Electric Bills Up

Delmarva Power & Light Company announced that the company will put into effect June 1, 1974, an increase in base electric rates of approximately 15% applicable to customers in Delaware. The increase will be prorated for usage on and after June 1 and will be put into effect under bond and subject to refund.

The company filed with the Public Service Commission of Delaware for an increase of approximately 19.8% in base electric rates on March 29, 1974. The amount which the company will put into effect on June 1, represents 75% of the requested 19.8% increase.

"If we delay putting increased rates into effect beyond June 1, the earnings of the company would continue to deteriorate and seriously impair our ability to raise the investment capital which is required to maintain our construction program," Robert D. Weimer, DPL president, said.

"In order to provide an adequate supply of electricity to our present customers and meet future power needs, the company must maintain a sound construction program. The company's existing generating capacity is simply not adequate to meet the increasing demands for power in Delaware, while providing an adequate margin of reserve generating capacity," Weimer said.

Bike Safety Clinic Scheduled

Are you driving a safe bike? This is the question the Cub Scouts of Pack 76 will be asking themselves and others in the community as they conduct a Bicycle Safety Clinic Sat., June 8, at the Asbury United Methodist Church parking lot from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. The clinic is free to all who own and operate a bicycle in and around Harrington.

Offered by the Cub Scouts as a community service project, the clinic will feature inspection stations to check up on such mechanical details as proper size, handlebars, frame, wheels, tires, bearings, chain and guard, brakes and accessories. Trooper William Porter of the Delaware State Police will be on hand to approve the final inspection. Forms to be used as inspection checklists will also be provided by the State Police, who expect mandatory bicycle registration to become a thing of the near future.

Individual inspection stations will be manned by Cub leaders, parents, and sponsors. There will also be a repair station to make minor, on-the-spot adjustments.

Offered by Pack 76 as its part of a nationwide Cub Scout emphasis on safe bicycle driving, it is especially aimed at those who fall in the eight to ten age group - among the most accident-prone. However, the Cubs want to stress that the clinic is offered free as a community service. All bike owners are urged to participate.

The Den leaders and mothers hope to have refreshments available for sale to those who are waiting to have their bikes inspected.

Impeachment Process

In the previous articles dealing with impeachment, it was shown through the handling of the sedition trials by Supreme Court Justice Samuel Chase, his impeachment, and finally how the U.S. Senate in his trial dealt a lasting blow to the impeachment of judges or justices. This was done on political grounds. It also established an indelible mark on the importance of the Bill of Rights and the 1st amendment to the U.S. Constitution... freedom of speech, press and assembly.

We have seen in the development of this article that most articles of impeachment have been politically motivated. Thus it was with Andrew Johnson, his own worst enemy. His one great opportunity was that of leading the nation at a time when leadership was needed, and it was this central issue that became his downfall.

His greatest weakness was his inability to throw off public opinion and remain unmoved by it. This trait was a sharp contrast to what Lincoln held public opinion to be... "Public opinion (Lincoln said) in this country is everything". Johnson, on the other hand, seemed to thrive on opposing the public will.

Looking at his background it is obvious why he was known as being cynical and hard to get along with. He was born a poor white in southern aristocracy and all his life he lived in defiance to the dominant southern belief that leadership belonged to the plantation aristocracy.

He was plain-featured and unimpressive. He had worked in his early adult life as a tailor's apprentice and then as a self-taught Tennessee politician.

The keys to a brand new Sussex County Bookmobile have been given by Governor Sherman W. Tribbitt to Sussex Lynch, from Selbyville, who was instrumental in bringing the new vehicle to the County.

The new $26,780 bookmobile will serve Sussex County exclusively, replacing the old bookmobile which was long in need of replacement.

Representative Lynch noted that the new bookmobile is now in service and Sussex residents can call the Division of Libraries to determine the vehicle's route.

City Council Views Reese Avenue

After a personal inspection of Reese Avenue by the City Council prior to the meeting Monday night, Mayor Minner called for "hard, fast action" on the chucked street. Council members also inspected possible alternate routes for delivery trucks to the present Burris plant. One such route is the dirt road that is the town's southern boundary and which is being used by construction vehicles for the addition to the Burris plant. This road is located on the town side of the substation, on the Farmington Road.

A committee composed of councilmen Jack Wyatt, John Satterfield, and William Griffith were appointed by the mayor to work further on the Reese Avenue problem.

grave which prevented friendly relations with even his political supporters. He had a grim look, always "with no sunlight in it", with a sternness and tightness that generated an air of unease. This all stemmed from a deep-seated feeling of insecurity, for he was completely illiterate when he reached adulthood. It was his school teacher wife who tutored him and taught him how to write. He apparently never forgot these moments of insecurity.

As a result, he lacked the art of managing men, and he tossed aside the important weapon of a politician... that of face-saving. After Lincoln's death and his ascension to the Presidency, he was besieged by advisers. He would listen silently and gravely to all of these men... silence implies consent. Later when he gave his own decisions, men like Senator Charles Sumner of Massachusetts and Thaddeus Stevens of Pennsylvania felt they had been tricked and fooled.

When Johnson was elected Senator from the new State of Tennessee, he defied the sentiment of his constituents and refused to join the succession movement. Later when Tennessee was occupied by Union Army, Lincoln appointed him military Governor of Tennessee.

In a spirit of continuing to set himself apart from the majority, he acted in contrast to the feelings of the North which generally felt the South should be punished. Despite the feeling, Johnson forged ahead with his program of restoring the southern states to the Union. Then in May, 1865, he issued, without warning a proclamation of amnesty to all former rebels welcoming them back into peaceful fraternity. Through this act he entrusted the formation of the new government in the South to them. The southern states returned to what they were before the war. Lincoln had taken the South along slowly under reconstruction, realizing its great economic and social losses. To institute a rapid change would mean a repudiation by the South. Johnson, on the other hand, moved too quickly and thus alienated as he went.

His unwillingness to deal with public needling was another factor leading to his downfall. This began with Lincoln's second Inaugural Address. Johnson appeared before the Senate in what appeared to be an inebriated state and made a long Mon., May 3, the Harrington Rotary Club hosted Miss Maria Teresa Victoria Justina Gomez-Bernardo Villar of Leon, Spain.

Miss Gomez-Bernardo Villar was introduced by Mrs. Leon Kukulka who first briefed the gathering on the AFS program. The program raised approximately $2,000 this year through the walkathon which will enable its continuation. A brief talk was given by Miss Villar and she also showed slides of her native land. She enjoyed mountain climbing since she lives but a short distance from the Mountains of Europe. While here she traveled from Canada to Florida. She leaves for home on June 26.

JOHN PARKS MADE FEW BRIEF REMARKS

Mrs. Kukulka was called upon to bring to date the status of the Polish sailor who was injured in a fall while aboard a Polish fishing vessel off Lewes. She was the one who volunteered to visit and comfort the young man while he was hospitalized in Lewes from the 31st of December 1973 through the 11th of February. The young sailor was returned to Poland where he is still convalescing from the broken hip. The Kukulka family lent their time and attention to this young man which contributed a great deal to his being able to recover. The sailor and the Kukulka family still communicate and exchange gifts as they did when he was hospitalized in Lewes. A recent gift the young man sent to the Kukulkas was a "rock music record" in Polish.

Brownie Scouts Hold "Fly-Ups"

The big event in the life of a Brownie Scout is "Fly-Up" Day when she gets her wings and crosses the bridge into Junior Scouts, Wed., May 29, was the big day for Harrington Brownies when they met at Asbury Methodist Church with Junior Girl Scout Troop No. 879.

It was a very impressive ceremony beginning with reciting by all scouts, the "Pledge of Allegiance", the "Girl Scout Promise" and singing "America". It was followed by the Brownies forming a circle on one side of Collins Hall and the Junior Scouts forming a horseshoe at the other. The "fly-ups" left their Brownie circle and received their Brownie wings from Mrs. Louise Apte, Acting Leader of Brownie Troop No. 684. The "fly-ups" were then met in the middle of the stage by their new Junior Scout sisters. As they stood between the American flag and the Junior Troop flag, they put on their Junior Scout hats, said the Girl Scout Promise and were escorted to the Junior Troop. They then became part of the Junior Scout horseshoe and were welcomed into Junior Girl Scout Troop No. 879 by Mrs. Barbara Evans, leader.

Following this Mrs. Evans awarded patches to her Junior Scouts who attended Camp Todd May 10, 11 and 12, near Denton, Md.

Each Junior Scout presented each Brownie and "Fly-Up" with a Friendship Stick personally made by herself. The purpose of it is to promote friendship and understanding and she gives it as a token of friendship to someone different through race, religion, age, handicap, etc. "This little stick means 'friendship' of a very special kind, to a 'friend' you know who is really great and very hard to find."

All Scouts formed a huge circle and the Juniors taught the Brownies new games and performed another.

Together all Brownie and Junior Girl Scouts ended the ceremony with singing "Make New Friends But Keep The Old" and "Taps".

Several parents and friends attended the ceremony and many of them stayed for a picnic dinner. It was a day that will long be remembered by all the girls present, especially the "Fly-Up".

The girls taking part in the program from Brownie Girl Scout Troop No. 684 and Junior Girl Scout Troop No. 879

Mansion Near Masten's Corner

By Gloria Dill

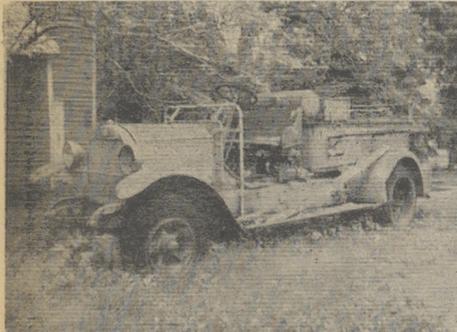

The Vogl house rests somberly among the trees like a castle on an English moor. Everything, including the original furniture, is handmade.

The foyer of the house is probably the most beautiful area. An antique chair sits beneath an electric clock.

With leftover building materials, Mrs. Vogl molded lions and deer for her little park.

This old fire engine was originally bought to help with irrigation on the Vogl farm.

The year was 1908. Mr. and Mrs. John A. Vogl had just arrived in Louisiana from their native Germany and were looking for a place to settle. Upon hearing of land for sale in Delaware, the family moved north to make their home in what is now called Masten's Corner, between Harrington and Felton. Three months later their farmhouse burned down and the family was forced to sleep in the hayloft. Neighbors provided a bed for the mother.

It was a time of planning and rebuilding. They wanted to farm, but the years had left the dirt hard and unfertile. Mrs. Vogl said to her husband, "The land is poor. Let it rest." They decided to raise chickens, and soon the money was coming in. The family had grown to twelve. Time was passing and an old idea began tugging at Mrs. Vogl's mind. As she traveled through Europe, the woman had collected many ideas from the many styles of beautiful homes. In her vivid imagination, Mrs. Vogl had constructed the home she wanted. There were no blueprints. She simply related her ideas to her husband and he began to build under her directions. "She had pictured the completed house in her mind, and only needed to put it to practice."

The house took three years to build, and to Mrs. Vogl it was the realization of a dream. Each room is reminiscent of the architecture she had admired in the Old Country.

The outside of the house is made of a cement composition known only to its builders. The wide stone steps, graced by tall pillars, lead into the huge foyer, which is perhaps the most beautiful part of the house.

The wall to the left of the stairway is painted to simulate a lake at sunrise. As the steps curve downward, the calm lake tumbles over the rocks supporting it and becomes a breath-taking waterfall ending at the foot of the stairs. Along the front walls and just under the French windows Mrs. Vogl painted the railing from the deck of the ship which had brought the family to this country. "Thirty posts," she had said, "for the thirty days it took us to get to America."

To the left of the foyer is the music room. An upright piano sits at one end and an old pump organ rests in the opposite corner. Huge carved wooden cabinets hold the stringed instruments, and on the floor beside them is a giant silver tuba. They are a reminder of the time when the room reverberated with sound, for the Vogls had an orchestra within their own family. Each of the ten children played an instrument: Alex, the tuba; Otto, the oldest, and Levi, the youngest, on the cornet; Ernest, the fute; Wilemena, the viola; Elsie, the cello; Frieda, the violin; Felix, the trombone, and Alphonzo, the trumpet. When a string broke, however, the music temporarily ceased. "Each cello string cost a dollar, a lot of money then. You had to save to get a new one."

Upstairs, the four bedrooms also reflect the creativity of Mrs. Vogl. One room in particular she refers to as "my trip to Florida." The room is on the side where the sun shines brightest, and on these walls the artist carefully painted graceful palm trees. In the upper left hand corner is an angel because "it seems as if it should be there, among all this."

The outside of the house retains the same magic of the old world. In the yard is an old smoke house (shown) and a green building which was to be their home just after the fire. In the front is a little park. The iron gates leading inside are made from parts of an old windmill. Nestled among the plants and the trees are stone animals,

Mr. Vogl made from the leftover cement. With the addition of a huge stone barn, the estate was finished.

Today the house stands in quiet elegance among cars, trucks, and the latest farm machinery. A modern kitchen and bathroom have been added, and a television set rests against the Wilmington can boast of its Winterthur, and Dover can claim the house of John Dickenson, but there is a mansion in Masten's Corner, and it stands as a tribute to an age when craftsmanship was foremost, and people took pride in the beauty that they could produce.

Though the steps are beginning to crumble, the pillars stand strong. Mrs. Elsie Rouse, who was a child when the house was being built, poses in front of her beautiful home.

Mrs. Rouse and her brother Alex pose in front of their huge stone barn.

Mrs. Rouse demonstrates how a smokehouse works.

"Summer '74"

When speed is considered as a factor in our accidents, we should never fix a definite limit in our minds such as 80 MPH, or 60 MPH, or in some cases not even 40 MPH. Every motorist must realize that regardless of the posted speed limit, the SAFE SPEED at which he should drive is determined by many things that can change with each individual mile driven.
 Walter E. Nedwick, the Governor's Representative for Highway Safety, advises that safe speed depends upon weather conditions, on road and traffic conditions, the mechanical condition of your car and especially on your own physical condition. Anything less than perfection in any of these factors means it's time to slow down, and that the safe speed for that particular time or location may be a speed far under any limits posted on the roadway.
 When the limits of SAFE SPEED are passed, death moves nearer with every upward move of your speedometer needle because, the control you have over your car is less than safety demands.

HARRY G. FARROW, JR., Publisher

... who has been shooting artillery rounds ...

During the past two weeks much in the way has been discussed concerning the three groups regarding the Reese Avenue, Harrington affair ... the citizens of Reese Avenue, Burris Food, and The City Council of Harrington.

The surface of Reese Avenue has reached a point of almost total impass. It would appear that the North Viet Cong and the Chinese Bandits have all zeroed their heavy artillery and mortars on Reese Avenue.

It has become a very pathetic and tragic affair, for all concerned. It requires really and truly a getting together of all the parties for "equal time" so that each may present his side to the other collectively ... this is known as balancing the equities.

Earlier the citizens of Reese Avenue came to the council meetings with clean hands believing that their neighborhood would not be totally disrupted after decades of a sleepy existence. They lodged no objections to the construction of the Burris Plant, being led to believe that only a few trucks would use Reese Avenue. Thus in a spirit of cooperation and good will, known qualities of our Townspeople, they relied on this.

The construction of an alternate route was suggested but whether it was or wasn't approved is unknown. The reason this came out was the fact that Reese Avenue was getting in bad shape then. Alfred G. B. Mann, former City Manager, was quizzed at length about the situation on Reese Avenue. He had also been a member of the Planning and Zoning Commission at the time. In order to support truck traffic on Reese Avenue he pointed out, the need existed for some reconstruction or resurfacing work on Reese Avenue. A decision should have been made right then, like "... how much is it going to cost", question often asked by Councilman C. Tharp Harrington, and it is a good question. He frequently offers good judgment.

Now the situation has developed to the extent that something must be done to Reese Avenue. I had a short phone conversation this past week with Jack Burris, President of Burris Foods. He indicated his concern about the street, and although he remained calm throughout the interview, Burris indicated that other drivers of other company trucks are beginning to complain about the street (which is the only access to the Burris Plant). I made the offer to Burris to have three parties meet and with equal time be permitted to express their position. I was not able to contact Jack Harrington, City Manager. This was not his fault, but that of the Publisher in not being able to schedule an interview.

The position the City finds itself is one where there are not enough funds to go around to take care of all the needed projects in the City. My position in this matter is as follows: realizing there isn't enough money to go around I feel that both Burris and the Reese Avenue residents have the right of immediate attention to Reese Avenue by patching the many holes on the street with hot mix or cold patch. Even though the street surface is composed mainly of tar and chip (which does not hold up under truck traffic) the efforts will be beneficial. The patching of the holes will cut down on the noise caused by the trucks running over the holes. I feel this temporary measure will greatly reduce the critical situation.

There have been other theories put forth to solve this problem. One that I have heard is the rerouting theory. Now this would be fine in principle, but Mr. Burris has completed his plant ... at least the first phase ... and placed it where it is so as to utilize Reese Avenue.

To reroute traffic would only be possible if the new route compliments the present arrangements. To do to the contrary would surely work an unjustified burden on Burris. The time to have done this would have been before Burris construction began.

A new route would be costly ... if possible to build ... for there could be a drainage problem with the construction of a new street ... due to the distance necessary to cover from the Plant to the Farmington Road (westerly direction) or to the Fairground road (southerly direction) by following what is believed to be an existing easement along the railroad. The benefits derived would not be commensurate with the costs involved in such a project. The only access to Burris now is on Reese Avenue. Efforts should be made now to correct the problem, even if they are only temporary.

FURTHER ADVICE OFFERED AT THIS TIME IS - SAVE YOUR MONEY. - IT MAY BE WORTH SOMETHING SOMEDAY. THAT'S MY CHOICE ... WHAT'S YOURS?

BASEBALL AND BETTER BOYS

There has been a lot said here recently about improved activities at the Moose Home on Rt. 13 for your benefit and mine, and our community at large. However, we parents and relatives of the boys involved can still do a better job of attendance and contributions to this major movement which definitely reflects the low criminal rate of our commonwealth.

As mentioned in May 23rd issue editorial (From the Fraying Pan ??) "our hats are off" to the unsung heroes who devote so much of their time and efforts for us;

BOY

For the time when a boy is in danger
Of going a little bit wild
Is when he's too young to be married
Too old to be known as a child.

A bird of the wild grass thicket
Just out of the parent tree flown,
Too large to keep in the old nest,
Too small to have one of his own.

When desolate, 'mid his companions,
His soul is at stake to be won,
'Tis then that the devil stands ready
To get a good place to catch on.

TROOP NO. 879

The meeting of May 21 consisted of Junior Scouts carrying out a service project for the Asbury Methodist Church. IMPEACHMENT speech about his humble beginnings while seemingly bobbing and weaving. The President, Cabinet members and Congressmen were embarrassed by this display. Research by historians has proven that Johnson was a light drinker. Prior to his embarrassing speech, he had taken liquor to steady his nerves. He was just getting over an attack of typhoid fever and felt weak.

Before entering the Senate floor he asked for liquor. Either his weakened state or his sensitivity to alcohol betrayed him. Although he was never again seen in public like this, his opponents never let him forget it.

As a frontiersman he liked to give stump speeches, but he allowed himself to be bothered by hecklers. His retorts further served to work against him. Next week: Johnson's Congressional problems and impeachment.

SPRING FEVER

Don't let spring fever involve you in a crash, warns the Delaware Safety Council. Daydreaming behind the wheel may result in a crash.

Harrington Now In Harness Tracks of America, Inc.

There was plenty of good news of the officials of Harrington Raceway this spring as they concluded their most successful meeting in the 29-year history of the half mile oval. In the process, the all-time single night handle and attendance figures were eclipsed as a crowd of 3487 pushed $201,910 through the machines on April 13 to mark the first time ever that the handle topped the $200,000 figure.

Track President Herman C. Brown had another major announcement of interest to area harness enthusiasts, when he revealed that Harrington Raceway was recently voted into the Harness Tracks of America, Inc., joining some of the leaders in the industry such as Brandywine, Roosevelt Raceway, Yonkers Raceway, Scioto Downs, Liberty Bell Park, The Red Mile and Western Harness, Inc., among others.

The H.T.A. is one of the most prestigious organizations vital to the harness sport with the interests of the spectators and the contestants of highest concern. The corporation was formed to promote and advance the sport of harness racing and to assist member tracks in the preservation of the sport's integrity. Herman Brown was elated with the decision of the H.T.A.'s Board of Directors saying "Harrington Raceway will be a contributing member of the Harness Tracks of America and the membership will be an invaluable aid to our continued growth and our efforts to provide the very best of racing for our patrons".

Harrington Raceway will conduct a 42 night fall meeting from Sept. 6 through Nov. 2.

"Summer '74"

Every highway crash, and every death and injury it may produce, has one or more very real cause. The causes may lie in the road, the car, the driver or possibly all three. The crash produced is not an act of fate but is the climax of a set of identifiable failures in the driving system.

According to Walter E. Nedwick, the Governor's representative for Highway Safety, the most easily identified causes are those of driver irresponsibility. The six most frequent accident causes are driving while intoxicated; refusal to yield right-of-way; following too closely; violating speed limits; driving on the wrong side of the road; and ignoring traffic signs and signals.

Mr. Nedwick advises that if all motor vehicle operators will practice good driving habits, observe all laws and show courtesy to the other drivers, "Summer '74" can be an accident free summer.

TOWN AND COUNTRY TOPICS

DAVE WOODWARD
KENT COUNTY AGENT

W.T. McAllister, Extension Farm Ecologist at the University of Delaware, recently discussed financial planning for farmers in 1974 facing high production costs and uncertain prices for the crops they produce. Mr. McAllister commented on the wide fluctuation of commodity prices in the past 18 months. Also the months ahead could be just as wild because the nations corn and soybean crops have been threatened by excessive rains. Corn planting got off to a good start in many areas but when the crop was about half planted the rains came. While forward contracting of crop and livestock can minimize some short run uncertainty, longer term financial planning is tough. Here are some of Mr. McAllister's ideas for your consideration.

First, base your financial plans on reasonable prices. When prices are high and incomes are up, it's easy to overspend on capital purchases. Put another way, don't let optimism about future prices force you into an excessive debt load with high fixed costs. That's not saying that you should shy away from new debt. If you can pay it off at reasonable prices it's usually a good investment.

Second, there are several programs for borrowing money that can reduce the risks of price uncertainty. There are loans that don't have prepayment penalties which enable extra payments to be made in good years. That way you have equity built up if prices tumble in the future.

There are also future payment plans that allow you to pay several times your annual installment into a reserve fund. Money in the fund earns you the same interest you're paying on the loan. This way the nest eggs against a drop in earnings doesn't result in the loss of interest on funds put aside for emergencies. Other ideas for living with high costs and uncertain prices are:

Protect your position on grain and livestock operations. Get professional advice on how to lock in a selling price on livestock you are raising for market.

Allow for a cushion between your income and what it will cost to live, operate, and meet principal and interest payments.

A good figure is about 15% of your income uncommitted to family living and fixed payments.

On expenditures for capital items, try to match the years of payment with the useful life of the asset. If loan terms are too short, repayment can be a problem in lean years; if they are too long, it's like paying for a dead horse—you're paying for something worn out.

Work with the minimum of lenders. Ask them to develop a complete financial plan so that you can satisfy your long term and short term capital needs, yet allow you a good rate of growth.

Above all, set some performance and financial goals and have a plan for reaching these goals and periodically review and up-date your plan and the goals you have set.

Grain & Forage Crops Guide Available

High crop yields just don't happen. It takes careful planning and proper management to produce good field crops.

Field crop producers are faced with many decisions concerning soil conditions, tillage practices, varieties, fertilization, weed control, insects and diseases. A wrong decision concerning one factor in production can often result in reduced yields.

To help Delaware Farmers with their field crop programs, the co-operative extension service at the University of Delaware has issued a new crops guide. Grain & Forage Crops Guide 1974-75 is divided into sections on corn and soybean production, small grains, alfalfa and pastures, sunflowers and no-till farming. Growers will also find material on soil conditions, how to control Johnsongrass, seed treatments, nematode control and a guide to calibrating spray equipment.

Extension bulletin 108 is authored by Frank Boys, extension entomologist; Dr. Robert Carroll, extension plant pathologist; John McDaniel, extension specialist in agricultural chemicals, and Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist. Copies are available at county extension offices.

Delaware Food Market Report

This year promises at least partial relief from some of the extreme conditions that have dogged the vegetable industry for the past two years. Weather has been better, supplies of fresh vegetables including onions are more generous, and processors may do some inventory rebuilding next fall. Dry bean growers are sharply boosting their acreage. Even sweet potato growers are shedding their history of sagging acreage for a 1974 expansion. And the Cost of Living Council has lifted the lid on unprocessed vegetable prices.

The lid-lifting comes at a time when stocks of canned vegetables are the lowest in years, and processors are essentially bidding their time now until the new pack gets underway. In the last few months they have been raising prices in small but frequent increments, and are most likely to keep doing just that for the remainder of this season. In fact, several big firms have told the Cost of Living Council they would refrain from major price bursts when ceilings come off.

Stocks of frozen vegetables are higher by 1/4 than the light stocks of last year while canned goods remain tight. Some sharp price increases for canned vegetables are very likely in store, but they will come when the 1974 packs hit the supermarkets next fall and winter.

Growers are posting some dramatic acreage plans for boosting vegetable output for the new pack. But prices will be much higher because contract prices will be influenced by higher fuel, seed, and other production costs, and farmers in the major vegetable processing areas have found several attractive crop alternatives this season.

What about meat prices? The wholesale market continues to show weakness, as supplies marketed by producers have exceeded buyers needs. Hog prices at midwest markets have fallen in the past two weeks and have been joined by lower cattle prices. Storage stocks of meat are increasing with build-up of marketings and failure of retail distributors to purchase available supplies.

Despite liberal marketing at present, the outlook for June and the summer is not as favorable. Meat and poultry prices generally rise in the hot weather months. The number of cattle on feed and the number of hogs on farms indicate the marketings will not be as liberal as they have been. Thus, prices are expected to go up during the vacation months.

Prices for broilers, turkeys and eggs in recent weeks were near or below most producers growing and processing costs. The cost of many items used in poultry and egg production continues upward but feed prices have eased. The level of poultry and egg production during the balance of 1974 will heavily depend on feed costs, which have recently accounted for around 75% of total production costs for poultry and eggs.

IT SEAMS TO ME

Janet Reed
Extension Clothing & Textiles Specialist
University of Delaware

What is the test for a good fitting garment? Comfort is probably the final evaluation, but how do you achieve a comfortable fit?

Seams and darts are used to mold a flat piece of fabric to our individual body contours. Seams are placed in a garment to allow ease of movement with a close-to-the-body fit. For example, armhole seams are placed at the armhole joints so that the arm can move freely without binding. If this seam is too far out on the shoulder, it creates the effect of binding because it interferes with arm movement. In fitted styles, the waistline seam is most comfortable at the natural waistline. Shoulder seams and side seams are shaped to follow body contours and are clues to proper fit. The shoulder seam should follow the highest line of the shoulder, and side seams should appear to fall straight down the sides of a garment. If side seams of the skirt swing to the back or to the front, it is an indication that the body of the dress does not fit properly.

Darts tuck up fabric so that the garment can be shaped to body curves. Therefore, the dart should be aimed to throw fullness where it is needed. Bustline darts that are too high create bulges of fabric above the bustline.

Fabric clues are clues to improper fit. A horizontal fold of fabric above the neckline usually is an indication the garment is tight at the neckline. A fold of fabric between waist and tummy means that fabric should be released over the tummy. This horizontal fold of fabric also may be seen above shoulder blades, and indicates that more fabric ease should be allowed at the shoulder blades.

Diagonal folds of fabric are further clues to improper fit. Trace the diagonal fold to its source and you'll find that the garment is too tight at one or the other end of the diagonal. Fabric should be smooth on the figure when the body is not in motion.

Lake Forest Represented In Blue-Gold Game

Lynn Ann Leonard, to be a representative of the Gold Court, Francie Pitts, representative cheerleader, and James Miner, co-captain of LF football team, have become eligible to take part in the Blue-Gold Football Game, to be played August 17 at Newark. All will represent the Gold.

Mosley Breaks State 880 Record To Finish 2nd Richter Sets Junior Olympic 880 Mark

Ron Mosley, Lake Forest's senior running ace, capped a great competitive year by breaking the state record in the 880 yard run, although he finished second in the race.

Mosley led Lake Forest to a state cross-country championship last fall then broke Chris Wetherhold's school record in the 880, when he clocked 2:00.4 in the Henlopen Conference championship meet.

At Newark Tatnall's Tom Melvin was the favorite since he had three clockings of two minutes flat. Mosley sped around the University of Delaware's all-weather oval in 1:58.3, to Melvin's 1:57.9. Delaware State great, Emory Howell, held the old state record of 1:59.1 set three years ago. Ron had earlier supplemented Howell as Henlopen Conference recordholder.

Melvin has been competing and practicing on Tatnall School's all-weather oval this campaign, while the second-place Spartan has had to do his training on Chipman School's third-class layout. If these athletes had traded schools in September Melvin would not have broken two minutes and Mosley would have recorded a 1:56.

Lake Forest scored in six events and tallied 10 points, a feat that wouldn't have seemed possible when the locals started practice in March.

Jim Miner, who set a Lake Forest record of 49 feet, 1 inch in the shot put, threw 47 - 2 1/4 for fifth place, just a little more than three feet away from taking home all the marbles.

Joe Voshell clocked 10.40 for fourth place in the two mile run, while Harry Benson was fifth in the mile.

Kit Tilghman, Mosley, Benson and Ron Dunlap were fifth in the mile relay with 3:39.1.

Bob Kashner, Craig Kashner, freshman Paul McClellan and Kit Tilghman were fifth in the two mile relay in 9:10. This quartet cut 15 seconds off their qualifying time at Dover.

Mosley and Grant Saulsbury are graduating. If everyone else returns look for great improvement in 1975. Another factor that will guarantee progress is the establishment of a track at Lake Forest. Construction has started. If it's completed by next March, look for Lake Forest to be on the plus side of the ledger again.

Meanwhile, Mosley's great 1:58.3 is probably the best of the 20 Lake Forest School's records and may last for a few years.

couldn't keep. He's clocked a fine 2.21, as a seventh grader, which shattered the old Delaware mark of 2.30. Unfortunately a Dover Air eighth grader did 2.20.

Saturday David was not to be denied. After scorching the first quarter in 63 seconds, which would have won the 440 yard run, Richter hung on gamely to record an excellent 2:17. The runnerup came across in 2:28. With a little competition the Canterbury canterer might have neared 2:15. To top it off, Richter is probably a long way from being in top condition. After a great win against high school competition in the 70-man Salisbury State College jayvee cross-country invitational, he hurt a foot, was laid off for five months and only recently resumed training.

Lake Forest battled a thousand in Wilmington. Two Harrington students made the trip and grabbed first place awards. Maurice "Reese Cup" Coverdale is only 11 years old and is very small. But, he's a veteran distance runner (two years) and he's already competed in Salisbury, Wilmington, New York City, Philadelphia, Camden, N.J., Glassboro, N.J. and in numerous Delaware towns.

Coverdale added to his growing collection of awards by running away from the 10-11 field in a new personal clocking of 2:43 for the half mile run. Coverdale, at 10 was 10th in that 70-entry Salisbury race of runners up to 19-years old.

Jackie Guyton, age 12, has been running the sprints, as

Spartan Nine Loses Final Two Starts

Lake Forest's baseball team, coached by Bill Falasco and Bob Dill, dropped a 2-0 decision to pennant-winning Caesar Rodney, ending the regular season with a 7-5 log. Four other Henlopen teams had a similar record creating a five-way tie for the third and last birth in the state tournament.

The Spartans were eliminated from this quintet when Cape Henlopen beat the locals 8-4 in a playoff game.

In the C.R. contest, Russell Dill pitched a two-hitter for the Spartans. His teammates managed six basehits but couldn't score.

Wayne Voshell and Greg Hobbs had two hits each. Neal Smith and Jerry Steerman also entered the hit column.

Smith and Steerman had four of the Lake Forest's bingles at Milford against Cape Henlopen. Hobbs and Rodney Wyatt hit safely also.

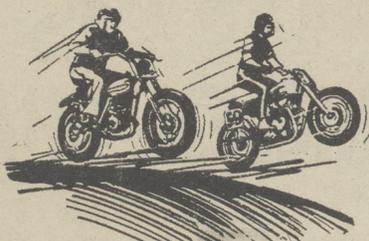

Bob Nored, Wyatt and Dill pitched for the losers as the Cape had 13 hits.

Bob Jacobs, Jerry Steerman, Bill Atkinson and Bob Nored pitched their last games in the colors of Lake Forest.
