

"Some people will do anything for our fudge," even come out in the rain, as proved by the large numbers in the lobby of the Milford Hospital Saturday, May 18.

"IT NEVER FAILS..."

By Gloria Dill
Heavy morning showers which were all sold before noon. At the hospital lobby, meanwhile, volunteer nurses helped sell the various kinds of delicious fudge for which the fair is famous. Compliments ran high as those from neighboring towns, as well as Milfordians, crowded into the lobby to check out the well-stocked tables. In spite of the set-backs, everyone was in a good mood, and some humorous comments were overheard. "It never fails," said Sue Hatfield, of Milford, to her friend Jenny Frampton. "Everytime I make fudge, it rains." The Fair has been rescheduled for Sat., May 25. Look for full coverage in next week's Journal.

Area Little Leagues Under Way

Recently, with various ceremonies, the Little League baseball season opened. In Harrington alone, this organization involves over 170 boys, ranging in ages from eight to eighteen. There are also many adults and families involved. Baseball is the word at the Moose Home property on Rt. #13. All are involved in some form of the sport, from improvised stick bats and dirt clump balls, to the two games almost always in play. The ball gets rolling in March, when the boys register, try out, and become drafted along lines similar to that of major leagues. They go to four possible team areas: Minor League, ages 8-9; Little League, ages 9-12; Senior League, ages 13-15; Big League, ages 16-18. As soon as the high school season is completed, the Big League too will become active. (Continued on Page 8)

du Pont Praises Delaware Blood Bank

Congressman Pete du Pont (R-Del) has deep praise for the Blood Bank of Delaware in his official comments on a proposal to create an American Blood Commission Plan. Du Pont recently filed those comments with the Assistant Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Dr. Charles Edwards, in response from HEW on a proposal by a group of non-government medical organizations on how to coordinate an improved nationwide blood service system.

Du Pont asked HEW to seriously consider using the Blood Bank of Delaware as a model for the American Blood Commission to follow in setting up programs for the country.

Noted du Pont, "the Delaware Blood Assurance Program's performance shows that it is far more successful than the approaches being used in other areas."

The Delaware Congressman asked HEW to pay particular attention to their recruitment procedures which have resulted in a donor ratio that is eight times the national average. "In fact, they have been so successful that commercial blood operations have become unnecessary. This represents a giant step forward in protection of the public from the perils of unwholesome blood." One of the primary goals of the HEW proposal was to reduce the threat of transmittable hepatitis. Commercial blood operations are notorious for the high percentage of their blood recipients who receive hepatitis.

Du Pont said he was also favorably impressed with the innovative approach that spreads blood cost over the community. He said this provides the motivation necessary for such widespread participation.

The Blood Bank of Delaware provides blood coverage for its members in any hospital in the United States. It also affords immediate coverage to the participants, and there are no waiting periods for members of groups. Additionally, du Pont pointed out that the fees associated with the operation of this plan are minimal - $1 annually.

In his opinion, du Pont said, "The Blood Bank of Delaware fulfills all the goals of the program." He urged Dr. Edwards to give the Delaware group the consideration its proven record of success deserves.

In baseball the most valuable players were Russell Dill and Bob Jacobs. Sharon Cohee and Debbie Shulties accepted the awards for softball. In wrestling cheerleading Kathy Fournier and Lisa Masten were selected as most valuable. Lisa Callaway and Francie Pitts were the most valuable football-basketball cheerleaders. The bowling club also presented awards to its top bowlers. Among other awards presented, the two most improved bowlers were Linda Morris and Ron Motter.

The two awards awaited all evening were the Most Improved Athletes and the Mike Adams Award. The Moose Lodge of Harrington presents the former; the latter is a memorial Beverly Mack and Alan Welch received the Most Improved Athlete award.

The Mike Adams Award is presented to the senior athletes who best represent the qualities Mike Adams had in athletic competition which include dedication, desire, giving 100 percent, and pride. This year's recipients were Doreen Chaffinch and Ron Mosley. James Hogsten, athletics director for the high school, ended the banquet with a round of applause to the members of the Boosters Club.

On May 7 Mrs. Irene Roughley and her brother, T.E. Townsend, Jr., attended the Honors Day Convocation.

Impeachment Process

(Special Report) — The word "impeachment" has become part of our every day conversation, and because of this, a series of articles devoted to an explanation, historical background, and the meaning of the term will appear in The Journal.

Impeachment by definition means an act whereby a legislative body charges a government official (elected, appointed, or otherwise... but one who is actively serving his office) with misconduct. Impeachment is only an accusation, since an impeached official may continue to perform his duties until he has been tried and found guilty of misconduct.

Procedurally, the U.S. House of Representatives has the sole exclusive jurisdiction and power to impeach an officer of the U.S. Government with a majority vote required. When the House charges a Federal official with an impeachable offense, the matter is then referred to the U.S. Senate, where the Senate acts as a court to try the accused official. With the impeachment of a U.S. President, the Chief Justice of the U.S. acts as a presiding officer. Normally the presiding officer of the U.S. Senate is the Vice President of the U.S., however in cases of impeachment trials of the U.S. President, the procedure is to allow the Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court to act as the presiding officer. To do otherwise is deemed improper for there would be a conflict of interest in that the V.P. could be the next President. Historically, however, the Chief Justice has been a person who has generally been a close ally of the President, since the President nominates the Chief Justice for final confirmation by the Senate. Therefore, the President has a strong ally in his corner during such a proceeding. In the case in point, President Nixon was nominated his close friend Warren Berger to the high Judicial post.

It has been reported in recent months that President Nixon has all but invited and encouraged the impeachment mainly in an effort to bring the matter to a swift and final determination. Many feel that he has done this because he feels he can be found innocent with all charges dropped, and the wheels of government

Democratic State Committee

Democratic State Chairman, Ernest E. Killen, announced that the party's nominating convention will be held at the Dover Middle School on July 20. A meeting of the State Committee to certify delegates will be held the night before.

The convention will select candidates for the U.S. House of Representatives, Attorney General, State Auditor, State Treasurer and State Insurance Commissioner.

There will be a total of 194 delegates and an equal number of alternates. The delegates will breakdown as follows: New Castle County, 108; City of Wilmington, 31; Kent County, 25; Sussex County, 30. The alternates will breakdown on the same basis.

The deadline for filing by delegates will be June 4. Candidates will then have until June 10 to withdraw, if they so wish, and primary elections, if any are needed, will be held July 9. The same timetable will hold true for legislative candidates and candidates for county offices.

Each candidate will be required to put up two percent of his total salary of the office which he seeks as a filing fee. Killen said anyone having any questions regarding the timetable should contact Democratic State Headquarters in Dover or their respective subdivision chairman.

Chipman Band Goes To Hershey Park

The W.T. Chipman Junior Band departed at 6 a.m. Saturday morning enroute to Hershey Park, Pa., or "Chocolate Town U.S.A." The trip began under overcast skies and it seemed as if a miserable day was in store for the hard-working Chippys, but by the time the band arrived in downtown Hershey the sun was there to greet them.

The first item on the agenda was a tour through the animated "Chocolate World" where the students were acquainted with the chocolate making process from the cocoa beans on the plantations to the candy wrapping paper at Hershey. THEN ON TO HERSHEY PARK ITSELF...

Once inside the park area the band members enjoyed 33 thrilling rides for as many times as they wanted, a live dolphin show, the Al Alberts Musical Showcase and numerous other entertainment items. It was a fun day indeed for a well-deserving Chipman band.

The Chipman band would like to thank all chaperones, the band boosters association, and all persons who helped to make this trip a success.

A Trip In Time

The Court House on the Green

Entrance to Packet Alley

Greeters at Old Dutch House

Last weekend 50 miles and a time span of over 250 years were traveled simultaneously. The destination was New Castle, Delaware. This was not the New Castle at Hare's Corner, not the garish neon signs proclaiming the various eateries and lodgings, nor the orange guides to the airport with all its twentieth century hustle and bustle. A turn to the right at Hare's Corner on Rt. #13 onto Rt. #273 and a few miles later all that is left behind is a complete 18th century city appears.

Annually on the third Saturday in May (no conflict with Dover Days), there is "A Day In Old New Castle". Having never been, and considering the gas situation-expense, it was an ideal mini-vacation.

Founded as Fort Casimir by the Dutch in 1651, captured by Swedes in 1654, recaptured by Dutch in 1655 by Peter Stuyvesant, it became the Dutch capital of the Great South River (Delaware) region and was named New Amstel. After the British conquered the Dutch in 1664, the town was given to William Penn and assumed its present name. Penn first landed here in 1682. In its day the town served as the State capital of Delaware from 1776 to 1777.

Today it is clear that this colonial gem, virtually the same as it was in the 18th century, was a center of trade and travel, populated by lawyers, judges, government officials, people of culture and distinction. Three signers of the Declaration of Independence - George Read, George Ross, Jr., and Thomas McKean were citizens; famous visitors included the Marquis de Lafayette, Andrew Jackson, and George Washington.

Approximately several thousand viewed the forty plus homes, churches, and public buildings on Saturday. One can only be grateful that the suggestion to open these homes had ever been made.

This year marked the fiftieth anniversary of a project that began as a suggestion of Mrs. Francis de Haes Janvier (nee Anne Read Rodney) to have an "open house" tour of the historic homes to raise funds badly needed for repairs to the buildings of the Immanuel Episcopal Church. Her persistence won out over doubts and even a suggested alternative shad dinner. It now involves many town residents and the proceeds are divided among contributions to other churches and participating non-profit organizations as well as those buildings owned or leased by Immanuel Parish.

Rain almost threatened to dampen the day's activities, nevertheless, shortly after 10 a.m., church bells began to ring, officially beginning the day. The bells began a series of finds that grew as the day progressed. Located in the Immanuel Church, the bells are hand operated, being "changed" by members of The Bell Ringers of Immanuel Church and assisted by the Bell Ringers of Kent School, Conn. Following a 400 year old procedure, one person begins to change his bell, and gives instructions that are somehow heard over the bells. This all takes place in the tiny room under the church belfry. There are six bells in this church, being hung in even numbers and tuned to the octave. The bells change position on every stroke. These positions could be charted on a graph line. As the different patterns of lines have developed over the centuries they have become known as "methods", creating a "dance of sound" rather than a melody.

Many activities were on the Green, which is crisscrossed by brick walks and shaded by stately trees. It was here the Delaware Haslets were bivouaced. In colorful dress ranging from the famous blue to linsey-woolsey and ticking, they reenacted a typical day of colonial militiamen, not infrequently loading and firing their muskets. The Maypole dance and three concerts by madrigal singers, dressed in period clothes and performing period music highlighted other activities.

Of particular interest to many was the Read House, a Georgian mansion completed in 1801 by George Read II, son of one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and currently the home of Mrs. Philip D. Laird. It was worth the short wait to view the elegant interior and gardens.

The Read House is located on The Strand, a partly cobbled street bordering the Delaware River. Also here is Packet Alley, once a vital link in trade and travel between Philadelphia and Baltimore and part of the chief line of communication from north to south in earlier days.

Totally different is the Old Dutch House, oldest house in Delaware surviving in its original form of the 1600's. It, with several other homes in the town, is now a museum run by the New Castle Historical Society. A group dressed in Dutch costume conducted visitors through this small but charming home.

The Court House, Academy, and Arsenal on the Green all deserve mention and visitation to see for oneself. Since all the buildings on the Green (six) are state owned and belong to all Delawareans, it only enhances the feeling of pride one has viewing the American heritage first hand.

Much folklore surrounds such a place, and that is true of the Paulownia tree. Many are seen throughout the town and may be recognized by their blue bugle shaped blossoms and pod clusters. According to Mrs. Frederick Fulmer, a great help in the day's visit, local legend has it that Princess Paulowna of the Netherlands visited New Castle and was urged to bring seeds from the tree to help combat the summer heat. Her arrival in the winter was said to have caused her to discard the seeds in disbelief. Other theory states the seeds arrived from the Orient in the cuffs of sailors' trousers. Whatever the legend, the living proof is in evidence everywhere.

As a picture is worth a thousand words, personal inspection is invaluable. Only a pleasant and rewarding visit awaits those who make that "trip in time".

From the Frying Pan...??

In thousands of small towns across this country there frequently goes up the cry, most especially by the young, that there is nothing to do. It has possibly been heard in this area too; however, there are some people doing something constructive to combat the wail.

To an outsider, or one not involved, this program can appear to be very much like an iceberg—only the smallest part shows. There is much more involved than nine boys to a team. That is the sand lot, unsupervised baseball of the past.

Under the organization of Little League, a priceless opportunity is offered wherein the youths involved can learn some of the most important things in life—sharing in fellowship with team members and other peers, as well as having positive guidance by adults who are truly interested in seeing young people develop.

It is a giving-learning-exchanging experience, and that is as it should be. Although the underlying purpose is sometimes misplaced by the trimmings—uniforms, lights, lost or won games, flared or hurt feelings, that goal must remain. To use the old cliché, it is not who wins the game, but how the game is played. In the final analysis, that is life.

Everyone does not benefit from organized activities all the time, but sooner or later Donne's line "no man is an island" rings loud and true. It's time these unsung heroes who devote hour upon hour to the betterment of our youth, and therefore, community, are recognized. Hats (baseball, of course) off to them!

"no room at the Inn... but there is room on the rail"

Little Current won the 99th running of the Preakness... a stake race for 3 year old thoroughbreds which is run on the Pimlico course each year on the third Saturday in May. In 1873, a horse named Preakness won the feature race at the "Dinner Stakes" on the grounds of the Estate Pimlico, which set the stage two years later for what was to become the famed middle-jewel of the Triple Crown of thoroughbred racing.

When Jockey Miguel Rivera came to Baltimore on Friday night, he found he had a reservation at a hotel... but the room was taken. He had no where to go... finally the hotel located him a room in another hotel... "an eighth of a mile away". It seems that bad luck follows this Mexican jockey, for he had recently been removed from another horse who ran in the "Derby", for not giving him a good ride. This time he lucked out and he got Little Current and enabled him to make the famous ride. It was an "eighth of a mile away" the next day when he started his stretch run on Little Current to win the Preakness.

Reading about this "horse story" caused me to reflect on the situation not too far from the Pimlico course... Washington and the Watergate affair. For it appears to me that there isn't any room in Washington for the "bad guys" of politics. If anything good is coming out of Watergate, it is the emergence of the "good guys"... who are coming along the rail". The tapes are obviously hurting the President for they seem to portray Richard Nixon as a cynical person who hid behind the majestic veil of the Office of the Presidency.

this fall in Maryland. It is all over now for him.

But in the final lap, the Court under the strong and superb leadership of Judge John Sirica, one of 450 Federal Judges in the U.S. who was a little known judge prior to Watergate... so obscure until then and the son of a poor Italian immigrant... stood up to the most powerful man in this country and challenged him. He gave and continues to give him and others a post-graduate course in the academic side of the law. To me he is a Toscanini, orchestrating the case of separating the good from the bad.

On the other hand, I subscribe to the view that the Watergate Investigating Committee under Senator Irwin, its Chairman, did a lot of damage for the jury box was filled with some 20 million jurors... not just 12... who constantly heard hearsay evidence. The President from time to time however has praised Senator Irwin as a courageous hard-working Senator, but as a graduate of the Law School at Washington & Lee University, I never found in my Wigmore, Blackstone, Greenleaf and the like where that type of proceeding was proper. The proceedings were both shocking, and inflammatory to the mind and eyes of the beholder.

There are good men rising from the smolderings of Watergate... enough to make me believe that "there isn't any room at the Inn for those who abuse the government process... but there is always a way open if you follow it... the sure and honest way... and that is "along the rail".

THAT'S MY CHOICE... WHAT'S YOURS.

Days of Our Years

At the Mass in St. Bernadette's Church Sunday an announcement was made that the pastor, the Rev. John A. Corrigan, had been transferred to St. Peter's Church in New Castle. The transfer will take place May 29.

Maurice Pearson, 29, of 17 Dot St., Milford, was killed when his rented light plane crashed and burned near Harrington Saturday evening.

Herbert C. Denney, 68, of 65 Clark St., Harrington, died Monday at Milford Memorial Hospital of a heart attack.

Joseph William Bradley, 28, of Felton, was injured Saturday evening when the motorcycle he was riding went out of control along Rt. 12 west of Frederica.

Lois Larimore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Larimore was presented a scholarship worth $300 at the eighth annual reunion of the Harrington High School Alumni Association Saturday evening.

Mrs. Harold Schabinger entertained at a luncheon at her home in Felton. The occasion was the reunion of the Randolph-Macon Alumnae Association. Guests from Harrington were Mrs. George Thompson and daughter June, who will enter the college in Lynchburg, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Marvel of Virginia were recent guests of Mrs. John Masten.

Mrs. Lucy Knipper has returned here from a month's vacation with her family in Kentucky. While there she attended the wedding of her daughter, Betty, which took place May 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hyson and daughter, of Wilmington, spent the weekend with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Cain.

Mrs. Earl Sylvester, Mrs. Ernest Raughley, Mrs. C. Fred Powell and Mrs. Alley Parsons attended the play, "Camelot," in Wilmington.

After an invalidism of 22 years, Miss Caroline F. Sharp died early Wednesday morning at the home of her brother, William W. Sharp, 109 E. Center St., Harrington.

A.J. Greenhaugh, operating vice president of the Eastern Region in Philadelphia advises authority has been granted for the removal of one track between Pocomoke and Cape Charles, a distance of 61.8 miles of the Pennsy.

Memorial Day exercises will be held Sunday at Hollywood Cemetery by Callaway-Kemp-Raughley-Tea Post No. 7, American Legion.

ernment can "roll on once again". Of course here are factors in President Nixon's favor and that is the fact that there does not appear to be any impeachable offenses committed by him.

The Constitution is not clear in specific on all grounds for impeachment. "Treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors"... is the wording. Are we currently interpreting the language of the Constitution to be what we want it to be? When an official's views do not agree with our thinking or correspond with those of Congress or of the people in general, "Impeach him" seems to be the hue and cry. To let this creep into our political life seems to be the outer perimeter of revolution, and it is tragic. The impeachment process, however, over the first 100 years of the Constitution has had primarily political overtones.

The impeachment process is not limited to U.S. Presidents, Federal Judges or Officials. The States also have jurisdiction to try their officials, and the procedure is much the same as the aforementioned Federal process. The lower chamber (House) hears the charges, and the upper house (Senate) tries the impeached official.

What is the record for impeachment?

As for the federal situation, the U.S. House of Representatives has voted "articles of impeachment", the formal charge, on thirteen different occasions in the history of the U.S. In ten of thirteen cases the impeached official (defendant) has been a judge. Why such a high ratio of impeached officials being judges? It seems that Federal Judges are appointed for life terms. Much has been made in recent years with Justices of the U.S. Supreme Court, involving Justice Douglas. The U.S. House of Representatives led by Congressman Gerald Ford (now the Vice President of the U.S.) did attempt to bring "articles of impeachment" against Justice Douglas, but the action failed. In recent months, Vice President Ford has had to defend his position then as against Justice Douglas and now in favor of President Nixon... ("sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander".)

Of the 10 cases of impeachment, there have been four convictions of Federal judges. John Pickering of New Hampshire, a judge of the U.S. District Court, was impeached in 1803 for drunkenness and profanity on the bench. He was found guilty by the Senate and removed from the judgeship. West H. Humphries of Tennessee, a judge of the U.S. District Court, was impeached in 1862 and found guilty for supporting the succession movement and unlawfully acting as judge of the Confederate District Court. He was also removed from office. Robert W. Archbald, associate judge of the U.S. Commerce Court was impeached in 1912 for corrupt alliances with coal mine workers and railroad officials while in office. He too was found guilty and removed from office. Halsted L. Ritter of Florida, a judge of the U.S. District Court, was also impeached and removed from office.

Next week a more detailed study of cases with emphasis on President Andrew Johnson's case. Later the States with an investigation of our own state process.

The first estimates of 1974 acreages for harvest will emerge from a U.S. Department of Agriculture survey to be taken from May 22 to June 4.

B.R. Bookhout, in charge of the Maryland - Delaware Crop and Livestock Reporting service indicated that about 400 Delaware farmers will be personally contacted as part of the national total of 70,000 interviews. Additional information will be collected by mail from other producers.

The goals of the June Acreage, Livestock and Labor Survey, according to Bookhout, are to collect data on crop acreages for harvest this season and to determine mid year livestock numbers. Earlier a March survey indicated farmers plans for 1974 crops. The survey will determine acreages actually planted and producer's adjustments to changing markets and serious shortages of supplies. Livestock information will measure changes in numbers and help forecast livestock marketings.

The replies to the survey questions will provide information to help answer some very important questions: How large will the 1974 feed grain and soybean crops be? Will there be enough to meet expanding demand? Will we be able to maintain our high level of exports so vital to our nation's balance of trade?

Co-operation of Delaware producers contacted in this survey is very important since they are part of a national sample selected to represent a cross-section of U.S. agriculture. All information provided by farmers will be kept confidential and only state and national estimates will be published. Crop acreage and production estimates will be made public July 11 and livestock estimate releases will start with hogs and pigs on July 21.

Bagworms are not easy to control. They are easily killed by some insecticides when they are small but they are difficult to kill when full grown. Spray with Carbaryl (commonly known as sevin) when they are small as follows: Carbaryl 50% WP 2 tablespoons per gallon; Carbaryl 80% s. 1.5 tablespoons per gallon. Apply the spray when the young bagworms are first seen about June 1 in Delaware, and no later than the end of June. Thoroughly cover the upper and lower surfaces of the foliage. Be sure to protect honey bees from this spray as it is very toxic to them.

The use of Carbaryl sometimes leads to outbreaks of mites. You can check for mites by holding a piece of white paper under a branch. Shake the branch vigorously over the paper. If mites are present you will be able to observe them against the white background. If you have mites, use Kelthane according to label instructions.

Delaware Food Market Report

by Anne W. Holberton

The effects of recession and of inflation are the same on the consumer. How this comes out is there just isn't as much money to go as far in buying food, clothes, shelter and luxuries.

It's not news to anyone that wholesale prices rose at an annual rate of 15.6% in March, the fifth consecutive month with the rate of increase in the teens. The biggest price boosts came in metals followed by fuels. There was a drop in farm and food prices of livestock grains, raw cotton, eggs, fruits, vegetables and poultry.

Prices of foods in many instances have continued to decline—not a lot but a little. Even though this happened it is very unlikely food will ever again take as little of our income as it has for the past years.

The worldwide demand for and the worldwide shortage of foods have had a great deal to do with rising cost. Well over half of the cost of food as it is purchased in the grocery store is the marketing cost or the price spread as it is called by the economists. "The price spread in the market basket of domestically purchased farm foods rose 6.5% last year, a gain exceeded only once in the past 20 years and sharply above the annual average increase of 2.9% experienced in the past ten years" writes the Agricultural Letter.

Even though many promises have been made the whole outlook situation for food supplies is very much an "iffy" thing. However, if farmers do plant what they have said they plan to plant, if the weather co-operates, if there are no serious diseases or insect problems, then there should be increased supplies of food for the second half of this year.

In spite of this, higher fuel, manufacturing and processing costs can be expected to continue and this will make food costs go higher. As the Agricultural Letter suggested that a doubling of fuel costs could raise the price of source foods, depending on the type, from 7 to 13% at retail levels. That really gives us something to think about doesn't it?

This business of having food prices increase so rapidly has shocked many consumers so that they have changed their buying patterns. It is said consumers are now shopping more carefully, making a market list and using it, thus eliminating most of the impulse buying, shopping less frequently, preparing more foods from scratch at home and buying less meat. It is interesting that many people are apparently realizing that meat is not necessary for a good diet. The statistical evidence for the changes in consumer food buying are hard to come by, but there is no question that meat consumption is down sharply, 6% during 1973 according to the USDA.

It's a snap! Make it snappy! The little fastener used on clothing has added to our language. And no wonder. The snap is a great convenience—easy to attach and quick to fasten.

You would think anyone could sew on a snap, but some of them look a lot better than others. There is a right and wrong way to do it.

Which side goes on top? Sew the flatter part of the snap—the one with the ball or stud—on the top of the garment. The thicker socket side is sewn on the lower part of the garment. The snap will be less conspicuous this way.

If you're sewing a snap by hand, sew up through a hole of the snap and over the outer edge. Repeat for each of the four holes. If you sew from one hole to another, you will not get as tight a closure nor as flat a finish. If you really want a handsome job which lasts forever, use a buttonhole stitch.

In ready to wear, the snaps are usually sewn by machine and sewn from one hole to another because machines are set for this type of spacing and stitching.

You'll find covered snaps used on coats and suits and other places where an inconspicuous closing is desired, and the holding power of a large snap is required. The snap looks better when covered with a circle of the lining fabric. Cut two circles twice the size of the diameter of the snap. Make a row of tiny gathering stitches around the raw edge of the circle. Place the socket side of the snap face down in the center of the circle and draw up the gathering thread so the snap is completely covered. Fasten the thread on the underside. Do the same for the other half. The ball or the stud of the snap will work its way through the fabric as the snap is used. When sewing the snap to the garment, sew through the holes in the snap. You can feel them with the needle as you sew.

Another couturier touch you can borrow—use a hanging snap at the top of the zipper neckline placket instead of a hook and eye. Fasten the socket part of the snap to the right side of the neckline on the underside of the dress. Sew the ball part to the left side of the neckline through one hole only, leaving a thread long enough for the snap to reach the socket. Strengthen the long threads by covering them with buttonhole stitches.

The hanging snap idea also is used at the shoulderline of dresses to keep lingerie straps in place.

CHECK WIPER BLADES

Check wiper blades and arm tension for signs of winter wear and tear. Strong spring winds can lift weak wipers off the glass warns the Delaware Safety Council.

Trackmen Nip Falcons, Lose To Senators

Lake Forest's surprising trackmen ended the 1974 campaign with a record of three victories and five losses, after losing to Dover's talented and deep Senators, while prevailing over Dover Air's Falcons.

This season started inauspiciously as several key men did not report, including a 10.6 sprinter, a 4.50 miler, a 10.20 two-miler, plus a school record-holder in three events. These were: 120 HH hurdles (15.9), triple jump (44 feet, 9 1/2 inches) and long jump (21 feet, 9 1/2 inches). With these four lads in camp the Spartans would have been 5-3, or 6-2. Dover and Caesar Rodney would have been too strong. Which brings us to another point. Why do the Spartans take on the Senators and Riders every year and never get a crack at much weaker Seaford and Sussex Central? We'd like to see all Henlopen schools on the track schedule, as in baseball.

The Dover Air meet was a cliffhanger. Lake Forest was missing ten sure points since Jim Miner, shot put, and Joe Voshell, two miler, did not compete.

Ron Mosley led the Spartans by twice defeating Bob Baca in the 880 and mile runs. Mosley's mile time, 4:39.8, was his best ever. He did not lose a mile run all season.

Ron Dunlap, the most improved Spartan this year, scored 13 points by winning the 440, triple jump and getting second in the long jump. Dunlap may be Lake Forest's top scorer.

Charlie Scott won the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Terry Pettijohn shadowed Palmisano and Billings of Dover Air for much of the two mile, then pulled away with a best ever of 10:47.8.

Harry Benson anchored winning relay teams at 880 yards and one mile. Bob Kashner also did a great job on both of these. Kit Tilghman ran a very fine 440 leg on the mile relay.

Lee Dunbar had his best low hurdle time of the season, as he clocked 22.4 to tie for first in an upset. Lee and Greg Pritchett ran well in three races.

In the jumps Lake Forest received good efforts from Kevin Wooters, Bob Mullane and Grant Salisbury.

With two events to go, Lake Forest was trailing but won a thrilling mile relay in 3:45, the best clocking of 1974 for the four Spartans concerned. Now in the lead, the locals had to get a good effort in the discus since the Falcons had three giants throwing 250, 220, and 200, while Lake Forest had 147-pounder Matt Burgess and Jerry Thompson, a little larger athlete.

Hampton (220) of Dover Air, threw over 115 feet but Burgess spun the three pound, nine ounce platter 116 feet 1 inch and the improving Thompson turned in his finest competitive effort 112-5, to end Dover Air's hopes.

At Dover, Lake Forest's top performers were Charles Scott, Ron Dunlap, Ron Mosley, Greg Pritchett, and the mile relay team of Mosley, Dunlap, Kit Tilghman and Harry Benson, who ran 3:38, the best 1974 clocking by a second and a half.

Spartans Lose To Smyrna, Delmar

Smyrna and Delmar won close baseball games from Lake Forest by scores of 3-1 and 5-4, respectively. In each contest Lake Forest scored first. The Spartans own a 6-4 record at this writing.

Neal Smith drove in a run, as Smyrna and Lake Forest had six hits each.

Leadoff hitter Wayne Voshell had two hits in three trips for the losers.

Neal Smith singled in two runs, as Lake Forest led 3-0 over Delmar. The Wildcats fought back with four tallies in the same inning.

Bob Jacobs had two of the Spartans' five safeties. Delmar had six bingles.

LITTLE LEAGUE

Officially extending from May 5 to July 5, games are played daily, beginning at 6:15 p.m. When the regular season ends there is a tournament involving approximately 15 communities in Kent and Sussex. Playing on all-star teams (manager's selection), only one team will win out and serve as area representative to the state tournament. To date, one team from Harrington has gone to a state tournament. A national and international tournament complete the series.

Obviously such an organization needs just that. In Harrington those directly responsible are: Alan Baker, president; Leroy Calhoun, 1st vice president; Howard Brown, 2nd vice president; Ted Swafford, 3rd vice president; Leah Wheeler, secretary; Sandy Ryan, treasurer;

Tick Season Here Again

Tick season is here again, and with it the danger of a disease called Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever.

According to disease control officials in the Division of Public Health, spring and early summer are the "tick months" in Delaware. Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever, a disease which ticks carry, can be serious.

And, despite its name, this disease is also common in the Middle Atlantic States, including Delaware. Only one case of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever was reported in this state during 1972, but last year the number of reported cases rose to

On the East Coast, the disease usually affects children, because they are more likely to get tick bites in their outdoor activities. Parents should inspect children carefully for ticks after they return from playing in areas of possible tick infestation.

Tall grass and weeds provide support for ticks and their small rodent hosts. Individuals may obtain some protection from ticks by following these suggestions: avoid sitting on the ground or on logs in bushy areas; clear brush along paths; keep weeds and grass cut in recreation areas; keep lawns in residential areas closely cut and free of trash or debris. Insect repellents and protective clothing around the ankles, waist and neck are recommended.

If ticks become attached, the simplest method of removing them is by a slow, steady pull that will not break off the mouth parts and leave them in the wound. A drop of vaseline or fingernail polish rubbed over the tick will help remove it. Touching the lighted end of a cigarette or a freshly extinguished match to the tick also will sometimes cause it to remove its mouthparts.

The area of the tick bite should be thoroughly washed with soap and water, and an antiseptic should be applied. If the hands have touched the tick during removal, they should be washed.

Symptoms of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever include a sudden fever; inflammation of the eyes; and a rash, first on the extremities and then over the entire body, including palms and soles. With antibiotic treatment, recovery occurs within two to three weeks.
