supplies of food can't be increased simply by putting on a second or third shift of workers, as in most other industries. Food production is a biological process with a timetable pretty much set by nature.

It will take about a year before significant increases can be made in poultry meat output, eighteen months for eggs, two years for hogs and three-and-a-half to four years for beef. The time lag is a little longer than normal because during Phase III livestock and poultry producers were caught in a merciless cost-price squeeze between steadily rising feed costs and frozen prices on food sales. Many producers had to market breeding stock to reduce their losses, explains McAllister. It will take time now to build back the breeding herds and to raise their offspring to marketable size.

Phase IV of price controls is designed to encourage greater meat production in two ways--by allowing higher prices at the retail level, and by moderating further increases in animal feed prices by slowing up sales of feeds to foreign buyers.

With just a moderate incentive producers will increase as quickly as possible their livestock and poultry operations. Then the day of lower food prices will be in sight.

Nothing will promote added production of meat, milk, and eggs in the Phase IV period more than a tremendous harvest of feed crops: corn, feed grains and soybeans. With good growing and harvesting weather during the next six weeks, this big crop could be a reality, says McAllister. Abundant feed at lower prices is one key to cheaper meat and poultry prices.

To those looking back to the good old days of 29 cent broilers, 69 cent pork chops and 89 cent steaks, any reduction in food prices will seem disappointing, however. The cost of almost everything has gone up--wages, taxes, fuel, transportation, interest rates, rents and utilities. The cost of producing, processing, distributing and merchandising food has increased, too.

There's not much chance of lowering these costs, says McAllister, but with an increased incentive to produce, food should take up a more normal place in the overall cost of living picture over the next several years.

Sports Editor Sees "King And His Court"

This writer, like the average sports fan, prefers some sports over others. But we admire excellence, the super stars, in practically any athletic activity. As Dr. James Schiff once remarked, at age 15, "I like to watch a champion, even if it's only in tiddewinks." Schiff was an outstanding sprinter at Harrington High and the University of Maryland. His 9.9 marks in the 100 yard dash and an eesed-up 22.4 in the 220 while a student at H.S.S., have yet to be equalled, some 15 seasons later.

Woodland Ferry Closes For Repair

The Woodland Ferry, which takes cars on Sussex 78 across the Nanticoke River, will close indefinitely as of Aug. 7.

The ferry and its slips on either side of the 480-foot wide river will be repaired.

Every five years the Coast Guard inspects the ferry and requires repairs and maintenance work on the 62-ton, diesel-powered cable guided craft.

This year, however, the ferry was shut down for the inspection and reopened under a provisional permit, so the state, which operates the ferry, could rebid contracts for the maintenance work.

The terms of that permit require that the work be finished by November.

Here and There

BY Edna Massimilla

Hartley United Methodist Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding Saturday, when Dawn Watlack of Felton, became the bride of Jack Morris Freeman, of Brandon, Fla. Given in marriage by her brother, David, the bride looked lovely in a floor length gown. Her attendant was Sandra Vadakin of Harrington. Serving as best man was George Westbrook of Pittsburgh, Pa. The bride is the daughter of Stephen Wetlack and Mrs. Barbara Stafford Evans. Her maternal grandmother, Mrs. David Evans, and her mother prepared a lovely bridal reception, and a beautiful wedding cake, which was held in the church fellowship hall. After a wedding trip the couple will reside in Felton.

The Rev. Charles Atkins, of Viola, a retired Methodist minister, will be the guest speaker at Hartly United Methodist Church Aug. 12, 19, and 26, during the vacation of the pastor. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Melvin of Felton, who have a new baby boy.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne W. Holberton

Half of the world's people work their hearts out from dawn til dark and still can't produce enough to eat. They can't earn enough in many places to buy what food is available. There's no steak or fried chicken on their menus! They are indeed fortunate to have a loaf of bread or a bowl of rice. The United States and other developed countries are an oasis where foods are plentiful and an accepted way of life. Today, here as well as all over the world, foods are not as plentiful as they once were but we are a long, long way from fighting a battle of starvation as millions of people are doing today, right now.

Mankind has been struggling for food all through recorded history. The Bible tells how famine forced the people of Israel to migrate to Egypt. Not long ago millions died in India from famine. Day after day, children and people of all ages are quietly dying of starvation or of diseases linked to poor diets.

The technical know-how of the United States has helped many under-developed countries alleviate hunger. The green revolution has brought new high yielding grains to Latin America, India and Pakistan. This same technical know-how will continue to find new ways and methods to produce food for us all.

The U.S. farmer can and will provide the world's highest standard of living at home-and he will help around the world. But he needs help and understanding. He cannot do it all alone, other countries will have to develop in agriculture also and we at home must realize food is no longer the cheapest thing we buy. Food must take its place with the other goods we buy and be in proportion to

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

Away back in 1968 when it only cost 6 cents to mail a letter, we were reminded by Dick West of Wilmington News that increases were about to be made on account of "Dogs Biting Mailmen." He said more than 10,000 mailmen were bitten in 1967, 1,000 required hospitalization, at an average cost of $546 taxpayer's fee.

Present day meat situation is not going to improve this issue. So;

Let dogs delight to bark and bite For the Lord hath made them so, Let bears and lions growl and fight For 'tis their nature too.

A dog's bark may be worse than his bite. But it's not as personal.

Dick says, "I recommend that dog owners be required to pay 10 cents for stamps. For the rest of us, the rate would drop to a nickel." What about the mailman?

SPORTS EDITOR

with his four-man unit. With only a catcher, shortstop and first baseman, he takes on all-star teams and wins.

Each game he pitches to a few batters while he is wearing a blindfold and he throws to others from near second base. He also throws behind his back and between his legs.

At Harrisonburg, Feigner trailed the Rockingham County All-Stars 1-0 for three innings, after a home town player hit a single, that went four bases because of the absence of outfielders.

The portly, rubber-armed meistro had things his way after that and gave the fans, who were in his corner all night, a funny and thrilling show. He amazed this writer, when he appeared with a tiny, 22-inch bat and actually managed to hit the ball, although popping out to short left field. Rockingham used three, fine hurlers and all their players were obviously good athletes.

Our top thrill occurred, late in the contest. The King was pitching from second base, the first baseman went to the outfield. We wondered what would happen if the batter hit a ground ball. We knew Feigner, who must be around 50, who had a knee operation last year, couldn't beat the batter to first base. We soon had our question answered. A ground ball was hit to shortstop Gary West. The batter raced toward the empty first sack.

Suddenly, catcher Jim Nichols, a real speed-burner blazed past the runner, took the throw, reached back and tagged the baserunner out.

It was a performance that belonged on the nearby, all-weather track, just beyond the left field fence.

An overflow crowd filled every seat and spilled out down the sidelines. Several hundred more watched from outside the park. The Jaycees sponsored the game and probably made a killing, from such a sure-fire attraction. Sure-fire if the weather permits, of course.

HOMEOWNERS CORNER

If you are buying tools, even if only for household use, the wisest approach is to buy the best you can find. A good tool will last a long time, and a cheap tool may not even do a satisfactory job when it is new. It is worth the extra money for the purchase. Ask your dealer. He always knows the best tool for job as well as the best type of tool. Of course, brand names are always an indication of reliability.

The best of services and supplies are yours when you shop at HARRINGTON LUMBER & SUPPLY, Harrington, 398-3241. We handle the following brand names: Anderson windows, U.S. Plywood Paneling, Stanley and Skil tools, and Armstrong ceiling tile. We don't have or need elaborate buildings or showrooms and pass the savings on to you. Quality for quality we have the merchandise you want at the prices you like to pay. Open: Mon thru Fri 7:30am-5pm, Saturdays 7:30am-noon.

Locals End Summer Basketball

Summer basketball competition in Sussex County consisted of an informal league, which involved players from some of the Henlopen Conference schools.

The local entry made a creditable showing. Although only seven players participated in the program, a record of three wins and four close defeats resulted. At full strength this winter, the Spartans may be a contender.

Don "Kangaroo" Bryant tallied 128 points in seven games. Grayland Davis had 76. Jim Flamer was in four contests and racked up 49 points for a 12 point average.

Dennis Tolson and Leon Shockley tallied 39 and 35 points, respectively. Eddie Banks had 16 points in two games.

Archers To Be Tested At Hook

Refuge manager Tom McAndrews announced the start of a weapons qualifications program for archery deer hunters wishing to hunt on Bombay Hook and Prime Hook National Wildlife Refuges.

McAndrews said the qualifications test is now being started in an effort to reduce crippling losses in deer and to improve hunter safety.

The Delaware Wildlife Federation and two member clubs of the Federation are co-operating in the program. Members of the New Castle Rod and Gun Club and the Mid-Del Archery Club will conduct the qualification shoot at Bombay Hook Aug. 4, 11, 18 and Sept. 8, between 9 a.m. and noon. Archers will be required to hit a standard-size deer target at 25 yards with two out of five arrows. Club members will also conduct courtesy checks of bows and equipment.

Hunters must bring their own equipment and are encouraged to practice prior to coming to the Refuge. McAndrew emphasized that qualification will be mandatory and will be made a part of the refuge hunting regulations. Successful archers will be given a card for proof of qualification.

Bombay Hook will allow hunting on Saturdays during September and October, except for a closed date on Oct. 13. Permits will be issued on a first-come, first-served basis at Dutch Neck Gate each hunting day. No fee will be charged this year.

Prime Hook's season will be identical to the state's archery season. No permits or fees will be required.

TOWN AND COUNTRY TOPICS

FRANCIS WEBB
KENT COUNTY AGENT

If you are still worried about food prices, it's not too late to do something about it. It's easy to complain about food prices, but as you will find, if you have ever tried it, it's most difficult to grow good fruits and vegetables. However, there's still time to get a home garden in for late fall harvest.

Of course, those of you that planted an early spring harvest are presently reaping the benefits from your earlier efforts. Now is the time that makes all that work worthwhile. As you can realize, those vegetables that you produce in the garden will certainly help the food bill. But, let's not get lazy now; let's go right on with the fall crop and really reduce that food bill for this winter. Also, keeping that garden watered through this dry period is certainly essential in insuring yourself of a good harvest.

If you have a freezer, or can use a section of someone else's freezer, this is when you can get ahead of the game. Freezing and canning of vegetables can carry you through most of the winter for your vegetable needs.

It seems as though freezers are a hot item this year. A few appliance dealers have told me they have sold more freezers this summer than they have in the previous three summers put together. I think this is a good sign, because we are getting more people producing vegetables, and they, in turn, have actual experience in growing some of these crops. You then find it is not as simple and easy as going to the supermarket and taking your choice of nothing but the finest produce that's on display.

So much for that—let's get into some of the crops you can plant now to make your summer gardening even more successful. Late summer vegetables planted now are Chinese and regular cabbage, endive, leaf lettuce, kale, kohlrabi, onions, radishes, snap beans, and others. We have more information on planting your fall garden just for the asking. For this information, call 7:6-1448 and ask for the bulletin entitled, "Home Vegetable Gardening in Delaware."

There are a lot of new homes going up throughout Delaware. Many of these are very nice homes, but in some cases built in very, very poor locations. It would seem to me that if you go through the trouble of paying for a thirty to forty thousand dollar home, it would be worth a little extra trouble to check the soil type where it is to be located to be sure it is suitable for a home.

So many times when building a new home you find that that large basement you have always wanted is nothing more than a water hole. This happens more times than not in a lot of homes throughout Kent County. Just because a developer chooses a location to build homes doesn't necessarily mean that it's really suitable for a home with a basement, or even suitable for

Soybean Prices Encourage Use Of Other Protein Sources

The high price of protein supplement has caused many dairymen to re-examine their feed programs, says Dr. William H. Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware. Until soybeans return to somewhere near a normal supply there will be a growing interest in such high-protein feeds as alfalfa hay and clover-orchard-grass pasture. In a sense, dairymen will once again grow their own protein.

Many factors were involved in the shift, in recent years, away from a heavy dependency on hay and pasture crops. Present feed costs and the likelihood that the world demand for protein will increase rather than diminish puts high protein forages back on center stage, Mitchell says.

Alfalfa, for example, is an excellent source of protein. One acre of alfalfa hay can produce in a season nearly double the protein contained in a 40-bushel crop of soybeans. This is in addition to valuable minerals and vitamins.

Those who are thinking once again of green pastures and lush fields of alfalfa may need a reminder concerning production practices. The best time for seeding is late August or early September. Lime the soil to a pH of 6 or 6.5 before seeding. The most productive pasture mixture in Delaware is Ladino clover and orchardgrass. Williamsburg continues to be one of the most dependable alfalfa varieties. Team and Saranac are good varieties along with several available from private companies. Careful inoculation with the proper bacteria and band seeding are ways to insure a good stand of alfalfa.

It Seems To Me

Janet Reed

"I made it myself"! I hope you can say this with pride and not with apology.

Those who sew seem to fall into three classes—those who are satisfied with anything because they made it, those who never do well enough to suit them and those who fall somewhere in between.

Many women who sew feel guilty about the slightest deviation from perfection and imagine that everyone else notices it too. Important as perfection is, we should not be slaves to it. Ripping and stitching, ripping and stitching can give a garment a tired, worn-out look before you wear it.

Often you are the only one who notices that the stitching line is an eighth of an inch off, unless you tell everyone. Have you ever bought a dress, and after wearing and enjoying it noticed some slight error in stitching or construction that escaped your eye at first? If you had sewn it that way you would be full of apology. Instead you enjoyed the style, or color or fabric—whatever attracted you to the dress in the first place.

When buying inexpensive ready-to-wear, construction of the garment will assume less importance than the fabric, style and fit. It's easy to make slight construction changes, such as restitching seams, changing buttons, removing the excess trimming. But if the dress isn't becoming or the fabric requires constant care you may end up with a "dud".

If you are not confident of your ability to sew well, choose printed designs and textured fabrics, where stitching imperfections are less obvious. Plain colored, flat-textured materials will show off errors, as well as perfect workmanship.

Top stitching to outline seams or other details should be as perfect as possible to avoid the "home-made" look. If you have difficulty with this, omit the top stitching.

Choose pattern and fabric to suit your sewing ability. Correct any large mistakes, and resolve to do better next time on the little ones. And don't apologize. Be proud of your sewing ability.

When buying inexpensive ready-to-wear, construction of the garment will assume less im-

event. Not only were the 4-H'ers able to present their handiwork in the 4-H Building, but in the State Judging and Visual Presentation contest held during the week. The ten best judges in clothing, home management, poultry, field crops, horticulture, dairy, livestock and horse from each county vied for top honors as did best demonstrators in those respective areas.

Winning the State Judging Contests from Kent County were Greg Warren, livestock; Cindy Nechay and Cheryl Cox, foods; Linda Newnom, Renee Outten, and Judy Back, clothing; Lynn Waldbusser and Debra Hopkins, home management; Kathleen McFarland, Brenda Hopkins, and Noel Lord, poultry; Ken Carlisle, John Garey, Glen Divil, and Karen Jerread, field crops; Jay Cahall, Mike Everline and Donald Hopkins, horticulture; Norman Voss, Marty Dixon, Robert Warren and Myra Moore, dairy; Susan O'Steen, Cheryl Warren, Cindy Pajerowski, and Rosemary Mroz, horse.

For the first time this year a Horse Bowl contest was also held. The team of six members will represent Delaware at the regional competition. Sue O'Steen and Abby Omans will represent Kent County on the team.

Visual presentation winners were: entomology team, Billy and David French; photography team, Brenda Clark and Rochelle Messick; home beautification individual, Maureen Bolan; health team, Judy Back and Linda Newnom; food preparation team, Renee Outten and Karen Butler; conservation, Debra and Colleen French; sporting animals team, Greg and Cheryl Warren.

Kathleen McFarland, a member of the White Oaks 4-H Club, will be one of the delegates representing Delaware who will attend the National A.I.C. Convention to be held in New Orleans, La., Aug. 3 through 8.
