Harrington Bowling League News

Leah S. Wheeler

Brothers Five still holds a share of the top spot after Tuesday night's bowling, but not before McKnatt Funeral Home jolted them a bit by walking off with the first game using just a three-man squad. Brother's Five bounced back to get the remaining three points as Ron Kiely rolled a fine 553 set, and Buck Thompson chipped in with a real good effort. McKnatt's made a gallant try as all three men bowled well, with Harry Jack leading the way with a great 531 series effort.

The Spoilers are hanging right in the battle for the top spot and this week grabbed a share of the lead as they blanked Big John's Son in all games for four very big points. Jack Sapp rolled a fine 211 game and a 558 series with Carl Wright adding a real fine effort as did the rest of the squad for a full team effort. Sam Powell rolled a great above average effort for Big John's Son.

Howard Tibbitt paced the Jarrell Fuel team to a three-to-one verdict over the T & M Rejects with a great effort and Harold Melvin added a good 200 game and a real good effort for the fuelers. The Rejects received good assists from Louis Welch and Jimmy Messick.

Taylor & Messick and Wally's Wrecker Service were literally all over the lanes Tuesday night and when the shuffling was completed, Wally's found themselves on the top side of a three-to-one verdict. Both teams bowled exceptionally well with the highlights being provided by Bobby Collins with a great 215 game and 556 series, George Langford with a great above average effort, and George Collins' real fine 206 game and 550 set. Gene Wright led both teams with a grand 560 series including a 211 game and Dave Ryan came through with a good 201 game and a 522 set, with Larry Breeding hitting a fine above average effort.

Fry's American and People's Restaurant both experienced an off night, although Fry's outweighed the winning side of the scales at three to one when the contest was over. Leroy Wheeler paced the Fry's squad with a great 243 game and 555 set, with Kreg Jester adding a little extra effort, and People's received good assists from Cloyd Bushey and Bill Manship. The big story here was the great conversion of the dreaded 7-10 split by Bill Manship. Norman Clough tried to top this feat, but for some reason he just won't talk about it (just don't ask).

Robert Wright turned in a fine 542 series performance as he paced the Butler's Fuel quintet to a three-to-one win over Penn Central. Larry Larimore and Dickie Collins also added good efforts for the fuelers. Penn Central's Bernard Coffman, Richard Ratledge and Donald Butler rolled real good efforts, which aided the team in grabbing one point.

Biden Tells Locals 'People Don't Give A Darn'

U.S. Senator Joe Biden

By Mrs. H.G. Farrow

A group of 30 responded to U.S. Senator Joe Biden's letter invitation to attend "an old-fashioned town meeting" Wednesday evening, Oct. 17, in the W.T. Chipman Junior High School library.

An informal atmosphere was established by the senator during the early stage of the evening. During the opening remarks Biden stated that "a most dangerous situation exists in this country today in that people don't give a darn." According to a recent AP poll over 45 per cent of the American people believe that tomorrow things won't be better. Biden said that conditions won't change unless people begin to get involved.

Those present soon became involved during the question-answer period. The two major areas of concern were the Middle East situation and the recent domestic and political developments in America. During a rapid exchange of remarks with a Dover resident supporting no aid to Israel and ending with a show of hands supporting aid to Israel, the senator stated that America cannot be an isolated nation; to do so would be a drastic mistake militarily and would affect the domestic situation as well.

Concern for the oil supply from the Middle East and the question of the possible shortage of fuel were closely related subjects that arose next. Biden said that "we can't as a nation be blackmailed" in reference to the Arab stand of cutting off oil supply to America for continued support of Israel. According to Biden, only 5 per cent of the nation's consumption of oil is supplied by the Middle East. The development of alternative fuel supplies and distribution of present fuel supplies were also discussed.

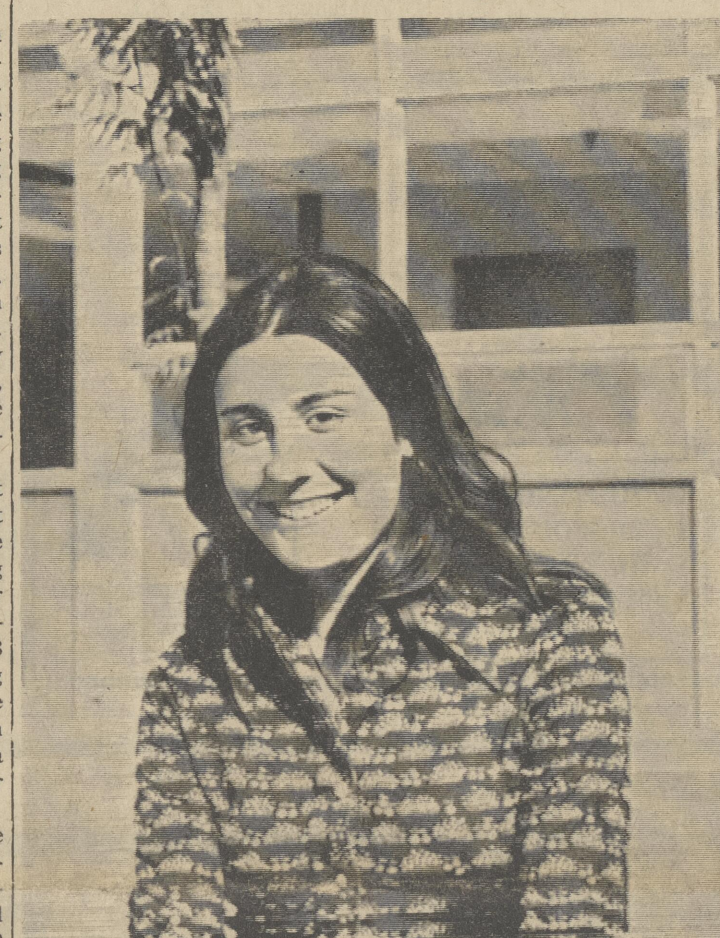

Questions relating to the recent political developments dominated the remaining time. Several present voiced the disappointment and frustration indicated nationally in the events leading up to and including the recent resignation of Spiro Agnew. Using the theory that "absolute power corrupts absolutely", Biden suggested that one of the first steps to be taken is to "make everyone aware of how implicitly corrupt the system of raising money for political campaigns is." The biggest single step to control corruption is to "put men and women in office independent of strings". Partial funding of political elections would help eliminate the chance of corruption he felt.

The balancing of powers and restoring Congressional power was a concern indicated by several present. Senator Biden felt that no modern means of having data available, no room to work, and the present means of allocating funds were areas that needed change to make Congress function as an equal branch of the government again.

It was his opinion that Congress would take steps to initiate impeachment proceedings if the president refused to obey the court order to release the tapes in question.

Most of the group present remained to speak with the senator at the conclusion of the meeting.

Meet Mariate Gomez-Bernardo A.F.S. Student From Spain

Mariate Gomez-Bernardo

Who's the newest member of the senior class? Mariate Gomez-Bernardo of Leon, Spain. Mariate, who is staying with the Robert Mastens of Harrington, is interested in a career in journalism.

Mariate is very involved in school activities as she is a member of the band flagettes, the Student Council, a student in journalism and of course AFS. Her special interest and hobbies include writing and skiing. Lake Forest is a change since she was formerly a student in an all girl's school. Subjects are different as journalism, typing and shorthand are not offered at her school.

Family life was certainly a change also. Lisa, her Lake Forest sister, is the only child at home, while Maria has two sisters and three brothers. While mothers are the same all over the world, fathers can come in two types. Maria's father has a more serious outlook on life than Mr. Mastens.

The American dating system is another new thing for Maria. In Spain there are no weeknight dates, and on weekends, dates are from six o'clock to half-past ten. Also our grading system is different, Maria's school sends out a report card every three months with a grading scale of 0-10.

Maybe even with all the differences and changes Maria will enjoy her stay as much as we hope she will.

However, my oldest girl, who's now 24, couldn't get payments because she was over 18 when she became severely disabled from arthritis. She was 19 when her disability began. Has this law been changed?

A. Yes. Since January of this year, a child like your daughter whose disability began before 22 can get monthly payments. You should contact your social security office to apply for benefits for your daughter.

Immunization Action Month

Immunization levels among pre-school children are not as high as they should be according to Dr. Maynard H. Mires, Kent County Health Officer. He urges parents to check their children's records during October, National Immunization Action Month.

His statement comes at the beginning of a nationwide campaign, initiated by the U.S. Public Health Service, to increase the number of young children vaccinated against six childhood diseases.

This campaign has a special significance for Delawareans, added Dr. Mires. A new regulation adopted by the State Board of Education requires all children under 10 entering the school system, effective September of 1974, to show proof of immunization against the six diseases.

Under the new regulations, children with no immunizations or fewer than the required number may still be admitted to school-but with the understanding that the immunizations must be completed in a reasonable time. Exceptions may be granted for religious or medical reasons.

Delaware Public Health officials estimate from surveys which have been conducted, that 36 percent of the state's preschool children have not completed their immunizations. The officials would like to see that figure lowered to near five or ten percent, to provide maximum protection against any serious outbreaks.

Minimum immunization requirements for school entry are: - for all children, a single dose of measles and rubella vaccine, and a series of three doses of polio vaccine;

- for children under six, a series of three DPT shots (a single vaccine which protects against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus); and for children six to ten years old, a series of two DT (diphtheria-tetanus) shots.

Additional boosters or vaccines may be recommended by physicians.

Dr. Mires urges parents to have their children immunized before they reach school age. Shots should be started when a child reaches two months of age. During Immunization Action Month, he suggests that parents take these steps:

1. Check your health care records to determine whether your children have received all their shots. If your records are incomplete, check with your family doctor or public health unit.

2. If you have children whose vaccinations are not complete, make arrangements immediately with your doctor or health unit.

Immunizations are available free from Division of Public Health children's health services and well child conferences. For information about these services, Kent County residents may call the Kent County Health Unit in Dover, 678-4727; or the Milford Health Center, 422-4614.

An all-out immunization drive is necessary, according to health officials, to reverse an alarming trend of declining immunization levels among preschool children against these six diseases. These diseases commonly occurred in children before vaccines were available, causing many deaths and serious complications.

Now, unfortunately, many people take for granted the control of children's diseases. Dr. John J. Witte, chief of the public health services Immunization Branch, noted in his announcement of Immunization Action Month that "the number of children being vaccinated has dropped steadily in recent years, to the point where diseases which had almost disappeared could once again occur at epidemic levels."

"One of the major problems," he said, "is that many parents wait until their children approach school age before having them vaccinated. As a result, many children age four and under remain unprotected, and the diseases could spread rapidly among children in this age group."

Dr. Mires concluded, "Do we want this to happen in Delaware? Please see that your children are immunized."

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

OTHERS

Lord, help me live from day to day
 In such a self-forgetful way
 That even when I kneel to pray
 My prayers will be for others.

Help me in all the work I do
 To ever be sincere and true
 And know that all I do for You
 Must needs be done for others.

And when my work on earth is done
 And my new work in Heaven begun
 May I forget the crown I've won
 While thinking still of others.

THE FOLKS THAT I HAVE KNOWN

By J. Harvey Burgess

What makes one man a sinner and
 Another man a saint?
 It ain't the places that they've been—
 The places that they ain't;
 Or the schools that they've attended,
 Though that may help a lot;
 It ain't the honors that they've won,
 Or the money that they've got;
 You'll realize when you look back
 Along the windin' road
 That all of life's summed up in this:
 The folks that you have knowed!
 I've knowed some interesting folks
 And creatures in my time;
 Some millionaires—and other folks
 Who didn't have a dime;
 I've knowed the lowly and the high,
 The shackled and the free;
 I've knowed some folks with lots of brains,
 And others—'bout like me;
 I've knowed the thoughtless and the ones
 Who had ambition's goad—
 And all of them are part of me—
 They're folks that I have knowed.
 A self-made man—he never lived—
 There ain't no self-made man.
 A feller, maybe, thinks he is,
 But back along the span,
 Of dusty years, the folks he's seen
 And met along the way
 Have helped to make of him the man
 He thinks he is today.
 The world's great standard bearers and
 The world's most tragic jokes—
 They ain't themselves—they're just a part
 Of lots of other folks.
 You meet a man, say "howdy do"—
 You think you'll never see
 Or meet that man again, which shows
 How foolish you can be.
 You can forget, the years can pass,
 But back upon the tide
 He'll come again in other years
 And walk there by your side.
 So you ain't you who live today;
 That is, not you alone—
 Without a million men to serve
 There'd never be a throne.
 You know your grain, you know your tares,
 Your sunshine and your dew—
 A lot of folks may pass you by—
 But leave themselves with you!
 You'll realize when you look back
 Along the windin' road
 That all of life's summed up in this
 The folks that you have knowed.

Cross-Country Spartans Down Strong Riders

It took a superb effort by a quartet of gutsy, well-conditioned, Lake Forest athletes to record a cross-county triumph over a determined, experienced Caesar Rodney septet, at Killen's Pond State Park Thursday afternoon. The final count was 25-30. Low score wins a cross-country.

The Riders have an ideal set-up for the harrier sport. First, they get a large turnout from a huge student body. Many of these live within walking distance of the school.

Second, Charles Bell, Dover Air's stellar coach, trains young runners at the Air Base School, who frequently wind up at C.R. as readymade stars after their fathers retire from the Air Force.

One of these ex-Falcons, Jack Taylor, won Thursday's race in 13:22 for the 2.35 miles course. Another, Kevin Rodgers, was seventh, the third Rider to gallop across the finish. This pair competed on Dover Air's state title team of 1971.

Cotta, Cimo and Wothers, other Riders in the top nine, are all strong, veteran runners.

On paper, Lake Forest had a powerhouse in August. However, six of these proven runners fell by the wayside in one fashion or another. Coach Jim Blades has been forced to step up the tempo and length of his training runs. The result has been a 4-1 record to date, the lone loss was a narrow one to powerful Henlopen leader, Dover High (5-0).

Jack Taylor led early with Harry Benson, Ron Mosely and Ed Thompson in pursuit. With less than a mile to go, the Spartan cause was suffering as Cotta moved into fourth spot and Terry Pettyjohn was ninth for Lake Forest.

Thompson, hampered somewhat by gimpy gams (sore legs) fought past Cotta and Wothers to ice the verdict for the Spartans. The Frederica sophomore fought off a counter-rally by Rodgers, at the wire. He had to beat one of the trio, but he outran all three.

Meanwhile, at the front, Taylor was rapidly running out of gas and just managed to hold on long enough to edge Mosely. The hard-working Spartan co-captain set a new Lake Forest mark for the revised course (13:25). His previous best was 13:40.

To prove how badly C.R. wanted this one, look at the following status. Taylor ran 20 seconds faster than he did here, three weeks earlier. Cotta was down six seconds, Rodgers, one minute, Cimo, 54 seconds, Wothers, one minute 29 seconds.

But, the gallant Spartans were not to be denied this day.

Caesar Rodney	1
Taylor - 13:22	1
Cotta - 13:40	5
Rodgers - 13:42	7
Cimo - 13:54	8
Wothers - 13:56	9
Lake Forest	30
Mosely - 13:25	2
Benson - 13:25	3
Thompson - 13:35	4
Pettyjohn - 13:41	6
Tilghman - 14:11	10

good for each other.

Richter had the edge in the 72-runner, Salisbury State College Invitational jayvee race and again at Laurel. This time it was Parker's turn, as he sped past Richter near the end, to win by two seconds, in a swift 14:14. Richter's 14:16 was 15 seconds faster than his previous best, here. This pair could have come in 11th and 12th in the varsity race between two veteran, high school teams. Wait until next year.

Sophomore Bob Mullane cut off 24 seconds to finish next. Grant Salisbury (5th) and George Gibbs (8th) improved by 7 and 17 seconds, respectively. Oncoming rookie Craig Kashner was 31 seconds faster, brother Jeff Kashner ran very well also. Substantial improvement was recorded by Herb Jarrell, Cliff Ayers, Ron Woods, Mark Miller, Paul Miller, Ken Cerkleskie, Eugene Butler, Don Coltrain, Russ Knaub, John Miller, Tim Kemp and Keith Underwood.

Ed Thompson Sets Record At Woodbridge

Spartan co-captains Ed Thompson and Ron Mosely were the first and second finishers at Woodbridge, as Lake Forest upped its record to five wins and one loss, with a perfect 15-50 victory. Laverne Demory of Milford, held the old mark of 13:26 for the 2.45 miles course. Mosely recorded 13:28 after running off the course at one point.

Harry Benson, Terry Pettyjohn, Kit Tilghman, Bob Kashner and Steve Saalsbury completed the Spartan scoring. Grant Saalsbury was next, followed by the eighth-grade duo of David Richter and Danny Parker.

Bob Mullane, George Gibbs, Bill Moore, David Moore, Charles Scott, Craig Kashner, Rick Woodward, Walter Bishop, Chris Adamo and John Moffett completed the top 20 finishers.

Who would a wrestler, is larger than the average harrier, but works hard and has an above-average quota of courage. He beats many more people than expected as a result. Orlando Burris, another big kid, won a duel with two Raider harriers, after stopping by mistake a quarter of a mile from the finish. He caught the pair again and hung on gamely to beat both.

Mobile homes find a home on the farm. Agriculture can be grateful for the invention of the mobile home and prefab houses. Large and small farm operators are using them to attract and keep competent labor. In fact, a large percentage of small farm operators are using this type of housing for themselves. A recent study in the south showed that about 8% of all rural residences in that area were of the mobile home or prefab type. This compares with a 4% figure for the nation. Possibly the greatest indication of this type of housing is the increase in sales which increased from 118,000 units in 1972 to 583,000 last year.

Here are some of the factors which caused this growth; the ease of delivery by interstate highway systems, improved factory production techniques lowers costs, and the ease of financing a mobile home. Buyers can easily finance the total cost of the unit including furnishings and appliances. All this with a single loan!

Finally, expensive costs such as lawyer fees and title searches are not necessary.

Taxes remain as the largest consumer of personal income according to Tax Foundation Inc. In 1973 the average American works 2 hours and 39 minutes of each 8 hour day to pay his taxes. It takes 58 minutes to buy his food and beverages, 60 minutes for housing and 25 minutes for clothing. Transportation takes another 40 minutes of work, medical care 23 minutes, recreation 18 minutes and there is another 1 hour and 37 minutes left over.

A Michigan dairyman reported that since he installed carpeting in his free stalls seven months ago his 160 Holsteins have been producing 8-10 pounds more milk per day. David Heinwerdeinger of Hickory Dairy Farms, Clinton, Mich., says that he installed the carpeting with the idea of saving money on bedding. He claims he is now saving $1,200 per year in straw bedding, plus he is making an unexpected $1,500 more per month from the extra milk. We must take into consideration, of course, the purchasing price of the carpeting which was not cheap.

A free stall barn will pay for itself in several years in the savings of bedding, as compared to the old loose housing system, where the area is bedded each day, not to mention the added cost of manure removal. This leaves more time for herd management which returns the dairyman more income per hour than any other activity on the farm.

Bye, Bye Blackbirds

A new chemical for the use in blackbird control in field corn may save farmers huge economical losses. It has been approved by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). Avitrol not only helps protect crop damage but also acts to prevent undue harm to other wildlife. Although toxic, the chemical's primary value is its ability to cause erratic flying and calling behavior of birds. This frightens other birds away and most of the flock leave the field unharmed. Avitrol also has other advantages over control methods now used. Explosive scaring devices are time consuming and difficult to maintain; shotgun patrols are expensive and toxicants such as strychnine can kill large numbers of desirable birds.

It Seems To Me

Christmas sewing is a tradition with many seamstresses. The holiday season will be here before you know it, and if you haven't already begun the Christmas sewing, you had better get busy.

Gifts from your sewing basket, made with tender, loving care, show your thoughtfulness and express the true Christmas spirit—a gift of yourself.

Magazines are full of ideas, and stores are featuring fabrics and trims to provide more projects than you care to consider for this year's deadline.

Clothing items are popular gifts. You can save precious dollars if you have the time and skill to make them. If you aren't sure of exact sizes, stick to items which don't require careful fit, such as robes, night clothes and accessories. Stretchy knits, too, eliminate the need for exact fit.

Don't forget the men of the family when you're planning handmade items. There are patterns available for ties, vests and sweaters.

Crocheted and knitted apparel are in fashion and all types of handcraft are prized today when we place high value on individuality. These items take time to make and unless you are faster than I, you won't have them finished for Christmas this year.

Handmade ornaments for the tree are a tradition in some households. Make one or two each year for your family, and for a favorite family on your Christmas list. These become prized decorations to recall fond memories each year.

Consider using fabric and fabric trim for Christmas wrappings. Sometimes they are less expensive than fancy paper. Leftover pieces of yarn, ribbon, lace or rickrack can be used for tying packages and for package trims. It's a good way to clean out the scrap box, too.

There is something about Christmas that brings out the creative touch in every homemaker. Let your sewing skills help make it a Christmas to remember.

Date Set For Annual Delmarva Soybean Meeting

Soybean growers will want to mark Thursday, Jan. 31, on their calendars. That's the date of the eighth annual Delmarva Soybean Meeting at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center, Salisbury, Md.

Robert Miller, extension agricultural agent for Wicomico County (Md.) and chairman of the meeting, says the day-long program will feature sessions on soybean production, research and marketing.

The Delmarva soybean meeting is sponsored by soybean processors, allied agricultural industries and the Cooperative Extension Services of Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

Watch For Soybean Diseases

Soybean producers should be on the lookout for certain fungus diseases. Pod and stem blight, brown stem rot and several root rots are likely to become more noticeable on soybeans at harvest-time, according to Dr. Robert Carroll, extension plant pathologist at the University of Delaware.

Pod and stem blight can be recognized by the presence of numerous small black spots that occur in rows along the stem and scattered over the pods. This disease spread rapidly during prolonged periods of wet weather and the spores will overwinter on infected plant material.

Brown stem rot is caused by a soil-borne fungus. Carroll points out that the disease usually starts in the roots and lower stem of soybeans early in the growing season. Since diseased plants may not display early symptoms, the only positive way to tell if plants are infected is to examine the core tissue of the lower six inches of the stem a few days before plants mature. In infected plants the central tissue will be brown; in healthy plants, this tissue will be white. Severely infected plants will lodge.

Root rots are often most noticeable in low-lying, poorly-drained fields, says Carroll. Plants will be stunted and the foliage may turn yellow then brown prematurely. Many pods will wither and fail to fill properly, resulting in substantial yield losses. If you pull out an infected plant, you will find a poorly-developed root system.

To control these fungus diseases, Carroll recommends plowing under crop refuse, avoid planting soybeans in fields where these diseases were prevalent in the past, use disease-free seed and plant more resistant varieties when available.

Conserving Energy In The Home

Did you realize that the population of the United States is about six percent of the world's population—yet we consume roughly 36 percent of the world's energy?

Much of this energy is used within the home, according to Ms. Barbara DeMesse, extension home economist at the University of Delaware. And, like everything else, the cost is going up.

Higher utility bills often bring a flood of complaints to the power companies. But Ms. DeMesse says there are two good reasons for the increase. First, power companies are having to pay more for energy. Second, consumers continue to buy bigger appliances and more of them. Think of the appliances we take for granted today that earlier generations only dreamed of: air conditioners, dishwashers, electric tooth brushes, freezers, garbage compactors, color television, to name a few. Obviously, prices for gas and electricity cannot be expected to stay the same under these circumstances.

There are many ways to conserve energy, and thus save money. Ms. DeMesse has several practical suggestions for consumers who wish to cut down on their energy consumption at home.

Turn out the lights when you leave a room for ten minutes or more. When you replace lighting in different parts of your home, consider fluorescent lighting. It lasts ten times longer than incandescent light bulbs, and is 50 percent cheaper to operate.

Television sets should be turned off when no one is watching. If you have an "instant-on" TV set, unplug it when not in use, since electricity runs through it constantly in order to give you the instant feature.

Following usage instructions with your appliances can make a big difference. Keeping them clean will also increase their efficiency. For instance, refrigerator coils should be vacuumed once a month. Defrost the refrigerator before ice has a chance to build up. Lint filters and traps should be cleaned with each use on washers and dryers.

When you cook, use the right size pan for the burner, or you're wasting energy. Ms. DeMesse recommends that you make good use of your small counter-top appliances in the kitchen. They are often more economical to operate than the range or oven. Cooler weather means that furnaces will be running more frequently. Now is the time to clean and check heating systems, for safety as well as efficiency. The recommended setting is 72 degrees during the daytime, and 68 degrees at night. Ms. DeMesse reminds consumers that each degree above 72 you set the thermostat will raise your heating bill about three percent!
