

City Business Conducted Calmly Monday Night, Here

The budget, zoning, ordinances, Reese Avenue truck traffic and the police department took up the Harrington City Council's time Monday night during their monthly meeting. Matters were conducted quietly Monday night, a change from February's stormy meeting. Newly appointed police commissioner, Jack Wyatt, brought up several matters of concern pertaining to the department, which is now down to two full time men and a part-timer, since the resignation of Corporal Royce Purcell was accepted

Jack Wyatt, new police commissioner for the City of Harrington.

Monday night. The former officer has accepted the position of police chief in Carter Lake, Iowa.

Wyatt asked Layton, "How many men do you need?" "We've applied each time for four full time men (to DARC). We can get along with three full time men and one part time man," suggested Wyatt in response to Layton's answer.

Also in keeping with police matters PFC William Jopp was promoted to Corporal. Newly elected councilman Gary Homewood posed the question "Who does the police chief look to for direction?" Said Homewood, "I think the best interests of everyone will be served if the police chief understands to whom he is (directly) responsible."

Following discussion of the matter, it was concluded the police chief looks to the city manager for direction.

Two ordinance revisions will soon be added to the Charter, one a rewrite regarding the keeping of livestock within the City and the adoption of Title 21 of the State Code, which will give the alderman the right to hear cases that happen in the City. This should bring in added monies to the City, as well as possibly expediting such cases now taken to magistrates courts.

The budget for the coming year was approved, in which estimated revenues totaled $295,193 while estimated expenses totaled $236,170.

Mayor William Minner warned "We've got to tighten our belts between now and the end of the year...we should be able to get a little money in the kitty. We were free of debt two years ago," he continued, "now it's back up to 60-67 thousand..."

Almost in the same breath the Council heard discussion on the possibility of another City Hall. The current building is being rented from the fire company for $50 a month, with the lease terminating at the end of the year. Although there is no pressure from either side to change the arrangement, the council has been toying with the possibilities of another location. The Peoples Bank has been one of these, as well as the building owned by the Lions Club on Liberty Street. The council has nearly rejected the bank building, because of the expense, although the location would be very good.

Leonard Outten was appointed to the Planning and Zoning commission, which fills the vacancy left by Gary Homewood.

In closing remarks, it was pointed out tax appeal night will be Monday, March 22, from 6 to 7 p.m., with the tax schedule being posted Friday. These will be in City Hall and Taylor's Hardware.

A letter was read from City Solicitor Max Terry Jr. regarding the truck traffic. Since the results of the letter indicated the City seemed to be within its rights to restrict such traffic, it was decided by council to meet with the Burris representatives to discuss the matter further. Minner remarked "I'm not about to do anything to jeopardize the business in the City of Harrington". Councilman Homewood remarked "I see no detrimental effects in having a meeting with them (Burris). Our goal is to get some relief for Reese Avenue."

Richard McAdams, left, and family lost everything they owned in this trailer fire on the Felton to Sandtown road last Wednesday. The Felton Fire Co. responded to the fire in less than eight minutes according to Thomas Milligan, [right] a neighbor. The McAdams family is now residing with the Milligans until a new residence can be located. The trailer was completely gutted according to witnesses at the fire. McAdams had just recently dropped his insurance.

Area Residents Lose All In Fire Near Sandtown

by Carole Glasspool

Tragedy struck the already struggling Richard McAdams family of the Felton-Sandtown road on Wednesday, March 3. An explosion in the heater caused a fire that completely destroyed their uninsured trailer home and its contents including their clothing.

Mr. McAdams, after eight years employment with Green Giant Co. was a lay-off victim six months ago. Since then he has been unemployed.

He, his wife, their two daughters, Shannon and Leslie, and son, David had been living in the trailer while Richard was trying to turn a building that was just a shell into a livable home for his family.

The building is nowhere near livable but now the McAdams family needs it desperately.

They have been aided by the Thomas Milligans, their neighbors who have taken the McAdams into their own home. Tom Milligan initiated a fund to aid the McAdamses. The Felton Bank has agreed to accept donations for the family.

Escaping the fire with only the clothes on their backs, the McAdams could certainly use any clothing that anyone cares to donate.

Mr. McAdams wears medium shirts, 32" waist trousers and size 8 1/2 shoes; Mrs. McAdams wears a misses size 10 dress and 6 1/2 M shoes; Shannon wears child's size 10 and size 4 shoe; David wears size boys size 8 clothes and size 3 shoe; Leslie wears a tot's size 4 and 9 shoes.

If anyone has any reusable household items or clothing contact Tom Milligan at 284-9087.

Gets Seaford Little League Lights

It was announced at Monday night's meeting that the lights which once lighted the Little League diamond in Seaford have been acquired by the Town of Bridgeville for a nominal fee.

Some months back the little league field in Seaford became a subject of controversy when it was announced that the owners of the field were planning to dismantle it to make other uses of it. There are 75 lights, now the property of Bridgeville.

Norman V. Powell, President of the Town Commissioners told the council he was not sure how the lights would be used. He suggested the matter be looked into to see if the tennis court could use the lights or if the lights could be used around the softball field.

The Council is looking into the prospects of constructing a new tennis court, which could either be clay or asphalt.

In other matters Powell also announced the 27th of March is appeal day of each town resident's tax assessment. Appeals will be heard between 1 and 4 p.m.

Kyle Ewing, a recently elected councilman and newly appointed police commissioner, reported on the crossing guard matter. For several months now which is approaching a year in duration, the matter of crossing guards which was originally brought up by the Bridgeville PTA, has been unresolved.

At first establishing crossing guards by using volunteers created a legal problem which both the PTA and the Council decided would be better handled in another way. The guards in that situation would be required to become a part of the police department.

Barbara Slacum, who is President of the Bridgeville PTA, suggested signs be erected instead of the "...crossing guard solution". Since that suggestion has been brought before Council and passed upon... and a sign purchased from the State and erected, it has just as quickly vanished. "Someone removed it", according to Councilman Earl Willey.

Ewing, in an effort to control speeding and reckless driving problems has adopted a departmental change in the police department by changing the shifts from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. to 7 a.m. to 3 p.m., and respectfully on down the line. At the same time he has doubled the shift at the busiest times of the day. "We are trying to curtail the more frequent motor vehicle violations of speeding and reckless driving", according to Ewing.

One observer who chose not to be identified said there were heavy tire marks on the lawn of the high school along Laws Street where a vehicle had traveled across that portion of the unpaved area and across the lawn of the school. It was believed, the observer added that the thought the PTA had in mind when it was first brought the matter to the attention of Council was to protect the younger children in the area. Now it appears that the violations are not restricted to age limits.

No Senior League For Local Youths?

It has come to our attention the Harrington Senior League of the Harrington Little League needs four managers in order to field a senior league this year.

Al Govatos, president of the Little League organization this year, reported the situation has arisen because some of the managers who have been managers for many years are now dropping out, having given of their time, and there will also be an additional team for which a manager is needed.

Since there are fifteen team members, a total of 75 youths are involved in the Senior league. Govatos said if no one steps forth to volunteer for manager, the senior league program will have to be scrapped.

"The community, especially the kids" will be affected if no volunteers turn up to manage these teams, according to Govatos. Call 398-3962 for information.

Ed. note: The Little League does provide something for youngsters to do, and there is little enough of constructive activity for the youth in this City. Four managers, from a City of 2,400...an impossible task? We hope not...

The Gas'n Go Island at McCulloughs Tire and Service Center is open with two lanes available - one for service by an attendant and one for self-service.

Will Operate New Business Here

Today marks the official opening of a new business venture in Harrington - McCullough's Tire and Service Center, located on U.S. 13 next to Downing Engineering and Construction Company.

The business, which is owned and operated by Bill and Bob McCullough and operated by Bill McCullough, actually opened for service on Jan. 9.

Along with its line of tires and complete car services, the Tire and Service Center has a "Gas N Go" island which offers gasoline on a self-service or as pumped by an attendant.

Renovation of the building, previously in use at various times as a restaurant and a service station, began last fall. The Gas 'N Go Island is a completely new feature added by the McCulloughs. It was constructed and installed by William Kohel of Harrington who also did all the electrical and pipe work in the building itself.

The work of renovation saw the addition of a refreshment center to the outside as well as many changes to the interior of the building. Much of the work was handled by the McCulloughs themselves as well as by specific individuals.

Bob McCullough also owns and operates the Harrington Service Station on U.S. 13 and Delaware Rt. 14.

Felton Council Reorganized

At Saturday night's reorganizational meeting in Felton, the new councilmen voted to return William Myers, Sr. as the Mayor of the town.

Others designated for posts were: Dwight Stephens, secretary; Joseph Winniger, treasurer; and Bill DeLong alderman.

The Council conducted a business meeting, hearing from Mrs. Joyce Jefferson who was there to complain about the traffic situation on her street. She was protesting the use of the street by trucks. The Council pointed out to her the street (Church Street) was a publically maintained street.

Mrs. Jefferson also pointed out that the Town should undertake to obtain water meters for the Town, which is under study by the Town.

Under consideration are water meters. Mrs. Jefferson said that Felton "...was the first place she has ever been where the water rates were charged by the number of spigots."

The Bicentennial committee headed by Mrs. Edie Hemphill indicated her group would be interested in acquiring the back end of the Luff property now being torn down by the Fire Company for Bicentennial headquarters. Mrs. Hemphill plans to set the building on the parking lot on the south side of her business site the Owl's Nest in Felton.

Attempted Robbery In Felton

Last Sunday morning at approximately 5 a.m. a person or persons threw concrete blocks through the front window of Winger's store in Felton. The noise awakened a neighbor who called Joseph Winniger, the proprietor of the store.

When Winniger investigated the scene with the

The Myers Development presented deeds to the streets in the development bearing their name and located on the north west corner of the Town.

It was reported the Town Charter was in the final stages of completing the first draft.

Gary Brown, the Police Chief, suggested to Council that programs be instituted in the Town for the young people.

State Police, he saw he had no window in the dropping temperatures and he called Bill Myers at 5:30 in the morning to open the Simpler lumber yard to get materials to board up the windows.

This marks the third time Winniger has been broken into.

It was snow, slush and more snow Tuesday as winter returned to Delaware. Mother Nature had spurred spring prematurely to make itself seen in the area, with unseasonably warm temperatures. This tree in full bloom in Tony Perrone's side yard on Liberty Street is one of the early starters that felt the snow here Tuesday. By Wednesday morning the sun was back out, although the warm temperatures of the mid 50-60's of late did not return.

Water System Lacking In Frederica For Fireman

Paul Davis, a representative of the Frederica Fire Co. presented his plea to the Council of Frederica last Thursday night to get the town fathers to consider upgrading the present water system in the Town.

According to Davis, the Frederica Fire Co. is greatly concerned with this present inefficient water system the Town has.

Davis warned a fire in certain sections of the Town could mean that large damages could be brought about before it could be brought under control.

He pointed out four major deficiencies: 1) a lack of a water distribution system to furnish required gallons per minute in the market street area; 2) inadequate water mains of three to four inches which will support adequate water to use in fire fighting; 3) a dead end line system where the loop system would give them more water and more pressure; and 4) deficiencies in the pumping equipment in the town's water supply system.

It was Councilman Ira "Jim" Woodland who offered a simple solution and that to construct an 8" well in the center of Town. This would give the firemen plenty of water with ample pressure to fight the fire in any direction.

Davis further pointed out that there is "...a great need for water to fight the initial fire attack." "Maybe the Town is not aware of the problem," according to Davis. He offered these additional solutions: "a hydrant at the creek with a booster; a 35,000 tank in the center of Town; or 3) a whole new system."

In closing Davis pointed out the Council "...the Frederica Fire Co. wants to give the Town of Frederica the best service in the fighting the fires the very best we can...and work together to up-grade our respective areas of responsibilities to make Frederica a safer place to live and work."

Happenings

Mrs. James (Joyce) Jefferson and her children, John and Jane of Felton were in Dover on Saturday for the annual State Convention of the Children of the American Revolution.

The Convention, held at the Dinner Bell Inn, was called to order at 9:45 a.m. by Senior State President of the C.A.R. Marian Lee Marshall.

Following a business meeting, presentation, including slides, on the Delaware Indians was given by State Archaeologist Ronald Thomas.

Each different society in attendance presented an exhibit. There were many on Indians native to Delaware and crafts etc.

The Thomas McKean Society of Milford, to which the Jefferson children belong, had an exhibit presented by Dr. Terry Bryan of Dover who is a member of the Kent County Coin Club. Dr. Bryan brought a truly outstanding collection of money used in Delaware dating back to 1777. His 1777 piece is a colonial penny which was paper thin.

I am told the Thomas McKean Society is ever so grateful to Dr. Bryan for sharing his collection with them and the entire State Convention.

The children of the American Revolution is, as one would expect, the younger set of the Sons of the American Revolution and Daughters of the American Revolution.

S.A.R. and D.A.R. members serve as advisors to the children.

Saturday evening, March 6, found the VCF Ruritan Building in Viola a veritable hub of activity. Four hundred people came out to enjoy the delicious ham and turkey dinner, with all the trimmings cooked by the Ruritan ladies and others of the community.

Ruritan President William Luff informs me they always have lots of good help. Perhaps that's because these folks know all the good works of the Ruritans.

Included among their many laudable projects is the awarding of four scholarships to Lake Forest students each year - two are academic and two more are in line with vocational type training.

The Ruritans are hopeful that they can make this a semi-annual event in the spring and fall.

All you June brides if you are short on funds and long on plans, the Ruritans will cater your reception for a reasonable fee.

If interested, you can check it out with Mr. Luff at 284-4681.

Mrs. Sabra Cello, of Dover, has assumed responsibilities as the site manager for the Harrington Senior Center. Mrs. Cello said she learned of the position only three weeks ago, and applied right away.

With a B.A. degree from Delaware State College, Mrs. Cello says she has had experience in duties similar to those presented at the Center here, through her association with Family Services, a volunteer organization that helps military people with various phases, including emergencies and moving, which involved helping people adapt to new surroundings.

Mrs. Cello is married to a former Air Force navigator, who now is stationed in Dover Air Force Base and the couple has one boy, age 13 and a girl, 9.

Mrs. Cello is originally from Owego, N.Y. from a community she reports much like the Harrington area.

She reminded the public of the Center's Spring Bazaar, scheduled for April 9. The members are "all working very hard on it" she remarked.

Monday

Band practice was conducted with a good attendance, and in the afternoon Mrs. Carolyn Fisher visited us and showed how the elderly can best exercise.

Tuesday

Mrs. Ruth Nasser visited and showed a silent picture called "The Hollywood Kid" with Mack Sounett and Jackie Cooper. Made in 1924, it was very much enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Dorothy Graham is back with us and the members are very happy to be working with her again.

The pool table was the busiest place for the men today and a lot of games were enjoyed by them.

Wednesday

Instead of playing bingo several spent the afternoon on a shopping trip for ceramics in preparation for the spring bazaar.

Thursday

George Goodge came through again by showing us a film, with "Aspen Dream." This showed the Colorado Mountains covered with snow with lots of skiing experts who knew how to dive from their slopes into a pool of water. There were beautiful winter scenes followed by summer ones.

Our bookkeeper Ernest Gleason still improves from a heart attack he had last week. He plans to be back with us soon.

We have a new site manager taking over her duties today. Her name is Mrs. Sabra Cello.

Friday

Out of nine bowlers today we had five over the 200 mark with Elbert Stevens coming out on top with 287 pins, Jim Kenieneki 269, George Goodge 255, Andy Anderson 244, Fred Littmann 219. The other four were lost in the tall grass and couldn't catch up.

This week the spot light falls on one of our charter members, Mrs. Pearl Derickson. She is one who helped get the center started and has served in several of the officer's jobs. She is a past President and is now on the board of directors.

Loosing her husband several years ago, she and her son live near Harrington Fair Grounds.

She is also a member of the United Asbury Methodist Church and also the Everready Sunday School Class.

Pearl maiden name was Taylor and when her husband Frank, known to all his friends as Pete, found out she was the one for him, he was very fortunate when she agreed, for like the other married couples not only did he get a diamond he also got a pearl.

Weekly Report
By Senator Joseph Biden

A subject which seems to be discussed more and more these days is the reform of Federal regulatory agencies -- the airline routes, train schedules, and a host of other subjects ranging from the price of natural gas to the construction of nuclear power plants.

In previous issues of this weekly report, I've discussed the subject of regulatory reform in some detail -- and a proposal to face up to the issue of reform. Basically, my bill would abolish the Federal independent regulatory agencies unless they are extended by specific action of Congress and the President.

In this column, however, I'd like to discuss another aspect of the regulatory problem: the impact of Federal regulations on small businessmen.

I believe -- and the mail I receive from constituents bears it out -- that rather than encouraging small businessmen, the Federal government and its bureaucracy is actually making it more difficult for them to compete in the marketplace.

For example, when Congress passed the pension reform bill, the last thing it had in mind was to discourage private pension plans. Yet, many small businessmen have come to the conclusion that rather than complying with new Federal regulations, it is simply easier to give up their pension plans -- leaving many employees without protection.

Farmers write to complain that unfair inheritance laws -- which levy heavy estate taxes -- may force them to sell their farms, rather than leaving them to their children.

Complaints were made about onerous provisions of the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act -- and those complaints came from real estate agents, lawyers and homebuyers.

This is only a brief list, and it could go on and on. But the point is that the small businessman often faces two handicaps: he not only has to comply with Federal red tape and constantly expanding regulations, he also has to compete with the large businessman who usually has the resources to deal with the Federal bureaucracy.

Part of the fault lies with small businessmen themselves, because in a number of cases they are content to let big business speak for business in general. To take just one example, there is little pressure from small businessmen to strengthen anti-trust laws -- legislation that is strongly opposed, by and large, by big business. Yet, strengthening anti-trust laws would, I think, help small businessmen.

Against this background, it seems to me that we ought to consider regulatory reform in light of different conditions that exist between small and big business. In some areas, big business is perfectly capable of dealing with Federal regulations, while small enterprises are not.

This kind of analysis of what kind of regulation is suitable for what kind of business could be made as part of the over-all consideration of regulatory reform, including the bill I have introduced. I think it should be made, for the sake of the future of small business.

Thoughts....

by Senator William Roth

The Federal Government funnels billions of dollars to the states for social services programs but hamstringing the administration of these programs with excessive restrictions and red tape.

In Delaware, officials of these programs tell me their staffs spend a significant part of their time filling out forms and completing reports to satisfy administrative requirements from Washington.

They are also hampered by innumerable Federal restrictions and requirements concerning the use of social services funds.

Last week I joined with several of my colleagues on the Senate Finance Committee in introducing legislation which would give the states more control over these programs and reduce the red tape.

Under this legislation, the $2.5 billion now provided each year by the Federal Government for social services would be allocated to the states in a $2.5 billion block grant. This would eliminate the requirement for state matching funds, meaning that states would no longer have to put up one dollar to receive three Federal dollars.

The legislation would also eliminate many Federal administrative reporting requirements. It would allow each state to assume greater responsibility for the expenditure of funds. This would cut down the paperwork and allow more time and money to be spent providing services and help to the needy, which is what the program was intended to do in the first place.

This legislation would also eliminate many Federal restrictions on how these funds may be used, including the costly and burdensome requirements for child day care staffing.

The Federal Government's intrusion into day care is a perfect example of costly bureaucratic me dling. For years, we have been hearing day care professionals and experts disagree about the correct ratio of children per staff member. Even though Congress could never really agree on the appropriate staff ratios, states are being forced to comply with rigid regulations.

But because Congress has doubts about the appropriateness of these standards, it has ordered the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to study and evaluate the standards and report to Congress early next year.

Under this legislation HEW would complete that study and recommend a model law for states to adopt. In place of Federal requirements, each state using Federal monies for day care would establish day care standards of their own. Such changes would give state and local governments the flexibility they need to conduct social services programs in a way that meets local needs. They would allow the states to answer to

New mobile teaching unit has been christened MOTE. Traveling through Kent and Sussex counties, it brings the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service to people in crossroad communities.

Teaching...On Wheels

A specially designed educational unit has brought new mobility to Extension Service programs in Delaware. For more than sixty years, the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service has been bringing information and educational resources to Delawareans. Beginning this year, extension agents located at Delaware State College are iterally taking extension programs to the people in crossroad communities throughout Kent and Sussex counties.

Small communities are being serviced by a 32-foot white mobile van, christened MOTE, for "mobile teaching unit." Since the first of the year, MOTE has been traveling around the two lower Delaware counties, parking wherever people have expressed an interest in a MOTE program. It's been a boon for limited resource families who might not have the transportation to get to a central meeting place.

Six program assistants are the natural link between the Extension Service and the people it serves with MOTE. The assistants are people with a "limited resource" background. They determine the need for a specific program by talking to people in the community and relaying the information to the Delaware State extension agents who plan the MOTE programs.

When a program and time have been arranged, the program assistants act as promoters, often going from door-to-door with fliers and other information, about a week prior to the event. Then they are on hand to help the agents with the actual programming.

Creators of the MOTE idea are extension community resource development agent Dale Pruett, and assistant director for the Delaware State College extension U.S. Washington, and they are pleased with MOTE's success.

During one week in February, its second month of actual operation, MOTE went to Capital Park in Dover with Kent County extension 4-H agent Cheryl Fears for 4-H public speaking practice; to Wyoming, Delaware, for a Homemaker's Club with Dale Pruett; to Slaughter Neck for a fire prevention exhibit with extension garden and home improvement agent Dr. Willie Adams; to Petersburg with a landscaping workshop with Adams; and to Milton and Greentop with sewing instruction by Sussex county extension family living agent Betty Richardson.

MOTE is booked solid for March, with over twenty-five scheduled stops for the first two weeks along. The unit is being used for several stops a day in many cases and features several types of programs at each location. A given stop might include programs on nutrition, family living, and garden and home improvement. There are even plans to take MOTE to a local chicken procession plant and present nutrition programs for plant workers during scheduled coffee breaks.

The mobile unit is equipped with a complete kitchen, heat, lights, and restroom, and can carry special equipment needed for almost any program. For a sewing instruction series recently, Betty Richardson outfitted the unit with six sewing machines. Then she returned daily to the same location for a week, so participants could finish a sewing project they had started with MOTE. Many participants in the project did not own sewing machines of their own.

Home gardening and landscape workshops have been ongoing, and lawn mower and screen repair workshops are planned for spring. Nutrition programs, energy conservation programs, and an interior painting workshop are all part of the MOTE schedule for the coming weeks.

For more information about MOTE, call Dale Pruett in Kent county at 678-5157 or in Sussex county, call Betty Jagen at 856-5258.

Open Letter to Chipman Parents

Dear Parents,

One thing parents frequently ask for help in is the problem of students' reports of no homework or that all homework is done in study-hall. If this is a problem in your home, I suggest steps be taken to eliminate this.

One method would be to ask that four pages in the back of the child's notebook be set aside for recording assignments--one page for each major subject. Each page should have the name of the subject at the top of the page and provision made to write in the date, the specific assignment, when the assignment is due if it is not the next school day, and space for a check when the assignment is completed. This can reduce the number of unpleasant discussions and eliminate one source of parental frustration.

Another item of concern is that of lost or misplaced articles. These items accumulate in the lost and found area of the junior high office. Staff members find it difficult to understand how major items can so often be unclaimed.

Career Corner

By Buck Thompson

printed in the Journal for youths

"Were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to choose the latter." Those words were written by Thomas Jefferson.

Using its freedom, the American press has been powerful in guarding the peoples' civil liberties. As a journalist you may contribute some important public service. Your investigative report from the state capital may reveal a bad government policy...your feature on heart attacks may help save a life...your expose of dirty restaurants may force strict health inspections... your review may bring recognition to an unknown talent.

In 1972 there were 1,761 newspapers published in the U.S. with a total daily circulation of over 62 million readers. In addition, there are approximately 95 hundred weekly and suburban papers. It took some 380,500 newspaper workers to get the papers written, printed and distributed.

What does it take to be a journalist? Most journalists advise a four-year college degree from an accredited school of journalism with emphasis on journalism and liberal arts. The American Council on Education for Journalism recommends that at least three-fourths of the 4-year college program be taken in liberal arts, no more than one-fourth in journalism. They say a one-year graduate course in journalism or related subject following a four-year straight liberal arts degree is desirable.

UPI takes about 50 beginning journalists a year for training in the larger bureaus. A college degree is required; a major in journalism with a strong background in liberal arts is preferred. Also desirable are majors in political science, history or command of a foreign language, and experience on a college paper.

AP seeks "youth in combination with experience." Qualifications for employment include college degree, writing skill, and several years' experience on at least a "fair-sized paper."

Most employers prefer journalists who have had some experience. High school and college radio and closed circuit TV stations offer experience for future broadcast journalists. Working on a high school or college publication is a good start for print journalists. Or you could be your college's correspondent for a city newspaper. Nearly every daily has a student correspondent at each college in its area. The part-time job pays little or nothing, but it could earn you a good permanent position later.

Pay for other areas of journalism varies a great deal depending on type and size of media, audience reached, geographic location the newspaper's affiliation with an editorial union (if any), and the journalist's education, experience, and job.

The Newspaper Guild lists weekly starting salaries for newspaper reporters between $97.71 (Newburgh Beacon News) and $340.85 (New York Times).

We in America are so well supplied with news we take it for granted. But try to imagine how we would live if news were suddenly shut off -- if we never read a newspaper and never saw a news broadcast. Without news and all the extra information and guidance provided by news media we would have great trouble running our complex society. The press is vital to any modern society, but a free press is vital to democracy.

Harrington's five girl Scout Troops join with girls and leaders nationwide this week in celebrating the 64th birthday of Girl Scouting.

In 1912, the Girl Scouting program was founded by Juliette Low in Savannah, Georgia. In 1913 the organization changed its name from Girl Guides to Girl Scouts; in 1915 it was incorporated. Mrs. Low served as president until 1920 when she received the title of Founder.

Girl Scouting begins with the "First Grade Brownies, formerly known as Pixies. This part of the program began nationally in January 1974 and in Harrington in September 1975. It permits first graders, including the few who enter first grade before their sixth birthday, to join. First Grade Brownie Troop 332/684 of Harrington is led by Patricia Downes.

The second level of the Brownie Girl Scout Program is the Brownie Girl Scouts. These are 7 and 8 year olds or second and third graders. The Brownie B's - Be Discoverers, Be Friend-Makers, and Be Ready-Helpers, and the Brownie Patch Program provide the framework for their on-going activities. The Brownies use a simple form of government called the Brownie Ring. Harrington's two Brownie Troops are 684 led by Gene Morris, assisted by Janet Russum and 332 led by Barbara Brown, assisted by Joanne Clough and Joan Oakley.

Brownies "fly up" to become Junior Girl Scouts. This program is designed for girls 9 to 11 years old and in the 4th to the 6th grades. Junior scouts may earn as many as 47 Proficiency Badges and one or both Junior Scout Signs - the Sign of the Arrow and the Sign of the Star.

They also begin using a form of government called the Patrol System. There are two Junior Troops in Harrington. They are Troop 685 led by JoAnn Wyatt, assisted by Linda Fleming, and Troop 879 led by Barbara Evans, assisted by Jean Cerklefskie.

Following the Junior Girl Scout Program is the Cadette Program for girls 12 to 14 in the 7th to 9th grades. Harrington at present has no Cadette program, but hopes to begin one in September 1976.

Girls who continue in scouting after the Cadette program become Senior Girl Scouts. They range in age from 14 to 17 through high school. After Senior Scouts a girl may continue as an adult scout in a leadership or supportive role.

It is strongly emphasized girls of Scouting age (6 through 17) may become Girl Scouts at any time without previous Scouting experience.

Harrington's five active Girl Scout Troops belong to Unit 11 of the Chesapeake Bay Girl Scout Council. Other troops in the unit include those in Bridgeville, Frederica, Greenwood, Houston, Lincoln and Milford. Two additional troops will be joining the unit from Slaughter Beach this spring.

Next Saturday, March 20, Unit 11 is having their second annual Girl Scout Banquet (a Mother-Daughter Dinner) at the Convention Center in Rehoboth Beach. All five local troops plan to attend.

four games from the Moose II team. Leading the way for Moose I was Sandy Baker, rolling a 176 game. This is Sandy's first year rolling on a league and I hope she has many more high games. All teammates followed in her fast steps with each member having good games. Moose II was not without their good games. Leroy and Leah Wheeler had 223 and 181 games respectively.

The Strikers came to the bowling alley to win games and win they did. Taking all four games from Friends Four. This ties them for first place with Moose I and the 4 Aces. Like Moose I, all members of the Strikers were hot and all had, for the most part, good games. Friends Four must have given it all they had in the second third of the season for now they find themselves unable to do much of anything except to keep the Campers and No-Mads company in the basement.

Now we come to the 4 Aces. I always find this team a pleasure to bowl against. All their members have fun, win or lose. This is what all teams should do. Taking four games from the Goldjiggers, they are tied for first place also. Seeing his name in the paper last week must have given Mike Edwards added incentive as he rolled a nice 198 game. Come on Joanie, don't let Mike outbowl ya!!

The M & P's are doing great since all team members have gotten back together. Claire Melvin, rolling a 166 and 184 for a 509 series, was the leader of her team. Other members added their games in and three to their win column. Mickey Moose did manage to take one game with Lee Dill's 210 and Gene Wright's 192 and 207.

What can I say about the Pinbusters. Always a great bowling team the showed no mercy to the No-Mads as all their scores were high. For the third week in a row Edna Mae Layton took high game and series for women rolling a 168 and 193 for a 519 series. Her teammate, Mike Fry, captured high series and game for men with his 212 and 224 for a 621.

Doris Moffett of the No-Mads rolled a 161 but with position like the Pinbusters, it would take more than that to win games as they lost all four.

The champs of the second third are not easing upon any of the challengers as they rolled their way to a four game victory. The women of their team carried their male members with Patti Friedline rolling a 182 and 173 (505 series) and Gail Lutz a 164. All members of the Spares were off tonight and no one even rolled close to their average.

The Campers and Dy-no-mites found themselves deadlocked in their battle to climb out of the basement. Mary Friedlines 189 and Betty Lyons 170 helped their team, the Campers take two. Their men must have been taking a nap while they bowled! Charles Fluharty showed his team what he could do with a bowling ball as he rolled a 196 game. Flo Dopirak rolled a nice 169 to help them take the other two games.

Until next week, see you at the bowling alley!!!

Clifford Todd and Miss Helen Fry

Miss Fry Is Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Fry of Harrington are happy to announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Rose Fry to Clifford Todd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Todd of Paterson, New Jersey.

The bride-to-be is a 1973 graduate of Lake Forest High School and is employed by Wooten Insurance Agency of Frederica.

The groom-to-be is a 1970 graduate of St. John's Cathedral High School and currently serving in the United States Air Force and stationed at Dover.

An October wedding is being planned.

Miss McTernan Is Engaged

Dr. and Mrs. Edmund J. McTernan of 7 Old Wood Road, Stony Brook, New York, announce the engagement of their daughter, Catherine M. McTernan to William J. Walls, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jackson Walls, Sr., Wheelers Park Road, Harrington.

Miss McTernan attended

Washington College in Chestertown, Maryland, and is now a senior at the State University of New York located in Stony Brook. Her fiancé is a 1975 graduate of Washington College and is now a student at the Delaware Law School of Widener College.

Open Letter To Wrestling Coaches

Dear Mr. Burgess:

Please print the following letter in its entirety in your sports section:

OPEN LETTER to Lake Forest's wrestling coaches, Tom Muehleisen and Elliott Workman for inexcusable disregard for wrestler at the State Tournament held at Newark High School, Newark, DE - Feb. 27 & 28. Their conduct was noted by many fans from the whole State of Delaware.

Dear Mr. Muehleisen and Mr. Workman:

As you recall Lake Forest had one Henlopen Conference wrestling champion.

Where were you when Rick Mertz was wrestling in the consolation of Feb. 28. You were both missing for the first period and half of the second period--a total of two minutes of a five minutes match. I feel all matches are important enough for one of the coaches to be with the wrestler at the start and during the match especially since no other Lake Forest wrestler had a match at the same time. We noticed you both were present during all matches of Lane Lapinsky and Bill Jackson; why not with Rick Mertz--your only Henlopen Champion.

You couldn't tell me you didn't know that Rick Mertz was wrestling at that time but couldn't you at least have been better than you did or was Steve Bastianelli's match more important than Rick Mertz's to you??

I'm not surprised at Tom Muehleisen but Mr. Workman you certainly surprised me. I gave you more credit for being concerned about the Lake Forest wrestlers. Just think how that would affect any wrestler in the State Tournament for the first time being completely deserted by both coaches when it was time for his match and not finding them where they should be. Had it been myself I'm sure I couldn't have done my best knowing my coaches didn't care enough to be where they should have been at the beginning of my match. I realize its entirely up to the wrestler to do the best he can and there is nothing you can do except give him your full and complete support.

You two were the only coaches that left a wrestler without that much. This alone speaks for itself for your concern.

Again we say we could expect it from Tom Muehleisen, whose negative attitude speaks for itself; but you, Mr. Workman, we thought to be a more dedicated coach.

Disgruntled,

Fred and Margie Mertz

Thank you Mr. Burgess for printing this letter in the Harrington Journal as I'm sure that had it been your son you would have felt the same way. Many people have remarked to us concerning the above letter and we felt it should be brought to the attention of your readers.

Lake Forest Baseball Begins

By Millard Ellingsworth III
The Lake Forest High School 1976 baseball team is in need of good pitching, according to head coach Bill Falasco, who is starting his fourth year as head coach.

Since last year, the team lost seniors Russell Dill, Rodney Wyatt, Wayne Ernie, Gregg Hobbs, Lynn Jarrell, Roger Perry, and Glen Hart.

Last year the team made it to the state semifinals against Caesar Rodney. Coach Falasco has no idea as to the team's chances this year since practice has just started and the final out isn't for about three weeks.

Bill Johnson places one out of reach of Howard's 6' 7" center Cornell Haman in State Tournament play, Saturday night.

Spartans Lose

by Millard Ellingsworth III
Lake Forest High School bowed out to towering Howard Career Center during the first round of the Delaware State Basketball Championships Saturday night.

Howard was led by their 6'7" center, Cornell Haman, who dominated the game by outscoring, outjumping, and rebounding the entire field of players. His teammates, Richard Jeffers and Thomas Knight assisted him on the follow up shots. Hamon had 18 points while Knight had 13.

The Spartan effort was carried by Ron Shockley, Neal Smith and Sam Carey. The Wildcats were able to keep Sam away from the boards during the first half and he scored all of his eight points in the second after finding a hole in their defense.

Paradoxically, Ron Shockley scored only two in the second half while scoring nine in the first to take the high score for the Spartans with 11 points. Neal Smith remained consistent with nine, four in the first half and five in the second. Coach Starkey let every-

Harrington Business Bowling

by Rich Dennis

My predictions at this time is, if you are not in the top four, with three weeks remaining, you'll not be filling the slot for the third play off team. Just a prediction, but let me see a team prove me wrong!

Jarrell's Fuel is striving with every possible means to maintain their front position, and seem to be doing a good job as they increased it another game this week, putting themselves out front by 2 1/2 games. Is that enough? That 1/2 game may do the trick.

McKnatt's, who fought long and hard last week and having only four players, dropped all four points to Jarrell's Fuel as just one man skimmed by his own average. Jarrell's, on the other hand, didn't set any records as they struggled to maintain team average, but never the less they come out victors in the end.

Dur-A-Clean struggled hard and was awarded four big ones. By defeating Quillen's Mkt.

They took a drop awhile back, but seem to be turning on again.

Ira Glanden wants that front place and is willing to bowl for it and proved just that by bowling a real fine 597 series which included a 204 and a super 244 game. Real Nice!

Help was there too as Bill Brode shot a 553 series along with it. Porter's 532 series. These guys are serious! Quillen's fought back with four men over their averages, but just wasn't high enough to muster up any wins.

A ship without it's captain is lost as Burris sailed aimless into the night, sank and was buried by Big John's Son. Big John moved up out of the cellar by taking three points as the team after loosing the first managed to shoot above team average to gather the rest.

Fry's American having their chance to move up was halted by Moose "A", as they too wanted to move, and each team just captured two points.

John Forbes was the man to follow for Fry's as he shot a fine 558 series with assistance from Don Jester having 75 pins above his three game average. Al Melvin blazed away and came up with a 570 series for Moose "A".

Food Rite having their chances to move also was halted by Moose "B". Although Bill Manship shot a 567 series to lead Food Rite, it just was not enough to overcome Terry Freer's 575 series. Nice, Terry!

What is this - is Wally's on the come back now? Boy! They sure have the ups and downs. Wally's took all four points from Penn Central as they strive to make a come back. Nevertheless, I'll still stick to my predictions! Sorry! Wally.

Robbins Hardware, another contender for first, dropped down two slots as they couldn't manage to overtake Butler's Fuel. No one wanted to lead the way for Robbins, so they just coasted along.

While on Butler's Fuel C. Brown wanted to do just that, Take over, and take over he did with a fine 580 series with shooting like that, it cost Robbins four big ones.

Taylor and Messick and the Spoilers just enjoyed the night had a nice quite game, split two each. Nice to have K. P. Outten back, who lead T & M with a 544 series.
