

Firemen's Show Success

In spite of stormy weather for the second straight year since its inception, the Harrington Firemen's Antique Car Show and Flea Market was a success.

According to Chester Short, this year's program organizer, approximately 2,500 attended the all-day activities. Included for the spectators were an impressive 45 antique cars display, antique fire engines and tractors and old steam engines. Area craftsmen were also on hand.

For those whose tastes ran to buying and not just viewing antiques and collectibles, a variety of items was on hand for the flea market.

A very popular addition this year was the horseshoe throwing. From a field of 26 contestants two local men took the honors: Cary Dale, winner, and J. D. Dennis, runner-up. They both received trophies presented by Bobby Taylor of Taylor's Hardware.

The antique cars, coming from all over the state and parts of Maryland, primarily were from the Brandywine Region Antique Car Club and the Historic Vintage Chevrolet Club. There was judging in seven classes, with three awards presented in each class.

Cary Dale receives his 1st place trophy from Bob Taylor of Taylor's Hardware for besting all horseshoe throwers in that contest.

(See Pages 3 and 4 for more photos)

First place winners were as follows: Class I—James Embert's 1915 Buick; Class II—Eli B-nley's 1930 Chevrolet; Class III—Don Estep's 1909 Model T; Class IV—Harvey Shockley's 1930 Model A; Class V—Charles Roper's 1932 Ford Roadster; Class VI—Brenda Roper's 1955

Chevrolet; Class VII—Tom Pappa's 1935 Ford Pickup. The firemen's proceeds were estimated at $700, which will be used for purchasing new fire equipment. They wish to thank the merchants, advertisers and all who helped in the day's success.

How Many Miles To The Volt?

Mr. and Mrs. Orville V. Smith of 205 Center Street presented a problem to B. Norman Hopkins when they went to get their newly acquired vehicle insured. Mr. Hopkins is an agent for Farm Mutual Ins. Co. and when Mr. and Mrs. Smith drove up in their all electric car they were told they were the first to ever make application for insurance on an all electric car in the history of the company.

The car is a Mars II made by Electric Fuel Propulsion, Ferns-dale, Mich. The basic body is a Renault, powered by 26-volt batteries with a 15 horsepower motor. Top speed is 60 miles per hour and the range varies from 75 to 120 miles between charging. The batteries, which are recharged on a 220-volt outlet, are of the lead cobalt material and are good from three to five years or 50,000 miles.

It is believed that in the next few years these cars will be in competition with the gasoline cars because of the vast improvements being made in the battery.

Garden Party Saturday

The Milford Historical Society will host a garden party at the Parson Thorne Mansion on Saturday, June 22, from 4 to 6 p.m. Hostesses in colonial costume will guide guests through the house; and cocktails, punch and snacks will be served on the spacious tree-shaded front lawn.

The Society has just completed the restoration of the interior of the two rooms in the rear wing, and wants the public to see the results of its latest restoration project. This section of the Mansion, which was built circa 1735, is the oldest structure still standing in Milford. The project was supervised by John Milner, A.I.A., the Society's restoration architect.

The Mansion, a two-story brick Georgian plantation house with flanking one-story wings, dates from 1750. It retains most of the original elaborate panelling, cornices, plaster and wide-board pine floors. The parlor fireplace contains an iron fireback made by the Deep Creek Furnace, a pre-Revolutionary Sussex County foundry, which was found during the restoration of the fireplace. The exterior of the house has been restored to its original appearance with the exception of the gables in the roof lines.

She also was a frequent participant in the school's dramatic productions. She has just completed her freshman year at the University of Delaware, where she plans to major in English or journalism.

Debbie Miller and Angela Minner, L. F. Girls' State Delegates

Debbie Miller, daughter of Mrs. Richard Miller, of Bowers Beach, and Angela Minner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Minner, of Harrington, have been selected as delegates to Girls' State, the American Legion Auxiliary citizenship training program. Beginning on Monday morning, June 24, nearly 100 girls who have completed their junior year in each high school in the state will meet at Wesley College, Dover, to take part in the five-day exercise.

During the week at Wesley the Girls' Staters will have an opportunity to meet other girls from other schools and to live with them as self-governing citizens, to learn the duties, privileges, rights and responsibilities of American citizenship. Local and state government representatives will assist in teaching the girls some of their responsibilities and duties. Visits to the Legislative Sessions are expected to be a highlight of the week.

Funds for the program are provided largely by the American Legion Auxiliary units of the state. Each unit pays an assessment on their adult members. Counselors for the week are also provided by the units on a volunteer basis. Mrs. George Hess, of Dover, is Girls' State chairman and will be assisted by several Auxiliary members during the week.

From the girls attending the sessions a roster of state officers is selected, and at the end of the week two girls are selected to attend Girls' Nation in Washington, D.C.

Girls' State is a nation-wide activity of the American Legion Auxiliary held during the summer in each of the 50 states. The first Girls' State was held on April 30, 1943, by the Department of Delaware American Legion Auxiliary with Mrs. John Murphy, of New Castle, serving as the first chairman.

Callaway-Kemp-Raughley-Tea Unit No. 7 sponsors both the Lake Forest and Woodbridge High School delegates. Mrs. Dale Roth and Mrs. Harold Fry, members of the C.K.R.T. Unit, are on the Girls' State Committee. Mrs. Roth will serve as one of the counselors.

Milford Memorial Accredited

Milford Memorial Hospital has again received notification of full accreditation from the Joint Commission on Hospital Accreditation until early in 1976 when the commission at the hospital's request will make another survey.

The survey, resulting in this most recent approval, was made this past March by Thurman A. Larson, M.D., and Oliver R. Johnson, Fellow College of American Hospital Association Administrators. Hospital accreditation is not a legal requirement but is sought voluntarily by the hospital to recognize and identify for the public that its facilities and services meet the high standards of the Joint Commission.

The Joint Commission, formed in 1951, is sponsored by the American College of Physicians, the American College of Surgeons, the American Hospital Association and the American Medical Association. It continues to revise and improve its quality of medical care standards so that the award of accreditation will remain meaningful to the hospital and to those who are served by the hospital.

Milford Memorial Hospital has received full accreditation ever since the JCHA was formed. At the summer meeting, following this year's survey, both Dr. Larson and Mr. Johnson stated that Milford Hospital was outstanding among the hospitals they had visited on their tour along the East Coast, adding that Milford Hospital provided some facilities and services not found in larger urban areas.

Shower Power

Americans can save a tremendous amount of energy if they keep their eyes on the hot water faucet. That's the advice from Joseph A. LaSala, Regional Administrator for Region III, Federal Energy Office.

Heating water accounts for 15 per cent of the energy used in the home and 3 percent of all energy used in the United States.

"Our daily bathing habits use a significant amount of energy," LaSala said. He referred to a study done by Westinghouse Electric Corporation which shows that a normal bathtub uses 23 gallons of hot water while a three or four minute shower uses only 12 gallons.

"Over a year," he said, "the average person could save 17 to 40 gallons of oil, depending on the type of household heating."

LaSala suggests a flow restrictor device be installed in the pipe to the showerhead. This easy-to-install device costs under $10 and restricts the flow of water to four gallons per minute.

"Another easy way to save hot water, if you shave with a blade razor, is put the stopper in the sink instead of letting the water run," LaSala said. This can save between 2.4 and 5.7 gallons of oil per year. An despite the apparent contradiction, LaSala added, an electric razor uses considerably less energy over a year than the hot water needed to shave with a blade razor.

New Phone Cable For Harrington

Diamond State Telephone Company construction forces are now at work on a $127,000 cable project for Harrington which is set to be completed in August, reports Jim Strickland, the firm's Kent County manager.

The new cable will provide additional wire facilities for customers east and south of the Harrington central office.

Strickland pointed out that construction crews are placing 12,600 feet of underground cable, 7,800 feet of aerial cable, and 540 feet of conduit.

"Once the new construction work is completed," he said, "we will remove 15,600 feet of old (Continued on Page 4)

5th Promotion At Chipman

Friday morning, June 14, 302 8th graders received certificates signifying their new status as high school students. This group—the largest 8th grade ever—represents the Lake Forest class of 1978.

The program began with the Rev. Bruce Shortell, St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, providing a fitting invocation and accompanying remarks. His comments were based on the Parable and the Talents, as interpreted in the recent book, God is for Real Man. This Bible story was rephrased by a group of city teens and titled If You Use Your Brains, They'll Grow.

Mr. Earl Griffin, Chipman principal, then addressed the class, using the theme, We've Only Just Begun. Mr. James Pizzadilli, president of the Lake Forest Board of Education, then presented a certificate to each student being promoted.

The following students also received scholastic awards for outstanding academic achievement through the entire school year:

8th Grade—Paul Miller, Russell Harris, Cindy Hughes, Sandra S. tokes, Mary Lou Tilghman, Rod Donovan.

7th Grade—Leroy Scott, Ann Floyd, Russell Brittingham, Tamara Warrington, Doug Crouse, Laura Newton, Bonnie Chambers, Donna Beebe, Sharon Blackman, Mike Everline, Jerry Miller, Kelly Grandfield, Alan Larimore, Barbara Williams.

Approximately 300 parents attended this year's program. The excellent response by parents and others provided a fine closing for the school year.

Bridgeville Council Adopts State Motorbike Ordinance

The Bridgeville Town Council met on Monday, June 10, in its new home on Main Street.

The Council is set up somewhat differently than in other towns. The office of mayor is represented by a council president, Mr. Norman G. Powell. There are 4 other officers: Mr. Earl C. Willey, street commissioner; Mr. Thomas J. Gray, Jr., police commissioner; Mr. Jack Simon, secretary; and Mr. W. Allen Jones, water and sewer commissioner.

Most meetings, as was last Monday's, are held in the president's office. In the event that a number of visitors attend, a larger room upstairs is used.

The new town hall was "built from scratch" in 1968. Until that time the police station on Railroad Avenue was used. Bridgeville citizens are proud of the fact that no money is owed on their new building.

At the last meeting the council voted to adopt the new state ordinance for motorbikes. Before, riders were required to wear goggles or face shields with their helmets. Now, these items are not necessary provided the motorbike is equipped with a windshield.

A public hearing will be held in the Town Hall at 7 p. m. July 8, on a zoning variance request to open a pool hall in a residential district.

Quillen Resigns As Tax Receiver

Georg Robert Quillen, Kent County's receiver of taxes, will resign that post June 30 to devote full time to his job as lobbyist for the Delaware Oil Men's Association.

Quillen, a former Republican state representative, was appointed receiver of taxes in September 1972, following the death of G. Dorsey Torbert. In February, Quillen took the lobbyist job, and said he also would keep the $7,000-a-year county post.

"The duties with the oil men's association took more time than I anticipated," he said. His resignation leaves the receiver of taxes job, which includes the treasurer's post, open for a one-year appointment by Gov. Sherman W. Tribbitt. A receiver of taxes will be selected in November, but will not take office until June 1975.

The individual appointed to the job until next June could be considered to have an edge on the office in the November election. J. Wesley Walls, Jr. is the only announced candidate for the job so far. He is a Democrat.

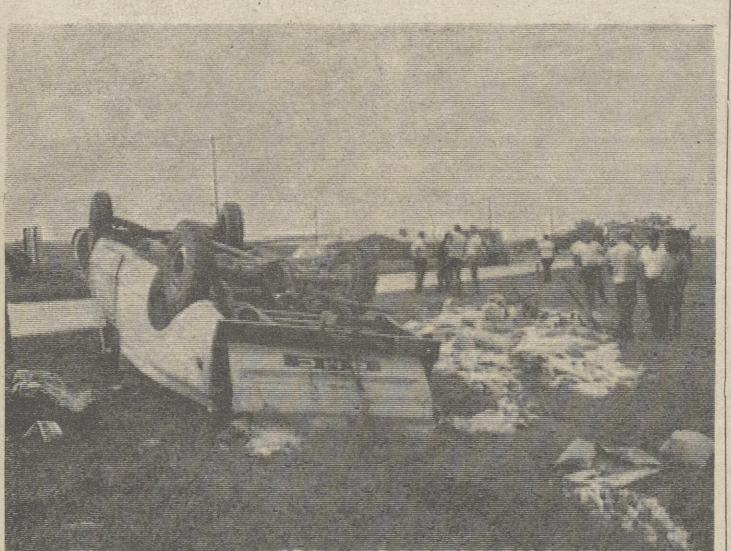

Quillen said he will notify Tribbitt and the Kent County Levy Court of his intentions in writing shortly. He said he believes the office should be abolished as an elective position and should be turned into the position of a finance director.

Faulkner Newly Commissioned

Eight newly commissioned second lieutenants have joined the officer ranks of the Delaware Army National Guard. The new officers graduated on Saturday, June 15, from the Guard's Officer Candidate School at the Greater Wilmington Airport. Included was 2nd Lt. Duane D. Faulkner, of Lincoln.

The graduation of "Class Eighteen" is the culmination of a year of intensive training and education conducted by Delaware National Guard Academy. All of the new officers completed a three-phase course including: weapons training, drill and command, administration, small unit tactics, Army organization, and a field exercise designed to familiarize them with combat situations.

The Sting: Toadvine Style

Last week the Journal ran an article on Norman Toadvine as a taxidermist. This week we introduce Norman Toadvine showing one of his favorite hobbies and pastimes — caring for bees.

The bee plays a most important part in the world around us, for it is the bee that is largely responsible for making the fruit we eat. They do this . . . knowingly or not . . . through the means of cross-pollination of crops such as apples, blueberries, lima beans, strawberries, cucumbers, cantaloupes, pumpkins, and the like.

Another unique thing about the bee is his activity. The term busy as a bee is a just saying since the bee is constantly moving. No one can say for sure if they ever stop to rest or sleep. Two types of bees work around the hive. They are the pollen bees and nectar bees. They have sacks on their legs where they carry the ingredients from the plant. However, one day a bee may work as a pollen-carrying bee and another day as a nectar-carrying bee—but they are constantly moving.

Seven bees always remain behind at the hive. These are guard bees and are alternated daily.

The bee only has one sting and then will die after using it. This is because the stinger is part of their body, and when they sting an object they must break off the stinger in order to release it. This act causes death to the bee. There are bees (drones) that have no stingers. They are all males and they are the so-called worker bees. They are also the ones which mate with the queen bee at which time they also die.

The queen lays the eggs in the same cell which the bees use for honey. This pouch is one of the most unique things of nature. The queen bee is the first out of the cell and she sets about to kill the other bees in the other cells and thus establishes the new queen. The old queen has usually left the hive with her drones before the new queen comes out, for she knows if she remains, the new queen will kill her immediately. The old queen gets the drones to load up with honey as well as the other bees and they set about working for a new home.

The stinger bees at this stage usually are unable to sting. They are actually defenseless, for the load of honey causes their bodies to ride high, preventing it from lowering the body to sting.

While the bee is in the cell hatching the eggs a unique part of nature takes place. The eggs that are fed the "royal jelly," which is mostly hormones, will develop in 16 days. This is because it is the first developed and will be the queen bee. The next out will be the worker bee which hatches out in 21 days, and the drone takes 24 days.

The queen bee is fed the royal jelly as well as the honey by the worker bees. Years ago when bees were shipped from Georgia and Florida they would ship the queen bee alone. By the time she arrived at her destination, she was dead. So today they accompany her to her destination with worker bees who feed her and keep her alive. The queen bee must be fed by other bees and for this reason the queen would never be poisoned. The food from the worker bee must pass through their bodies to the queen. Any of these worker bees could have been a queen bee. They are merely underdeveloped female bees.

Toadvine tells us that he starts a new hive of bees when someone calls him to a place where there is a swarm of bees (the old queen leaving with her bees). When the old queen leaves her hive behind, they usually go to a nearby branch in a tree. There they send out scout bees who search for new territory.

The point is that one has a short period of time to capture the swarm before the scouts lure them away. The idea is to capture the queen, and you know you have the queen for she will go to the darkest spot of retreat and once captured the others will follow. If the scout bees are lost they will return to the old hive. The swarm is usually taken, or as the bee people refer to it . . . "shake them down" . . . into some kind of a container. A swarm is usually 25,000 and can be as large as 100,000.

The beekeepers, as the pictures reflect, use the smoke gun to tame the bees. However, too much smoke will enrage the bee. The smoke is pumped into the hive near the bottom and rises through the hive touching all the bees. It is necessary for a beekeeper to work with a bee hat and veil.

Many of us have been stung by a bee, and therefore we have a tendency to shy away when one comes near. Toadvine tells us that the bee stinging is not to be feared. Never swat the bee, for the process of stinging causes the barbed stinger to work on into the skin much faster. The stinger is part of the bee, and is attached to a poison filled sack. As the barb works into the skin, it carries the sack with it. If one is stung by a bee, the proper method to control the sting is to treat it as you would a wood splinter . . . and work it back—out the direction it entered the body.

Toadvine gathers the honey. He is clutching the hive tool in right hand. Note the bees in the chamber called the super chamber. The lower portion is called the deep chamber or brood chamber.

Toadvine informed us once when he lived near Vienna, Md., he had a few bee hives. One day at a time when a thunder storm had been raging and the rivers were rising, he went to check on his hives for fear water had gotten up into the hive. As he neared the hive, a large frog was leaving from one of the hives with the help of the angry bees. "They were stinging him real good", according to Toadvine. The frog leaped into the water and fled.

They even attacked him, and stung him some 300 times. He said he moved slowly away, and the bees were alarmed and frightened that he did not move away quickly. They eventually retreated, for he says bees are afraid of people as they are of bees. He retreated to the bushes and returned with his smoke gun and apparel to gather honey and to make further inspection. He was several days picking out stingers.

He apparently harbors no ill will from his experiences because he also has a shop on rt. 13 near Farmington, called naturally, The Honey Bee.

DOVER MAN DOING HIS PART FOR OLDE DOVER

Jim and Sally Orth of N. Governors Ave. in Dover had a dream a few years ago while visiting Quebec City and taking a ride through that city. So this spring Orth and two partners, Ian and Robert Sydel, of Hartly, started the Colonial Carriage Tours.

Orth is a school teacher in the Capitol School District and now that school is out he and his partners can now devote full time to their business venture.

The carriage ride is available from Tuesday through Sunday from noon until dusk, weather permitting. The ride begins at the Blue Coat Inn, wandering Green then south on State Street Green, then south on State Street to Water Street and Christ Church, east on Water Street to the Government Mall, Legislative Hall, Board of Health Building, back to The Green, the old State House, Ridgeley House, to State Street. The tour continues up State Street to King's Highway, by the Governor's Mansion to Division Street, over to State Street, then north to Silver Lake and the Inn. This usually takes 35 to 45 minutes.

The Harrington Fire Co. this past Sunday sponsored its annual antique car/flea market show. From what this observer could see, it was quite a success, and we here at the newspaper are happy for them and also proud of this organization.

To be a part of this community and help to grow and prosper are the true goals of the newspaper. Again we wish to exhibit our true appreciation for the opportunity to serve the Fire Co. which does so much to serve the community

This past week witnessed the passing of a man who had very much been a part of this community. From church to business and community affairs he had always done his part—and had done it well.

When I look back over the years when I was growing up in Harrington, I remember Mr. Tatman as a very active... 'pert' gentleman. He always seemed very business-like, and I remember my grandfather commenting on how he was all business—stood for no foolishness.

There are two experiences with Mr. Tatman that I shall always remember. One relates to a time when a young friend and I tried to get what our young minds thought to be watermelons out of his garden.

The other experience relates to picking up "clay pigeons" after a trapshooting contest at the Fairgrounds, which Mr. Tatman was scoring.

It was a lesson I long remembered 20 years later when I was a student at Washington and Lee University Law School. There we learned, as Mr. Tatman clearly pointed out to me, that the "blue rocks" were not abandoned goods...

I wish I could have done more for him, because over the years the many experiences I had with him... and particularly these two, taught me many things. He will be missed but always remembered.

Fast start and sudden stops cause tires to wear out faster and worn tires can lead to an accident warns the Delaware Safety Council.

From the Frying Pan...??

As no parent by now needs to be reminded, school is over for the summer. As drivers, however, all of us need to remember this.

There are more bicycles on the roads and streets this summer, partially due to the energy situation and the emphasis on health. With possible bike trails in the future and registration almost a foregone conclusion, it seems that the bicycle as a means of transportation man soon be taken more seriously than ever.

Both parents and children need to refresh points of bike safety and usage. As a reminder, tips about these have been included on this page. Since the bicycle is regarded as a vehicle, this fact alone needs to be reinforced, especially to young riders.

When driving, watch for those children, even if the bicycle is a vehicle, it never wins a showdown with a car. In town be especially observant of the speed limits, which are posted for a good reason.

One remark about pedestrians... they always have the right of way. Unfortunately when pedestrians become drivers, statistics show that they forget this fact.

School is out, so watch out... for walkers, cyclists and other drivers. Don't be part of the making of the 1974 statistics. This is one time when it pays not to 'get involved.'

Poems from Paradise Pastures

By W. Cliff Miller

TREES

I have always been impressed by Joyce Kilmer's words, "Poems are made by fools like me, but only God can make a tree." It's the sturdy oak I would laud as my

WONDER TREE

Up through the earth the oak tree came,
A tiny thing at first,
An acorn that had gone to sleep
And, in its sleep had burst,
Releasing but a tender sprig
To grope its way to light,
To seek the air, the sun and rain,
And grow to noble height.

Rules For Bicycle Riders

With the summer here, the Highway Safety Office of Delaware wants to remind bicyclists of the following laws and practices:

These are especially important for parents, too, since the State Police have warned that parents are responsible for child cyclists. The rules follow:

- 1—Ride on the right side of the roadway with traffic.
2—Ride single file, never two abreast.
3—Give the same hand signals used by drivers in making turns or in slowing up.
4—Obey Yield Right of Way and Stop Signs.
5—Keep at least one hand on the bars at all times.
6—Never carry another person unless your bike is a tandem.
7—Never hitch rides on cars or other vehicles.
8—Never sit on fenders or frame. Use seat only.
Parents should also see that their children's bicycles are equipped with a white light on the front and red reflector on the rear when used at night. The bicycle must also have a bell and be equipped with brakes.

IT SEAMS TO ME

Janet Reed
Extension Clothing & Textiles Specialist

Your iron is one of your most important sewing tools. In fact, you may use it more when you sew than for ironing. Permanent-press clothes don't need much ironing, but just because our fabrics don't wrinkle doesn't mean they don't require careful pressing as you sew. Careful pressing can do as much for a professional appearance as good sewing techniques.

Many of our fabrics are made for a professional appearance as good sewing techniques.

Many of our fabrics are made in whole or part with man-made fibers. Most of the man-made fibers require low heat so there is a tendency to exert too much caution and underpress these fabrics. When you sew, test press a swatch of poor fabric before pressing the garment. When you sew, test press a swatch of your fabric before pressing the garment. This will help you determine the amount of heat and steam needed for a smooth appearance. Your steam iron may not give enough moisture for most permanent-press fabrics and synthetic knits, so use a dampened press cloth in addition. The press cloth also will protect the surface of the fabric and prevent the shine and flattening that can develop from too high heat.

The areas that need the most pressing attention are those that happen to have more than one fabric thickness—seams, facings, hems. Seams should have an even press for the length of the seam. Too often one part of the seam is well pressed, but another area has not had enough pressure. Most of the pressure should be exerted at the line of stitching if possible, rather than at seam edges, so the marks of the seam allowance don't show through to the fabric side. This is best done with a pressing cloth at the very edge of the ironing board. In some cases, a seam roll or board will be a great help.

The edge of facings should always turn under slightly to the wrong side so they will not be seen on the right side of the garment. Sewing techniques, such as seam grading and understitching, will help, but careful pressing can complete the professional appearance.

Some teachers suggest that the hem needs little or no pressing and advocate a rolled-hem appearance. This will depend on the fabric and style of dress, but I've never seen a hem that didn't look better with proper pressing. You don't want the fabric line at the top of the hem to be visible from the right side, but the bottom of the hem should receive enough hem to be visible from the right side, but the bottom of the hem should receive enough steam and pressure to give a smooth look. A circular or flared skirt will need careful pressing to shrink out as much fullness as possible.

The fullness of a set-in sleeve should be steamed, then shaped with the fingers. Do not touch the iron to this area of the sleeve. Don't press a crease down the center of a set-in sleeve. It's a simple matter to

Delaware Food Market Report

By Anne W. Holberton

Freezing is one of the simplest and least time consuming ways to preserve foods at home. If done properly freezing keeps the natural color, fresh flavor and nutritive values of most foods, especially fruits and vegetables.

What to freeze and how much? How should it be done? The first question depends on family preference, freezer space and other storage methods used, such as canning and drying. Select the varieties that freeze more successfully, if you do not know this then ask the merchant, he can probably tell you. If you want a sure way, contact your county extension agent or home economist for local information.

If you have doubts as to how well a fruit or vegetable will freeze, why not test it. To test simply freeze two or three packages and sample the food after freezing. This will show you the effect of freezing only, not the effects of storage.

Some fruits and vegetables press the sleeve at the edge of the ironing board, or a sleeve board may be used if you prefer.

When the fabric has been folded on the belt, a crease is sometimes visible at this fold. When you cut out a garment try to avoid this crease line, for it may be extremely difficult or impossible to remove.

Pressing requires time and patience. It also requires good pressing equipment. Check the condition of your ironing board. If it's warped or if the cover and padding are not smooth, you'll have a more difficult time achieving professional results.

A good press job camouflages poor sewing techniques, but even the best sewing job will look better with careful pressing. It is often the pressing that makes a garment the prize winner.

do not make satisfactory products when frozen. They include green onions, lettuce and other salad greens, radishes and tomatoes (except as juice or cooked). Some day researchers may find away to freeze these foods successfully.

What about the packaging of the food you freeze? The prime purpose of packaging is to keep food from drying out and to preserve food value, flavor, color and pleasing texture.

All containers should be easy to seal and waterproof so they will not leak. Packaging materials should be moisture-vapor-proof, to prevent evaporation. Many of the materials offered on the market for freezing foods are not moisture-vapor-proof but are sufficiently moisture-vapor-proof to retain satisfactory quality for fruits and vegetables. Glass, metal and rigid plastic are examples of good moisture-vapor-proof packaging material. Most bags, wrapping materials and waxed cartons made for freezing are examples of moisture-vapor-proof resistant packages. Bags may be sealed by pressing the edges with a warm iron. First, place a piece of paper or heat-resistant material over the edges to seal.

When filling the containers be sure not to fill too full because it may result in breaking the seal, spillage and loss of moisture and flavor. Always follow recommended instructions for freezing, either the manufacturer's manual or USDA publications.

Youth looks ahead. Old age looks back. Middle age looks worried.

Give crabgrass an inch and it will take a yard.

More than three million bushels of oysters were harvested in Maryland last year.

There are many factors that may cause your lawn grass to appear unhealthy. Unfavorable weather conditions, improper fertilization, diseases, insect infestations, or a combination of these or other factors may be involved. Before starting any type of control for the problem, must be properly diagnosed. Early diagnosis is important. Check the problem out as soon as it is first noticed. If any insects or disease are suspected, a four inch plug of the diseased and some healthy grass, can be placed in a plastic bag and sent to the County Extension Office, Box 340, Dover; or bring it to the office on Lookerman Street - Wesley Church Education Building.

Early blight, a fungus disease, is now showing up on potatoes and tomatoes in Kent County. Symptoms on tomato and potato leaflets consist of small, dark brown spots on the older leaves. The spots may enlarge until they are 1/2 inch in diameter and have an irregular or circular outline. The large spots often are marked with rings in a target pattern. The tissues surrounding the spots often turn yellow and this discoloration may cover the leaflet. The fungus can infect stems and cause a collar rot. The fungus lives over the winter on decaying plant tissues in the soil. The fungus seeds (spores) are spread by wind and rain. In periods of frequent warm, rainy weather, their spread is rapid and infection soon becomes widespread.

Camp Barnes Benefit Races

The Delaware Association of Chiefs of Police will again sponsor stock car races for the benefit of Camp Barnes, 8 p. m. Wednesday, June 26, at the U. S. 13 Speedway, one mile north of Delmar on U. S. 13.

Winning drivers will receive trophies and regular purse cash prizes. The track facilities, being donated by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Cathell, will be open to the public at 5 p. m. and a rain date has been set for July 10.

Tickets are available at the track or from Delaware State Police troops at Georgetown, Dewey Beach and Bridgeville. Tickets may also be obtained from the Georgetown, Laurel and Seaford Police Departments and the Maryland State Police Barracks at Salisbury.

Admission to the pits is $3.50 and to the spectator section at $2.50. Children, age 6 to 11, will be admitted to the races for 50 cents.

The Delaware Association of Chiefs of Police is composed of active law enforcement officers and associate members who are private citizens interested in improving law enforcement in Delaware.

A DACP committee was appointed to investigate the problem and its resulting recommendations led to the establishment of Camp Barnes, a summer camp for deserving youths throughout the state.

Originally used only for boy campers, Camp Barnes now is used each summer four weeks by girl campers, aged 10 to 14, and another four weeks by boys. Each youth spends his or her week in camp living in cabins which house 13 children and a counselor.

Two weeks of camping experience is also provided each summer for young people from the Hospital for the Mentally Retarded at Stockley and during another two weeks 4-H Club campers use the facility.

Camp Barnes is located on Miller Creek next to the Assawoman Wildlife Area in southeastern Sussex County on property that once was owned by the Delaware Fish and Game Commission.

the stock car races and annual dances held throughout the state in the fall each year.

The children who attend the eight weeks of Camp Barnes are recommended by state and local police officers, school nurses, social service agencies and DACP members. There is no charge.

Since its establishment, Camp Barnes has provided recreational facilities for thousands of deserving Delaware children.

Mack And Jacobs Rate All-Henlopen Honors

Beverly Mack and Bob Jacobs of Lake Forest High School were chosen to the Henlopen Conference All-Star softball and baseball teams, respectively.

Mack, of Canterbury, hit a ton for Lake Forest this campaign and made the all-loop squad at first base.

Jacobs, son of former major leaguer Forest "Spook" Jacobs, has big league aspirations himself. Bob was a slick-fielding, base-stealing athlete who got his share of baskets and more than his share of runs. Jacobs was an infield choice.

15 Spartans Compete In Kiwanis Mile Run

David Richter and Dan Parker finished one-two in the eighth grades division of the Kiwanis Mile Run held last week-end at St. Mark's High, between Newark and Wilmington.

Lake Forest, with 15 entrants, had more competitors than any other school in the meet, which featured milers from Delaware's three counties, plus Cecil County, Md.

Six of the locals were not in training but nevertheless most of them bettered personal marks, probably from memory and natural ability alone.

Jeff Kashner, Don Coltrain and Kent Cerklafski were local seventh grade entrants. Kashner's best mile ever, six minutes flat, resulted.

Richter didn't panic when two "rabbits" surged swiftly away from the large field. Using a steady, ground-eating stride, he finally caught the leaders after one and a half laps. Parker and Billy Moore gave Lake Forest the first three spots until Moore was passed in the final 200 yards.

Despite a poor gravel running surface, Richter dropped his mile time from 5.24 to 5.10.8, a clocking which indicates great potential with four high school years ahead. Parker ran 5.16 after a 5.11 last week. He's a terrific prospect also.

Moore is no slouch either. His 5.21 compares to his previous 5.34.

Freshman Paul McClellan, a hard-working Canterbury lad, has made great progress since his debut last fall. His 5.17 led Lake Forest, with "natural" Monty Pepper at 5.19 and George Gibbs at 5.37.

Harry Benson recorded a 4.52 in the sophomore race. Two-miler Terry Pettyjohn's second mile ever saw a 20-second drop to a fine 5.05. Craig Kashner had a 5.27.

Big Leaguers Split First Two Games

Harrington's Big League entry, which is a watered-down version of the recent Lake Forest High squad, won a 1-1 log after edging Dover AFB, 3-1, and dropping a rain-abbreviated decision, 7-0, to Smyrna-Clayton.

Rodney Wyatt of Harrington and Dean Archer of Dover AFB hooked up in a battle of two-hitters. Neal Smith's two RBI's decided the issue in favor of Harrington. Glenn Jarrell also hit safely for the winners.

At Smyrna-Clayton on Sunday Harrington trailed 7-0 after five innings. In the sixth frame Harrington scored two runs and had the bases loaded with no outs when the rains came. This unlucky turn of events caused the score to revert to that of the previous inning.

Jerry Steerman and Neal Smith made the hit column for the losers, Ivan Ralph gave up seven hits in five stanzas to get the loss.

Bob Jacobs and Russ Dill, Lake Forest aces, are not with the club. Big League rules require that Jacobs rejoin his original club, Milford, while Dill has

Raw Milk Illegal In Delaware

The popularity of natural foods has led to a growing interest in the use of raw milk. A number of Delaware residents who are "into" natural foods have asked recently about the legal aspects of selling raw milk in this state. But you're out of luck if you hope to find any for sale here, says Dr. Wilbur R. Hesselstine, extension dairy specialist at the University of Delaware. Such sales are illegal. And he explains why.

"Raw milk" is simply milk that hasn't been pasteurized. The State of Delaware has a law that requires that all milk sold for human consumption be pasteurized. This means that the milk has been briefly heated to a temperature high enough to kill any disease organisms that may be present in it.

Pasteurization is strictly a precautionary measure—the milk produced on local dairy farms is of extremely high quality, says the specialist. The cows on these farms are supposedly free of brucellosis and tuberculosis. But there's always the off chance that one may contract some disease which could be transmitted to humans. It might be some time before an infection passed on in this way would be detected or its source identified.

So to be absolutely sure our milk supply is safe for use as fluid milk, butter, ice cream and cheese, Delaware has its pasteurization law.

Some states, like Pennsylvania, do permit the sale of raw milk. But Hesselstine feels that Delaware's law exists for good reason. It guarantees the safety of our milk products. "People should respect this law—both producers and consumers—and enjoy these products" knowing that they are free of disease-producing organisms.

Oysters must be three inches in size before they can be harvested.

Traffic Down

Traffic on the Delaware Memorial Twin Bridges decreased 135,068 vehicles or 8.4 per cent in May over the same month last year.

These statistics were made public today by Theodore C. Bright, general manager, and are included in his monthly report to the Commissioners of the Delaware River and Bay Authority.

Bright said the heavy loss in traffic for May 1974 is attributed to the energy crisis.

Bridge traffic for the month of May 1974 was 1,472,239 vehicles compared to 1,607,307 for May 1973.

Bridge traffic for the 12-month period ended May 1974 for 17,435,653 vehicles compared to 18,779,322 vehicles for the 12-month period ended May 1973, a decrease of 1,343,687 vehicles, or 7.2 per cent.

Since August 16, 1951, a total of 281,184,263 vehicles have crossed the Delaware Memorial Bridge.
