Thousands View ILC Cycle Classic

A standing room only crowd of 9,510 at Delaware State Fairgrounds in Harrington last Saturday night saw high school student Jay Springsteen win his second National Championship motorcycle race in a row, taking the lead on the sixth lap.

Springsteen, who won the event at Louisville, Ky., the previous Saturday night, took home close to $5,000 for his nine minutes work in the winning lap ILC Cycle Classic main event.

Michigan riders showed the favorites from California the midwest has some considerable talent, as finishing behind the Flint, Michigan, teenager was Rex Beauchamp, from Drayton Plains, Michigan. Third was Gary Scott, from Springfield, Ohio.

Coming into the ILC Cycle Classic race, Yamaha factory racer Ken Roberts, the National Champion two years in a row, had his 1975 points lead threatened by Gary Scott. And, at Harrington, Roberts' fourth place finish just wasn't good enough; Gary Scott took the points lead for the first time in his career and in an interview after the race said, "It sure feels good to be on top. I'm going to try my very best to hold it now until the end of the season in October. I know that 12 more is a lot of races, but I'll sure try."

Mrs. Helen Games Retires

Mrs. Helen V. Games, of Lake Forest East Elementary, was the honored guest last Tuesday (at a retirement gathering) in Frederica. Mrs. Games has retired following a 23-year career of teaching in Delaware schools.

A Milford resident, she was born near Felton and attended an area school now closed. At the age of 14 she boarded at Delaware State College in order to attend the high school at the campus.

She continued her education at Delaware State College for two years and completed her collegiate program at Virginia State College at Petersburg, Va.

Although Mrs. Games retired as a first grade teacher, the first post was as a junior high school home economics teacher in Milford.

During World War II she tried the Army Signal Corps in Philadelphia. It was "one of those lazy jobs," she recalled.

Shortly after the war she began teaching again, this time in Millsboro. This move necessitated certification in elementary education which she earned while teaching.

Mrs. Games has been at Frederica school for nine years. She came prior to the redistricting of the school district.

"You have to keep up with all the (educational) changes, now," she remarked as she finished handling end of the year student workbooks. She continued, "I have enjoyed every minute here...the people, the children, especially the children."

In the future she plans to work around home and travel. "I like gardening...puttering." She has a list of summer projects planned, including canning foods. After the work season is over, she hopes to "do some sewing and take some trips."

She has been active in community activities as a member of John Wesley AME Church near Milford and as a member of the Peninsula section of the National Council of Negro Women.

Fireworks Are Annual Hazard

State Fire Marshal J. Benjamin Roy, Jr. said today that fireworks continue to be a serious problem in Delaware and he has ordered Deputy State Fire Marshals to crack down hard on violators.

Roy said during the past two weeks his Deputies have confiscated hundreds of "sparklers" and "snaps" from merchants who were offering them for sale unaware they are illegal.

On May 29th, Roy said, a Claymont garage was damaged when neighborhood children set fire to the roof while throwing "sparklers" in the air and Youth Aid Officers of the Delaware State Police have reported a rash of "snaps", small Class C fireworks, being thrown in schools and shopping centers.

Roy said all fireworks are illegal in Delaware and said the "so-called safe and sane" fireworks are a fallacy and last year were responsible for deaths, serious injury and large loss fires across the nation.

Roy referred to an incident in nearby Camden, New Jersey of a 19-year-old youth who ignited a firecracker which in turn caught his living room curtains on fire and spread through a block of row houses and nine stores resulting in the death of a three-year-old child.

The State Fire Marshal said many fireworks are brought into the state by Delawareans returning from holidays in Florida and other southern states.

Roy said traditionally fireworks incidents increase as the 4th of July period approaches and warned that his office will arrest anyone who sells, possesses or uses them. He said merchants have a responsibility to determine for themselves questionable items that may be classified as fireworks before they offer them for sale to the public.

Roy said the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has banned the sale of fireworks anywhere in the nation after July 18, 1975. The State Fire Marshal's office, Roy said, endorsed the regulation along with the National Fire Protection Association and the National Association for the Prevention of Blindness and he hoped that next year's national survey of fireworks incidents is less lengthy and less tragic than 1974.

Rotary Celebrates 50th

The Rotary Club of Milford celebrated its 50th anniversary on Monday night with a dinner at the Milford High School. Rotary clubs from many districts were in attendance. The Har-

Harrington Club was represented by George Thompson, Howard Wagner, Cliff Miller, Leon Porter, Mark Willey, Richard Johnson and Harry Farrow, Jr.

The guest speaker for the evening was the noted news analyst Donald Barnhouse, formerly of WCAU radio and of TV fame. Mr. Barnhouse is currently the executive secretary for the committee of 70, a watchdog group in the City of Philadelphia. The theme of his talk was "...to look on the bright side of things." He talked about the fact that news media today report the bad side of the news when there are so many good things happening. At one point, Barnhouse's speech was interrupted by applause when he suggested that we could do a lot in cleaning up our political system. His basic point was that there was so much good news going unreported, which includes the vast majority of the news whereas the small percentage of the news which was the bad side, was being reported more regularly than the good news.

Charter members honored by the reading of their names were: Charles D. Abbott, S. C. Evans, Jr., R. Arthur Derrickson, Walter J. Grier, Louder N. Hearn, C. Donnan Holzmueller, C. J. Holzmueller, Oliver V. James, Willard R. Pierce, James P. Pierce, Harry J. Pettyjohn, William C. Powers, G. Thompson Reed, N. M. Stokes, William V. Sipple, Jr., G. Marshall Townsend, Stephen P. ## Tips On Saving Water And Energy

Our underground water supply is 2,000 to 3,000 times greater than all the lakes, streams and rivers combined, according to the Ground Water Council. While scientists agree we are not in danger of running out of water, we should use it wisely.

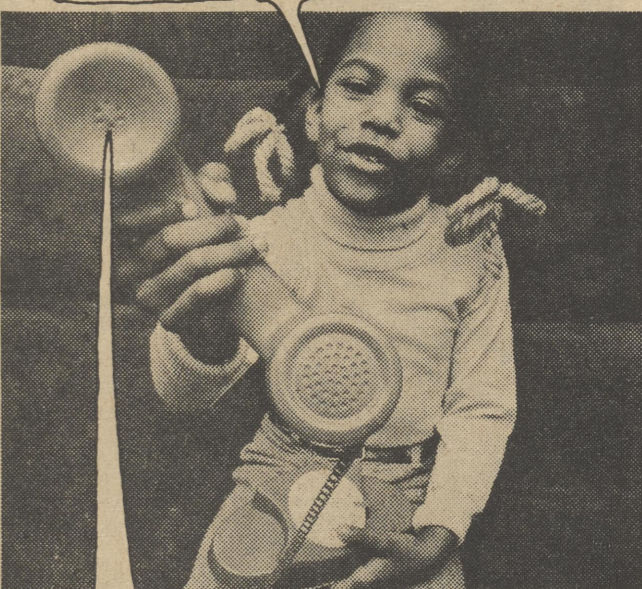

4. Wait until you have a full washer load before running your washing machine — or your dishwasher. The average automatic clothes washer uses 50 gallons per load.

1. A household faucet runs three to five gallons of water a minute. If left on for an hour, 300 gallons (more than a ton!) go down the drain. Turn off your tap when you aren't really using it.

2. Think before you run the hot water, too. You'll be saving energy by heating only what you need.

3. Put a stopper in your sink or use a dishpan when you wash dishes. Washing with running water uses about 30 gallons each meal.

F. Lawrence Price of Harrington stands proudly by his 1910 Hupmobile, which won 1st prize in his class at Sunday's Firemen's Flea Market. The car has won many trophies over the years.

Our kitchen band entertained the patients of the Fletcher Nursing Home, Monday, June 9, with Andy Anderson and his clarinet. Thirty-eight members of the center attended the membership and birthday party given in honor of birthdays falling in the month of June. Only two having birthdays attended. President Herbert Hussey called the meeting to order at 1:30 p.m. Sam Short gave the prayer. Several trips were mentioned and it was decided that the trips for the members would be funded from the fund set aside for them. Two will be this month. A letter or invitation for the center to consider another trip the same as last year, be taken in the afternoon of Aug. 12., Wilmington on the Brandywine River. $2.50 will be the cost for each this year. Pearl Derrickson, Cleote Willey and Anna Mae Short by Sam Short were asked by the president to take care of the buying of the gifts for bingo with Cleote Willey to act as the chairman. Twenty-two members visited Ann Brenne at Riverdale, Wednesday, June 11, with a covered dish luncheon. Several games of Chinese and regular checkers were played by some of the members while others tried their hand at crabbing from the host's boardwalk. Carolyn Fisher visited us

Thursday with slides taken of members of our center at different services of the center and asked for volunteers to visit our shut-ins of the community and nursing homes. This activity takes two couples about an hour each week. The service would involve reading something to them or watering flowers or having small prayers to show them that you care. It will be a great thing for them. Anyone care to volunteer?

Our top bowlers Friday were George Goodge with 258 pins followed by Betty Martin with 228 pins and Ann Brennen, 231, for their two games each. With the donations of the board members, it was voted to pay off the mortgage of the Harrington Senior Center building, clearing us from all indebtedness. We are going to maintain our building fund for upkeep and additions.

"...look on the bright side, for every day... is like Sunday on the farm."

During the waning months of the Korean conflict, I was a recruit serving out a training program in the Army preparing for duty in Korea. It was there that I came in contact with Sgt. William Nolan. He was our platoon leader. Although Nolan was a very plain and somewhat uneducated person, he nonetheless pointed up to us a simple philosophy which has become a beacon to me, and I am sure others who served in that platoon. Everything was a challenge to him. Never give up! Go that extra inch even when your body forbids it. Keep pushing and driving no matter how much it hurts, and above all, look on the bright side. He had a better way of putting it, however. "...every day in the Army is like Sunday on the farm."

Nolan's fate went the way of many combat soldiers, but some of us remember him so very well long after those training days. He was right - he has to be right or we all might lose our senses.

When we took this paper over 14 months ago, it was our plan to wage such a campaign. We chose to look on the bright side in reporting our news. There is so much that is good news, and such a small majority which is bad. Why give the bad front page headlines.

On Monday night the noted news analyst Donald Barnhouse was the guest speaker at the 50th anniversary of the Milford Rotary Club. His speech...once he got rolling...was one of the very best which I have ever heard. The standard of news - what is news was the central theme of his speech. Tons of good news are thrown out each day by the major newspapers, and instead the small majority of the news... the bad, is given front page spread, related Mr. Barnhouse. For what purpose?

Barnhouse told us to look on the bright side. Maybe Barnhouse's world is not like Nolan's "...every day...is like Sunday on the farm," but his outlook parallels Nolan's. Look around you; there are people with far greater problems than you. In other countries like England, Germany, Japan and Russia, the inflationary rates are rising at much higher and faster ones than our own country. The Communist world is constantly trying to overcome us and our way of life because our standard of living is so incredibly high they can't believe it.

We have a lot for which we can be proud and thankful. This newspaper stands on this platform for we believe truthfully and honestly that there is more good news than bad. It is worth more to us and to our readers to report the good news.

Whether we take the sophisticated approach of Mr. Barnhouse or the simple interpretation of Sgt. Nolan, the message is the same "...look on the bright side, for every day...is like Sunday on the farm."

From The Frying Pan...

Does Harrington need a curfew? It won't take many incidents like the one shown on this page for the idea to be given some serious thought.

The senseless, wanton and stupid destruction of private and public property costs a lot - in dollars and emotions. Obviously when a small segment finds there's nothing to do so "let's tear something up," it is time to begin thinking about keeping these individuals off the streets. If they can't control their behavior, it's time to curb it for them.

Everyone likes his freedom, but when certain individuals feel this includes destroying property of others, it's time to do something constructive to combat their destructiveness.

The closest Harrington has come to imposing a town curfew was during a March council meeting in 1972 when a motion was made to "establish a curfew for children under 18 years of age unless escorted by parent or legal guardian.

Curfew will be 11 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 12 p.m. Friday and Saturday."

There is a loitering ordinance that prohibits groups to gather and linger - for any period of time.

The property destruction shown in the photograph is minor, financially, but the people who owned the plants spent countless hours caring for them and beautifying their property. The result was giving pleasure to passersby and neighbors.

During the summer months it seems time hangs heavily on some hands. Harrington doesn't have many evening activities for young people, that's true. The people responsible for this destruction, however, are typical of those who gouge out initials in furniture or leave their names for posterity(?) on restroom walls, even if the town had entertainment facilities.

When parents can't answer at 11 p.m. "Do you know where your child is?" Perhaps the town had better consider giving their policeman the right to ask it and to be able to act if necessary, with something stronger to back them up than a motion made three years ago.

A view of South Commerce Street, Harrington, taken some time between 1908 and 1910. The postcard, property of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Vanderwende of Houston, required a half penny stamp if it had ever been mailed. Note the tree lined and unpaved street, both victims of progress. In the left hand foreground is reportedly a gas light, now too gone from the City's main street.

Insurance Open To Recent Veterans

The Veterans Administration today urged 2.7 million veterans discharged between April 3, 1970, and Aug. 1, 1974, to apply by midnight, August 1, if they want low-cost Veterans Group Life Insurance (VGLI).

Former servicemen separated from military service during that period became eligible during that limited time for VGLI authorized under the Veterans Insurance Act of 1974 (May 24), and the Act of 1974 (May 24), VA explained.

The insurance is designed to assist veterans through readjustment periods, and it may be carried for five years only.

VGLI is available in increments of $5,000 up to a maximum of $20,000. Premiums for maximum coverage are $3.40 monthly for veterans aged 34 and under and $6.80 for those 35 and over. To be eligible, the veteran must be in good health, except for service-connected disabilities.

For persons who convert their Servicemen's Group Life Insurance to VGLI within 120 days of leaving service, no health information is required, but those who wait beyond the 120-day period and yet apply within the following year must present evidence of good health except for service-connected disabilities.

Application forms for VGLI are available from VA offices and veteran service organizations.

Completed applications and first month premiums for those separated before Aug. 1, 1974, must be submitted before midnight Aug. 1, 1975 to: Office of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance, 212 Washington St., Newark, N.J. 07102.

Here's your new word for today: Dendrochronology. It is a method of dating ruins in the Southwest by wood preserved in them. Originated by Dr. A. E. dates back to 11 A.D. So, if you have a tree, you want dated.

Cheer Center News, week of June 9 - One of the highlights of the week at our center has been the trip to Longwood Gardens and to the Winterthur Museum on Thursday by bus. The Georgetown center was invited to take the trip with us. Although it was a rainy day, everybody reported a good time.

The second highlight was celebrating our first anniversary of our organization. It was a gala affair. As red is the color for our center, our table decorations were red roses, little red birds and nut cups of various pastel colors. Music was supplied by our regular musical trio.

The Georgetown unit came to help us celebrate our anniversary. Many staff officers from Georgetown and the Seaford Manor House attended. Several members made comments as to what the center has meant to them this year. Pictures were taken of the group with special ones taken of the couple celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Leon Wheatley were the honored guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Warren and Mrs. Letha Peppard of New York, relatives of the Wheatons came to be with us at the center and to attend the open house for the golden anniversary celebration held at the home of the Wheatons on Friday night. Many friends from the Greenwood community and nearby towns came to extend congratulations to the happy couple. It was also the 25th wedding anniversary of their daughter and son-in-law, the Rev. and Mrs. Willink, minister of Harrington.

Another special event this week was being invited by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Pearson to go out to their lovely home to view their fine collection of orchids. This was enjoyed by all and much information was learned concerning the growing and caring for these beautiful plants. The Pearsons have traveled to many foreign countries to obtain their collection. Several members were given cuttings of orchids and other plants to take home with them and to replant these as Mr. Pearson directed.

This whole week has been one of intense activity, excitement and enjoyment. We at the center are hoping our manager, Mrs. Shea, and her helper, Mrs. Cain, will consent to be with us another year. They are so congenial and make everyone feel that it is a special privilege to be at the center.

Delaware Roads Need Upgrading

Delaware needs to spend $125.3 million in the next five years to upgrade 1,239 miles of substandard roads and renew 211 obsolete bridges, says a study released in Dover this week.

Nearly one-fourth of Delaware's 5,150-mile road system is rated "poor" or "very poor" by federal engineering standards, says The Road Information Program (TRIP) of Washington, D.C.

Also, 29 percent of the state's 718 bridges are too old and weak to handle the maximum vehicle weight and traffic volume on connecting roads, says the research and information agency. TRIP emphasizes that there is little danger of these obsolete bridges collapsing because they are posted for reduced vehicle weight limits as a safety precaution.

The study was conducted for the Delaware Contractors Association (DCA) in Wilmington. Findings are based on information from the federal Departments of Transportation, Commerce and Labor, the Internal Revenue Service and the Delaware Department of Transportation.

"It doesn't make sense for 20 percent of the construction workers in the state to be currently unemployed when one-fourth of the state's roads are poor and one bridge in every four needs major repairs," said Vernon J. Menard, who announced the study results.

Menard, DCA's labor relations director, said the state needs a 5-year modernization plan supported by a consistent level of annual funding.

TRIP estimates it would cost $57.1 million to upgrade the state's 1,239 miles of substandard roads and $68.2 million to renew 211 obsolete bridges.

The report says that Delaware would be further behind in necessary road modernization than it is now, were it not for the continuing efforts of the state's Highway Division "to achieve the maximum possible improvement year after year under extremely limited budgets."

To catch up on road and bridge work by 1980, the state should spend $125.3 million or $25.1 million a year, says the study. This would be in addition to the amount needed each year for new construction.

Menard said the state's Department of Highways and Transportation was spending an average of $25 million a year in state funds for road construction and improvement prior to fiscal 1975, when the General Assembly appropriated only $10.6 million.

"The Department now must spend an estimated $15 million to $20 million a year for the next five years for new road construction - plus the $25.1 million a year needed to repair existing wornout roads," Menard said. "The capital improvements bill now being considered by the state legislature should take both present and future needs into consideration."

The study estimates that a $125.3 million road modernization program in Delaware would create 500 to 600 construction jobs a year for 15 years, plus 150 to 200 jobs a year in the related fields of equipment manufacture and supply, materials production and transportation.

Those 650 to 800 new jobs would generate a $10 million to $12 million annual payroll and produce approximately $1 million a year in federal and state income taxes, the study reports. Corporate expenditures are estimated at $12 million to $14 million per year.

The job estimate does not calculate the probable "multiplier" effect on employment in retail stores, restaurants and other unrelated businesses that would benefit from an increase in construction activity, the report notes.

Menard noted that construction is a "labor intensive" industry where an average of 30 to 40 percent of each dollar goes into direct and indirect wage and salary payments, nearly all of which remains in the local economic market.

Menard said a 5-year road modernization program would save time and money for farmers, tourists, commuters and other road users - while creating jobs and reducing highway accidents.

Speaking Of Insects

with Dale Bray
Entomologist
University of Delaware

As the number of neighborhood swimming pools increases, so does the number of uninvited guests in them. I am referring to those six-legged guests with the long beaks that are capable of giving their hosts a quick nip on an embarrassing part of the anatomy.

There are many insects that can be bothersome in and around a swimming pool - especially if the pool is located near a stream, pond, lake or other aquatic habitat. Even if the pool is not located near one of these areas, certain aquatic insects will find it, no matter where you hide the pool. Some, like moths and beetles, may be attracted to lights around the pool and eventually fall in.

Let's take a look at some of the common swimming pool bugs - especially the bugs that bite.

Backswimmer - Backswimmer adults are about a half inch long and dark gray in color. They are voracious, feeding on other insects and occasionally on tadpoles and small fish. A common method of capturing prey is for backswimmers to release their hold on submerged plants to which they have been clinging and to drift up under their prey. They swim upside down, using their long oar-like hind legs for propulsion. These aquatic bugs will bite when handled or when trapped in a teeny weeny bikini. The effect is much like a bee sting.

Giant Water Bug - These insects are fairly common in ponds and lakes where they feed on other insects, snails, tadpoles and even small fish. Measuring from one to four inches in length, these hard, broad, flat bugs never fail to excite curiosity when they are found around artificial lights. In fact, they are sometimes called "electric light bugs." Giant water bugs can inflict a painful bite if handled. Usually people are bitten by this insect when removing it from a pool.

Water Scorpion - These insects are slender and elongated with very long legs. They are somewhat similar to walking sticks in general appearance. They are an inch or two in length and are a dull brown color. Water scorpions move slowly and prey upon various types of small aquatic animals which they capture with their front legs. They have well-developed wings but seldom fly. They can inflict a painful bite when handled but are seldom found in swim attire.

Creeping Water Bug - These bugs are brownish, broadly oval and somewhat flattened. Generally they are a half inch in length. They live in quiet water and swim or creep about slowly through submerged vegetation in search of food. They feed on small aquatic animals. They bite quite readily - and painfully - if handled.

Water Boatman - Water boatmen probably are the most common bugs in freshwater ponds and lakes. A few species occur in brackish pools just above the high tide mark along the seashore. These chunky, obscurely mottled insects are an eighth to three-eighths of an inch long and are equally proficient at swimming or flying. They drive their bodies through the water in an upright position with strokes of their oar-like hind legs. Like all other aquatic bugs, they lack gills and get air at the surface of the water. Water boatmen frequently carry a bubble of air with them underwater - either on their body or under their wings. They can swim rapidly, but often cling to vegetation for long periods. Unlike most of the other aquatic insects, water boatmen will not bite.

Don't rely on chlorine to keep your pool free of insects. It has little value as an insecticide. A good net is the most practical way to remove insects from the water. If all else fails, you can always swim with your mouth closed!

TOWN AND COUNTRY TOPICS

BOB MULROONEY
ASSISTANT KENT COUNTY AGENT

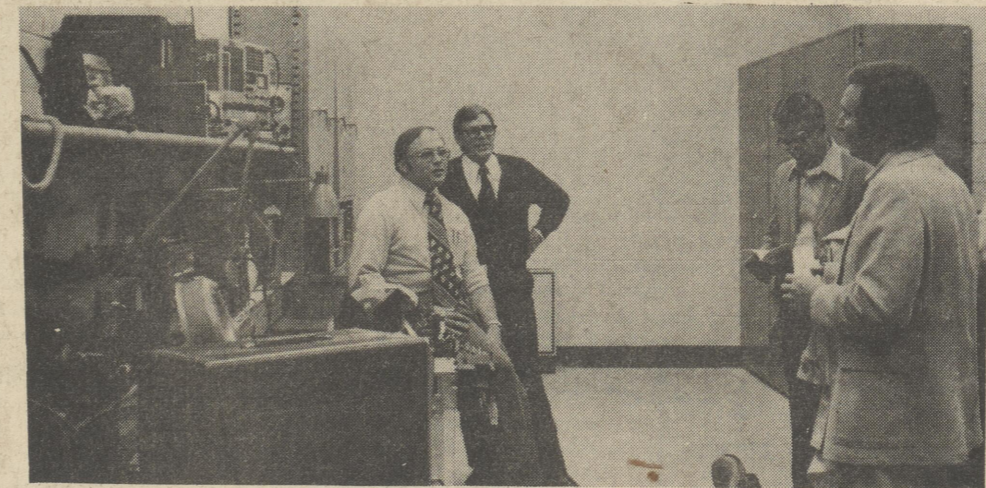

If you have parked your car or left your lawn furniture under your shade trees and found them covered with sap the next day, you may have an infestation of aphids or scales in those trees. Have you noticed large numbers of bees and wasps congregating about your trees and/or shrubs? Look closely - this may be another indication that these sucking insects are at work. Do the leaves and bark have a black, sooty appearance? This may be a third tip-off that these insects are working.

Aphids or plant lice are sucking insects which are small, soft-bodied and pear-shaped. Aphids are of all colors - black, green, pink, red, yellow, lavender, brown or grayish. Wings, when present are usually clear, and are held vertically over the body when at rest. All aphids secrete honeydew. This is really plant sap which passes through their bodies while feeding. This "honeydew" is rich in sugars which attracts the bees and wasps as well as ants. It also serves as the food source for a black fungus known as sooty mold. This sooty mold is responsible for the black appearance on leaves and bark. Aphids infest many other plants besides shade trees and shrubs. Every home gardener or farmer has confronted aphids at one time or another. Aphids cause loss of plant vigor and sometimes curling and puckering of leaves. They also are transmitters of virus diseases as well as the bacteria which cause fire blight in apples and peas. Many chemicals will control aphids if they become injurious to your plants. Malathion is the most widely used material and still does a good job. Lindane is recommended for control of aphids in maples, which includes the woolly alder aphid that is now present in Kent County.

Scales are the other insects which can cause problems on your trees and shrubs. Scales may be either armored, having a hard shell, or soft, having a soft shell; however, some soft scales can be as hard as some armored scales. Female scales are wingless and are mostly responsible for plant injury. After a brief crawling stage, they insert their sucking mouth parts through a leaf or bark of a stem and begin sucking sap. As they molt, these small insects lose their legs and look like small bumps or crust on twigs. These females bear their young under the protective cover of their shell. Scales are impossible to control in the adult stage because their shell protects them from insecticides. Only the young or crawlers are vulnerable to chemical sprays. When control is desired, a mixture of malathion and Sevin is recommended for spray when the crawlers can be seen. Two sprays are usually necessary because most scales have two hatches, and timing of sprays depends on the type of scale. Heavy scale infestations can kill branches or entire trees and shrubs. A dormant oil spray applied in the spring is recommended to kill overwintering eggs.

Why do so many women come to Milford, Delaware on Saturday Morning?

They come in car pools and sometimes even rented buses to save 40 to 75 per cent on the finest bedspreads, made to measure draperies and linens. They drive from miles around to buy the highest-quality towels, rugs, sheets and pillowcases, pillows, piece goods, placemats and blankets at prices far below those found in department stores. If you haven't been there, you'd better come and see for yourself. Open the first and third Saturdays of each month 9 a.m. - 2 p.m. Why not stop by on your way to the beach?

Know What Fruits To Can

If you're planning to freeze fruits this summer, extension specialists at the University of Delaware suggest some varieties of fruits that are more suitable for freezing than others.

The variety of blackberry called Thornfree is most suitable for freezing, while the blueberry varieties Bluegray, Berkley and Darrow are all suitable for freezing. All of the raspberry varieties recommended for Delaware home gardeners can be frozen. The strawberry varieties Midway, Sunrise, Fletcher, Redchief and Marlate are best for freezing.

A number of peach varieties can be frozen successfully. Among them are Red Haven, Ranger, Richhaven, Loring, Belle of Georgia and Marglow.

A fact sheet on home fruit varieties for Delaware, including those best for freezing, is available by writing to the Mail Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware 19711.

Shakespeare said it in "Hamlet" but it certainly rings a bell today: "Ay, Sir, to be honest as this world goes, is to be one pick'd out of ten thousand."

If someone calls you a "dear little waif" don't look too coy. It means other things as well. In English law waifs are stolen goods which the thief has thrown away or left behind him.

Services were Tuesday afternoon at the Berry Funeral Home, N.W. Front St., Milford. Burial was in Hollywood Cemetery, Harrington.

It Seems To Me

by Janet Reed

Tops are tops! Whatever your taste you can find styles in tops to suit your fancy. They are easy care, too, and we all like that feature.

Tops used to be called blouses, or shirts, or sweaters, or shells; so it is convenient to have one word to designate the whole group of wearing apparel. Sometimes the line between a blouse and shirt, or a sweater and shell is a fine one anyway; so it makes good sense just to call them all tops.

The most popular style these days is the shirt. It teams well with pants, skirt or shorts and has almost become a uniform. The shirt styles have a sameness, but variety is achieved with fabric. You have a wide fabric choice either in ready-to-wear or for the tops you make.

Prints are dainty or bold, and scenic prints are eye-catching. Sheer shirt fabrics are worn over sleeveless, low-necked shells; or bras; or over bare skin if you're bold enough. Shirt styles make up well in knits or wovens; although lightweight knits need crisp interfacing to give a tailored appearance.

A rival of the tailored shirt is the T-shirt or shell. You can make these easily of soft cotton knits using knit techniques. These are more suitable for casual wear.

The bow neckline blouse is flattering and attractive with summer suits.

If you buy ready-to-wear, that is about the extent of your choice. But if you make your own, you'll notice that patterns are shown for new and interesting design lines. These are a welcome change from the monotony of the shirt. Maybe pattern companies had to come out with some new styles if they were to sell patterns. After all, a shirt pattern can be used over and over again.

Some of the new tops use imaginative ways to achieve fullness for bust-line curves. There are yokes and gathers and tucks to release fullness where it is needed.

Sleeves show variety, too; puffed sleeves, wide airy styles, short, long, or sleeveless.

Vests are worn as sleeveless tops or teamed with shirts.

The fashion interest today is in tops. This is another reason for making your own. You can add your own creative touches and make the styles you want instead of relying on the rather limited choice in ready-to-wear.

Milestone In Agriculture

The mechanical reaper has been called the most significant single invention introduced into American farming in the first half of the 19th century. It marked agriculture's transition from hand labor to machines.

Rock Hall Runner . . Future Phenomenon?

by Keith S. Burgess

One of the most unlikely towns in which to discover a top athlete would have to be Rock Hall, Md., a tiny fishing village flush up against the Chesapeake Bay. Yet Rock Hall may have spawned the finest scholastic distance runner ever to come from the Delmarva Peninsula in Randy Mitchell, who just finished his sophomore year at Kent County High, Worton, Md.

Saturday at the Delmarva Chicken Festival, Easton, Md., a ten mile distance run was held. Forty-five runners from Baltimore, Wilmington and other areas were entered. Bill Stewart, a bearded veteran from the Baltimore Olympic Club, shaded 53 minutes to win the first place trophy. In second place, in 56 minutes, was the youthful phenom from Rock Hall, outpacing many experienced college and club runners.

This writer interviewed the youngster who almost immediately said, "See that runner over there? That's my coach. He deserves all the credit." Coach Dennis Herman, formerly of Youngstown, Ohio, State stated, "That is a very dedicated kid. We work out together often."

Kent County High only started cross country this past school year. Mitchell placed fifth in the Maryland State title run, then was runnerup to a senior in the two mile run in the state track meet.

So Mitchell, at present, has only one cross country and two track campaigns under his belt. Some Delaware sophomores have had a total of eight track and cross country seasons at the same stage of their careers.

Randy Mitchell has a fantastic 9.32 clocking in the two mile run, which is almost as good as the Delaware State record, yet he has had comparatively little competition since he usually leaves his rivals on the first lap.

SELL OR SWAP IT IN THE WANT ADS

Serious burn injuries are suffered by more than 300,000 Americans each year. Recovery from burns is one of the most painful, most prolonged and most expensive medical processes. And many times, despite scientific advances, burn victims are disabled or maimed for life.

Drivers are urged by the Delaware Safety Council to remember one tragic fact: traffic accidents every year kill more children one to fourteen years of age than any disease. Watch out for children.

Parents...do your children a favor. See that they know how to behave safely and self-reliantly in traffic—when they walk, on their bicycles, and later, when they drive automobiles, advises the Delaware Safety Council.

Friday 13th is Lucky Day For These Drivers

Walt "Stevie" Breeding from Federalsburg driving the Davis Trucking Vega and Ed Brown Jr. of Cambridge in the Ben Dickerson - Dorchester Lumber Vega clearly made it their night, Friday, June 13, in Modified feature racing. The first race on the card was the Modified feature to be concluded from the fourth lap as rain halted the completion a week ago. In this one Breeding led the way with a solid win over Brown who was second. Ocean City's Richard Jarvis brought the Purnell-Jarvis Ltd. Corvair across the finish line third with fourth going to Jimmy Clark of Gumboro for the Hitchens Bros. of Selbyville. Paul Walker, Jr. of Milford was fifth piloting the Coastal Corvair. Ridgely's Bobby Walls scored sixth chauffering the Davis Material Handling Pinto. When it came time for the second Modified feature which was plagued throughout with numerous spins and spills under the green and the yellow, Ed Brown Jr. and Walt Breeding staged a fantastic sprint to the checkered flag with Brown emerging on top by no more than a yardstick. Engine problems sidelined Harold

Bunting and the Don's Auto Parts Vega of Salisbury in what had been a three-way go for victory lane. Paul Walker, Jr. changed mounts and anchored third at the wire for the W & B Hi-Po-Walker Engineering Team of Lincoln. Jack Sapp scored fourth driving the Marshall Baker Engineered - George Adams - Rumpstick Machine Works Vega. Milton's Snookie Vent had it together taking fifth in the Lewes Dairy Markets Vega. Sonny Brittingham from Ellendale was sixth for Warren & Gray. Richard Malnor of Berlin made it a perfect night in Sportsman feature racing, taking both 25 lappers for the Norris Peek-Hitch Ins. Agency Team. As Malnor scorched the field in both events, Donnie Joseph of Bridgeville had to settle for second place driving his Dillard's Restaurant "Snoopy Special" Falcon. Princess Anne's Wayne Cusick scored third driving the Regal Muffler Center Vega. Gary Bunting of Milford scored fourth in his W & B Vega. Cordia Warrington V was fifth in the Pre-Cast Steps Falcon. Salisbury's Joe Ellingsworth took fifth at the checkered flag. Wayne Cusick moved up a notch in the Sportsman finale taking second over Bodie Bodenweiser of Georgetown who was third, piloting the Oscar Fields-Lewes Dairy Markets Special. Woodside's Larry Grier was fourth for the C & W Auto Parts Team. Clem Horvath brought the Ira Ware Engineered GO NAVY Pinto home fifth. Sixth place respectively went to Cordia Warrington V. Eight cylinder Hobby racing witnessed Georgetown's Charles Harris put on a display of power, winning the event over Milford's Ronnie LaVere who had to settle for second behind the Silver Oak Trailer Court Plymouth. ## Tents And Fire Can Be Deadly Combo

The nationwide boom in tent camping has resulted in a deadly new menace to children and adult vacationers - the tent fire. The average cotton or nylon tent can become a fiery incinerator in seconds, warns Tom Williams, extension safety specialist at the University of Delaware. Yet thousands of campers risk death or agonizing burns by taking chances with fire. The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission reports that sources of ignition in tent fires include candles, lanterns, heaters, stoves, matches, fireworks and even wind-blown sparks from campfires. Any kind of flame-producing device is extremely dangerous in a small enclosure such as a cloth tent. It can suddenly ignite, trapping the occupants. Before they have a chance to escape, they are engulfed in flame or overcome by deadly carbon monoxide gas. To add to the problem, most modern tents have sewn-in flooring, making it more difficult to escape quickly in case of fire. Children are often the victims of tent fires, says Williams. They may spend the night in the back yard, using a candle or a gas lantern. Parents who allow their children to use matches, candles or fireworks in or around a tent are asking for trouble. Only a battery lantern or flashlight should be used for illumination. Some of today's campers don't like to rough it, states Williams. They include as many of the comforts of home as possible when they go tent camping. Cooking, heating and lighting equipment may be elaborate. It isn't uncommon to see a camper relaxing in a cushioned folding chair in front of a portable VT. Many of these campers don't understand the fire hazards involved in tenting.

In recent years, some manufacturers have developed flame-resistant fabrics for tents. These tents will burn when a flame is applied, but the fire goes out when the flame is removed. However, flame-resistant is not flame-proof. Williams emphasizes that no tent is flame-proof. Sources of flames should be kept from every tent, including those that have been treated to be flame-resistant. Tent manufacturers, retailers and camping enthusiasts agree that national tent flammability standards are needed, similar to the standards recently put into effect for children's sleepwear. Several states have laws requiring flame-resistant tents. The Consumer Product Safety Commission is working to create federal flammability standards for tents.

In the meantime, if you purchase a new tent, be sure to select a flame-resistant model, Williams advises. Today most tents are labeled "flame-resistant" or "flammable." If there is no label, assume the tent is flammable. The flame-resistant tent may cost a few dollars more, but the extra margin of safety makes it a better buy. To preserve the tent's flame-retardant finish, follow the manufacturer's instructions. Avoid using soaps and detergents, as well as aerosol sprays. Clean the tent with plain water only, without scrubbing.

Senior League Drops One

Harrington's Big League which is essentially the Lake Forest varsity, dropped its opener in the Kent-Sussex Big League by 11-4 to Camden-Wyoming.

The loop age limit is 16-18, which means that some college players are eligible. Harrington has no one in this category so will be at a disadvantage this summer.

Wayne Voshell, Rodney Wyatt and Russell Dill accounted for Harrington's three hits, with Dill's being a two-run homerun. Wyatt took the loss with Dill coming on in relief.

Former Lake Forest athlete Bob Bosco, had two hits for the winners. Both he and catcher Rigby are former state wrestling champions. Camden-Wyoming shortstop is Robin Knight of Salisbury State College.

Dean Archer of Dover Air High pitched part of the contest for Camden-Wyoming.

Dill Brothers Continue Streak

Viola's Dill brothers continue to play well in Wilmington's tough, semi-minor league. In a contest played last week, Canada Dry upset perennial leader, Parkway, 10-2 to give the Dill brothers a 7-2 league mark, just off Parkway's loop-leading 8-2 log. Bill "Butch" Dill had two hits, two runs and an RBI. Former minor leaguer Jim Dill chipped in with a hit and drove in a run. Former Dover High players Zach Carter and Bob Nafzinger, played for Parkway.

In 1934, an unknown football player named Snooks Dowd scored the longest touchdown run on record in a game between Lehigh University and Lafayette. His total run was 210 yards!

MINOR LEAGUE

RESULTS

A home run by John Ottinger paced Hi-Grade Dairy to an 11-9 victory over Martin Jarrell Oil Co. on Monday. Gary Price, Richard Messick, Mike Colley, Dale Brian, Dean and John Donato had hits for the losers.

Mike Ratledge, Steve Wroten, Jimmie Green, Glenn Homewood and Jimmy Munn had hits for the victors. The players came up with three double plays which proves they are improving their fielding.

Hits by Dale Brian Dean, David Reiriden, Richard Messick and Darin Dell, along with fine pitching from Brian Baker and Mike Wingo gave Martin Jarrell Oil Co. a 2-0 victory over Hi-Grade Dairy. Hi-Grade loaded the bases in the first inning with hits by Jimmy Green, Troy Dennis and Dennis Dill and again in the second with hits by Glenn Homewood, John Ottinger and Green but were unable to push a run across.
