

Reactions To Radar Report Fly City Council Meets

During the August meeting of the Harrington City Council, the question of Sam Powell's use of his property on Grant Street continued its course through the red tape and delays of municipal government as the matter of whether he can use the property, which in the past had housed equipment for his sewage truck business, continued. This time it is being considered by the Planning and Zoning Committee. The city attorney, Maxon Terry, Jr., had given the opinion that the property could have limited commercial use for a one year period only, renewable up to a three year period, or granting his property a commercial status, which is called spot zoning, since the area is residential. The problem as Powell sees it is that there are two other commercial businesses on Grant Street, but he is the only one being asked to leave. As he said, "If I have to leave, why don't they leave?" The decision has been postponed for another month, now making the issue a year old.

Questions involving the use of the radar equipment on the City portion of U.S. Rt. 13 were fired at Chief Ed Layton when he finished his monthly report. Several councilmen were vocal in the opinion that too much attention was being given to the use of radar on the highway, and not enough time being spent with other portions of the City.

Mayor William Minner, who had conducted his own research into what he had considered too much time spent with the radar, said "I can see getting one day... these two days...are too much." Councilman Jack Wyatt suggested writing the Bridgeville State Police to see if they might possibly patrol the area of the highway in question.

The balance of the meeting was spent in considering committee reports. Councilman Earl McColley, who heads a general complaints committee, said he had still been receiving complaints on the Hudson property on the south side of town on the Farmington road. The property has several truck bodies on it and the growth of weeds has been objectionable. Some mowing has been done on the property, according to City Manager Bobby Quillen.

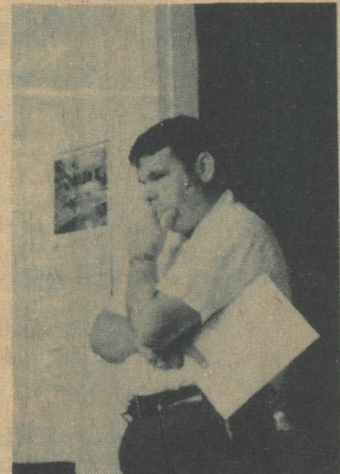

The City has decided to commence street improvement of twelve streets, after hearing a report by Councilman Jack Wyatt. Scheduled for work are: Harrington Mispillion, Short, High, Milby, South, Brown, and Simpson Streets and Shaw Avenue. The total expense will be $27,230, of which the finances are already available.

Wyatt also reported that East Street is on a priority list to be considered for having curbing, sidewalks and drainage provided. This project would be to the fairgrounds. Rep. Ronald Darling has been instrumental in aiding the City in its efforts to get the funding for the project, according to Wyatt.

Chief Ed Layton listens to the response made to his police report during the Monday night council meeting. There were objections raised to the use of radar on U.S. 13.

Return From Spain

On June 30 two young ladies from Harrington, Angela Minner and Lisa Masten, left the U.S.A. for Spain to visit Mariate Gomez-Bernardo, last year's Lake Forest exchange student.

When they arrived in Spain they spent one week touring Madrid and the surrounding cities of Toledo, Segovia, Caceres, where Mariate's grandparents live and then went to Mariate's home in Leon for the rest of their stay.

Mariate, who stayed last year with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Masten and Lisa, has five brothers and sisters in her family, none speak English. Several times the family, plus Lisa and Angela, would go to the mountains around Leon to climb or just ride around.

Other sites which the two girls saw were some underground caverns such as the Luray Caverns which are in the United States, the cathedral in Leon, which is famous for its many stained glass windows and the Hostal de San Marcos, which in various stages of its life has been a prison, a stable, a nunnery and is now one of the most famous hotels in Spain.

One of the most interesting events the girls attended while touring Spain was a bullfight. During this spectacle there were three matadors who fought two bulls apiece. Two of the matadors were so well liked by the crowd that they were awarded one of the bull's ears apiece.

This is not the first trip overseas for either of the girls as both of them have toured Europe on band trips.

This fall Angela will attend the University of Delaware and Lisa will attend Del Tech South.

Miss Barbara Bradley will be no annual banquet this year, she said the dues and contributions are needed now to enable a scholarship for a 1976 graduate.

The organization is in the process of conducting a massive search for the graduates of Lake Forest they are unable to locate. A list of these graduates will appear in the Journal in an attempt to locate them. Following the completion of the list, a periodic column will appear in the Journal to inform members of alumni activities.

Miss Bradley said that anyone who wishes to serve on a committee for any event may contact her.

The following list consists of class members of the 1970 graduating class whose whereabouts are unknown:

David Sylvester, Robert Thomas, Faye Smith, Linda Bonniwell.

Near Double Capacity Student Body Anticipated Local High School Cramped

As the dwindling days of summer vacation wane for those school age young people, the faculty and staff of the local school district prepare for the return of their students, which will be September 3.

Although the national and perhaps popular trend indicates fewer youngsters entering school for the first time, this unfortunately has no effect on those already in school.

Hardest hit will be Lake Forest High School, where during an interview Monday afternoon with principal William E. Griffin, it was learned that the facility designed for 750 will house a projected 1200 students when school begins.

Crowded conditions give rise to numerous problems. Griffin cites having to schedule homerooms in the cafeteria, in laboratories (data processing, foreign language, science and business); having classes "meeting in strange places" which included scheduling home economics classes in mathematics rooms, and some groups as having no designated meeting place, such as "study halls with no place for them". Some study halls will have 75 students in them, predicted Griffin.

He says "We're still not in too bad shape" when asked about the class sizes, which will average 30 to 35. Extra personnel have been hired in anticipation of the crunch and 65 teachers will be on hand when their first day starts, on September 2. As of Monday, there were no openings on the faculty. A request had been made last June for portable classrooms to ease the crowding but there are none available. The high school, which does have flexibility according to Griffin if expansion might be in the near future, has been in the view of the local school board, who have reviewed the conditions.

They have proposed an addition of eight additional classrooms, one biology lab, one industrial arts shop, a 6000 square foot addition to the gymnasium and an auditorium. The proposal has received recommendation by the Department of Public Instruction, where Dr. Jack Nichols, who is in the school planning area, has approved the local board's plan.

The next step toward reducing the cramped conditions will be in the hands of the State Board of Education, who will reportedly review the proposal and recommendations at their next meeting, which is scheduled for next Thursday.

If approved, the projected plan would have to face the stiffest test, the referendum and the taxpaying voter.

The so called downward trend in school enrollment is not really that, said Griffin, rather a leveling off of enrollment, although even a leveling off will not affect the present crowded conditions experienced at the high school.

When school opens, the metal shop and wood shop will be in the same room, which is similar in size to a normal classroom. The gymnasium, which was designed to hold two classes at one time, will house four classes every period in the seven period day. Students are practically having to change for gym in the hallways, according to Griffin. The new projected facility would provide room for more classes as well as provide storage facilities and lockers.

The original plans for the high school called for an auditorium, but a lack of funds prevented its being built. As a result Griffin stated "We're the only school south of the canal with no auditorium facility."

The auditorium local school officials would like to see built would be designed so that three classrooms could be held there if necessary, and large class instruction could be held, which at the moment is impossible because of the scheduling problems. The entire student body would also be able to meet at the same time, something that is impossible now, except for pep rallies in the gym. Bands having to practice in the cafeteria and choral groups having to rehearse in the gymnasium could also be a thing of the past if an auditorium were available.

The new school at Cape Henlopen is designed for 1000 students, Griffin remarked, somewhat ruefully, it has 137,000 square feet, which is the formula for 1000 students according to state specifications. 1200 students will jam into 99,000 square feet of space at Lake Forest High in less than a month. In spite of the dwindling space, they continue to prepare for the first day, and from the looks of the numbers alone, they'd better.

Saturday Is 20th Kick Off For All Stars

The stage is set for the August 16 20th annual renewal of one of the state's top athletic events - the All-Star Football Game - with a fast Gold Squad, replete with All-Staters, favored to repeat last year's win over the Blue. Kickoff time for this year's game is 2 p.m. at the University of Delaware stadium in Newark.

Pre-game ceremonies are slated to begin at 12:30 p.m. with mentally retarded children participating in a special Olympics competition, followed by a gymnastics exhibition by the First State School of Gymnastics of Newark.

Other pre-game activities include the introduction of the Blue and the Gold Queens and their courts, who will ride into the stadium in "Mountain Steamers" provided by the Age of Steam, Yorklyn; the introduction of each player and his buddy; a mentally retarded child; and the arrival of Miss Delaware in the Arco Go Patrol helicopter.

Also making her pre-game appearance will be Margaret Anne Makuck, 12, of Brandywood, who has been chosen to represent the state's thousands of mentally retarded, for whom the game is played.

Music for the pre-game and half-time ceremonies is by the Milford High School Marching Band, one of the state's leading musical aggregations.

The 66 players who will be playing in the game represent the top talent from the 1974 state high school grid squads...all have graduated. The players have been working out since August 5 at the University of Delaware practice fields.

The game is sponsored by the Delaware Foundation for Retarded Children and is conducted by the All-Star Game committee, which this year is chaired by Lew S. Chambers. In the first 19 games of the series more than $850,000 has been turned over to the support of various programs for the mentally retarded in the state. Tickets for the game will be available at the stadium on August 16.

Lisa Callaway, standing, Gold cheerleader from Lake Forest High School, and Meg Gagne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gagne of Harrington, prepare for the All Star Football Game on August 16. Meg attended the pep fest Queen crowning held recently at Benjamins in the Blue Hen Mall.

Mispillion Dog Show Set Here

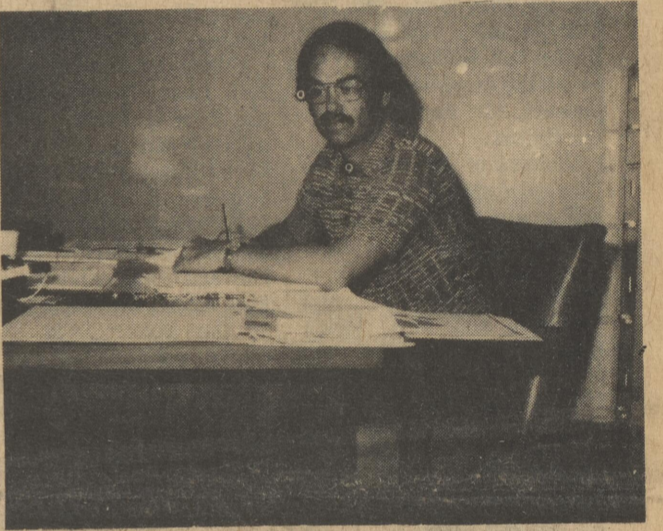

The Mispillion Kennel Club will stage its eleventh annual Dog Show at the Delaware State Fair Grounds here on Friday, August 15.

According to Barbara Elias, of Elias Country Kennels in Dover, the judging will begin around 9 a.m. and will continue until late afternoon. Show Chairman Louis Stubbolo had reported an entry of 1000 dogs, pure-bred representatives of most of the 120 breeds recognized by the American Kennel Club will be competing for over 90 trophies during the day.

Tentatively scheduled to present the Best In Show Trophy is Governor Sherman Tribbitt, who has also donated the trophy.

Dog breeders, owners, handlers and fanciers from all over the Eastern Coast will be on hand.

Admission for the all day event is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. A portion of the proceeds from the show will be donated to Kent and Sussex County S.P.C.A.'s and also the Dr. William E. Spence Veterinary Scholarship.

Mr. Earl Griffin might be speculating about where the 1200 students anticipated will fit in the school designed for 750.

Prize Catch Or A Fishy Story

Herman Koland, Captain of the Harrington Fire Police, had quite an unusual fishing experience this past Saturday. Herman, along with friends, went fishing in the Delaware Bay. Well, as it happened, Herman had a slight accident. He was casting out and as he did his rod and reel went out of his hand and into the bay. Now most people would have chalked this up as a loss, but not Herman. Herman is a very resourceful person. After casting out with his other pole twice, much to the surprise of his companions-you guessed it-he retrieved his rod and reel from the Delaware Bay. Now is this man a great fisherman?? Needless to say Herman had the best catch of the day!

Wednesday, August 20, W. T. Chipman Jr. School, Lake Forest School District, will be open for all incoming seventh graders, other new students and their parents. Administrative and guidance staff members will be available from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. to conduct tours of the building and answer any questions.

Cheer Center News: Aug. 4 to 8.

Activities at the center have been at a standstill this week as Mrs. Beulah Cain has been on vacation and Miss Jerry's brother-in-law in New Jersey was drowned and she had to be there for the funeral. We have missed both of them very much but we had two very able and competent substitutes, Mrs. Betty Jory and Mrs. Eliza Foreman.

The Center was visited by three of our officials this week, Miss Sue Howes, Mary Irwin and Chris Snysztacks. They came to discuss operations with the staff and to inspect the facilities.

Mr. and Mrs. George Abraham left for home on Tuesday. They have been greatly missed by everyone.

We have heard that Col. Knight, one of our members is hospitalized in Boston. We send our best wishes for a speedy recovery. We hope he will be back with us soon.

Attention Dear Interested Citizens: There will be a meeting of the newly organized Greenwood Bi-Centennial Committee, on Monday, August 18, 1975, at 7:30 p.m. in the Greenwood Methodist Church Educational Building. This group represents a steering committee appointed by the town council. The steering committee is composed of Grace Porter, Mary Cahall, Shirley Hamstead, Helen Reynolds and Charles Conaway. There are also representatives from civic and religious organizations who were appointed by their respective groups. Is your group represented? If not, will you appoint two people to represent it?

All interested people in the entire Greenwood community are urged to attend. You do not need to represent a group - just yourself as an interest person. We have a group of enthusiastic workers who will need help to promote and execute the projects for Greenwood. This is your community too. Please plan to attend and bring a friend.

Mrs. Ellen Bollinger and Teddy, Mrs. JoAnn Davis, Mrs. Theresa Ottey and Mrs. Jacob Hatfield enjoyed a motor trip to Williamsburg, Va., this past week, staying overnight with friends of the Hatfields, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Smotherman of Richmond, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Bollinger have just returned from a buying trip for their shop in the New England area.

Many members and patrons of Southern States are waiting to hear reports on Southern States and local operations. The meeting was held Tuesday, August 12, at the Delaware State Fair Restaurant in Harrington.

"...what the farmer should do now is find a tractor that will run on oats."

Recently while visiting in the Blue Ridge Mountains, I heard a story about a man who continued to buy ax handles from this particular storekeeper. First he purchased a dozen ax handles only to return a few days later to purchase a similar order. This went on for quite some time. This one time the storekeeper could not hold back any longer. He asked the man what he was doing with those ax handles. "I'm selling them," replied the man. "What are you getting for them," said the storekeeper. "A dollar apiece," said the man. The storekeeper said to the man, "Why you can't make any money that way. You are giving $1.25 apiece for them now." "I know," said the man, "but it beats farming."

It beats farming! It probably applies to farming very well and particularly in light of the fact that we reside in a farming community where we often times share the hardships with the farmers. The example could very easily apply to other fields, especially in light of what is happening to our economy today. One area of our lives that continues to give me great concern and these columns in the past, have been filled with words describing this annoyance, is the role of the federal government. There is obviously too much intervention and control at the national level which could be better administered on a local level. The working people of this country are getting mighty fed up with having to carry the load. Like the farmer, those of us who toil long and hard for what few pennies we make and try to hold on to know the strain of the working classes of this country. I cannot understand nor comprehend the wisdom of the federal government in permitting certain classes of this country to continue to draw unemployment, welfare and the like when these people are fully capable of pulling their own load. They won't, as long as the feds continue to dish it out. The sad part of it all is the fact that one, these people have now become accustomed to being "kept" and two, it now becomes a game with them. Their attitude is that they will continue to "draw it" until they get caught or for as long as they can get away with it.

Now we all know this is wrong...even the ones who receive it know down deep in their own hearts that it isn't right. The politicians say that the payments of unemployment, welfare, etc., are done with the thought in mind that the money will be put back into circulation. This in the long run helps the economy, for without this we could have a depression. That sounds like "...one of those boys in short pants from Harvard trying to run this country." It would seem to me that there are other ways of matching this problem. Why doesn't the federal government, in particular Congress, get busy passing legislation that will put people back to work. The tremendous housing industry needs a big boost. Reduce the interest rate, Congress, so people can buy homes, I mean new homes so that more jobs can be created. Let's not sit around and talk about it...let's do it. How can any country survive when a great number of its inhabitants are out of work, on welfare, etc., and where the working classes have these people to support as well as a large bureaucracy in Washington. The answer they say is keep raising prices. This will solve the problem. That won't solve the problem. It only creates another one and that is making it so no one can afford anything.

The farmer in the example who turned from farming to selling ax handles was trying to tell us something. What was it, though? Was he trying to create jobs? That's against the law if he was, for we all know that if we wait around long enough, we too can be kept by the government and probably with more money than we got working for a living. Was he trying to tell us that things are too high - even ax handles which no ones wants to use today. You be the judge, but regardless, the central theme is fairly obvious.

Think about it - anytime you can buy ax handles for $1, that's a bargain, because sooner than you think, we all will be going back to work and that's when ax handles will go up in price.

Semi-Pro Baseball Was Big In The 30's

by Keith Burgess

Here is a whole passel of heroes from the days of this writer's youth. In the early thirties, the depression was still with us, television was only a future dream and movie money could only be wheedled once or twice a month.

Baseball was still the national pastime and almost every area large enough to have a name, (town, village, hamlet, etc.) had a baseball team. Harrington was a hotbed for the diamond pastime. The local high school won several state championships, including three years in a row, in the twenties.

After high school careers, the best players joined town teams. Harrington's team was so strong that larger towns resorted to hiring outside players and still had trouble beating the local talent.

Three of the players (see photo) had professional careers. Charley Morris, George Short and Harvey "Zip" Legates all played in the Class D Eastern Shore League at the same time.

Earlier Short and Legates had played in other leagues. Legates almost made the big leagues, but had a couple of bad breaks, unrelated to baseball, that kept him out of the bigtime. Bill Nicholson, of Chestertown, Md., was a Chicago Cub outfielder who led the National League in home runs at least one season. Delmarva Peninsula people who watched both Legates and Nicholson play said the Harringtonian was equal in talent to the Marylander.

Edgar "Yam" Legates was a fine, righthanded pitcher. Townsend "Townie" Masten and Maurice Hall were southpaw hurlers, when not toiling in the outfield. Masten was noted for his heavy hitting. Hall was a fleet outfielder, who could go the legendary mile after a long flyball. On a squad loaded with power hitters, catcher Short and shortstop Legates still stood out.

But first baseman, Fred Lord, third baseman, Charley Morris, Masten, Hall, outfielder Tyrus Brinton "Brit" Holloway (named for Ty Cobb) all were capable of hitting for the circuit.

The writer remembers a game played at Felton for the state championship. Brit Holloway hit two home runs and Asbury Methodist minister "Preacher Ed" Collins whipped off his straw hat, threw in a dollar and took up a collection for Holloway, after each homer Harrington won.

Second-sacker "Pete" Shaw is remembered as the Wee

Willie Keeler type. "Hit 'em where they ain't" must have been hit motto, too. On occasion, he came up with four or five singles in a game.

A trio of players we can't remember too much about are Melville "Melly" Taylor, Ernie Day and Bill McWilliams. The last named was our science teacher, probably the only outside player of this group.

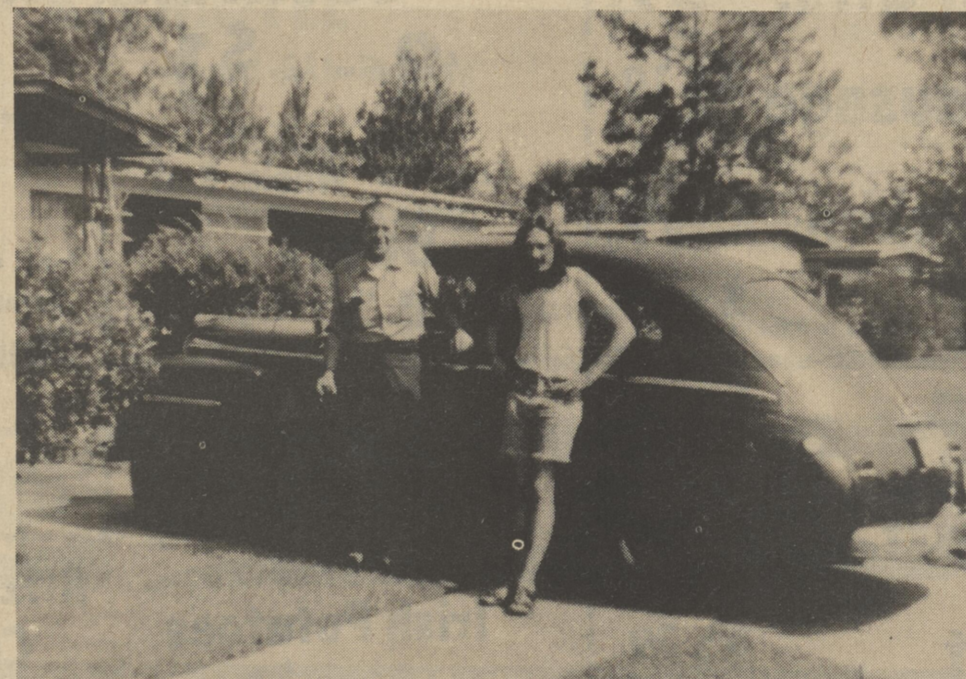

We remember Taylor, as a heavy hitting outfielder in high school, while our faint recollection of Day is that of a hard-playing, smooth-fielding infielder, probably a shortstop.

The leaders of this team, Kesler Farrow and Charley Hopkins, used to hire the writer to run up foul balls, for the princely sum (at that time) of fifteen cents. Sometimes, usually after a great win or a bitter loss, they'd forget to come up with our three nickles and we'd be too bashful to remind them of their oversight.

At the end of the season, the Harrington players would receive a cash bonus, presumably their share of the gate minus expenses.

The writer graduated from Harrington High School in 1940. That summer we played for Harrington's town team. In a game at Denton, Harrington won. The upstate daily wrote the next morning, Harrington was led to victory by two hits each off the bats of Keith Burgess, George Short and Harvey Legates.

The 1946 Plymouth bought by Carrington Burgess, who in turn sold it to his brother, Winnie, who later sold it to Warren John Price [I], formerly of Harrington, now of Jacksonville, Fla. Also in the picture is Ron King son-in-law of Mrs. Joseph Barlow of Harrington.

FROM THE FRYING PAN...

Harassment - "to worry or unnerve (an enemy) as by continuous small attacks" - that's the definition given in a 1974 Thorndike dictionary and is most frequently seen with another word - police.

During the last several Harrington City Council meetings the question might be asked (especially following August's meeting), who's harassing whom? Immediately following Monday night's police report, which included a radar use report, several council members grilled Chief Ed Layton about the number of hours spent using the radar on the city portion of U.S. Rt. 13.

Also vocal was Mayor William A. Minner, who said he had received a citizen complaint and as a result had conducted his own investigation of a two-day period during which time Minner claimed, a city officer had spent most of that time handling radar on Rt. 13. The complaining citizen's name was withheld by Minner.

According to the police report, a total of five hours was spent in patrolling the city portion of U.S. Rt. 13. The following breakdown was reported by Layton: 3833 miles traveled, 400 door checks (for city businesses), 52 complaints issued, 61 warnings issued, 55 traffic and 11 criminal arrests made. The total number of hours logged were 794, showing 637 of patrol time, 27 for special duties, 53 1/2 of station duty, 33 for court time, 15 1/2 of accident investigation and 28 hours for criminal investigation. Do these five hours "make it easy for them (the local police)" as one council member stated?

This was not the first night a barrage of questions followed a police report and they have not always been about radar. One session resulted when a promised pay raise was due the police. When they asked for what had been promised, the heat rose. The raise was granted, however, the grand total of which would not fully train a police officer here.

The duties of the law enforcers are never entered into lightly and the job is not a popular one, nor is it free from risk. Witness the weekend incident around 50 miles from here during which a Maryland state trooper was gunned down at close range and subsequently lost his life in a routine investigation. Do our officers here deserve to be bugged by doing their job? If the city gets the reputation of being intolerant of speeders, is that a negative thing? Isn't excessive speed illegal and deadly? Should the police be curbed by City Hall? True, they need to be accountable for their actions but censuring them for doing their duty?

No one is without fault, including our officers. Their overall credentials should meet the test, however. All the full-time men have been on the job here for over a year; three have been professionally trained and the fourth full-time man gets his training this fall. The part-time officer remains as the only one without professional training. The overall force is experienced and trained. Since there seem to be few objections to the use of radar or other police activities in remaining portions of the city, why is there an uproar over the use of the equipment on U.S. 13.?

Getting Into A Jam -- Or Jelly

If a small voice inside you urges you to try your hand at the fine art of making jellies and jams, take its advice and look into the process of preserving the summer's bounty for winter's table, advises Marguerite Krackhardt, extension nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware.

Homemade jellies, jellies and preserves are popular today because more homemakers are becoming interested in doing-it-yourself methods of food preparation and preservation, says Miss Krackhardt. She explains the differences among the various fruit products that are involved in "jelly making." A "jelly" is made from fruit juice, and the product is clear and firm enough to hold its shape when turned out of the container. "Jam," made from crushed or ground fruit, tends to hold its shape but generally is less firm than jelly. "Conserves" are jellies made from a mixture of fruits, usually including citrus fruit; raisins and nuts are often added. "Marmalade" is a tender jelly with small pieces of fruit distributed evenly throughout, usually containing citrus fruit. "Preserves are whole fruits or large pieces of fruit in a thick syrup, often slightly jellied.

There are four essential ingredients in a jellied fruit product: the fruit, pectin, acid and sugar. Recipes for these products are in the correct proportion of ingredients and should not be altered unless you know that the finished product will not be what is described in the recipe. If you want to cut down on the amount of sugar, for instance, follow a recipe that explains what other adjustments must be made to insure quality.

Always use fresh, ripe fruit for your jellied products unless your recipe states otherwise, warns Miss Krackhardt. The ripe fruit has less pectin which is taken into account in the recipe. Some recipes do not call for added pectin, while others do for more "holding power." Two forms of pectin are commercially marketed - powdered and liquid. They are made from apples or citrus fruits and are equally good when used in a recipe specially formulated for each form.

The other main ingredients - sugar and acid - are added according to the type of fruit you are using and the form of the finished product. Sugar helps in the jelling process, so decreasing the amount, without further adjustment of the recipe, results in a more liquid product. You can

Allison Is First To Enter

Bobby Allison, who set a new track record at Pocomo last week to win the pole for the Purolator "500," has entered his American Motors, Coca Cola Matador in the upcoming Delaware 500 NASCAR Grand National Winston Cup race scheduled for a noon start on Sunday, September 14, at Dover Downs International Speedway.

A two-time winner at Dover Downs, Allison hasn't seen Dover's Victory Lane since the 1972 Mason-Dixon 500. He missed this year's Mason-Dixon due to Indianapolis commitments, but says he's anxious to come back to Dover. "I like Dover Downs," he said, "It's a real race drivers' racetrack. There's plenty of room to pass and the turns are long and smooth. The speedway works you hard all day, but it's a real good track."

Allison's record at Dover is pretty impressive: He's third behind Richard Petty and David Pearson in total money won at Dover with $46,760 over 8 races. On the average he's led one out of every four laps at Dover and is one of only three drivers (the others being Petty and Pearson) to have led over 1,000 laps on the high banks of Dover Downs.

Commenting on the performance of the Matador so far this year, Allison said, "Well, we're working to make this car a completely competitive race car. We think we have a very streamlined car and an excellent chassis that was built by Banjo Matthews and tuned by the Penske crew. We're looking for a little more horsepower out of this AMC engine; we know it's there, it's just taking a little time to get it."

So far in 1975, Allison has two victories in ten starts and 5 top five finishes. Qualifying for the Delaware 500 will be at 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. on Saturday, September 13, and the start of the 1975 Delaware 500 will be at 12:05 on Sunday, September 14.

The tired ones in this picture are from Sullivan County, Pennsylvania. They pose with their host families before starting home. The last minute chatter to Sussex County 4-H'ers was "See you on August 26."

Sussex 4-H Hosts Sister Club

Two weeks ago Sussex County 4-H'ers were host to 4-H'ers from Sullivan County, Pennsylvania. This completed the first part of our exchange trip. Sussex County 4-H'ers will leave for Pennsylvania on August 26 spending several days touring Sullivan County. The 4-H'ers from Sullivan County spent their week in the homes of Sussex County 4-H'ers. Many activities included a "Get Acquainted" party, held at the home of Mrs. Pat Correll of Bridgeville. One day was spent at the beach, followed by a barbeque picnic and also a boat trip by H. Dale Parsons of Lewes. On Saturday the 4-H'ers visited different points of interest in the state, and also had a pool party at the home of Capt. and Mrs. Paul Hudson of Milton.

We certainly hope everyone had a great time, and that 4-H'ers from Pennsylvania now love Delaware.

Thanks for all the work of the planning committee the week was a success. Funds for this activity are provided from the 4-H Lewes Horse Show, held each year in July.

"4-H '76... Spirit of Tomorrow" is the theme for National 4-H Week, October 5-11. Let's begin to think of the new year by asking friends and neighbors to join your club. It is a great program so come on and join. Clubs should also plan to participate in the window display contest, held during National 4-H Week. We are shooting for 100 percent participation this year. This is a great opportunity to spread the spirit of tomorrow.

Calendar of coming 4-H events:
Aug. 4 - Jr. Council meeting, Substation 7:30 p.m.
Aug. 13 - Farm & Home Field Day.
Aug. 26-29 Sullivan County Exchange Trip

August 13 is the date for the 1975 Farm and Home Field Day at the University of Delaware Farm near Georgetown. This year will be the biggest yet with displays, tours and demonstrations covering many areas of life today in homes and on our farms. A wide range of research projects and their results will be available for review. Projects include testing new varieties of field and vegetable crops, new chemicals, methods of controlling weeds and insects, irrigation and new production techniques that insure higher yields and better quality crops. A diagnostic plant clinic will be available throughout the day. Visitors may bring plant specimens for diagnosis by a panel of University specialists. The clinic can help farmers and home gardeners recognize and solve problems caused by disease, insects, weeds, soil fertility levels, poor varieties and other factors that reduce yields or affect quality. Also on display for the day will be the three top horticulture displays from the Horticultural Contest last fall. The Greenwood Hi-Flyers won this top honor in the county. The 4-H leaders association of the county will be present making cold drinks and refreshments available. Plan to have a chicken platter with us.

It is time again to think about our future in 4-H. Now is the time to get new clubs started and obtain new 4-H club members. If anyone is interested in starting a new club, please contact us by phoning 856-5250 or writing the County 4-H office, R.D. 2, Box 48, Georgetown, Del. 19947.

Spartans Want Sixth State Title

Lake Forest's cross-country state champions start practice Monday, August 25th, at 7 p.m. Workouts will be held each week night as Jim Blades' Spartans attempt to win their third straight Delaware State Championship and their sixth in the last thirteen seasons.

Lake Forest was undefeated in dual meet competition last fall in addition to winning the Henlopen Conference and Delaware State crowns. The Spartans' winning streak currently stands at 10 meets.

Strong showings were made in multi-team invitations against teams from seven or eight Eastern states. Two of these outings resulted in a first place Lake Forest Invitational and a second place (Salisbury State College Invitational) in tri-state competition.

A strong group will be returning to boost the Spartans' chances. Only three runners graduated from the top ten. Joe Voshell and Kit Tilghman ranked in the first five Spartans all season. Bob Kashner, the other graduate, often ran as the squad's No. 6 or 7 man.

Since cross-country team scores are tabulated from the finishing positions of each team's first five runners, it becomes obvious that Lake Forest could go all the way in 1975 again.

Cross-country is easily the most successful sport of the seven boys' varsity sports teams at Lake Forest. 1975 will be the twentieth winning year of the hill-and-dale sport here. Small wonder then, that the Spartans annually have a large turnout of candidates. Success breeds success.

Who will gain the coveted No. 1 spot? Dan Parker, a great freshman runner last year, was top Spartan in the last three outings. Harry Benson, a senior, will be starting his fifth season. He's held the No. 1 position for part of each of the last four years. He is also state champion in the mile run. (4.31)

Terry Pettyjohn, another senior, is a strong runner who, on occasion, was the first Spartan to finish a race.

Chris Palmisano, a transfer student from Dover Air, has a mark of 10.21 in the two mile run and has beaten every Lake Forest runner of the past two years, except Harry Benson. He will be a junior and reportedly is nearing the 400 mile mark in workout miles for the summer.

Craig Kashner was the most improved distance runner on the track team this spring eventually clocking 2.03 in the half mile. If this improvement continues, Craig figures to be the last of the five runners in three contention for No. 1.

With Palmisano filling the gap left by Joe Voshell, just one spot remains to be filled in the top five, the key positions. Kit Tilghman, who ran third for Lake Forest in the state meet, leaves a pair of shoes to be filled by Craig Kashner.

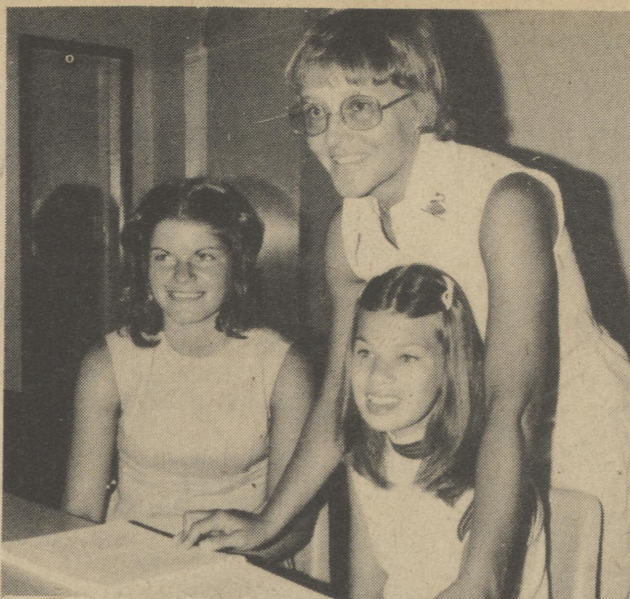

If Craig can't do the job, Bob Mullane and David Richter are strong, capable runners, who beat Tilghman once or twice in the past. Both should be improved with an extra year's maturity. Mullane is a senior, while Richter is only a sophomore, who ran 4.45 in the mile as a freshman.

These seven harriers appear to have the top spots all sewed up, unless someone greatly improves, or another ready-made star like Palmisano transfers into the district.

Steve Saulsbury, a top seven runner in 1973, could be a factor if he regains his previous form. Louis Thomas, a 5.08 miler in his first distance race ever, might be a freshman future star. Paul McClellan gets better each year and won one of the ten championship jackets last season. Others who would be top seven for lots of schools are: John Moffett, Charley Scott, Herb Jarrell, Cliff Ayres, Kelly Woodward, Eugene Butler and John Nickle.

The Lake Forest Invitational, in late September, is the opener. From 15 to 20 teams from Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey have been invited.

The 1975 All-Star Child, Margaret Anne Makuck, meets her "buddy" for this year's All-Star Football Game, Debbie Saunders of Concord High (on the left) as Mrs. Walter P. Makuck looks on. Margaret Anne, 12, attends the Charles W. Bush School for multiply handicapped, moderately retarded and will represent the thousands of Delaware mentally retarded children at the 1975 Delaware All-Star Football Game, August 16. Miss Saunders is a member of the Blue Cheerleader Squad for the game.

Tucker Takes Second Win With Vega

Milford's Larry Tucker charged the Absher Racing Team Vega to his second Modified feature win on the season with Wayne Cusick of Princess Anne emerging a surprise winner in Sportsman feature racing for the Regal Muffler Center Team. Tucker was not to be outdone from the drop of the green to the checkered flag as Stan Busby of Bridgeville stayed fast on the bumper of the quick moving Tucker to the wire.

Walt Breeding from Federalsburg again was in the process of climbing to the top and with 5 laps remaining had closed the gap enjoyed by the leaders. When it came time for victory lane Tucker and Busby in the Ford-Hitch Insurance Agency Mustang sidelined pavwere not to be fronted by Breeding and the Davis Trucking Vega. Jack Sapp of Milford made it a royal front four as the Marshall Baker Engineered-George Adams Co.-Todd & Son Exxon Vega visioned a charge to the front at any moment. Fifth went to Harold Bunting, also from Milford, driving the Warrington X Bros. Special Vega. Ed Brown, Sr. and Ed. Brown, Jr. were sixth and seventh respectively.

In one of the most exciting sportsman features of the season, Richard Malnor jumped into the lead on the 14th circuit and had another win in his pocket until the 23rd lap saw the Don's Automotive-Carlton Massey Ford-Hitch Insurance Agency Mustang sidelined paving the way for Cusick's triumph. Bodie Bodenweiser pulled fine effort recovering from a rear start on a restart taking second for the Oscar Fields-Lewes Dairy Market Team. Harold Warrington of Dover scored third behind the wheel of the Shirley's Beauty Salon Vega. Fourth went to Woodside's Larry Grierchauffering the C & W Auto Parts Chevrolet with Cordia Warrington taking fifth in the Warrington's Pre-Cast Steps & Lawn Ornaments Falcon.

Mark Tudor, Dover, scored his second 20 lap feature win at the Lincoln Speedway in as many weeks, but he had to overcome mechanical problems (gear shifter) suffered in the 360cc heat race. Tudor dropped from the early event, worked over the bike, then took command of the 20 lap feature on lap three, and led all the way. Only one caution flag was displayed during the running of the main event. Joe Smith, Goldsboro, Md., attempting to move up in the field on turn three spilled his bike and slid over the banking and out of the speedway. Though badly shaken, Smith was not seriously injured. He did not require hospitalization. Ed Ingram, Downingtown, Pa., and Larry Sweeten, Sicklerville, Pa., fought a tight duel for the runner up spot. Bill Knox who fought off both Ingram and Sweeten during the early stages, finally had to settle for fourth spot. Tom Petrusky, Glassboro, N.J., finished cation stipend, Newman served a nine week internship this summer under the direction of Dr. Floyd E. McDowell, principal of the Meadowood School in the Stanton School District. Newman's studies focused on certain areas of special education administration as well as general education. Newman said he was most fortunate to intern under a person of McDowell's stature in his field. The latter has, among other things, served as the United States representative to the World Health meeting in Geneva, Switzerland; he has been consultant and chief of Mental Retardation Program for the National Institute of Health in Washington, D.C.; he was the program consultant and analyst for a New York State Department of Mental Hygiene

Magnolia Man Arrested

State police arrested a Magnolia man late Sunday in connection with a $1,300 burglary.

James Donohan, 25, was picked up after police had put him under surveillance. Police said he is allegedly involved in the early Saturday morning burglary of the Four Corners Store on U.S. 13 in Woodside.

Police said a hole was broken through the attic ceiling and the burglars dropped through. They took a safe containing $1,300 in cash, store receipts and vehicle titles. Police said the safe was removed through the ceiling and roof.

Donohan was charged with conspiracy, theft, burglary, escape and resisting arrest. He was committed to the Delaware Correctional Center near Smyrna, in lieu of $35,000 bail, pending a hearing. Police declined to give further details, pending continuation of their investigation.

Fall Programs Set For YMCA

"Something for Everyone", is the theme of the new fall program brochure that will shortly be released by the YMCA of Dover and Kent County.

The professional staff of the YMCA have plugged into the schedule of activities and classes a number of new offerings that speak mostly to the requests of folks in the community looking for informal class outlets in various skills.

In the swimming pool there will be swimming classes for children and adults ranging in age from 18 months through senior citizens. Whether you are seeking actual swimming lessons, or exercise in water and on land or are a student of water ballet or a beginner or advanced level, classes have been established to cover all phases of water work with ample time for leisurely recreational swimming at various hours of the day.

In addition tryouts for the YMCA Dolphin swim team will cover a two week period giving any child in the area ample time to swim at the Y under the watchful eyes of skilled coaches who will make their final selection of team members at the end of that two week period.

The Y will offer no fewer than seven art courses this fall ranging from arts and crafts for three-year olds and a mother-child art course geared to pre-schoolers and their parents right through watercolors, beginner and advanced oil painting, introduction to the art of drawing and drawing with pen and ink.

A Saturday Fun Club will be instituted this fall and run for 16 Saturday mornings for children ages 6-13 and will feature under trained leadership arts and crafts, movies, field trips, table games and athletics.

A needlepoint course will be offered in the mornings on Monday from 9-11 a.m. which will be geared mostly to women, but not forgetting the men a course especially designed as needlepoint for men will be held on Monday evenings from 6:45-7:45 p.m. introducing the needlecraft field to men seeking a new relaxing hobby.

Leathercraft, beginning carpentry and upholstery classes will be offered for those interested in using their hands in a creative way and also learning of the techniques involved in this form of home handicraft work.

As for physical exercise, classes will be held in karate, yoga, self defense judo and the ever-popular exercise classes for women featuring a staff of skilled and concerned instructors who deal with the fitness and health of all enrolled. There will also be a weight training class as well as a women's muscle toning class featuring the use of the Universal Gymnast Equipment with 16 physical fitness stations.

Looking for guitar lessons or tennis lessons then the Y is the place to sign up as both beginners and advanced lessons will be offered this fall.

For individual adult parents or married couples, a course on parent effectiveness training will be offered which examines such areas as exercising authority and discipline, resolving conflicts, and changing behavior patterns that are causing problems for one (or all) members of the family. It will not require participants to discuss their own family problems or expose themselves before the class. Rather the focus is on general skills, methods and procedures for improving the parent-child relationship and resolving problems in that relationship.

Of course in addition to these and other classes being offered the YMCA will continue its policy of the best in offerings of special events and trips and among those scheduled for this fall will be our best ball of partners centennial golf tournament in September, and a number of bus trips that will begin in October. Also, in December, an exciting ski week in Canada is planned as well as a week-end in February at Killington.

Clubs of high school aged youth will be organizing in the fall as well as additional father/son Y Indian guide tribes and father/daughter Y Indian Princess tribes and information will be in the brochure.

The brochure should be ready for distribution in Mid-August and folks wishing to receive the fall brochure listing all activities, cost, etc. may contact the Y by calling 674-3000 and a brochure will be mailed.

Why not seriously consider membership in the YMCA of Dover and Kent County this year for only pennies a day and take advantage of the low, low membership rates for all courses and classes as well as the extensive use of the Y pool and physical areas.

So call 674-3000 today.

High quality silage is a key factor in the feeding program on most profitable dairy operations. The peak of silage harvest time is just around the corner. Plan now to do everything possible to insure the highest quality possible.

Silage can be no better feed than the forage put into the silo. Unfortunately, quality is often lost by poor harvesting and storing procedures. State of maturity when cut probably affects feeding value more than any other factor. Cut corn in the full dent stage and sorghum in the medium to late dough state.

You get higher quality when you get a clean, fine chop of about 3/8 inch in length. You must have sharp knives in your harvester to accomplish this. Fine, even chopping has the following advantages: Increases capacity of hauling equipment, easier unloading and spreading, tighter packing and fewer air pockets, increases silo capacity and easier outhandling of silage.

These advantages far outweigh the disadvantages of higher power requirements for finer chopping.

Slow filling of the silo lowers the feeding value of silage. Some dairymen are so conscious of the importance of rapid filling that once harvesting gets underway, they keep the equipment going 24 hours a day. In trench silos, spread the silage over the smallest area that will permit good packing. When a load of silage is spread over a large area, you get too much drying.

Even distribution across the entire area of upright silos during filling is most important. Uneven distribution results in poor packing, air pockets, low quality and loss of storage space. In silos with diameters larger than 20 feet, even distribution can be obtained only through the use of mechanical silage distributing devices.

Firm packing and a good tight seal are absolute essentials for high quality silage.

It Seams To Me

by Janet Reed

How do you buy fabric? Do you base your selection on appearance? Most of us do. We are attracted to something that is visually pleasing. Certainly it doesn't make much sense to buy something we don't like. But what is pleasing to our eye isn't necessarily going to look good on us. Hold the fabric up to you in front of a full-length mirror to see if the design, color and texture are becoming. Also, try to visualize how the fabric from the flat bolt will look on your curved figure.

Do you buy by feel? Most seamstresses use an educated touch when selecting fabric. You can tell a lot about fabric by the way it responds to your touch. A springy, resilient fabric means it won't be so apt to wrinkle when worn. A soft fabric will be comfortable next to the skin. The firmness of the fabric of the degree of stretch will help you decide if it is suitable for your purpose. But be cautious about letting your sense of touch overrule your other needs. I have bought fabric because it felt good and have ended up with garments that didn't do anything for me. Again, hold the fabric before you in front of a mirror before making a final decision.

Do you buy by price? Most of us have to consider price, but don't let it be the only decisive factor. Poor quality fabric may not hold up as well and may be more difficult to work with. If you are using your valuable time to sew, buy the best quality fabric you can afford. You then will have duplicated an expensive garment rather than a cheaper one for the same amount of time and effort.

Bargains in good quality fabric are available if we are watching pennies. That's why most of us like sales, discount houses and mill ends. The more you know about fabric quality the better bargains you can find.

Do you consider the care required? We all like easy-care fabrics, but sometimes too much emphasis is placed on washability. Even though some of the beautiful wools and silks require dry cleaning, they may be worth it in satisfaction and appearance. Don't automatically eliminate a fabric because it's not supposed to be washed.

Do you buy by need? Perhaps you need a certain type of garment and look until you find the fabric that is appropriate to the pattern, is becoming and suits your way of life. Ideally, we should all buy this way. Most of us consider these factors in greater or lesser degree and hopefully come away with a fabric we adore.

Cub Scout News

Fifteen Cub Scouts from Pack 76 and eight of their leaders joined Scoutmaster Gary Bauchman and Troop 76 for an afternoon in the woods and fields last Saturday. With the help of the Scouts the Cubs spent the day studying wildlife and ecology. They learned to identify different types of trees and made leaf and shell collections. Lessons in campfire safety were included.

Later in the day the group gathered for a hot dog feast. At this time Webelos Scout Joe Watkinson received his aquanaut activity badge.

Saturday's activities concluded the summer schedule for most of Pack 76. However, Webelos' activities continue with a campout planned for August 23 and 24 at McCaulley's Pond. Fishing, swimming and canoeing are scheduled for those days. However, Webelos leader Warren Boder stressed that this activity is for Webelos only. Younger Cubs are not covered by Scout insurance for overnight events.
