Bicentennial Heritage

Ed. Note: The Bicentennial Heritage speech was submitted by Joel Topper, winner of the Greenwood VFW Post's Voice of Democracy contest held recently. Topper won first place in the contest at Greenwood and third in the district competition. We thought it deserved to be shared with our readers as we approach the eve of the Nation's Bicentennial.

How many of us today would provoke a greater, more powerful enemy to gain a principle? Who among us would give his life to preserve this principle from which he may not benefit? I'll wager that not many a man today would. Yet, the early Americans, the patriots fought and died to entrust us with the freedoms that we so readily take for granted today. Not only were they trying to free this young, new nation from tyranny, but they were also dreaming of us, America's future. Through these strong men and women we have received our heritage, a heritage that has lasted almost two hundred years.

With the founding of our country, the great leaders of the time came together and assembled a fabulous piece of writing called the Declaration of Independence. This declaration reinforced the ideals for which the early Americans stood. Strength, honesty, liberty, freedom, and justice are only a few of the good, decent qualities from which America was born. Because of these ideals, we as young Americans can choose the course of our own lives. We may decide how much education we wish to obtain. We can select and work the occupation we want. We have our choice of living areas and conditions. Most important, we can live as we choose, as long as we do not infringe on another person's rights. We have been given a chance to live in a decent democratic government instead of under a tyrannical king. These ideals have been the foundation on which America has stood strong and powerful. Through these two hundred years America has developed from a young, immature nation to become a dynamic world leader. Our armies are as strong as any nation's. Our industries are unequalled, and our spirit is unmatched. The honesty, integrity, and strength of our forefathers has given us the freedoms from which America could sprout and grow. And what of tomorrow? Will these long standing ideals still shape our country? Yes, I feel that they will, as long as we live these ideals to enhance them for all future Americans.

Our forefathers bedstowed these ideals upon us by their sufferings and deaths. Now it is our turn to keep these ideals alive, by living them. I feel that the single most important thing we can do to enhance these ideals is to be good citizens. We should all learn to observe and live by our rights and freedoms, being careful not to mix the two. We must live by the laws that rule our nation today. We must show honesty and kindness towards other Americans to intensify these ideals, always realizing that for every right, we have a corresponding responsibility.

This is what the Bicentennial Heritage means to me. It means devotion to one's country. It means dedication, courage, and love. It means the freedoms which we all use today. It means our life. I believe that America will continue to prosper through its people, who thrive on the ideals for which our early American patriots died. This is our Bicentennial Heritage, and may we, as our forefathers, resolve to honor and cherish our heritage so that we too may pass it on to unborn generations.

Soil Test Prices To Rise

Starting January 1, 1976, the cost of a routine soil analysis at the University of Delaware's College of Agricultural Sciences will be $2. Dean William E. McDaniel, in announcing the change from the previous dollar fee, says the increase is necessary to offset rising costs of performing the service.

Besides the routine analysis, the cost of some other more specialized soil tests may be increased slightly. A new service, leaf mineral analysis, will also now be offered through the diagnostic laboratory. This test will be provided in conjunction with a routine soil analysis for $10. These combined tests will be of primary use to growers of commercial crops especially corn and soybeans, who are experiencing unusual plant nutrition problems.

Most Delaware farmers and home gardeners are well acquainted with the services of the diagnostic laboratory. Further information may be obtained by contacting your county extension agent in Newark, Dover or Georgetown.

Community Help Brings Trices New Home

The Elmer Trices of Greenwood, who were burned out recently, now have a mobile home. The fund set up by Rev. William Fleischauer of Greenwood has now reached the half-way mark in their goal to obtain $3,800, which the mobile home will cost.

On Friday evening the Greenwood Fire Company burned the remains of the house to the ground in order to make room for the mobile home which was delivered on Saturday. Merle Ebleton and other Mennonites through the Mennonite Disaster Service cleared the lot where the house stood on Saturday morning so that the mobile home could be set up on Saturday afternoon.

The MDS (Mennonite Disaster Service) is a nationwide service, as well as abroad, set up to render aid to people during disaster times.

Rev. Fleischauer reports that funds small and large are still coming in for the Trices. Persons may contribute to the Elmer Trice Fund at the Greenwood Trust Company. Mr. and Mrs. Trice are both in their 70's and are living on social security. Mr. Trice raises tomatoes for market in the summer.

Milford Twelve Lose Bid

A dozen Milford residents last Tuesday lost their last chance to block a $1.7 million city bond issue to finance water and sewer improvements.

The Delaware Supreme Court affirmed a Chancery Court dismissal of the taxpayers' suit, ruling general compliance with charter requirements is sufficient to justify the final result in municipal affairs.

The Milford city council began moving toward starting the sewer and water project on Oct. 8, 1974, authorizing a November 1974 bond referendum on the project.

Voters in the referendum approved the project and the expenditure, and Milford officials began negotiating with the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) for financing.

Meanwhile, the dozen residents, who lost at the polls, filed suit in Chancery Court to block the project, which was held up for several months because of the court action.

After Vice-Chancellor William Marvel dismissed the action, the city awarded the contract on the project, won approval for FmHA financing, and found itself back in court, waiting for Tuesday's Supreme Court decision.

Justice John J. McNeilly, writing the opinion, said the court considered only the question of the "statutory sufficiency of the council's resolution, published as notice to the electors of the proposal."

The taxpayers, McNeilly noted, argued that "because the resolution does not state

Homewood To Run

The Journal learned Monday that Gary Homewood of the second ward, Harrington, has filed to run for council from that ward. One other person has obtained the necessary papers from City Hall, but persons at City Hall were not sure for whom the papers were gotten.

Two council seats, those held by William Griffin and William Shaw, are to be voted upon January 13, 1976.

Filing date deadline is Monday, January 5, according to sources at City Hall.

the times of maturity and the approximate amount of taxes to be levied annually for interest and repayment, it does not comply with the (city) charter."

The charter, they argued, required details of repayment, and an affidavit from the president of the Farmers Band, A. Edwards Danforth, was submitted as testimony from "an expert financial adviser."

Managing To Stay Safe During The Holidays

Management is "using what we have in order to accomplish what we want," says Coral Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware. We can all use our knowledge and common sense to accomplish a happy, safe, and peaceful holiday.

If we are aware of our behavior patterns, work patterns, and accident patterns, and know how they are related to our time, energy, and health, we can "manage" to stay safe over the holidays. According to statistics, there are more accidents in December than in any other month of the year. There are more traffic accidents, home fires, accidents with toys, falls, and accidental poisonings. So, says Ms. Morris, examine the causes of accidents and organize yourself and your family to prevent accidents.

Some common causes of accidents are tiredness, frustration, hunger, trying to do too much in too little time, lack of thought, lack of skill, and lack of knowledge. Awareness of these can eliminate the cause of accidents. Actual changes in routine and changes in attitudes can accomplish holiday safety. As an example, if you are aware that tiredness can cause accidents, getting extra sleep over the holidays can prevent tiredness and a possible accident.

Awareness of possible frustration during busy times can help you adopt a philosophical "roll-with-the-punches" attitude. If hunger makes you edgy and accident-prone, keep prepared food available and don't skip meals. Manage your time to accomplish what needs to be done.

Don't let lack of thought cause an accident. Make your family safety conscious. Point out possible accident situations and avoid them. Know your limitations and don't ignore lack of skill and knowledge when attempting new tasks.

Don't forget: awareness can help you "manage" to stay safe during the holidays.

OSHA And The Farm

The Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) of 1970 is rapidly affecting the farming industry as well as the individual farmer. Basically, the law was designed "to assure so far as possible every working man and women in the nation safe and healthy working conditions and to preserve our human resources". This is important because it is the first national legislation of occupational safety that includes employers in agricultural production.

In the past decade, agricultural production ranked third in the number of accidents per 100,000 people working. In the same period it showed the highest accident rate increase, which was sixteen (16) percent. Because safety is not a sometime thing, the farm employer, as well as the giant corporations, is subject to provisions of the act. Such provisions should not be considered as an imposition but as the responsible thing to do and in the long run economically advantageous.

Duties

Are you unknowingly violating the act? OSHA requires a farmer employing anyone, full or part-time, in addition to members of your immediate family to display the OSHA poster, to comply with the standards applicable to agriculture and to adhere to certain record-keeping requirements. The law consequently does not apply to farmers who have only family members working for them.

All Delaware farm employers are required by law to display the OSHA poster. The poster, which is available from the Cooperative Extension Offices or the Delaware Department of Labor, explains the protections of employees under the Occupational Safety and Health Act. The poster should be displayed prominently and at the location to which employees normally report to work.

Standards There are presently five standards that apply to agriculture. Copies of these standards can be obtained from your nearest Extension Office or from the OSHA Office in Wilmington. Following is a summary of the five current standards which apply to you:

Anhydrous ammonia standard: This is basically an equipment standard that covers the design of anhydrous ammonia application equipment. The use of nurse tanks on farm vehicles and the application of anhydrous ammonia as a fertilizer are most applicable to farmers. You should ask suppliers to certify that equipment meets occupational safety and health standards set by the U.S. Department of Labor. Compliance with this standard is required when employees are using application equipment, but safety is just as important to the farmer and his family. Record Keeping Requirements.

All farm employers who employ eleven or more full or parttime employees at any one time during the previous calendar year are required to maintain three basic OSHA records: a log of job-related deaths, injuries and illnesses; a supplementary record of each incident; and an annual summary that must be posted during the month of February where employees can see it. Employers with less than eleven employees will be notified in December if they are selected to participate in the record keeping activity. If not notified to keep records for a specific calendar year, employers of less than eleven employees are not required to maintain records. Copies of the record-keeping forms and instructions on their use are available from the Extension Offices or the Delaware Department of Labor in Wilmington.

Reporting

All farmers are required to report to OSHA on two occasions: within 48 hours of a major accident on their farm that results in a fatality or in the hospitalization of five or more employees and if called upon to participate in an annual national survey. In the former, you may expedite the reporting through the Delaware Department of Labor in Wilmington by calling (302) 571-2879.

Compliance

Delaware farms may be inspected by OSHA compliance officers as a result of an employee complaint of hazardous working conditions, as the result of major accident, or as a result of being randomly selected.

If your farm is inspected and violations are cited, OSHA may issue a citation, propose penalties, and dictate periods for abatement of the hazards involved. Citations may be contested before the independent Occupational Safety and Health Review Commission. Citations must be posted at the place of violation for three days, or until the hazard is abated, whichever is earlier. This alerts employees to hazards in the area.

Greenwood

by Pat Hatfield

We have a nice report from the Hickory Ridge Congregational Methodist Church. We congratulate these fine people and the contribution they make to our community life. We quote from their bulletin: "We were so pleased with the good turn-out for our covered dish dinner Saturday evening. It was about the best one we've ever had, I believe. Just having you come share the evening in fellowship with us made our Christmas more meaningful, and we thank you all for making this possible."

A beautiful wooden cross about seven feet high was made by Tommy Jones and presented to the church. We are indeed grateful to Tommy and commend him on his fine workmanship.

You were most generous in giving to the patients at the State Home and Hospital in Smyrna. Last Wednesday the back of our station wagon was loaded down with a variety of gifts which five ladies delivered there. The personnel at the Home will distribute the gifts for Christmas, which I am sure will brighten the day for many. Thank you again and God bless each of you.

We are sorry to report that Richard Morgan is in Milford Memorial Hospital with a broken hip and a broken arm after falling while constructing a building on his farm. Please remember him in your prayers as well as the following who are in the hospital: Norval Parsons, George Short, Medford Calhoun, Frank Donovan, Ed McCauley, Roy Hamstead, Mrs. Edna Schlabach, Mrs. Beatrice Drummond, Mrs. Blanche Horner, Mrs. Donna Faulkner, and Teenie Wyatt in Peninsula General Hospital. Mrs. Catherine Hitchens returned home.

The next Bicentennial meeting is Jan. 7, at 7:30 in the Fire House vestibule.

There is still opportunity to purchase tickets for the Valley Forge bus trip on January 4. Contact Mrs. Mary Cahall or Shirley Hamstead.

The Green Thumb

S. Derby Walker, Jr.

If you selected a live Christmas tree this year, don't neglect it when the holiday season is over.

Live trees can be planted immediately after the holidays. But if the ground is too hard for planting, the tree should be maintained in a cool, protected area and kept well watered until the ground is workable.

An unheated garage or a sheltered area outside will provide adequate protection. However, make sure the ball of soil protecting the root system does not freeze and dry out the plant. You should cover the ball with some type of insulation such as straw, vermiculite, sawdust or styrofoam.

When selecting a location for planting your tree, remember it will grow 6 to 18 inches a year once it's established. Spruce, pine and other Christmas trees may reach 40 to 80 feet in height, so choose an open area where it will have room to grow. The ground should also have good drainage.

Do you plan to use this tree in a background planting, as part of windbreak, or as a screen planting? Landscape plants should have a functional purpose and not just be planted because you like that particular plant.

Planting an evergreen in the front yard for the Christmas season may be fine for a few weeks, but it may not fit into your overall landscape design. The backyard is usually a better area for live Christmas trees. Here, it can serve a specific purpose.

Over the holidays we often have candy, nuts and cookies for our guests. If you have a lot of these foods left over, they can become infested with insects. Store left-over candy and cookies in Monday the Jolly Timers practiced Christmas carols in the morning. In the afternoon the band went to the Country Rest Home in Greenwood and entertained patients there.

Tuesday the Center joined with Centers of the county in Dover and was served a Christmas dinner of turkey and fixings.

The entertainment consisted of a magician. He was strapped in a straight jacket and released himself in less than a minute. There was also dancing and acting acts together with a group from one of the centers who did square dancing. Another group sang carols.

Wednesday, Christmas eve George Goodge was scheduled to show films of Christmas cheer. However there were not enough present so the film will shown at a later date.

Mrs. Margaret Kirby played several Christmas carols and the group sang.

Thursday was Christmas, the birthday of our Saviour, Jesus, who later died on the cross that the sins of men would be forgiven.

On this day members of the Center wish and hope everyone has had a Merry Christmas with many, many more to come.

Friday the Center was closed. There was no bowling.

The spotlight this week falls on a member who has been responsible for keeping the Center operating since it started - the Board Members, the presidents, the supervisors, the officers and the site managers, past and present. Our hats come off to all of you, and may your rewards be answered when your work is done here on earth. May the future years be more blessed to one and all in the years to come.

If you leave packages of nuts, cookies or candy around without proper storage within a couple of months you may find little worms, beetles or moths crawling on your wall. Once you get these storage pests in the house it takes a couple of months to get rid of them. Avoid the problem by properly storing these products right after the holidays.

"instead of it being 1 out of every 4, it will be 4 out of every 4"

With the end of the year upon us, taxpayers of this country look to the new year with hope that a belated Christmas gift in the form of tax relief will be coming their way.

The biggest culprit, when it comes to spending, inflation and the like, is the federal government. Statistics show today that 1 out of every 4 working persons in this country works for the federal government. What these stats don't show is how many in the working class are needed working and producing to support each government worker. It's plenty!!

Salaries of government workers over the years have risen. There has never been a period when there was a reduction in government wages... they might have been frozen for awhile, but never reduced. As government salaries rise, the so-called civilian wages are required in a measure to keep up. Correspondingly this keeps the fires of inflation raging. As the wages rise... so does everything else, and as a result, the worker has far less. In all government cases, the government wages are examples of deficit spending. A good example of this is when Franklin D. Roosevelt and others set up the social security system... and later the welfare department... it was not their intent or desire for those who run those agencies to make thirty or forty thousand dollars... or more... a year or in the alternative to give raises to those people who work there when each year that agency (and others too) go in the financial hole. No private enterprise could do it. Why should the government be so privileged? What public law, for instance allows that government officials shall drive chauffeured limousines. None... there are none on record.

All government agencies should operate on the principles of private enterprise and many government agencies should in fact be run by private enterprise. We would have a better country for it... and something with which to lead the world.

Let's hope that our leaders will take the initiative this next year to bring about these tax changes so vitally needed for their "constituents". Maybe our leaders should start with a federal employee... which includes them as well... salary cut. You know 200 years ago we are taught that independence was fought over taxes... "taxation without representation". In a measure that is true. It was a so-called nuisance tax. A tax put on "legal papers" and papers. It affected both lawyers and journalists initially. The mother country was experiencing hard times, and had to have some revenue. England... up until this point... was not receiving any taxes whatsoever from the colonies. If England had taxed any other lot than journalists and lawyers, we might be under "British oppression" today. The nuisance tax did not amount to that much, but it caught on... and soon... very soon independence was won.

We need taxes to be sure... but the situation we find ourselves in today was never intended by our forefathers in government during the colonial days... let alone in recent history.

Let's do something out it... or instead of it being "1 out of every 4"... it will be "four out of every four" working for government."

FROM THE FRYING PAN...

January 9 is the proclaimed (via City Charter) date for the annual public meeting for the City of Harrington. It is presumed that at this time citizens gather at a meeting spot (upstairs in the fire house due to a lack of space for the citizenry) to hear remarks by the city fathers on the status of Harrington.

In the recent years, there has been little need to move from City Hall to accommodate the small turnout for the annual meeting. Recent council meetings have drawn out more of the citizenry. Why the small turnout? The date is the Friday before election date, sometimes for mayor and council, this year for two council seats. It should provide opportunity for the citizens to update themselves on the politics of the city as well as the city's future... something that should be of concern to all who call this community home.

Yet, unless something unforeseen happens, this year will no doubt be similar to last... more city fathers turn out than citizens.

Some comments are raised that the night is bad, since it is on Friday. This may be partially true, but if there is enough dissent about the meeting night, is the Charter so perfect and complete that it cannot be improved upon through change?

Hopefully, someone will raise a question about updating the City Charter, a suitable Bicentennial project for starts.

The citizens' meeting is just that... the citizens' chance to hear about how their tax money is being spent in Harrington... it should also be a time to offer suggestions to the city fathers... maybe one will be to select a more suitable night for the annual citizens' meeting, other than on a Friday night. If it means overhauling the Charter in the process, we will all benefit in the long run.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m., January 9, at the Harrington Fire House, upstairs. If anyone thinks it is an unsatisfactory night, remember, it's the squeaky wheel that get the oil...

Weekly Report by Senator Joseph Biden

The Senate Banking Committee has just given its approval to two pieces of legislation which - when they become law - will, I believe, rank among the most important consumer protection bills ever approved by Congress.

I introduced both bills in June and held hearings on them before the Senate Consumer Affairs Subcommittee in July.

The first bill will strengthen prohibitions against discrimination in the granting of credit.

The second bill is known as "Truth in Leasing" - a title which pretty well sums up what it is designed to do: protect consumers when they choose to lease such items as furniture or automobiles rather than buy them.

Last year, Congress passed a law - the Equal Credit

Opportunity Act - to prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex or marital status when it comes to granting credit. That was a good beginning, but I felt there was a need for further action, and the bill just approved by the Banking Committee extends last year's law to also prohibit discrimination on grounds such as age, race, color, religion or national origin.

The idea behind this legislation is not to take away from lenders the right to give credit to bad risks. Rather, it is to insure that outright discrimination will no longer be tolerated. I find it intolerable that in this day and age men or women might be denied credit simply because of their age, or their religion, or other factors having nothing to do with whether or not they are good credit risks.

The other bill is also important. It recognizes that there is a growing trend in our economy for people to lease hard goods and equipment, rather than making an outright purchase. The Truth in Lending bill sets out a few basic rules to insure that consumers get full and detailed information before they sign a lease agreement - information which will help them decide whether it makes more sense to lease an item or buy it. There is also a provision to guard against unexpected "balloon" payments when a lease expires.

Both of these bills will help America's consumers. It is significant that both were approved by the Banking Committee without dissent. I hope the full Senate will give its approval when they are called up for consideration early in the new year.

DuPont Reports

Congress Pete duPont announced recently the list of names he is submitting as candidates for the service academies for June, 1976 admittance. The candidates were recommended to him by his Academy Selection Board, a non-partisan group composed of community leaders from various parts of Delaware. The Committee is chaired by Judge Daniel F. Kelleher.

As in the past, duPont instructed his Academy Selection Board to make recommendations on the basis of qualifications regardless of sex. DuPont was the original sponsor of legislation to the House of Representatives to open all the service academies to women as well as men. That legislation is now law.

DuPont commented, "All these candidates, both male and female, have been judged to be highly qualified for the service academies on the basis of their grades and school and community leadership and standing. There is no doubt in my mind that each of these individuals would make excellent leaders in the military and should be offered the best officer training that this nation has to give."

Recommended for the Air Force Academy were: Thomas S. Anthony, Wyoming; Allen E. Dorn, Wilmington; James B. Knox, Wilmington; Robert J. Mullane, Jr., Frederica; Curtiss R. Petrek, Smyrna; Margaret Ann Petry, Newark; James Riggins, Wilmington; Karen Simms, Dover; Arthur F. Smith, Georgetown; and Charles Van Winkle, Jr., Wilmington.

Submitted to the Military Academy: David E. Carter, Newark; Kevin P. Conlin, Wilmington; Deirdre Cox, Wilmington; Vincent P. DiFronzo, Dover; Jeffrey A. Doyle, Hockessin; Charles K. Hasson, Wilmington; Donald G. Hurst, Wilmington; David A. Knapp, Newark; James B. Knox, Wilmington; John Michel, Wilington; Robert J. Mullane, Frederica; Michael P. Mulrooney, Wilmington; Kevin T. Peck, Harrington; Matthew Pfeiffer, Wilmington; John J. Rahaim, Claymont; Marvin D. Ratchford, Dover; Matthew J. Schuler, Wilmington; Linda Shelley, Claymont; Allen Susie, Wilmington; and Richard Templeton, Newark.

To the Naval Academy were nominated: William A. Bock, Wilmington; Joseph F. Campbell, Newark; David E. Carter, Newark; Christopher Dods, Hockessin; Todd H. Fish, Wilmington; William R. Fridl, Newark; Richard W. Linderman, Hockessin; James K. Reagan, Laurel; Michael Serafin, Jr., Hockessin; and Ronald W. Shockey, New Castle.

Thoughts....

By Senator William Roth

Ever wonder how many tax dollars are being sent to underwrite those research projects that pop into the news from time to time - the scholarly analyses of why people fall in love, how well the average citizen can count change, what Alaskan Brown bears do to get along with one another?

Few persons have any conception of how much social research is being sponsored by the Federal Government. The total cost to taxpayers, I have determined from sources at the National Academy of Sciences, is more than $1 billion a year.

This is the amount spent on social research alone. It does not include Government-sponsored studies in the medical, biological, and physical sciences, the type of research done for the National Institutes of Health, the Defense Department, and the space program.

Nearly every major Government department and agency conducts or underwrites research projects directed at social questions of one sort or another. There are so many of these projects scattered throughout the Federal bureaucracy that for years no one has really known what the total cost to the taxpayers is.

To find out, H. Guyford Stever, science advisor to the President, was obliged to ask the National Academy of Sciences to investigate the matter. Its study, not yet complete, indicates that the Federal Government budgeted approximately $1.2 billion in the past fiscal year for research activities addressed to social problems.

Most of the money is being spent on studies that are largely theoretical. I am sure that the subjects examined hold considerable fascination for the researchers involved. But I question the practical value of much of this research to the taxpayers who are paying the bills. In many cases, the Government simply has no business financing such activity, especially when the country is confronted with economic problems stemming from reckless, irresponsible spending policies.

I have just introduced legislation aimed at correcting

Days of Our Years

TEN YEARS AGO

Fri., Dec. 31, 1965

Mrs. Bess Booser will open a tax office Sat., Jan. 15, in the Magistrate's Building on Rt. 13. The firm will be known as the Harrington Tax Service.

The Misses Oda and Heba Baker spent a day last week visiting places of interest in New York.

Mrs. Mary Dolby is spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. William Crussell, in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson and family entertained at an open house following the Christmas Eve services at St. Stephen's Church.

Mrs. W.W. Sharp was entertained at dinner on Christmas Day by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Sharp, of Houston.

Lester Minner, who is serving with the U.S. Navy aboard the U.S.S. Taconic spent the holidays with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Winkler and sons spent last week with friends and relatives in Oneida, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mann entertained several friends and relatives at dinner on Christmas Eve.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peck, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greenhaugh celebrated their 19th wedding anniversary Monday, Dec.

..... this situation. It would give Congress greater control over social research, provide more coordination and oversight, and make information on such research readily available to the public and press.

Because this research is scattered throughout the Federal establishment with very little coordination, there appears to be not only many research projects of doubtful value but also a great deal of duplication and waste. In a number of cases, similar studies are being sponsored by two or more Government agencies.

Ironically, despite the grand scale on which the Government underwrites social research, the Congress has been unable to obtain from the various departments and agencies the solid information it needs to determine whether the social service programs they conduct are really effective. Only a small proportion of the $1.2 billion spent on social research is being used to evaluate the impact and effectiveness of Government social programs.

My bill would require each Government agency to include in its budget request a detailed statement of its social research plans. It would also require that all research contracts, grants, or fund transfers of more than $25,000 be cleared by the Office of Management and Budget, the central budget agency of the Government.

I think it's time we bring these research expenditures under control.

VA Information

Q - Is there a cutoff date for the spouse of a deceased veteran to complete apprentice or job training under VA's Dependents' Educational Assistance program?
A - Yes. For the spouse of a deceased veteran the cutoff date for Dependents' Educational Assistance for apprentice or other on-the-job training is Oct. 23, 1982, or 10 years from date entitlement arose, whichever is later.
Q - I received a lump sum disability severance pay upon my discharge from service. If I am awarded VA compensation for the same disability, will I have to return the severance pay?
A - Regulations require that VA monthly compensation payments be withheld until the amount payable is equal to the amount of severance pay received because of disability. The VA automatically establishes this withholding when compensation is authorized.
Q - I am a World War II veteran who served on active duty in the armed forces from 1942 until 1946. Am I still eligible to use my GI home loan?
A - Yes, the expiration date for all World War II veterans with basic eligibility, has been removed.
Q - Is a veteran eligible for one car allowance if he has lost the use of a limb, (service connected) although he is not rated 100 per cent for his service-connected disability?
A - The veteran does not have to be rated 100 per cent in order to be eligible for an automobile grant. If he has lost the use of a limb which is service connected, he meets the eligibility requirements.

Area 4-H News

This holiday season will provide an excellent opportunity for 4-H'ers to prepare their speech for the 1976 4-H Public Speaking Contest to be held on January 24. There will be four divisions again this year: senior girls and senior boys, for those members over 14 years of age; junior for those members 11 to 13 years of age, petite, for the 8 to 10 year old members. Speeches in the senior division should be 5 to 7 minutes in length and in the junior petite from 2 to 5 minutes in length. When picking your topic you should try to pick one that your audience will appreciate. Practice your speech so that you can remain within the time limit of your division. This is very important. Remember you should not read or memorize your speech, but you can and should use note cards to deliver it.

Please send the entry form enclosed in your newsletter or call the County 4-H Office at 856-5250 as soon as possible. If you need any information pertaining to 4-H or if you have any further questions about the contest, please call.

This is Holiday Season is also a good time for leaders and 4-H'ers to say "Thanks" to those who have helped you and 4-H during the year.

Your leader has the address of the National Donors for county medals in their National Awards Handbook. Remember, too, the businessmen, neighbors, and friends. Let's show that 4-H'ers care.

Calendar of Coming 4-H Events

January 13 - Leaders' meeting, Substation, 7:30 p.m.

January 16 - Public Speaking Contest entry deadline

January 24 - Public speaking contest, substation, 1 p.m.

Women Smokers Risk Hazards

Don't for one minute believe that cigarettes can't hurt you just because you are a woman. It's not true. Women started smoking later than men. As a result the lung cancer death rate in women had been a fraction of the terrible toll of male lives. But that is no longer the case. The risk of death from lung cancer for women who are heavy cigarette smokers is five times that of non-smoking women. There are many reasons for a woman to give up cigarettes. Overwhelming evidence points to the health hazards; influence on children is powerful; possible harm to an unborn child should be considered. Isn't there reason enough for you to snuff out your last cigarette? You can quit... 29 million Americans have! Remember, once you break the habit, you can extend your life expectancy and increase your chances of avoiding lung cancer, heart disease, emphysema and other illnesses. Your Sussex County Unit of the American Society at 13 North Bedford Street in Georgetown has information to help you quit smoking. Stop in and see them today, or call 856-2855.

The Green Thumb

The new year is here and it's time to make those resolutions. You know, the ones you wanted to do last year. Everyone should declare they will not litter. Not only does litter destroy the beauty of our country but it is dangerous. The person who cuts grass, tills the field or walks through litter can be seriously injured.

Mowers or farm equipment can throw litter like a missile and if someone is hit they can be permanently disabled. When I was a Boy Scout many years ago our Scoutmaster was cut by broken glass. It was a serious cut and if it had occurred a half inch to the right he would have bled to death.

I don't litter and I will not let my children even drop a scrap of paper. We carry all the trash home and dispose of it properly. "Every litter bit hurts." If we all dispose of trash properly we will have a more beautiful and safer America.

Let's all try to conserve our resources. Don't use excessive amounts of fertilizer, lime pesticides, seeds, fuel and water. Not only are extra amounts wasteful but they keep you from making a profit. Plant at the recommended rates for a full crop and follow your soil test recommendation. Too much of a good thing can cost you money. For example, if you apply too much lime you will have some micronutrient deficiencies resulting in yield losses. If the herbicide recommendation is at 2 pound per acre and you use 3, that extra pound may not only give you better weed control but may also kill your crop.

By planting extra plants per acre you can reduce yield because they cannot get enough nutrients, light and water for good growth. Conservation of our resources will mean that they will last longer and often means better profits.

Each of us have little habits we would like to change in 1976. If we each do something to improve our county and every county does the same thing, we will have a better country. Try to imagine our county free of litter. We don't have to have a major government project to improve our area. All it takes is for everyone to use our resources wisely and not to litter.

Ken Anderson Named Man of the Year

Ken Anderson, the trigger-sharp ace of the Cincinnati Bengals who is the leading active passer in the National Football League, has been named the 1975 Dodge-NFL Man of the Year.

Anderson is the sixth NFL Man of the Year in an unusual program that dates back to 1970 and annually honors an NFL player for his civic contributions as well as his athletic ability. The award is sponsored by Dodge and coordinated by the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

The selection of Anderson was determined by a special committee of media personnel after Anderson and four other NFL stars had been selected as finalists by a vote of the fans of the nation.

Other finalists included quarterback Jim Hart of the St. Louis Cardinals, defensive tackle Art Thoms of the Oakland Raiders, defensive back Bruce Taylor of the San Francisco 49ers and offensive tackle Terry Owens of the San Diego Chargers.

Anderson will be formally honored in ceremonies at the American Football Conference championship game on January 4. (The site will be determined by the results of the AFC playoff games on December 27 and 28.) NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle will make the presentation. To honor the new NFL Man of the Year, a $10,000 Dodge scholarship fund will be established in Anderson's name in the Cincinnati area. In addition, Ken will receive a 1976 Dodge Charger-S.E. and the beautiful Gladiator Trophy sculptured by Daniel Schwartz.

Recipients of the Dodge-NFL Man of the Year scholarships will be academically-qualified Cincinnati-area students who demonstrate true financial need. Individual recipients will be honored in ceremonies in Cincinnati in mid-spring, 1976.

Altogether, the NFL Man of the Year scholarship fund will total $39,000. The other four finalists each will have $2,000 scholarships established in their names and additional $1,000 scholarships will be set up in the names of top vote-getters in the remaining 21 NFL cities.

One of the factors taken into consideration in naming the Dodge-NFL man of the Year is one that sets this award apart from all other football awards. That is the contributions that the candidate makes to his community in his off-the-field activities. On this count, Anderson scores as high as he does on the playing field.

Ken Anderson

Among other contributions, he was the primary personality on the Easter Seal's 24-hour telethon last spring.

Anderson is also a member of the Board of Directors of Hope Cottage in Kentucky, an organization that houses and cares for orphans. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Salvation Army in Cincinnati.

On the field, Anderson is now considered one of the premier quarterbacks in pro football, even though his contributions have gone relatively unpublicized during much of his five-year NFL career.

Business Bowling

By Richard Dennis

A Moose was cooked in Tuesday night's action as Burris Food took all four points from their opponents and pushed themselves five games out in front. New Cover led the way for Burris with two 200 games and everybody chipped on the second game having a team game of 993 pins. Carmino Gallo had the high game and series for Moose A team, but failed to acquire any other support.

The Spoilers running in second slot, had their hands full as they split with Dur-A-Clean, two points each. Leonard Outten, constantly giving a strong hand assisted by Jack Sapp just couldn't seem to get a fire built under the rest of their team members, and dropped two more games from the front slot. Dur-Clean however, led by Dra Glanden and R. Porter, was able to move their team from #12 slot to #9.

Taylor and Messick having the first third are now maintaining their hot hands for the play offs, by defeating Quillens Market all four points. Ralph Kemp tried to pilot Quillens toward some victory games, but the rest of the crew had abandoned ship. George Collins is a regular high man on T & M and showed why with his 585 series. K. P. Outten and Snooky Collins did their share and Bobby and Tom Brown just watch.

Walley's Garage, constantly on the move upwards, climbed another rung Tuesday, and they clipped Food Rite all four points. D. Ryan led the attack with a fine 557 series. Wally and Larry also supported this attack with some fine games. Food Rite just couldn't get motivated as we reach a 500 series. Frank says, "Maybe we should have stayed as Peoples. Ever since we've been Food Rite, everybody's been giving us the Business."

Ralph Butler, leader of Butler's Fuel proved why as he bowled a 557 series. However with no other help, they continued to slip slowly back down the ladder into 13th slot. Jarrell's Fuel, on the other hand pulled up another step led by H. Brown.

McKnat's also moved up in ranks led this time by Donald Garey as they took three points from Robbins Hardware. Robbins just couldn't seem to find their miscellaneous or was it missing man, as the Bowled Blind. With no one wanting to lead their team, the blind now took over and they all followed.

Sam refused to let anyone for Big John's Bowl over a 500 series. I think they're going to build up their average. Fry's on the other hand need the practice and took three points, led by Jerry Hayman's 605 series. Nice bowling Jerry.

Moose "B", always bowling strong scared off their opponents, who as of this team has fail to bowl. Assuming Moose "B" strong contention for the #1 slot I'm sure their opposition had plenty of reason for not showing up. Their team standings, at this time is nearly an assumption.

Lane Lapinsky

Lapinsky First

On Friday and Saturday nights the Lake Forest High School wrestling team participated in the J.M. Bennett Invitational Wrestling Tournament. They came home with only one champion, this being Lane Lapinsky in the 100 pound weight class.

Lapinsky was in the bracket with the number one seeded Manuel of J.M. Bennett, but following an opening round pin of an opponent he easily defeated Manuel 10-6 in his semi-final match. In the finals he had no problem beating his Easton opponent as he built up a 12-0 lead before pinning him. Lapinsky is only a junior and according to many knowledgeable people is a very fast learner. Last week he was defeated in his opening match of the Milford Invitational.

Although the Spartans only had one champion they also came home with two second place trophies as John Moffett and William Jackson lost their final matches, both controversial. Moffett had no problem in gaining the finale as he pinned his number two and three seeded wrestlers in his 132 pound class. In the final he lost a hard fought match to the number one seeded John Brown. There were several questionable calls in this match, a couple of which could have meant Moffett finishing at least four points closer to his opponent.

The other second place finisher, Jackson, lost a 6-5 decision when the referee failed to award him two points for a reverse claiming they had gone out of bounds and there was no change in control. When the two wrestlers came back to the center Jackson looked at Coach Tom Muehleisen in disbelief. After the match Jackson took it all in stride saying, "I guess I just have to work harder." Jackson gets another shot at his opponent Banks of J.M. Bennett in a Tuesday scrimmage.

Finishing third in the tournament for the Spartans was 114 pounder Jamie Simpson. Simpson was seeded number one in his weight class and won his opening match by a pin. But in his second match he was trounced 15-3 but went on to capture his consolation match by quick pin.

Another Spartan who fared well in the tournament was Tim McCombs who barely missed finishing third as he lost his consolation match by one point. He was defeated in the semi-finals by the eventual champion Hogg of J.M. Bennett. Hogg then went on to record a 24 second pin in the finals.

Other Spartans who participated in the tournament were David Shulties, Rick Mertz, Louis Hendricks, Larry McCombs, and Chris Grove. The Spartans next text will be their regular season opener against Caesar Rodney on January 7 at Caesar Rodney.
