Decision On Powell Property Reached

Harrington Police Commended

Monday night's City Council meeting was relatively uneventful as several long-standing matters were concluded.

The controversial matter of Sam Powell's property on Grant Street was ruled on by the City's Planning and Zoning Commission was de-zoning Commission. Powell, who has used his property for repair and maintenance on his sewage treatment trucks and other vehicles of his "Big John Son" business has received complaints about the use of his property from other residents on Grant Street. Recently Powell has decided to sell his property and had attempted to sell as a commercial property.

It was decided Powell's claim that the City had granted him commercial zoning for his property was incorrect.

According to the letter prepared for Powell and complaining residents of Grant Street, there was no record of Powell's having paid a $25 fee for a zoning change nor was there record of a public hearing, which is required for zoning changes.

The P & Z Commission voted to grant Powell a temporary use permit for his property for a one year period or until he could dispose of the property. Mayor William Minner and council members viewed the decision as fair to the involved parties.

Mayor Minner publicly commended the police force for their conduct during the recent incident and trial involving members of the Harrington police force and the two Rhodesians members of ZANU.

The Rhodesians were arrested following an incident in the People's Restaurant where they had been accused of drinking.

During the controversy following the arrest and trial, Minner said the City should be proud of the conduct displayed by the police force.

In other matters it was reported by councilman Jack Wyatt that eight streets had now been repaved, including Harrington, Mispillion, and Short, High, Milby, South Brown and Simpson Streets.

A motion was made by councilman Dr. Vincent Lobo to inspect the trailer in use of W. T. Chipman Junior High School. If it is determined a trailer, a second motion by Lobo was made to view and update the ordinance regarding this type of trailer and grant variance if necessary.

A plea for payment of delinquent taxes was made by Alderman Anna Hampton who said she had called people and had even "knocked on doors" in an effort to collect on approximately $10,000 in outstanding taxes due the City.

Delinquent water and sewer bills are being acted upon this week. Water will be shut off for people who are not current.

The suggestion of a police commission or commissioner was crushed by Minner who firmly negated the suggestion, reporting misuse of the commission in the past.

It was further reported the HUD project is in progress and that Harrington Meadows has gone into bankruptcy again.

The city may have to borrow $20,000 this week to pay its part of a tax ditch bill outstanding to the Kent Soil & Water Conservation.

Unusual tractor is creation of University of Delaware agricultural engineers. It measures energy requirements for crop production with aid of complex instrumentation package. Oscillograph in large box records instrument readings.

Would You Believe...

Super Tractor

Engineers at the University of Delaware's Agricultural Experiment Station have developed a unique instrumented tractor that lets them measure energy requirements for crop production on the Delmarva peninsula. With it they hope to be able to show farmers how to get top fuel efficiencies by tailoring equipment combinations more closely to specific farming operations.

The new super tractor - a 97 PTO horsepower diesel machine with dual wheel option has been equipped with a $15,000 instrumentation package by engineers in the University's department of agricultural engineering. It's this package that makes the tractor so unusual.

The instruments consist of a penetrometer, wheel revolution counters, fuel flowmeter, rpm gauge and strain gauge. These make it possible to monitor fuel consumption, draft forces and wheel slippage during farming operations. Implement depth and forces on selected pieces of equipment can also be monitored. Instrument readings are recorded on an oscillograph.

Collection of field data started in the fall of 1974. So far tractor and machinery data have been collected for six operations - chisel plowing, moldboard plowing, one way disk plowing, disk plowing, corn stalks, no-till and disk-tiller planting - on a Sassafras sandy loam soil. Norman E. Collins, a specialist in power and machinery in the department of agricultural engineering, says they hope to develop a procedure that lets them relate a soil's physical characteristics to the power requirements for a given farming operation. Eventually they plan to evaluate about 15 different operations, on as many Delaware soil types as possible.

In time, he would like to see a data bank developed

Shopping Center Sold

The sale of Quillen Shopping Center to Harrington Associates was finalized last Thursday, September 4.

Purchased from Miller-Handloft, the Harrington center represents three acres including 23,500 square feet of stores plus the parking area. At present there are seven tenants: National 5 & 10, Food Rite, Discount Auto Parts, L & D Electronics, Wolaston's, Collin's Clothiers and the Harrington Pharmacy.

Principal figures in Harrington Associates are Arlene Chodosh, John A. Luetkemeyer, Erwin R. Baida and David Cordish - all from the greater Baltimore area. This group presently owns two shopping centers in Maryland, each covering 150,000 sq. ft. with 35 or more tenants. They also have under construction a new shopping center of similar size near Elkton, Md. Visiting Harrington last Thursday, Erwin Baida and David Cordish expressed their intent to promote Quillen Shopping Center, to spruce it up and to have it continue to be a lively place for people to shop. More specific plans, they said, would be announced later.

Speaking for Harrington Associates, David Cordish said they were happy to be in Harrington. He indicated the group would look forward to cooperating with the tenants of the shopping center as well as with residents and other businesses in the area.

Aubrey Brown, chairman of the local fire prevention awareness program, holds one of the posters he made for part of the month long program.

Fire Prevention Awareness

Aubrey Brown, this year's chairman of Harrington Fire Company's second annual Fire Prevention Day, told the Journal the October 5 date will bring a varied program on several phases of fire prevention that will be of particular interest and importance for area residents.

Among the program activities scheduled for 1 p.m. at the W.T. Chipman Junior High School the following are included: a fire demonstration using a house trailer; a planned home fire escape; an assimilated auto rescue; demonstrations by the Delaware State Police who will have representatives on hand with the state police helicopter; "Pure Life", a serious film geared for adults, and different types of fire fighting equipment and demonstrations.

Brown also stated that aspects of traffic safety, in particular bicycle safety, will be emphasized by members of the fire department during the afternoon.

Also a new feature will be an antique fire hose contest in which seven companies are anticipated to compete for a circulatory plaque.

"One thing we're really stressing is having the parents come out", said Brown. "A lot of people don't realize fire prevention is a family project and that a lot of fires aren't just caused by children." The additional emphasis on traffic safety this year was explained by Brown who said "In the Harrington area we've been prone to accidents".

Several weeks of emphasis on fire prevention will lead up to the Fire Prevention Day said Brown, who has distributed 20 fire prevention posters throughout the community. The company also plans to once again sponsor an essay contest in the local elementary and junior high school on a fire prevention topic. Plans are also being made to take apparatus to the local elementary school, South B, in order to further acquaint the young children on the role of the fireman.

The company has steadily grown since its beginning in 1905, and the equipment, membership and number of alarms has grown also said Brown. Last year the company responded to 125 fire and rescue calls and made over 400 ambulance runs.

The company will also be conducting its fund drive this year in conjunction with the activities involving fire prevention. The fund drive chairman is Bill Walls.

The company hopes to use the funds raised from their annual drive to go toward the purchase of a new 1000 pumper, said Brown. The company hopes to add this piece of equipment by the first of the year.

Current fire company officers are: Richard Shulties, president; Kenny Collins, vice-president; J.D. Dennis, Jr., financial secretary; Gary Minner, secretary; Bill Outten, treasurer. Harold Fry is serving as chief; Melvin Wyatt, Bob Taylor and Joe Green are assistant fire chiefs. Harold Brode is ambulance captain while Aubrey Brown is the ambulance squad secretary-treasurer. Russell Blades and Franklin Derrickson are serving as two lieutenants.

Brown said the company plans a community-wide project regarding identification of bedrooms of children and invalids. The plans are to be revealed during this month.

Felton Views Annexation

Donald Jacobs, the newly appointed commissioner of Felton, wasted little time in making his progressive civic plans known at Monday night's council meeting. Jacobs talked of the need to annex more land into the town with the idea of getting more tax revenue and protecting the current tax base. Mayor Myers pointed out the need for this sort of thing 30 years ago when he and other returned home from the war to start a new life. Further discussions on the subject have been postponed to a future time.

Mrs. Lowder L. (Hazel) Harrington has resigned her post of many years as tax collector. She has remarried and is now the wife of Mr. Walter Mills. They will reside in Greenwood. A search goes on for her replacement. Public notices will be posted advertising for the position.

For some time the commissioners have been concerned about the whereabouts of their one man police force. At last month's meeting, a letter was directed to officer John Fillmore requesting that he keep a daily log as well as cracking down on speeders, illegal parking and other offenses. No log was presented at Monday night's meeting.

In other matters, the commissioners heard a written complaint by Commissioner Jacobs regarding the objections to chicken feathers allegedly flying from the empty chicken crates being trucked into the town. Backfiring from some of the trucks has caused additional unpleasantness - interrupted peace and quiet during the late evening hours.

It was also decided that a first and second prize of $25 and $15, respectively, would be awarded the two best selections for the town crest. The contest will take place in January.

Commissioner Bill DeLong brought the matter of making it unlawful for the town residents who fail to put their garbage in containers like metal cans or garbage bags.

The council decided to take a walking tour of Luff's Alley on Saturday to determine what must be done to open the alley to traffic.

Free Lunch Policy Announced For Lake Forest

Lake Forest School District today announced a free lunch policy for school children unable to pay the full price of meals served in schools under the National School Lunch Program.

Local school officials have adopted the following family size income criteria for use in determining eligibility.

Family Size	Income
1	$3,230
2	4,240
3	5,250
4	6,260
5	7,190
6	8,110
7	8,950
8	9,790
9	10,550
10	11,310
11	12,060
12	12,810

(Add $750 for each additional family member.)

To apply for free lunches at anytime during the year, it is necessary to apply at the school. The school will notify parents of their child's eligibility. If parents do not agree with the school's decision they may have a hearing. This can be done by writing or calling Melvin C. Luff, Deputy Superintendent, Dorman Street, Harrington, Del. 19952. Telephone 398-3244.

In certain cases, foster children are also eligible for these benefits.

All children are treated the same regardless of ability to pay. In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of his race, sex, color, or national origin.

Milford Bicentennial Set

Milford will kick off its Bicentennial Celebration on Saturday, September 20 at 2 p.m. with a parade of historical floats which will depict events in Milford's past and personage.

On September 21 the Milford Historical Society will sponsor Old Milford Day. Sixteen homes in the Milford area will be open to the public from 1 to 5 p.m. Tour guides will be available to visitors. Also Milford churches will hold homecoming on that Sunday.

On September 20th, following the 16 float parade with bands from the Milford High School and Middle School, there will be a brief opening ceremony to designate the official opening of the Bicentennial activities. Three prizes will be awarded to those floats judged best in carrying out the theme of the parade.

The Master of Ceremonies for the parade on the downtown Memorial Plaza will be Clarence Welch. The Rev. Joseph James will give the invocation and William Miller will be the song leader. Cecil Hiffer is the parade chairman.

Felton Vandalized

On Sunday evening one of the trucks owned by Felton Insulation and Electric of Felton was vandalized. According to company owners Walt Williams and Tom Schmidt, one truck had the windshield and door panes smashed. All the glass on the dashboard was also smashed. Turn signals and side view mirrors were disengaged. Damage to the truck was estimated to be $450. Troop 5 Delaware State Police at Bridgeville under the investigation of Trooper Porter is underway. The police officer has conducted a house to house inquiry in the immediate area in order to apprehend the vandals. Mr. Schmidt told Felton City Council Monday night that over the past two years the company has lost some $2,000 by way of vandalism, stolen gasoline and tools. Council assured company owners that every effort would be made to capture and apprehend the vandals for criminal prosecution. The authorities are working with a list of suspects and the area is being patrolled by the police.

It was reported Tuesday morning that a 13 year old Felton youth had confessed to Felton police officer John Fillmore as having committed the vandalism on the truck. Action is pending further investigation.

Old Milford Day Set

On "Old Milford Day," Sunday, September 21, from 1 to 5 p.m., eight of Milford's beautiful and historic homes will be open to the public. Three of the buildings are listed on the National Register of Historic Places. This event is sponsored by the Milford Historical Society to benefit the restoration fund of the Parson Thorne Mansion.

Work is now in progress on the interior of the east wing of the mansion, the last room in need of restoration. Future projects will include repair and restoration on the exterior of the building and completion of furnishing the rooms.

The house tour will include three 18th century houses, two 19th century houses, two houses built in the 1920's, an apartment and an 18th century church. Many fine antiques, both elegant and country, may be seen in their everyday settings. Collections on display include antique kitchen utensils, lamps, colored pressed glass, matchboxes and wine glasses. Hostesses in colonial costume will guide visitors through the houses and cold refreshments will be served at the Parson Thorne mansion.

Among the new items of interest at Christ Episcopal Church are the Saint Paul stained glass window dedicated in January as a memorial to Parson Thorne, and the needlepoint kneelers made by the Christ Church needlepoint guild. The church was founded in 1704, and construction of the present building was begun in 1791 during the rectorate of Parson Thorne. The old Methodist graveyard, which is being restored by the Avenue Methodist Church, may also be visited on the tour.

Tickets at $3 for adults and $1.50 for students will be on sale only during the tour at Milford city hall and Mordington. The historical society requests that no young children be brought on the tour and that women wear low-heeled shoes to avoid damage to old carpets and floors.

Monday being Labor Day, the center was not open and therefore there was no activities.

Tuesday it reopened with the usual work of ceramics and string art and the members' personal sewing.

Wednesday in the morning the members worked on Christmas tree ornaments of wood and felt. And in the afternoon a full bus enjoyed a trip to Barratt's Chapel near Frederica.

We had a conducted tour by Mr. Flater of both the chapel and the museum. Nellie Tyler, one of our members of the center, presented the museum with a book of the New Testament. It had been her aunt's, Mary Andrews, and was printed in 1867, 108 years ago. The museum was very grateful to Nellie.

Thursday as planned, Jeanette Barns of Dover was there for instruction on ceramics while some of the members worked on latch hooking with new patterns and string art.

Friday was bowling day again with 10 members participating and five getting over 200 pins for their two games rolled. Jim Keniencki was high man, getting 293 pins, Fred Littman was second with 247, Bunny Pote, 245, George Gooode, 240 and Andy Anderson, 209. Good bowling, members. Keep it up and you may be hard to beat in the next tournament.

This week the spotlight falls on another one of our male members who is becoming quite a globe trotter, George Gooode of Milford. George is originally from England, coming to the U.S.A. several years ago.

It is through George that we have been able to see some beautiful slides of blooming flowers from Holland, called the Garden of Flowers.

Also some of the largest castles in England and their beautiful churches. George tells us he is being called upon several times a month to show them at other places.

He goes to Dover several times where he is an RSVP member and stops in the center there. He likes to shoot pool with them as well as he does here. George says where he came from, the game is not called pool but billiards.

Bingo is also one of his favorite games and calls the game for us when he is on hand. George is pretty popular with our members and does a lot when he is around.

He is going back to his native country some time this month for an extensive period and will have a lot of new slides and a lot to tell us when he returns.

George used to operate a general store one time near Georgetown and tells us he had a good business. He is also one of our good bowlers and gets good scores at times.

Pal Put To Pasture

We got a "hot tip" Tuesday on a horse, but not one to use at the current fall race meet here. Miss Theresa Shahan told the Journal a 20 year-old grade horse named Pal will officially retire to pasture this weekend, either in Delaware or in Florida. Miss Shahan shows Pal in various horse shows.

A veteran of numerous Gymkhanas, he has taken six grand championships and two reserve championships during the past eight years in Delaware. He performed the key hole event in 6.6 seconds record time.

Saturday will be his last show when he performs at Calamity Acres in Maryland. He is in contention for a high point saddle.

Pal is owned by Buddy Byrd of Frederica

"... praise them while you can—for in their job accolades are few and far between."

Being a police officer is a thankless job . . . particularly in this day and time where few have any respect for the law or those who enforce it. As a former member of the staff of the then Attorney General David Buckson, I have seen many law enforcement officers. Most of them . . . a large portion of them . . . have been exceptional police officers.

I have always felt that our policemen in Harrington have been good all-around law enforcement men. In some respects, many of us have had different views of their capabilities—mostly because they disagreed with our way of thinking. So they were therefore wrong, according to our accounts. Whether we care to admit it or not, it takes a lot of courage to wear the uniform and the badge. It is a "tender job," for not only does it carry the authority, it also seeks the diplomacy in the individual.

The test of courage was exhibited recently in the happenings at the Peoples Service Station in Harrington. Officer Billy Jopp exhibited a rare type of courage, self-discipline and determination. Both he and Chief Ed Layton need to be publicly recognized at this time for some of the risks they have taken recently as well as in the past. Not only have they demonstrated courage in the past, they have also demonstrated that all-important quality of good judgment.

I am sorry that for a while last week during that "now famous trial" they were held in ridicule, and so glad that justice won out in order to preserve their good record.

So praise them while you can for in their job accolades are few and far between—sometimes so is balance and good decision making. So remember in future controversial matters . . . it is always easier to see the situation through our own eyes, but is it 20-20 vision?

Thoughts

by Senator William Roth

There is growing public dissatisfaction with the performance of Congress.

I spent most of the August recess talking with constituents, men and women in all parts of Delaware and their disenchantment with the record of this Congress is clear.

In January, the public's expectations were high. The new Congress included many young, new members, particularly in the House, and some people thought it would do great things. Some described it as a reform Congress.

The record so far is anything but that. The Congress has indulged in petty political wrangling, twiddled its thumbs on energy problems, served up irresponsible spending programs as the solution to our economic problems and in general moved with the speed of an arthritic turtle.

On the one hand, after months and months of talk, the Congress has been unable to enact a comprehensive energy program. On the other hand, in just one week, it succeeded in drafting and approving a comprehensive pay raise for itself.

It is clear now that those of us in the Congress who believe the country must come to grips with the energy problem made a major tactical blunder. We should have attached energy legislation as a rider on the Congressional pay raise bill (which, incidentally, I voted against.)

There are no easy solutions to our energy needs, but as one small businessman in Dover put it, "If we had a national policy, we would at least know what to expect and could formulate our own plans for coping with the situation."

One of our great needs today is tax reform. Our federal tax laws are unnecessarily complicated and confusing. The burden of the tax load falls far too heavily on middle-income families, who benefit the least from the over-abundance of federal programs.

According to one study by a taxpayer group called Taxation with Representation, members of the Senate voted against tax reform on more than half of 19 roll call votes so far this year. On a scale of 100, the average senator scored 46.

Delaware's two senators had the highest score of any state. At 79, my score was the highest of any Republican in the Senate, the group said. It was also the highest among members of the key Finance Committee, which drafts tax legislation in the Senate.

In both the Finance Committee and on the Senate floor, I have fought for the removal of tax breaks for the oil companies which were costing the government billions of dollars in lost revenues. I have also made repeated efforts to provide greater tax relief for middle-income families, but a majority of the Senate has little compassion for Middle America.

A Backward Glance

Weekly Report

by Senator Joseph Biden

Congress returned this week and was immediately faced with the prospect of approving the presence of 150 to 200 American civilian observers to oversee the new truce line negotiated by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger between Egypt and Israel.

As a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, I am reserving judgment on the new truce accords negotiated by the Secretary until I have had an opportunity to learn all the details and secure the answers to a number of questions I consider important. However, I think it is fair to say that I am skeptical about the stationing of American observers in the Sinai desert as part of this agreement.

Any number of questions need to be asked about this new proposal. But, to my way of thinking, chief among those questions are these:

--What arrangements are being made to insure the safety of Americans in the event of renewed hostilities between Israel and Egypt?
--Will the presence of American observers delay or otherwise impede direct negotiations between Israel and Egypt leading to a permanent peace settlement? Will the new accords really contribute to the long-range security of Israel?

--Why is the presence of American observers essential to the accords?
--Does this new agreement mean that the United States has committed itself to new levels of economic and military aid that will be difficult to reduce in future years?

--Will the observers really be civilians, or is that just a front for stationing former military or intelligence officers in the Mideast?
--What guarantee is the administration willing to provide that, in the event the agreement for stationing these observers is approved, it will not prove to be just the beginning of an ever-expanding American presence in the Mideast?
As I indicated above, there are other questions to be raised beyond these. But for openers, the answers I receive to these questions will determine in large measure whether or not I support this agreement.

Career Corner

by Buck Thompson

"Agricultural engineers are one of the best hopes for warding off world-wide starvation," said Ambassador Edwin Marin when he returned from last year's World Food Conference in Rome.

In the long term, the ag engineer and the geneticist who breeds plants are among the key jobs in meeting world food needs, Martin further noted.

That's right. Adapting technology to farming is the continuing task of the ag engineer. Substituting machine power for muscle power, automating farm chores and improving the quality of food are some of the ways by which the ag engineer has revolutionized farming.

And over the next two decades, the engineer's contributions will be even more dramatic as he/she plays a leading role in fighting famine. This is because ag engineers design and develop the machinery, equipment and techniques which help grow, process and distribute food and fiber.

Ag engineers usually concentrate on such functions as research and development, design, testing, production, sales or management. However, their technical know-how is usually focused in one or more of these five major technical areas:

- A. Power and machinery - design of farm machinery and power units. Mechanization of crop handling to improve efficiency and reduce drudgery.
- B. Soil and water - improvement of irrigation, drainage and soil.

C. Structures and environment - design and construction of specialized buildings needed in rural areas, such as "automated" buildings for animal production and crop drying and storage.
D. Electric power and processing - use of electrical energy to improve farming operations and food processing.
E. Food engineering - design, testing and operation of final food processing systems. Canning, roasting, drying, sterilizing and freezing. Includes aquaculture - the farming of oceans and waterways.

Most ag engineers work for manufacturers of farm and household equipment, food processing operations, electric service companies and distributors of farm equipment and supplies. Some are consultants and others work for government agencies, colleges and universities.

A bachelor's degree in agricultural engineering is preferred for most jobs. About 1/4 of all graduates continue their studies and get master's degrees in ag engineering, often under a program in which industry cooperates with the college and you work in an engineering job and go to school for two years.

Factors to consider are the two drawbacks which include salary and status. Ag engineers' pay in some fields of employment tends to be on the low side when compared with other types of engineers, but they have not experienced the massive layoffs that have plagued

How long and what is a "national emergency"? Since the first World War, U.S. Presidents have repeatedly requested and obtained broad authority to conduct national affairs in times of emergency. Originally these requests were limited to powers specifically required in wartime, but later they were expanded under the New Deal and during undeclared wars such as the Korean conflict.

Today national emergency Presidential powers include significant areas of military and economic policy. Indeed, these emergency powers include significant areas of military and economic policy. Indeed, these emergency powers include the right to seize property, commodities, and all means of transportation, the power to call up massive reserve forces and to institute martial law, and the right to regulate all private enterprise. And in most cases, the President may exercise such authority at his discretion and without effective oversight by Congress. In fact, today there are 470 provisions of law which permit the President to act without specific congressional approval in times of national emergency. In addition, there are four states of emergency - dating from 1933 - that have never been terminated. They are: President Roosevelt's 1933 proclamation on the economic effects of the Depression, President Truman's proclamation on the North Korean invasion of South Korea in 1950, and President Nixon's proclamations on the 1970 national postal strike and the 1971 international monetary crisis.

Well, at best the situation is absurd and at worst an infringement on our personal rights. The solution is legislation which terminates these existing states of emergency and establishes a procedure for the future. H.R. 3883 states that all powers and authorities de-

Open Letter To Chipman Parents

Dear Parents,

As usual seventh grade students at the Chipman Junior School will be attending guidance classes during the first semester of the school year. I shall meet with each section once a week in a classroom out in the brick building behind the gym. In addition to providing for the discussion of matters of special concern to seventh grade students, these classes accomplish two other purposes: (1) They provide an opportunity for all students to get to know the guidance counselor; and (2) they provide a group setting in which the counselor may observe how the students react to each other. Both of the last two things can be helpful to the counselor in gaining a more complete understanding of each student and in increasing her chances of being able to help a teacher who may be concerned about a particular child.

Students from three elementary schools will be coming to a new place to learn; so it is not surprising that the first lesson will be centered around ways of getting acquainted, such as round robin introductions. In addition to this, we will be talking about the positive and negative "strokes" that we are always giving to the people we come in contact with. We have all noticed that some people seem to get along with almost everybody (including their own family members) most of the time, while other people seem to have trouble getting along with anybody anytime. Many times we have wondered why this is true. Some psychologists think it could be because the first group have developed a habit of giving positive "strokes", while the second group, without realizing it, are continually giving negative "strokes". Further, the psychologists say that everybody needs "strokes" so badly that if they don't get positive ones, they will even try to get negative ones. I hope you will ask your child about these "strokes".

The class assignment will be to do the following things:

1. To be able to name at least half of his (or her) classmates.
2. To be ready to give at least three examples of positive strokes.
3. To be ready to give three examples of negative strokes.
4. To practice giving positive strokes both at home and at school.

If you have any suggestions for improving our classroom activities, please let me know. I shall also be most anxious to know whether you have observed more positive strokes and fewer unpleasantnesses among the children in your home lately.

Sincerely,
Sarah S. Webb

TOWN AND COUNTRY TOPICS

Each year Delaware home gardeners are plagued by injury to their white potatoes by the potato tuberworm.

The injury shows up in stored potatoes as unsightly feeding tunnels filled with excrement throughout the flesh of the tubers and, consequently, the tubers become unfit for food.

The potato tuberworm is the larva or immature stage of a gray moth not over one-fourth inch long. It has small dark brown or black markings on the wings. The female moth lays her pearly-white eggs on the leaves and stems of the plants or in the eyes of exposed tubers in the field or in storage.

continue to breed and be a pest throughout the winter. In the field it overwinters as a larva or pupa in the soil. The life cycle may be as short as two weeks in the summer or as long as 7 months in the winter.

The full grown larva of the potato tuberworm is about one-half inch long. Its head is brown and its pinkish green or white body sometimes has a reddish-purple band down the back. Protective measures in controlling the potato tuberworm include the following:

- 1. Planting only seed pieces that are not infested. 2. Cultivating so as to hill the soil against the plants - keeping at least two inches of soil over the developing tubers. 3. Spray potatoes weekly during the growing season using recommended insecticides. 4. Harvesting as soon as the crop is mature. During harvest do not leave the dug potatoes in the field overnight and do not cover piles of potatoes with potato tops.

5. Destroy all culled or infested potatoes as soon as possible.

6. Store tubers at temperature below 52 degrees if possible and practical. Use either new or thoroughly cleaned bags or baskets when storing.

7. Clean and Spray the storage areas with a 5 percent methoxychlor (marrate) spray a week before storing potatoes (use 1 3/4 pints of the 25 percent liquid material or 2 1/2 cups of the 50 percent w. p. per gallon of spray solution).

8. Seed potatoes being stored may be treated with a 5 percent methoxychlor dust at the rate of 2 oz. per 100 lbs. of potatoes. However, Do not use this treatment directly on potatoes to be eaten by humans or animals.

Another part of 4-H week is the window display contest. 4-H clubs throughout the county will be placing window displays in various store windows. These also help tell the 4-H story to our communities. These will be placed in the windows on Sat., Oct. 4th, and remain there until Oct. 11th.

Club meetings for next week are: Lord Baltimore on Monday; State Line on Tuesday; Bridgeville Handy Helpers and Shawnee on Wednesday and Dublin Hill on Thursday.

Last chance for garden clean up - gardens are less colorful as summer wanes - and your enthusiasm for garden chores may be waning, too. You may not feel much like rolling up your sleeves and setting to work, but now is your chance for a final clean-up in the flower garden before fall sets in.

A good clean-up job now will greatly improve the appearance of your garden for the nice days we still have ahead of us. And it will also get rid of those sources of overwintering disease and insect pests so they don't return to plague next year's garden.

Here are some of the chores that await you in these last days of September.

First of all, remove all dead foliage and flower stalks. Cut back and shape plants. Dead flower stalks are often easier to pull than to cut. Then be sure to get rid of all collected refuse. Even composting doesn't always kill disease organisms. And don't overlook weeds that are in the garden now. Fall is the time that many annual weeds produce their seeds for next year. Remove seed-producing weeds now to save yourself a lot of pulling next spring and summer.

September is an excellent month to transplant and divide many spring and early summer flowering perennials. Peonies are best divided and transplanted now. It's also your last chance to divide iris without sacrificing next year's blooms. Day lilies can be divided now and transplanted, too.

Pinks, allsium, veronics, coral bells and a host of other perennials planted or transplanted now will establish themselves this fall and can then grow uninterrupted.

ed in the spring. This means you'll get better blooms from them then.

September is an excellent time to gather up chance seedlings that have volunteered in your flower garden. Plants like foxglove, columbine, and coreopsis often self-sow. Their seedlings can be dug and planted in an overwintering frame or a protected area next to the foundation of your house. Come spring they can be set out in their permanent location - and they may bloom the same year.

The last fertilizer should have been applied to roses in late August. But don't neglect to spray roses in September if you have been spraying all summer. Diseases that develop in September can overwinter and serve as sources of infection next year.

September is the last month you can plant or transplant broad leaf evergreens. Hollies, azaleas and rhododendrons planted this month still have a chance to become established before freezing weather sets in. Later in the season they can be mulched for added protection.

Needle evergreens such as yews, junipers and arborvitae can be planted now or later. But again, early planting gives them the best chance to become acclimated before winter.

And finally, if you're planning to order spring flowering bulbs like tulips, daffodils and crocus through the mail, don't delay getting your order in. If you order now you'll still receive the bulbs in time to plant. The same applies to lilies. Lilies are much better planted in the fall than in the spring. One note of caution - when your bulbs and lilies arrive, don't delay getting them into the ground.

Tractor

(continued from page 1) that could be used to specify equipment, time requirements and costs for various tillage practices on local soils. The data bank, combined with a computer program, could help farmers determine the most efficient tractor and machinery combinations for desired cropping practices. It would also permit them to figure in the cost of production when deciding which crops to plant.

It's too soon to draw any conclusions from the data collected so far, but researchers have made several observations. For one thing, the ratio of machine horsepower to takeoff horsepower has been lower than expected. This may be because the equipment and the tractor have not been properly matched. The dual wheel option is being studied to see how it affects this ratio. The kind of readouts they're getting notes Collins, make it possible to spot and correct such equipment mismatches.

The engineers are also finding that the unit draft required to pull the disk, contrary to some predictions, appears to increase with speed, while tillage depth decreases. In other words, the faster you go, the more power it takes to do the job. The engineer suspects that soil type may have something to do with this.

Finally, the unit draft for the moldboard plow appears to increase with speed. The greater the speed, the more power it takes because of the greater tendency of the plow to throw soil.

Collins, who teaches agricultural engineering at the University, says the idea for the instrumented tractor evolved out of classroom situations in which students with practical experience on the farm were questioning textbook machinery performance assumptions based on farming conditions in other parts of the country. Farmers are also asking questions about machinery and tractor options that require a local data base. With the super tractor, they can develop information that's much more relevant to Delmarva.

It Seams To Me

by Janet Reed

Smitten with stripes. Stripes are so popular in fall fashions that you'll hardly be able to avoid them. Stripes come in all sizes and types - from bold to pin stripes; horizontal; muted ombre tones, printed with designs or bold distinct colors. So there are stripes for everyone.

Stripes are fun to sew but you need to do some preplanning. Probably no other fabric can so readily label you as sophisticated seamstress or rank amateur.

First of all, forget all the old rules that told you vertical stripes make you look taller and horizontal stripes shorten your height. This is not necessarily true. It's a matter of spacing and size and color contrast, how the garment is made and your own coloring. Some horizontal stripes can seem to carry the eye upward and actually make you appear taller. Hold the fabric up to you before a mirror in the store to get an idea of how it looks on you.

Diagonal stripes or a long diagonal probably are most heightening, but this too can vary with size and spacing. If you prefer you can cut a horizontal or vertical stripe on the bias for a diagonal effect. Or if your garment style has a center seam, some fabrics can be cut to match in a chevron design at this seam line. Takes some planning though.

Stripes offer all kinds of possibilities for self trim. Select one of the stripes and use it in opposite direction for trim on collar or front opening or cuff or belt or wherever. Stripes cut on the bias also provide an interesting trim.

Stripes of even spacing may be a bit monotonous, so break up the even spaces with machine embroidery or embroidered braid in areas of emphasis. Tucks are in fashion now. Tuck out one of the stripes in the bodice and allow the fullness to hang free in the skirt.

Line up patch pockets to match exactly unless you are using the pocket as trim. Pockets can be cut with stripes in opposite direction, on the bias, seamed in a chevron or with four seams so stripes form a square design as they are matched. Lots of other ideas will come to you as you study your fabric. Each fabric is different. That's the fun of planning striped fabrics.

Start noticing ready-to-wear or designs in magazines and begin a folder of ideas to start your thinking. Designing your own garment around your fabric is satisfying to your creative instincts.

Milford Nursing

The last year of study toward the certification as graduate nurse started last week for 28 senior students at the School of Nursing of Milford Memorial Hospital. It is incongruous that the Class of '76 is the largest in the school's 50 year history as the three-year diploma program course will cease to exist when these young women graduate.

"The closing of the school at Milford Memorial Hospital is typical of a national trend in nursing education," said Joseph B. Ahlschier, president. "There are many factors contributing to this development. One is the climbing costs of providing qualified instructors, housing, meals and all the other elements that go into the education of the student. Another is the growing trend for a college education for nurse certification. This movement started some years ago and has resulted in the closing of many hospital nursing schools. The general prediction for the future is that all nurse education will be conducted at a college or university level, with clinical work being done in affiliated hospitals. Milford Memorial Hospital is affiliating with the Sussex County campus of Delaware Technical and Community College to provide the clinical facilities for its student nurses."

son and Pamela Sandstrum, Wilmington; Connie Smack and Shelly Ann Frazier, Felton; Dawn Hill, Seaford; Mackie Holt, Ocean View; Earlynne Isaacs, Ellendale; Wendy Sue March, Rehoboth Beach; Ethel Monhollan, Wyoming; Karen Wilson and Melinda Banks, Milford; (from Maryland) Patricia Blanchard, Perryville; Jo Ann Murray, Chesapeake City and Donna Jean Werner, Denton.

Although there has been a great deal of talk and publicity that reflected unfavorably on the City and on these members of the Police Force, these officers have exhibited the highest caliber of behavior and professionalism. They did not allow themselves to be drawn into a discussion over the matter, instead waiting until the hearings and the duly appointed trial to make their proper and well-documented testimonies.

I, therefore, extend this commendation to the members of the Harrington Police Force for their prompt action and proper handling of the matter at the Service Station.

The thanks and appreciation of the Mayor, Council and citizens of the community are hereby extended to Chief Edward Layton and Officers William Jopp and Steven Dellinger.

Bill Neal to Predict Winner Of Delaware "500"

What is believed to be a first in Delaware sports history will take place at Dover Downs International Speedway this weekend when Lansford, Pa., parame-ntalist, Bill Neal will predict the winner of Sunday's Delaware 500.

As if this task isn't enough for Neal, who holds a psychology degree from Penn State University, he will additionally be blindfolded before the start of the Delaware 500 on Sunday and then he will be turned loose to find a hidden Purolator pace car provided specifically for the event. Once he finds the car, he will get in, start it up and drive around the high banked Dover Downs superspeedway while still blindfolded.

While performing a similar feat last June at Pocono International Raceway, Neal reached a speed of 100 mph during his blindfolded drive and he was accompanied by an Associated Press photographer who photographed the speedometer at 100 mph.

Billing himself as "The Astonishing Neal," the 27-year-old parame-ntalist, Neal had predicted the outcome of Evel Knievel's Snake River jump with 99.9% accuracy. A week before the jump Neal handed a sealed envelope over to the Lions Club in Jim Thorpe, Pa., which in turn made arrangements for storage of the envelope in the vault of a local bank.

On the day following the unsuccessful Knievel jump, the envelope was opened and Neal's prediction of failure was accurate right down to the detail of the parachute being deployed almost immediately. Neal said that the rocket cycle will float to the bottom of the canyon and will not enter the water. He also predicted facial and hand injuries for Knievel, but was wrong only in that he also included some internal chest injuries.

The list of Neal's accomplishments goes on and on: He doesn't really understand how he does all of it. It all started when he was five. "I told my brother that I could guess how much money he had in his pocket," Neal said, "I said 58 cents and he had 58 cents. Since then I've been developing and developing."

Neal's notoriety has been growing rapidly of late - and understandably so. He recently completed taping for the Mike Douglas Show which will be aired in late September and his appearance in Sunday's activities at Dover Downs has attracted coverage by a national publication.

Pre-race activities for the Delaware 500 will get underway at 9:45 a.m. on Sunday.

Qualifying For Delaware 500 Starts Sept. 13

STP's Richard Petty is known for many things and winning NASCAR Winston Cup races is probably his most distinguishable trait. On the NASCAR circuit and especially at Dover, Petty often takes the high groove around the speedway and can be seen motoring along at 150 mph with his right side fenders no more than an inch away from the outside wall. This leaves little room for error and when asked about this unique driving technique he said, "Everybody has their own little knack of doing things and for some reason that's just the way I drive a race car and that's the way Dale (Inman) and Maurice (Petty) set the car up. It's probably a little bit looser suspension-wise than most other cars," Petty continued, "but I like it and I can get around the race-track pretty good most of the time. It's just a combination we've learned to do over a lot of years. Other boys have tried it, but maybe they just didn't have the patience to go three or four years and really learn how to drive that way. It's easy to understand why Petty likes that style of driving. He has four victories at Dover Downs and he was a decisive, 3-lap victor in last year's Delaware 500 where he led an incredible 491 laps out of a possible 500. Petty has led more total laps at Dover Downs (1420) than any other driver in history and with 5004 completed laps out of a possible 5050 laps at Dover, his running percentage is 99.1% over eleven races. In the nine 500-mile events conducted at Dover Downs, he has won $69,265, tops among all Grand National drivers and his average purse of $7696.11 at Dover is second only to David Pearson's average of $11,100. (Pearson has competed in only six 500 mile events at Dover Downs.) Qualifying for the Delaware 500 will begin at 11 a.m. on Saturday, September 13, followed by the Kodak Camera Day that afternoon and the Del Reeves Country Music Show Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. Pre-race activities will get underway at 9:45 a.m. on Sunday and the 5th annual Delaware 500 will start promptly at 12:05 p.m.

Sudden Storm Washes Out Main Events

A sudden thunderstorm downpour during the running of the motorcycle heat races at Lincoln Speedway washed out the main events of the Saturday night racing card - including the debut of 10-speed bicycle racing at the 1/4 mile dirt oval. Though there were a limited number of entrants in the lineup for the inaugural bike racing card, most of the famous makes of racing bikes were represented, such as Fuji, Raleigh, Gitane, Atala, Miyata, Browning, plus a custom built machine. The riders ranged in age from 14 to 23 years old. During practice sessions, spectators had an opportunity to study the form and speed of the riders, who on occasion "turned on" for a super swift lap or two. The sudden storm struck minutes before the start of the bicycle main event, sending both spectators and competitors scurrying for shelter. The entire racing card of motorcycle and bicycle racing has been rescheduled for Saturday, September 13. Bill Dodge, Rehoboth Beach, an entrant in the inaugural race and the man who made it all possible thanks to his testing of the track prior to the scheduling of the 10-speed events commented, "Most of the fellows here tonight will return home and spread the word that Lincoln is the place to race - you'll see a much larger field next week for the 10-speed races." Many young teenagers are of the opinion they are not allowed to enter the 10-speed races - not so; anyone over the age of 11 years and under 18 may, with the consent of a parent or guardian (who must sign a consent and release form at the track prior to the entry of the young competitor) may compete. Sign in booth opens at 4 p.m. on race days. However, you must sign in before 6:30 p.m.

For further information regarding racing at Lincoln Speedway, call 422-3384 at any time - 24 hours a day.

Superstitious Race Drivers

There has been a lot of discussion around racing circles recently about superstition among race drivers. Some drivers (and crew members) say they are definitely superstitious while others totally disregard the subject entirely. Most drivers however fall into the middle of this spectrum and state that while they are not really superstitious, they don't take any unnecessary chances like wearing green or eating peanuts around a race car. Benny Parsons, who will be bringing his Kings Row Fireplace Chevy to compete in Sunday's Delaware "500" NASCAR Winston Cup race at Dover Downs International Speedway, falls into this middle category, but leans toward the more superstitious side of the road. When asked if he was superstitious, Benny related a story about his incredible victory in this year's Daytona "500". "yes, I'm superstitious to an extent," he said. "You know you have to wonder about some things that happen. For instance, before the Daytona "500" the girl who scores me, a little girl from Richmond, her name is Audrey, sent someone down to me before the race with some love beads and a message that maybe they would bring me some luck. So, I just stuck them in my pocket and really never gave it another thought. Then after the race when I was taking off my uniform, I reached in my pocket and found the love beads, so I immediately put them away and I carry them with me now. I don't really know that it does me any good, but it's just one of those things that brings back fond memories and they're just something I like to have around." Benny had his beads with him at Dover last May and they almost did the trick for him in the Mason-Dixon

"500" which he led 7 different times for a total of 60 laps. He staged an exciting mid-race duel with Purlator's David Pearson which was the highlight of the race, but possibly Pearson had something stronger going for him as Benny's engine gave out while he was leading the field on lap 359. Benny will be back for another try at a Dover victory this Sunday and he said that he still will have his beads tucked away in his pocket. Qualifying for the Delaware "500" will begin at 11 a.m. on Saturday with the Kodak Camera Day event following the second qualifying and practice session in the afternoon. At 7:30 p.m. Saturday night will be the Del Reeves Country Music Show. Pre-race activities for the Delaware "500" will get underway at 9:45 a.m. on Sunday and the 5th annual Delaware "500" will begin at 12:05 p.m.

Clubs to Support Bob Pickell

New Jersey modified star, Bob Pickell will have an army of fans and supporters on hand to cheer him on when he competes in the September 14th Delaware 500 NASCAR Winston Cup race at Dover Downs International Speedway. Pickell, by virtue of his second place finish to Kenny Brightbill in Dover's "Big Chance" contest last spring, will be driving the Junie Donlavey prepared Truxmore Ford in the Delaware "500" - the same car Brightbill piloted to a 7th place finish in last May's Mason-Dixon "500". As was the case in that race, world famous engine builder, Ralph Moody will be the crew chief on the car. Modified fans from all over have gotten behind Pickell to support him in his Delaware "500" quest and to date at least six major fan clubs have committed themselves to be on hand for the race to cheer him on. Leading the list of fan clubs is of course the Bob Pickell Fan Club, who worked very hard last spring gathering votes for their man in the Big Chance Contest. The Pickell Fan Club will lead the special portion of the pre-race pace car parade set aside for supporters of the Flemington hero. Also on hand for the parade and to lend support will be the Carl Van Horn Fan Club from Verplanck, New York. Van Horn was the Big Chance winner in the Purlator "500" at Pocono last August; the Metropolitan Auto Racing Fans Club from the Washington, D.C. area; the Checkered Flag Fan Club from Lancaster, Pa; and the Pit Stop Fan Club from Linwood, N.J. Additionally, many chapters of the Richard Petty Fan Club from different states have indicated that they will support Pickell, unless of course, their man is in contention; and the many Corvette clubs, headed by Delaware's first state Corvette club, have thrown their backing behind Pickell. The cumulative effect of all of this will be that Bob Pickell will have the strongest following of any Big Chance driver in Dover's history and probably will have more people rooting for him than many of the "regulars" on the NASCAR circuit. Qualifying for the Delaware "500" will begin at 11:00 a.m. on Saturday, September 13th followed by the Kodak Camera Day event that afternoon and the Del Reeves Country Music Show that evening at 7:30 p.m. The race day activities and pace car parade will begin at 9:45 a.m. on Sunday, September 14th with the 5th annual Delaware "500" getting the green flag at 12:05 p.m.

Caesar Rodney Preparing For Concord Opener
 Attempting to defend their soccer championship won last season, the Caesar Rodney High School soccer team is preparing for their opening game against Concord, the team who knocked them off in the state tournament last season.

Caesar Rodney Preparing For Concord Opener
 The nucleus for the team which completed a 9-0-1 record last season will be made up of five players who were on the all-conference team last season. These five players are goal tender Greg Harris, midfielder Chris Hannon, midfielder Max Morris, striker Mike Tolson, and attacker Craig Ellissen. Coach Stith expects his toughest competition during the season to come from Millford, Cape Henlopen and a greatly improved Lake Forest squad. Not only do the Riders have many candidates to choose from this season but junior varsity coach Al Rahbun has over 40 ninth and tenth graders out for soccer. This season Coach Stith expects fewer one-sided scores as the conference is beginning to balance out. Also spectator interest should pick up as several schools will be playing many of their contests at night.

CR Girls Practice For Hockey Opener
 The Caesar Rodney hockey team is currently practicing for their first game September 22, against Dover Air.
 Although the team's coach Miss Judy Holland was reluctant to take time out from the practice session to talk she did manage to say that she has nine returning so they do have some experience. But as Miss Holland put it, "You never know what your competition will be."

Lake Forest Eleven Gets New Head Coach

The squad's first game in their attempt to better last season's 2-8 record, the wins coming against Dover Air and Cape Henlopen will be Friday night, September 12, at Indian River. This will be the unveiling of the Spartans new wing-T offense. This, along with the fact that a new defensive system is also being installed, could mean a slow start for the Spartans but by the middle of the year the team should be highly competitive.

Fleming, who has had previous coaching experience all as an assistant coach, said he applied for the job as the Lake Forest head coach for mainly two reasons. He wanted to be a head coach and wanted to move away from New Castle. He has spent the past ten years as an assistant coach, the past six under great coach Mary Apostolico from Dickinson. He was also the starting safety for two years at Kutztown State College. Assisting Coach Fleming this season will be Fred Brunson who will work with the ninth grade team; Buck Starkey, who will work with the ninth grade team; Bill Falasco, who will work with the linebackers and ends; Chester Scott, who will work with the offensive and defensive backs; Tom Mackey, who will work with the offensive and defensive lines; and Ken Tribbitt, who will work primarily with the ninth graders.

Just to give an indication of how hard the team has worked for the opening season, here is the schedule they usually followed in their workouts before school started. The team was to start at 7 a.m. and be dressed and ready to go at the blackboard by 7:30. They then went out to the field and practiced from 8 until 10. From 10:15 until 10:45 the team went inside and lifted weights. Then from 11 until 11:30 the team

So far players who figure to be starting for the team are: seniors Jeff Chambers at offensive and defensive tackle, Wayne Voshell at offensive and defensive end, Mike McGinnis at offensive tackle or center, and Tony Smith at offensive end. As far as the starting quarterback berth is concerned it is still being hotly contested among Lester Blades, Billy Moore and Neal Smith. All three quarterback candidates have previous experience in that position as freshmen, sophomores and junior. In fact, Smith started last season as the number one quarterback before he was felled in the first game of the season with a separated shoulder. Following his injury last season, Blades took over as the number one quarterback and remained in that position for the remainder of the 2-8 season. Moore quarterbacked the undefeated freshman team last season and is only a sophomore while Smith and Blades are both seniors.

On defense, besides Voshell and Chambers who have already been mentioned as both offensive and defensive starters, Leon Shockley will probably be starting at the middle guard position where he excelled last season. Also Moore and John Clark have been impressive in practices and the scrimmage so far. In the scrimmage against Cape Henlopen, the weakest part of the defense was the defensive backfield that showed considerable weakness against the pass but since the secondary had not been worked on it was not a cause for great concern.

This season the Lake Forest football team will be under the direction of a new head coach in James Fleming.

The team, which has been practicing since August 22, still has several positions up for grabs as Fleming stated, "No one has been overly impressive in the offensive backfield."

ate lunch. At noon it was back to the field for another hour of practice. From 2 to 3 p.m. it was work at the blackboard, the first half-hour dedicated to group work and the second half to the entire team. Then to finish the long day up, it was two more hours of practice from 3:30 to 5:30.

Now that school has begun, the team will be practicing daily after school until Thursday when they will practice under the lights and go through the final details for Friday's opening game.

Spartans Face '75 Cross-Country Schedule

One of the most interesting and challenging cross country schedules faced by a Delaware school will be the 1975 slate of Jim Blades ambitious Lake Forest Spartans.

The locals have two scrimmages with upstate powers, Salesianum and Glasgow, nine Henlopen Conference dual meets plus seven multi-team invitations, which will see the locals competing in Salisbury, Wilmington, Philadelphia and New York, plus the as yet undetermined site of the Delaware state meet.

Lake Forest was undefeated in dual meets last fall, won the Henlopen and state championships, plus the Lake Forest invitational. The Spartans were nosed out of first place in the three-state Salisbury State College invitational by Surratsville, Md., a powerful District of Columbia suburban team.

After a strong showing in the Salesianum invitational against Philadelphia schools, the Spartans were among the top teams in a New York City race in Van Cortlandt Park, defeating some 35 teams from seven or eight eastern states.

Coach Blades does not push hard for a large harrier turnout until school is in session. Yet 21 boys, most of them varsity runners, have been working out.

Sophomore Dan Parker, who led Lake Forest to its second straight state title, is leading the charge, closely pursued by Chris Palmisano. Some promising new young runners are present in the more candidates are expected.

Bill Mitchell may be number one at Chipman School. After school starts several runners are present in the Canterbury trio of Lester Richter and twins Michael and Mitchell Keer.

New Head Coach To Lead Riders

The Caesar Rodney Riders under the direction of new head coach Joe Purzycki are looking forward to the upcoming season despite the fact that they lost ten starters from last year's squad.

Two of the players gone from last year's squad are Kevin Howard, who played quarterback and Dennis Deakins, who played defensive tackle. Besides their athletic ability which will be missed, the spirit which they were able to instill into the team will also be missed.

Mr. Purzycki will be looking for two such players from approximately 50 candidates who came out for the team. Among the key people will be fullback Joe Hahn, fullback Joe Shockley, tackle Mike McKome, tight end Mike Cox and split end Lance Sparks. To replace Howard at quarterback will be tough but so far the front runner is Vaughn Courtney who tossed for one touchdown in the Riders' scrimmage against St. Elizabeth. This is one of the big weaknesses at Caesar Rodney, the fact that they are inexperienced at key positions. If Courtney can do even a little accurate passing and execute the running plays, the talented backs will be a big plus for the Riders.

Last season the Riders had a 5-4-1 record under Jim Powell. Before coming to the Riders, Coach Purzycki was the head mentor at Woodbridge High School and prior to that was a star performer for the University of Delaware.

stars like Rodney Wyatt (first team all-conference last season), Ed Hallock, Martin McDougal, Alan Welch, Tim Sylvester, Larry Lapetina and James Stein, the team has many returning faces along with new faces with the ability to take up the slack left by the graduated players.

Heading the list of returning players are goalie Bill Luff and left wing Kevin Peck, both of whom gained honorable mention on the all-conference team, last year as juniors. Other returning players who will help the team in their quest for an improved record are Paul Miller, Jim Callaway, and Rob Young.

New Players out for the team who figure to get much playing time are Bill Jackson, Steve Lane, Kevin Rodney. Its main purpose was to let high school players play against a better organized team.

Luff also feels that the team's spirit has greatly improved which could be a major factor. Coaches for the team are Dave Buck and Charles Stickle. The team's first game is against William Penn on September 20. It will be held at the football field at W. T. Chipman School in Harrington.

Coach Dyal Hopes for Improvement

The Lake Forest hockey team is currently preparing for their tough opening back to back games September 23 and 24 against Delmar and Dover Air respectively. Although the girls, who are coached by Miss Pat Dyal and Mrs. Barbara Dougherty, had a poor 1-10 record last season, but they have a good returning nucleus to begin this season with. Seniors returning from last season are: Brenda Koffert, Sherry Morris, Barbara Richter, while junior Cindy Loper and sophomore Karen Singleton will also be a big help. Other seniors out for the team this year are Sheri Swain and Anna Jackson. Miss Dyal has hopes of bettering last season's record and with six returning starters back and the highest turnout ever for the team of 36 the prospects for the team is good. The team has been practicing mainly on individual skills. As far as a goalie is concerned, everyone on the team is trying out for it. Prior to the opening back to back games the girls will have had a scrimmage against Woodbridge on Tuesday.

Foster Named Head Coach At Woodbridge

One of them was Jim Weal, probably the fastest back in Delaware history, an all-bridge High and will take over the head coach slot.

Joe Puzeycki, a former University of Delaware player, led the Blue Raiders back to grid respectability, resulting in an offer to take over as head man at Caesar Rodney.

Woodbridge lost eight men by graduation, a comparatively small number, but some of them were high quality performers.

Woodbridge will be coached by Jim Weal, a former Delaware football player who has coached at the University of Delaware and at the University of Maryland. Bucs Face Uphill Battle

In high school sports winning teams are often top heavy with seniors, necessitating much rebuilding the following year. Also, standard odds run in cycles and may represent the best talent to come along in years. Then, too, it may be several more years before the pendulum swings back.

Such a situation may exist for Coach Vern Welch and his Milford Buccaneer 11. The Bucs won the Henlopen Conference football championship in 1974 with a perfect 10-0 log. Unfortunately, more than 20 grad-ers graduated, leaving only five key men, around which to build the 1975 team.

A lone offensive returner is center Allen Pearce. Defensive people are coming back in back Dave Sharp, linebackers Dwayne Sharp and Jamie Young, plus end Linwood Bove.

Between 80 and 90 candidates are vying for positions. The inexperienced Bucs must get a lot of help from former junior

Milford Hockey Team Loses Five Players

Jan Ellis' Milford High Field hockey team had a fine campaign last autumn winning eight games losing two and tying two. Five girls were lost from that squad in Tanya Fields, Kim Lynch, Maria Rizo, Susan Aplt, and Kim Daniels.

Aplt and Daniels, forwards, split 22 goals evenly and will be missed. Dorrell Smith and Shirley Washington made All-Henlopen Conference and will lead the lady Bucs this time.

Other candidates are: Teresa Kugehmann, Lisa Yoshell, Sandy Klein, Janet Littleton, Joan Allen, Joan Aplt, Debbie McGinnis, Judy Hoeh, Terry McKee, Diane Dziwura, Beth Eisenbrey, Janine Roberts, Ann Fisher, Peggy Curtin, Jennifer Grab, Shirley Wilkins, Linda Douthin, Marissa Betts, Cindy Daino, Judy Diogo, Glenda Green, Kim Shockey, Terry Reed, Libby Virden.

Milford's coach, Bob Mitchell, led the Bucs to a 10-4-1 record in 1974. His charges again played in the state tournament finishing second. With the advent of a journey play at the state level in 1971, Milford had a new automatic goal each autumn, to make the tournament roster. So far they've played in each one.

Mitchell lost eight starters by graduation including four all-state performers, Tom Adams and Russ Taylor, were first team picks, while Mark Plummer and Jack Wanzer were chosen on the second team. Taylor and Wanzer will join ex-Buc standout Bobby

Milford Bucs Look Toward 1975 Soccer Season

Milford and Seaford were the first two high schools to reinstate the sport of soccer in lower Delaware. Harrington, Felton and Greenwood High had dropped the sport in the early fifties, the last schools in Kent and Sussex Counties to do so.

Along about 1965, Milford and Seaford started teams and were forced to travel long distances (compared to other sports) scheduling Maryland and New Castle County teams.

Milford, as could be expected of a pioneer, is still strong, but Seaford is now listed among the also-rans. Seven Henlopen schools now field soccer teams, thus assuring a full schedule with a minimum of travel.
