Council Hears Sewer Proposal

Harry Trussell of Atlanta, Georgia who heads Texstand, Inc., a newcomer to Delaware, made a bold but convincing proposal during the council meeting Monday night. His proposal may be the answer to some serious problems concerning the city's sewer system and future town growth.

For many months, the State Board of Health and Water and Air Resources of the State of Delaware have threatened to stop any further development of additional new homes to the present sewer system. The directives have not resulted in final actions so far.

The City fathers have been aware of the sewer problems for quite some time. The present system has worn to the extent that surface water is infiltrating it. Aware of the problem, mainly through the advice of the engineering firm of Richardson and Associates, the City had decided earlier to undertake an engineering study of the sewer system situation. This study will cost approximately $66,000. The City's share of the amount is $9,900, of which they have already paid $4,000.

Trussell's proposal would include making a study of the sewer system in detail, with proposals and recommendations to guarantee successful results. This study would not cost the City initially.

Trussell referred to himself as a biological engineer, and he further pointed out the present sewer plant is adequate to handle approximately 10,000 families and a water flow of over 600,000 gallons of water each day. The present system is currently pumping around 300,000. Texstand Inc. appears to have access to a medium designed to reduce the waste in sewer lines biologically at pumping plant sites and lagoons. This is what the State Board of Health wants restricted, the amount of waste passing through the systems into the stream. Trussell says it can be done scientifically and more economically than the figure quoted by Richardson's firm.

The result of the presentation was that Council gave Texstand permission to conduct the study and to give its recommendations. To Trussell the problem related to the sewer matter is a simple one in that waste is not being properly disposed of before it reaches

Wind Storm Blasts Area

On Thursday a wind storm blew its way into Delaware and ceased by Sunday. In continuous intensity, the gusts were clocked as high as 50 miles an hour at times, with a steady force of about 35 miles an hour.

Thursday morning, a small tornado was viewed on the radar screen at Dover Air Force Base. It touched down on Lookerman Street in Dover, causing damage to the face of the Priscilla Building on the corners of State and Lookerman Streets. Braunstein's Dress shop is located in the building. From there, the tornado skipped over to the other side of U.S. # 13, where it hit the Dover East Mobile Park, overturning one trailer belonging to the ## Football Coach Named For L.F.

James Fleming, a 32 year old assistant coach to Marty Apostolico at Dickinson High School in the Stanton School District, was named the successor to Coach Al Wood as head football coach Monday night at a special school board meeting.

Wood resigned at the end of the season because of medical problems.

For the past six seasons, Fleming has been on the Dickinson coaching staff. He is a native of Boyertown, Pa., and his coaching career began as varsity assistant at Ogdenburg Free Academy in upstate New York. While in college at Kutztown State in Pennsylvania, he played varsity football as a defensive back.

A Desert?

Stinging sand blows across the Harrington to Milford road Friday. Harold Workman's house, which is invisible in the picture, is located beyond the truck, to the right. After the storm ended, Workman had about four inches of sand on his yard.

No Parking On East Commerce Street

Two steps were taken at the Harrington City Council meeting Monday night in an effort to ease the traffic congestion on Commerce Street.

It was decided there would be no parking on the east side of Commerce Street from the north side of Reese Avenue to the south side of Clark Street. This was amended to allow parking for funeral viewings and processions as well as loading and unloading in front of store buildings.

The reason for this action is that the downtown section is crowded on Commerce Street when vehicles are parked on both sides of the street. The action takes effect immediately.

Another problem related to traffic is the congestion created Friday evenings by customers using the Peoples Bank drive-in window along Gaines Alley.

For the next several weeks, there will be a patrolman stationed at the entrance to Gaines Alley to supervise right turns only onto Gaines Alley. It is believed the right turns will correct the present congestion.

Fire Ruins Storage Shed

Draper Loss Estimated Over $60,000

On Friday night around 8 p.m. when George and Pauline Dear returned from the home of Mrs. Dear's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Farrell, the smell of burning wood which was the old barn on the main farm of Draper Foods, Slaughter Neck, caught their attention.

Arriving on the scene at the same time as the Dears was Harry Clem who also lives near Draper Foods. He could see the north side of the building ablaze, and had come to the yard to assist. At this point the Dears had no water and the telephone wasn't working according to Dear. Apparently the fire had severed the power lines as well as the telephone wires. However, Mrs. Dear managed to phone Frank Draper and the Carlisle Fire Company in Milford.

By the time the fire company arrived, the building was engulfed in flames, which had accelerated because of the high winds. Dear said that he had seen many fires in his time, but nothing like this one. "There were large fire balls flying through the air." Some of those landed against his shed which housed all his tools, including a lawnmower, and many other items. All were lost, and he reported that he had no insurance. A portion of the roof of the adjoining tenant house was partially burned also. It was approximately 100 yards from the main section of the fire.

Frank Draper indicated that the loss included three tractors, two trucks, a fork lift, an untold number of tools, a washing machine, two welders, a tire changer and a truck mounted solder. Estimated loss of these items it was believed would range over $50,000.

The property damage was believed to be just as extensive. Some soybeans valued at nearly $5,000 and approximately $5,000 worth of aprons used on viners were also lost.

Kenny Dear, the son, had his pony fenced in an area near the shed that Dear lost. Reportedly, the pony broke loose during the fire, and has not been seen since. Dear, who has heart trouble, was taken to Milford Memorial Hospital upon developing pains in his chest. He was examined and released.

The cause of the fire is under investigation.

First Tax Rebates Due In May

The first of 78 million tax rebate checks will be mailed on May 9, according to the IRS. The bulk of mailings should be completed by the end of June. Delaware taxpayers can expect to receive $33 million in cash rebates, and a total of $72 million as a result of the entire tax reform package.

Payments stem from enactment of the Tax Reduction Act of 1975 which provides for a rebate on 1974 taxes of between $100 and $200 for most taxpayers.

Under the new legislation the maximum rebate is 10 percent of the tax liability up to a maximum rebate of $200, reduced by one percent of adjusted gross income in excess of $20,000, up to $30,000. Taxpayers with adjusted gross income in excess of $30,000 will receive a rebate of $100. Those who had a tax liability of less than $100 will receive a rebate equal to the tax liability.

The IRS pointed out that married persons filing separate returns will not get a larger rebate than those filing jointly since, under the law, the maximum rebate for a married person filing separately is $100.

So far 63 percent of Delaware taxpayers have filed federal tax returns with an average refund of $360, amounting to $32.4 million. With April 15 around the corner, IRS reminds taxpayers to double check all parts of their return. Errors in computation are still the number one error with missing schedules, signatures, and w-2's close behind.

IRS Taxpayer Service representatives in Delaware will answer questions regarding the rebate legislation, and all other tax related questions Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturdays (telephone service only) 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., April 14, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. (all services) and April 15, 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. (all services).

Q. What is a rebate?
A. A rebate is the return of a portion of your 1974 tax authorized by the Tax Reduction Act of 1975.

Q. What is the base for the IRS computation of rebates?

A. Generally, the Tax Reduction Act of 1975 provides 10 percent of 1974 tax as a base for computing rebates but establishes $200 as the maximum rebate.

Q. I had no federal tax liability in 1974; am I eligible for a rebate?

A. No, the rebate is based on liability for tax for 1974. Q. I receive social security benefits; will I receive both the $50 as a social security recipient and a tax rebate?

A. Yes, so long as you meet the general rules for eligibility for rebate. Q. What is the minimum rebate?

A. The law established $100 as the minimum rebate unless the taxpayer's 1974 tax was less than $100 in which event the entire amount of tax would be refunded in the form of a rebate.

Q. Will I receive any type of explanation with my rebate check?

A. Yes, each check will include an explanatory stuffer. Q. If my wife and I file separately, will we get a bigger rebate?

A. No, the maximum rebate for a married individual filing separately is $100. Q. My tax was less than $100 for 1974. Do I get a rebate?

A. Yes, individuals whose tax was less than $100 will receive a refund of the total amount of tax paid.

Q. I owe money on my 1974 tax; do I have to pay it before I get my rebate?

A. Yes, you should pay any amount of tax due. Otherwise, if you owe any money on your current year or any prior years' tax returns, your rebate will be credited to your account. If your rebate is greater than the amount you owe, the difference will be sent to you.

Q. I haven't received my refund; will this delay my rebate check?

A. No. Rebate checks will be issued quickly and in most instances by June 15, 1975. If you have not yet received your refund, it may be included in the same check. If the check has the words 'Ref & Reb' on it, this means that the amount of the check includes both the regular refund and the rebate. If it is for the rebate only it will have 'Tax Rebate' printed on it.

Q. I have received my refund; when will I receive my rebate?

A. We are processing these as soon as possible. However, there are about 78 million checks involving rebates and it will take some time for Treasury disbursing offices to process them all. It is anticipated that all rebates will be issued before the end of June.

Q. Will my $50 social security benefit and my tax rebate be included in the same check?

A. No, Social Security will authorize Treasury disbursing offices to issue the $50 separate from the tax rebate.

Q. My adjusted gross income for 1974 exceeded $20,000. Will this effect the amount of my rebate?

A. Yes, the maximum rebate is reduced proportionately for those with income over $20,000. Taxpayers with adjusted gross incomes over $30,000 will receive a maximum $100 rebate.

Harry G. Farrow, Jr.

...his name commanded respect...his passing will be sorely missed, and it is a warning for us to reevaluate our financial directions.

When I was growing up on my grandfather's farm on the Paradise Alley Road, I often heard our people mention his name. They would remark that he was a smart and capable person. He had their respect as well as the entire countryside. He remained a name to me, however, for it wasn't until many years later that I got the opportunity to meet him, even though I had lived in close proximity to him all my life.

He had called and had summoned me to meet him at the Felton Bank, a place that held his attention and affection. He was its strongest force. He was to commission me to represent him personally in a matter. I carried out his wishes as he directed. Although at that point I was meeting Nelson Hammond for the first time, I felt as though I had known him all my life. His ways...his manners...his gentleness and his keen insight left little doubt in my mind that he was as all reports had indicated.

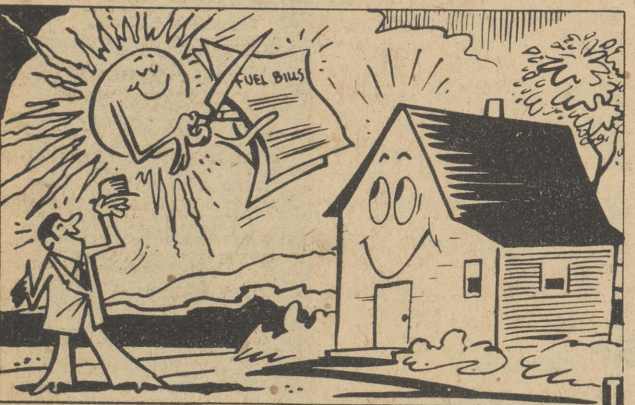

We note his passing as a great loss, for his professional judgement was sound. I believed him to have possessed a strong sense of fiscal responsibility which we need today in our state and country. Misguided decisions related to fiscal and economic situations have cost us dearly. Too many demands can be and have been placed upon government which in turn have called for increased budgets...to be sure, but tight budgets should have been the order of the day. Our most recent economic setback has been as a result of over spending as it regards Viet Nam. Much of the spending abroad is needed and is wise, but for the most part, a great deal is waste and could be averted through smart financial planning and supervision.

Fiscal responsibility and financial planning were Mr. Hammond's trademarks, and we need to carry these principles forth today in our lives...as well as in the affairs of state and country. Our country has in recent months teetered and bordered on a depression. The politicians, however, will not admit it for obvious reasons. Since Watergate, the checks of government have lapsed, and the economy has run out of control. There should have been more checks placed upon the utility companies, or in the alternative the disaster that confronted them and us in that category should have been headed off long before the emergency arose. Today when people are finished paying their cut-off bills, there is very little left for other things. How can there be? The demands of labor for higher wages as well as steadier working hours in the manufacturing line have produced an abundance of goods greater than the demand. Here again, poor planning has contributed.

When Mr. Hammond served in the State Senate and more so as Chairman of the Joint Finance Committee, he attempted to practice a code of strict fiscal responsibility with a balanced budget. This is where we must return in order for our economy to respond in a more controlled manner. To think as we have in the past that matters will come around quickly is not going to be the case with our situation at hand. It will take a much longer time, but it can be done with prudent fiscal planning, now.

NEWS OF ENERGY

HOW THE SUN CAN CUT YOUR FUEL BILLS

What would you say to an entire winter's heating bill of $24 for a four bedroom home in Baltimore, Md.? The family must have frozen to death, right? Wrong! Harry Thomson, a patent attorney from Washington, D.C. can prove it.

That's all Harry paid to heat his home last winter. And that $24 was to fire a standby system, because actually his energy supply is free - solar energy from the sun.

Soon the sun may shine on all your fuel bill woes since solar energy can reduce by 75% what it costs to warm your house in winter, and heat your water. And this heating revolution could come within five years for new home buyers.

Even now, a lucky few around the country are basking in warmth from their homemade solar energy systems. These systems catch the sun's heat - usually by using glass panels over aluminum sheets or tubes filled with water and ethyl glycol. The hot liquid is stored and pumped around the house to distribute heat as needed.

After one sunny day the stored up solar heat will last up to three days and if the clouds persist, a standby furnace takes over. Although experts believe solar heating is most efficient south of 40° latitude (or in the southern half of the U.S.), a homeowner should be able to use it effectively in northern New York State and southern Minnesota.

The increased cost to a new home builder for such a system is estimated at $1,500 to $6,000 - a sum soon paid back by lowered fuel costs. Although it will be easiest to design into a new home, it sometimes may be possible to add solar heat to an older house. What's required to install such a system in your home is that your roof face south and have a fairly steep slope.

Glass or plastic covers the aluminum like a big picture window to hold the heat in as the fluid runs from the pipe down the aluminum, gathering heat.

The heated fluid flows through another pipe back to a storage tank - then is distributed through the house by usual means. Perhaps you too will sometime soon be realizing the age-old dream of capturing power from the sun. If so, you'll also be realizing a way to stay comfortable all year while saving our energy supplies. A happy thought to let the sun shine in on.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:

I would like to publicly thank Mr. Tom Muehleisen and Mr. Dean Wern for taking their time to provide Saturday morning wrestling clinics for elementary boys in the Lake Forest School District. Their dedication to this most worthy program should not go unmentioned.

I realize some monetary reward is provided them from the school district for coaching their respective teams, but their interest goes far beyond what is expected of them.

My son, Charles, was fortunate to have been able to compete in the Junior Olympic Program. Although the Olympics is a nonschool program, Coaches Muehleisen and Wern encouraged and, in fact, even provided transportation for some of the participants in order for them to compete in the Delaware Regional Tournament held at Conrad High School on March 22.

The Mid-Atlantic finals were held in Lancaster, Pennsylvania on March 29, and who do you suppose was on hand to cheer our boys - on Coaches Muehleisen and Wern.

I am certain that other parents feel the same as I and join me in saying, "Thank you for giving our children an opportunity to do something worthwhile."

Sincerely,

David G. Jones

Honey production in Delaware totaled 20,000 pounds in 1974 compared with 34,000 the previous year. Yield per colony was 20 pounds - 14 pounds less than the 1973 yield. Prices averaged 75.7 cents per pound - 6.6 cents more than the 1973 price of 69.1 cents. The value of the 1974 honey production was $15,000 - $8,000 less than the 1973 value of $23,000. Stocks in producers hands at mid-December totaled 2,000 pounds - 3,000 pounds below a year earlier.

Honey produced in the United States during 1974 totaled 185 million pounds - down 22 percent from the 1973 crop. This year's honey crop was produced by 4.2 million colonies, up 2 percent from the previous year. Yield of honey per colony was 44.2 pounds, compared with 57.9 in 1973.

Fleming indicated he hopes to use the Delaware Wing-T offense and would build the team first by instituting off-season weight lifting programs.

The School Board selected Fleming from a field of four other candidates. Superintendent Albert W. Adams indicated that coaching records were important but they were required to fill their teaching posts first.

Fleming will teach science. He has taught biology, physics and chemistry. He has attended three national science foundation institutes.

He is married to the former Linda Stout. They have four children, ranging in ages from 6 to 13 years old.

Herbert Whitham family. Locally, the highways became a hazard when sand from newly plowed fields blew across roads, causing almost zero visibility at points. Pete duPont Reports

The Congress of the United States has taken yet another irresponsible step down the road to fiscal insanity. The $24 billion tax cut bill on top of a federal budget which already faces a deficit of over $60 billion will prove to be a cruel hoax to the American taxpayer. It is a hoax that will return to haunt him in the form of raging inflation, skyrocketing interest rates, and economic chaos.

Some time ago, faced with mounting unemployment and economic recession, I supported and voted for a $17 billion tax cut bill to stimulate a recession-plagued economy-became a Frankenstein monster, stalking the economic landscape, threatening to smash our delicately balanced economy and destroy all hope of a full economic recovery.

But even more important, since the beginning of year, the Congress has taken a $52 billion 1976 deficit and expanded it to over $85 billion. Indeed, since the House last considered this bill, it has increased the potential federal deficit in the budget by $8 billion.

I have voted against these irresponsible spending bills, for it is clear to me that unless someone gets control of this 'runaway' Congress the 1976 deficit could go over $100 billion-nearly double the record $52 billion deficit which the President originally forecast.

A $100 billion deficit would be an economic disaster for everyone in this country-particularly the middle income taxpayers that this bill sought to help. A $100 billion deficit will: ↑ Send interest rates(which had started down) skyrocketing bak through the ceiling as the government launches a massive borrowing campaign to finance the deficit. ↑ Set off a wave of inflation which will send prices soaring again after recent price easing. ↑ Destroy consumer confidence-the key to any economic recovery-in the wake of the news of a $100 billion deficit. ↑ Dry up available mortgage money in savings and loan institutions just as the corner had been turned. In January and February, for example, savings and loans reversed the recent trends and recorded near record inflows after net deficits in mid and late 1974.

This is truly a 'runaway' Congress with no direction, no leadership, little responsibility and less judgement.

Curtis Rash reported to the Journal that the picture above is all private property. He claims to own all the property from the north side of the cross over of the intersection of rts. 14 and 13 from both lanes of # 13 up to and around the west side of the building in the background.

Roth Views Offshore Resources

I have long been critical of the way the Interior Department manages our publicly-owned oil and natural gas resources. Now serious questions have been raised by the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress.

After an exhaustive study, GAO has found that the Interior Department's plans to expedite oil and gas leasing on the outer continental shelf were too hastily conceived because of the energy emergency and because the department was afraid the new Federal Energy Administration would be given authority for the program. The GAO also concluded that the Interior Department's offshore leasing policies were based on overly optimistic assumptions and inaccurate data and did not give adequate consideration to environmental concerns important to coastal communities and states.

The Interior Department currently has administrative responsibility for oil and natural gas leases already in effect which cover some 85 million acres of public domain. This includes more than 10 million acres on the outer continental shelf, principally in the Gulf of Mexico. The department has now called for site nominations by the oil industry as a first step toward leasing several million additional acres on the mid-Atlantic ocean shelf, a large section of which is 30 to 60 miles off Delaware's coast.

I have repeatedly questioned whether the Interior Department has given full and proper consideration to the cultural, social, economic and environmental consequences of its plans for opening major oil and natural gas tracts in the mid-Atlantic. I have also challenged the department's present management practices on the ground that they do not ensure adequate return to the public or to coastal areas affected by the development and exploration of these valuable publicly-owned resources.

Not long ago I reintroduced a comprehensive bill which would improve our management of public oil and gas leases and would assure that the public receives fair compensation for oil and natural gas recovered from public lands. The public owns the bulk of the nation's remaining fossil fuel resources, including an estimated 35 percent of our oil and gas, 50 percent of our coal, and 85 percent of our oil shale.

The revenues gained from the sale of these resources and the manner in which these resources are managed are critical to our continued strength and independence.

The principal feature of my bill from the standpoint of Delawareans is that 50 percent of all fees and royalties collected from offshore oil and gas leases would be paid to the adjacent coastal state to compensate it for whatever on-shore costs arise. Under current policies of the Interior Department, these revenues, which have amounted to $15 billion since 1954, are not shared with the states.

I think this bill would be a major step forward in assuring that our efforts to increase domestic supplies of energy resources are efficiently managed and that the interests of coastal states and communities are protected.

Addresses Rotary

Joseph B. Ahlschier, Administrator for Milford Memorial Hospital, spoke to the Harrington Rotarians during their Monday night meeting. A native of Texas, his educational background is in medicine from the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond. His association in the medical field has been in physical therapy. Mr. Ahlschier in speaking to Rotary informed the group that approximately ten percent of the patients at the hospital are from the Harrington area. He further added that the new professional building to the rear of the hospital has been a most helpful addition. The hospital is the second largest enterprise in Milford. Howard Wagner, club president, introduced the speaker citing his background as including being the past president of the Association of Delaware Hospitals, a representative of all Delaware hospitals as a delegate to the House of Delegates of the American Hospital Association. He is also a member of the American College of Hospital Administrators. Ahlschier has been the administrator since arriving in Milford in 1964. He is married and is the father of two teen-age daughters.

Speaking Of Insects Students To Perform At Music Confab

Slugs are unsightly pests in many gardens and greenhouses. A close relative of the snail, slugs damage plants, often completely destroying seedlings. What's more, they leave an unsightly slime trail on plants and walks. Crushed on walks and driveways, they can be a hazard and often become an odorous mess.

A simple, effective trap for slugs is a group of boards six inches square or larger, placed around the garden or under greenhouse benches. Check the boards each morning and destroy slugs found there. Other non-chemical controls include the use of four-inch wide strips of fly screen, placed on edge and partially embedded in the soil. This will keep slugs out of an area.

Natural predators of the slug include several species of ground beetle and fireflies or lightning bugs. Toads are their most important natural enemy.

Slugs will avoid crawling over anything dry, dusty or scratchy, such as lime, road dust, cinders, gravel or sand. The excessive secretion of mucus needed to free themselves from these materials soon exhausts them and they die. A border of any one of these inert materials will prove helpful in control. Other materials that have been reported as helpful are seven percent copper dust, five percent sevin dust, hydrated lime and urea.

Remember, too, that tall, dense stands of plants provide attractive conditions for slugs. Keep such areas thinned out sufficiently to allow for sunlight, air movement and good drying conditions.

Metaldehyde has worked well as a slug control chemical. Commercial preparations containing metaldehyde are available at farm stores and at many garden centers and hardware stores. It is sold as a liquid (Slugit) and as pellets (Snarol and Bug-geta). All formulations are good, but they must be applied about every two days until the slugs are gone.

There is also a new material called Mesuroil with a federal registration for use around home, in flower gardens and in ornamental greenhouses. It is a two percent pellet bait. The bait should be applied to soil around plants but not directly to plant foliage. It is not to be used on plants grown for food, though. The rate of application is one pound per 1000 square feet of area. Always read the label before using any pesticide for specific directions and precautions. Dogs may be attracted to the Mesuroil bait, so be careful to keep them away from treated areas.

Students To Perform At Music Confab

Music students at Lake Forest South Elementary School will present an open rehearsal for their parents and friends on Wednesday, April 16 at 7:30 p.m. These students will present the program they plan to offer during the Music Educators National Conference on April 18th in Philadelphia.

The open rehearsal will give parents and friends a chance to see some of the things the students will do at the convention. The technical name for the program is 'Aesthetic Music Education-Perceptual Learning Experiences.' These experiences are the activities used at South Elementary.

Donald L. Banschbach, music teacher at Lake Forest South, was asked to present a demonstration of his learning theories at the conference and is happy to have the students show the things that would take hours to talk about. 'Seeing the experience is far more interesting than hearing someone talk about it,' says Banschbach.

Presents 'Musical Week'

Wesley College's Music Department presents a week of musical events both on and off campus beginning Saturday, April 12, when the Concert Band will give a shopper's concert at the Blue Hen Mall.

The Wesley Madrigal Singers, a small, select group of students dressed in costume of the early Colonial period, will present a concert-festival of Music for a Colonial Evening on Wednesday, April 16 at 8 p.m. in the Wesley College Center, Room 206.

The twelve singers will perform music that would probably have been heard in Europe or in the colonies about the time of the Revolution. A portion of this section of the program will feature music of William Billings, the first American composer of note. Highlighting the evening will be ceremonial and court dances, choreographed by Elizabeth Toulmin of the Dover School of Ballet. The steps of these dances are historically correct and come from the early 18th century. The program will end with a brief tour of American music composed since the time of the American Revolution.

A recital of two-piano music, given by pianists William Fairlamb and Dennis Sweigart, of the Lebanon Valley College faculty, will take place in the College Center Room 206 on Thursday, April 17, at 8 p.m.

All concerts are open to the public at no charge.

Garden Tours In Virginia Are Next Saturday

VIRGINIA BEACH, VA.

As they have done in the past unofficially for centuries, Virginians again will herald the coming of Spring by welcoming visitors to their lush gardens and lovely homes.

Historic Garden Week in Virginia, a tradition that was formalized 42 years ago, will be observed this year from Saturday, April 19, through Sunday, April 27.

During this week, more than 200 private homes and gardens in the Old Dominion will be open to the public, many of them for the only time during the year.

Almost a fourth of the homes on the 1975 Garden Week schedule are located in the Greater Metropolitan Norfolk Area and on the Eastern Shore of Virginia, the two eastern-most areas of the state which are linked together by the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel.

Tidewater Virginia's Garden Week will begin in Portsmouth, a historical port city adjacent to Norfolk. Among the seven homes that will be open there on Saturday, April 19, are Hill House, built in the early 1800's; Pass House, built in 1841 and occupied during the Civil War by General Benjamin F. Butler, and the Commandant's House, built in 1824 at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard, oldest shipyard in the country.

Six contemporary houses and gardens will be open in the beach area of Virginia Beach on Tuesday, April 22. The Adam Thoroughgood house, built in 1634 and believed to be the oldest brick house in America, will be open to the public, as usual.

On Wednesday, April 23, Garden Week will focus on Newport News, and Hampton

Newport News, Hampton and Norfolk where 15 homes and gardens will offer a striking contrast between contemporary and traditional architecture. While the homes in Newport News and Hampton are of recent vintage, the Norfolk group includes the Myers House built in 1791. Also, in Norfolk are the Willoughby-Baylor House and Taylor-Whittle House built in the same decade.

On the following day, Thursday, April 24, eight homes will be open in the Princess Anne section of Virginia Beach. These include the Wishart House, one of the country's best preserved 17th century structures.

Across the Chesapeake Bay, on Saturday and Sunday, April 26 and 27, Virginia's Eastern Shore will open seven homes and gardens to the public. These include five houses that were constructed between 1750 and 1850 and two homes of more recent vintage.

The Eastern Shore, which was more difficult to reach for the state's mainland when motorists had to depend on a ferry for the crossing, is now only a short 23-minute drive from Virginia Beach, via the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel.

Take Care of Roses Now

Spring is upon us, and it's time to get to work on those roses in your garden. Rose care is practically a year-round job, says Dr. Charles Dunham, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

Back in January or February you should have fertilized all your rose plants. If you haven't done that yet, that's the first chore ahead of you. Apply a half cup of complete fertilizer (like 5-10-10) to each plant or four pounds per 100 square feet of bed. Don't delay this feeding any longer. Your roses need it to support all the new growth they're beginning to put out.

The next step in your current rose care will be to remove winter protection from around your plants.

Next, prune plants back 10 to 24 inches, depending on the variety and effect desired. Cut all winter injured stems back to live wood and remove completely all slender, twiggy growth.

Then, spade in about two inches of peat, humus, compost or manure as deeply as practical to replace organic matter in the soil.

This is the time to begin preventive spray programs, too. Though intended for both insect and disease control, a good spray program is especially important for disease control. To be effective, sprays must be applied on a systematic basis, not just now and then.

If you plan to buy new roses this year, don't buy dormant roses after April 15. Instead, go to potted roses, which can be successfully planted anytime during the growing season.

In selecting a rose for your garden, consider the purpose you have in mind for it. For landscape purposes, your best bet are the floribundas. They produce more flowers and the bushes are more compact. If your interest is in specimen plants, flowers for cutting or larger bushes, consider the hybrid tea roses and grandifloras.

Two factors determine the cost of rose bushes, says the horticulturist. First, the quality of the bush itself. This is determined by the number and thickness of canes. You'll find most companies fairly competitive on this score.

the other factor affecting the price of rose bushes is variety. Some of the older rose varieties with expired patents, such as Peace, are cheaper than the newer, patented ones. Many of these older varieties are just as good. Which kind you buy depends on your purpose as a gardener.

For a helpful schedule of rose care, call your county extension office in Newark, Georgetown or Dover. While you're at it, you might also ask for a copy of the free fact sheet on 'Common Rose Diseases.' This information is also available by writing Mail Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, De 19711.

Food And Fuel Fund Reaches Many - Need Is Great

Responding to a severe need for food and fuel by persons in Kent County, a task group was organized in November 1974 under the aegis of the Kent County Ecumenical Ministries. Dr. Robert P. Whitlock, senior minister of Wesley Church in Dover, and coordinator of the task group, announces that to date over $5,000 in cash has been contributed to the fund, with more than $25,000 in food boxes distributed to families through food pantries established at Holy Cross and First Baptist Churches of Dover. Used clothing is distributed at closets in Wesley Church, People's Church, and Catholic Social Services. Thousands of pieces of clothing have been recycled through these outlets since last fall.

The cash, food, and clothing have been contributed primarily by churches in the Dover area, with assistance from civic groups, individuals and businesses. The need is greater than resources available.

Persons receiving assistance are screened and referred by either Catholic Social Services or the State Division of Social Services. Any persons in need of help are encouraged to contact either of these agencies located in Dover. The effort is county-wide. Already over 200 families have been reached with cash help and hundreds more with food and clothing.

The case history which follows is an example of the way in which the Emergency Food and Fuel Fund is assisting citizens of Kent County. A mother of five children, contacted the agency for emergency assistance. She was employed part-time, earning $75 per week. Her support payments had not come and her ex-husband had been laid off. She did not have enough income to cover basic living expenses and was unable to find full-time employment due to the present job situation. She had run out of propane gas four days prior and the gas company refused to deliver unless she had the cash. The propane gas was used both for heating and cooking. She had been asking friends to keep her children at night so they could be in a heated home.

After verifying her situation, the Emergency Food and Fuel Fund paid for her propane gas delivery. A food order for three days was obtained, since the applicant was also low on food.

The community is urged to respond to such needs by sending checks to Kent County Ecumenical Ministries, Emergency Food and Fuel Fund, Blue Hen Mall, Dover, De 19901. Food and clothing may be taken to the outlets mentioned above.

Members of the task group are available to speak at local civic group meetings or churches. A benefit concert will be held Wednesday, April 16th at 7:30 p.m. in Wesley Church, proceeds of which will be given to the Emergency Food and Fuel Fund.

Spring is here and thoughts are turning to the great outdoors. As you've been digging out the lawn and garden equipment, I'll bet you came upon the charcoal grill. No better time than the present to put it to work. True, it's still a bit chilly for eating on the patio, but not too cool to cook out and bring that outdoor flavor inside.

Spoilers Take Second Half of Bowling Series

Congratulations, Spoilers on winning the second half championship!

How fitting it was that the two top teams bowled each other on the final night of the regular season for the championship spot. The Spoilers jumped to an early lead against Wally's Garage and battled their way to a three point victory and the title as Jack Sapp bowled a 555 series, which included a 205 game and Carl Wright added an above average effort. Norman Woodall and Wally Ryan bowled well for Wally's Garage.

Taylor and Messick has started putting it all together as they took all four points from Quillen's Market. Kenny P. Outten rolled a 202 game as he collected a 581 series and George Collins hit a 563 series, which included a 201 game, while Tom Brown aided the cause with a 523 set. Dennis Pase and Gene Wirick bowled well for Quillen's.

Fry's American became the third place team eligible to bowl in the championship roll-offs as they took the overall win and loss title through a process of elimination of the other top teams.

While the Spoilers eliminated the only other team that could possibly get into the roll-offs, Fry's padded their overall record by taking all four points from Harrington Moose. John Forbes bowled very well as he collected a 581 series, which included 204 and 222 games, and Jerry Hayman added a 203 game. Congratulations, Fry's.

The Moose squad, which had pre-bowled their games due to the fact that they would be unable to be present on the last night, received a great effort from Lee Dill, who rolled a 530 series, while Paul Faulkrod and Alan Baker added their efforts.

McKnett Funeral Home received a great effort from Robert Garey as he hit a 200 game and a 564 series, while Ken Garey and Harry Jack added their efforts, with the team collecting three points from the T & Mrejects. Jr. Bishop, Bob Wilson and Jimmy Messick bowled well for the Rejects.

Jim Fitzhugh, Phil Shulties and Bill Manship bowled well, but saw their team, People's Restaurant, drop three points to Butler's Fuel. Charlie Brown had the hot hand for Butler's as he scattered the pins for a 223 game and 586 series, with Ralph Butler and Larry Larimore contributing, the latter with a 203 game.

Dallas Hayman had a fantastic night, as he lead all bowlers, scorching the boards for a superb 651 series, which included games of 200, 219 and 232 while leading Jarrell Fuel on a four point romp over Big John's Son. Harold Melvin also added a 537 series and Norman Porter added for Jarrell's. Big John's Son received a good effort from Jim Carroll.

Brothers Five took all four points from Robbin's Hardware, as Ron Keily rolled games of 212 and 204 for a great 584 series and Richard Dennis backed the team up with a 203 game and 582 series, and Ralph Dennis and Chris Moore-549-bowled well. Herb Robbins, Ray Jarrell and Leon Grod-kiewicz bowled well for Robbin's.

Penn Central swept all four points from Dura-Clean as Bernie Coffman, Paul and Gary Baker bowled well. Bill Brode and Roy Porter bowled well for Dura-Clean. The roll-off schedule is as follows: Monday, April 14-Taylor & Messick vs. Spoilers; Tuesday, April 15-Spoilers vs. Fry's American; Wednesday, April 16-Taylor & Messick vs. Fry's American; Wednesday, April 16-Taylor & Messick vs. Fry's American.

Little League Needs Responsible Parents

which membership implies baby-sitting benefits and entertainment privileges.

Practically speaking, Little League is an adult, volunteer work project constructed, supervised and assisted by parents who desire to make its benefits extend to their children.

Each parent should join in the total effort. There is a place and a job to do for all. The burden of operating the league should not fall on a few. The parent who shirks this responsibility cannot, in turn, expect others to assume the burden.

The parents of more than three million Little Leaguers combined with their youngsters, league officials, umpires, managers, coaches, auxiliary members and countless volunteer agencies including sponsors, represent an imposing cross section of this nation.

Parents should accept the fact that they must shoulder responsibility and take initiative to make the local program successful. Little League is not a club in

Town And Country

BOB MULROONEY

ASSISTANT KENT COUNTY AGENT

The University of Delaware in cooperation with the University of Maryland will soon begin its Mexican bean beetle parasitoid release program. The tiny parasitic wasp, a native of India, does not have a common name yet. It is scientifically known as Pediobius foveolatus. The tiny wasp parasitizes the larvae of the Mexican bean beetle, an insect pest of snap beans, lima beans, and soybeans. The tiny wasp offers an alternative to chemical spraying to control the Mexican bean beetle.

Growers and ecologists both will benefit from the savings in pesticide usage. The concerted effort of research and extension personnel along with grower cooperation will make this program a success. The first step will be starting snap beans, the preferred host of the bean beetle, in greenhouses in early April. These plants will be the host for the Mexican bean beetles which will be released in May in the greenhouses. Once the bean beetles have established themselves the wasps will be released to parasitize the larvae. These parasitized larvae or 'mummies' will be distributed in soybean fields for nature to take its course.

The second stage is the planting of nurse crops of snapbeans in various locations throughout the county. Some farmers have already said they would cooperate by allowing a small part of a field to be used for raising bean beetles and parasites. Once parasitized larvae of the bean beetle are found in the nurse crop, these plots will serve as the source of wasps for distribution throughout the county. This should be some time in the middle of July. The parasite is expected to prevent the population explosion of beetles in the late summer and early fall.

The great advantage of the parasite is its reproductive ability. Between 10 to 20 parasites hatch from each parasitized larva, and can produce three generations of offspring in the time the bean beetles can produce one. The parasite does not naturally overwinter in Delaware so it must be artificially reared each season.

The success of the program seems to hinge on rearing sufficient numbers of parasites for release, and proper timing of releases when there are bean beetle larvae in the field to support the wasps.

We will be glad to cooperate with anyone who would like to help in this effort or answer any questions on this program. Contact your County Agent by phoning 736-1448 or writing P.O. Box 340, Dover.

'Colonial Daye' Set At U of D

An authentic colonial celebration will be held on the University of Delaware mall from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, April 19, on the 200th anniversary of the 'Shot heard round the world', the beginning of the American Revolution.

This 'Daye in Colonial Delaware,' sponsored by the University and the Delaware American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, will be free and open to the public.

Paul Parvis, a senior history major from Newark, chairs a committee of university students who have been planning the celebration for more than a year to ensure its historical authenticity.

The program for the 'Publicke Daye' of 200 years ago will include militia marches, historical vignettes, music by bagpipes and folk entertainment.

Also to be featured during the 'daye' will be demonstrations by tradespeople from Williamsburg, Va., Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and West Virginia. These demonstrations will include 18th century bread baking, blacksmithing, applebutter making, tailoring, quilting, spinning, paper making, shake making, hewing, pit sawing, pipe making and candle making.

In addition, persons attending will be able to take carriage rides, participate in or observe colonial games such as sack and candle races and quoits, and will have the opportunity to sample colonial food and drink.

Films from Williamsburg also will be shown, and approximately 150 persons will be dressed in authentic colonial costume as the townspeople of 1775. In the evening a free public program of colonial music also is planned.

Free parking will be available in university parking lots April 19. In case of rain, the 'Colonial Daye' will be held April 26.

Plan Fair Enteries Now

by George K. Vappa

So you have a nice garden. Yes, you might win a prize at the 1975 Delaware State Fair. Now here is what you will need to do.

First, phone 398-3269, or write the Delaware State Fair, Harrington, DE 19952, and ask for a premium catalog. Next, fill out the entry blank accurately and be sure to mail it in on time. Most applications are due by July 1st.

Let's assume you have entered both vegetables and fruits; on the day entries are due, check to see that your samples are true to type, of marketable size, and uniform in both size and shape. Of course, they should be clean and free of insect or disease damage.

Now for some examples: tomatoes—the largest may not win. But it helps if you have checked the points above and can still meet the standards. Official USDA grades are a good guide, as are seed catalogues.

With potatoes, again, be sure you have named the proper variety. Check against the catalogue and select for quality, maturity, trueness of type. Your Vo Ag teacher or county extension agent can help you further as well as your catalogue sources with pictures.

With fruits, be sure to name the proper variety and select for trueness to type, maturity, freedom from disease or insect damage and uniformity in size and shapes.

We'll leave the selection of other crops or animals to others more qualified and able to help. Just remember, if you want to win...observe all the rules for each class, fill out the forms carefully, get them to the fair office on time and then hope that your entry will measure up and win. It's fun and well worth your time. The secret is not just to grow the crop, but to prepare and enter it so that you have a chance to win. Others do. So can you.

Home Gardening Workshop Set

The Delaware Cooperative Extension will sponsor a Home Gardening Workshop on Saturday, April 12, at Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark. The workshop will begin at 9:30 a.m. and continue until noon, according to Dr. Charles Dunham, extension horticulturist at the University.

The program will be divided into an indoor session and three simultaneous outdoor sessions. The indoor session will feature three staff members. Dr. Vernon Fisher, professor of plant science will speak on 'Fruits for the Home Garden' at 9:30. David Tatnall, extension home gardening specialist, will talk about 'The Vegetable Garden—What To Do Now' at 10:10. At 10:40, Dr. Dunham will talk about 'Pruning Pointers for Garden Plants.' The indoor session will be in the auditorium.

The outdoor sessions begin at 11:00 and will be demonstrations on pruning fruit plants by Dr. Fisher, pruning and planting roses by Mr. Tatnall, and pruning and planting ornamental trees and shrubs by Dr. Dunham. The outdoor demonstrations will be located in the small fruit orchard, the rose garden, and the Clark Garden, respectively.

The sessions are free and open to the public. No registration is required. The indoor sessions will be held rain or shine.

It Seams To Me

by Janet Reed

Fabric prices are down. If you have shopped for fabric recently you have noticed the wonderful bargains, especially polyester knits.

Even though manufacturers are trying to promote the use of newer fabrics, and even though we may be tired of polyester knits, some of us are not about to give them up. They still offer one of the most care-free, practical, easy-to-sew fabrics we have had for a long time. And now they're bargains as well. Prices of these knits are down just at the time when you may be wanting to invest in summer clothes and sportswear. Buy some for yourself and if there are pieces left, make garments for the youngsters.

While you're looking at fabrics, you may be tempted to buy others that are important for the summer scene. There are lots of sheers, soft drapable knits, terry cloth in both stretch and non-stretch, stretch fabrics for swimsuits, seersuckers, and all sorts of variations of the natural fiber look.

If you sew on a fabric you haven't tried before, you may need to experiment a bit so you will have maximum success.

Each fabric requires different techniques in handling. Analyze the effect you wish to achieve and adapt sewing techniques for your purpose. Aim for a smooth, neat appearance on the outside of the garment.

To become acquainted with your fabric try these simple tests. Gently pull the fabric lengthwise and crosswise to determine the amount of stretch or 'give' in both directions. All fabrics have some stretch and you can use this to your advantage. This is one reason we normally cut out a garment on lengthwise grain. Most fabrics stretch most on crosswise grain and we use this stretch on the body where we need it most.

If the fabric stretches a great deal—as in some knits, or swimsuit fabrics—you can cut a pattern with no ease allowance and possibly no fitting darts. You probably will need special patterns to allow for this extra stretch.

The 'letting' edge in fashion now is only possible when there is great crosswise stretch. Each fabric enables you to use different techniques.

Feel the fabric to determine the bulkiness. You may want to make facings and pocket linings of a lighter weight fabric. You may need top stitching to hold edges in place. Maybe you can think of other ways to eliminate some of the bulkiness in double fabric areas.

Fiber content of fabrics will determine pressing temperatures you can use. It's always a good idea to press test a sample of your fabric before touching an iron to the garment. This helps you determine the amount of heat and moisture needed for a smooth appearance.

Examine the design in the fabric. Will it need matching? Where will you place the design on your body? Does the design limit your style choice?

Part of the fun of sewing is the analysis of each new project in relation to the fabric, to your pattern style and to your figure. This analysis also helps you achieve a more successful garment.
