$162,693 In New Money Will Fund Reading Program

District Gets Federal Monies

by Gloria Dill

Title I funds this year for the Lake Forest School District have made possible a new verbal skills program, as the State Board of Education last week approved an additional $162,693.90, bringing existing federal monies available in the district to $262,600.

Since its beginning in 1965, the Title I program has in the local district, been used in kindergarten classes and in grades one and two for improving reading skills of selected pupils. Teachers, assisted by aides, have conducted the reading program designed for pupils with reading problems.

The new program, called the Wisconsin Design for Reading Skill Development, will be used extensively through kindergarten to third grade and in grades seven and eight. In the elementary school, this will involve approximately 550 children

On the junior high level, the funds will provide for a reading specialist who will help approximately 50 pupils at the Chipman Junior School.

The Wisconsin Design, already in use in the Stanton (Del.) School District, was chosen by the local district after both teachers and administrators observed programs in other districts. They subsequently voted from among six different programs.

It has four main objectives, according to Solomon Markowitz, Supervisor of Instruction. These are:

To identify the essential skills necessary to master the art of reading.

2. To assess the skill development of each pupil in the program to determine his strengths and weaknesses.

3. To provide a system that places each child at his appropriate reading level; and

4. To monitor the child's skill development so that each pupil is assured proper placement in the reading program.

Fifty teachers and aides who will be using the program have completed a week-long workshop this summer in order to be familiar with the essential features and to be able to identify and order the materials needed for the program.

The District has employed Mrs. Carol Lamphier of Elon College, N.C., a reading specialist, to supervise the operation of the Wisconsin Design and to assist teachers of the Title I program with any reading problem that may arise.

The junior high center, run by one teacher and one aide, will deal primarily with special education students who are reading below the fourth grade level.

Annual Meeting Set For Southern States

Report of election results of local Advisory Board, Farm Home Advisory Committee members and operations reports will highlight the Southern States Cooperative's annual membership meeting for the Harrington area on August 12 at Delaware State Fair Restaurant. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m.

"This year, the local election is being held prior to the meeting with members voting by mail ballots," reports Charles L. Peck, manager of Peck Brothers Farm Supply, the local Southern States retail outlet. "Members who have not marked their mail ballots should do so, and bring it to their agency, or deposit it in the ballot box prior to the beginning of the meeting, so their vote will be counted."

Robert F. Winkler of Felton will serve as chairman of the local meeting.

Local operations and services rendered to agriculture in the community will be discussed by manager Peck. He will supplement his report with a number of color slides relating to local services to members.

Theme of the meeting will be, "There's a Co-op in Your Future."

There will be special recognition for local board members and Farm Home Advisory Committee members who retire this year.

Nominees for the local board for the area are: Michael Bullock, Frank Hrupsa, Robert A. Mason Jr. and William R. Parker, all of Harrington.

Ladies nominated for the Farm Home Advisory Committee are: Mrs. Marshall Anthony, Mrs. William Bullock, Mrs. Barton Torbert of Harrington and Elbert Harrington of Felton.

Susan Eliason, A.I.C. Youth Scholar, will report to the group.

Entertainment will be songs by Donald and Kathy Hopkins of Harrington accompanied by Paula Clendaniel of Harrington.

Notice

The August meeting of the Harrington City Council will be held Monday, August 11, in the City Hall.

Gold Queen Is Crowned

20th Blue Gold Game Set

Last Thursday night, Benjamins of Dover sponsored the selection of the Gold Queen and her court for the forthcoming Blue-Gold All-Star football game at the University of Delaware stadium on August 16. The game is sponsored by the Delaware Foundation for Retarded Children, Inc.

Miss Georgette Wasyluk, 17, graduate of Delcastle Technical High School was selected to represent the Gold squad as queen. She plans to enter the University of Delaware and major in nursing. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George (Emily) Wasyluk of Newport.

The Gold court selected are as follows: Misses Robin Woody (runner-up), William Penn; Laura Tucker, Woodbridge; Linda Heinold, Smyrna; Becky Lee Short, Sussex Central; Maria A. Rizo, Milford; and Laurel Freeman, Caesar Rodney.

The Blue-Gold game this year will be the 20th played since its beginning in 1955. The game was initiated by R.R.M. Carpenter, Jr., late James W. Williams and Edward J. Pechin. During its history, more than $800,000 has been realized from the games and has been distributed to initiate new programs for the mentally retarded and to assist re-

300 Horses Compete At Fairgrounds

Arabian Horse Show Starts Friday

According to Bob Massey, show chairman for the 5th annual Delaware All-Arabian Horse Show, over 300 of the finest Arabian horses in the country are entered for the three-day event scheduled for August 8, 9 and 10 at the Delaware State Fairgrounds. The horses are scheduled to start arriving at noon Sunday and are coming from Texas, Ohio, Michigan, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, as well as all states on the East Coast.

The program is sponsored by the Milford Jaycees and sanctioned by the Arabian Horse Association of Del-marva, as well as the International Arabian Horse Association and the American Horse Shows Association.

Events are to begin at 3 p.m. Friday, August 8, until 11 p.m. On Saturday, the show starts at 8:30 a.m. and will last until 11 p.m. On Sunday the show lasts from 8:30 a.m. until about 4 p.m.

During the three days there will be competition in 85 classes as well as 20 regionals. Among these will be the popular native costume classes.

The $1 admission is good for the entire three days of showing.

Lake Forest Students Take Awards

A record 8300 persons visited the Children's Barnyard at the Delaware State Fair, which was run by Lake Forest students. These same young people won many awards during the statewide event.

Lake Forest's Livestock Judging Team took second place and will be represented by Ernest Vogel and Mike Layton in the Regionals. This event will take place in Springfield, Mass., in the fall, according to Chairman Mike Coverdale.

Susan Harding of Felton took first place in the Agronomic Crop contest, with Bill Abbott as chairman. Second place winner was Ronald Blessing, and sixth place was won by Willis Townsend.

Mike Wamsley's team took first place statewide in the Vegetable contest. Individual winners were Craig Dayton, Wade Brown, and William Vincent.

Also bound for the regionals is the Horse Judging team of Holly Williams and Chuck Pitts, who took first place in the event.

As a result Lake Forest took second place in the sweepstakes determined by the total money and ribbons won in all events.

In the State Fair Games, the tug-of-war team of Charles Hudson, Ronnie Jarrell, and Jack Shulties defeated Milford. The bean-splitting contest was won by Mike Layton, and the eight-foot toss of Ronnie Jarrell won him the Hay Toss.

In the Sack Race, first and second went to Bill Paskey and Art Coffman, while Larry Riser took the watermelon eating contest with a time of two minutes flat.

Also participating were Ronnie Cain and Jimmy Vanderwende who placed in Dairy Judging.

Linda Siri Watkins

Actress To Appear During Horse Show

This weekend at the Delaware State Fairgrounds, Miss Linda Siri Watkins, Mrs. Joseph McInerney of Rehoboth Beach, will show her horse, El Sahir at the annual Jacey Arabian Horse Show.

Miss Watkins, a native of New York City of Finnish descent, is a well known actress and budding movie star. She recently returned from the West where she made a screen test with Rock Hudson.

This year's Arabian Show is a repeat performance for Miss Watkins who has adopted Delaware. "The people are just great and the countryside is so beautiful." Her grey stallion last year won the three-year old gelding and halter class and this year qualifies for the halter and English Pleasure Open. When asked if she saw a similarity between acting and showing horses her comment was "...well there is a great deal of competition usually in the event which I enter. Performance is the key for the horse and rider must perform as one, sort of like the actress on center stage."

As a TV commercial artist, Miss Watkins has been featured in many of the leading advertised products on television. She has had small film parts in the movie Klute, War Between Men and Women, Lovers and Other Strangers and a European version of Clifford Irving's Greatest Swindle.

Miss Watkins hopes to breed and raise Arabian horses.

Swamp Monster Almost Nabbed

Campers Take In Newest Camp In Kent

by Margo Farrow

It takes a certain amount of intestinal fortitude to endure 35 to 40 elementary school aged children, Delaware insects (mosquitos and sheep flies) and a swamp monster of questionable description and origin, but that is exactly what two courageous teachers have done this summer.

Under the auspices of the Kent County Parks and recreations summer program, James Long and Chuck Orr, teachers in the Capital School District, gave birth to Camp Lotz Oar and its subsequent name, which, with a little respelling, combined the names of the two originators.

Both men scouted the Kent County area to determine where a suitable camp might be maintained, with built in safety measures and suitable facilities for camping out overnight. After several areas were rejected, they located Ernest Council's land. The sprawling farm, east of Smyrna, which is used by duck and geese hunters in season, had all the signs the two men were looking for ... lots of space, shallow ponds for safe swimming, boating and fishing and room to stretch the

This antique barn thresher owned and operated by Edward F. Evans of Cheswold, will be demonstrated at the University of Delaware's annual Farm and Home Field Day, August 13, at the Georgetown Substation. The thresher is part of a display commemorating the 100th anniversary of Agricultural Experiment Stations. Evans, who is president of the Delaware Farm Museum Association, owns a large collection of early 1900's farm equipment.

Corn, Soybean Field Day Set

The College of Agricultural Sciences' annual Corn and Soybean Field Day is scheduled for Friday, August 8, in Newark. The event begins at 1:15 p.m. when boarding the wagons for the field tours begins. The tours begin in back of Agricultural Hall on the University of Delaware campus.

Plots to be toured include a soybean herbicide demonstration; nine different plots of foundation soybeans; and no-tillage study using cover crops, nitrogen sources, herbicides and machinery modifications.

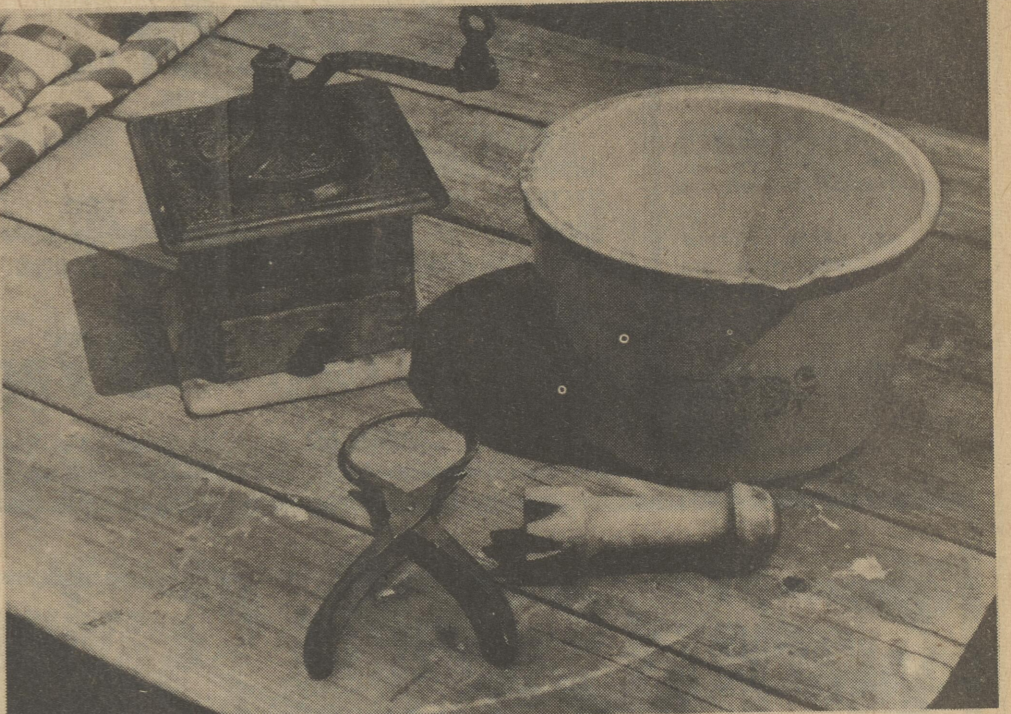

Felton Council Meets

On Monday night at the regular monthly meeting of the Felton City Council, Donald W. Jacobs, 39, of Main Street, Felton, was appointed to fill the seat left vacant by the resignation of William Alderman, who along with being a councilman, served as secretary to the council. Dwight Stephens moved up to become secretary to the council.

Jacobs, a native of Easton, Pa., is product manager for National Cup Co. He and his wife, Barbara have 5 children, Keith, Denise, Craig and twins Dawn and Diane.

In other action the council decided to adopt an ordinance forbidding further riding of ponies and motor-bikes on the sidewalks in the town. Bicycles will be permitted on the sidewalks but sloppy parking of the bicycles on the sidewalk will be forbidden.

Dover homemaker Mary Garton has been collecting kitchen objects like these around the state for years. She'll be at the University of Delaware's Farm and Home Field Day in Georgetown August 13 with her collection.

Her Antiques Are On Display In Kitchen

Most antique collectors like to show off their finds in the living room. Not Mary Garton. Hers go in the kitchen or, at best, the dining room.

Before you decide that's a funny place for them, you have to know what she collects. The Dover homemaker, who used to run an antique shop, specializes in early kitchen utensils. Since she uses many of them for their original purpose, the kitchen is the logical place for their display.

She says gathering the collection has been lots of fun. Many of the items were picked up for practically nothing at garage sales and auctions, their original use going unrecognized by most people. After all, would you know an antique apple peeler if you saw one? You would if you had Mary Garton's keen eye.

Besides the apple peeler (a cast iron contrivance consisting of many gears cranked by a wooden handle), there's an old fashioned jar opener which resembles some kind of fancy paper punch (with a wire loop where the hole maker should be), there's a hinged butter mold, a sad iron, a patented washboard with wooden rollers and a tin cutter that makes 12 cookies at a time.

Mary Garton plans to bring some of the more interesting items from her collection down to Georgetown August 13 for the University of Delaware's Farm and Home Field Day, as part of a demonstration of Heritage Skills being sponsored by the state Home Economics Extension Service. She'll also try to help people identify objects they may have at home and give a few pointers on shopping for this kind of unusual antique.

Besides her kitchenware display, visitors will be able to see pressed flower pictures and wood carvings of early American country life. They'll also be able to watch demonstrations of corn husk dolls, pottery, soap, apple butter and Maryland beaten biscuits.

Admission to Field Day is free, though you may wish to buy tickets for the $2 fried chicken luncheon which is served at noon in the grove at the Substation Farm. Besides the Heritage Skills demonstrations, there will be agricultural exhibits, tours of experimental farm plots, a plant diagnostic clinic, and a display of old farm equipment. The event is scheduled to last from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Building Projects Set

Pen Doll, Inc., who currently own the Harrington Meadows Town Houses here in Harrington, are preparing to construct ten more units in the fall.

According to sources in City Hall, the corporation will pave the street at the project site before the new units are built.

Word has been received at the Harrington City Hall that the water and sewer plans for the HUD Turnkey Project northwest of the City has met federal standards. This will open the way for construction of the project, although a beginning date was not known at press time.

Just a pause in preparations as Mrs. Mary Jester holds two handfuls of blue and red ribbons [48 in all] she was awarded for entries in the Delaware State Fair.

Mrs. Elwood [Mary] Jester begins a long list of entries for next year's fair. She is surrounded by materials for the handsome hand-hooked rug she began for next year's fair during this year's fair week. The Masten's Corner resident prepares all year for the fair.

Gets Ready for Next Year

The temperature was hovering near the 90 degree mark outside Masten's Corner, Tuesday afternoon, but that did not stop Mrs. Elwood Jester from her first step towards preparing for the 57th Delaware State Fair next July.

This industrious and talented lady had just taken 48 ribbons at the recent state fair, and had received recognition and an award from Governor Sherman Tribbitt during Governor's Day.

Working on a hand-hooked rug was not unusual on a sweltering summer afternoon, for she "works on it (fair preparations) every day from 4 to 6 hours," and gives "more time in the winter." "I never get tired." Where did she learn needlework? She reports she has been at it so long she can't remember how she got a start. She does everything by instructions, however.

This year's entries averaged around 66 to 76, she wasn't quite sure. Does she pack them away for next year? Definitely not, she says. She sells most of the work and gives some away for special gifts. Her son and his family get first pick of her work.

Is the Delaware native doing any special work for the Bicentennial? She didn't say, but one could be sure any such project would be in good hands.

Senior Citizens News

The Jolly Timers had more members to practice Monday, July 28, and we took advantage of it as the more we have, the better we sound.

Bible study with Rev. Huff was well attended Tuesday.

On Wednesday, July 25, members of the center went to Rehoboth and many of them rode the Jolly Trolley for their amusement and sightseeing of the beach. A good time was reported by those who attended.

Friday was bowling day again and one of our new members, Fred Littman, bowled 300 for his two games. Andy Anderson was second with 258. Jim Konienci was third with 249 and George Goode with 226 for two games each.

The spotlight falls on one of our Felton members this time; Annabelle Morrow. She is very handy in the ceramics department, she likes to paint and is an artist in her own right in pictures and painting pitchers and making beads for her friends and the center as well. She has just finished a beautiful piece to be hung on the wall called string art. She has also done a painting of small chickens and roosters in ceramics. She is presently making pillow tops with hooked yarn. She is also a member of the Jolly Timers Kitchen Band and can beat out the tunes on her imitation bon-bon drums made from two food containers.

Annabelle lives in the same house with her son and his family in an apartment of her own. She has many friends at the center.

Felton Council Gets Bicentennial Report

The Town of Felton will participate next year in the national bicentennial celebration. The date for the Felton celebration will be June 26, 1976. Extensive planning by the committee will include guest appearances of state politicians along with food catered by the Felton Methodist Church, a display at Felton Fire Co., an antique car show, artifacts, arts and crafts among the planned activities.

There will be three phases of celebration: heritage, which includes the history of the town in book form; a festival section which will be celebrated on June 26, 1976, and a horizons section where the town seal will be announced and the planting of trees will take place.

Mrs. Edie Hemphill of Felton and Miss Margaret Chambers are co-chairmen for the planned activities. Other members on the committee are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jacobs, Mrs. Bee Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. James Havelow, Dwight Stephens, Jean Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Stumpf, Miss Betty Myers, Mrs. Marie Moore, Joseph Winginger, John Hopkins, and Mrs. Mildred Steele.

Brown-Liden Reunion

The annual reunion of the Brown-Liden families will be held Sunday, August 10, at the Concord, Md., Community House. This old community may be reached by turning off Maryland Route 404 near Andersontown onto Maryland Route 313. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Brown and family of Severn, Md., will be this year's host and hostess.

A covered dish luncheon is scheduled for 1 p.m.

Relatives and friends are invited to come, bring a covered dish.

A short business meeting will be conducted by the President, Mrs. Sara Donovan of near Wilmington.

HARRINGTON HIGH SCHOOL, HARRINGTON, DEL.

A Backward Glance

Harrington High School is shown on this postcard which is from the collection of Brian [11 yrs.] and Billy [8 yrs.] Bright of Harrington. Neither youngster was born when this photograph of the school was taken, around 1950. Their mother, Mrs. Anne Bright, then Anne Harvey, was a student in the school district at the time. She is the manager of the local Salvation Army store.

"...they creep in initially, but then you find yourself immersed."

It has often been echoed from these walls the pros and cons of governmental intervention. Our founding fathers 200 years ago embarked on a system of government designed to protect the freedoms of the individuals. With each intrusion or intervention by government into our lives, it removes the right to decide or decision making power from the individual, thwarts his economic freedom and in many ways puts a damper on free enterprise.

We lead, in every other way, a regulated life. Initially, regulations are designed to set standard established policy and offer a general theme which in the net, will render best results for all. We should always be aware of their pitfalls from the beginning, because regulations at their best are better suited and served from the beginning. Why? Because they are at that stage in an embryonic stage and are hardly untested. After that the erosion process begins.

Recently we have read and were generally warned of a crack down on speeders. We all know that this is necessary and the net result (designed to save lives) is a good one. What's behind it? We do not know for sure, but it is believed that the Federal government has issued an edict that states, to the effect that unless speeders are checked, states will be in danger of losing federal grants to highways, etc.

The corruption of the regulation pursues an ultimate consuming process. It is like the fog - first a little bit then one finds oneself immersed in it. Regulations are designed to do good. With many of the agencies and the people who populate them, the regulations and the administration of them become a fervent passion.

Holding the highway funds over our heads is only one of the many ways governmental intervention regulates our lives. Beware of them for like the fog they creep in initially only to immerse the unsuspecting.

DuPont Reports

One of the stranger aspects of our legislative process takes place when the Senate passes one version of a piece of legislation and the House another. It is at that time that the House and Senate "go to Conference" and argue out the differences between the two bills. After the differences are ironed out, the House and Senate then vote upon the revised version and it is sent on to the President for action.

That legislative step of "going to Conference" typically has received less critical scrutiny by civic teachers and citizens alike than perhaps it should. When I first came to the Congress I was aghast to discover that those sent to Conference to defend the House or Senate version of a bill are in many cases not even proponents of that position. Take a hypothetical example: for instance, suppose a bill comes to the House floor for action containing a provision giving apples to everyone. I as a Representative may not approve of apples and would prefer to see oranges dispersed. So I try to amend the legislation. That fails and so I vote no on final passage. The Senate passes a similar bill, but instead recommends that oranges are passed out.

Now the two bills go to Conference. I am appointed by the Speaker of the House to go to Conference with the Senate and work out the differences between the two bills. The Conference session is closed to the public and media alike. There I can argue against the House position I was sent to defend and although a House conferee, may sell out the House position and go along with the Senate version.

In reality, I believe to do that would be a violation of my responsibilities to my fellow members of the House of Representatives who have theoretically selected me to represent their agreed upon position.

It disturbs me that such shenanigans go on in Conference and I am sponsoring two pieces of legislation that would go a long way towards stopping such nonsense. First, I am sponsoring a bill to require that all conference committee business shall be transacted in meetings open to the public. Second, I have authored in each of the last three Congresses a bill pointing those who are appointed to defend the House version in Conference to have voted with the majority on the bill when it first passed the House.

It seems to me that closer scrutiny of this important legislative process is certainly in order.

Weekly Report by Senator Joseph Biden

This week, Congress passed a bill providing increases in salary for members of Congress, top Federal executives, the Vice President, Cabinet officers and Federal judges. For many, it will be the first salary increase in six years.

I voted against the bill, not because I don't think salary increases may not be warranted, but because of the method established to grant them. The legislation includes top Federal officials, including members of Congress, under the existing system of making virtually automatic cost of living increases every year.

It seems to me that Congress, in adopting this system, is abandoning its own responsibility to vote for pay increases on their merits - not only for ourselves, but for top Federal executives as well.

While I do not think now is the time to raise the salaries of the best paid men and women in government, given the state of the American economy, I am not insensitive to the needs of top Federal employees. It has been over six years since Congress had a pay increase and inflation has taken its toll. Federal judges have gone as long without an increase - and many have resigned because they can make far better salaries in the private practice of law. Similarly, top Federal executives, whose salaries have been frozen for years, have suffered - and we do run the danger of losing the talents of many dedicated men and women simply because private industry will pay them better salaries than they can expect from government service.

But, it seems to me that what Congress has done is to take the final step in virtually abandoning our own control over the purse strings when it comes to the matter of Federal pay scales.

Congress, it seems to me, has both a responsibility and an obligation to confront the question of Federal salary levels openly and honestly. If an increase in salaries is appropriate and necessary, we should have the courage to vote the issue up or down on its merits. And that should apply to the entire Federal bureaucracy, as well as to members of Congress.

I fear that if we continue the concept of "indexing" the Federal bureaucracy - that is, providing virtually automatic pay increases, promotions and other benefits - we will reach the point where the bureaucracy becomes unmanageable. Indeed, we may already have reached that point.

The time may come when it is no longer a question of tension between the President and Congress, but a conflict between an unelected bureaucracy on the one hand and an elected President and an elected Congress on the other.

I think the legislation we passed was unwise. We will come to regret what we have done. I can only hope that the President, before it is too late, sees the danger and vetoes this bill.

Career Corner by Buck Thompson printed in the Journal to serve youths

Vets who are involved in race horse practices, cancer research, environment and health problems, and surgery "firsts" are among the growing number of animal practitioners who are exploring new areas of veterinary medicine. Vets take part in such varied activities as the aerospace program and the world food problem.

A veterinarian (doctor of veterinary medicine), also called a "vet," would give a horse a laugh if you asked what he or she does besides giving Fido his puppy shots. Out of every 100 veterinarians, 27 have a small animal practice; 7 have a large animal practice; 33 treat both large and small animals; 18 teach and do research; 6 work in regulatory medicine; 3 work in the military services; 2 work in public health; and 4 are retired or work in other capacities.

Although three-fifths of all vets work in private practice, other places of employment are:

- Colleges and universities, research laboratories
- private industries such as drug and animal food, farms and ranches where food animals are raised, local, state and federal government agencies, U.S. Armed Forces in biomedical research and development, international health agencies, specialized animal hospital clinics.

More women are checking into veterinary careers.

Presently 1 out of every 30 vets associated with the American Veterinary Medical Assn., and about 18 percent of all students enrolled in schools of veterinary medicine are women.

Vets need years of scientific education to treat disease and perform surgery on animals. In addition to a high school diploma, you need at least two years of college, majoring in physical and biological sciences, before even applying to any of the 19 accredited colleges of veterinary medicine.

Most applicants complete 3 to 4 years of college before applying to vet school. Many students want to become vets and it's extremely difficult to get into colleges of veterinary medicine's 4-year programs. Vet schools look hard at your grades and pre-veterinarian college courses, as well as your previous part-time jobs working with animals and your dedication to the profession. Since many colleges of vet medicine are state colleges, they usually give preference to applicants from their own state.

In all states, vets have to be licensed. To obtain a license, you must have a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine (DVM or VMD) degree and pass a state board examination. A few states also require vets to have some practical experience under the supervision of a licensed vet. For research and teaching positions, a master's or PhD degree may be required.

Vet's earnings vary considerably and may range from $7,500 to $40,000 or more, depending on location, type of practice, experience, and ability. Starting salaries in the Northeast for beginners range from $8,500-$23,000 with an average of a little over $15,500. In the South offers range from $7,500-$18,000 and average $13,360. In the Midwest, $6,000-$17,600 is the spread and $12,690 the average. In the West, $12,000-$25,000 is the range offered to grads, with an average of $14,000.

Veterinary work is varied, interesting and often well-paying. Fido, however, is not always wagging his tail. Hazards of the job include some danger of physical injury, disease and infection. Vets working in private practice often have long, irregular working hours. Those working with large farm animals may have to travel long distances to make house (barn) calls and may have to work outside in all kinds of weather. Others, of course, work in well-lighted, air-conditioned or heated laboratories and animal hospitals. Vets can also work part-time if they are engaged in raising a family or other activities.

The American Veterinary Medical Assn. estimates about 42,000 vets will be needed by 1980. By going full-tilt, vet colleges can educate about 35,000 in that time frame. So, many jobs will be open to the student who graduates with a DVM degree. The job outlook is extremely bright for these lucky people.

100th ANNIVERSARY OF AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATIONS

Agricultural experiment stations all over the United States are celebrating 100 years of progress in agriculture since the first experiment station was founded in Connecticut in 1875.

Delaware's experiment station was established February 21, 1888, in connection with Delaware College at Newark (now the University of Delaware).

FARM AND HOME FIELD DAY at the station in Georgetown, Delaware, held Wed. Aug. 13, is one of the commemorative events for the centennial year.

The publisher, editor and staff of The Harrington Journal extend best wishes to the 5th Delaware All Arabian Horse Show during its three days here at the Delaware State Fairgrounds. We speak from experience by saying it is a spectacle of beauty. Stop by and see it yourself. Admission is $1 for the whole show, Friday through Sunday, this weekend.

Farmers are being offered "bargain" chemical supplies over the telephone. Some farmers have received calls offering them chemicals to control weeds around buildings and fence posts.

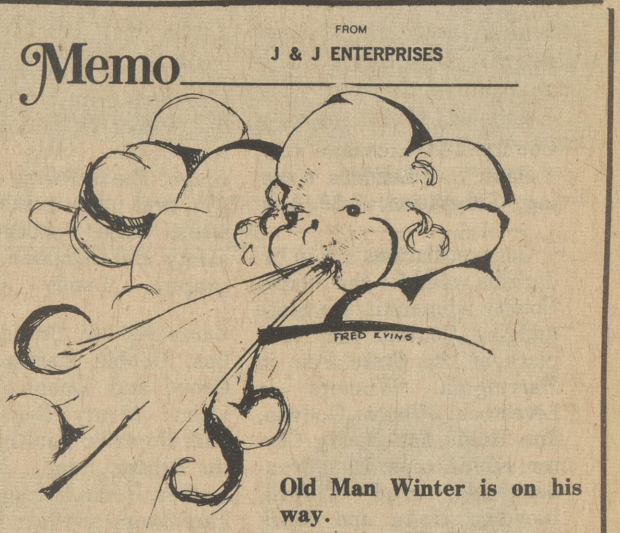

The salesmen have been telling them the trade name, how much the chemical costs and that it will control weeds for three years. However, they have not been giving the name of the chemical and how much it takes to control the weeds per acre.

I recently saw the label of two different products that were offered. Both products contained the same chemical but were sold under different company labels.

Trade names don't mean anything unless you are dealing with large chemical companies, e.g. DuPont's Benlate, Shell's Vapam, Ortho's Parquat, or Elanco's Treflan. These chemicals are well known and you know what you have bought. What these other chemical companies have done is to combine 2, 4-D bromcil, petroleum oil and a couple of other things. Then they gave this product a fancy name like "Super Great Weeder" and charge a great price.

So don't buy any chemical product unless you know what the active ingredients are, the rate per acre and the cost. Then you can figure the cost per acre and by knowing the active ingredient you know what it will do. If you are not sure what you have been offered, write down the chemical name, active ingredient, percent of active ingredient, rate per acre and cost. We can then help you find what you have been offered. If the company is offering a good product legally they will be willing for you to check out their product. Don't be pressured into buying something that is not what you really want, need or that may not do what you expect it to do.

Cannon. The Visual Presentation Contest was also held last week at the Delaware State Fair in Harrington. The contest was on July 25 and the competition was really rough. The following 4-Hers won first place in their divisions: Carla Vanderwende, safety; Bill Campbell, photography; Landy Correll, woodworking; Mike Pavlik, electric; Pam Knopp, home beautification; Janet Cannon; food preparation; Karen Taylor, clothing care; Eddie Justice, tractor care; Ronald Culver, dogs; David and Lisa Jones, horse team; Jim Hukill, livestock.

All 4-Hers should check with their local club leaders to find out when their record books are due. Don't get yours in too late for county competition. Any adult wishing to start a 4-H club should contact the county 4-H office. Now is the best time to make preparations to start a club in the fall. The rewards of working with the young people of today are great!

Speaking Of Insects

with Dale Bray Entomologist University of Delaware

Several different ant species may become summer household pests in Delaware. Ants are social insects that live in colonies in the ground or in wood. They may nest near building foundations, under sidewalks, in your lawn or garden. Ants sometimes also nest in household woodwork, under shingles or in fence posts. They can be annoying - especially in your kitchen and food storage areas.

All types of ants are active from April until the beginning of cold weather. You need to take extra sanitation measures if you want to avoid attracting the worker ants to your home.

Fortunately, most ant species aren't particularly hard to control. Indoors, trace their line of march from the food source to the approximate nest location and treat the area with a recommended insecticide. The nest may be outdoors or in the house. Those nests in the house are the most difficult to locate - they could be inside a wall, under the floor or behind an appliance.

If the ants are indoors, paint or spray surfaces over which they crawl in their line of march. But treat only limited areas - not entire walls or floors. Places to treat may include door sills, lower parts of window frames, around sinks and pipe fixtures and inside kitchen cupboards.

A word of caution-never contaminate food, water, dishes or utensils with the insecticide. And let the spray dry before you allow children or pets into the treated area.

Ants can be controlled by liquid household insecticides such as chlordane, malathion and diazinon, or with formulated spray bombs that contain pyrethrin.

If ants are a problem outdoors, apply a 5 to 10 percent chlordane dust or 4 to 5 percent malathion dust to nest openings, around foundations and in any other areas frequented by them. A spray of chlordane can also be used for spot and foundation applications.

Blood Pressure

Screening Termed Success

Last week at the Delaware State Fair, the Delaware Heart Association and members of Detachment I of the 116th Combat Support Hospital of the National Guard of Delaware conducted a free Blood Pressure screening program.

This program, carried out by volunteers, was termed a success.

Six hundred seventy-three people had their blood pressure taken free of charge during the screening program. Of those screened, 101 people or 15.02 percent had elevated blood pressure readings. The limits set for this screening program were 140/90 mm Hg.

The Heart Association is now referring anyone with elevated blood pressure readings to his physician. This vital screening program is a community service project.

Road To Success Is Worth It To Arabian Owner

An Arab's movements are beautiful to watch, as Gwaihir canters around the ring.

Ms. Smith demonstrates the proper hold for the English double bridle.

"See my wild animal?" laughed Smith minutes before. "You know Arabs - you have to hold them every minute!"

by Gloria L. Dill

Homage to thee, Everlasting Lord of benefactions, who caused to exist the Desert Horse. Thou hast fashioned him of the wind...

The Desert Horse, father of all breeds, will be at his best this weekend when schedule is altered and all over 300 of the country's finest Arabian horses and their owners gather for the 5th annual Delaware All-Arabian Horse Show at the Delaware state fairgrounds.

The amateurs come to win, also. But they cannot always afford the lavish vans and expensive tack. What they bring is an all-consuming love and respect for what they feel is nature's most beautiful creation.

Hers is a growing business, built on a childhood dream, which came to life with the purchase of land in lower Delaware six years ago. Today the 52-acre farm is home to assorted ducks, kittens, dogs and...eight beautiful horses.

In a few days, Greyhavens horses will join this elite group of the "proud breed."

pleased with himself.

A few more turns around the ring and it's time to change tack. Gwaihir will ride in both English and Western Pleasure classes this weekend.

"A show is rather bewildering to a beginner," says Smith, while changing saddles. "You have to be watching the judge, the horse and where you are going. You must find the best position to be seen and practice getting into it as smoothly and easily as possible. And that's not easy."

There are some tricks of the trade that every beginner learns.

"There's a 2-3 second lag between the judges' signal and the PA announcement. A seasoned horse knows what is coming."

This is the stallion's third show this year, and he has improved each time. He is no longer bothered by the public address system or the other horses, though he still likes to watch the crowd.

He has kicked the habit of yawning in the judge's face, anyway. This kind of behavior tends to put your horse at a disadvantage.

Smith feels that each show teaches something to use the next time.

"Even though time is set aside for preparation, you're never really prepared. There's always something you didn't plan for."

Gwaihir loves to clown, especially when he's getting his feet cleaned. At showtime his hooves will receive a special polishing.

When the ring work is finished, there is still much to do. Gwaihir is bathed and blanketed, then given his dinner. Meanwhile there is tack to clean and clothes to get ready. According to Smith, getting the equipment together is the tedious part.

"You end up taking a literal army of things to a show. It's worse than traveling with a baby - two saddles, two bridles, four halters, pads, water buckets, grain..."

Then, with a laugh, she adds, "chairs, umbrella, a cooler..." The list is endless. As a final preparation, Greyhavens will be traveling to another show just before the one in Harrington. Smith is confident that her horse will do his best.

"The inevitable question is why. Why the work and the sweat and the disap-

Miss Nanci Alvey aboard one of the prize Arabian horses at the Marathon Farms near Seaford.

Marathon Farms To Show

This past June, Samuel W. Groome (Sam to his friends) and his wife, Sheryl, purchased the Heritage Farm from Donald Booth. The farm is now known as the Marathon Farms. The 230-acre spread is located approximately 2 1/2 miles north of Seaford on U.S. 13. The well-kept estate was primarily a grain farm but the farm has a long history of being an Arabian horse and Angus cattle breeding farm.

Last year the Groomes visited the farm and purchased the entire Angus herd from Donald Booth. So fascinated with the countryside that continued visits and talks led to the Groomes purchasing the entire facility as well as many of the Arabian horses. At the time of the purchase Tazyk was the leading stallion. Since then the Marathon Farms has purchased the highly rated stallion Hi-Fashion Imperial for a large sum of money. The stallion has won his last four shows, which has established the stallion as a true champion. The outstanding mare, Star, who will become one of the foundation mares at Marathon. Star is the daughter of Aramus and was raised on the Wayne Newton farm in Nevada. She is a champion in Halter, English Pleasure, Western Pleasure and formal driving. She is the farm's leading show mare and will be bred next year to Hi-Fashion Imperial.

The principal building on the estate is a large barn (60' x 120') with 23 box stalls. It contains an office, reception room (where prospective purchasers can watch the horses perform) and an indoor arena.

Marathon's principal rider is Miss Nanci Alvey, 18, of Barnesville, Md. As an amateur Miss Alvey has been performing in horse shows since she was 10 years old. She plans to enter college this fall in Richmond and pursue a degree in art. Sam Groome has come a long way in a short period of time. A native of Montgomery, New York, he graduated from Syracuse University in 1959 where he starred on the varsity football team. He did a two-year hitch in the Air Force from 1959 to 1961 where he gained flying experience. He played professional football for the New York Giants from 1962 to 1964 under head football coach Allie Sherman. A knee injury abruptly ended a pro-football career. His business interests have covered a large area from owning a 1700 acre Angue cattle ranch in upstate New York to apartment complexes in New York City, to owning a majority interest in Air Florida, an interstate Florida airline. He was the former distributor for Great Dane tractor trailers in the northeast United States. He has become increasingly interested in Arabian horses mainly through his charming wife Sheryl. With his airline Mr. Groome travels about very quickly in a $165,000 helicopter.

Look for him at the show for he is a very personable gentleman.

Club Nears First Anniversary

What are Mini Ferroequinologists? Translated mini means small, ferro means iron, quino, horse and logists the studier. If one still hasn't got it, that's the term for model railroaders.

One of the few model railroad clubs in lower Delaware is the Diamond State Model Railroad Club. This club, which has 14 members, meets every Wednesday night at the Milford Hobby Shop.

This organization is a part of the National Model Railroad Association (NMRA) whose membership totaled 26,622 in April.

The club, which has been in operation for nine months, has no age limits. The only requirement is membership in the NMRA. President Grover Johnson said the club hopes to find a permanent location where the modular layout could be left up. Currently the only money the club has is that which has been paid through dues.

Visitors and new members are welcome at all meetings.

With Council's go ahead and full cooperation, the Dover ARMY Reserve Unit provided two tents and a portable water storage unit which were to house and take care of water supply for the young campers.

The weather, however, failed to cooperate at every turn... first the rain, then the mosquitos came and the campers were driven inside a spacious room for sleeping which provided by Mr. Council.

Each group had an approximate 24-hour sampling of the camp. At first, Long said they had a closely structured camp, with specific things planned for all times. When the kids got to fishing and boating, however, Long said they decided to make the plans more flexible.

Area participants of the summer recreation program attended the camp last Wednesday and Thursday, the last time for the camp this year.

When members of the Journal arrived, the campers were getting ready to try a luscious smelling Campfire Casserole, which was being prepared over open fires. They had been fishing and boating, and were going treasure hunting after dinner.

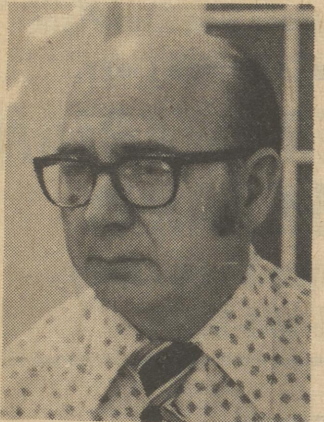

Orr said the highlight of the camp was when the story of the "Shanty Pond Swamp Monster" was told, which came into popularity supposedly as the result of a small lodge being destroyed in somewhat mysterious circumstances one night several years ago. The lodge was located near one of the ponds. Each camper had an opportunity to add to the description of the tale, and then the whole camp went out around 9:30 p.m. in search of the creature. Not many made the full trip, said Orr. Several young campers were on hand to shiver in delight as the "so-called" monster was discussed.

Breakfast the following morning was to consist of pancakes. Long said he would have made around 1500 pancakes at the conclusion of the camp.

Both men felt the camp had gone well and said they had been aided over and above necessary assistance by their landlord, Ernest Council.

Will tales of the Shanty Pond Monster reach the ears of young campers next year? It will be in the hands of Levy Court to make the final decision... camp appeared to be in good hands during our visit, which was made before the search for the creature.

Parks Is Chosen

Charles S. Parks

Charles S. Parks, principal of the Greenwood (Woodbridge District) school has been selected local coordinator for the Department of Public Instrution's Self-Evaluation Program. Leading 14 committees in the Woodbridge District, Parks will then report to the DPI.

The Self-Evaluation program has been in use since 1970, but was formerly governed by the DPI. On the local level, Parks will be in charge of 14 committees consisting of local school personnel. These committees will evaluate the educational process in the schools.

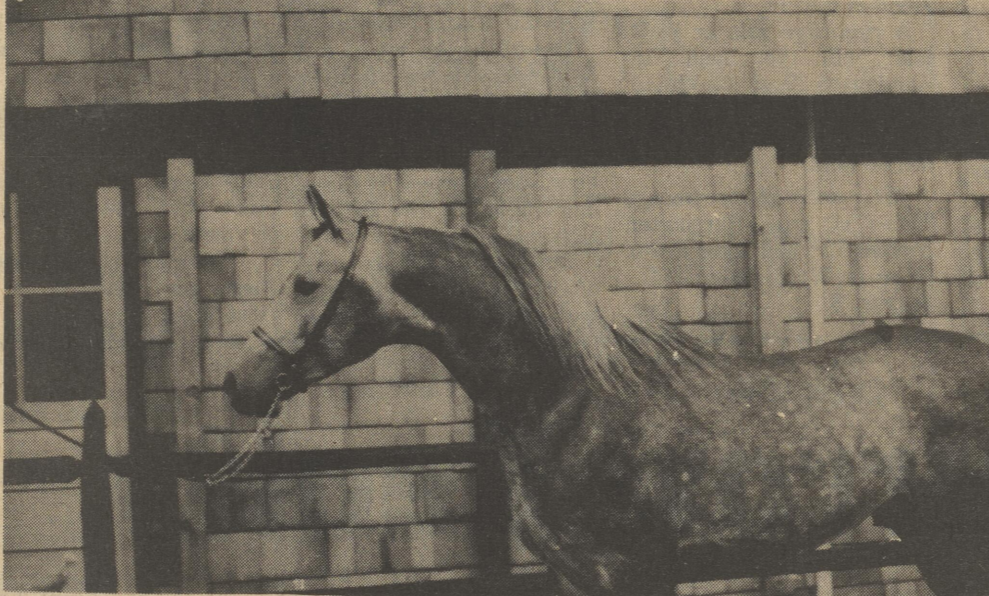

A native of Clearfield, Pa., Parks attended Roberts College in Rochester, N.Y. He taught elementary school in Clayton before becoming principal of the Greenwood school in 1969.

Meet A Young Champion

On July 26 we attended a very interesting and informative semi-grand opening of the new "Adandy Arabian Farm" outside Greenwood. Adandy Farm is a horse training facility for Arabian horses owned by Ms. Cathy Vincent, 18-year-old professional horse trainer, formerly of Seaford. A Seaford High School graduate, Miss Vincent has been riding since she was four years old when she showed hunter and jumper horses.

Cathy, as friends call her, started her Arabian days by purchasing her first Arabian horse in 1967 from Mr. Donald Booth of Heritage Farm in Seaford. Al Marah Adandy is 18 years old now and is Cathy's head sire and name sake of the Adandy Farm. A.M. Adandy was an international champion in 1960. Since 1967 she has shown many horses and has purchased other Arabian horses. Her show career reached greater heights when her 9-year-old gelding, Al Marah My Falcon, placed in the "Top Ten" English Pleasure class at the nationals in Oklahoma, 1973. In 1974 she had two horses placed in Top Ten at the national show in Albuquerque, N.M. This was the height of Cathy's show career as an amateur. Now she is ready to repeat this again as a professional, not only for her horses but for other horses that she trains and shows for her customers.

Adandy Farm is approximately two miles east of Greenwood on Route 16. A unique gold building houses a four room living quarters, stalls for 22 horses and an indoor riding arena. When work is finished, it will have split rail fencing pasture and exercise runs. There is also a large swimming pool for the horse on this very "soon to be busy" 11 1/4 acres.

Cathy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vincent of Seaford, are always near to lend support and a helping hand to this young horse trainer. They traveled extensively on the east coast and many parts of the United States to show the skills of her training.

Mr. Vincent was one of the principal organizers of the Delaware All-Arabian Horse Show, which has grown from 160 horses in 1971, to over 300 in 1974 and 1975.

Adandy Farm will also breed a few horses each year and presently have Arabians for sale.

Cathy has entered her horses in the Region 15 championships and the Delaware All-Arabian Horse Show to be held at the state fairgrounds, Harrington, on August 8, 9, 10.

Cathy is a most knowledgeable trainer and a great competitor at each show. She is willing to lend a hand to young or old to help promote her favorite hobby, the Arabian horse.

TOWN AND COUNTRY TOPICS

Two important dates are fast approaching: the first is the College of Agricultural Sciences Annual Corn & Soybean Field Day on Friday, August 8, in Newark. The event begins at 1:15 a.m. when boarding wagons for the field tours begin. The tours begin in back of Agricultural Hall (next to the stadium on Rt. 896) on the University of Delaware campus.

Plots to be toured include a soybean herbicide demonstration; nine different plots of foundation soybeans and no-tillage study using cover crops, nitrogen sources, herbicides and machinery modifications.

Also included are soybean herbicide study, corn hybrids, herbicide injury study, corn inbreds, fertilization and leaf analyses results. The Field Day ends with a watermelon break at 3:30.

Farm and Home Field Day at the University of Delaware Substation will be held on Wednesday, August 13. The Substation is located on the Georgetown-Laurel Highway. The tours of crops and broiler projects will begin at 10. There will be exhibits in the grove and packing house areas covering many topics and agricultural services. Of special interest for homemakers will be exhibits and demonstrations of Heritage Crafts and Skills.

There will also be a plant clinic staffed by expert entomologists and plant pathologists to answer questions concerning your plant problems.

As in the past there will be an excellent fried chicken luncheon served by the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association. The tours will be seen throughout the day. There will be specialized corn-soybean tours, vegetable tours, as well as general tours of the experimental farm. The Field Day will end with a watermelon break at 3:30.

Will Collect Aluminum

The Reynolds Metals Co. will be collecting aluminum again in Dover this Friday August 8, and Friday, August 22, at the Rodney Village Shopping Center on U.S. 13.

The company sends a reclamation truck between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. at that site and pays 15 cents a pound and $300 a ton for usable aluminum.

Homeowners can tell aluminum cans from steel by using a magnet. If the can does not stick to the magnet, it is aluminum. All material must be placed in a plastic bag for collection.

It Seems To Me

by Janet Reed

Changing skirt lengths seems to be a yearly chore. Ever since I first learned to sew, it seems I have either been lengthening or shortening hem lines. And this year we are at it again! Last year's skirts seem an inch or so too short.

Shortening is easier than lengthening because that telltale hem crease is often difficult or impossible to remove.

Today's fabrics of man-made fibers can be softened and creased by heat, and about the only thing that will remove the crease is heat of a higher temperature than set the crease in the first place. When you get an iron to this temperature, you can easily glaze or melt the fabric.

With care you can be reasonably successful in removing this crease line. You must work with a dampened press cloth to provide extra steam and extra protection. Dampen the skirt at the crease line, work on the wrong side of the garment and protect the fabric with a wet press cloth. Use a slightly higher setting than you normally would use for the synthetic fabric you are pressing. It helps, too, if you press on a hard surface such as a hard board protected by a cloth to prevent staining from the wood. You may have one part of the ironing board with a harder surface. A well-padded board does not give the resistance you will need to remove the crease.

After working on the wrong side, lower the iron temperature slightly, protect the fabric with the damp press cloth and press well on the right side of the fabric, using plenty of steam and as much pressure as the fabric will allow.

Hang the garment to dry. If the crease still shows, you may want to repeat this treatment. The hem line marking may never come out because of color change at the edge of the skirt due to abrasion, fading or soiling. If this is the case, maybe you can use rows of decorative stitching, braid or other trim to cover it up. Use polyester braid on a polyester fabric and cotton on cotton. Repeat the trim at neckline or on another part of the garment.

Brobsts Host Rotary

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Brobst entertained the Harrington Rotary Club at their home on Dorman Street Monday evening. A covered dish supper was shared by the members on the rear lawn of the Brobsts home.

After the meal, the members and their wives were entertained with a presentation of slides of "Delaware During the Revolution" by the Milford Historical Society, committee on the bicentennial. Various revolutionary landmarks were featured in the pictorial essay and a narrative on each regarding its role in the struggle for independence.

Stamper Arabians Perform Here

The Stamper Arabian horses of Lewes are scheduled to perform this weekend at the Delaware State fairgrounds during the 3-day Delaware All-Arabian Horse Show.

Last weekend most of the exhibitors for the Delaware show performed at the Devon Arabian Horse Show outside Philadelphia.

Mr. J. C. Stamper, owner of the horses from near Lewes, Delaware, finished second in the 2-year-old reserve champion class with SAF Amaris by Amaal and first place with his 3-year-old champion El Sattaar. This horse is 100 percent Egyptian. The magnificent stallion was purchased from the Imperial Arabian Farms owned by Doug and Barbara Griffith of Upperco, Md., and has become a consistent winner this year. He will be shown in Oklahoma City in October at the nationals.

This week The Journal visited Mr. Stamper at his farm between Five Points and Harbeson. There are approximately 50 horses stabled on the grounds in training and breeding. There we viewed the new indoor riding arena which is 90' x 152' with a stall area 35' x 115' connecting it.

At the indoor arena, they hold horse shows, clinics, auctions and Arabian horse association meetings throughout the year.

Mr. Stamper is an optician by trade but in 12 years association with the Arabian horses, he has become a recognized showman and developer of the breed.

Not only does he go with the all Egyptian (El Sattaar), but in Holly Lane Pam he has the "Double R" breed (50 percent Raffles and 50 percent Rissalia), a blood line which Mrs. Bazie Tankersley has introduced. Raffles, an English stallion is owned by Lady Wentworth and raised on the Crabbett Farm in England. The stallion was consigned to a buyer in Kentucky as a throw-in with what was believed to be better horses, but became perhaps the greatest producer of champion Arabian horses. Stamper sees the cross by the Egyptian with the Raffles lines as an improvement over the breed. In an Arabian reflects Mr. Stamper, "...you look for the small ears, breadth between the eyes, large eyes, a small muzzle and an evenness between the withers and the hind parts."

In 1964 Stamper purchased his first Arabian horse, a mare named Nezonna. He still owns her, a 12-year-old who sports roan spots in a grey field.

Nezonna's gentleness is a mark of the breed says Stamper. Not too long after, he purchased her, he was involved in a spill in an icy pasture on his farm. In the fall, Stamper lay unconscious for about an hour almost under Nezonna's body, cradled between her front legs as she lay on her side. With one leg held over Stamper and the others remaining motionless, the horse remained in that position for fear of injury her master further. Only when help arrived and Stamper was loaded in his wife's station wagon, still unconscious, did Nezonna regain her feet.

Another story recently involved one of Stamper's horses getting loose and being hit by a farm truck as she tried to cross Route 18, Georgetown to Five Points Road, in front of the Stamper farms. SAF Amorife was taken to the New Bolton Center at the University of Pennsylvania where the broken leg, broken near the top portion of the leg, was set. The horse was confined to the stall for two months but is now walking alone.

The Stamper horses are very well kept and well trained. Stamper reflected that he enjoys his horses as a way to get away from the every day tensions, that he enjoys the warm association and friendship with the other Arabian owners as well as the spirit of competition. Asked what it is like to show in competitive horse shows, he reflected "...most of the time the performance is one of very strong competition causing a great deal of pressure. A real change of pace for me."

Vacation Lawn Care: Do's and Don'ts

The trade-off of home and yard for vacation fun at some distant point can result in serious harm to your lawn unless reasonable provision for its care is made before leaving. Delaware extension turf specialist, Dr. William H. Mitchell, says the following list of do's and don'ts can prevent the home-coming headache, brought on by the sight of a very sorry looking lawn.

Do provide for weekly mowing when leaving for an extended trip. Grass allowed to grow tall and then whacked down to its usual height may die out in spots. At best it will look unkempt and scraggly for weeks to come. A tall unmowed lawn is an invitation to thieves, or other unwanted guests, to avail themselves of whatever they deem appropriate.

Don't fertilize your lawn just before a summer vacation. This will make it grow faster, requiring more frequent mowing, and increase its susceptibility to heat and drought injury. If you have been in the habit of watering your lawn, provide for a weekly soaking of one-inch in the absence of an adequate supply of natural rainfall. Lawns not usually watered will go into dormancy during dry weather recovering upon the onset of sufficient rainfall.

As an additional insurance against heat, drought and possible scalping set your mower to cut one-quarter to one-half inch higher than you have been cutting. A good height for year round mowing is two inches, says Mitchell. If you like a closer-cropped lawn, it may be cut at 1.5 inches in spring and fall. When returning the height of cut to a lower level do it gradually - one-eighth to one-quarter inch increments. Remember also that high-cut grass will have less weeds and be generally more trouble free.

If you have grass in heavily shaded areas, leave instructions to remove clippings (unless clippings are exceptionally thick because of wet weather and/or delayed mowing). Where clippings are allowed to sift down through to the grass and be recycled into the soil through earthworm action, the grass will be greener and require less fertilizer.

Lawns under stress from heat and drought are more susceptible to chemical injury when treated with herbicides for weed control. Wait until you return from vacation and the cooler weather of early fall before having anyone attempt to chemically clean out the dandelions and other broad-leaf weeds. It's too late to control crabgrass effectively if you haven't done so already. A preemergence crabgrass application next spring will do the job.

If your yard is fenced, instruct the youngster who mows to keep the gate closed. Visiting dogs may leave dead brown spots on the lawn. The bigger the dog, the drier the soil, and the higher the temperature, the larger will be the dead spot.

recommends you sharpen the blade and change the oil of your mower before leaving. The person who cuts the grass for you won't bother.

Getting off scot-free has nothing to do with Scotland. It comes from the old English word scot meaning a municipal tax. Getting off scot-free is tax evasion.

Breeding Is Victorious In Modifieds

Walt "Stevie" Breeding of Federalsburg and Bodie Bodenweiser from Georgetown were victorious for Davis Trucking Co. and Lewes Dairy Markets in regular Modified and Sportsmen feature competition Friday at Georgetown Speedway. Charlie Harris of Georgetown returned to the winner's circle in eight cylinder Hobby racing along with Milford's Wayne Ingram gaining his fourth six cylinder Hobby win on the se-on. Milford's Harold Bunting and the Warrington Bros. Special Vega kept the pressure on Breeding to the wire making it a thrilling win for team Davis Trucking establishing the No. 1 Vega as the winningest combination in Modified racing where no one driver has dominated. Ed Brown, Jr. driving the Ben Dickerson Prepared Dorchester Lumber Vega came on at the end scoring a fine third at the checkered flag. Fourth went to Bobby Reed of Harrington behind the wheel of the Reed Racing Team-Popeye Special Vega. Larry Tucker from Milford anchored fifth for Absher Racing Team with sixth place respectively going to Ridgeley's Bobby Walls and the Davis Material Handling Pinto.

Wayne Cusick of Princess Anne pulled out all the stops in Sportsmen feature racing making numerous challenges to the front running Bodenweiser having to settle for second in the Regal Muffler Center Vega. Sonny Grier of Wyoming recorded one of his best finishes scoring third chauffeuring the Grier's Garage Corvair Wagon. Fourth went to Wilmington's Lloyd Sawyer and his "open for sponsorship" Pinto. Woodside's Larry Grier brought the C & W Auto Parts home fifth ahead of Georgetown's Cordia Warrington who was sixth driving the Warrington's Pre-cast Steps Falcon.

Ronnie LaVere scored second behind Harris in Hobby 8 racing, piloting the Kay's Beauty Shop Barracuda. Third went to Woodside's Jimmy Martin and the M & H Auto Services Chevelle. John Fisher from Seaford brought the Big T Burger Chevelle across the finish line fourth with fifth going to John E. Martin III of Lewes, piloting a Chevrolet. Hobby 6 racing second place went to Dagsboro's Abby Mitchell and the Bunting's Garage Chevy II. Spencer Kelly from Dover was third for H.W. Tieman & Sons-Ed's Auto Repair. Seaford's Joe Lecates was fourth driving the LeCates Schell-Massey Trucking Nova. Jeff Parsons brought the Selbyville Arco Chevy II home fifth under starter Bill Lawson's victory colors.

Paul Walker, Jr. was a Modified qualifying winner chauffeuring the Coastal Racing Team Corvair over Jerry West of Georgetown who was second for Cabbage Corner Racing Team. The other Modified preliminary went to Ed Brown, Jr. with Glenn Moore, Jr. taking second for the Hitchen's Bros. of Selbyville. Wayne Cusick won a Sportsmen heat over Lloyd Sawyer with Dallas Dennis of National Park, N.J., taking the other from Ralph Seaton of Willards, who was second behind the wheel of the Don's Auto Parts Gremlin. Regular racing is scheduled by D.A.R.A. for Friday night, August 8, at 8 p.m. with the Delaware State Police Camp Barnes Benefit Program slated for Wednesday night, August 20, at 8 p.m.

Milford Band Plays At U. of D.

The thousands of football fans attending the 20th Annual All-Star Football game on August 16 will be enjoying a special musical treat as they are entertained in pre-game and half-time ceremonies by the Milford High School Marching Band, one of the top high school musical aggregations in the state.

This is the first time in the history of the game that a band representing one high school will be featured at the game and the Milford High aggregation, under the direction of Mr. Gerald Thompson, started practicing their colorful and intricate maneuvers on July 21.

"We consider this an honor and a challenge, and you can be sure we will be ready to meet the challenge," said the band director, who is serving his fourth year in that position.

Included in the 78 member band will be 21 freshmen and the intensive practice sessions will enable them to be familiar with the many formations the band employs, the director pointed out.

Dill Leads Again

Jim Dill, ex-Lake Forest all-around athlete, had probably his finest game of the summer as semi-pro league pennant winner Canada Dry trounced an all-star team from the rest of the league by a score of 8-1. Jim Dill drove in four runs with three hits and scored once. Bill "Butch" Dill, former Felton High and University of Delaware athlete, went 1 for 3 and scored twice.

Final Meet Held At Park Rec Program

Lake Forest track fans can be proud of the showing made by district youths in the final track meet of the series sponsored by the Kent County Parks and Recreation Department.

At the Dover High track last Wednesday night, Spartans won ten events and picked up a total of 22 awards. The Parker brothers, Leroy (13) and Marvin (10), went home with five awards between them. Leroy won the 14 and under 100 yard dash in 11.6, the 440 in 67.5, then ran on the second place 880 relay unit with a Dover lad, Mark Homewood of Harrington and Maxine Harris of Felton.

Marvin Parker made his debut with a courageous 76 second victory in the 10-11, 440 yard dash. Later Marvin and Jerry Mosley teamed with two Doverites to capture the 880 relay in 2:18.5.

Marvin Parker is the latest track prodigy to come from a talented family of runners. His father, William Leroy "Pie" Parker was a winner as a miler and 440 man at William Henry High and at 30-plus is still competing and doing well. Uncles Allan and Donald Parker are both on the record board at Lake Forest High, Donald as a sprinter, Allan as a middle and long distance runner.

Danny Parker (no relation) also achieved a goal at Dover. He finally took a decision over Caesar Rodney's Steve Dunham, a 1974 Henlopen Conference two-mile champion. The precocious Parker predicted a victory, then went out and held off Dunham's closing rush to win a 4.57 mile. Parker will be a sophomore at Lake Forest next month.

Ron Mosley of Lake Forest and Delaware State College, won the 18 and over mile run. Maxine Harris won the 12-14 mile run in 6:15, to strike a blow for women's lib as the only female entrant. (continued to page 13)

Breeding Takes Regionals Towers Takes Second In State Modified Championship

Wayne Brittingham from Salisbury and the Regal Muffler Center Corvair Modified Wagon led 23 laps of the feature and apparently had first place going away until Federalburg's Walt "Stevie" Breeding in only his second year shot into the lead from a rear starting position going away a winner with a display of power that has made him the man to catch in Delmarva racing. The action was hot and heavy for the top ten, a fact that is unique and exciting for local fans as Milford's Larry Tucker and the Absher Racing Team Vega scored a strong third behind Brittingham's second place finish at the checkered flag. Fourth went to Ed Brown, Jr. chauffering the Ben Dickerson Prepared-Dorchester Lumber Vega. Paul Walker, Jr. charged the Coastal Corvair to fifth ahead of Houston's Glenn Wilson, who finished sixth behind the wheel of the Diogo's Grocery Vega Wagon. Seventh overall went to Bridgeville's Stan Busby piloting the JOB-Dillard's Restaurants-Covey's Car Care Mustang.

King of the hill in Sportsmen racing Richard Malnor added another link in his chain of victories outgunning his nearest rivals with his ninth win of the year at Georgetown for the Don's Automotive Team. Bodie Bodenweiser from Georgetown kept Malnor in sight scoring a fine second sporting the Lewes Dairy Markets banner on the Oscar Fields Engineered Mustang. Early leader Wayne Cusick of Princess Anne was fronting the charge when lapped cars caused him to lose the lead having to settle for third in the Regal Muffler Center Vega at the finish line. Wilmington's Lloyd Sawyer brought the Richard Realty-Al Schaeffer Prepared Pinto home fourth ahead of Gene Mills who was fifth driving the Milford Fertilizers-Mills' Bros. Markets Mustang. Cordia Warrington V nailed down sixth piloting the Warrington's Pre-cast Steps Falcon.

Ronnie LaVere of Milford ended Charlie Harris from Georgetown's reign in eight cylinder Hobby racing when Harris got high in traffic making the Kay's Beauty Shop a winner in fine style. Behind Harris in third was Seaford's John Fisher and the Big T Burger Chevelle. John H. Martin III was fourth ahead of Russell Bradley from Lincoln, who was fifth driving the May Pop Tires-Jester & Smith Plymouth. Abby

Mitchell of Dagsboro proved the strongest in six cylinder Hobby racing, scoring an impressive win over Preston's Kenny Patchett, the second place man driving a Chevelle. Wayne Ingram brought the Roger Minner Wrecker Service Camaro home third ahead of Joe Lecates, who was fourth driving the Atlantic Door Co.-Davis Trucking Nova. Jeff Parsons scored fifth behind the wheel of the Selbyville Arco Chevy II.

Preliminary racing was almost without error until the final qualifier in the Modified division saw a car slow in the first turn, giving Gumboro's Jimmy Clark no racing room. The Hitchen's Bros. Corvair went sideways, then over in the air two complete times with Clark miraculously escaping serious injury. Eventual winners were: Jerry West, Georgetown, Cabbage Corner Racing Team Valiant; Wayne Brittingham, Salisbury, Regal Muffler Center Corvair Wagon; Harold Warrington, Dover, Shirley's Beauty Salon Vega and Lloyd Sawyer, Wilmington, Really-Schaeffer Pinto.

From the final countdown to the drop of the checkered flag on the Delaware State Championship for Modified racers. Ellendale's Sonny Brittingham charged the Al Morris-Bill Richards Racing Team Vega to the wire in performance plus style winning their first state title ever for Mitchell's Used Cars, Bennett's Welding and Warren & Gray. Brittingham, a heavy equipment operator and a seasoned oval track veteran was jubilant in victory which climaxed a career of attempts at gaining statewide recognition establishing himself as the "Golden Fox" of Delaware Short Track stockcar racing. Finishing second behind Brittingham was Harrington's Bill Towers who surprised the field with a super competitive small block Ford engine in the Towers' Gulf Pinto. The race for third proved up for grabs behind the blistering pace of the leaders when in the late going, Jimmy Clark of Gumboro, solidified his stand taking the position for the Hitchen's Bros. of Selbyville in what was guaranteed tough action for places three through six. Delaware State Fair champ Walt "Stevie" Breeding of Federalburg, plagued with a starting position deep on the grid, screamed the Davis Trucking Co. Vega to a strong fourth making it a successful venture at Harrington. Stan Busby from Bridgeville, the 1974 Modified champ, drove the JOB-Dillard's Restaurants Mustang to a fine fifth with an arm injury that occurred previously. Sixth overall was recorded by Harrington's Bobby Reed and the Reed Racing Team Vega.

Two-time champion of the Delaware State Fair Richard Malnor had a dream come true in winning the State Sportsmen title for the first time with a well deserved win for Hitch Insurance Agency, Carlton Massey Ford and Don's Automotive. Clearly the class of the field, Malnor even stopped during the yellow to give fellow driver Wayne Cusick a push down the back straightaway. When racing resumed it was Malnor all the way and a state championship to take back to Berlin. Seaford's Haines Tull drove the Milford Fertilizers-Mills' Bros. Markets Mustang to a second place finish keeping the position anchored at the checkered flag. Harold Warrington of Dover scored third aboard the Double A Body-Shirley's Beauty Salon Vega. Fourth went to Woodside's Larry Grier chauffering the C & W Auto Parts Chevrolet. Bridgeville's Donnie Joseph back in competition with a loaned car from Harold Warrington, captured fifth for the Dillard's Restaurants Team.

Track
trant. Mark Homewood ran a personal best of 6.22 for second place.

Locals swept all discus awards. Matt Burgess spun the 3 lbs. 9 ozs. high school discus 118 feet to win the 15-17 age group with Bob Mullane next. Jerry Thompson hurled the heavier (4 lb. 6 ozs.) college platter 96 feet to annex the 18 and over event with Walt Bishop getting the runner-up spot.

Bob Mullane took the 15-17, 880 in 2.21. Paula Mosley was second.

Twins Barry and Larry Cooper with aid from Louis Thomas and Dan Parker, got the second place spot in the Swedish medley relay.

Odd Fellows Meet
On Saturday, August 16, the regular monthly meeting of the general service committee of the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of Delaware will be held at the home of Charles H. Roland, Jr., Viola, with Chairman Lucille A. Robinson calling the meeting to order at 6 p.m. The public as well as members are encouraged to attend. Prior to the meeting, all will participate in the annual picnic. Those attending are asked to bring their place setting and a covered dish.
