Delaware Now Has Lottery

The State of Delaware officially began its lottery Monday, to join its geographic neighbors of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland. The lottery ticket, which is one of the do not bend, fold, or mutilate computer types, is blocked off into three groups, in which the purchaser must select six blocks which will hopefully be the first six finishing horses in a special race to be held at Brandywine Raceway throughout its meet. The race will be Wednesday night, March 19. Interested persons have to have all tickets filled and presented by Tuesday evenings, to be presented before closing of the agent's business. Official winners will be announced 48 hours later at local agents' locations.

Locally the sales had totaled 260 at the Harrington newsstand and around 100 at Stone's Hotel by Tuesday afternoon. Both agents felt the sales would pick up when people "figured out how to play" the somewhat complicated-looking ticket. At both local sites, women were the first to step up for their tickets.

The cameraman was on hand at 6 a.m. Monday morning to take this shot of the first lottery ticket sale in Harrington as Myrtle Karshesher of the Harrington Newsstand sells Pat Bebeau of Harrington the first ticket.

Plans Underway To Start RR Club

Ted Ressler, Executive Director of the YMCA of Dover and Kent County, a United Way Agency, announced today that plans are now underway to organize a Railroad Club primarily of retired railroad men and young people interested in railroading. It is hoped that the end result of such a group would be the eventual opening of Cedar Park in Rising Sun as an operating railroad ride for families in the summer. The Y is particularly interested in men who have had actual experience in working on the railroad as engineers, firemen and conductors and have some skill and knowledge in working around trains. The Kent County Office on Aging is working along with the YMCA on this endeavor and Mr. Jack Bowman, owner of Cedar Park, has had preliminary discussions with both the YMCA and the Office on Aging about this project. Cedar Park has been closed for several years as a private enterprise and an attempt is now being made to reactivate it as a complex to benefit many agencies and non-profit organizations in the county who would be the recipients of the proceeds of the operation. The complex consists of three quarters of a mile of fifteen-inch track with three complete trains, two steam locomotives and one diesel. The equipment is all in excellent shape and the complex has much that can be designed to make it a great place for families to go for a day out on Saturday or Sunday during the summer.

A meeting has been planned for March 13th at 10:30 a.m. at the YMCA, 1137 South State Street in Dover and anyone interested is urged to contact the YMCA about attending the meeting. If transportation for retired railroad people is a problem please call the Y at 674-3000 or the Office on Aging at 734-2222 and transportation will be provided.

Young people interested but who might not be able to attend this meeting are urged to contact the YMCA to get on to

Burning Trash Could Bring Fine

According to the City Charter, it is "unlawful to burn trash, lumber, leaves or straw, or any other combustible materials within the city limits, except by permission by the City Manager. All such burning by permission shall be during the daylight hours and with an adult person in constant attendance while such articles are being burned. The City Manager is hereby authorized to require such burning to be done in screened metallic receptacles where he should consider the same to be necessary."

Also according to the section of ordinances dealing with the burning of trash or other items in the limits of the City, a fine may be imposed ranging from one to a hundred dollars. It was requested by City Manager, Bobby Quillen that people be reminded of the ordinance, since it had been reported several persons were to have been burning trash within the city limits last week in violation of the ordinance.

Lions To Hold Beauty Contest

The Harrington Lions again this year are sponsoring the Miss Harrington and Little Miss Harrington Beauty Contest. As with all projects that the Lions have to help the community, this one will go for a special cause.

The entire proceeds of this affair which amounts to several hundred dollars, will be donated by the Lions Club, to the W. T. Chipman Band, for new uniforms for their members.

So folks, you can kill two birds with one stone, by buying a ticket for the Beauty Contest and help the Lions help the Band.

Smith Elected President Of Harrington Raceway

At the annual stockholders meeting of The Harrington Raceway held on March 3, 1975, J. Gordon Smith was elected President of Harrington Raceway. Mr. Smith has long been associated with The Raceway as well as The Delaware State Fair (formerly the Kent & Sussex Fair). He was first elected Vice President of The Raceway in 1946 and President in 1958. He was moved to The Chairman of The Board of The Raceway when Herman C. Brown was elected President of the oval. Recently Brown informed the Board of Directors of the Fair that he would not let his name be placed in nomination this meeting to be President.

Other business at the meeting was the election of the following officers: State Senator Thurman Adams, Jr.

as Vice President, Herbert C. Chase, Treasurer, George Simpson, Secretary. The Board of Directors elected were Russell Kirby, William Parker, Ned Davis and Walter Ellis.

There are four Directors selected by the Fair Board, two by Rollins and Orleans interest (Davis and Ellis) and one at large that Rollins-Orleans and The Fair agree on (Parker.).

City Vetos Adjustments For Vacant Houses

The Harrington City Council approved a motion at their March meeting last week to change a previous practice regarding adjustments made to water and sewer rates for vacant houses.

It has been the custom in the past to make adjustments, upon request, when houses would become vacant, but that practice will be dropped.

In order to prevent continued payment for properties becoming vacant, the water will have to be cut off to avoid the quarterly payment. The City will charge $15 to cut off the water and a reconnect fee of $15 will also be charged to begin service again. A licensed plumber may also cut the water off and on, but he must inform the City if he does.

In another matter, the Council agreed that all dwellings in the City should be identified with numbers, which would be useful to residents in the event a fire or ambulance call is being made to their homes.

Annual DPIA Banquet Set For Felton

The Delaware Poultry Improvement Association will hold its 36th annual banquet March 19, at 6:45 p.m., in the Felton Fire Hall.

The featured speaker for the banquet will be Dr. William McDaniel, Dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences, University of Delaware. His topic will be "World Population and Food Problems." Dave Woodward, Kent County extension agent, will be toastmaster. Entertainment will be provided by Kent County 4-H'ers.

The dinner will feature poultry and poultry products. Tickets at $3 are available from all county extension agents or from George Chaloupka at the Georgetown Substation. The banquet is open to the public, and tickets should be obtained by March 17 to enable planners to estimate the number who will attend.

Del-Tech Plans Art Exhibit For School Dedication

Nearly a quarter-million dollars is the value put on an exhibit of fine arts to be on display during the March 21-23 dedication-celebration at Del Tech and Community College, Georgetown.

Charles Parks, Hockessin, whose sculpture has been exhibited in museums throughout the country and received many citations from national art associations, will be on campus during the day, on Friday, March 21. He is expected to include his portrait-statue of James F. Byrnes, Governor of South Carolina from 1951-55, with several other pieces, which range from religious figures to friends and their children, and animals.

Paintings collected by residents of southern Delaware will be on display, done in a variety of media.

Campus Director Jack F. Owens said that arrangements have been made for 24-hour surveillance of the exhibit, because of the irreplaceable character of the items in the collection.

The exhibit will be placed on Thursday morning in the conference room opposite the theater, where window walls look out on the attractive court-yard of the college-west complex.

Public tours are scheduled on Saturday, March 22, from 12:30 to 5 p.m. and on Sunday March 23, from 2 to 3 p.m.

Milford Man Is Convicted

A Sussex County jury found Willy Bobby Barnes, 27, of Milford guilty of 1st degree murder in the second trial for killing Pasquale Sanfilippo. The latter was a grocer who was killed in 1973.

Barnes will automatically be sentenced to life imprisonment.

Chipman Junior High School in Harrington (Dorman Street), the nurse's office in the Lake Forest East Elementary School in Frederica and the nurse's office in the Lake Forest North Elementary School in Felton. Scouts Plan Good Deed Good Will Drive

Cub Scout of Pack 76 will get a chance to do a good turn for the handicapped as they collect items here for Goodwill Industries on Saturday, March 22. The items collected will be turned into the fire house between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. on the above date.

Goodwill Industries employs handicapped people to repair and recondition donated articles. The restored items are then sold at low prices to support the industry. Clothing, appliances, toys, furniture - almost anything can be used in some way. If the article itself cannot be repaired, parts from it may be usable in restoring something else. Cubs who participate in the drive will receive a small award in recognition of their efforts. This offers an opportunity to do a little spring housecleaning, help the handicapped, and support the Cub Scouts. Persons having items to donate should contact a neighborhood Cub Scout or call Raymond Blanchette, Cubmaster of Pack 76, at 398-3225 before March 22.

Cheer Center News: We were glad to welcome home Mrs. Edgar English from her Mexican trip who reports a wonderful time.

Mrs. Peggy Eastburn from the Georgetown office visited the Center this week.

Monday morning, when we enter our kitchen area, we will see new inlaid linoleum on the floor, having been laid on Saturday. It will be greatly appreciated by the Center.

On Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar English and Mrs. Belle Allen attended a Sussex County Government Day at Georgetown. First, we were introduced to the officers of

Sussex County, then were given a tour of the Courthouse, visiting every office where we were told that work was carried on there. After this, we took a bus tour to the airport and the Industrial Park. We were given lunch at the Blue and Gold Restaurant.

Following this we returned to the Courthouse to the Council Room where we witnessed and participated in a Mock Court in session. Before we left each person was given an award - "A Certificate of Merit" for attending and taking part in the running of the government of Sussex County for one day.

Our guide throughout the day was Mr. J. T. Conaway, Sussex County Administrator.

On Thursday, February 27, the Boy Scouts were guests of the Kiwanis Club. The boys provided the program for the evening. They broke up into groups and gave talks and demonstrations of the things they had learned in Scouting.

The boys enjoyed the dinner served by the ladies of Hickory Ridge Church and the Kiwanis Club, who sponsor the Scouts, enjoyed hearing and seeing what the boys have learned.

On Tuesday, February 25, the Cub Scouts held their Blue and Gold Banquet. This was held to celebrate the birthday of the Cub Scouts. Our local Pack No. 242, is one year old.

The Banquet was in the form of a covered dish and the families of the Scouts were invited. The guests included Mr. Dave Moore, District Superintendent, and Mr. Finlay Jones, who was the guest speaker, and Mr. Tyson Cannon, president of our sponsoring organization, the V.F.W. Several of the boys received awards.

Governor Sherman Tribbitt visited the Harrington area last Thursday during a covered dish dinner sponsored by the 35th Democratic Club. He was entertained by members of the local 4-H clubs with musical selections and speeches. From l. to r. are: Brenda Clark, Lisa Bostick, Governor Tribbitt, Mike Everline, Kay Brittingham, Kathi Hopkins and Lisa Clark.

Mrs. Lester Workman has a two-weeks' vacation every six months. He is associated with the Fluor Oil Company.

Mrs. Lester Workman reports a nice letter from her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harmon who have returned to their home in Indonesia after vacationing in Malaya and Singapore. Ralph

Mrs. Edgar English has recently returned from a guided tour to Mexico, spending several days in Mexico City, Taxco and Acapulco. They attended the Mexican ballet, the bull fights and saw the wonderful gardens. Their trip was extended 15 hours, due to plane trouble, necessitating a return to Mexico and an all-night stopover in the Dallas Airport.

Publisher's Choice...

Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

"Baseball owners aren't the only ones that do the opposite of what logic dictates ... but maybe the High School Band made it all worthwhile."

It has long been stated that baseball owners always do the opposite of what good sense and logic dictate. Everyone knows that the old schedule of 151 games was entirely too long for a sport that was fast losing fan interest to football, and the increased number of games and team expansion today is entirely foolish. The owners should see this -- but they don't seem to heed the warning.

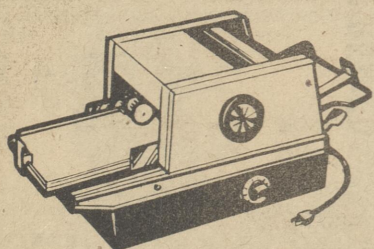

As you look around the room, you will find that baseball owners aren't the only ones ... politicians, lawyers, realtors, bankers, school officials, and even newspaper ... PUBLISHERS ... who despite the logical choice will do the opposite. It is so easy to second guess though, for hind sight is always 20-20 vision.

There is one topic which draws my thinking near to this central theme ... of taking the opposite course in spite of logic, and that was pointed out recently by the teacher strike. The strike started me thinking not so much about the rightness or wrongness of the strike or the reasons given for the need for the strike ... but the schools themselves. It appears to me from a general observation that the idea of school consolidation has left a lot of people ... like myself who are not always in a position to have all the facts ... to wonder even from the start that school consolidation may not have been the best decision from a practical standpoint. On paper and in general executive session and discussions, the arguments might have been aptly put to defend the consolidation theory as the best decision.

We have an energy crisis now which everyone is aware of but no one knew at the time would be a problem in the mid-70's. It is on us and it is hitting the schools very hard. Maybe now is the time to look into another program. Not only is the energy problem reflected in the heating of the many buildings, but there are buses on buses on buses on the road a good number of hours each weekly day. Some I am told in some school districts cover the same route several times each day. The amount of fuel consumed must be slightly less than staggering. I wonder if this will be effected by the rationing system, if one is adopted. The times dictate a change, because the program that was argued for in the beginning to be logical is not the program for us today. This is also reflected in the fact that consideration should be given to closing schools during certain winter months in areas effected by the cold so as to save fuel and extend the school year through the summers where a schedule of half days or a staggered day schedule could be implemented.

We must face up to the problem as well as other problems. With the present system, this country is in trouble. As a result we might find enough money through fuel savings and cost cutting to give the teachers a well deserved raise. Despite the fact that school consolidation leaves a lot of questions and doubts in our minds, there is no doubt about the fact that the school consolidation that brought about the Lake Forest High School gave us a band that even The Music Man would be proud. Consolidation has proven to be costly ... but the band has made it all worthwhile.

National Poison Prevention

Week Focuses On Safety

One of the most serious medical emergencies facing young children today is the hazard of accidental poisoning, according to Mary Ann Finch, extension family and child development specialist at the University of Delaware, National Poison Prevention Week is being observed March 16-22 this year to make people more aware of the dangers of accidental poisoning.

Children under the age of 5 are in stages of growth and development where they are constantly exploring and investigating the world around them. This is the way they learn, and they should not be discouraged, emphasizes Ms. Finch, but, unfortunately, what they see and reach for they put in their mouths. Parents must be aware of these characteristics and carefully store potentially poisonous household products away from a child's reach.

Common household products such as furniture polish, drain cleaner, lighter fluid, and turpentine, as well as prescription drugs, have the potential of poisoning a child. Parents can observe precautions to minimize this danger in the home.

Ms. Finch suggests that adults keep all household products and medicines out of the reach of children, and, preferably, locked up when not in use. If they are being used, they should not be out of sight of the adult. Carry that open bottle of furniture polish with you when you answer the telephone, says Ms. Finch, or put the top back on and store it out of reach.

In addition, medicines should be stored separately from other household products, and items should be kept in their original containers--never in cups or soft drink bottles, which are inviting to children. All products should be properly labeled and the label should be read before using.

Because children like to imitate adults, parents should avoid taking medicine in front of children, and, further, should never refer to medicines as candy.

The usefulness of the new safety packaging, which make packages more difficult for children to open, depends upon the correct use by the adult. The user must be certain to close the package securely after use.

If a child does accidentally swallow a poisonous substance, quick action is necessary, emphasizes Ms. Finch. Parents and babysitters should know the numbers of the family physician and the nearest Poison Control Center. There are presently 580 poison control centers in the United States. They maintain information for the physician or the public on necessary treatment for the ingestion of household products and medicines. The number to call in New Castle county is 655-3389. It's listed under Poison Information Service in the white pages of the telephone book.

When an accidental poisoning is reported, the Poison Information Service will need the following information: age of child, weight, type and amount of poison or medicine ingested, the time elapsed, and any medical problem the child might have. It's a good idea to take the bottle to the phone and/or hospital with you. Often the label will recommend an antidote for accidental ingestion, reminds Ms. Finch.

For information on preventing poisonings in the home, write to the Planning Council for National Poison Prevention Week, P.O. Box 1543, Washington, D.C. 20013.

Our Men In Washington

Sen. Roth

In agreeing to postpone the scheduled increases in his tariff on oil imports, President Ford has helped create a new atmosphere of cooperation between the Administration and Congress.

The President has shown his willingness to compromise, and I believe Congress now has a responsibility to compromise and to sustain his veto of its legislation to suspend the tariff. If the matter does come to a vote in the Senate, I am confident the President's veto will stand.

I am very pleased that the President agreed to delay increasing the oil tariff. This was a compromise that I proposed in a conversation with Mr. Ford on February 24, several days before the Democratic leaders of Congress met with him to negotiate a compromise. After that meeting, the White House telephoned me in Delaware to report that the Democrats supported my compromise plan and that the President was expected to adopt it.

In a conflict of such importance to the country, everyone who is in any way involved wants the credit for finding the solution. In the highly charged political atmosphere of Washington, this is inevitable.

But the question of credit is far less important than the fact that the White House and the Congress, by virtue of the compromise, will have 60 days to jointly hammer out a sound program for ending our reliance on imported oil.

The people don't really care whether such a program is a Republican or a Democratic program, whether it originated in the White House or in the Congress. All they want is a program that protects and serves the country's best interests.

President Ford deserves an enormous amount of credit for his leadership and courage in setting forth several weeks ago a tough, comprehensive program to deal with our energy problems. His action forced the Congress, after 17 months of inaction, to seriously address itself to these problems.

The proposals outlined by Representative Al Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, show that the Democrats also recognize the seriousness of the situation. The basic areas of compromise and agreement are being identified, and I'm confident the President and the Congress are now on the right track in their efforts to develop a sound energy program.

Partisan politics must be set aside. Democrats and Republicans must join together to work in the best interests of the country.

The tariff compromise is only a first step, an agreement giving the President and the Congress the opportunity to formulate the national energy program that we need to protect ourselves and to bargain effectively with the oil-producing nations.

Sen. Biden

By now, we all know some of the grim statistics of the current economic slump:

--Unemployment is running at 8.2 percent, the highest rate since 1941, when we were still recovering from the Great Depression. That translates into 7.5 million Americans without jobs.

--The Ford Administration assumes -- in its economic and budgetary forecasts -- that unemployment will run at 8 percent for another three years, a level I think is simply intolerable.

--Inflation remains largely unabated. We still talk about "double digit" inflation, much of it fueled by soaring costs for energy.

--In certain segments of the economy, the economic picture is bleak indeed. The housing and construction industry, for example, is experiencing an unemployment rate of over 22 percent. In the first eight months of 1974, over 1,100 construction firms -- many of them small, family-owned businesses -- were forced out of business. Housing starts have skidded to less than a third of the amount needed to assure a continuing, adequate supply of housing for Americans.

Obviously, the time has come for action. The purpose of this week's report is not to spell out a complete program for economy recovery -- for I would not be that presumptuous. Rather, I want to indicate that things are happening in Congress which could help ease the economic problems of the nation.

For example, Congress is moving rapidly toward formulating its own energy program, and already the President has agreed not to implement imposition of the final $2 per barrel of his proposed higher tariff on imported oil -- a tariff which can only add to inflationary pressure. The House of Representatives (where all tax bills must originate) has already passed legislation to grant tax rebates, although I believe this proposal can be greatly improved.

These actions have received considerable amounts of publicity, as they should. But other important things are happening on the economic front, which have received less attention.

The Senate Budget Committee, on which I serve, announced this week that it will accelerate its plans by a year, and made recommendations this spring and summer for federal spending priorities in the next fiscal year. The committee, which was created to help bring order out of the chaos of federal spending (and help Congress set its own spending priorities), has already begun a lengthy set of public hearings to hear the views of Administration officials, economists, labor leaders, businessmen, Governors, members of Congress, civic leaders and others on what our economic priorities ought to be.

Meanwhile, the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee, on which I also serve, has announced it will begin hearings later this month on comprehensive legislation which Chairman William Proxmire has introduced (and which I have co-sponsored) to provide an adequate supply of mortgage money at reasonable rates of interest to help get the housing and construction industries back on their feet -- and to provide low and moderate-income families with an opportunity to purchase their own homes.

The Harrington Journal Proudly Salutes

Donald Dadds, who owns the local Food Rite with his partner, Sterling Mock, not shown.

After a year and a half in business here, Donald Dadds and Sterling Mock have just added an addition to their food store, of which they should be proud. Located near the meat section is a new DELI section, offering a variety of cold cuts, salads and deli bread. A pickle barrel and a barbecue section will be added later.

Dadds has been in the food retail business for 20 years. Sterling Mock previously taught school. Both are married. Dadds has two children and Mock has one child.

Old State House To Have Colonial Look

Editor's Note: In an effort to observe the nation's bicentennial, which officially began March 1, the Harrington Journal will begin this week to include items of historical interest nationally, of Delaware and specifically of local area history. We will attempt to include items monthly or as often as possible.

We welcome suggestions and invite public participation in the sharing of past memories by our senior citizens, by printing old post cards or other items our readers may wish to share with the public. Send or call items and suggestions to the editor.

Exterior restoration of Dover's Old State House begins this week, with removal of the 65-year-old wooden steeple. The roof will be replaced, wings will be removed, and the State House will be returned to its 1792 appearance. The restoration is being directed by the state Division of Historical and Cultural Affairs.

Most of the cost is being borne by the state, which has appropriated $1,350,000 in bond and divestiture money. Under the National Register program, the Department of the Interior has allocated another quarter of a million dollars.

The present roof contains parts of the Victorian mansard erected in 1873, which was remodeled in 1909-1912 under the direction of architect Edward L. Tilton of New York. According to researchers in the Historic Preservation Section, Tilton's roof is much higher than the 1792 profile, because he was required to include parts of the Victorian roof. Tilton was not permitted to restore the interior which remained Victorian until last year.

Over the years, the oversize roof has contributed to structural weakening, which was aggravated by the loss of interior load-bearing walls. The new roof, to be built of lightweight steel along the original lines, will correct many of the structural problems. The more accurate new roof profile has been derived from the original accounts, which are preserved in the Kent County archives at the Hall of Records.

These detailed building accounts and other evidence have been translated into working drawings by McCune Associates, one of the oldest restoration firms in Delaware.

John F. McCune, III, supervising architect on the project, has participated in several major restorations, including the Delaware State Museum, the Old Court House in New Castle, and most recently, Lookerman Hall on the Delaware State College campus.

Contractor for the project is Helco Engineering and Construction Company of Wilmington, who will also remodel the Supreme Court wing to allow an exterior passageway between it and the State House. Other work will include repair of the missing east wall portion, remodeling of the front, and reopening of the side doorways.

Last year, the interior brickwork and framing were rebuilt by Mitten Construction Company of Dover. Original interior brick bearing partitions were replaced, together with the chimneys, on their original footings. All the timber work has been repaired or replaced where necessary.

The restored State House will be a separate building, as it was in 1792, with a large courtroom and four side offices on the first floor. On the second floor, the legislative chambers and two offices will flank a passageway and stair hall.

The "geometrical" staircase, with its graceful twin curves, will duplicate the original, based on construction accounts and evidence in the walls and frame.

The only pieces of original interior trim are three of the four courtroom columns, which are being restored by Mitten's craftsmen. A replacement column has been made to reproduce the missing original.

Denis Volozan's portrait of Washington, which was painted for the Senate chamber in 1802, will be replaced in its original position over the speaker's chair. This painting once hung in the rotunda of the south wing. It has been removed from its most recent site in the Supreme Court lobby to the Hall of Records for safekeeping.

Stanley Arthurs' heroic painting, "The Crusaders", which now hangs in a back wing of the State House, will be moved to the Highway Administration Building. Arthurs painted three such large pictures for the state; the other two now hang in the Supreme Court conference room, where they will remain.

The State House bell, cast in 1763, is the only surviving relic of Dover's 1722 court house. It was taken down in the 1873 remodeling, and has hung for a century on an ornate carved frame. The bell is exhibited in the Hall of Records, awaiting return to the State House.

Completion of the restoration is scheduled for the summer of 1976, so that the ceremonial capitol will be ready for use during the national bicentennial celebration.

Roommate Indicted For Murder

This week the Kent County Grand Jury indicted Raymond Miller, 50, for the second degree murder of Lewis J. Jackson, 73, after an argument that lasted all night.

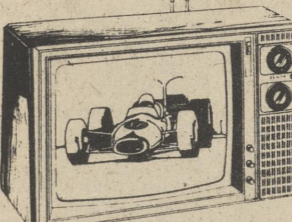

Miller, of Houston, allegedly shot Jackson with a .22 caliber rifle after the latter had walked into Miller's room with what Miller allegedly thought looked like a .45 caliber, but which allegedly was a B.B. gun. The shooting incident took place south of Houston on Kent 442 at Williamsville.

There will be a Lawn & Shrub & Flower Seminar held March 20th at the Capital Grange Hall in Dover. The afternoon program will be held from 1:30 - 3:30 p.m. and will feature: Rock Gardens & Flowers, African Violet Culture and Propagation of Ornamentals & Houseplants. The evening program, 7:30 - 9:30 p.m., will feature Lawn Care & Maintenance, Care and Choice of Plant Material, Diseases and Insects of Ornamentals, and Short Film on Landscaping. This program is free and open to the public, sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service.

The weasel, otter, mink, badger, pine marten, fisher and skunk all belong to the family of mammals called Mustelidae. One characteristic of this family is that the members all have well developed anal glands which produce an odor. These glands are most highly developed in the skunk.

Because many people dislike the odor emitted by these glands, they ask many questions regarding skunks. Here are the answers to some of the most commonly asked questions: Are skunks good or bad animals? Skunks fill an important niche in their environment. They will dig small holes in your lawn to get food like white grubs which kill your grass. They destroy duck and pheasant nests and eat corn and raspberries. They eat numerous mice, snakes and snapping turtles eggs. Skunks cannot be categorized as being either beneficial or infurious, but may be either or both, depending upon the circumstances at any given time and place. Is it true that if you pick up a skunk by the tail it will not spray? Don't count on it. I tried this when I was 14 years old. The skunk bit me, then I dropped him and he sprayed me. How do I get a skunk out of my basement window well? Place a log or plank in the well at an angle and the animal will climb out. Or, tie a rope to a basket or cardboard box which has low sides (5 inches). Place some sardines in the basket. When the skunk enters the basket it can be lifted out of the well. Move slowly and do it gently. Set the basket down and the skunk will walk away. How can I get skunks out from under my porch? Don't shoot the skunk; before he is dead he will shoot back every time.

Set a box trap or live trap covered with burlap and baited with sardines or cat food. Once the skunk is in a live trap what do you do? If the trap is not covered by burlap or a tarp, cover it. This will quiet the animal down. The skunk may now be carried to a more desirable location and released unharmed or it may be gassed. Trapped skunks can easily be moved, if you move slowly and avoid exciting the animal. How do I get rid of the odor after a skunk sprayed underneath my home? The deodorant Neutroleum Alpha will do the job. It can be purchased from hospital supply houses or pest control operators. If I get sprayed how do I get the odor out of my clothes? Soak the clothes for 24 hours in tomato juice. Rinse with cold water. Don't use tomato juice on good clothes which can be stained. A tomato juice shampoo will remove skunk odors from dogs and pets. Do skunks carry rabies? Yes, skunks are second only to fox as vectors of this disease. Rabid skunks can occur anywhere in the state. If you should ever be bitten by a skunk you should contact your nearest county or state health department.

Harrington Police Chief Ed Layton demonstrates the new camera that takes the split image photos (mug shots). Anyone arrested for a criminal violation or who is driving under the influence is photographed using the new device. The unit, which costs $599, was purchased through the Delaware Agency To Reduce Crime. Daniel Evins, Journal employe and photographer, had a "sample only" shot taken. The unit has been used several times since it arrived.

Red Cross Promises Interesting Assignments

A host of interesting volunteer assignments await men, women and young people interested in lending a neighborly helping hand to people in need, according to Mrs. Kenneth F. Browning, chairman of volunteers for the Delaware Chapter, American Red Cross.

The Delaware Chapter is conducting a volunteer recruitment drive to carry on its humanitarian services in the community as part of Red Cross Month. Theme of the observance is "Be A Good Neighbor, Help The Good Neighbor. Join Us As A Volunteer."

Governor Sherman W. Tribbitt has proclaimed March as Red Cross Month in Delaware and has urged all residents "to honor the achievements and contributions of the Red Cross and to honor it as a vital, valuable, and integral part of our society."

"For those who enjoy driving, many varied assignments, including transporting patients to hospitals and clinics, await in the Red Cross Motor Service," Mrs. Browning said.

"Volunteers are needed to serve in hospitals and institutions and bring a bit of cheer from the outside world. These volunteers help make the monotonous life of patients a little more bearable."

Mrs. Browning said volunteers also are needed in the following community services: volunteers in Service to Military Families to help servicemen and their families; youth volunteers; nurses to serve in Red Cross programs; First Aid and Water Safety instructors; and Production Service volunteers to sew and knit.

"The need is immediate," said Mrs. Browning. "Increasing requests have been made for humanitarian services of the Red Cross throughout the state. The Red Cross continues to reshape its programs to meet today's human needs. "Red Cross Month provides the Delaware Chapter with an opportunity to say 'Thank You' to residents of Delaware whose contributions last fall to the United Way of Northern Delaware and the United Ways throughout the state included generous support of the Red Cross.

All persons interested in volunteer service and who can give a few hours of their time each week are urged to call the Red Cross in Georgetown, 856-2138, or visit the Sussex County Red Cross Office at 100 West Market Street.

Bishop Outlines Goals

The establishment of a development office, increased variety in liturgies and increased communication of the Christian message are among the goals for the Catholic Diocese of Wilmington in fiscal year 1975-76, according to an announcement made this week by Bishop Thomas J. Mardaga.

In a memorandum to all diocesan priests and parish councils, Bishop Mardaga outlined eight major areas to be initiated or expanded during the coming year. They were chosen, he pointed out, after wide consultation with priests at the fall clergy conferences, the Priests' Senate, the Council of Religious, the Pastoral Commission and in accord with results of the 1972 attitudinal survey of the people of the diocese at large.

A series of area workshops, under the direction of the Pastoral Commission will bring parish clergy and lay leaders together to plan implementation of the goals on the local level.

Other goals are: coordination of all religious education according to the latest norms and guidelines of the U.S. Bishops; a practical approach to promotion and conservation of the value of life at every stage; completion of the celebration of the Holy Year; preparation for the nation's bicentennial; and increased support of Christian marriage, family life and the handicapped.

Defense Center Invites Bids On Supply

The State Division of Economic Development, in cooperation with the Department of Defense, this week released a request by the Defense Personnel Support Center for the procurement of clothing, textile and equipage items for use by the armed forces.

Lt. Col. John H. Carroll, USAF, requested that the division make public a list of the articles being sought. The center operates with a multi-billion dollar annual procurement budget.

Lt. Col. Carroll states that "We are continually searching for additional qualified and responsible firms to competitively supply our wide variety of clothing, textile and equipment requirements. We believe there are some manufacturers in your area who might be interested in doing business with us."

Some of the items the center is seeking are these: cotton and woolen clothing items; special purpose items; rainwear and headwear items; cotton, woolen and synthetic yard goods; domestic, knitwear and knitted items; footwear, leather and metal articles; embroidered insignia and flags as well as other miscellaneous items. For many of the articles, basic cloth will be furnished by the government.

Any Delaware area manufacturers interested in receiving a bidding mailing list application, copies of the procurement forecast or other information may contact the center by letter or telephone.

Letters should be addressed to the Defense Personnel Support Center, 2800 South 20th Street, Philadelphia, Pa. 19101 - ATTN: DPSC-TPI. Telephone inquiries can be made to (Area Code 215) 271-3156.

The additional information would include specific guidance on how to become an active participant in the center's procurement program. Lt. Col. Carroll also pointed out that interested manufacturers are en-

It Seems To Me

by Janet Reed

Textiles have played an important role in the history of America. The Bicentennial should offer the textile industry, and anyone interested in the textile arts, many opportunities to commemorate the contributions of textiles to the American way of life.

Nationwide attention is being focused on early hand skills which included textile arts as part of the homemaker's daily tasks. These skills give us an appreciation of the ability of early settlers to create works of art and conserve every bit of usable material. The arts of hand weaving, spinning and the use of natural materials for dyeing yarns are being revived.

Hooked and braided rugs gave early homemakers the opportunity to recycle every bit of usable fabric after it had been worn and reworn, while making furnishings for the home. Quilts provided warmth for the family and again reused usable pieces of fabric for beautiful creations. The quilting bee also provided a social outlet as women gathered to speed the tedious quilting process.

The skill of making family clothing is an art that has never died. Our techniques have changed over the years and we do not have the same need to sew as early homemakers did. Anyone who has tried to make a Bicentennial costume is probably counting her blessings that styles are less complex today, and that easy-care fabrics lessen the chore of ironing and care. No wonder our ancestors had fewer clothes and wore them for a long time.

Incidentally, if you have need for patterns for Bicenennial costumes, you can get them at some of the fabric stores in Delaware. There are patterns for both men's and women's wear. As Bicentennial observations increase, more costumes may be needed.

An interesting commentary on changes in dress in these 200 years can be seen in an exhibit at the Smithsonian Institute which illustrates the democratization of American dress. At one time you could tell a person's status in life by dress. Today it is impossible to tell by a glance at street clothes anything about a person's wealth or position. It's even difficult at times to determine the sex of the individual by the clothing worn. We have moved to a real democracy as far as dress is concerned.

One of the University of Delaware Bicentennial exhibits is to be on decorative needlework. Work is being submitted now for a preliminary screening. Anyone living within a 100-mile radius of Newark is invited to submit work for possible acceptance. Information may be obtained from Miss Patricia Kent, cultural programs, Division of Continuing Education.

The national Bicentennial celebration is officially set to start on April 18, 1975, 200 years after Paul Revere's famous ride. By congressional decree the celebration is slated to continue through 1983. By that time we may be thoroughly sick of the whole idea, but it does give the textile industry time to focus on the important contributions of textiles to our cultural enrichment.

Del Tech South Adds Soccer Team

The Southern Campus of Delaware Technical and Community College, near Georgetown, will add soccer to the sports schedule, with a team to be fielded in the fall quarter.

Greg Weer, for the past three years physical education teacher at the Howard T. Ennis school, will coach the team, as well as spending some time during the summer recruiting players.

Weer is a 1972 graduate of the University of Delaware, where he went from Dickinson High in the Wilmington area. He and his wife, Renee, live in Lewes.

Leonard Nelson, director of recreation at the Southern Campus, says that games will be scheduled in the fall with the DT&CC Stanton Campus and with Brandywine College, two of the members of the new First-State Junior College

Conference which have soccer teams. He also anticipates games with neighboring junior colleges in New Jersey and with Chesapeake and Cecil colleges in Maryland, as well as with the University of Delaware junior varsity soccer team.

Evening practice sessions will be held next August. The season will get underway after the fall quarter opens in September, with the first game scheduled on September 17, home, against DT&CC Stanton.

Harrington Business Basketball

by Norman Short

Harrington's locally sponsored team made it 2 in a row last Tuesday night, defeating Penny's 36-31. The game was put on ice early in the 2nd half when the All-Business Five hit for 6 straight field goals.

High scorers for Harrington were Gary Anthony with 14 and Rick Collison, whose fine all-around play netted him 10.

Delaware Releases Final Season Basketball Stats

A sophomore, a junior and a senior emerged as the statistical leaders for the University of Delaware's 1974-75 basketball team.

The Blue Hens closed out their season last Saturday on a losing note dropping an 80-73 decision to Penn State. Delaware finished with a 12-13 log marking the first losing season at Delaware for head Coach Don Harnum who had guided the Hens to winning records in his first three years.

Captain Bill Sullivan (Cherry Hill, N.J.), one of only two seniors on the roster (The other was 6-6 center Don Otto, also from Cherry Hill), averaged 13.3 points a game, tops on the team and his best scoring average in three years with the varsity. Sullivan was also credited with 10 assists against Penn State bringing his season total to 166. That eclipsed the previous record of 124 held by Ken Helfand and during the 1971-72 season.

Sullivan finished his career with a record 353 assists. Sophomore Dennis Purcell (Upper Darby, Pa.), a 6-4 swingman, was the top field goal and free throw shooter. Purcell, who finished second to Sullivan in scoring with an average of 10.8 points a game, hit on almost 52 percent of his shots from the field (He converted on 107 of his 207 attempts) and better than 90 percent of his free throws (46 of 49).

The top rebounder was 6-9 junior Steve Schlachter (Plymouth Meeting, Pa.). Schlachter, who played both center and forward, pulled down 196 rebounds in 25 games for an average of 7.8 a game. This was an increase of almost two rebounds a game over his total of a year ago.

However, it was this phase of Delaware's game that perhaps more than anything led to the disappointing season. The Hens were outrebounded in 17 of the 25 games, and in 12 of those 17 games. Delaware was defeated. In addition, in 14 of the 25 games, the Hens' game high rebounder had less than 10 rebounds.

"And, when the season began, we felt rebounding would be one of our strong points," noted Harnum. "We had five players up front who were 6-6 or over including two who were 6-9. But, we just couldn't get any consistency from them."

Lack of consistency plagued the entire team.

"I just couldn't figure it out," said Harnum. "We had an excellent second half against Maine to beat them up there, but in our next game we lost to Towson. We played well against a good Montclair team, but our next time out we lost to Widener. It was that way all season."

Especially disappointing was Delaware's not making the East Coast Conference playoffs. They finished with a 4-4 Western Section mark tying them with Bucknell for third place in the Section. However, the Bisons received the final playoff spot because of a better overall record (14-11).

"The loss to Bucknell (63-62) here cost us a playoff spot," noted Harnum, whose team split in the two-game series with the Bisons. "Hopefully, we won't have that same inconsistency next year."

Bowling

The Spoilers hit an off night and dropped three points to Jarrell Fuel although Bruce Harrington rolled a 201 game and Carl Wright added a good above average effort. Dallas Hayman bowled a great 580 series which included a good 222 game and Norman Porter added a real good effort as did Howard Brown and Chester Short.

James Shultie rolled a good 206 game and 553 series and Wally Ryan hit a great 226 game and 530 series as the rest of the squad, including Larry Breeding, who contributed a good 220 game, bowled good above average efforts to pave the way for a three point victory for Wally's Garage. Big John's Son, their opponents, received good assists from John Powell, Jim Carroll and Sam Powell to salvage one point.

Jerry Hayman and John Forbes bowled real well as did Don Jester as Fry's American took three points from Robin's Hardware. Jeff Robbins paced all bowlers as he rolled a 212 game and 600 series, and Ray Jarrell added a good effort for the Hardware team to help keep the games close.

George Collins collected a 575 series, which included games of 203 and 206, and Kenny P. Outten added a real good 556 series with the rest of the Taylor and Messick squad bowling well to take all four points from Dur-A-Clean. Leon Porter and Dave Baker bowled good efforts for Dur-A-Clean.

Peoples Restaurant and McKnatt Funeral Home split

four games down the middle as Frank Collins rolled a 202 game and Bill Manship added a real good above average effort for the Restaurant team. Donald Garey rolled a good effort and Robert Garey also bowled well for McKnatts. Butler's Fuel and the T & M Rejects will match scores at a later date since the Fuelers were unable to bowl Tuesday night.

The Brothers Five squad could not get any kind of resistance together and dropped three points to the Harrington Moose although Ralph Dennis bowled well for Brothers Five. Dick Clegg scattered the pins for a 558 series which included a 223 game, and Jr. Gallo added a 201 game and 538 series for the Moose squad.

Robert O'Brier bowled real well as did Bernard Coffman as Penn Central rolled over Quillen's Market in two game to collect three points. Gene Wirick bowled a good 219 game to aid the Market team to salvage one point for their efforts.

Two Blue Hen Matmen Head For NCAA Finals

Roy Baker and Ed Janvier, considered two of the finest wrestlers ever to compete for the University of Delaware, will try to establish themselves as two of the top wrestlers in the country this weekend when they compete in the NCAA Championships.

The three-day affair, which kicks off Thursday, will be held at Princeton (N.J.) University's Jadwin Gym.

Double sessions will be held each day - The afternoon session will begin at 12:30 with the evening matches due to begin at 7:30. Thursday will be devoted to preliminary rounds; quarterfinals and semifinals along with consolation will be run Friday; while consolation semis and finals and championship finals will be held Saturday.

Baker, a 190-pounder from Parsippany, N.J. and Janvier, a 177-pounder from Wilmington, will be making their second trip to the Nationals. They qualified by winning their respective divisions at the East Coast Conference Championships more than a week ago.

Although they have not competed since March 1st, the past couple of weeks have been anything but a holiday for the pair.

"We had double practices all last week," said Hen coach Paul Billy. "They ran three miles in the morning and ran two miles plus wrestled about an hour and a quarter in the afternoon."

The opposition came from Roy Bastien, 167-pound runnerup at this year's Conference championships; Nick Martin, the Hens' premier 167-pounder from the 1972-74 seasons, and Lee Marvel, a linebacker on last fall's Delaware football team and a veteran wrestler of a year ago.

Baker and Janvier combined the running and wrestling practices in one session Saturday, Sunday and Monday. A light workout was scheduled for Tuesday.

"We are working harder this year than last," said Billy. In 1974, Baker and Janvier met with little success at the Nationals. Baker finished 1-2, while Janvier had a 1-1 record.

"Our practices this year have been geared to at least placing at the Nationals," said the Hen coach. "With their wrestling knowledge, they have the ability to win some matches. The question is their mental approach. If it's good and they stay healthy, they will do well."

Billy also expects his two seniors to be seeded. Of the expected 34 or 35 wrestlers in each of the 10 classes, only eight will be seeded.

"If they are not seeded I will be very upset," said Billy. "After all, they were both undefeated this year, they won the Wilkes Tournament (Baker was voted the tournament's Outstanding Wrestler) and at mid-season they were Honorable Mention All-American."
