Miss America contestant wears Ace Company dress - The Miss America contest Saturday night held a double interest for folks in this locality. Not only was Miss Delaware, Diane Beverly Isaacs, well known here and related to folks in Harrington, but the lovely green wool knit suit worn by her in her first television appearance in the Parade of States at Atlantic City, was fashioned and made by the local Ace Dress Company and was one of Jonathan Logan's new fall styles.

Gary B. Homewood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Homewood, of Harrington, was recently granted the title of registered professional engineer by the Delaware State Board for Registration of Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors. Gary, and wife, the former Eleanor Wagner, of Harrington, and son, Mark, reside at Cape Charles, Va.

Two Harrington area residents were graduated from the Jefferson Medical Hospital School of Nursing Sat., Sept. 7. Miss Margaret Anne Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Perry, 111 Grant St., Harrington, and Miss Francis Tharp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tharp, R.D. 3, Harrington, Miss Tharp is a graduate of Harrington High School. Miss Tharp has been appointed to the Jefferson Medical College nursing staff.

A new all-weather track surface and a continuing of the popular A-B-C horse classification system were announced by officials of the Kent and Sussex Raceway as the Harrington track began its 18th annual meet this week.

Jean Louise Price celebrated her 9th birthday Friday at the cottage of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stauffer, in Primeshook Beach, Sunday she had as her guests Thea and Renee Quillen.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hopkins and Evelyn, Miss Betty Jean Crouse, of Bridgeton; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Outten and son attended the Brown family reunion Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Butler of Harrington. There were sixty-one present.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ringold are the proud parents of triplets born last Wednesday at Easton Hospital.

Mrs. Earl Sylvester spent the weekend with Mrs. Granville Hooker, in Cambridge, Md.

Robert Shultie attended the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Kukulka and family, Robert Rouse and Anthony Vogl spent Sunday in Baltimore. They attended the Baltimore-Boston baseball game at Memorial Stadium.

Fri., Sept. 20, 1963

Unseasonably cool weather has adversely affected both attendance and mutual handle at the Kent & Sussex Raceway during the first week of its 30-nights harness racing meet. William W. Shaw, director of racing, said this week that while attendance was off by about 300 persons, as compared to 1962, the mutual handle was down about $90,000 for the first six nights of racing.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Cannon, and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Cannon attended the dedication of the Kent General Hospital in Dover, Sunday.

The Future Nurses of Harrington High School held its first meeting of the year and the following officers were elected: President, Irene Ellers; Vice President, Nyleen Callaway; Treasurer, Jean Breeding; and Secretary, Carol Klapp.

Mrs. Geneva Tucker left Tuesday for the Milford Memorial Hospital where she will spend a week or two after having a foot operation.

Mr. and Mrs. O.T. Roberts, Mrs. C.F. Wilson and Mrs. L.H. Rogers spent Thursday touring on the eastern shore of Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lyons are the proud parents of a baby girl born Tuesday morning in the Milford Memorial Hospital. The young miss, who weighed 4 lbs. 8 oz., is the Lyons' first child. A surprise baby shower was given Mrs. Lyons by Mrs. Lester Minner.

Sgt. and Mrs. William Gillette and daughter, Connie, left Wednesday.

ASCS Official Explains New Farm Bill

"The new farm bill contains provisions which will encourage farmers to produce more grains, cotton and other crops the marketplace demands," according to J. Heyman Roosa, chairman of the Kent County ASC committee.

Roosa outlined the basic job of the farm program agency in carrying out the provisions of the new law, titled the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973, and enumerated some of the new concepts in the 1973 bill. He also noted that the 1973 Act signed into law by President Nixon Aug. 10, replaces the Agricultural Act of 1970, which expires Dec. 31, 1973.

Roosa said, "Our job will be to execute the new bill's provisions in such a way as to encourage a level of agricultural production which will assure ample supplies of food and fiber for American consumers and for growing export sales opportunities. Under the provision of the new law, farmers will have more freedom to use their resources in the way they feel will earn them the most income from the marketplace." He also pointed out that farmers incomes will be protected through commodity loans which assist producers in marketing their crops in an orderly manner.

Also adding income protection," Roosa said, "is the new target prices feature of the bill. The guaranteed price provision offers income assurance to farmers by triggering deficiency payments when market prices fall below the target levels. The guaranteed prices for 1974 and 1975 are $2.05/bushel for wheat, and $1.38 for corn.

"Another form of income assurance offered to farmers," Roosa said, "will be payments to eligible producers prevented from planting or harvesting crops by natural disasters."

"The bill also authorizes the continuation of a program to offer cost-sharing assistance to farmers for conservation projects," Roosa said. "This feature establishes long-term, permanent conservation practices under the Rural Environmental Assistance Program."

"The new law provides that the total amount of payments a person may receive under one or more of the wheat and feed-grain programs may not exceed $20,000," Roosa said. Services and programs are made available by ASCS without regard to race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.

Band Boosters Discuss Projects To Raise Money

The Lake Forest Band Boosters met Monday evening in the Lake Forest High School.

A number of possible projects to raise funds for the needs of the band were discussed. Continued collections of newspapers, magazines and cardboard will be made in the three Lake Forest communities. The next one, scheduled for Oct. 6, will be held in Harrington. The band will be performing at the Delaware State Homecoming on that date and there is a possibility that the date may be changed. Householders are asked to keep their papers until the Boosters arrange to have them picked up.

The last pick up of papers, last Saturday in Felton, netted about four tons. The previous one in Harrington totaled eight tons. At $10 per ton, this was a worthwhile project.

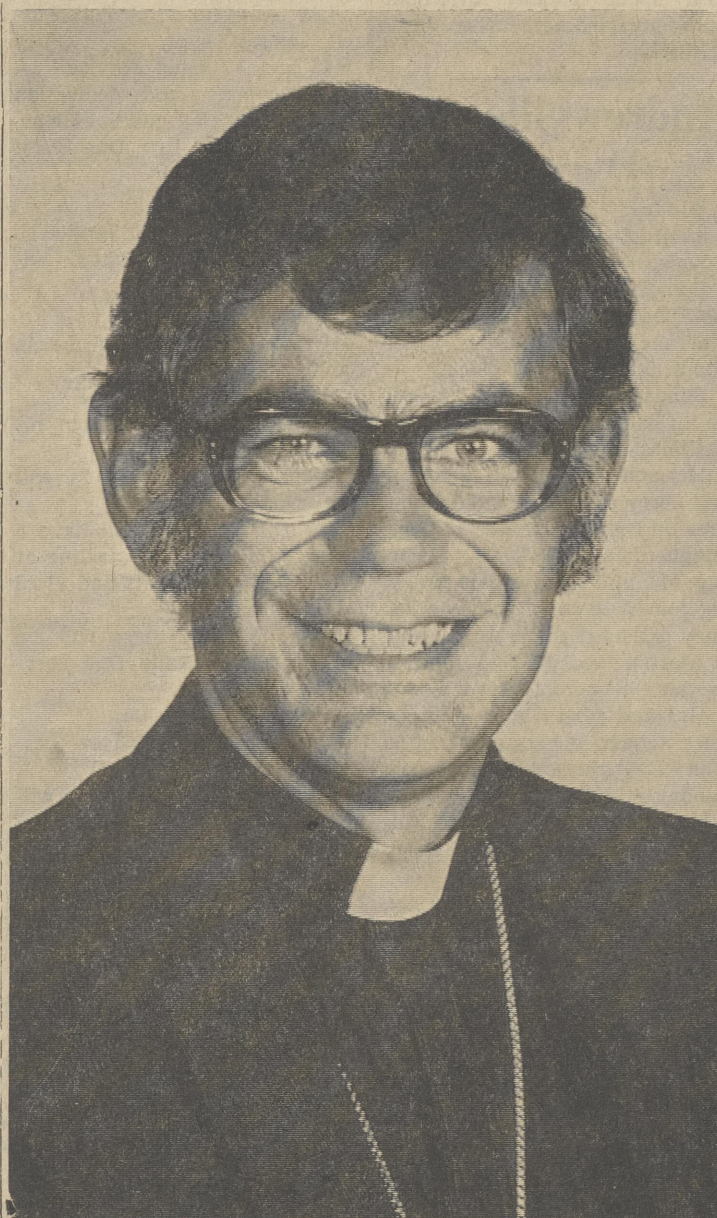

Members of the band will attend the Cavalcade of Bands as spectators Sept. 29, at John Dickinson High School. The cost for each student is $2 plus the bus fare. Bands from many sections of the peninsula will perform for the audience.

The Lake Forest Swinger Stadium cushions are still available and will be sold at each home football game.

Band jackets will be ordered from Mr. Claycomb. The price is $11.25.

A social evening has been planned for this Fall. The Boosters and band members will receive word as to the date and plans later this month.

Membership in the Band Boosters is $1 per family. All families of band members are cordially invited to attend. Donald McKnatt, president, may be contacted or any Booster.

Rev. Bruce M. Shortell

Rev. Bruce M. Shortell and Family Move in Vicarage at St. Stephen's

The Rev. Bruce M. Shortell and family have moved into the vicarage at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. His wife, Joyce, was a kindergarten aide in the Tunkhannock, Pa., Elementary School. They have three children: daughter, Terri Ann, who was a 1973 Tunkhannock High School graduate and will enter college next fall, son, Mike, a tenth-grader at Lake Forest

High School, and Greg, an eighth-grader at W.T. Chipman Junior School. The Episcopal Church is involved in an experimental ministry to meet changing and demanding conditions in God's world. He will have a unique ministry which will find him spending one-half of his time as vicar of St. Stephen's and the other half of his time as project co-ordinator for the Kent County Convocation made up of Episcopal parishes in Milford, Dover, Camden and Smyrna as well as Harrington.

Clayton Youth In 4-H Regional Tractor Test

A 16-year-old Clayton 4-H'er will represent Delaware in the Eastern United States 4-H Tractor Operator Contest. Wayne Pierson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Pierson, will compete with top tractor drivers from 19 other states at the Virginia State Fair in Richmond, Sept. 23-25.

Pierson, who is in his third year in the 4-H tractor program, has been in club work for six years and has completed 4-H projects in dairy, gardening, woodworking and small engines. He lives on a 210 acre dairy farm.

He was selected in statewide competition to represent Delaware in the event. Competition will include a written examination on tractor maintenance and safety, a practical examination on maintenance, and drivetrain and four wheel wagons. Safety of operation will be judged throughout the event.

The Eastern 4-H Tractor Operator Contest is sponsored by the co-operative extension service of the participating states. Harold Carlisle, a 4-H club leader from Dover, will accompany Pierson to Richmond.

Deadline Announced For Sewing Contest

Delaware young people who enjoy sewing are invited to enter the 1973 Make-It-Yourself-With Wool Contest. Miss Barbara DeMesse, county extension home economist at the University of Delaware, says the state contest is open to all Delaware girls and boys between the ages of 10 and 21.

The deadline for entries is Oct. 25. Garments must be completed by Dec. 1 when the state judging will be held in Agricultural Hall at the University of Delaware.

All entries at the state level will be divided into three age groups: Seniors, from 17 to 21; Juniors, from 14 to 16; Pre-teens, from 10 to 13.

Girls who are Junior or Senior state winners may progress to the Mid-Atlantic Division Competition, where one Junior and one Senior will be selected to go to the National Finals in San Diego, Calif., Jan. 24, 1974. American-made fabrics and yarns must be used in the garments. All entries should be constructed of 100 per cent wool, except for trimmings, linings and interfacings. Acceptable materials include mohair, cashmere, alpaca, camel, llama, vicuna, and bonded wool. Fabrics containing five percent or less of other fibers may still be considered 100 per cent wool. Hand knit or crocheted garments are also acceptable.

Seniors and Juniors may enter dresses, coats, or two-piece ensembles. Pre-teens may enter jumpers, skirts, pants, vests and hand-knit or crocheted sweaters. Entry blanks may be obtained by sending a stamped self-addressed envelope to Miss Barbara DeMesse, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark 19711, or by picking them up at her office. They may also be obtained from the state contest director, Mrs. Paul Roach, R.D. 2, Townsend, Del. 19734.

Felton Man Held For Assault

She was listed in fair condition at Kent General Hospital Tuesday morning.

Her husband was held in default of $5,000 bond for a Family Court trial.

LF School District To Dismiss Early On Oct. 1

Mon., Oct. 1, schools of the Lake Forest School District will dismiss their pupils at 1 p.m. in order to provide time for administrators and teachers to participate in conferences and in-service programs.

Filion Smashes Harrington Mark

All time World Driving Champion, Herve Filion, of Chicago's 1972 Driver of the Year, Joe Marsh Jr., dazzled the fans in attendance at Harrington Raceway Sunday, accounting for 13 wins on the 20 race doubleheader program. Herve bagged seven wins, two seconds, and a third while Joe had six wins, three seconds and a third to wind up the classic battle in a virtual tie. Joe Marsh Jr., a 39-year-old native of Ohio, who became only the third driver in harness racing history to win more than 300 races in a single season, stunned the crowd on hand by winning five races on the afternoon card, including a handy 2.05 romp with the nine-year-old gelding, Napolad. The "Flying Frenchman", Herve Filion, was not far behind however, winning three races and keeping within striking range of the sprightly Marsh.

The evening card was a different story with Herve stealing the show by notching four victories including the clincher, a 2:05.3 score with Bernie Offutt's steady pacing gelding, Solar Cain in the final race of the evening. Joe Marsh Jr. had to win one of the last two races on the card in order to wrap up the championship, but Herve had other ideas as the dynamic duo went on to finish first and second in the final two events, battling right down to the wire in each.

"I'll be back next year to try him again and maybe the tables will be reversed," commented Marsh as he prepared to fly back to Chicago where he had eight drives on Monday's racing program at Washington Park. Herve was equally as enthusiastic saying, "This was a good show, I think we should plan to make this an annual event, I'd like to give Joe another crack to upset the champ. He's one heck of a driver."

Meanwhile, Harrington Raceway's Director of Racing, John D. Phillips, and Track President, Herman Brown, have announced that they plan to have a special Invitational event for pacers Oct. 14 for a minimum purse of $7,500 and a possible $10,000 first prize. One should note that both Joe and Herve will be represented in the rich event as each have promised to send a horse or two on that Sunday afternoon. Doubleheader racing programs continue at the Harrington oval every Sunday with an afternoon post time of 1:30 p.m. and an evening starting time of 7 p.m.

"Race For Life Night" To Be Held At Harrington Raceway Oct. 3

Fourth annual "Race For Life Night" sponsored by the Milford Memorial Hospital Women's Auxiliary, will be held Wednesday night, Oct. 3, at the Harrington Raceway on Route 13. A $5 ticket, a portion of which will go toward the Auxiliary donation, will entitle you to parking, admission to the raceway, and a delicious buffet dinner.

George Simpson, general manager of the Raceway, extends his personal welcome to all patrons and assures them there will be no seating problem. To be certain of the table of your choice, the Auxiliary suggests ticketholders should arrive between 6 p.m. and 6:15 p.m.

The highlight of the evening will be the special Milford Memorial Hospital Auxiliary Handicap Race. All purse money from this race will be donated to the Auxiliary by Harrington Raceway, Inc.

As there are only 265 tickets available, don't delay—plan a get-together with your friends and enjoy a night at the race track—all for a very worthy cause.

Tickets are available at the Hospital Gift Shop, the Milford A&P, and from auxiliary members, or call Mrs. Claude L. Tease, 422-8342.

Don't miss the fun and excitement! It's a sure bet!

Date Set For Second Delmarva No-Till Conf.

Corn and soybean growers will want to circle Tues., Dec. 18, on their calendars. That's the date set for the 1973 Delmarva No-Tillage Conference.

This year's conference will be held in the Delmarva Convention Hall, Delmar, Md., from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The day-long program will feature a panel discussion of notillage experiences by no-till farmers in Delaware and Maryland; the results of current no-tillage research on Delmarva; and a discussion of no-tillage practices by local extension agents. Dr. Shirley Phillips, associate extension director at the University of Kentucky, and Harry Young, one of the first no-till farmers in Kentucky, will also discuss their experiences with no-till farming.

The Delmarva No-Tillage Conference is sponsored by allied agricultural industries and the co-operative extension services of Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

American Legion Auxiliary News

Peach Blossom 4-H News

Congratulations to the Peach Blossom 4-H Club for winning the Roadside Trash Pick Up contest sponsored by the Westville 4-H Club!

July was "Pitch In Month" in Delaware, proclaimed by Governor Tribbitt. Westville Club challenged all Kent County 4-H Clubs to try to win a trophy, and individuals to cash prizes.

Mark Langford won $5 (first place) for eight bags; Robbie Salmons won $3 (second place) for five bags; Linda Newnom won $2 (third place) for four bags. A total of 22 bags was collected by the Peach Blossom Club.

The Westville Club hopes to sponsor this contest again next year, hoping more 4-H'ers will participate.

Moving?-- Plan Ahead

If you've ever moved an entire household to another location, you know what a traumatic experience it can be. Few people can afford to leave town beforehand and let professional movers take care of all the packing and unpacking.

While little can be done to eliminate the initial pain of leaving familiar surroundings, Barbara Demesse, extension home economist at the University of Delaware, suggests that you ease the strain on the nerves and the wallet through advance planning. Whether you move locally or to another city or state, there are several ways to simplify what seems like an endlessly complicated process.

Miss DeMesse recommends starting with items that can be packed days or weeks in advance, such as books. Moving experts say that books should be packed in oblong cardboard cartons, rather than the large square type available at supermarkets. Oblong boxes hold the weight of the books better, and the movers can take more than one at a time. The larger square boxes usually have to be carried separately.

As you finish packing each carton, label it with a brief description of the contents and the room it should be placed in when it reaches your new location. This can be done in advance of moving day, and eliminate much unnecessary hauling at the other end.

You can also hasten the packing process by taking up carpets and taking down draperies. Mirrors and pictures should also be removed from walls at least one day before the movers arrive. If you pack these large, breakable items yourself, place them in cardboard, tie them securely and put them upright against a wall.

If your major appliances are going with you, arrange for an electrician or plumber to disconnect them the day before. It is important to defrost, clean and dry your refrigerator thoroughly in advance. Leave the door open as a safeguard against mildew and unpleasant odors.

Before starting to empty cabinets and chests, pack all the odds and ends in the corners of each room so that you will have more space to stick cartons. When packing china, glassware and dishes, separate them with newspapers and stand them up on a base of linen. Dishes, like eggs, are less likely to break when stood on end rather than packed flat. Packed cartons should weigh no more than 50 pounds.

Newspapers make good packing material, but Miss DeMesse does not recommend them to wrap silverware because newspaper hastens the tarnishing process.

Don't pack jewelry, money or important papers. It is best to move valuable personal items of this kind yourself.

Sometimes it's necessary to store furniture for a short time before settling into your new home. Be sure to check the cost well in advance. Unless your mover is able to give you a few extra days of intransit storage, you may have to pay an additional loading and unloading charge.

Wearing apparel should be thoroughly cleaned if you expect to store it for any length of time. And check the storage facilities to be sure your insurance protection will remain in effect. Moving is never easy, but advance planning can eliminate many of the headaches.

Increase Freezer Benefits

Some of us have long recognized the benefits of a home freezer. Now, thanks to rising food prices, more people than ever before are using home freezers.

Your good management in the use of a freezer can lead you to advantages that will put dividends in your pocketbook, says extension home management specialist Coral Morris at the University of Delaware.

Here are some good management techniques to apply. First of all, buy food on a planned basis. Take advantage of store specials. But be sure that they are bargains for your family. There's no point in buying a lot of something they don't like.

Buy meats in quantity to get lower costs and better quality. Freeze fruits and vegetables at their peaks for the best quality at the lowest prices. Buy day-old baked goods—freezing restores lost moisture and makes them a good economy.

Don't clutter the freezer with bulky inexpensive things. Cook ahead, freezing part for a second meal. Freeze leftovers—make your own "TV dinners". Wrap foods in approved freezing materials to maintain quality. And be sure they're air tight—no casual wrapping. In packaging, plan amounts usable at one time. Make sure your freezer is at 0 degrees or below to maintain food quality. Organize your system of dating packages and using them while their contents are still in top condition. And when thawing, remember that it's best to thaw most foods in the refrigerator in their original wrapping.

Other things being equal, says Miss Morris, a freezer does not necessarily save a family money. But it can improve the quality and kind of food available to your family day after day at mealtime.

Remember that quality coming out of the freezer is no better than quality put in. But that quality can be lost without proper wrapping and storage.

A simple, easily installed way to create shelving is what is known as standards and brackets. The standards, which are steel strips perforated at intervals, are screwed to the wall through pre-drilled holes. The standards or strips come in stock sizes, but they can be cut easily to desired lengths with a hacksaw. They are made in bright and satin finish chrome. The brackets are made to fit into the perforations on the standards.

Lake Forest Cross-Country Invitational Thursday

Lake Forest's sixteenth annual cross-country invitational will optn the downstate hill-and-dale season, Thursday afternoon at 4. Six teams will toe the mark at Killen's State Park.

A brand-new 2.35 miles course has been set up, which will probably be the best layout in this area. Both start and finish are located near the park parking area.

Jim Blades' Spartans would have been favored to take all the marbles, but lost two of the best young prospects in Delaware to football and illness. The locals are still strong but have had to yield the favored role to a veteran Caesar Rodney septet, which includes Amo and Cotta, plus two transfers from Dover Air, Kevin Rodgers and Jack Taylor. A fifth harrier is a newcomer who, reputedly, is running No. 1.

Lake Forest is led by co-captains Eddie Thompson and Ron Messy. Harry Benson and Terry Pettijohn, two talented Fredericans, are next. Sandtown sophomore Joe Voshell is the "find of '73". He and junior Kit Tilghman are solid performers.

Rider Eleven Blanks LF 21-0

Caesar Rodney was the ruder host to the Lake Forest football team Friday night, as they whitewashed the invaders 21-0.

All three Rider tallies came from the pitching arm of Kevin Howard.

Early in the contest Spartan speedboy John Pickett made two fine runs, but the longest was nullified by a penalty. Neal Smith got off a long punt, but C.R. marched back to score on a ten-yard pass from Howard to David Huttie.

Russell Dill's kickoff return reached the Spartan's 33. A Rider was hurt on the play and left the field later in an ambulance. The last time Lake Forest played at Caesar Rodney, two Spartan players were injured, a couple of minutes apart, enabling them to ride to the Dover Hospital together.

Pickett raced 20 yards with a pitchout to record a first down on the Rider 48, but Joe Shockley latched on to a George Ham pass, ending the drive.

The Spartan line broke through the Rider forward wall to pin a back for a big loss and Lake Forest gained possession on the Spartan 31. Short gains and a Rider penalty racked up a first down.

Wayne Voshell caught a pass for several yards. Kack Taylor and George Ham picked up additional ground. On a fourth down and three gamble, Taylor got the needed yardage, then crashed for seven more yards. C.R. recovered a fumble at the Rider 25 and drove for another touchdown, with Proudfoot catching a seven-yard aerial.

After a scoreless third period, the home team hit the scoreboard again. Larry Olmstead hauled in an 11-yarder to run the count to 19-ZIP, as the small station sportscasters say.

A two-point try was good until the men in stripes said no. Despite the additional yardage, track star soph. Norman Hahn dashed into the end zone. 21-0.

To the casual fan it appears that Lake Forest has improved against the run. The defensive secondary still looks weak, especially against the pass. All of the winner's scores came via the aerial route. Next week Sussex Central comes here with quarterback Joe Shockley, who authored nine touchdown passes in the Knight's two opening wins.

The Spartan's offensive unit isn't too potent yet, but Roland "Zack" Taylor and John Pickett are young halfbacks, who may have a great future.

Quarterback George Ham and burley Leon Shockley are hard to bring down when they get up a full head of steam.

It would appear, at this point, that Delmar and Indian River will fall to the Spartans. Woodbridge and Milford are stronger than the first two mentioned, but could be beaten by Lake Forest, if the locals continue to improve.

Sussex Central, Dover, Cape Henlopen and Laurel are too strong. A victory against any of these would fall into the upset category. 4-6 anyone?

What's In A Name?

Have you ever asked yourself what the term "housewife" actually means? Where did it originate, and why has it come in for so much lively discussion lately among women, their husbands, legislators, and women's rights groups?

The word entered the English language about 700 years ago, according to Miss Barbara DeMesse, county extension home economist at the University of Delaware. Alternate terms have been suggested, including "homemaker," "household engineer," and "domestic economist." But most housewives will tell you that it's not the terminology but the interpretation that counts.

Webster defines "housewife" as "a married woman who occupies herself with the domestic affairs of the household and who engages in employment for no pay or profit." The Random House definition is "a wife who does all or most of the cleaning and cooking in the household and who holds no other job." In everyday terminology, it boils down to "the one who stays home and runs things." But whatever the definition, women are likely to find a loophole somewhere.

While housewives devote the bulk of their days to cooking, washing, cleaning, and generally picking up, it has remained unrecognized formally as a social effort. An ongoing study under a grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture now gives families and others interested in the relationship of household work to the national economy a measure of what it would cost to replace the work at home with hired servants-if you could find hired servants.

According to a survey of 1300 families in New York, here's

Frederick W. Metzler

Frederick W. Metzler, 73, of Milford, died Sunday in Milford Hospital after suffering a heart attack.

A native of Philadelphia, Mr. Metzler moved to Milford about three years ago. He was a paper hanger.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Wanda W. Metzler, and a brother, Charles of Lake Pines, N.C.

Services will be Thursday afternoon at 2 at the Berry Funeral Home, NW Front Street, Milford, where friends may call from 11 until service time. Interment will be in Odd Fellows Cemetery, Milford.

how some of those figures add up. In an average family with two children--one a five-year-old and the other an infant--the mother puts in 70 hours a week. The dollar value of her labor amounts to $146 on a weekly basis.

A woman with three older children between the ages of six and 11 would be performing services worth $108 a week. If there are four children between six and 11 years of age, the value of the wife's labor would amount to $117 a week.

Miss DeMisse believes that these findings should go a long way toward improving the current image of the housewife. With the useful measure of dollar value for her work, perhaps we can dismiss the degrading attitudes toward women and household work that have existed in one form or another for centuries. And perhaps in the not-too-distant future housewives will be entitled to Social Security and other benefits enjoyed by regularly employed individuals.

Chief Warrant Officer 4 Harold Welch represented the State of Delaware at the Winston P. Wilson Rifle and Pistol Championships fired from 15 to 22 September at Little Rock, Ark. Forty states sent squads to the tournament which determined the individual and team shooting champions of the Army and Air National Guard. The rugged shooting schedule started each day at 7 a.m. and often wasn't completed until dark. The Wilson Matches signal the high point and conclusion of each state's shooting season. Now the shooters will return to their home stations to work with the winter indoor smallbore program.

Don't Rely On Questionable Seed

If you're a home gardener, you probably have some leftover seed lying around from this year's plantings. Is this seed worth saving? Most packets now cost at least 25 cents, compared to only a dime a few years ago. So it certainly would reduce next spring's gardening costs if you could plant your leftovers.

Consider the facts before planting questionable seed, however, advises Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware. Though most vegetable seeds have a rather long life, there are some important exceptions. For example, corn and onion seeds have short life spans. They should not be kept over one year. Bean, pea, and carrot seeds can be stored for two years. Pepper, pumpkin, beet and tomato seeds won't germinate after more than three years. The length of time that seeds remain viable will of course vary with the storage conditions.

Kale, lettuce, cantaloupe, spinach, squash, turnip, and watermelon seeds will be good for as long as four years, says Stevens, provided they are stored under cool, dry conditions.

If you have any doubt as to how long seeds have been lying around or under what conditions they have been stored, it is best to buy new seed from a reputable source. All seed sold in Delaware is tested for germination and has the date of the test on the label.

Gardeners who plan to keep leftover seed of the varieties that last well should take care to store that seed properly. Place seeds in a tin, glass or plastic container which is airtight and store over winter in your refrigerator or deep freeze. This method of storage will allow very slow loss of viability.

If you don't have the room to refrigerate stored seed, place it in a tight can or jar in the dark in a cool basement. In the warm temperatures of the average home, seeds may lose viability quite rapidly, Stevens warns.

You may test the germination of your seeds by placing a definite number on moist blotting paper in a dish or pan covered with plastic or glass to maintain a high humidity. Place these seed containers in a warm location and count those which germinate in 10 to 14 days. From these figures you can easily determine the percentage germination and adjust the thickness of planting accordingly.

If you are not willing to take the trouble to test for the viability of leftover seed, perhaps you are being unrealistic in trying to save it. The ideal planting period for most vegetables is short, reminds Stevens. It's very disappointing to take the time preparing your garden and planting crops only to discover that the seed won't germinate.

Small Trees Make Good Landscaping

Why not include small trees in your landscaping? Trees growing only 25 or 30 feet in height with single or multiple trunks can add interest to many home landscapes. Because of their shorter stature, they're in scale with the small, one-story or ranch style suburban house, and can create a handsome point of interest in front of it.

The Japanese tree lilac, Sargent crabapple, Washington Hawthorn and sourwood are all good candidates for small yard landscape plantings, says Robert Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

Large clusters of flowers on the Japanese tree lilac (Syringa amurensis japonica) cover the tree in June after many other lilacs are through blooming. This tree reaches 20 to 25 feet in height and can be grown with multiple trunks or with a single trunk. You might consider planting one of these trees near the front corner of your house, and then put a semi-circular bed of ground cover plants or low shrubs underneath Creeping juniper under about two or three feet apart make one handsome ground cover to plant under the Japanese tree lilac.

You might even consider making a similar planting at the other corner of your house, using a different arrangement of plants underneath for variety.

Such corner plantings are effective if used in a raised bed, approximately eight to 14 inches in height. The raised bed can be constructed of brick, concrete blocks or railroad ties. Be sure to provide drainage from this raised bed, though, warns Stevens.

The Sargent crabapple is a horizontal spreading tree that grows only six or eight feet high, but with greater width. This tree can provide interesting variation in plantings. Three plants spaced in a triangular pattern ten feet apart and eight feet off the corner of the house can be very effective. If the house is symmetrical in appearance you may want to repeat the same planting at the other front corner. If not, perhaps one Sargent crabapple could be used at the other corner with ground cover planting underneath.

The Washington Hawthorn is one of our best small trees because of its year-round ornamental value, says Stevens. Its white flowers are followed in the fall with attractive red berries. Hawthorns will grow under poor soil conditions and still maintain an attractive appearance.

The sourwood (Oxydendrum) is a beautiful flowering tree. It bears graceful flower clusters in summer and has lustrous, leathery, brilliant scarlet leaves in the fall. It takes 15 to 20 years to reach its final height of 20-25 feet.

Regardless of the small tree selected, give the plant sufficient room to develop properly when used next to the house. Most of these trees should be planted at least six to eight feet from the house so that they don't appear crowded. For larger two-story houses, groups of three or more trees may be more effective than a single planting. When underplanting with a bed of ground cover or shrubs, the bed should usually be as wide as the tree is tall to give the appearance of good balance and proper scale.

When you're driving around, take a look at some small trees in the landscape. With a little imagination you can make your own place more interesting with these trees.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne W. Holberton

Soon the old adage of "let the buyer beware" will change to "let the advertiser beware." This is due to the regulations issued by the Federal Food and Drug Administration for nutrient labeling. Any label ordered after Dec. 31, 1973, must conform with the rules; and any product shipped in interstate commerce after Dec. 31, 1974, must conform. As of now nutrient labeling is voluntary, but there are some triggering mechanisms that can make it compulsory. For instance, if the label mentions nutrition or nutrients on the package. Another example, if the processor makes any wild claims of nutritional value of their product in advertising then all packages must conform to the rules. Still another trigger is any fortification of a food product.

As the F.D.A. says "a manufacturer who does not wish to use nutrition labeling need not add nutrients to his product or refer to their nutritional properties in labeling or advertising." It's true the F.D.A. has no control over advertising, but the agency is in effect taking some control by linking advertising with nutrient labeling. This will, it is hoped, make all manufacturers of food products think before they make such wild claims about their foods as many do today. It will necessitate each manufacturer to back-up each claim with provable data.

As the new program gets underway, labels will begin routinely bearing information never before seen by the average consumer" says F.D.A. The label, if it is to mention nutrition at all, must carry the following information: serving size, serving per container, caloric, protein, carbohydrate and fat content, and percent of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance of protein, vitamin A, vitamin C, thiamin, riboflavin, niacin, calcium and iron (vitamin B6 and vitamin B12 may also be added but are not so far required). Also, the amount of sodium and cholesterol may also be stated, and in the case of fatty acids the quantity that are saturated, polyunsaturated or other. This information is required only when the products make a claim of low in fatty acids or the like.

True, it will take quite a while before consumers become able to make truly informed decisions about the nutritional value of various foods. Nutrient labeling cannot take the place of nutrition education, that should start

FOOD PRICES TOO HIGH?

IT DEPENDS ON WHO'S DOING THE MEASURING! Here are some comments adapted from an article prepared by Dr. Wilbur Hesselstine, Dairy Specialist, University of Delaware.

The housewife's objection to higher food prices is interesting to observe. Certainly it is a study in human behavior and economics. Every agriculturist should think about this situation and offer the producer's side of the story.

There are always some who take advantage of situations for their own personal gain. But educated shoppers and competition normally minimize such practices. Buyer's must read, listen and beware.

It is almost humorous to observe the objections to higher prices. There is very little that can be low cost anymore. The reason - money gets cheaper and cheaper all the time. For some reason, consumer's expect farmers to work for less than the wage earners in their own household receive. This can't be. Farmers will continue to give up farming to gain better incomes and shorter working hours offered by off-farm employment. This will continue until wages earned by farmers are equal to non-farm jobs, and until farmers' return on invested capital and managerial skills are equal to other businesses.

It would be unrealistic for consumers to start crusading for new 3-bedroom homes for $13,000. Or $1,000 automobiles. Or cheap anything. Recently cigarette prices went up 10 to 20 cents a carton; there were no pickets urging a boycott, or an lengthy newspaper and TV editorials condemning the tobacco industry. The same goes for gasoline, up 2 to 3 cents a gallon, and an article in the local newspaper said the poor and middle class workers were doomed to apartment living because lumber and construction wages were so high.

Here are some things consumers fail to think about:

1. Wages keep on going higher and higher. Over 40 percent of the cost of food is the labor of processing, hauling, packaging, and wholesaling and retailing. Wages aren't likely to come down nor is the productivity of labor increasing very rapidly.
2. Everyone wants a wage increase including the housewives who are complaining about food costs and feel their husbands and themselves should be getting higher wages. If higher wage costs are not offset by increased output per worker, it means prices must go up. This is true of all employment, not just food. Do we really want to stop this wage price spiral? All of us in the U.S.A. must understand that we as a people and a labor force cannot have more by producing less and getting higher wages.
3. The demands of consumers for quality control, more inspection and grading, consumer protection, pollution and environmental controls all result in higher costs which must be passed on in higher prices.

4. The devaluation of the dollar means Japan and Europe is new buying meat produced here. Export sales have doubled since the cost of feed grains and soybeans have increased so greatly. In addition, we are selling about 10 billion dollars worth of grain and soybeans to overseas markets, which resulted in a 40 to 50 percent higher cost of producing meat and dairy products here at home.

5. Housewives want everything convenience packaged in meal-sized portions. "Add water, heat, stir and serve" is about all the effort required. But this costs money - and the housewife should not expect such services for free. True, she is going to demand and get those convenience packed foods. But at a price. It can't be any other way.

How can housewives logically expect lower prices for food? They can't. For those stubborn enough, let them buy some land, raise a hog, keep a cow, and raise some food of their own. The result is bound to be consumers satisfied that America's farmers are the most efficient in the world.

It Seems To Me

Janet Reed

Shoes! This is one item of wearing apparel few of us make and it takes a big chunk of the family clothing dollar. Shoes seem to be subjected to as many fads and foibles as any other item of wearing apparel—maybe more. We women go from spike heels to flats to boots to platform shoes. Designers tell us the shoe is designed to be in proportion with the total fashion silhouette. So current shoe fads should be worn with the current fashion styles.

We buy different things with our shoe money—comfort-fashion-style-attention. But we hope you aren't buying an accident.

Platform shoes are especially dangerous when driving if you slide your foot quickly from gas to brake pedal. Combined with the new voluminous cuffed pants, platforms can cause a woman to get her foot caught. Open back clogs also are dangerous for driving because the foot can slide out easily.

Safety experts tell us that platform are the worst driving shoes ever created, and predict they will cause more accidents than bald tires. If you must wear platforms, carry a pair of sensible shoes to put on when you are driving. Then put on the platforms when you reach your destination.

If you have purchased platforms, practice walking in them around the house—not only for safety's sake but for the sake of appearance as well. It may take a while to overcome that awkward appearance and feeling when you first try them out. This is true of young men as well as young women who may be trying out higher heels and soles for the first time. Stairs and escalators can be especially dangerous if you misjudge the distance.

No doubt this platform shoe style is a fad that will soon pass. Some of us can remember when it was around the last time—the state will also participate in a window display contest. Each club places a display in the window of a local merchant. Winning displays will be sent to a national contest later this year.

National 4-H Week Oct. 7-13

Millions of 4-H youths and their volunteer adult leaders will "get it all together" as they observe 1973 National 4-H week, Oct. 7-13.

Traditionally, since 1927, National 4-H Week has been a time for 4-H'ers, their leaders and friends to take stock of the year's accomplishments and achievements. And it has been a time to look to the future of 4-H in their community, state and nation.

"4-H Gets It All Together," the theme of this year's program, reflects today's 4-H objectives, according to James Baker, Delaware 4-H leader. He says 4-H is concerned with helping young people develop the personal skills and attitudes required to become a complete individual. Latest figures show some 5.5 million youths are being reached by 4-H and its half million volunteer leaders.

4-H brings together both rural and urban boys and girls, of all racial, economic and social backgrounds. It appeals to young people whether they live on a farm, in an apartment, in the suburbs or inner city. Through individual and group efforts, they learn about the world around them, other people, customs, life-styles, like and different from their own.

In Delaware, several activities will highlight 4-H week. Kicking off the program will be the ninth annual 4-H parade Oct. 6 in Milford. The parade will start at 1:30 p.m. Clubs throughout men pot plants. Plants and insects similar to those in the identification contest will be available for study and a flower arranging demonstration will be given. Juniors will have an opportunity to make their own arrangements under supervision.

Flower Show Workshops Scheduled

Flower Show workshops for children in grades 1 through 12 will be held Sat., Sept. 29, at Faulk Elementary School, 1401 Foulk Rd., Wilmington. The workshops will prepare children for a series of contests to be held at the 1973 Delaware Flower Show, Oct. 6, at 9 and 10 a.m. Young gardeners will test their skill at flower arranging, plant and insect identification and flower judging. Ribbons and prizes will be awarded.

At the Flower Show workshops, youngsters will be shown how to prepare their entries and will be instructed in the judging of cut flowers and spec-

Two workshop sessions will be held—a morning session from 10 a.m. to noon for grades 7 through 12, and an afternoon session from 1 to 3 p.m. for grades 1 through 6. Registration for the workshops must be made in advance by contacting Mrs. Joseph Kerch, 149 Devonshire Road, Fairfax, 656-3656.

The 1973 Delaware Flower Show will be held at John M. Clayton Hall on the North Campus of the University of Delaware, Oct. 5, 6, and 7. Information on junior classes and entrance procedures may be obtained from Mrs. Augustus Graham, 93 Colorado Ave., Shipley Heights, Wilmington, 764-2532.
