

This is the view of the early afternoon collision Tuesday afternoon near the fairgrounds in Harrington that sent four to the hospital. Charles Hughes, the truck driver, remains in critical condition.

High School Equivalency Program Is Set

Are you faced with the problem of not being able to get a job or not getting that promotion because you do not have your high school education? If you want to earn your high school equivalency, the James H. Groves High School at the Kent County Vocational Technical Center is now registering students for its summer program.

The school offers a day time program. This program meets Monday through Friday from 9 a.m.

until 3 p.m. and is specifically designed to instruct adults in the areas necessary to pass the G.E.D.

The G.E.D. program is continuous and adults may enroll at any time. Each student works at his own pace until he has mastered the subject areas.

For additional information, please call 697-3257 and ask for either Mr. Rummell or Mrs. Loveland.

Sam Powell Jr., 9, also of Harrington, was a passenger of the truck. He was treated for a possible concussion and arm abrasions.

Woodrow Delamar, Sr., 52, of Bellhaven, N.C., was the driver of the station wagon involved in the accident. He was treated for contusions of the head and legs. His son, Woodrow Delamar, Jr., 12, was treated for lacerations to the face and forehead as well as abrasions to arms and knees.

According to state police, the Hughes vehicle reportedly crossed the dual highway in front of the Delamar vehicle as the former was going east onto a county road.

All passengers were transported to the hospital by members of the Harrington Volunteer Fire Company.

Bond Issue May Get Injunction

A small group of Milford residents have hired Henry J. Ridgely of Dover to seek court action in the Court of Chancery to enjoin the Mayor and City Council of Milford from proceeding with a bond issue in which money was to be used for sewer rehabilitation for the city.

The group of citizens are Logan Grier, Octavius Bach and wife, Albert Peterman and wife, Clayton Kirby and wife, Mrs. Louise Rogers and Elwood Montgomery. All are residents of Milford. Grier, who served as the former mayor, Bach and Peterman opposed the referendum which was passed last November over their strong opposition.

Prior to the referendum a hasty attempt was made to explain to the residents of Milford that heavy debt through the bond issue was unnecessary. The bond issue amounted to 1.7 million dollars paid over a term of years would mean an additional 2.3 million in interest.

The total bonding amount would be 4 million dollars rather than the 1.7 million proposed.

Mr. Grier indicated he would not lead the court fight, but if a group suggested the legal action intended, he would support that group. Grier pointed out he was not against bonding actions. He would support a small one. He also pointed out that during his administration more money was spent and more accomplished in the history of the town.

The present Mayor, Herman (Ham) McKnatt, and Council of Milford were in favor of the referendum for they felt that many houses would benefit from the sewer project and that it would take too long to achieve the end results under a piecemeal plan.

Lakelawn Estates, a cluster of modern two-story and rambling ranchers, was to be the main recipient of the sewer plan. Grier is president of that corporation which developed the subdivision.

Another area to benefit from the referendum was the Kings Highway area. In addition to sewer rehabilitation and service, the town was to get a new water tank with a capacity of 500,000 gallons for fire fighting purposes. Some major fires in the area in recent years have pointed out the need for this. Other areas like Mulholland Acres, Northwest Front Street from Mullet Run to U.S. 113 would also be benefited.

Legion Convention Slated

The American Legion of the State of Delaware will hold its annual convention at the Ramada Inn, Dover, Delaware, on July 12-13.

The state auxiliary will simultaneously hold their sessions at the Walter L. Fox Post American Legion Home on Bay Road in Dover.

A resolution will be presented which is expected to create strong debate since it will call for the U.S. to withdraw from the United Nations and for the United Nations to withdraw from the United States.

Congressman Pete duPont has accepted invitation to the annual banquet which will be held at the Ramada Inn on Saturday evening, July 12, and a representative appointed by Governor Sherman E. Tribbitt will also be in attendance. The Governor will address the convention earlier in the day.

The Honorable Crawford Carroll, Mayor of the City of Dover, will bring greetings on behalf of the city.

Approximately 400 delegates, alternates and auxiliary members are expected to attend the two-day convention which will adjourn on Sunday afternoon following the election of the new officers that will guide the Legion for the coming 1975-76 year.

Past National Commander Erle Cocke, Jr., a management consultant from Washington, D.C., will be the featured speaker at the annual banquet.

Fender Bender Involves Two

A 3:30 p.m. accident at the intersection of Route 13 and Del. 14 on the northbound lane here caused minor injury to two parties Tuesday.

Charles Moore, 53, Seaford, and Lisa Hope, Milford, a passenger in the Moore car, were taken to Milford Memorial Hospital where they received treatment and were released.

According to city police, Moore was charged with the accident, which also involved Ruth Kendzierski, 23, Milford, who was driving a truck. She reportedly did not receive injuries.

Council Gives Go Ahead On Sewer Study

Monday night the City of Harrington inched closer to a $160,000 study to upgrade its troubled eight-year-old sewer plant.

The city must take steps to rectify unacceptable conditions at the treatment plant.

The study, proposed by the city engineering firm of Richardson and Associates, basically will view means to rehabilitate the system and to improve treatment of sewage. The firm will be studying its own installation which has developed water infiltration problems as well as algae-producing conditions in the treatment lagoons.

The city council approved a design contract of the sewer rehabilitation study, as well as approving the engineering firm's contract of studying the sewer treatment.

No estimate of construction in either phase will be known until the study is completed. According to Lee Beecham of Richardson and Associates, the study and construction may take as long as seven to 12 years before completion. Mrs. Clyde Perry and Mrs. Donald Porter, both residents of Grant Street, were present to see what action, if any, would be taken in a year-old complaint by the street residents against what they have viewed as objectionable use of Sam Powell's neighborhood garage. Powell, who now uses the garage as a repair shop for the vehicles used in his sewage disposal business, said, "I feel like I'm getting thrown out...railroaded," as he reacted to a letter he received from the city to remove the remainder of his business in ten days. The council decided to contact the city attorney in the matter.

Other matters viewed:
-accepted the resignation of part-time policeman Bill Warner;

-approved hiring of Richard Klein Moore as part-time policeman;
-heard Perry Smith from the advance planning area of State Highway Department make brief remarks on possible alternative truck route in an effort to remove trucks from the main section of town.

-heard report from Harry Trussell, inventor, who briefly reported on possible plan to remove algae from sewage treatment plant;
-approved raise for city police force to total $2400.

Sam Powell [standing] appears during the Harrington City Council meeting, Monday night in response to a letter he said was "railroading" him out of town. Councilmen [backs to camera] John Satterfield, Jack Wyatt and William Shaw [facing camera] and City Manager Bobby Quillen hear Powell's comments.

Fair's Coming!

It may not seem possible that it's almost here, but ask any youngster, either in age or young at heart, and you'll be told the Fair's coming.

Entering its 56th year there will be a few new slants to the already popular state-wide attraction. Bound to please everyone is the no parking fee. In past years, there has been a fee for parking, but as a reflection of the times, perhaps, fair officials have decided to do away with the parking fee. Admission to the grounds is $1.25 with children under 10 admitted free.

The discount Midway tickets will be available again this year, said Simpson. Offering an approximate 35 percent reduction, the children's book of tickets sells for $2.50 and the adult books are selling for $5. There are eleven tickets in the children books and 18 tickets in the adult books. Tickets must be purchased by July 17th before the Midway opens.

While the official opening of the Delaware State Fair will not be until July 18th, there is a full program scheduled for July 17th with admission to the grandstand and grounds absolutely free. The events on Thursday will be headlined "Preview of the Fair," and the Jacob Brothers will be the feature of the grandstand show.

New Fair Directors Named

Seven new life-time directors of the Delaware State Fair were named Monday night during the annual stockholders meeting.

They include: James L. Corothers, Middletown; Frank Di Mond, Dover; Melvin Joseph, Georgetown; Neil Brasure, Dagsboro; John Satterfield, Harrington; G. Robert Moore, Bear; and William F. Parker, Harrington.

This singing group specializes in folk, contemporary and inspirational gospel singing.

Another important feature of this year's Fair will be the new Smith Memorial Building which has been donated to the people of Delaware by J. Gordon Smith, President of the Delaware State Fair. The building a tribute to the late J. Gordon Smith, Jr., a former Fair Director, will be used to house items pertaining to the history of the Delaware State Fair and the Kent-Sussex Raceway. This year the Grange, which is the oldest farm organization in the United States, will have a special centennial exhibit in the building during the fair.

The Fair will also feature two new contests this year. One will be a unique photo contest with entries to be judged after the Fair is over. The contest is open to anyone and is being held to recognize those people with the ability to take on-the-spot pictures of the Fair itself. Entries will be accepted up to August 2nd, a full week after the Fair ends.

Simpson said the idea of a contest came about during the past winter when fair pictures were needed to begin publicizing the event, and there weren't any pictures to do it with. The winning picture will be awarded $25.

Another contest will be held under the theme of "Pretty Cow Contest," and will be strictly for fun. Cows and contestants will be dressed up to depict a specific theme or title and while there are no prizes there should be plenty of laughs. It is free to the public and to be held in the Dairy Pavilion.

Also featured at the fair will be a complete postoffice, with facilities for sending and receiving mail on the fairgrounds.

There will be more exhibits to see than ever before, says Simpson, with entries running somewhere in the 12,000 range, which does not include the livestock. Concession areas under the grandstand and on the fairgrounds are all taken and there is currently a waiting list for camping spots on the grounds. The sale for the grandstand show is about where it was last year at this time, possibly higher, but things were "picking up" according to Harold McDonald, who paused between ticket sales to give the information. The Four Seasons is the most popular sale, with the Boots Randolph-Floyd Cramer and Skeeter Davis-Stonewall Jackson shows tied for popularity next. There are still good seats available for all shows.

The Delaware Quarter Horse Association has expanded its Sunday show into three days. This year their show will be held over a three-day period, Friday, July 18 to Sunday, July 20. The location has been switched to the center of the fair's training track, which is near the main parking area. Special activities are scheduled, some simultaneously. There is a listing of grandstand features here.

For other questions about activities occurring daily, an information booth will be in operation near the fair office.

The pace is picking up and the temperature is rising. Get ready, Delaware, here comes the fair. See page 8 for complete schedule of events.

Council Hears Clean Up Report

Donald Jacobs of Felton gave a report to the Town Council, Monday evening regarding the town's cleanup project. The Community Improvement Project was promoted by the Avon Club of Felton, a ladies club which was founded originally as a reading club, but has branched out into community affairs lately.

Jacobs reported that 10 "Pitch In" trash barrels have been placed throughout the town. The town will maintain the barrels and the state supplied the decals. Jacobs painted the barrels. He added, "The project is definitely working in cleaning up the town."

Mayor William Myers announced that Penn-Central R.R. is set to repair High and Sewell Street crossings. While repairs are underway, the Mayor reported that a water leak was discovered in the area near one of the crossings. He estimated the leak had been there for the past two months. It has been corrected.

In other matters, the Mayor read aloud a letter of resignation from Councilman William Halderman. According to the Mayor, the town has three months to appoint someone to fill out his term as councilman.

A sign of the times declares preparations for the 1975 State Fair which begins in a week. Also viewed is the promise of a popular event at the Fair, the antique [farm] machinery show.

Octogenarian Celebrates 82nd

Mrs. Ethel J. Stubbs, better known to neighbors and friends as Mom Stubbs, celebrated her 82nd birthday Tuesday, July 8.

Although originally from the Wilmington area, the Delaware native of Norwegian descent came to Harrington in 1922 and settled at 2 Ward Street. She has been living at that address ever since.

Her husband, Henry Lee Stubbs, died four years ago. He was the town drayman, relates Mrs. Stubbs. She did tailor work for forty-five years after working briefly at the local shirt

A neighbor asked what her philosophy of life was and Mrs. Stubbs replied she believed in "good living and hard work" and being "nice to children and old people." It must pay off. One nearly had to stand in line among her visitors to get Mrs.

"Where there is smoke there is fire . . .
 . . . but not always . . ."

This old saying is often repeated, but on the contrary it isn't always the case. We can think of many situations which back up this contradiction. It was said that General Washington threw a dollar across a river. History reports this as fact, but did anyone ever find that mythical silver dollar? In politics, we are often times reminded by politicians that they are on their way to Washington or some other office holding spot to clean up the mess and throw the "crooks" out. Where is the fire here? . . . They are bringing it maybe, or in the alternative the system corrupts all.

For a good portion recently Harrington has been involved with the question of sewer rehabilitation. This is a very complex problem for the average layman to understand. Engineers from all directions talk and describe the process in a manner that no layman can understand. If one talks to one organization, they give one interpretation. If one talks to the other side, they give an opposite opinion. People are talking and discussing the problem, but no resolution is within reach.

Great ideas are sometimes rejected by the shortsightedness of other men. In recent days there have been some good ideas put forth. Which ones are the VERY BEST for us? Again, it is too much for the laymen to determine. Let the City Council form a commission and hold hearings to enable the city's engineers, Richardson & Associates, to present their side as well as equal time for Harry Trussell. In this way we will get the right solution.

The old saying: "Where there is smoke, etc. . . ." will apply here for there is fire someplace, and the real point of the saying will be missed completely unless trained personnel are assigned the task of finding the fire and recommending the proper system for us taxpayers.

Big Thursday Comes to Bowers Beach on the 4th

It started at noon with a parade and ended seven hours later with dunkings for the Mayor and the Chief of Police. The place was Bowers Beach and the occasion was the celebration of Big Thursday on Friday, July 4. The day's events combined a celebration unique to lower Delaware and its history with the traditional elements of the patriotic holiday. From parade to dunkings the activities were designed in the spirit of fun and toward the establishment of the Bowers Beach Maritime Museum. The anticipated museum is the official project of the Bowers Beach Bicentennial Maritime Museum Committee headed by Edna LeMunyon.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:
 A 32-year-old Robin still flies.
 Enclosed is an item I clipped from "The Golden Ram," the alumni bulletin of West Chester State College.
 This weekend, July 11, Mrs. Nelson Hall, Milford, and Mrs. H. Hayward Quillen, Harrington, are entertaining the group.
 Feel free to publish and alter.

Amanda R. Quillen
Ed Note: See accompanying article.

What Makes a (Round) Robin Fly?

To a group of West Chester Alumni a Round Robin is a stuffed envelope which arrives two or three times a year and contains 10 letters, one from each member of this unique group.
 The ten women in the group were friends on campus during the 1938 to 1942 period. In the 37 years since that time they have exchanged news and information about family, classmates and mutual friends, as well as of professional happenings since the majority have been and are currently teaching. There have been marriages, births, deaths, illnesses, happy events — all were shared through this continuous chain of letters. Each time the Round Robin arrives you place in an envelope a new timely letter, remove the former one, and send your letter and the other nine on to the next person.

The members of this Round Robin group are: Helen Redline Ehmer who attended from 1939-42, Mary Fox (42), Dorothy Isaacs Hall (43), Eileen Eaglesham Mayo (43), Barbara Kraiss Miller (42), Amanda Rash Quillen (43), Margaret Bontreger Rawls (42), Alma Hartman Schlenker (42), Helene Schmitt (42), and Dorothy Gilbert Sterner (42).

We are curious to know if there is another group like this or are we really as unique as we think we are?

From start to finish, it was a day for family fun and a day that reflected the old and the new. Costumed townsfolk in the flowing dresses and sunbonnets of other times joined with the more modern and casual trend toward blue jeans and bare feet. Participants and observers ranged from those who could remember well the Bowers Beach and Big Thursdays of other years to diapered newcomers who

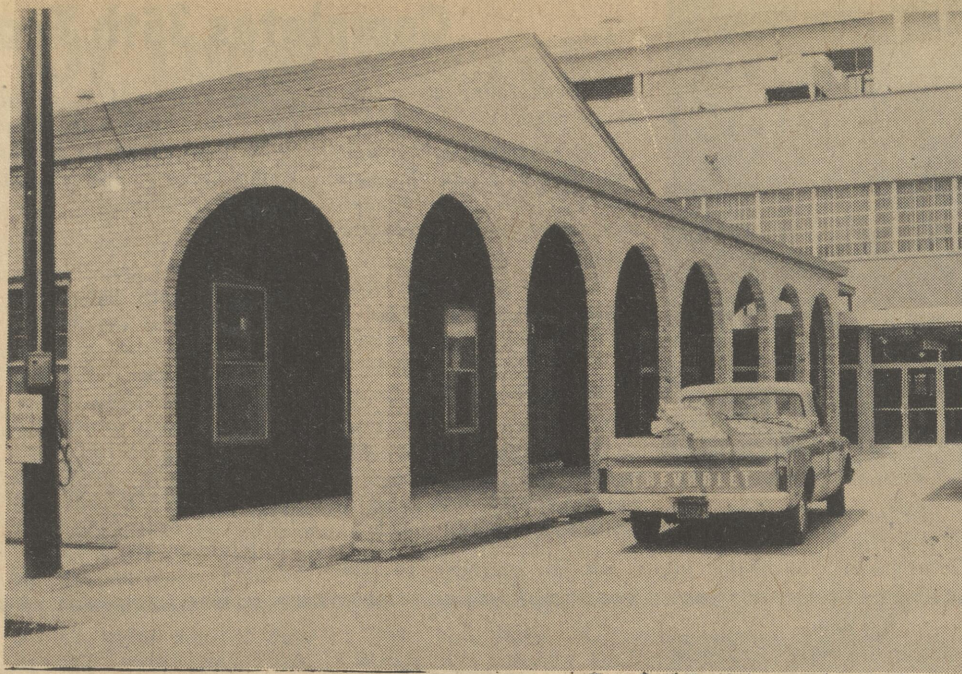

Music for the day included the traditional and stirring cadence of the W.T. Chipman band in the parade and the modern rhythms of "Promise" in the park. The hungry could enjoy sea trout, clam fritters and chicken at the firehouse or grab a fast sandwich and soda at the refreshment stand.

Even the activities at the mini-flea market embodied a blending of old and new. One of the less publicized traditions about Big Thursday says that it was a time when men who had grudges against each other would settle them by fighting. There were no fights on this Big Thursday. But one of the more popular booths provided an opportunity for some to settle those grudges in a Workmen put on the finishing touches to the Smith Memorial Building which will be open for the first time during this year's fair.

Thoughts.... by Senator William Roth

In too much of our society today patriotism has gone out of vogue. It is fashionable to affect a cynical, self-critical air.

An English journalist, after a visit to this country, said he was struck by the reaction he received whenever he was complimentary about the United States. He was always quickly corrected by people in this country, who hastened to tell him about our problems and how bad things are. He said he would attempt to defend his high opinion of the United States but invariably ended up apologizing for his enthusiasm. It is not uncommon, I am afraid, for visitors to be more enthusiastic about our virtues than many Americans are.

There are a number of reasons for this. One of them, I suspect, is our tendency to focus on problems. No one would deny that the problems are there, or that they are important. But we need to keep things in perspective.

In our early years as a nation, the life expectancy of the average male was 38 years. Epidemics of typhoid fever, malaria and cholera were common. It was not unusual to live an entire lifetime without ever owning a book or seeing a theatrical performance or traveling more than 20 miles from your hometown.

From little more than 3 million English settlers and slaves in 1775, we have become a vigorous, pluralistic nation of more than 200 million people. Our accomplishments and the institutions we created have been a source of inspiration and a model for people all over the world.

The United States — better than any other country today — has conquered communicable diseases, clothed and fed its people, eliminated illiteracy, opened wide the doors of higher education and given the ordinary citizen opportunity to improve himself and enrich his life. More than any other society, we have expanded the horizons of the great masses of our people through our schools, our automobiles and superhighways, our television sets and radios.

A few years ago a writer created a stir with a book that argued that the United States, with its unique openness to change and its devotion to freedom, is the most revolutionary society in the world today.

The book surprised a lot of influential people in this country because its author, Jean-Francois Revel, was a French intellectual, who came from leftist circles usually reluctant to say anything positive about the United States.

In this time of recession and energy problems, in this period when Watergate and Vietnam are still fresh in our minds, I think it is vital that we keep a clear perspective on ourselves. It is vital that we reject those who see only our shortcomings and are blind to how much we have accomplished.

Their entries ranged from the newest in fire-fighting equipment to old fashioned hand pumps and hoses. In addition to the usual land fire and rescue equipment, Bowers Beach sported its rescue boat. Included in the display was a privately owned antique fire truck, complete with Dalmatian.

Also a part of the parade were the polished and gleaming vehicles of the Milford Antique Car Club. These were led by a three-wheeled 1910 Kelsey. This Kelsey, owned by Sam Kemp, is the only one left in existence. Among the other antique cars were a 1912 Model T speedster, a 1932 Franklin and a 1937 Packard.

Other parade highlights were the Blue Hen Special of the American Legion, a contingent from the Coast Guard, several horse drawn vehicles, a float representing the "Heartbreak Hotel," and the S.S. Bowers, a sailing ship piloted down the street by means of a garden tractor.

The following received parade plaques: the Dover Light Infantry Company, the W.T. Chipman band, the Blue Hen Special, the Frederica Volunteer Fire Company, the Magnolia Volunteer Fire Company, the Bowers Beach Fire Company, and the Milford Antique Car Club.

Small trophies went to a float from Conley's Hardware, the S.S. Bowers, Vance Morris in his "Super Willey," the East Coast Van Club, a horse and buckboard, a pony and cart, the antique fire truck, the Dover Air Force Base Color Guard and three costumed individuals.

Present and very much a part of the day's activities was Anne Sparklin whose Books, "Big Thursday" and "Lilly Jo" depict the celebration with the flavor of experience. Mrs. Sparklin said that she originally intended to write an article about Big Thursday, but after becoming involved, decided a book would be more appropriate.

Mrs. Sparklin remembers the days of those celebrations when Bowers sported a boardwalk with hotel, saloon and dance hall. In those more leisurely times, steamers from Chester and Philadelphia would stop at Bowers to unload passengers before proceeding up the Murderkill River to Frederica. On the return trip they would stop to pick up the greatly refreshed visitors.

After the parade, the center of activities moved to the park. There at 2:30 Governor Sherman Tribbitt arrived to be greeted by several volleys fired by the Delaware Light Brigade.

It Seems To Me

by Janet Reed

Cutting expenses? Most of us are finding ways to plug some spending leaks. Sewing the family clothing can save at least half of the cost of ready to wear if you have the time and skill required. But, even if you sew there are ways to cut sewing costs.

Choose your pattern first and buy the exact amount of yardage. Impulse buying of an eye-catching fabric often results in buying more than you need. Check yardage requirements carefully. If you're on the short side you may be able to buy less fabric. You can use less expensive fabric for pocket linings or for garment facings. Eliminate pockets and pocket flaps altogether. Eliminate cuffs or make false ones.

Select styles with few pattern pieces. They cut to better advantage and save fabric as well as thread and your sewing time. A pretty print looks best in a simple style anyway. You can reduce garment cost by eliminating some of the extra trim. Purchased trims are expensive. Self-fabric trims are time consuming.

Bring out grandmother's button box. Or substitute other fastenings for buttons. This will be easy to do when your price buttons this fall. Prices of plastic buttons have nearly doubled in the past year. Raw materials for making these buttons have increased greatly in price and some materials are scarce. If you are buying buttons find ways to use fewer of them.

Thrifty seamstresses have reused buttons and zippers for years. Thrift shops often remove zippers and buttons from clothing given to them and sell these notions at a fraction of the new price.

Reuse your patterns. Once you have a style which fits use it often. Many styles are basic in design and the same pattern looks different in different fabrics. You reduce your pattern cost by one-third if you use the pattern three times instead of once.

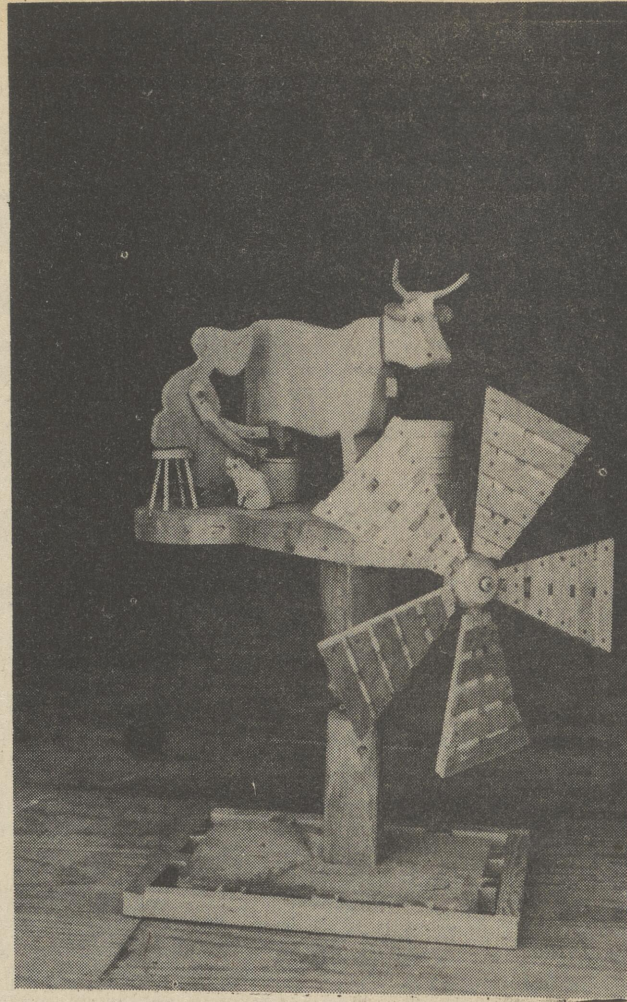

Use up some of that fabric you bought on impulse. Most seamstresses have a stockpile of fabric bought at a weak moment. Use it up so you'll have storage space for those bargains bought at seasonal sales.

Don't economize on fabric quality unless it is absolutely essential. Good fabric is easier to sew and the garment will look good as long as you choose to wear it. Good quality fabric can be reused and made into new garments as styles change.

It's kind of fun to find ways to economize once you start on an economy kick.

Long-time whittler, Jehu Camper, grew up on a tenant farm in Harrington. He got his first penknife when he was about eight and figures he's used up five or six of them on his carvings since then.

Camper says windmills were just about the first thing he started to carve as a boy, and he's still making them. On this one the milkmaid's arms and legs go up and down as the mill turns.

Art Recalls Old Time Farm Life

The woodcraft art of Jehu Camper takes you right back to the way farm life might have been around here 100 years ago. One carving group gives you a peek at society around the pot-bellied stove in the old country store. Another shows some high drama with the sheriff at a hidden gin mill on someone's farm.

The whittler has been creating his ingenious carvings - many of them with moving parts - since he got his first penknife at the age of eight. "I went right into production," he recalls. "The first thing I did with that knife was start carvin' windmills. Before long we had a windmill on just about everything on the farm."

Beetles Are Active

Warm, humid weather has brought out one of our most persistent garden pests - the Japanese beetle. Homeowners should be alert for beetle damage to roses, grapes, ornamentals and shade trees, according to Frank Boys, extension entomologist at the University of Delaware.

Adult Japanese beetles will attack a variety of plants, he explains. When feeding "on foliage," they usually destroy the tissue between the veins, leaving a lacy skeleton in their path. Damage to plants of ten ranges from slight to heavy.

Easily identified, Japanese beetles are slightly under a half-inch long with shiny, metallic green coloring. Despite this formidable appearance, the beetles can be controlled, says Boys. The foliage and fruit of most plants can be protected by spraying with carbaryl (Sevin) or methoxychlor at recommended rates. But timely and thorough applications are important. Plants should be treated as soon as the beetles appear and regular applications continued at 7 to 10 day intervals.

When insecticides are used around fruits and vegetables, it is important to observe the required waiting period between the last application and harvest. This waiting period is specified on the insecticide label.

Will Travel." But in recent years it's been harder to get around to all the places that would like him to exhibit his work. So Camper and his wife have built a new barn-museum behind their house in Harrington. They're happy to show the carvings to anyone who's interested, but encourage people to call first (302-398-8085) to be sure that someone's at home.

Stretching Your Meat $

We all are quite aware that beef is one of the most expensive meats we can buy. Americans everywhere are thinking more about thrifty ways to use beef, and thus consumers as well as butchers are in store for some changes. But these will take time, says the specialist. Butchers will learn or decide to butcher beef differently, and consumers will have to learn new ways of cooking these new cuts.

You may have already noticed cuts of beef that are marked as steak or roast which before were always ground-up and used as hamburger. These cuts are not as tender or as succulent as the more common steak cuts even though the meat department calls them steak. Chuck is sold under several different retail cuts. You may have seen these: "California roast," "blade steak," "arm steak," or square cut chuck. Many consumers don't know whether to broil or braise the cut of meat in order to get the most for their money. However, consumers are protected to some extent by a meat labeling law. The law quires the following on the package:

- 1 - identification of the species....Beef
 - 2 - the type of wholesale cut....Chuck
 - 3 - the recommended retail name....Blade pot roast
- Armed with this information, it's up to the consumer to learn which cuts to prepare in what manner. Most chuck cuts unless tenderized or marinated, says the specialist, should be braised or cooked in a small amount of liquid.

Another way for consumers to stretch their meat dollars is to buy a beef arm roast on sale and have it cut three ways to make three meals-swiss steak, pot roast and beef stew meat. The county home economist advises us to buy our meats boneless. In many cases boneless cuts of meat often end up costing less per serving than lower-priced cuts with the bone left in.

Finally, the quality of the animal and the part of the body from which the meat came are two very important buying points to remember. The quality of the animal depends basically upon the age of the animal and how well it was fed. Even though qualities and cuts differ in taste, most all meats can be made tender and delicious. By this, Ms. DeMesse means you can buy cheaper cuts more frequently if you have learned to prepare them properly.

Town And Country

BOB MULROONEY ASSISTANT KENT COUNTY AGENT

Now is the time for home gardeners to be thinking about that second planting of carrots, cucumbers, sweet corn, broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower and snap beans. Seed of cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower should be planted so plants will be ready to be planted for harvesting in September through October. If space provides try not to plant these second crops where the first crops were planted to avoid insect and disease problems.

For a longer harvesting period and nice clean cucumbers, I heartily suggest trellising cukes. Cucumbers have to be trained to a string by wrapping the leader around the string and placing the tendrils on the strings. The first three lateral branches should be pruned to give a nice straight stem. Trellises should be approximately six feet high with a heavy gauge wire along the top and approximately three feet above ground. Twine can then be strung between the wire or plastic netting can be attached to support the plants. You will be very pleased with the large number of clean, straight fruit with uniform color. These trellised cucumbers should last about three months on the trellises, which is a great increase over conventional planted cucumbers. The trellis will aid in cutting down fruit rot from fruits not being in contact with the soil. Cucumbers are easily visible to see when to pick, thus preventing oversized fruit. It is also a tremendous space saver if space is limited.

Home gardeners should be maintaining preventive spray programs, especially on squash and tomatoes. We have many calls from home gardeners who have wilted squash plants and cannot figure out why the plants died. Further inspection reveals a large white worm in the plants. This critter is the squash vine borer. He can be prevented from damaging squash and pumpkins by spraying or dusting with Sevin or Methoxychlor. Tomatoes should be sprayed regularly with Maneb to prevent early blight and anthracnose.

Field corn growers are seeing European corn borer damage. The Extension Service recommends chemically treating when 3/4 of the plants show larval feeding in the whorl and again in 7 days if needed. The following materials may be used by air or ground applicators: diazinon granules, Sevin sprayable, Thimet granules, Furadan granules. You should check the label for specific application instructions and precautions. The liquid formulation of Furadan is not cleared for foliar application on corn at this time.

Lions Elect New International President

DALLAS, TEXAS—Harry J. Aslan of Kingsburg, California, was elected President of the International Association of Lions Clubs at the 58th Annual Convention, June 25-28, 1975, in Dallas, Texas. Lions International is the world's largest service club organization with over 1,100,000 members in 147 nations and geographic areas around the globe.

Aslan, the fifth Californian to become President, operates "Three H Ranches," an independent fruit packing plant and cold storage facility. A member of the Kingsburg Lions Club since 1949, his record of community service also includes the University of Delaware campus, was executed by artist Doris Caesar in 1952 and given to the university two years later by the artist's husband.

First foreign student on the University of Delaware campus was Joseph E. Cabrera of Puerto Rico in 1840. First motion picture projector on the University of Delaware campus was installed in Wolf Hall auditorium in December of 1920.

Notes

The first fraternity house on the University of Delaware campus was Sigma Phi Epsilon. The chapter is still active today.

The inaugural address at the opening of New Ark College, now the University of Delaware, was delivered by Prof. John Holmes Agnew on May 8, 1834. The text of the address is in the university archives.

Memorial Hall on the University of Delaware campus was dedicated in 1925 by the citizens of Delaware as the state's war memorial to soldiers who fought in World War I. The building was a library from 1925-1963.

Control Rose Disease

If your roses haven't been protected by spraying, black spot disease on roses is now making its annual appearance, warns Dr. Robert Carroll, extension plant pathologist at the University of Delaware.

Black spot is one of the most troublesome rose diseases in Delaware. It is caused by a fungus which lives from year to year on dead fallen leaves and stems. In the spring the over-wintered fungus produces spores which infect new foliage.

As a result of infection, says Carroll, nearly circular black spots are formed which vary in size but may get as large as 1/2 inch in diameter. These spots have a fringed border and may run together to form large irregular black areas on the leaves. Usually the remainder of the leaf will turn yellow and fall prematurely.

Sanitation is a very important part of controlling this disease. This means raking and destroying fallen leaves as well as proper pruning of the stems.

Control is most effective if a protective fungicide is applied before the disease appears or becomes established. Some fungicides that are recommended to control black spot include folpet (Phaltan), chlorothalonil (Daconil 2787), benomyl (Benlate), and zinc ion maneb (Fore). Spraying at approximately weekly intervals is usually required for good control. Sprays should have been started about mid-May. However, if you haven't started spraying, do so now, advises Carroll. For more information on this and other rose diseases and their control, contact your county extension office and ask for the fact sheet on "Common Rose Diseases."

Canning And Freezing Tips From The Extension Hotline

Consumers have a right to know, and consumers can find out anything and everything they want to know about canning, freezing, and pickling procedures by calling the Cooperative Extension Hotline.

The Cooperative Extension Hotline phone is being handled daily by Betty Keller, Extension Home Economist. She is familiar with freezing, canning and pickling preservation of most all fruits and vegetables. And is readily available to answer any consumer's questions from 9 a.m.

until 4 p.m., Mondays through Thursdays at 738-2539.

Ms. Keller says the most-asked questions have to do with basic principles in freezing and canning.

Many people wonder if all vegetables must be blanched before freezing. The specialist tells consumers that all vegetables should be blanched before freezing; the one exception is green peppers. Blanching is necessary to destroy the enzymes that make a vegetable ripen and eventually over-ripen. If the consumer fails to blanch the vegetables they will continue to mature and become over-ripe. The end-product may be tasteless or starchy--so don't risk it.

On the subject of home freezing, Ms. Keller has received many recent questions about freezing green beans. Some home gardeners have the first green beans or snap beans coming in and are looking for a fast, efficient method for preservation. The Extension Service suggests the following method: Select the young, tender, stringless beans that snap when broken. Wash thoroughly. Cut beans into one or two inch pieces or slice them lengthwise. Put the beans in a blanching basket, lower the basket into boiling water and cover. Begin counting time immediately, and after three minutes plunge the basket of heated beans into cold water to stop the cooking.

It should take about the same length of time to cool the beans as it did to heat them. When they are sufficiently cooled, remove them from the water and drain. Pack the beans into bags or plastic containers. Leave 1/2-inch head space. Freeze beans at once and store at 0 degrees Fahrenheit or below. Other vegetables may be frozen in much the same way as snap beans.

When speaking of canning fruits and vegetables, consumers ask why a steam pressure canner must be used for some foods and not for others. Ms. Keller says, steam pressure canners are required to destroy botulism bacteria in low acid foods. This means all vegetables, except tomatoes, must be canned in a pressure canner. Tomatoes may be canned in either a pressure canner or water bath, depending on the consumer's preference.

Another very important question concerns the operating efficiency of the pressure canner. In response to this Ms. Keller advises consumers that this should be checked for accuracy each year.

If you have a pressure canner that needs gauge testing, the Cooperative Extension Service is holding a clinic on July 9th. Betty Keller and Marguerite Krackhardt, will be testing gauges on pressure canners in room 040 Agricultural Hall at the University of Delaware from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Bring in the lid of your pressure canner to be tested on that date only.

Farmers Disaster Payment Info

All Kent County farmers with feed grain and wheat allotments have recently been mailed a leaflet with information about disaster payments under the 1975 farm program, Lister Hall, Jr., County Executive Director, Kent County ASCS office, said.

He explained that disaster payments are again available this year if feed grain and wheat allotment production is lost or substantially damaged by disaster. Such payments are not meant to compensate a farmer fully for the loss, the ASCS official said, but can provide some income following a major crop loss.

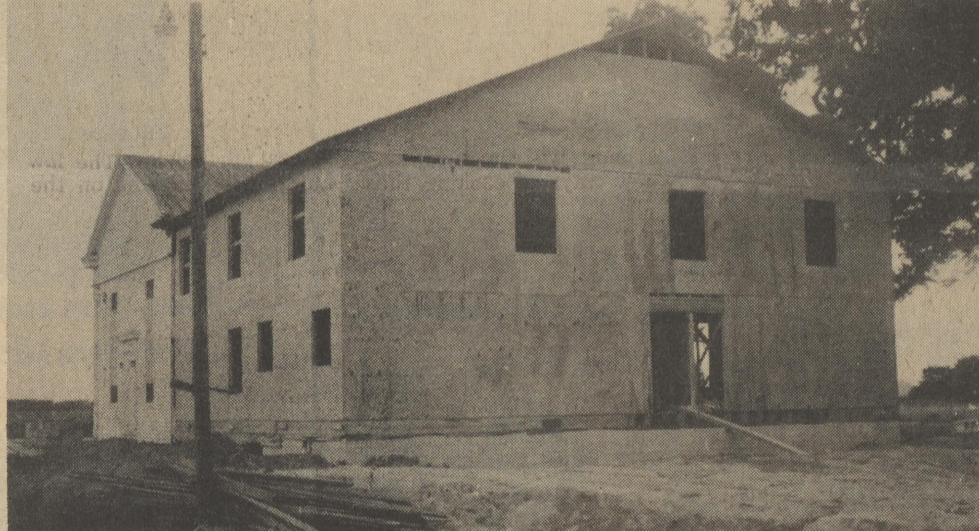

Disaster payments can be made only to farmers with feed grain or wheat allotments who make a timely report of the disaster and certify their acres, Hall said. The programs are open to all eligible farmers without regard to race, sex, color, religion or national origin.

Should any eligible Kent County farmer suffer substantial crop damage because of a disaster this year, he should file a report immediately with the county ASCS office at Dover. Until the ASCS verifies the production, acreage and damage, the producer should not dispose of the crop residue in any way though he or she has harvested the crop.

"This caution is included in the disaster leaflet, along with other needed information. Make sure you know about disaster payment provisions - and keep the leaflet handy for further reference," Hall advised.

Obituaries

Mrs. Paul Bowman

Mildred I. Bowman, 79, of near Farmington died Monday in Milford Memorial Hospital after a short illness.

Her husband, Paul, died in 1955. Sammy Hall Singers To Appear in Greensboro

Sammy Hall and the Sammy Hall Singers, will be guests of the Greensboro Baptist Church youth, on the evening of July 12 at 8 p.m.

Sammy Hall is a former member of the Birdwatchers, and internationally known and famous rock group. His sojourn with the Birdwatchers almost ended in tragedy when he became involved with drugs and almost attempted to take his own life under the influence of drugs and alcohol.

The Sammy Hall Singers bring to his audience more than just a song. Sammy brings a story and he is not ashamed to tell it. His story hits the hearts of Americans today and his testimony is etched into the minds of those who have heard it.

Sammy is one of the industry's most capable and talented young song writers. He speaks with the simplicity in his songs and in a vein that breaks through the false barriers created by so many.

The pastor and young people of the Greensboro Baptist Church extend a cordial welcome to attend this important service on Saturday evening of July 12, 1975.

Bunting Takes Third Win

Milford's Harold Bunting did what any race driver hopes to do for a new owner and that's win it all in superb style, out-gunning his nearest competitors in Modified "Firecracker 35" feature action. Aboard the Warrington Bros. Special Vega from Rehoboth, Bunting anchored his third win of the season ahead of Jimmy Clark from Gumboro who recorded a strong second driving the Hitchen's Bros. Corvair of Selbyville. Seaford's Haines Tull brought the Davis Trucking Co. Vega home third recovering from an earlier spin which had him in the catch-up role for the distance. Jack Sapp of Milford scored fourth piloting the Rumpstitch Machine Works-George Adams Co. Vega. Harrington's Bobby Reed was fifth at the checkered flag chauffering the Reed Racing Team Vega. Sixth overall went to Richard Jarvis and his Purnell-Jarvis Ltd. Corvair from Ocean City.

Wayne Cusick of Princess Anne cracked the door on what had been sacred territory in winning the "Fireworks" for Sportsmen racers driving his Regal Muffler Center Vega. Cusick's performance was flawless as Dover's Clem Horvath will attest to with Malnor, Joseph and Bodenweiser sidelined during the event, it was up to Horvath to keep Cusick in sight taking a fine second for the Ira Ware-Go Navy Pinto Team. Woodside's Larry Grier recorded one of his best finishes of the year taking third driving the C & W Auto Parts Chevrolet. Joe Ellingsworth from Salisbury was fourth behind the wheel of the J.N.R. Racing-Ellingsworth Body Shop Chevy II. Milford's Gene Mills was fifth in all new untried Mustang sporting the Mills' Bros. Markets banner.

Ted Walius streaked the field in winning the Cargil, Inc.-Jobe's Sunoco Mid Season Six Cylinder Hobby Championship and along with it the largest purse ever paid in the Hobby Division. Finishing second behind the Clark's Swimming Pools-May Pop Tire Chevy II was Wayne Ingram of Milford and his Roger Minner Wrecker Service Camaro. Preston's Kenny Patchett nailed down the third spot in a Chevelle with fourth going to Kelly Hastings of Seaford and the Little Acres Animal Farm Chevy II. Dodd Redden of Ocean City was fifth in a Chevrolet.

The regular eight cylinder Hobby race went to Georgetown's Charlie Harris in the Silver Oak Trailer Court Plymouth. Johnnie Fisher from Seaford scored second chauffering the Big T Burger Chevelle. Top point man Ronnie LaVere was third in the Kay's Beauty Shop Barracuda. Fourth went to Spencer Kelly and the H. W. Tieman & Sons-Ed's Auto Repair Chevelle. Mike Schreiber was fifth in a Fairlane and Charlie Morris was sixth driving the Bodie's Lewes Dairy Markets Mach 1 Mustang.

Canada Dry Loses Twice

Firecracker preliminary winners were: Ed Brown, Jr., Cambridge, Vega; Bob Passwaters, Milton, Corvair; Wayne Cusick, Princess Anne, Vega; Lou Johnson, Lewes, Mustang. On tap next weekend is a regular program set for Friday, July 11, at 8 p.m. and a regular program also for Sunday, July 13, beginning an hour earlier.

Canada Dry, the tough Wilmington semi-pro league entry which has several downstate players on its roster, dropped a pair of 5-2 decisions and dropped down a notch from its league-leading position.

Woodbridge High teacher and Bridgeville resident Jim VanSeiver, was one of two bottler hurlers in a loss to Marta.

Third baseman Butch Dill and shortstop Jim Dill of Viola, had two of Canada Dry's seven hits.

Rick Shaw of the University of Delaware mound staff, held Canada Dry to three hits in the second 5-2 defeat.

Russ Dill, a recent Lake Forest High graduate, was the loser, as his brothers tallied Canada Dry's runs.

Taylor and Messick Romp Again

Taylor and Messick continued their winning ways in softball at Canterbury by routing Bennett Insurance, 9-2.

Larry Larrimore and Ron Cannon evenly split eight hits. Wayne Morris had three hits in four trips to the platter. Denny Cannon was 2 for 3, while Don Adams had a home run and two RBI's.

Bob Collins was the winning pitcher.

Harrington had six hits in a 5-4 loss to Smyrna. We think that's the locals best day at the plate so far.

Glen Witt had 2-for-2, while Greg Hobbs and Wayne Erne each had a hit and two RBI's. Russell Dill and Lester Blades were credited with the other safeties.

Ivan Ralph and Mike McGinnis shared the mound chores for the losers.

SPORTS

KEITH S. BURGESS, Sports Editor

Sports Odds and Ends

Chris Palmisano, who is the first, bona-fide, ready-made thinclad sports star to transfer into the Lake Forest School District, was the subject of a few lines in the HARRINGTON JOURNAL last week, but a couple of sentences were inadvertently omitted.

Palmisano under the tutelage of Charles Bell and Keith Hinkle, at Dover Air High, was clocked in 10.46, as a freshman, two-miler, then recorded a 10.21 as a sophomore. Only Ed Thompson (10.21) and Chris Wetherhold (9.53.3) in 1971, have done as well here though Lake Forest has been turning out distance stars for six years now.

Palmisano is hoping to help Lake Forest to another state cross-country title this fall and is aiming for a 9.59 two mile next spring. As a senior he wants that other Chris' Spartan record in the two mile.

A recent trip to Dover resulted in a couple of meetings with sports figures from other times.

We were in the buffet line at the Sheraton, when we spotted a familiar face under a chef's hat at the other end of the chow line.

Phillip "Mousey" Harris, an excellent distance runner at the Milford High was expertly slicing portions of meat for the voracious appetites of the diners. Back around 1970 "Mousey" had some memorable duels with Lake Forest great, Chris Wetherhold.

At Kent County Motors we told the service manager our name was Burgess. He turned out to be Wilbur Richards, ex-Harringtonian, who had played baseball with Carrington and Winnie Burgess.

His father, Enoch "Pop" Richards, had participated in the diamond pastime with our father, J. Harvey Burgess.

Finally, in 1940 Keith S. Burgess hit .348 to lead Harrington High 12-3 nine, while the runnerup hitter was Enoch "Dick" Richards, Jr.

Another baseball teammate in 1940 was Levi Vogl. Levi and his wife Julie reside in the Cheswood area and are golfers of note at Garrisons Lake.

Julie toured the course in 79 strokes last week to win the Garrison's Lake Golf Club Ladies Day IRONS ONLY golf tourney.

William "Butch" Dill drilled a key two-run double, as Canada Dry defeated DiSabatino 7-2 in Wilmington Semi-Pro league play. The older Dill had another base hit as well, while younger brother, Jim, also hit safely.

Later the league-leading Bottlers edged Hershey 6-5 to up their log to 12-4. Canada Dry had only three hits, but Butch had one and Jim had another, in addition to an RBI and two runs scored.

Sapp Sweeps Two At Raceway

Milford's Jack Sapp driving the Marshall Baker Engineered George Adams Co.-Todd & Son Exxon Vega did the impossible by winning both Modified features in holiday competition at Georgetown Speedway. The veteran campaigner had everything working and proved the stronger as the "Hardscrabble Express" pulled the challengers down the straights and through the turns in flawless style.

Harold Bunting, also from Milford, kept the pressure on Sapp to the wire in the first leg, taking second aboard the Warrington Bros. Special Vega. Walt Breeding of Federalsburg had it together in superb fashion scoring third, piloting the Davis Trucking Co. Vega at the checkered flag.

Fourth went to Bill Towers from Harrington chaffering the J.O.B.-Dillard's Restaurants-Covey's Car Care Mustang. Paul Walker, Jr. anchored fifth behind the wheel of the Coastal Corvaire with Haines Tull of Seaford taking sixth for Team Davis Trucking.

In the second 25-lapper Tull had to settle for second behind Sapp's perfection plus performance. Paul Walker, Jr. moved up two notches taking third in what was a race where the fittest survived. Fourth went to John McCardell of Rising Sun driving the Cabbage Corner Racing Team-Skunk Hollow Express. Ridgely's Bobby Walls brought the Davis Material Handling Pinto home fifth ahead of Laurel's Alan Carey who was sixth behind the wheel of the Reese Carey & Sons Vega.

Independence Sportsmen feature racing saw Berlin's Richard Malnor breeze to another win in the Don's Automotive-Hitch Insurance Agency Mustang. Finishing second to Malnor's immaculate run for victory lane was Wayne Cusick of Princes Anne chaffering the Regal Muffler Center Vega.

Bodie Bodenweiser from Georgetown had no trouble taking third in the Lewes Dairy Markets Mustang. Fourth went to Bridgeville's Donnie Joseph and his "Snoopy Special" Dillard's Restaurants-Falcon. Sonny Grier of Wyoming was fifth driving the Grier's Garage Chevrolet home ahead of Dover's Clem Horvath who was sixth behind the wheel of the Ira Ware Prepared Go Navy Pinto.

Georgetown's Charlie Harris driving the Silver Oak Trailer Court Plymouth drove without error in winning the Cargil, Inc.-Jobe's Sunoco Service Mid-Season Eight Cylinder Hobby Championship over Kelly Hastings of Seaford who was

Despite rain-threatening skies and thanks to Mother Nature no precipitation occurred, Georgetown Speedway had another of their fine nights of stock car racing Friday night, June 27th with a total of 72 racing cars including modified, sportsmen and hobbies.

Gumboro's Jimmy Clark wheeling the Hitchens Brothers Corvaire jumped to an early lead in the modified feature and stayed in front to take the checkered flag at the finish line. Walt Breeding of Federalsburg piloting the David Trucking Co. 75 Vega closed up the gap on the last few laps to take

Hobbs Wastes 2 Homers

Greg Hobbs, Harrington's slugging centerfielder, belted two home runs in as many trips to the plate and batted in three runs, but it was all in vain as Dover's Big Leaguers captured a second place with Haines Tull of Seaford chaffering the Davis Trucking Co. 75 Vega hot on his trail to capture third. Fourth went to Ocean City's Richard Jarvis driving the Purnell-Jarvis Corvaire with Paul Walker Jr. of Milford in the Coastal Construction Corvaire taking fifth.

Bodie Bodenweiser of Georgetown in the Lewes Dairy Market Mustang started in the twentieth position but didn't take long to stretch out a good lead to win the Sportsmen feature. Richard Malnor of Berlin in the Hitch Insurance Agency Pinto settled for second with 6-4 verdict. The winners had seven hits and three circuit clouts. Wayne Voshell, Wayne Erne and Lester Blades also hit safely for the losers.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hamstead, Greenwood, discuss the program with three trainees who will be working on their farm. Seated is Avalino Bides and standing are Tomas de Lena, left, and William de Guzman.

Phillipine Farmers Join Greenwood Farm

Three young Phillipine farmers have arrived at the Greenwood farm of Mr. and Mrs. John Hamstead for a two-year work and study program in modern agricultural techniques. Avalino Bides, Tomas de Lena, and William de Guzman are part of a group of 75 Phillipine farmers who arrived in the United States this month. The trainees received orientation at the National 4-H Foundation. The group represents the second contingent of Filipinos to participate in the Agricultural Training Program sponsored by the National 4-H Foundation to help alleviate world food problems and to improve international understanding. Host farmers from four states - Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and Pennsylvania - met the trainees in Washington prior to returning home to begin their 20-month on-the-job training. The purpose of the training program is to give young farmers practical work experience in various phases of agricultural production most needed in the Phillipines - poultry, vegetables, swine, dairy and field crops. Following their experience on host farms, which includes in-service training, trainees spend three months in a technical training at a college. They also become involved with 4-H and other community affairs and activities. The program is self-financing. Trainee's wages, paid by host farmers to the National 4-H Foundation are used to cover transportation, orientation and general living expenses. The balance is given to the trainees at the end of their program to provide working capital when they return home. Now in its ninth year, the Agricultural Training Program already has provided practical work study experience for more than 1100 young farmers from Japan, the Republic of China and Korea. More than 80 percent of those trained are now engaged in agricultural pursuits in their own countries. Currently 125 young farmers from Korea are participating in the program in 10 midwestern and southern states.

second year of our Cheer Center. During our past year we served 8,683 meals, about one-half of these were sent out to homebound people. If it had not been for our meals on wheels, several of these people would have gone hungry because they were not physically able to prepare any food for themselves. This center is very, very important to our community. Mr. and Mrs. George Abraham of Pennsylvania have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Horner this week. They have been our guests at the center for dinner. We are always so glad to have them with us. Our manager, Mrs. Charlotte Shea is on a two week vacation. We miss her greatly, but we hope she enjoys this time away from work. The center was closed on Friday for the fourth of July, but will be open on Monday as usual. Roadside Markets Offer Gold Mine Of Flavor

A gold mine of fresh garden fruits and vegetables is available at Delaware roadside markets, according to Roger Ginder, extension crop market specialist at the University of Delaware. You can get fresh-from-the-garden flavor because most roadside markets in this area offer seasonal produce that is only minutes from the field. Some local markets do truck in produce that is out of season locally, but Ginder says consumers can be assured that it is as fresh as possible and that it has been handled a minimum number of times. In season vegetables and fruit are the best buy. Sweet corn will be harvested in Delaware starting around the middle of July and lasting throughout the summer until about the second week in September. Summer squash, cucumbers and cabbage are also good buys at local stands and offer menu variety for many cool summer dishes. Tomatoes are one of the most popular roadside offerings. These should be available in large quantities in a few weeks. Delaware's potato harvest begins around the middle of July. The white round potato is a favorite because it's good for general all-round use. Blueberries will be at their peak early in July. Some "pick-your-own" blueberry patches will be open in lower Delaware.

A key to satisfactory roadside buying is don't over-buy. Don't buy more than you can use or preserve quickly. Remember, fresh produce spoils much faster than frozen or canned. It takes more work to get some fresh produce ready for the table than the prepared convenience foods you're used to getting in the store. There's peeling and shucking to be done, for one thing. And unless you use a pressure cooker, preparation time may be longer. And sauces and seasonings don't come with fresh produce. If you want them, you'll have to make your own. However many people prefer fresh vegetables with little additional seasoning. Since
